Lions Club Enjoys Lake Merritt Party

Members of the faculty of the Goldthwaite school were guests Tuesday evening at Lake Merritt when the Lions Club observed Ladies' Night.

A bountiful barbecue supper served buffet fashion was served before the program. Lions W. M. Johnson and Floyd Blair composed the supper committee.

Lions R. E. Clements and Frank Bowman sang "School Days" and an original song composed by Mr. Clements, "Ain't We Happy" in which current war conditions were satirized.

Miss Margaret Freeland, new member of the school faculty, delighted the Lions and their guests with an exceptionally well delivered reading from Dorothy Parker, and for a encore gave a short poem by the same author.

A "Battle of the Sexes" followed. Mrs. Paul McCullough was captain of twelve ladies and Dr. T. C. Graves of as many men. After matching wits over puzzling questions for an hour, the judge's decision went to the men by an eight-vote margin.

City Contracts For Water Well

Clyde Lane was awarded a contract yesterday morning by the city council to drill a 10-inch water well for the city water system. He expects to begin work Monday and to complete the well within ten days or two weeks from then.

The exact location of the well has not yet been determined, but it is considered probable that it will be adjacent to the city well on the Brownwood highway. This well was not drilled into the sand and it is hoped that by drilling a large well deep into the sand and casing and screening it properly a satisfactory source of good water can be obtained for the city.

While there has been no actual shortage of water this summer, the pumps have been overtaxed to meet the demand. The last well was drilled ten or twelve year ago and since that time the number of water consumers has been trebled and the sewer system, which uses a large amount of water, has also been completed.

Rev. E. E. Dawson, Pastor.

Last Sunday saw a marked increase in the attendance of the Training Union, all five of the organizations functioning in an encouraging fashion. Remember that it meets at 6:30 every Sunday evening, first in the individual unions and at 7:10 in the assembly.

A number of the folks spread lunch together last Sunday following the noon service and not only enjoyed the savory things to eat, but had a good season of fellowship. There is a good deal in the Book of Acts about the early disciples eating together, and not all of those references are to the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

"Is the Baptist Faith Worthy of Preservation?" will be the pastor's discourse next Sunday morning. At the evening hour, "Our Debts: Our Debt to the Presbyterians."

Nabors Creek Services.

Our regular monthly services at Nabors Creek will be held next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All of the people of the community are cordially invited to attend the services. Some special musical items by visitors will be given.

Rural Electrification Meeting to Be Held

A Rural Electrification meeting will be held in Mullin in the school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 10th.

All who are interested, be sure to attend this meeting, as all phases of REA will be discussed.

Tom Connally Makes Great Speech

In a rousing burst of oratory, Senator Tom Connally of Texas told the U. S. Senate Wednesday that Germany would begin sinking American merchant vessels unless congress repealed the arms embargo and restricted American shipping.

The 62-year-old Texan, a lawyer who served in both the Spanish-American and World Wars, began the second day of the debate over neutrality law revision.

Siding with the administration on this issue, although he has opposed it on various domestic questions, Connally pointed out that the law which imposed the arms embargo left United States merchantmen free to carry other goods to belligerents. No Guarantee in Law.

He cited a long list of American vessels attacked or sunk by German craft before this country's entrance into the World War, and declared:

"They were attacked or sunk not because they carried arms or munitions or implements of war but because they carried general commerce, and on the theory that the destruction of such commerce would aid Germany and injure the allies."

"What Germany did in the World War she will do in this war. Unrestricted submarine warfare on all neutral commerce has already begun. Germany did not hesitate to sink our ships before we entered the World War and were at peace. She will not hesitate to do so now."

Thus, Connally said, the present embargo act does not guarantee the United States against war, "but its continuance as law involves a constant threat of our being plunged into war through the sinking of American ships and American cargoes."

"How Can Germany Complain?"

The administration "title and carry" bill would make it "wholly improbable" that any American vessel or cargo would be sunk, he continued, because it provides that all goods purchased by belligerent nations must be transported in foreign ships and that the purchasers must take title to the shipments before they leave American shores. Touching on the contention of

Tom Connally to Speak Friday Night

United States Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, one of the three members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who drafted proposed strengthening of neutrality legislation pending before the special session of Congress, will speak on this subject over a National Broadcasting Company radio hook-up from Washington at 9:15, Texas time, Friday night, October 6th.

Senator Connally has been closely identified with suggested changes in present legislation on the subject from its inception, having been called to the White House for a conference with President Roosevelt soon after reaching the capital from Texas.

Several days following were devoted by Senator Connally, with Senator Key Pittman, committee chairman, and Senator Elbert Thomas, of Utah, to preparation of the measure reported out by the Committee.

Senator Connally's views on the bill have been eagerly followed in view of the leading part he is playing in its sponsorship in the debates on the floor of the Senate.

Senator Connally was one of the several Senators participating in the opening program of the American Forum over the Mutual Broadcasting System's coast-to-coast network Sunday night, October 1, the subject being "The Neutrality Bill."

Big Increase Made In Bank Deposits

Goldthwaite bank deposits as shown by statement of the Trent State Bank published in this issue of The EAGLE have made a big increase in the past twelve months. This year individual deposits are $662,385.91 as compared with $607,154.74 last year.

Total resources this year are $756,255 against $686,999 last year. The Merchants and Farmers Bank at Priddy also have a good statement showing deposits of $41,829.79 and total resources of $63,167.03.

Six Million Free Lunches For Texas Children

Public Welfare Director, Adam R. Johnson, has received notice that a state-sponsored program, assuring nearly 6,000,000 school lunches for destitute children this year, will be put into operation; and that more than $1,216,430 has been allotted under the project to supply free school lunches to Texas children, according to Pierce Brooks. Local sponsors' contribution in each school will be made by the schools themselves, the entire program to be handled and administered through co-operation of the relief division of the public welfare board and WPA Texas officials. This means that approximately $1,500,000 will be expended for hungry and undernourished and underprivileged boys and girls.

Another bit of interesting information is contained in the announcement that the Texas allotment of $887,978 has been made for the continued program of canning surplus food in the chain relief administration canneries over the state.

Old Chickens Best Canners

College Station, October 5th—Hens not laying enough to earn their "board and keep" may be just right for canning, suggests Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation for the A. & M. College Extension Service.

Chicken dinners, she says, shouldn't be confined to summer days, and canning surplus birds from the flock is one means of insuring a continuous supply.

H. A. Street And Edgar Wilson Burned to Death

Mrs. Street And Daughter In 'Very Critical' Condition In Plainview Hospital

Charred bodies of Herbert A. Street, 42, and Capt. Edgar Wilson, 69, were interred in Lubbock cemetery Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Street, about 40, and 6-year-old daughter, Mary Mildred, were considered in "very critical" condition, according to the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal of Oct. 2nd.

All were burned when fire swept the Street residence in Silverton early Sunday morning, on the eve of departure of the Street family for Lubbock to make their home. Captain Wilson was the father of Mrs. Street.

Authorities at the Plainview sanitarium said Monday morning there was little hope for either the mother or daughter. Mrs. Street suffered third degree burns over at least half of her body. The child, who was nearly 7, suffered few burns but her throat and lungs were seared by flames and smoke she had inhaled.

There was no improvement in condition of Mrs. Herbert A. Street and daughter, Mary Mildred, at 2 p. m. Monday evening at Plainview sanitarium, said an authority. The child remained under an oxygen tent. A tube had been placed in her throat to aid her breathing. Blood transfusions were administered to both.

Mrs. Street is the former Miss Frances Wilson, former assistant cashier in the business office at Texas Technological college. Are Found Unconscious.

