Drilling Starts On Spinks No. 1 Test Well For Mills County

Well Is Spudded In With Barbecue

Indications Are Good Geologist Says

Celebrating the spudding in with a barbecue, attended by a large and representative crowd of Mills county citizens, Clyde D. Lane begins his well on the J. W. Spinks farm, some six miles Northwest of Goldthwaite. Contract depth of well is 2,000 feet or to the Ranger Lime, which operators figure will be encountered at around 2,000 feet.

Approximately 100 oil operators, landowners and business and professional men attended the spudding in ceremony, preceded by a barbecue given in honor of Clyde D. Lane on last Friday.

Dr. J. M. Campbell and J. V. Cockrum were hosts at the barbecue and Dr. and Mrs. Campbell presided at the table. Short talks were made by Mr. Lane, Tom Bryant of Cross Plains and Rev. E. E. Dawson, pastor of the local Baptist Church.

Mr. Lane emphasized his belief that he was going to give to Mills county (his birthplace) its first oil well by the drilling of his No. 1 J. W. Spinks well. He invited all interested parties to visit the well as often as they wish to get any information they desire. Mr. Lane expressed his deep appreciation for the manner in which his friends and citizens of Mills county have welcomed him back home.

Mr. Bryant, a prominent West Texas oil producer, told the audience that he had been associated with Clyde D. Lane in the drilling of many wells and he was happy to say that Mr. Lane was a fine and capable drilling contractor and his reputation for honesty and fair dealing was unquestioned. Mr. Bryant further said that this area looked mighty good to him and predicted this well would open up a great oil field here in Mills county.

After the barbecue Walter Fairman, who recently received some oil money from land owned in Yoakum county, and whose land forms a part of the Lane block, broke a bottle of oil on the big 12 1/2 inch drill, just as the bit made its first downward stroke.

This highly important test is located on a structure worked out by George W. McClung, of Temple, Texas, who has done much successful geological work in Brown county, and vicinity during the past few years. The block of acreage on which Mr. Lane is drilling was assembled by Dr. Campbell and J. V. Cockrum, who have long been active in the development of Mills county oil possibilities.

An oil field in Mills county will be of untold value, not only to the operators, leaseholders and landowners, but to general business as well, and this test well will be closely watched because of a showing of oil and gas in wells previously drilled in this area.

Mr. Lane has installed a splendid drilling rig and equipment and Mills county citizens are united in wishing for him a real success in this undertaking.

State In the Red Howington Says

The Legislature has been in session approximately four weeks more than the regular session. I will admit that the time has come when it is hard for me to tell just what is best to do on the question of adjournment.

The Legislature, in spite of the various savings made in the different departments, has remitted in ad valorem taxes back to the various counties, a far greater sum than has been saved. This simply means that unless we pass a tax bill, in some form, to raise some revenue that the state will be in the red worse in the next two years than it is at the present time. We are faced with this situation—the majority of the House has sufficient vote to pass almost any kind of a tax bill, but does not have a sufficient number of votes to pass any kind of a constitutional amendment. The Senate has refused to pass any kind of a tax bill, but will pass a constitutional amendment. It seems there is a dead-lock between the two houses. I have had hopes that we would be able to break this dead-lock and pass some kind of a tax bill. Of course I know it would be wise to stay here for another two or three weeks if this could be accomplished, but under the present conditions, your guess to what can be done is as good as mine.

At the present time the Free Conference Committee, a committee appointed by the Senate and the House, is working on the Departmental Appropriation Bill, which is a very lengthy bill. As soon as the differences between the two houses are agreed upon by the committee, it is my guess, that the house will be ready to adjourn, even though we have utterly failed to settle the one main question of the Legislature.

The Governor signed the bill creating the States Department of Public Welfare this week which consolidates five departments and is estimated to be a saving of Six Hundred Thousand ($600,000) Dollars. The departments are as follows: Child Welfare Division, Old Age Assistance Commission, Texas Relief Commission, Aid to the Needy Blind, and Delinquent Children. FRANK HOWINGTON

Trent Bank Building Half Century Old

Last Thursday's Dallas News in its "Fifty Years Ago" column reported that construction had started on a bank building for Goldthwaite. For some years this building, which is now occupied by the Trent State Bank, carried the date "1889" in its cornice.

