Seventy Five Miles Of Electric Lines To Be Added Soon

Permission has been given from Washington headquarters of the Rural Electrification Administration for the Hamilton County REA to add 75 miles of service lines this year, according to General Manager Rogers. He was in Goldthwaite Wednesday to confer with groups desiring extensions to their neighborhoods.

Directors of the Mills County Hunting and Fishing Club expressed a desire to connect with the system. They were told that the extension was likely if $45 a month additional revenue could be secured from the lake and from homes in the Lake Merritt section. All residents of this section who are interested in securing rural electricity are urged to see County Agent W. P. Weaver or Joe F. Long, Grounds Director of the Club.

Pleasant Grove and Big Valley communities were also represented in conferences with Mr. Rogers.

Methodist Church (FRED J. BRUCKS, Pastor)

Our revival meeting will begin on Wednesday night, August 16. We are calling upon all members and friends to help make the next two Sundays the best of the year. We urge you to be present at all the services Sunday. And will you not pray for the coming revival?

Please note the time of our services so that we may begin promptly at the appointed hour. Church School at 9:30 a. m. Morning Worship at 10:30 a. m.

Epworth League Meeting at 7:00 p. m. Evening preaching service at 8:00 p. m. Mid-week Service Wednesday at 8:00 p. m.

First Baptist Church (E. E. DAWSON, Pastor)

Our very cordial welcome is given the nine new members that came into our fellowship in the South Bennett community last Sunday. All the other Baptists of the community are invited to affiliate with us if your church is not nearby so that you can attend regularly. Beginning with August we will hold a service once each month at such time as does not conflict with other services.

Services next Sunday will be as follows: Sunday School at 10 a. m. Worship at 10:50 a. m. B. T. U. at 7:00 in the evening. Worship at 8:00 p. m. Baptism will be administered at the close of the evening service. All who have been approved are earnestly requested to be ready to receive the ordinance.

Nazarene Church MRS. PEARL KEETON, Pastor

Now that we are back from the camp meeting, we are glad to report a good time. But the most important thing now is that Rev. Elbert Labenske of Temple will conduct a young people's revival beginning Wednesday night, August 2.

Rev. Labenske is a young preacher, but we feel he will be a blessing to us. We want to urge every boy and girl in town or out of town to come. This revival is being sponsored by the young people. They are to have charge of singing and every part, but we want the old people to attend and feel welcome.

Inasmuch as it is just a week end revival, don't wait to come until it is over, but come Wednesday night and I'm sure you will come the other four nights. There will be no day services until Sunday, but let us have as many young people Sunday as we can for the closing day. Everybody welcome.

Enjoy Family Reunion

MR. AND MRS. J. D. BRYAN

Bryan Family Reunion July 29

One of the most enjoyable reunions of the J. D. Bryan family was held on Saturday, July 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryan. A large picnic dinner was spread and enjoyed by everyone present. After the dinner Mr. Bryan told some of his experiences when he was brought to Texas as a boy in 1865. He told of the Indian fights and buffalo cleanout, and ended his talk by singing an old cowboy song for the large group assembled. Those present at the reunion were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bryan and Mrs. E. H. Bryan, Loraine, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Crews, Hamilton; Mrs. Etha Caswell, Odessa; Edith Bryan, Denison; Mrs. Louies Mack, Murfreesboro, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bryan, Graysonia, Ark.; Mrs. J. J. Bryan, Los Angeles, California; Arthur Bryan and W. H. Bryan, DeLeon; Mr. and Mrs. James Chambless, Fort Worth; C. T. Bryan, Sulphur Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Taylor, Lamkin; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bryan, Zephyr; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bryan and Edith Bryan, Evans; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan,

Gordon and William, Jr., Lancaster; Mrs. Vira Morris, Beaumont; Mrs. Hattie Wright, Lubbock; Mrs. Emmie Seale, Andy Maxwell, Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Vera Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bryan and sons, Herman, Raymond and Buford, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Baker, Dale and Kay Linn Baker, Mrs. W. W. Peedger, Miss Doris Mothena, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Bryan and daughter, Pauline, of Ranger; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Helbert and sons, Willie and Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Smith, Harford and Hazel Bryan, Mrs. F. C. Bryan, Misses Mary and Betty Bryan, of Potts- ville; Mrs. Laron Taylor, James and Barbara Taylor, V. W. Samples, Mrs. Etta Barnett, of Waco; C. D. Bryan, A. Solomon and G. Duckworth, of Goldthwaite.

Included in the seventy-five who attended the reunion were six of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryan's ten children, four being unable to attend. The reunion was almost a treble affair, for besides being a family reunion, it honored the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryan and also honored Mr. Bryan, who is the oldest of the Bryans.

Garden Club to Hold Show In October

The Goldthwaite Garden Club will sponsor a Zinnia Show sometime during the first part of October. The contests will be open to any person living in Mills County. Garden Club members, Home Demonstration Club members, and others who are interested, plant your zinnia seed now and enter this flower show. Zinnias are easy to grow and if planted now they will bloom in October. This flower requires little cultivation, but it must have water. If the water is scarce, plant a few seed in some convenient location and irrigate the plants. A small number of plants will not require a great amount of water.

Let's make this Zinnia Show the best!

Oil Well Down To 1700 Feet

The wildcat oil well being drilled by Clyde Lane near Williams Ranch has been pushed to 1700 feet this week, and the slush pit is being examined carefully for favorable indications of oil.

While it is expected that drilling several hundred feet deeper will be necessary, every precaution is being taken at this time to insure satisfactory completion if the well comes in as hoped.