The family apparently awaked after flames were already well underway in the four-room frame residence. Mr. Street was found lying in a door. His head was through the glass and his throat badly cut. Indications were that he collapsed just before reaching the door. His face was burned beyond recognition.

Mrs. Street was lying unconscious on the floor of a back room when neighbors made their way into the residence. The child was unconscious on the bed. Discovered At 2 A. M.

Mr. Wilson was found lying in a hall leading from a bedroom to the living room and he also was badly burned. The fire was discovered at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Apparently, the fire started in a chair in the living room. According to information received here, firemen theorized a lighted cigaret was to blame.

Street's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Street of Lubbock, and two sisters, Mrs. Ben Pope and Mrs. A. M. Justice of Marshall left this morning for Plainview to be at the bedside of the surviving victims. Dr. Gordon McFarland of Dallas, a baby specialist and husband of another sister of Herbert Street, was to arrive in Plainview this morning.

Vaughn E. Wilson, son of Captain Wilson, and Mrs. Vaughn E. Wilson had returned from a visit to the sanitarium.

Both War Veterans. Both Street and Wilson were World War veterans with overseas service, the former being a sergeant of Marines, the latter a captain of engineers. Street twice was cited for bravery under fire before he was seriously wounded while fighting in the Argonne.

Funeral rites for both men were held at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Street's parents, 1416 Avenue L, interment following in Lubbock cemetery. Rites were directed by Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of First Baptist Church; Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor First Presbyterian Church; G. C. Brewer, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, and Elder Liff Sanders, of the same faith. Sanders Funeral Home had charge. Pallbearers

Need for Education On Venereal Diseases

Austin, Texas, Oct. 5. — The need for education that will bring every potential mother—and in particular those mothers infected with venereal diseases—to the physician early in pregnancy, and the necessity for adequate treatment and follow-up of every case of syphilis thus uncovered, is emphasized by the Texas State Department of Health.

The 1,200 deaths, and 3,000 annual syphilitic births, are the price of ignorance which reflects the failure of maternal health education in Texas. These deaths are needless, when we consider the present state of scientific knowledge and practice in regard to the control of syphilis.

There are many potential mothers in Texas today infected with syphilis. Without treatment the chances are that more than 80 per cent of their offspring will be infected. Unless the need for treatment early in pregnancy is impressed upon all potential mothers, and the necessity for blood tests as a routine check in physical examinations is realized too many mothers will not know that they have syphilis and are in need of treatment.

Reason number one for this neglect is that many women do not understand the importance of early and good prenatal care, including examination and if necessary, treatment for syphilis.

It is pointed out that the chances that a healthy, non-infected child will be born of a mother with syphilis are less than one in six. "Start treatment before the fifth month of pregnancy—even before the third—and that ratio can be reversed to ten healthy children out of every eleven born. The remedy is education of our people, so that they may know what to expect in a prenatal examination," states the Health Department.

from San Angelo that her father, Oll Dwyer, expects to return home this week end. He has been taking some more treatment in a San Angelo hospital.

Mrs. Stanley Reeves returned home Saturday after a month's absence. While away, she visited her daughter, Mrs. Fred Crawford, in San Antonio, and her sister, Mrs. Hawkins White, in Brownsville. She found Stan so glad to see her that she says it does these men good to leave them for about a month.

Mrs. E. O. Dwyer had for her guests Sunday after church, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wilmeth, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Briley, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reeves and baby, Joe Hubert, and Mrs. Nellie Malone.

Mrs. Nellie Malone returned home Tuesday after a two weeks visit to Austin and Brenham. At Austin she visited her granddaughters, Misses Jane and Beth Malone. Jane is instructor in the University and Beth is a freshman there. Sunday, Sept. 24, she attended the radio broadcast of Governor O'Daniel at the Governor's mansion. At Brenham she visited a cousin whom she had not seen for sixty years.

Now that the dry northerners have begun to come and the pastures still as dry and bare as a bone, the inhabitants of this locality begin to wonder if the tragic drought of 1917-18 is to be repeated, and they turn with appreciation to the lowly prickly pear and wonder if there will be enough to take the cattle thru the winter.

Remember Bro. E. L. Green of Owen will preach for us Sunday. Let's try to be on hand for Bible School at ten o'clock.

As I finish my letter, J. T. Robertson seems to be improving slowly. We hope he can be well.
 Sunday is church day. Come and bring someone with you and enjoy the sermons.
 If you don't think old times are not coming back, just see the old style hack I've bought. It isn't quite ready to ride in, but will be in a few days. This hack belonged to the Kauchs family years past. All we will need now is a buggy whip. I hope to be able to get one. May have to order one from Chicago. If any of you neighbors care to ride to town on Saturday, just call me over the telephone.
 Gus Roush and son from Odessa, Harvey Dunkle, Joe Davis and James Nickols fixed up our telephone line into town, last Saturday.
 Hilliard Dyches and family from Breckenridge and Gus Roush and family from Odessa spent a few days in the Robertson home.
 Martin Clark ground feed for several farmers in Center Point this week.
 J. F. Davis is shingling his house with the help of his son.
 J. T. Stark is breaking land for Rudolph Cook on the Sansom farm east of town.
 Mr. Parrish visited his parents in Hamilton Saturday night and Sunday.
 James Nickols and family spent the day in the Tyson home Sunday. Their son celebrated his first birthday with his grandmother Tyson and other relatives. He received several nice presents.
 Miss Gertrude Kauchs has been taking care of J. T. Robertson this week.
 Arlie Davis and family from Brown county dined in his parents home Sunday.
 Beryl Turner and family visited in the Traylor home Sunday.

Texas Negro school children will be admitted free to the State Fair on October 16 as a part of the Negro Day celebration. The Department of Education has provided contests for them in which the State Fair will make cash awards.
 Although there will be sixty-four separate county farm displays at the State Fair no two will be alike. New ideas in displays will put each county's idea over in a different way. Every Texas product grown in commercial quantities will be on display.

WINTER'S DASTARD 90 HOURS
 skipped by OIL-PLATING your engine today

Can you figure on your car's Daily Winter Starting Schedule being any briefer than this? . . .

No. 1 Start * GOING TO WORK
 No. 2 Start * GOING TO LUNCH
 No. 3 Start * RETURNING FROM LUNCH
 No. 4 Start * GOING HOME FROM WORK
 No. 5 Start * GOING TO THE MOVIE
 No. 6 Start * GOING HOME FROM MOVIE

Could half-a-dozen starts or so get you through a day? Will your icy engine turn lukewarm in only 5 or 6 minutes? Even so, just think what that comes to, all through these bad months! . . . Total: 90 hours!
 90 tough hours—and often more. A whole 90 hours when oiling that comes from "fast flow" alone lags far behind the sure lubrication that comes from changing today to OIL-PLATING.
 OIL-PLATING is ready to lubricate sooner than any oil ever can flow—sooner than "instantly!"—because patented Conoco Germ Processed oil forces OIL-PLATING into a durable bond with the engine parts. OIL-PLATING becomes part of the parts!

They can't drain dry of OIL-PLATING. They remain "bathed in slippiness" all day, all night, in all weather, even with your car at a standstill. That's why OIL-PLATING lets your engine slide into swift, safe, dragless action, instead of letting it suffer Winter's worst 90 hours—along with your battery. Slash starting time; stretch your time between quarts to the limit, by changing to Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today for your right Winter Germ Processed oil. That's your way to Winter OIL-PLATING. Continental Oil Company

New Chevrolets Will Be On Display Saturday, October 14

Kelly Saylor, local Chevrolet dealer, in an interview today looked forward to a bright future with the showing of the new 1940 Chevrolet at the Saylor Chevrolet Company's show rooms on Saturday, October 14.