Although known always as the Trent bank, the bank was originally a private bank owned by D. H. Trent and Son. In 1908 it was sold and incorporated as a state bank. Except for the interruption of the World War, the bank's present president, W. E. Fairman, has been active in it during the entire 31 years.

The soundness of this bank has been attested repeatedly by officials of the state banking department and bankers elsewhere. The Eagle congratulates it on rounding out a half-century of usefulness and confidently predicts that it will render many more years of service to the people of Mills and adjoining counties.

SIXTY YEARS TOGETHER

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryan who celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary last week at their home near Goldthwaite.

I was born in Barbour county, Ala., January 5, 1856. Father and mother moved to Chocktaw county, Ala., Butler being the county seat, when I was one year old. At the age of four, I was bitten by a rattle snake. When I was five years old, father was called to fight in the Civil War. He received three furloughs home, one each 12 months. My mother's father was too old for service. He owned a shop, and part of the time he was an overseer of negroes for their owners.

When father came home, just about one year before the close of the war, he realized the weakened condition of the Southern states. He told grandfather to get their wagons ready for the war would be at an end in a short time, and we now have less than we ever will have again. So let's go to Texas.

Coming home after four years' service, in 1865 and mother's brother with him, father and mother, with five little boys and my uncle and aunt and four children set out for Texas. They did not have a ten-cent piece of money that would buy a penny's worth of anything. They swapped their milk cows for oxen to three wagons; father, uncle and grandpa each had one. It took six yoke of oxen. Having one or two cows left, they traded them for flat plug tobacco to pay expenses for crossing rivers. We took the road for Texas, May 14, 1865.

We ate bread and drank water nearly all the way through. On Sept. 6, we crossed the Red River into Texas and drove to Lamar county. We settled eight miles south of Paris, one mile north of Glory. There we lived for 17 years. We moved to Hamilton county in 1882. There we lived until 1907, when we moved to Mills county.

My father was a Primitive Baptist taking the same paper. He wrote my father for a description of that part of Texas. He was running a sawmill in Indiana. When he received father's reply, he wrote to him that he would sell out and move to Texas shortly. He sold out and got to my father's home in Lamar county, July, 1877.

My wife and I became acquainted at that time. Her name was Martha Ellen Newkirk, born in Crawford county, Indiana, March 30, 1863. We associated together frequently until June 1, 1879. This was on Sunday at 10 a. m. in her father's home where we appeared before Squire Ed Skidmore. When he said, holding our license up in his hand, you have come here for the purpose of matrimony I presume. Our answer was yes. He said, "join your right hands." We did so, and he said, "by the authority I hold in my hand, I pronounce you man and wife. Take your seats." Since he was so well acquainted with us and our parents, who were all present, he said, "I might swear them children until night. It

Lion's Club Backs Boy Scouts

Efforts of the Comanche Trail Boy Scouts to secure permission of the State Highway Commission for Walter Summy of Goldthwaite to conduct first aid and life-saving and accident prevention courses at Camp Billy Gibbons this summer were heartily endorsed by the Lion's Club at its regular meeting in the Methodist Church recreation room Tuesday evening.

Scoutmaster E. E. Furr brought the matter before the club in an interesting talk on the rapid progress that is being made by the local troop. Another feature of the program was a talk "Within the Gates of Troy," a discussion of some of the threats to Americanism which was given by M. Y. Stokes, Jr.

Heavy Rains Are Recorded

Rains have fallen almost every day this week in Mills county and vegetation has responded accordingly. Monday afternoon 20 of an inch fell in Goldthwaite in a few minutes. This did not compare however with 1 1/2 inches that fell in Fort Worth in 27 minutes or with near-cloudbursts that deluged Huntsville and Madisonville in South and East Texas.