Outlook Is Good For Texas Business

Austin Texas, August 3.—Outlook for Texas business is "encouraging," as the composite index for the State's industry and commerce in June climbed five per cent above this time last year, University of Texas business statisticians said today.

The composite business index for June remained almost exactly at the May level, officials of the University Bureau of Business Research reported.

Little material change is anticipated during the next few months, but, as the national business picture appears to be definitely more favorable, "any departure from the present almost horizontal plane of the Texas business curve will have an upward rather than a downward tendency," it was stated. "Such a development in the national economy would tend to improve the demand for Texas' huge surplus commodities— notably oil and agricultural products— which in turn would stimulate Texas industry and trade in general," the Bureau's report said.

FSA Workers Meet; Plan For Better Help To Farmers

Plans for giving more effective service to Texas low-income farmers have been made at College Station this week at the annual state conference of Farm Security Administration workers, according to W. Roy Tisdale, Mills County supervisor.

Theme of the meeting was: "Helping Worthy Farmers Help Themselves."

Mr. Tisdale estimated that 107,500 state farm families are receiving incomes of less than $500 a year, including all feed and other goods produced for home use. "Nearly half of this group had family incomes of less than $250," he said, "which means that they are trying to exist on about $1 a week per person, and this dollar is not in cash but partly in home-grown products."

"FSA has made 56,500 small loans in Texas to these farm families to help them buy seed, tools, livestock, canning and other equipment needs to give them a 'toe hold' on the land. A recent survey showed that these farmers have increased their net worth by $266 per family and at the same time are paying off their loans."

"Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has reported," the supervisor continued, "that the program for lending worthy tenant farmers money to buy their farms is beyond the experimental state, that it is ready for a sound and reasonable expansion. In Texas 507 farmers have been helped in the past two years to buy their farms and to date have repaid more on their loans than has become due. An increased appropriation by Congress has recently been announced which will permit us to practically double the number of counties in which farm purchase loans will be made this year."

H. D. Council To Meet Aug. 5th

Mills County Home Demonstration Council will meet Saturday, August 5, at 2:30 p. m. in the county home demonstration agent's office. At this meeting we will determine some of the problems to be worked out in next year's Wardrobe and Home Food Supply demonstrations. We want every council member to have a part in making our 1940 programs. Council members are urged to be present.

REA To Meet In Hamilton August 12

First annual meeting of the Hamilton County Electric Co-operative Association has been set for Saturday, August 12th, at 1 o'clock in the District Court room in Hamilton.

This association includes all of Mills County, and it is expected that a number of local members will attend in an endeavor to increase the representation of Mills County on the Board of Directors more in proportion to the membership.

RURAL POPULATION ON NEW FRONTIER

Denton, Texas, Aug. 3.—Principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Denton County Rural Electrification Cooperative at the main auditorium of the North Texas State Teachers College Thursday afternoon was Mrs. Dora B. Haines of the national REA office in Washington who declared that REA is the real frontier of America and that our rural population is standing on that frontier.

One of the earliest advocates of Muscle Shoals, Mrs. Haines has been an important figure in rural electrification since December of 1935.

If rural electrification is to be a success, Mrs. Haines stated, it must have the women of the nation—instrumental in all forms of progress—behind it. "Rural people cannot continue to live as they have in the past," she said, "and they must change and move forward or go down in slavery as rural peoples of other countries have done."

The Denton REA has a membership of 1,115 persons from six counties and since its organization on June 30, 1935 it has realized a net gain of $2,967.70, according to the treasurer, Gus E. Egan. The value of the members' share in the enterprise was $13,463.83.

Up Go Taxes To Pay Schools

Taxpayers in Texas might as well make up their minds that somebody, meaning John Q. Citizen, must pay the piper. Tuesday the State Automatic Tax Board raised the state school tax from 49 cents per $100 valuation to the limit of 77c, an increase of 28c per $100 or $2.80 per thousand dollars valuation. The raise will take effect on state taxes due next January.

Even this will not be enough to pay the entire $22 per capita school aid, as it was estimated at Austin that the new tax will lack 65c per pupil of raising the amount required.

"Romantic love is as firmly established in the mores as it is in the movies," declares Dr. Oliver Butterfield in his new book, "The Love Problems of Adolescence," which was brought out this week by the Bureau of Publications, Teachers College, Columbia University. "American youth is troubled by a romantic concept of love which seems to imply that those who fall in love have some moral obligation to marry each other. Many apparently fail to realize that marriage requires something more for its success than romantic attraction."

Dr. Butterfield, who is a consultant with the Family Guidance Service in New York City, and the author of two books on marriage, has spent over a year making a study of adolescents. Basing his conclusions on the results of unsigned reports, discussion forums, and interviews with over a thousand young people between the ages of 13 and 25, he found that the problems which appeared with the most frequency had to do with questions of the "significance of boy and girl affection" and "how to win and hold the regard of persons of the opposite sex."

"Lack of parental and family understanding," Dr. Butterfield says, "appears to be a basic factor in many cases of adolescent maladjustment. It would not be fair to indict our entire modern system of family and public education as being wholly lacking in any plan to teach emotional self control, but relatively speaking this seems to be one of the striking deficiencies of your present situation."

"Nothing can be more revealing than the questions turned in by these boys and girls," says Dr. Butterfield, "and one is forced to conclude that many of their perplexities are little more than the natural results of ignorance concerning certain basic facts in human biology. In one group 48 per cent of the ninety-five high school boys and girls reported that their parents had neither spoken to them personally, lent them books or pamphlets, nor sent them to any sort of qualified counselor to learn about matters of sex and reproduction."