Mr. Saylor commented upon the economic importance of the automobile industry, of which Chevrolet is an important part, according to the 1931 report of the United States Government Census for Manufacturers, which shows the following ranking of the five largest industries in the United States in volume of production:

Meat Packing, $2,180,823,000.
Motor Vehicles, $1,567,526,000.
Petroleum Refining, $1,524,285,000.

Newspapers and Periodicals, $1,408,248,000.
Steel Works and Rolling Mills, $1,402,843,000.

It is also interesting to note in this connection that there were only seven industries in the U. S. in 1931 that were doing a business over the billion dollar mark.

The importance of the automobile industry may be further realized by a brief comparison of the transportation it furnishes with that of the steam railways. Someone has said that the steam railways are the arteries of our nation. If that is true, automobile transportation is the network of capillaries that distributes the life blood of commerce to every cranny and nook reached by man.

Important as are the great systems of railways, their capacity for transportation is limited by immovable ribbons of steel. They can serve only the communities through which they pass. The population living at a distance from railways must depend upon some other means of transportation to bring to their doors the things needed to sustain life and develop the soil.

The automobile transports man, and everything man needs to sustain life and give him pleasure, in any direction, at any hour of the day or night, and under all conditions of weather. It not only traverses the common highways, but transports men and goods over every part of the world, making possible the development of land in hitherto inaccessible sections, and thus adding to the total wealth of the world.

Mr. Saylor continued by informing us that again Chevrolet will do its part in adding to man's transportation facilities by giving the public a new and improved model which will be on display Saturday, October 14.

Texas farm income rose from $4,328,000,000 in 1932 to $8,574,000,000 in 1937 and $7,632,000,000 in 1938. At the same time, the number of farms purchasing electricity climbed from 11,537 in 1932 to 31,205 in 1937.

Large numbers in game animals and wild ducks are using ponds and reservoirs constructed in the drier areas of the range country of West Texas by farmers and ranchmen participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

HERE'S WHAT YOU MUST DO SHOULD THE UNITED STATES DECLARE WAR

Able, Unmarried Men of 25 Will Be First For Military Duty Call

Washington, October 5th.—Within 30 days after the United States declares war—if it ever does—young Johnny Jones, able-bodied, unmarried and about 25, will be in the army, the first man in the country drafted for military service.

Meanwhile, probably 200,000 already will have volunteered to fill peace-time gaps in the regular army and national guard.

Three months later, more than a million recruits will have followed Johnny into training camps, and half a million more in the navy.

Back home, some 2,350,000 other potential soldiers and sailors between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive, will be waiting for the call to arms.

This is the mobilization picture for the first four months of war as envisioned by the Joint Army and Navy Selective Service Committee, which has a recruiting plan complete to the last detail.

Formulation of the plan began soon after the first World War, and it has been expanded and improved every year since. This is how it would work:

Selective Service Law
A selective service law, drafted long ago, would be submitted to Congress, with the expectation it would be passed immediately.

The President would proclaim a registration day for all men in a certain age (probably 21 to 30 at first). Some 35,000,000 forms would be printed for registering the first 10,000,000 men. About 5,500 local draft boards would be created by Governors.

Eight days after the President's proclamation, men designated in the age group would register at their voting precincts, and regular election officials would deliver their registration cards to the local boards.

After the registration lists were numbered, checked and publicly posted, questionnaires would be sent to all registrants.

From the information on those forms, local boards would classify each registrant as follows:

Class I—Those immediately available for service.

Class II—Those whose service would be deferred for a limited period because of the importance of their jobs to the Nation.

Class III—Those whose service would be deferred because they have families solely dependent on them.

Class IV—Those whose service, for obvious reasons such as physical disability, would be undesirable.

To Be Reclassified

Those in Class I would be called for medical examination and reclassified as (1) physically fit for unlimited service, (2) fit for limited service or (3) unfit. The order in which they would be enrolled would be determined by lotteries as the army and navy called for them.

It is estimated the Nation has 11,000,000 between the ages of 21 and 30; 1,000,000 more coming of age each year, and that this reservoir would produce about 4,100,000 Class I fighters in the original draft.

Inclusion of Classes II and III and extension of the age limit would enlist millions more.

The Selective Service Committee figures it would require 30 days to get the Johnny Jones into the army to fill the first quota. Meanwhile 200,000 men would be needed to bring the army and national guard to wartime strength in the first 30 days. Half a million would be needed for the army and navy in the first two months.

Forewarned by 1917-18, when only 86,000 men volunteered before the draft was instituted, the committee is urging national guard staffs to organize volunteer plans for every State, in addition to the 48 selective service plans already drafted and ready for operation.

American research workers have now developed a waterproof and non-inflammable film from clay. In appearance it is like celluloid, and it may possibly prove to be a substitute for mica.

Complete State Fair Is Assured Visitors

Dallas, Oct. 5.—A complete State Fair—more than that—a complete Southwestern Exposition, will greet the million visitors expected by the State Fair of Texas Oct. 7 to 22.

As the opening date drew near officials announced that all exhibits were in place, livestock barns were overflowing, agricultural showings had been set, the free acts had arrived the star production of Polles Bergere was set up, the Holy Land was in place, and the 55-car Rubin & Cherry midway was ready for the opening gong.

The State Fair this year will present more of an educational nature than ever before, and yet it has in no sense overlooked the amusement feature.

For the first time it presents the National Hereford Show. For the first time it presents a complete chemurgic exhibit, and a showing of soil-less cultivation of vegetables and plants.

It has the best shows in its history—and more free ones, including aerial acts, performing lions and elephants, Ferdinand, the educated bull, and others.

More than 140 special days have been arranged, including a day devoted to Safety, sponsored by the Texas Safety Council on October 17. Opening Day is Press Day, Future Farmers Day, Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Day and many others.

An attendance of more than 100,000 is indicated opening day. Fifty thousand opening day keys have been sold.

Marine Corps Needs 6,000 Young Men

The United States Marine Corps is now making a methodical canvass of inland towns—particularly rural communities—with the view of finding the very best young men possible for enlistment in the Marines, Postmaster M. Y. Stokes, Jr. states.

Only 6,000 young men out of the slightly more than 108,000 increase in complements of all the armed forces of the national defense are authorized by President Roosevelt for the Marine Corps. Thus, only one man out of each group of eighteen qualified applicants will be accepted for service with the "Leathernecks."

Requirements for enlistment remain the same—between 18 and 30 years of age, white, unmarried and without dependents, not less than 64 nor more than 74 inches tall, of good moral character, and of excellent physical condition.

Preliminary physical examination may now be made by a local physician after which the Dallas office will advise applicants whether or not to proceed to that city for final examination.

Radio Series Honors Religious Pioneers

"Heralds of Destiny," adventure stories of civilization building and humanitarianism taken from the annals, past and present, of the Baptist and Methodist churches, will be presented weekly over Radio Station KNEL in Brady, Texas. The programs will be heard at 10:45 o'clock on Tuesday mornings.

An eyewitness account of the recent bombing of Chungking, the sacrifice an old slave made in order to teach his people, the heroic courage of America's first foreign missionary, and the inspired determination that carried a Revolutionary era preacher on a quarter of a million mile journey on horseback provide the material for a few of the stories.

They are all true stories. Some of them happened almost two centuries ago. Others are still unfinished today. Jointly presented by the Methodist Million Unit Fellowship Movement and the Northern Baptist Convention, the "Heralds of Destiny" series is a dramatization of the most stirring episodes from the history of both churches.

repeal opponents that lifting of the embargo would benefit Britain and France, because their sea power would prevent Germany from buying in this country, Connally said that the United States was not undertaking to impair advantages which Germany enjoyed by reason of her location. It has no right, he added, to deny or to curtail natural advantages which Britain and France might enjoy.