After an absence of 25 years, Cleo Reeves of Segundo, Colorado, who was once a familiar figure in these parts, arrived here Thursday to greet old friends and visit with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann Reeves, at the old home place. He was accompanied by his son, Allen, his daughter, Miss Olive Ann, and his sister, Mrs. Flora Reeves Hodges of Tahoma. Here for only a very few days they made good use of their time, going far and near to visit and holding open house to receive old friends. A wakening in the hearts, many fond memories of days that are gone. The Reeves family is among the oldest of the pioneer families of this community. Cleo and his sister said one of the most noticeable things to them was the way the timber had grown in this vicinity. They attributed it to the fact that this country has become much more reasonable than of yore.

Now that hot weather will soon be here, an important question all poultrymen should be concerned about is "Will the mash I am using produce eggs that will stand the test?" Better look on the tag and see that the feed you are feeding contains no minerals that will lower the quality of your eggs.

MID-TEX EGG MASH contains no cotton seed meal or PEANUT MEAL, but contains ANIMAL PROTEIN ONLY. It is a well know fact that animal protein feed is the only feed that will produce an egg that will stand up satisfactorily especially in hot weather. You can rest assured that MID-TEX eggs will turn out more fancy eggs per case than any other, so we say again—Before investing—INVESTIGATE MID-TEX.

HISTORY VS. HOLLYWOOD

Henry Ford once expressed his opinion that history was bunk. William Shakespeare twisted fact and fancy to suit himself and his audiences. But it has remained for Hollywood movie directors to set a new high or a new low in the disregarding of historical facts.

Of course the knowing winced at the liberties taken with the facts in the filming of "Marie Antoinette" and "Suez," to mention two recent examples.

But when Hollywood begins to pick on Texas history, Texans see red. Peter Molyneux, able Texas historian himself, boils over with indignation at the needless distortions of Texas history in the recent picture, "Sam Houston, Man of Conquest."

He cites as an example the scene where Houston and Crockett meet as comparative strangers in Texas. The facts are, first, that, far from being strangers, they had served together in Congress, and second, Crockett was still in Tennessee at the time the picture has him high-hatting Houston in Texas.

Mr. Molyneux objects to the cavalier treatment accorded the patriotic and long-suffering Stephen F. Austin, and he nearly chokes over the repetition of the long since exploded myth that Andrew Jackson was primarily responsible for the successful secession of Texas from Mexico. He points out moreover that Jackson had been in his grave for eight months when Texas entered the union, although the picture shows Houston bringing that news to Old Hickory in person.

Houston, again, is made to repeat the words of President Anson Jones as the flag of the Republic of Texas is hauled down from the capitol.

Surely there is enough of the genuinely heroic in the life and character of Sam Houston to make it unnecessary to filch from the words and deeds of other Texas heroes to adorn him. Surely Texas history is dramatic enough without being perverted to suit the European taste of some movie mogul and his refugee satellites.

No, let us have our Texas history served "straight." We need no gilding of our lily, even though such practice is a venerable Hollywood custom.

MORE ABOUT PENSIONS

Because of a typographical error in the sixth paragraph of the editorial on this page in last week's Eagle entitled: "He's Wiser Now," this paragraph is reprinted below as it was written:

While he didn't mention it in his Sunday speech, it is pretty certain that Governor O'Daniel isn't a bit pleased about that bill and probably a lot more than that, old folks resting on his desk which would add 100,000 to the Texas old-age pension class. He knows now that if he lets it become a law, it will almost surely stop the federal government's important pension contributions each month. And if he kills this law, he's going to disappoint 100,000 and probably a lot more than that, old folks and nobody knows how many of their children and grandchildren.

Governor O'Daniel has now signed this bill and made it a law and is using it as another argument why the legislature should pass the Senate sales tax amendment to freeze the sales tax in the Texas state constitution.

Since Director Little states that 50,000 old folks have had pension claims turned down because they had children able to sup-

Look for the Silver Lining

A FAMOUS AMERICAN ORATOR once shouted: "Look up, not down." America needs that kind of a message today. If we would lift our eyes and look up into the skies we would find that many of the clouds have silver.

The law of the human mind is such that when we look down we think down. When we expect to fail we attract failure. When we concentrate on the obstacles and handicaps in our path molehills become mountains.