"Youth must have security," Dr. Butterfield says in conclusion, "and he is compelled to find it either in his crowd through conformity or in the approval of his elders. If you would help the adolescent you must sense his perplexity and supply him with education, with understanding and affection."

Mr. J. W. Sheppard, a well known citizen of Mills County, died at his home Friday evening, July 21, at 7:25 o'clock.

Mr. Sheppard was thought to be in good health when he suffered a stroke of paralysis in his left side early Tuesday morning and was followed by a second stroke Thursday night.

Mr. Sheppard was born in Burleson County on March 7, 1870, having reached the age of 69 years, 5 months and 14 days when he died.

Mr. Sheppard will be sadly missed and the memory of him will be affectionately held by those who were nearest and dearest to him and also by those who knew him as a friend and citizen.

ELIJAH: A LIFE OF COURAGE

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 18:30-39. GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is far from the wicked; but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.—Proverbs 15:29.

"Let courage rise with danger." Such is the plea of Webb's great hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus." Christianity in our day calls for courageous men and women.

Courage should be distinguished from such related things as bravery, valor, or bravado. Bravado is an affectation of a reckless bravery which surely has no place in Christian life and activity. Valor is associated with daring and vigorous action, for example, in battle. To be brave means to meet a challenge with confidence and resolution. To be courageous means to steadily meet perils of which one is deeply conscious, doing so because of the call of duty. Courage holds a deeper and nobler meaning than the other words, carrying with it the idea of moral strength and, in the case of the Christian, faith in God as one devoted to His cause.

Elijah was courageous, and he stands before our Christian youth today as an example of that godly courage which

I. Works in the Open (v. 30). Men whose deeds are evil love the darkness rather than the light. God does not work in the dark. All of His workings are in the open sunlight. Every one is welcome to "come near" and see what is done.

Elijah knew God and he acted like God's man. What a tragedy it is that not all of God's servants have followed his example. If we had the open and above-board dealings of Elijah in the affairs of our churches, we might see more of the fire and power of his ministry. Certain it is that the administration of church affairs which has to be carried out in hidden corners by whispered conversations and by secret manipulations behind the scenes, is not God's work at all, it is the work of man.

II. Asks No Favors (vv. 33-35). Elijah rebuilt the altar himself. He asked no help of the unbelieving prophets of Baal or of apostate Israel. How old-fashioned he seems in this day when so much stress is laid on a false unity of the faiths, and there is so much solicitation and acceptance by the Church of the help of unbelievers in financing the supposed work of God.

Note also that Elijah invited his enemies to make the answer to his prayer more difficult by pouring water on the sacrifice. This was not an act of bravado, it was for the purpose of demonstrating that there was no fraud. He was willing that the enemies of the truth should make the demonstration more difficult if that would be to God's glory. There is a delightful old-fashioned flavor about that act, too, in these days when men are frequently willing to compromise with unbelief and even with sin in order that the work of the Church may be carried on without too much difficulty. Here again we have an explanation of the lack of spiritual power in our times.

III. Honors God, Not Man (vv. 30-32, 36-37). A man of bravery wants recognition for himself, while the courageous man asks only that the cause for which he fights shall be successful. Elijah had long since demonstrated that he was absolutely fearless, and sought no favor or glory (read the entire story). Now in the tenseness of this moment, he carefully rebuilds the altar of the true God (v. 30), makes it a testimony of unity to a divided Israel (v. 31), and he does it all in the name of the Lord (v. 32).

His prayer (vv. 36, 37) is a profoundly simple expression of a complete faith in the true God and His power on the part of a man who recognized himself as being only the divine servant. He made no plea that God would vindicate him or his ministry, but he did plead that the name of the Lord should be honored in the midst of an unbelieving people.

IV. Brings Eternal Results (vv. 38, 39). "The fire of the Lord fell." The lying prophets of heathendom were routed. Many recognized Jehovah as the true God. While Israel did not long remember the lesson learned here, the story has continued as a testimony that will strengthen the people of God as long as time continues.

In God's Treasury
Treat the weakest and the worst with reverence, for, like yourself, they are the temples of the living God.

Abides Forever
The world passes away and the lust of it, but he that doeth the will of God abides forever.—1 John 2, 17.

Attractive Holiness
The holiness of Christ did not awe men away from Him, nor repel them. It inspired them with hope.

Star

By Mrs. Dora Goode

Quite a number of the Star folks attended the Bradley reunion in Brownwood Sunday, as reported in the write-up of the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lee expect to open a grocery at the old cafe stand one day this week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Brooking, of Goldthwaite, spent Saturday night with his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Goode.

Mrs. Charlie House has returned home from a visit with her son, Avery, at Harper.

There was a large attendance at the Baptist Sunday School last Sunday.

The Christian meeting begins tonight.

The Vacation Bible School closed last Friday with an interesting affair by the children that night at the church. We certainly appreciate the work done by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Scaff.

Elberta peaches and broomcorn have been the order of the day for the past week. Two hot jobs which will soon be done.

Owing to the abundance of watermelons, cantaloupes, peaches and the like, together with the intense hot weather, there is quite a lot of sickness in the neighborhood at present. We have had no rain of late and the fields and gardens look mightily parched.

We get roasted cantaloupe and baked tomatoes fresh from the vines. But we have a nice cool breeze this morning, Monday, due to the showers yesterday among the surrounding hills.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Guice and daughter, Carolyn, visited in Carlton Sunday with Mrs. Guice's sister.