"How can Germany complain that we sell arms to warring nations when she is buying from neutral nations?" he asked. Encourages Outlaw.

"An arms embargo, which permits sales of arms and ammunition in time of peace and denies such sales in time of war, encourages the highwayman or the outlaw to arm and equip himself for successful aggression against the peaceable and lawful citizen in advance.

"Unbeatable Navy."
He appealed for strengthening the country's defenses, saying the oceans were no adequate protection but instead were "a paved highway, a four-way highway, for the navies and the armed forces of foreign government if they want to attack us."

"The only way we can defend ourselves with two oceans is by having a navy good enough and strong enough to dominate two oceans. We ought have an unbeatable navy."

Connally said that the kind of government in Germany or other European countries was no concern of the United States, but

The United States could not with safety ignore the fact that there were people in the world with "a spirit of aggression in their hearts," the senator concluded. The nation, he said, could make only this reply:

"We want no quarrel with you. But if you do provoke us into a quarrel, if you do assail us, if you attack our territory, if you attack our institutions here at home by infiltrating among our people your spies and your emissaries and your secret societies that do not believe in the American form of government, and seek to beguile our own people into following a foreign allegiance, worship a foreign flag, we shall say 'If you assail us, if you attack us, we are going to protect ourselves with all the means of which we have command!'"

Reassembly of Club

Beginning its thirty-fourth year, the Self Culture Club held its reassembly meeting Thursday, September 28th, at the Brucks home, with Mrs. J. C. Evans and Mrs. F. J. Brucks joint hostesses. The club was organized in 1905 and five of the charter members are still in club work.

The new year books carry out the club colors, white and green, having white covers with green pages, and with a clever arrangement of type they are very attractive.

The officers are: Mrs. W. C. Dew, president; Mrs. R. J. Gerold, vice-president; Mrs. Jim Weatherby, recording secretary; Mrs. F. J. Brucks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. M. Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Palmer, word monitor, and Mrs. W. E. Miller, parliamentarian.

The program was dedicated to the club founders and was led by Mrs. E. B. Anderson, a charter member. Miss Love Gatlin gave a beautiful tribute to the founders and Mrs. W. E. Miller reviewed briefly the outstanding study courses during the club's history.

The guest artist for the afternoon was Mr. Aubrey Harris Smith, who delighted his hearers with a piano solo, Hungarian Rhapsody Number Six, by Liszt.

Mrs. W. J. Weatherby and Mrs. McDuffey Kessler were welcomed as new members. Also, Mrs. Sam Sullivan returns to active duty after having been away several years.

Priddy V. A. Notes

Since school has started, the Priddy V. A. boys have done some terracing and vaccinating. Here are ten suggestions they have received for handling poultry in October:

1. Cull poor, weak, pale pullets to make more room for the better birds.
2. Repair the poultry house.
3. Give at least one foot of feeder space to every five hens.
4. Keep a record book.
5. Select a feeding program and keep it to avoid sudden changes.
6. Keep old hens which are laying now for breeders.
7. Check your heating equipment before it is ready to use.
8. Clean equipment which has been stored through the summer.
9. Have bands to identify young pullets.
10. Clean the house often and use clean, fresh litter.

P.-T. A. News

Posters telling about our dangerous streets to school are made. Each poster is especially good and greatly appreciated. On one poster, Harriet Allen drew a crippled boy and wrote this message:

Mothers! Fathers! "Is this your son? It can be yet, unless you decide to pay your debt—your debt to us, your girls and boys; preserve our health and youthful joys. We have tried—we've done our very best; it's up to you to do the rest."

It's really true, and not just talk that in the streets we have to walk while cars go hurtling by so fast, we wonder just how long we'll last. And when perchance we get a ride, we'd just as soon be left outside, since the roads are rocky and so rough. Even with knee action they're too tough.

Have you forgotten us, your kids, while under thieves you put the skids? Of graft and fraud you rid the town, But us—you just forget we're around.

You buy a new car now and then, You pension old, dependent men, You pay your dues to the orphan's home, You help the beggar who has to roam; But what of us—we're still here.

Is aid so scarce and gold so dear That you can't help in just this, With money that you'll hardly miss? Be the true pals we know you are—

Buy some asphalt and some tar, And pave our streets from school to town, And lay a good, smooth sidewalk down.

We guarantee you won't regret it And we know we won't forget it. Some pavement and a sidewalk too.

Will make all happy—us and you. The winning poster will be announced at the next P.-T. A. meeting, on Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Puerto Rico Miss Studies In Texas

Denton, Texas, October 5th—The long feet and big hands of Texans distinguish them from other people in her native country according to Maria Isabel Rodriguez Quetglas, the 16 year old Puerto Rican who comes to North Texas State Teachers College this year from San German, Puerto Rico.

The people who live in the cities of Puerto Rico, Miss Quetglas explains, are very aristocratic and not inclined to work—consequently their hands and feet are very small. But the average citizen, she states, admires the American, who own some 80 per cent of all the land in Puerto Rico.

Though ordinarily elementary work covers eight years and high school work four years in Puerto Rico, by "flexible promotion" Miss Quetglas completed all grades in ten years. She is continuing her education at North Texas, she explains, because her government is eager to establish industrial arts in the high school curriculum of Puerto Rico. Beautiful native handicraft is not uncommon in Puerto Rico, she asserted, but the government is anxious to industrialize Puerto Rico through public school training.

All public schools of Puerto Rico are co-educational but Miss Quetglas says "we do not have a date as easily as you do. For us a date is a serious thing." At parties and picnics the boys and girls are usually accompanied by their parents.

Her favorite native dish, Miss Quetglas reveals, is the arroz con coco (rice with coconut) which is served all during the Christmas vacation, and her favorite dance the rumba, which she declines to do without a partner for the benefit of her eager questioning co-eds who swamp her with questions about her native customs.

To overcome her difficulties in English, Miss Quetglas keeps a book of all the new words that she learns and the name of all the new acquaintances. Although she has a large English vocabulary, Miss Quetglas says that she sometimes has difficulty in understanding the rapid speech of North Texans. Texans, she says, are very friendly and adds, "I am proud to be here."

"I hope that the United States will keep out of this war. I believe that it will. And I give you assurances that every effort of your Government will be directed toward that end. As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

—President Roosevelt.

(Address to the Nation, Sept. 3, 1939)

"STAY OUT OF WAR"

American industry hates war. Its leaders and the rank and file of its membership have again and again reiterated the truth that wartime profits are largely fictitious, and do not repay the subsequent wreckage of a nation's entire economy. But with the big guns actually roaring in Europe, it is exceedingly timely and important to have industry's attitude made plain again.

Recently the National Association of Manufacturers went on record on this subject. We can do no better than to quote high lights from its statement, merely pointing out that the N. A. M. is the largest organization of industrial leaders in the country:

"American industry wants peace," the statement declares. "Peace is the life blood of progress. Peace must be the national objective.

"Industry's position on this matter has been stated repeatedly and there must be no misunderstanding about it.

"The United States can stay out of war.

"Emotionalism can betray us into war.

"A public will to peace, coupled with wise public policies and affirmative action to this end by our government will keep us out of war. A fatalistic attitude that war is inevitable for us is absurd. It presupposes that America cannot conduct itself intelligently to preserve peace and its own interests.

"Europe's problems do not affect us, but our domestic problems still must come first.