Look for the best, expect the best and you will transform your life with a new radiance. America hasn't scratched the surface of its possibilities. We are surrounded by opportunities. Take a tip from F. A. Brock and look for the silver lining:

- If there's a remedy for trouble Just apply it; If you fret, your trials double— Then keep quiet; There's no reason for repining; Trouble is not helped by whining; If there is a silver lining, Hast to spy it!

—THE SILVER LINING.

Hot Weather Food Precautions

AUSTIN.—It is a matter of vital importance, particularly during the warm summer season, that sanitary measures be applied to prevent contamination of perishable foods, states Dr. Gen. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Various intestinal disorders result from food which has in some way been rendered unwholesome. Summer diarrhea or "summer complaint," affecting young and old, is a serious type of stomach and bowel condition. So called "ptomaine poisoning," in nearly all cases, is none other than a food infection due to the presence in food of harmful bacteria or germs.

Perishable food, if contaminated, endangers human health. This hazard is greater in warm weather, because germs or their products multiply or develop more rapidly at high temperatures. Some of the most valuable foods are of perishable nature. Such foods demand the exercise of safeguards. Among well known precautions, which need to be used if perishable foods are to be kept wholesome, are the following:

1. Some form of modern refrigeration or cooling is necessary to preserve food from day to day. Lack of an effective cooling process causes meat to spoil and milk to contain a dangerously large number of bacteria.
 2. Resort to thorough cooking or boiling is the simplest and yet the most useful method of preventing illness of food-borne character. This precaution applies especially to food prepared for infants and children.
 3. Contamination of perishable food is avoided through the constant exercise of cleanliness on the part of those who handle food.
 4. Pastries and other food products make a far greater appeal to the consumer or patron if there is an entire absence of flies. Adequate provision for screens and application of every known means of fly and insect extermination are worthwhile.
- Texas now has 153 oil refining plants with a daily crude oil capacity of over one million barrels. 63 counties in Texas now have one or more oil refining plants.

port them, and since undoubtedly as many more old folks have so far failed to apply for pensions because of this restriction, the Eagle's estimate that the new law will open the doors to 100,000 more old age pensioners seems moderate.

But even though the legislature passes the Senate bill and the people, as they undoubtedly will, vote it into the state constitution, and the money is collected by the tax gatherers from every store in the state, it still does not appear how the Federal government's stipulation that only the needy aged are to be paid federal funds is to be met.

With 118,000 old age pensioners on the roll, Texas comes fifth among the states in the number of pensioners now. Will the Federal authorities stand for a doubling of this number over night?

San Saba

In keeping with their usual practice, the San Saba Post of the American Legion held Memorial services here and at Cherokee cemeteries last Sunday for deceased veterans of the World War and participated in the formal Memorial Day program at the Richland Springs cemetery, which drew a large assemblage there.

Supt. Campbell of the San Saba school system, with Mrs. Campbell and the baby, a little later will leave for Cambridge, Mass., where he will do work this summer at Harvard University on another degree. They will, of course, have an opportunity to "take in" the New York World's Fair and other points of interest.

Completing 11 years of study, 57 members of the class of '29, San Saba High School, in cap and gown, were awarded their coveted diplomas last Monday evening at the colorful annual Commencement exercises at the auditorium-gymnasium in the presence of an assemblage that taxed the capacity of the hall—News.

Prospects for a 50 to 80 per cent normal pecan crop is predicted by a number of leading pecan-growers of San Saba county, which has held the record of a Texas county for many years, and which in 1935 produced in the neighborhood of five million pounds. No marked infestation by insects, peculiar to the pecans, is reported, but some appearance have been made.

Under the direction of the new city commission, composed of Mayor H. D. Chadwick, Commissioners M. W. Trussell and W. H. Kimbrough, Sr., the streets in the business section of the city are being marked off and striped for a more strict regulation of the traffic situation in the city. One of the projects to be completed here at the 14th annual San Saba County Old Settlers' Reunion, scheduled for August, will be completion of plans for the erection of a memorial marker to the pioneers of San Saba county who settled here during the seventies or earlier, according to County Judge J. B. Harrell.—Star.