Renfro-Wallace Reunion Held

Sunday was a very happy day for the B. F. Renfro and Frank Wallace families, when they met on the Mills County side of the new Colorado River bridge and spent the day greeting relatives and friends who were assembled from all parts of the country.

At the noon hour an old time basket lunch was spread under the lovely pecan trees. Mrs. B. F. Renfro and all of the children were present and they regretted very much the absence of their husband and father, Brother Bedford Renfro, who was away conducting a revival at Elm Grove, in Comanche County. However, he drove home after the service Sunday night and spent the rest of the night and Monday morning with all the children before those who lived away returned to their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace had all of their children present besides many other relatives, including the grandparents and uncles and aunts of Ellis Wallace.

The McCarty family was also well represented. Grandpa and Grandma McCarty and all their children, except three daughters who live to far away, were present.

There were 100 present, as several families of friends in Big Valley came and visited in the afternoon.

Birthday Celebration

Mrs. B. R. Casbeer celebrated her 75th birthday Tuesday, August 1. Five of her children were present and a number of grandchildren were there to partake of the delicious dinner and to spend the day with their mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Casbeer is an old settler, having moved to Mills county when she was 13 years of age and has made this her home, with the exception of three years since then. She was married to B. R. Casbeer in 1881. Mrs. Casbeer is the mother of 14 children, ten of which are still living.

She received several gifts and her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Petty, baked the birthday cake.

Those present at this happy occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Petty and daughter, Earline of O'Donnell; Mr. and Mrs. Matt Casbeer and children, Odell, Charlie and Ben; Virgil Casbeer and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Morris and Dorothy Eunice, El Booker and wife and son, Carl from Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Casbeer and four children, and Jim Benningfield.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Casbeer's only sister, Mrs. Walter Jones, came to visit awhile. Others who called in the afternoon were: Mrs. Jerry Davis and daughter and Mrs. Floyd Burkett and daughter.

We left wishing mother Casbeer many more happy birthdays.

Regency

By Community Reporter

Regency is still getting her portion of hot, dry days allotted by "old man weather."

The Regency bridge, now under construction, is showing signs of completion in the near future.

Much interest was displayed in the "Homemaker's Club Study," last Friday, when 15 members and 2 visitors met in the home of Mrs. Henry Egger. First, we sang, "The Eyes of Texas," led by Mrs. Bruce Moore, followed by our club prayer, "Help me, O Lord, to live so that the world might be a little better, because Thou didst make me Amen." The roll call, with members responding with names of their favorite author, and why, was followed by a short talk on "The Minor Pleasures of Life," by Mrs. Henry Egger, our hostess and president.

Then talks on "Things That Interest Me Most," by Mrs. Charles Roberts, "What Characterizes A Successful Social Event in the Community," by Mrs. Bruce Moore, "Can The Same Social Event Be Put On With Equal Success in the Country as in The City?" by Mrs. Alvin Brown, "Our Entertainment," by Mrs. Ben Egger, "How We May Acquire and Hold Friends," by Mrs. Tom Dennis. The "club prize" went to Mrs. Otho Calder, while Mrs. Tom Egger won the prize for guessing how many beans in the jar, her guess being the exact number the jar contained. A lovely shower was given in honor of Mrs. Loyt Roberts. Then Mrs. Egger served each guest, and 16 children, with ice cream and delicious angel food cake. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Loyt Roberts Friday, August 4th, at 2:00 p. m., with the hostess as leader.

"STOPPING" ACTION

Speeding train, taken at box-camera shutter speed. Not blurred, because moving almost directly toward camera.

THE best way to get clear, sharp action pictures is to use a camera with fast shutter action—and, of course, a correspondingly fast lens.

However, many of us don't have fast cameras. So, to take pictures of real action, showing fast-moving objects without blur, we must utilize several simple tricks.

The first trick is—shoot moving objects when they are coming almost straight toward or straight away from you. An object appears to move much slower when receding or approaching and, in a picture, is less likely to blur.

A second trick—move the camera so that the speeding object is kept centered in the view finder as you shoot. This trick is especially good with boats, motorcycles, and racing automobiles. The background is blurred—but the moving object will be sharp. Of course, the camera must be moved smoothly and steadily, and a little practice is necessary. You will find that with a little practice, pictures taken in this manner are very effective.

A third trick—snap action during momentary pauses. These occur in most sports. A player is moving rapidly—he halts for just a fraction of a second, to turn or change direction—and in that split-second you get your picture. You must keep alert to catch these pauses—but they're worth it.

Take a couple of rolls of film and try a few action shots, using the tricks I've described. You'll be surprised at the things you can do with your simple box camera or inexpensive folding model!

JUST COMMON SENSE

When the State Board of Education met in Austin last week to set the per capita school apportionment for next year, the school lobby brought all the pressure it could muster in favor of increasing the rate to the maximum now allowed by law, namely $22.50.

But a majority of the Board members voted to keep it at $22. Homer C. DeWolfe, a new member of the Board and the one in whom Mills County is most interested, clinched the matter with the remark that since it was not possible to raise $22.50, he did not believe in apportioning it.

That is sound common sense, and if DeWolfe can get the Board back with their feet on the ground in other matters, he will have made a greater contribution to good government in Texas than he did as an able assistant attorney general under James V. Allred.

The present school administration has exhibited too much of the fanciful impracticality with which all school men used to be charged. For several years now they have forced schools seeking state aid to adopt budgets that required the collection of every penny of local taxes and every cent of state aid for their carrying out. When, as even a fourth-grader would know, some of the taxes were not paid and less than three-fourths of the promised state aid was forthcoming, the teachers and businessmen who had sold the schools supplies were left holding vouchers that could be cashed only at a sizable discount, if at all.