"If yesterday industry was the only source of prosperity and reemployment, today it is as well the keystone of preparedness and peace. Under any conditions, America must depend on a smoothly functioning, efficient industrial system.

"Manufacturers will not relax their efforts to achieve and maintain sound improvement in our domestic economy."

At any rate, in a war-troubled world where so many values are being lost or obscured, industry's position is plain. And it can be summed up in four forceful words that all Americans would do well to heed: "Stay out of war!"

Men and Machines

WE'VE ALL HEARD IT SAID that Machines rob men of work, that Machines are enemies of jobs. Let's take a look at the biggest user of machines, the automobile industry, and see if this is true.

Back in 1895 there were only four automobiles in the United States. Those models were built by hand. I don't know what it cost to build them that way but it has been estimated that to build a hand-made model of a modern car would cost $6,000. How many of us could afford a car at that price? We wouldn't keep very many people busy building them, would we?

Today 92 per cent of all cars sell for less than $750. There are 25,449,942 cars registered in the U. S. A. Building those cars means work for thousands!

Taking all industry, an authority estimates that machines have replaced two million men but because those machines have made products faster and better to sell for less, the mass demand has added three million workers. That's a gain of a million workers! So the machine is our friend after all.

ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?

(This information service on education is brought to you by special arrangement with Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. Questions on education may be submitted through this newspaper.)

Question: How can one stop children from lying?

Reply: Children lie for various reasons — fear of punishment or of being deprived of something they have or want, because they desire to bolster their self-esteem in some way, because a question has been worded so as to suggest a particular answer and they give the answer before they stop to think. They will give the conventional lies they have heard adults give. Moreover, with young children the line between fact and fiction is sometimes very slight. They will tell as truth something they imagined as happening. In all cases the remedy must take into consideration the reasons.

Dr. Ruth Strang of Teachers College, Columbia University, says in regard to methods of preventing children from lying: "In the first place, the habit of lying may be prevented by detecting a child's first attempts, and making him realize that advantage rarely comes of it — that there are usually better ways of meeting situations. The child must learn that lying usually makes a bad situation worse. In the second place, a habit of fearlessness needs to be built up. The child should be approved for moral courage. An appeal may be made to children's admiration of fearlessness and courage, and the connection between physical and moral courage should be pointed out."

"If a child lies in order to make an impression on someone," Dr. Strang points out, "an opportunity should be devised whereby he can satisfy his desire for approval and mastery in some other way. If a child lies through fear of consequence, he may be encouraged in truthfulness by a more just and understanding treatment of his offenses. A very suggestible child will lie without meaning to, and should not be hurried in his answers, but be encouraged to think before he speaks."

Care should be taken not to give a child a feeling of guilt with respect to a falsehood in which he has been detected. The emphasis should be on helping him to learn better ways of meeting everyday situations and crises."

Question: In what subjects are moving pictures most usually employed as an educational medium?

Reply: Social studies and the natural sciences. For teaching history, geography, and civics, the power of the motion picture to present places, persons and situations has been found exceptionally valuable. As valuable have been the numerous films on science in depicting natural phenomena which otherwise could not be studied to advantage in the classroom.

Films have been shown by experimental studies to be useful in teaching many other subjects — from English to athletics. There are new film releases in the fields of household arts, vocational guidance, music, and physical education. The increasing number of available educational films promises new possibilities in many areas of the modern curriculum.

Question: Approximately what proportion of students in elementary and secondary schools have defective vision?

Reply: In a study made in 1928 by the U. S. Public Health Service of 1,860 school children in Washington, D. C., it was found that 34 per cent of the entire group needed glasses for constant use, and that another 10 per cent needed them for close work. 63 per cent of the group was found to be far-sighted, 5.5 per cent to be near-sighted, and 28 per cent with astigmatism of some sort, making up a total of over 96 per cent who had errors of refraction of one sort or another. This examination was conducted very carefully. It was revealed that the simple vision acuity test often used found only a small per cent of refractive errors.

Another survey conducted by the National Education Association and the American Medical Association in connection with the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness showed in 1925 that 12 per cent of the five million elementary school children examined in 375 cities of over 10,000 population had defective vision. This did not include the children with vision corrected to normal by glasses or by operation. The higher figures revealed in the Washington survey is undoubtedly because of the more accurate method of testing.

School physicians have noted that each successive grade shows a higher per cent of pupils wearing glasses until a maximum is reached among college students.

A careful annual examination of the vision of each child in school, the fitting of glasses to all that need them, and better illumination in school rooms are steps to be taken in remedying this condition.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 8

THE FORERUNNER OF THE KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 3:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.—Matthew 3:3.

When an earthly king visits his dominions or makes a journey to another land, great preparations are made for his coming. Everything is done to expedite his journey and to assure him of safety and comfort. The United States and Canada have recently had that interesting experience. The King of kings and Lord of Lords who in loving kindness and gracious condescension had come to earth to be our Redeemer had now grown to manhood and was prepared to enter on His public ministry. God sent John to be His forerunner to prepare the way and to herald His coming.

I. A Herald Prophetically Foretold (vv. 1, 3, 4).

The coming of John (usually called the Baptist) was of such vital concern to God that He had revealed it to His prophets hundreds of years before (see Isa. 40:3).

We should study and believe the message of the prophets. The same prophecies that pointed to John the Baptist and Christ's first coming also point to the second coming (Mal. 3:1-6; 4:1-6). We know the former took place, why should we doubt the fulfillment of the latter? We do well to take heed to the word of prophecy (II Pet. 1:19).

Let us also prepare the way of the Lord, not as John did, for his was a special ministry, but by making ways for the gospel to reach the hearts of men. We can remove hindrances and obstructions, preparing their hearts to receive Him as Saviour and Lord.

II. An Unusual Man with a Burning Message (vv. 2, 6-12).

What an arresting appearance John must have made as he emerged to the edge of the wilderness to present his startling message! God had kept him (like Moses and others) in the quiet of the desert where He could talk with him, away from the distractions of so-called civilization. This simple living had made John a striking personality, quite unusual and unconventional. The man who strives for such an appearance to attract attention is but a fool, but on the other hand unconventional will not destroy one's usefulness if he has a message from God.

The preaching of John was a burning message of repentance. There had been no prophetic message since the time of Malachi, and in the intervening 400 years the religious life of the Jews had settled down into a barren legalistic formality. John came with a simple, practical, and plain-spoken indictment of sin, which led to repentance and which made religion vital and real again.

We know that the gospel of the grace of God in Christ goes far beyond the preaching of John. But we also know that the Church needs to get back to the proclamation of a vital heart-searching message, and some genuine old-fashioned repentance. Then we like John will bring men to Christ for salvation, for sanctification, for service.

III. A Humble but Privileged Servant of Christ (vv. 13-17).

The crowning event in the ministry of John was the recognition of Jesus as He came to be baptized. He was deeply conscious of his own unworthiness for this great work and pointed to the coming Saviour as the One in whom they should put their trust (vv. 11 and 14. See also John 1:29). John was not jealous of his own position, nor seeking his own advancement (see v. 3 and John 3:30).

To this faithful and humble servant came the inestimable privilege of baptizing the Saviour. The baptism of Jesus presents a mystery which we cannot fully solve. It is certain that He did not come to be baptized for the remission of sin, for He knew no sin. The best explanation seems to be that in His obedience to His Father He was willing to subject Himself to every ordinance of God—a spirit which is not too common, by the way, among His professed followers. He was not a sinner, but He took the sinner's place, and thus He both entered upon His ministry and pointed forward to that day when God made Him "who knew no sin" to be "made sin for us" so that "we might be made the righteousness of God in Him" (II Cor. 8:21).