Lampasas

Hamilton

The outside metal at the court house is being painted this week with aluminum paint. This will not only add to the appearance of the building but will preserve it, as most of the paint had come off and the metal had begun to rust in spots. This work is being done by a specialist in metal painting.

A tentative program has been arranged for the American Legion Picnic to be held in Hamilton July 4th and 5th, and it is planned to make the affair bigger and better than last year.

A total of 27,537 No. 2 cans of "Comanche Chief" blackberries were turned out here Wednesday by the Durham Berry Canning Plant. Brownwood

W. E. Swift, Jr., who lives in Brownwood and is a salesman for American Automatic Electric Sales Company, was back in this city this week apparently none the worse for experiences encountered in completing a feat in which lives have been lost.

Swift and his brother, Roy L. Swift, Jr., editor of the Robstown Record, late Saturday afternoon emerged from the treacherous Rio Grande after a 13-hour trip through 21 miles of the lonely, boulder-strewn shoals of the hazardous Santa Helena Canyon of far Western Texas.

Deliberating not more than three minutes, a jury in 35th district court here Thursday morning assessed Clarence Townsend, 19-year-old Brownwood youth, the maximum penalty of 15 years imprisonment for the March 23 hammer attack on his pretty 21-year-old step-sister.

Brown county commissioners' court Monday voted to pay $75 a month toward the salary of an assistant county agricultural agent who will be an irrigation specialist with practical experience, and whose duties will be to assist farmers of the Brown County Water Improvement District No. 1 area in working out irrigation problems. Nation's "Cosmopolitan Girl" Chosen By Famed Judges

MISSISSIPPI LASS PICKED BY FAITH BALDWIN, BRADSHAW CRANDELL AND OTHERS

A SEVEN-MONTHS' search for America's most Cosmopolitan girl has been completed by a distinguished group of judges.

Isabel Caldwell McDougal, eighteen years old, a slim figure of loveliness out of the deep South, from Greenwood, Mississippi, has been chosen "Miss Cosmopolitan." She is a "dark" blonde, has fair skin and blue eyes, is five feet three inches tall and weighs one hundred and six pounds, and is as modern as tomorrow's dawn.

Isabel rides horseback, drives a car and swims. But more than anything else, she likes to dance. The rhythm of her movements, the grace of her body, the tremendous vitality and zest for life she possesses, all have their roots in her love of music. She plays the clarinet, the piano and the saxophone, and was a member of the school band. This year, Isabel is a freshman at the Mississippi State College for Women.

"She hasn't an atom of beauty but she's as pretty as spring in the South," writes Faith Baldwin, one of the judges, in the July Cosmopolitan magazine. "She has vitality and animation; the world is fresh and new to her and she likes it and likes being alive, and she is as friendly as a kitten without claws. She has a certain pixie charm hard to define. She reminds me a little of Helen Hayes."

Like the composite Cosmopolitan girl, drawn from the 48 state winners, Isabel is a member of a small family, her parents are living, and her father is a businessman. But the composite girl is older by two years, stands five feet six, weighs one hundred and twenty, and has golden-brown hair.

For a girl of eighteen, Isabel has an unusually practical turn of mind. Although she has her heart set on becoming an actress, she is taking a secretarial course at college—not only to have something "to fall back on," but also to be the means of supporting herself while preparing for the stage.

Asked to name the qualities she looks for in her friends, Isabel answered quickly, "Loyalty and fairness." Petty jealousy is foreign to her nature, which explains why she is equally popular with girls as with boys. Speaking of boys, Isabel has a raft of them, but she's particularly fond of one young chap, an athlete she met a couple of years ago down South during spring training. He's a Northerner, hailing from Brooklyn, New York. Isabel laughs lightly when the question of marriage is raised. "There's lots of time," she evades.

So this is Isabel Caldwell McDougal, who has it all or most all ahead of her, who is the Cosmopolitan Girl, representing American girlhood at its best and its most hopeful. At eighteen, she stands as a symbol. She has the courage, the equipment, the high ambitions never to let herself and her kind down.