Although the schools have now been closed for several months, last year's per capita of $22 still lacks $5 of being paid in full. Still the state superintendent pleaded that a bigger deficit be added next year.

For several years the schoolmen of Texas have been riding high, wide and handsome on the shoulders of the Texas taxpayer. It is time for some curtailment before a revulsion of sentiment occurs which may bring about a lasting injury to the state's educational system.

MORE USES FOR COTTON

A plea was made in these columns recently for an increased use of spraying for the control of insects preying on cotton lest that once important crop be eliminated entirely in Mills County.

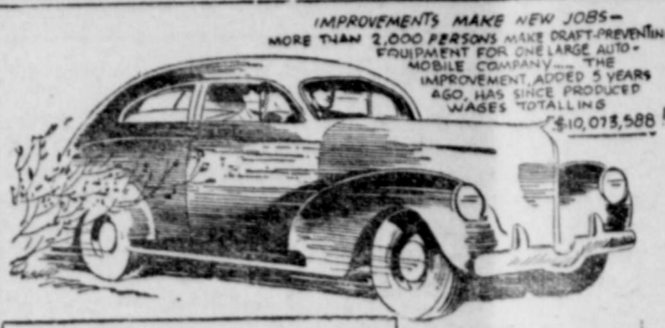

Only those directly concerned with the growing of cotton can participate in such a movement which would indirectly benefit the entire county. But every citizen of Mills County can take part in another movement equally important, and that is the one designed to increase the use of cotton.

Already the mails are carrying entries in the contest sponsored by the recent legislature in which $5,000 to $10,000 is offered residents of Texas for new processes that would increase the consumption of cotton.

But no startling new process would be required if enough Texas women would substitute hose made of Texas cotton for those made from Japanese silk. If cotton could be used instead of jute and sisal, the surplus would disappear over night.

Some of these proposed substitutions are patently uneconomical and impractical, but if every loyal Texan would consciously and conscientiously give cotton the break, when a choice were involved, a big step forward would be taken.

Goldthwaite had no representation at the recent fire fighting school at A. & M., and, as a consequence, Goldthwaite citizens must pay a three per cent higher base rate for fire insurance during the coming year. This may not be much to the average property owner, but in the aggregate it will amount to far more than the cost of sending a member of the fire department to College Station.

Make a memo now for June, 1940, that will remind you to do your part in arranging for such representation next summer.

Vacation in Reverse!

MOST OF US CANNOT get away from our desks for an extended period of time. Two or three weeks of the Open Road, or a Cabin in the Woods and we find ourselves with our sleeves rolled up, tackling our jobs again.

To work without tension, to face each day joyously and with high courage, to rout fear and worry - this is the ideal every man should strive toward.

How, in the midst of work, to keep our minds as calm and serene as when we are on a mountain-top a thousand miles from our office, is the trick we all want to learn. I found the answer in a little poem by Ruth Smeltzer:

I find it quite impossible To lie away and rest; Away from cares and troubles, To distant mountain crest. So I shall stay at home this year And send my cares away Upon a long vacation, While I enjoy each day!

ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?

Question: What is the definition of illiteracy? What are the figures on illiteracy in the United States and in the world in general? What country has the highest rate of illiteracy?

Reply: According to the definition used by the United States Government, "An illiterate is a person 10 years of age or over who cannot write in any language."

In 1930, the last year for which figures are available, there were 4,283,753 illiterates in the U. S., or 4.3 per cent of the population over 10 years of age. This compares to a rate of 6 per cent in 1920. For negroes the illiteracy rate in 1930 was 16.3 per cent, for foreign born whites 9.9 per cent, for native whites 1.5 per cent.

The states with the highest illiteracy rate in 1930 were South Carolina with 14.9 per cent, Louisiana with 13.5 per cent, New Mexico with 13.3 per cent, and Mississippi with 13.1 per cent.

According to recent estimates over 60 per cent of the world's population is wholly illiterate. This is a rough estimate inasmuch as 40 per cent of the world's population has no illiteracy statistics of any kind. F. C. Laubach in his recent book "Toward a Literate World" ranks Africa as the most illiterate continent, followed by the mainland of Asia. South America is only 50 per cent literate. The highest rate of literacy is to be found in Western Europe with Denmark and Finland having a literacy rate of 100 per cent, followed closely by the other Scandinavian countries and the Netherlands.

Question: Where can I find an inexpensive guide to the proper food for my 4 and 6 year old children?

Reply: The pamphlet "Well-Nourished Children," recently issued by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, (Folder 14), has information regarding food needs of children at various ages. This costs 5 cents, and can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

Question: What is the proportion of men to women teachers in the U. S.?

Reply: Of the 870,963 teachers in public elementary and secondary schools in the U. S. in 1936, 179,073 or 20.6 per cent were men as compared to 691,890 women. In 1934, 19.1 per cent of public school teachers were men and in 1932, 17.7 per cent.

Texas population has increased from 7,000 in 1806 to more than 8,000,000 in 1939.

Hamilton

All indications this week point to the discovery of a pool in the Wallace Lund No. 1 test on the Lund Ranch twelve miles west of Hamilton. The test had encountered hard porous oil saturated lime from some 3,419 feet to an actual depth of 3,444 feet where the wildcat well was bottomed. Operators then shot Friday afternoon late with 230 quarts of nitroglycerine from 3,364 feet to 3,444 feet, and on Thursday still cleaning out. No test was made on the well before the shot but in the process of cleaning out there is an encouraging show of good, clean oil.

Friday, July 21, a large crowd attended the Annual Shareholders meeting of the Hamilton National Farm Loan Association held at the Fair Park.