Gracious Amid Gloom

Yet for all my Lord's gloom, I find Him sweet, gracious, loving, kind; and I want both pen and words to set forth the fairness, beauty and sweetness of Christ's love, and the honor of this cross of Christ, which is glorious to me, though the world thinketh shame thereof. — Samuel Rutherford.

Loss From Idleness

Because of idle men and machines during the depression the national income has suffered a loss of $200,000,000,000 (billions), according to the National Resources Committee. The report goes on to say that if all the nation's workmen and machines had been concentrated on housing, a new $6,000 house could have been provided for every family in the country. The report, which is "an inquiry into the structure of American economy," also states that the use of these men and machines could have rebuilt the entire industrial plant of the country. It suggests that the time will come when this efficiency will be attained, but it does not say just how.

The statements of the National Resources Board are provocative and will cause many citizens to ask: Why must we have so much misery when this efficiency might be obtained? The answer is in the difficulty that is met in maintaining freedom for the individual under any attempt at wholesale regimentation for efficiency. Obviously, Germany under Hitler, Russia under Stalin and Italy under Mussolini have achieved programs of this type very effectively. But they have submerged the individual instead of making his welfare "the basic objective," as is suggested in the report of the board.

In this day of hysteria and impatience it must be remembered that democratic procedure involves a great deal of muddling through, which is another name for the process of crystallization of public thought on public issues. The board takes cognizance of this, too, in its statement that many years will be required for working out a plan. The report will serve its best purpose if it is accepted as a basis for thoughtful procedure, not as a basis for the high-pressure into existence of a plan such as some of our new-day economists and sociologists would give us.—Dallas News.

Texans Less Able To Pay

Just as some families pay more than the average of taxes and some pay less than the average, so do the people of some states pay more and the people of others pay less. Rich people pay more taxes than poor people, and the people of rich states—high income states—pay more taxes than the people of poor states, or low income states. But taxes are quite as burdensome to poor people as to rich people, sometimes even more burdensome. And taxes are quite as burdensome, and sometimes even more burdensome, in low income states as in high income states.

Texas is among the low income states. According to the United States Department of Commerce, the income of the people of Texas in 1937 was equivalent to $406 per capita, whereas the income of the American people as a whole that year, including Texas, was $522 per capita. In some states it was much higher, in California being $718 per capita and in New York $805 per capita, for example. There are similar contrasts in the volume of retail sales in the various states. In 1935, the year for which the latest figures on retail sales are available, the average for the United States as a whole was $260 per capita, as compared with $213 per capita in Texas, $368 per capita in New York, and $388 per capita in California.

These figures indicate the average income in the United States as a whole in 1937 to have been $2,192 per family, and the retail sales in 1935 in the United States as a whole to have been $1,092 per family. The corresponding figures for Texas are $1,705 income per family and $898 retail sales per family. The income in California was $3,015 per family and the retail sales $1,629 per family, and in New York the income was $3,381 per family and the retail sales $1,545.

Obviously, in the face of these differences, it would not be expected that the total tax bill in Texas would be as great as the average for the country as a whole, or as that of these other states. If it were as great, the burden would be a great deal heavier, because the people of Texas would be less able to pay it.

We do not have to guess about the local and state tax bills in Texas, because we know precisely what they are. And considering the relative income of the people of Texas they are quite as high as elsewhere. Not only that, but during the past fifteen years they have been increasing at an enormous rate. We do not know the precise amount of Federal taxes paid by the people of Texas, but we can estimate it pretty closely. And we know that in Texas, as elsewhere, the total of Federal taxes is much higher than either that of local or of state taxes.—The Taxpayers Digest.

Scallorn H. D. Club

The fact that a child eats a hearty meal is not a sure sign he is not suffering from malnutrition, for many times a large meal does not include what the child needs, or it may be food that is not easily assimilated by the child, said Miss Scott at the local club meeting, which met in the home of Mrs. Ernest Johnston Thursday afternoon, September 28th, 1939.

As soon as most of the members had arrived the fruits and vegetables for the canning contest were judged by the members of the club. Eight jars of fruits and non-acid vegetables were selected to be entered in the county exhibit.

Miss Scott had charge of the program for the afternoon which was "Fashions for the School Lunch." Before giving the demonstrations Miss Scott presented a very interesting and educational discussion on nutrition and the proper foods for the school child. She then demonstrated how to prepare and pack a well-balanced school lunch.

Refreshments were served to sixteen members and five visitors. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ernest Ohlenbusch Thursday afternoon, October 12th, at 2:00 o'clock. Mrs. Dutch Smith will have charge of the program.

Painting Time

People often ask, "What is the best time of year for exterior painting?" The answer is that it is satisfactory to paint outside at any season as long as the surface to be painted is dry and the temperature above the freezing point. But if you examine this statement, you will agree that the fall months—particularly September and October—are most likely to provide ideal painting weather.

The dry atmosphere and heat of summer are apt to have drawn all the water out of wood pores and stucco siding. In the case of frame houses, the wood pores are open and thirsty for paint. The same applies to shingles, exposed millwork and stucco. Thus paint can form a better bond to this dry surface. There is less danger, too, of moisture behind the paint film being sealed up and causing "blisters" or "peeling" at a later date.

All exterior paints need to be anchored to the surface. A moist, greasy or slippery surface doesn't give paint a chance to anchor itself. But a slightly roughened surface which has been washed clean by spring rains and dried thoroughly by the summer sun, does provide this safe anchorage.

The film forming oils and long wearing pigments of DuPont House Paint anchor themselves readily to a clean, dry surface. They not only protect the surface from sun, wind, rain, rot and decay, but also make it more beautiful. As further rains come, they just wash the surface of Du Pont White House Paint and help to keep itself cleaner and whiter.

Other factors which make fall the best season for outside painting are the following:

1. Lack of flies, bugs, gnats and such pests which in hotter seasons may settle on a freshly painted surface and ruin the smooth beauty of the paint.
 2. Less chance of sudden dust storms which might blot dirt over a painted surface before it has dried.
 3. Less chance of unexpected rain storms which might spot a newly painted house.
 4. Better drying weather which enables paint coats to dry more quickly and thus finishes the job sooner.
 5. Brisk, stimulating weather which enables the painter to do his work without fear of sunstroke or numbing of his hands.
- Add these reasons all together, and I think you will agree that their logic indicates that fall is apt to be the ideal season for outside painting.

"I hope that the United States will keep out of this war. I believe that it will. And I give you assurances that every effort of your Government will be directed toward that end. As long as it remains within my power to prevent, there will be no blackout of peace in the United States."

—President Roosevelt.

(Address to the Nation, Sept. 3, 1939)

"STAY OUT OF WAR"

American industry hates war. Its leaders and the rank and file of its membership have again and again reiterated the truth that wartime profits are largely fictitious, and do not repay the subsequent wreckage of a nation's entire economy. But with the big guns actually roaring in Europe, it is exceedingly timely and important to have industry's attitude made plain again.

Recently the National Association of Manufacturers went on record on this subject. We can do no better than to quote high lights from its statement, merely pointing out that the N. A. M. is the largest organization of industrial leaders in the country:

"American industry wants peace," the statement declares. "Peace is the life blood of progress. Peace must be the national objective."

"Industry's position on this matter has been stated repeatedly and there must be no misunderstanding about it."

"The United States can stay out of war."

"Emotionalism can betray us into war."

"A public will to peace, coupled with wise public policies and affirmative action to this end by our government will keep us out of war. A fatalistic attitude that war is inevitable for us is absurd. It presupposes that America cannot conduct itself intelligently to preserve peace and its own interests."