With the very recent creation of the department of vocational agriculture in the Hamilton public school curriculum, and the election of Professor E. I. Bacon, formerly of San Saba, as head of this division of the work, the school board has completed the faculty for the 1939-40 sessions of the Hamilton public schools, with the opening date tentatively set at either September fourth or eleventh.

The truck began swerving toward the left immediately and Clemmons was unable to regain control of the wheel and avert the crash.—Herald-Record.

San Saba

Perhaps the most ingenious machines ever brought to San Saba in the line of bank equipment were this week installed in the San Saba National Bank and the City National Bank. The machines are called "Recordaks," manufactured by a subsidiary of the Eastman Kodak Company, and their function is to photograph the front and back of each check which goes thru the bank, together with the monthly statement of each customer's account, for the protection of the customer.

The State Board of Education's decision at Austin Monday to maintain a $22 per capita apportionment for the school year 1939-40, will distribute to schools in San Saba County more than $90,720.

San Saba will be the Mecca today of hundreds of Old Settlers and their families who will gather at their 16th annual reunion at the Old Fair Grounds to renew acquaintances and contacts with old friends from far and near, and enjoy the big barbecue dinner at noon that is being provided by the business men of San Saba.

Last Monday, July 24, marked the first anniversary of the close of San Saba's greatest flood in history, when from 24 to 26 inches of rain fell in this county in seven days, devastating valley homes, farms, crops, livestock, roads, bridges and fences and doing an estimated $1,500,000 of damage, along the San Saba, Brady Creek, Richland Creek and the Colorado River, besides badly washing much farm land farther up the country.—News.

A coincident in the first two San Sabans to each make the fairs being held in the eastern and western part of the United States this summer, was recalled when Mrs. R. L. Oliver returned from New York last week, the first San Saban to return from the fair there: She won a free telephone call from Radio City to any place in the United States and immediately called Mr. Oliver to inform him that she wished to stay a few days longer. Miss Sara Tom Kimbrough was the first San Saban to go to the San Francisco fair, and she won a free call by telephone, immediately calling her employer, W. J. Walker, in the FSA offices, for an extension of time in her absence from the office, which was granted.

Ground will likely be broken here by the first of September for the erection of a new vocational agriculture and home economics building, which is to be built as a WPA project, following the plans which have been drawn by W. But days passed and weeks, and Judy did not come home. And the first of February found her still in that narrow hospital bed. And it was in February that Frederick Towne wrote that he was coming to Chicago. "I shall have only a day, but I must see you."

The next time she went to the hospital, she told Judy of his expected arrival. "Tomorrow." "Oh, Jane, how delightful." "Is it? I'm not sure, Judy."

"It would be perfect if you'd accept him, Jane." "But I'm not in love with him." "Bob and I were talking about it." Judy's voice was almost painfully eager, "of how splendid it would be for—all of us."

For all of us. Judy and Bob and the babies! It was the first time that Jane had thought of her marriage with Towne as a way out for Judy and Bob.

From his hotel at the moment of arrival, Towne called Jane up. "Are you glad I'm here?" "Of course."

"Don't say it that way." "How shall I say it?" "As if you meant it. Do you know what a frigid little thing you are?"

He wondered if he offered it to Jane, would she accept? He knew she wouldn't. Adelaide would have made no bones about it. There had been a lovely thing in black velvet he had given her, too, a wrap to match.

The evening stretched ahead of him, full of radiant promise. He knew Jane's strength but he was ready for conquest.

His telephone rang. And Jane spoke to him. "Mr. Towne," she said, "I can't dine with you. But can you come over later? Judy is desperately ill. I'll tell you more about it when I see you."

Bob had cried when the news came from the hospital. It had been dreadful. Jane had never seen a man cry. They had been hard sobs, with broken apologies between. "I'm a fool to act like this . . ."

Jane had tried to say things, then had sat silent and uncomfortable while Bob fought for self-control. Miss Martin had gone home before the message arrived. Bob was told that he could not see his wife. But the surgeon would be glad to talk to him, at eight.

"And I know what he'll say," Bob had said to Jane drearily, "that if I can get that specialist up from Hot Springs, he may be able to diagnose the trouble. But how am I going to get the money, Janey? It will cost a thousand dollars to rush him here and pay his fee. And my income has practically stopped. With all these labor troubles—there's no building. And Judy's nurses cost twelve dollars a day—and her room five. Oh, poor people haven't any right to be sick, Janey. There isn't any place for them."

Jane's face was pale and looked pinched. "There's the check Baldy sent me for Christmas, fifty dollars."

"Dear girl, it wouldn't be a drop in the bucket." "I know," thoughtfully, "Bob, do they think that if that specialist comes it will save Judy's life?" "It might. It—it's the last chance, Janey."

"I don't know that I ought to let him do so much," Jane said. "Oh, why not, Janey? Just take the good the gods provide. . ."

Before Frederick Towne reached his hotel he passed a shop whose windows were lighted against the early darkness. In one of the windows, flanked by slippers and stockings and a fan to match, was a French gown, all silver and faint blue, a shining wisp of a thing in lace and satin. Towne stopped the car, went in and bought the gown with its matching accessories. He carried the big box with him to his hotel. Resting a bit before dinner he permitted himself to dream of Jane in that gown, the pearls that he would give her against the white of her slender throat, the slim bareness of her arms, the swirl of a silver lace about her ankles—the swing of the boyish figure in its sheath of blue.

He wondered if he offered it to Jane, would she accept? He knew she wouldn't. Adelaide would have made no bones about it. There had been a lovely thing in black velvet he had given her, too, a wrap to match.

The evening stretched ahead of him, full of radiant promise. He knew Jane's strength but he was ready for conquest.

His telephone rang. And Jane spoke to him. "Mr. Towne," she said, "I can't dine with you. But can you come over later? Judy is desperately ill. I'll tell you more about it when I see you."

Bob had cried when the news came from the hospital. It had been dreadful. Jane had never seen a man cry. They had been hard sobs, with broken apologies between. "I'm a fool to act like this . . ."

Jane had tried to say things, then had sat silent and uncomfortable while Bob fought for self-control. Miss Martin had gone home before the message arrived. Bob was told that he could not see his wife. But the surgeon would be glad to talk to him, at eight.

"And I know what he'll say," Bob had said to Jane drearily, "that if I can get that specialist up from Hot Springs, he may be able to diagnose the trouble. But how am I going to get the money, Janey? It will cost a thousand dollars to rush him here and pay his fee. And my income has practically stopped. With all these labor troubles—there's no building. And Judy's nurses cost twelve dollars a day—and her room five. Oh, poor people haven't any right to be sick, Janey. There isn't any place for them."

Jane's face was pale and looked pinched. "There's the check Baldy sent me for Christmas, fifty dollars."

"Dear girl, it wouldn't be a drop in the bucket." "I know," thoughtfully, "Bob, do they think that if that specialist comes it will save Judy's life?" "It might. It—it's the last chance, Janey."

Jane hugged her knees. "Can't you borrow the money?" "I have borrowed up to the limit of my securities, and how can I ever pay?" Her voice was grim. "We will manage to pay; the thing now is to save Judy."

"Yes," he tried, pitifully, to meet her courage. "If they'll get the specialist, we'll pay." She had risen. "I'll call up Mr. Towne, and tell him I can't dine with him."

"But, Janey, there's no reason why you shouldn't keep your engagement." She had turned on him with a touch of indignation. "Do you think I could have one happy moment with my mind on Judy?"

Bob had looked at her, and then looked away. "Have you thought that you might get the money from Towne?" Her startled gaze had questioned him. "Get money from Mr. Towne?"

"Yes. Oh, why not, Janey? He'll do anything for you." "But how could I pay him?" There had been dead silence, then Bob said, "Well, he's in love with you, isn't he?"

"You mean that I can—marry him?" "Yes. Why not? Judy says he's crazy about you. And, Jane, it's foolish to throw away such a chance. Not every girl has it."

"But, Bob, I'm not—in love with him." "You'll learn to care—He's a delightful chap, I'd say." Bob was eager. "Now look here, Janey, I'm talking to you like a Dutch uncle. It isn't as if I were advising you to do it for our sakes. It is for your own sake, too. Why, it would be great, old girl. Never another worry. Somebody always to look after you."

anyhow what are you going to do about Judy?" Judy! She had spoken at last with an effort. "I'll tell him to come over after dinner. We can ride for a bit."

"Why not stay here? I'll be at the hospital. And the storm is pretty bad." She had looked out of the window. "There's no snow. Just the wind. And I feel—stuffed."

It was then that she had called up Towne. "I can't dine with you. . . Judy is desperately ill. . ."

The houseworker had prepared a delicious dinner, but Jane ate nothing. Bob's appetite, on the other hand, was good. He apologized for it. "I went without lunch, I was so worried."

The bell rang. Jane, going to the door, found herself shaking with excitement.

Frederick came in and took both of her hands in his. "I'm terribly sorry about the sister. Is there anything I can do?" She shook her head. She could hardly speak. "I thought if you wouldn't mind, we'd go for a ride. And we can talk."

"Good. Get your wraps." He released her hands, and she went into the other room. As she looked into the mirror she saw that her cheeks were crimson.

She brought out her coat and he held it for her. "Is this warm enough? You ought to have a fur coat."

"Oh, I shall be warm," she said. As he preceded her down the stairs, Towne turned and looked up at her. "You are wearing my rose," he told her, ardently; "you are like a rose yourself."

She would not have been a woman if she had not liked his admiration. And he was strong and adoring and distinguished. She had a sense of almost happy excitement as he lifted her into the car.

"Where shall we drive?" he asked. "Along the lake. I love it on a night like this."

The moon was sailing high in a rack of clouds. As they came to the lake the waves writhed like mad sea-monsters in gold and white and black.

"Jane," Frederick asked softly, "what made you wear—my rose?" She sat very still beside him. "Mr. Towne," she said at last, "tell me how much—you love me."