"Europe's problems do not affect us, but our domestic problems still must come first."

"If yesterday industry was the only source of prosperity and reemployment, today it is as well the keystone of preparedness and peace. Under any conditions, America must depend on a smoothly functioning, efficient industrial system."

"Manufacturers will not relax their efforts to achieve and maintain sound improvement in our domestic economy."

At any rate, in a war-troubled world where so many values are being lost or obscured, industry's position is plain. And it can be summed up in four forceful words that all Americans would do well to heed: "Stay out of war!"

Men and Machines

WE'VE ALL HEARD IT SAID that Machines rob men of work, that Machines are enemies of jobs. Let's take a look at the biggest user of machines, the automobile industry, and see if this is true.

Back in 1895 there were only four automobiles in the United States. Those models were built by hand. I don't know what it cost to build them that way but it has been estimated that to build a hand-made model of a modern car would cost $6,000. How many of us could afford a car at that price? We wouldn't keep very many people busy building them, would we?

Today 92 per cent of all cars sell for less than $750. There are 25,449,942 cars registered in the U. S. A. Building those cars means work for thousands!

Taking all industry, an authority estimates that machines have replaced two million men but because those machines have made products faster and better to sell for less, the mass demand has added three million workers. That's a gain of a million workers! So the machine is our friend after all.

— The Silver Lining.

ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?

(This information service on education is brought to you by special arrangement with Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. Questions on education may be submitted through this newspaper.)

Question: How can one stop children from lying?

Reply: Children lie for various reasons — fear of punishment or of being deprived of something they have or want, because they desire to bolster their self-esteem in some way, because a question has been worded so as to suggest a particular answer and they give the answer before they stop to think. They will give the conventional lies they have heard adults give. Moreover, with young children the line between fact and fiction is sometimes very slight. They will tell as truth something they imagined as happening. In all cases the remedy must take into consideration the reasons.

Dr. Ruth Strang of Teachers College, Columbia University, says in regard to methods of preventing children from lying: "In the first place, the habit of lying may be prevented by detecting a child's first attempts, and making him realize that advantage rarely comes of it — that there are usually better ways of meeting situations. The child must learn that lying usually makes a bad situation worse. In the second place, a habit of fearlessness needs to be built up. The child should be approved for moral courage. An appeal may be made to children's admiration of fearlessness and courage, and the connection between physical and moral courage should be pointed out."

"If a child lies in order to make an impression on someone," Dr. Strang points out, "an opportunity should be devised whereby he can satisfy his desire for approval and mastery in some other way. If a child lies through fear of consequence, he may be encouraged in truthfulness by a more just and understanding treatment of his offenses. A very suggestible child will lie without meaning to, and should not be hurried in his answers, but be encouraged to think before he speaks."

Care should be taken not to give a child a feeling of guilt with respect to a falsehood in which he has been detected. The emphasis should be on helping him to learn better ways of meeting everyday situations and crises."

Question: In what subjects are moving pictures most usually employed as an educational medium?

Reply: Social studies and the natural sciences. For teaching history, geography, and civics, the power of the motion picture to present places, persons and situations has been found exceptionally valuable. As valuable have been the numerous films on science in depicting natural phenomena which otherwise could not be studied to advantage in the classroom.

Films have been shown by experimental studies to be useful in teaching many other subjects — from English to athletics. There are new film releases in the fields of household arts, vocational guidance, music, and physical education. The increasing number of available educational films promises new possibilities in many areas of the modern curriculum.

Question: Approximately what proportion of students in elementary and secondary schools have defective vision?

Reply: In a study made in 1928 by the U. S. Public Health Service of 1,860 school children in Washington, D. C., it was found that 34 per cent of the entire group needed glasses for constant use, and that another 10 per cent needed them for close work. 63 per cent of the group was found to be far-sighted, 5.5 per cent to be near-sighted, and 28 per cent with astigmatism of some sort, making up a total of over 96 per cent who had errors of refraction of one sort or another. This examination was conducted very carefully. It was revealed that the simple vision acuity test often used found only a small per cent of refractive errors.

Another survey conducted by the National Education Association and the American Medical Association in connection with the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness showed in 1925 that 12 per cent of the five million elementary school children examined in 375 cities of over 10,000 population had defective vision. This did not include the children with vision corrected to normal by glasses or by operation. The higher figures revealed in the Washington survey is undoubtedly because of the more accurate method of testing.

School physicians have noted that each successive grade shows a higher per cent of pupils wearing glasses until a maximum is reached among college students.

A careful annual examination of the vision of each child in school, the fitting of glasses to all that need them, and better illumination in school rooms are steps to be taken in remedying this condition.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE FORERUNNER OF THE KING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 3:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.—Matthew 3:3.

When an earthly king visits his dominions or makes a journey to another land, great preparations are made for his coming. Everything is done to expedite his journey and to assure him of safety and comfort. The United States and Canada have recently had that interesting experience. The King of kings and Lord of Lords who in loving kindness and gracious condescension had come to earth to be our Redeemer had now grown to manhood and was prepared to enter on His public ministry. God sent John to be His forerunner to prepare the way and to herald His coming.

I. A Herald Prophetically Foretold (vv. 1, 3, 4).

The coming of John (usually called the Baptist) was of such vital concern to God that He had revealed it to His prophets hundreds of years before (see Isa. 40:3). We should study and believe the message of the prophets. The same prophecies that pointed to John the Baptist and Christ's first coming also point to the second coming (Mal. 3:1-6; 4:1-6). We know the former took place, why should we doubt the fulfillment of the latter? We do well to take heed to the word of prophecy (II Pet. 1:19).

Let us also prepare the way of the Lord, not as John did, for his was a special ministry, but by making ways for the gospel to reach the hearts of men. We can remove hindrances and obstructions, preparing their hearts to receive Him as Saviour and Lord.

II. An Unusual Man with a Burning Message (vv. 2, 6-12).

What an arresting appearance John must have made as he emerged to the edge of the wilderness to present his startling message! God had kept him (like Moses and others) in the quiet of the desert where He could talk with him, away from the distractions of so-called civilization. This simple living had made John a striking personality, quite unusual and unconventional. The man who strives for such an appearance to attract attention is but a fool, but on the other hand unconventionality will not destroy one's usefulness if he has a message from God.

The preaching of John was a burning message of repentance. There had been no prophetic message since the time of Malachi, and in the intervening 400 years the religious life of the Jews had settled down into a barren legalistic formalism. John came with a simple, practical, and plain-spoken indictment of sin, which led to repentance and which made religion vital and real again.

We know that the gospel of the grace of God in Christ goes far beyond the preaching of John. But we also know that the Church needs to get back to the proclamation of a vital heart-searching message, and some genuine old-fashioned repentance. Then we like John will bring men to Christ for salvation, for sanctification, for service.

III. A Humble but Privileged Servant of Christ (vv. 13-17).

The crowning event in the ministry of John was the recognition of Jesus as He came to be baptized. He was deeply conscious of his own unworthiness for this great work and pointed to the coming Saviour as the One in whom they should put their trust (vv. 11 and 14. See also John 1:29). John was not jealous of his own position, nor seeking his own advancement (see v. 3 and John 3:30).

To this faithful and humble servant came the inestimable privilege of baptizing the Saviour. The baptism of Jesus presents a mystery which we cannot fully solve. It is certain that He did not come to be baptized for the remission of sin, for He knew no sin. The best explanation seems to be that in His obedience to His Father He was willing to subject Himself to every ordinance of God—a spirit which is not too common, by the way, among His professed followers. He was not a sinner, but He took the sinner's place, and thus He both entered upon His ministry and pointed forward to that day when God made Him "who knew no sin" to be "made sin for us" so that "we might be made the righteousness of God in Him" (II Cor. 8:21).