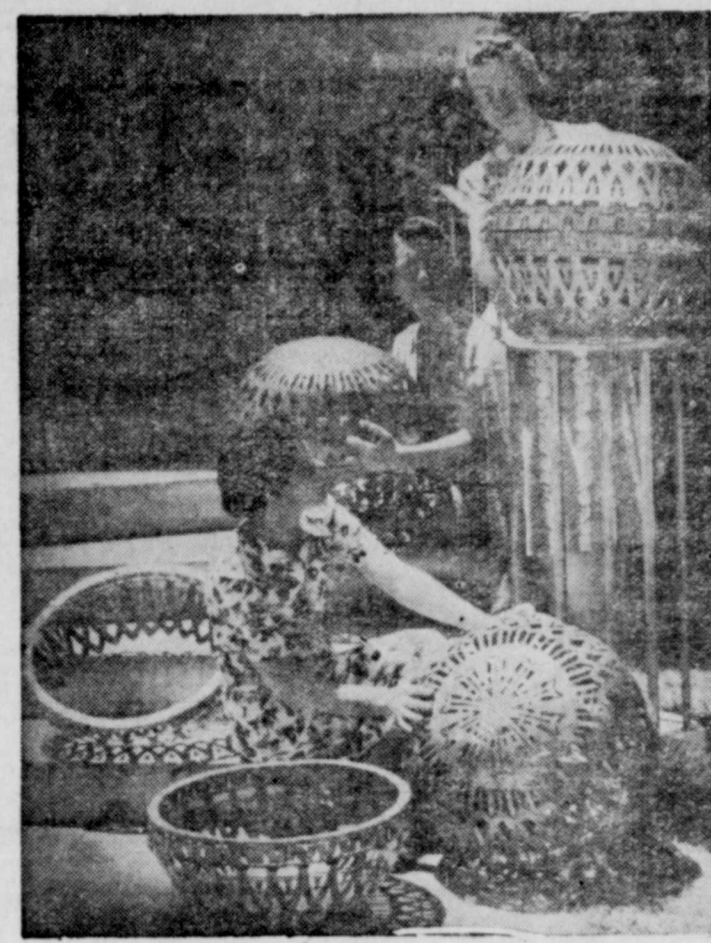

He gave a start of surprise. Then he turned towards her and took her hand in his. "Let me tell you this: there never was a dearer woman. Everything that I have, all that I am, is yours if you will have it."

There was a fine dignity in his avowal. She liked him more than ever. "Do you love me enough?"—she hurried over the words, "to help me?"

"Yes." He drew her gently towards him. There was no struggle. She lay quietly against his arm, but he was aware that she trembled.

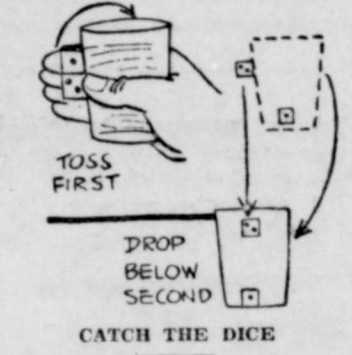

"Mr. Towne, Judy must have a great specialist right away. It's her only chance. If you will send for him tonight, make yourself responsible for everything—I'll marry you whenever you say."

Young Craftsman Completes Intricate Lamps for Chapel

Creator of these elaborate light fixtures for the Chapel in the Woods being constructed at Texas State College for Women is a student artist, Miss Sammy Tate (lower left) of Ennis, who designed them and has put them together herself. She is being assisted by Miss Helen Solberg, a Clifton student, under the supervision of Miss Dorothy A. LaSelle of the TSCW art department. Miss Tate has saw-pierced and riveted these spheres for the Chapel auditorium. She is also making lights for the vestibule and front door, two candle-sticks and the large altar cross. All art work in the Chapel, including the stained glass windows, is being done by TSCW students.

TRY THIS TRICK
By PONJAY HARRAH
Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.

Catching the dice is a game that looks easy but proves impossible when people try it, unless they know the secret. A small cup is held in one hand. The thumb and fingers encircle the cup; between them, they hold a small cube; one of a pair of dice. The second cube is placed upon the first. The object is to toss each of the dice separately, catching them one by one in the cup; and keeping them there. Thus the fun begins; for after the first cube is bagged, the tossing of the second causes the first to jump out. The way to do the trick is not to toss the second cube at all. Simply release it. Swoop downward with the cup and catch the last of the dice while it is falling.

Scallorn H. D. Club Report

"Our mothers and grandmothers cooked cabbage until it was red and wilted, and thought it wasn't good unless cooked that way," said Mrs. Ora Black, council delegate of the local H. D. Club, which met in the home of Mrs. Frank Hines Thursday, July 27, 1939.

Miss Scott met with us and gave a most interesting discussion on mild and strong flavored vegetables. She also gave a demonstration of how to cook cabbage several different ways. Each lady present was permitted to taste the cabbage after it was prepared by Miss Scott.

Refreshments were served to 13 club members, Miss Scott and two visitors, Miss Doris Hereford and Mrs. Fields Hines. The next meeting will be held Thursday, September 14, 1939, in the home of Mrs. Tom Hale.

Coleman Sewing Room is Called State's Best

Coleman, Texas.—Coleman has the "best" WPA sewing room in the state, according to information received by Mrs. Jess R. Pearce, supervisor. The rating was made by Mrs. Mary Rubotham, assistant state director of professional and service projects of the Works Progress Administration.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Mrs. Pearce is a former resident of Goldthwaite, and will be remembered here as Miss Alice Moreland, daughter of the late I. T. Moreland.

Help Prevent Grass Fires, Autoists Asked

To prevent disastrous fires in dry pastures and stubble fields, motorists were urged to extinguish matches and cigarette stubs before tossing them from cars Tuesday by Capt. John Draper of the state highway patrol. "Many pastures and stubble fields are dry as tinder at this season," Captain Draper said. "A carelessly tossed match or cigarette can do serious damage to farmers and ranchers. Barns, houses and feed stocks often go down before a prairie fire once it gets under way."

A good way to learn not to toss away lighted matches is to form the habit of breaking them in two before discarding them, he said.

"If you make this such a habit that you do it subconsciously you'll never set a wastebasket or a rancher's valuable grass on fire," he said, "for you have to snuff out the blaze before breaking it."

He advised that cigarettes be stuffed into ash trays in cars just as they are in homes.

Highway patrolmen fought many prairie fires last year and are glad to give this service, Captain Draper said, but would much prefer to have the public's co-operation in preventing them.

Only a few have been encountered so far this year, he said, one being near Waxahatchie.—Dallas News.