Gracious Amid Gloom

Yet for all my Lord's gloom, I find Him sweet, gracious, loving, kind; and I want both pen and words to set forth the fairness, beauty and sweetness of Christ's love, and the honor of this cross of Christ, which is glorious to me, though the world thinketh shame thereof. — Samuel Rutherford.

Loss From Idleness

Because of idle men and machines during the depression the national income has suffered a loss of $200,000,000,000 (billions), according to the National Resources Committee. The report goes on to say that if all the nation's workmen and machines had been concentrated on housing, a new $6,000 house could have been provided for every family in the country. The report, which is "an inquiry into the structure of American economy," also states that the use of these men and machines could have rebuilt the entire industrial plant of the country. It suggests that the time will come when this efficiency will be attained, but it does not say just how.

The statements of the National Resources Board are provocative and will cause many citizens to ask: Why must we have so much misery when this efficiency might be obtained? The answer is in the difficulty that is met in maintaining freedom for the individual under any attempt at wholesale regimentation for efficiency. Obviously, Germany under Hitler, Russia under Stalin and Italy under Mussolini have achieved programs of this type very effectively. But they have submerged the individual instead of making his welfare "the basic objective," as is suggested in the report of the board.

In this day of hysteria and impatience it must be remembered that democratic procedure involves a great deal of muddling through, which is another name for the process of crystallization of public thought on public issues. The board takes cognizance of this, too, in its statement that many years will be required for working out a plan. The report will serve its best purpose if it is accepted as a basis for thoughtful procedure, not as a basis for the high-pressure into existence of a plan such as some of our new-day economists and sociologists would give us.—Dallas News.

Texans Less Able To Pay

Just as some families pay more than the average of taxes and some pay less than the average, so do the people of some states pay more and the people of others pay less. Rich people pay more taxes than poor people, and the people of rich states—high income states—pay more taxes than the people of poor states, or low income states. But taxes are quite as burdensome to poor people as to rich people, sometimes even more burdensome. And taxes are quite as burdensome, and sometimes even more burdensome, in low income states as in high income states.

Texas is among the low income states. According to the United States Department of Commerce, the income of the people of Texas in 1937 was equivalent to $406 per capita, whereas the income of the American people as a whole that year, including Texas, was $522 per capita. In some states it was much higher, in California being $718 per capita and in New York $805 per capita, for example. There are similar contrasts in the volume of retail sales in the various states. In 1935, the year for which the latest figures on retail sales are available, the average for the United States as a whole was $260 per capita, as compared with $213 per capita in Texas, $368 per capita in New York, and $388 per capita in California.

These figures indicate the average income in the United States as a whole in 1937 to have been $2,192 per family, and the retail sales in 1935 in the United States as a whole to have been $1,092 per family. The corresponding figures for Texas are $1,705 income per family and $898 retail sales per family. The income in California was $3,015 per family and the retail sales $1,629 per family, and in New York the income was $3,381 per family and the retail sales $1,545.

Obviously, in the face of these differences, it would not be expected that the total tax bill in Texas would be as great as the average for the country as a whole, or as that of these other states. If it were as great, the burden would be a great deal heavier, because the people of Texas would be less able to pay it.

We do not have to guess about the local and state tax bills in Texas, because we know precisely what they are. And considering the relative income of the people of Texas they are quite as high as elsewhere. Not only that, but during the past fifteen years they have been increasing at an enormous rate. We do not know the precise amount of Federal taxes paid by the people of Texas, but we can estimate it pretty closely. And we know that in Texas, as elsewhere, the total of Federal taxes is much higher than either that of local or of state taxes.—The Taxpayers Digest.

Scallorn H. D. Club

The fact that a child eats a hearty meal is not a sure sign he is not suffering from malnutrition, for many times a large meal does not include what the child needs, or it may be food that is not easily assimilated by the child, said Miss Scott at the local club meeting, which met in the home of Mrs. Ernest Johnston Thursday afternoon, September 28th, 1939.

As soon as most of the members had arrived the fruits and vegetables for the canning contest were judged by the members of the club. Eight jars of fruits and non-acid vegetables were selected to be entered in the county exhibit.

Miss Scott had charge of the program for the afternoon which was "Fashions for the School Lunch." Before giving the demonstrations Miss Scott presented a very interesting and educational discussion on nutrition and the proper foods for the school child. She then demonstrated how to prepare and pack a well-balanced school lunch.

Refreshments were served to sixteen members and five visitors. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ernest Ohlenbusch Thursday afternoon, October 12th, at 2:00 o'clock. Mrs. Dutch Smith will have charge of the program.

Painting Time

People often ask, "What is the best time of year for exterior painting?" The answer is that it is satisfactory to paint outside at any season as long as the surface to be painted is dry and the temperature above the freezing point. But if you examine this statement, you will agree that the fall months—particularly September and October—are most likely to provide ideal painting weather.

The dry atmosphere and heat of summer are apt to have drawn all the water out of wood pores and stucco siding. In the case of frame houses, the wood pores are open and thirsty for paint. The same applies to shingles, exposed millwork and stucco. Thus paint can form a better bond to this dry surface. There is less danger, too, of moisture behind the paint film being sealed up and causing "blisters" or "peeling" at a later date.

All exterior paints need to be anchored to the surface. A moist, greasy or slippery surface doesn't give paint a chance to anchor itself. But a slightly roughened surface which has been washed clean by spring rains and dried thoroughly by the summer sun, does provide this safe anchorage.

The film forming oils and long wearing pigments of DuPont House Paint anchor themselves readily to a clean, dry surface. They not only protect the surface from sun, wind, rain, rot and decay, but also make it more beautiful. As further rains come, they just wash the surface of Du Pont White House Paint and help to keep itself cleaner and whiter.

Other factors which make fall the best season for outside painting are the following:

1. Lack of flies, bugs, gnats and such pests which in hotter seasons may settle on a freshly painted surface and ruin the smooth beauty of the paint.
 2. Less chance of sudden dust storms which might blow dirt over a painted surface before it has dried.
 3. Less chance of unexpected rain storms which might spot a newly painted house.
 4. Better drying weather which enables paint coats to dry more quickly and thus finishes the job sooner.
 5. Brisk, stimulating weather which enables the painter to do his work without fear of sunstroke or numbing of his hands.
- Add these reasons all together, and I think you will agree that their logic indicates that fall is apt to be the ideal season for outside painting.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT—

H. A. Street And Edgar Wilson Burned to Death

For Street included William E. Street, J. H. Brock, J. C. Sanders, W. A. Fox and Walter Word, all of Lubbock, and R. T. Roane, highway department resident engineer at Floydada. Bearers for Wilson were Robert H. Bean, William H. Evans, Judge E. L. Pitts, Neil H. Wright, Homer D. Grant and James Milam.

Street was reared in Goldthwaite from where the Street family moved here in January, 1924, and for a number of years was associated with his father in the cotton business here. Later he moved to San Angelo, then went to Silverton. He has been working for the state highway department for the past two years but had resigned and was planning to come back to Lubbock where he had secured a position with the Dalby Motor Freight Co. The Street family and Wilson planned to complete moving from Silverton to Lubbock Monday and already had sent one load of their belongings here.

Street attended business college in Waco and at one time was a student at Texas A. & M. college, College Station. He was born in Star, Mills County, Texas, on October 26, 1896.

Immediately upon being apprised of the tragedy by telephone early Sunday morning, Vaughn Wilson raced to Silverton where he attended to necessary details and viewed the scene of the fire. He learned there that after a neighbor woman had been aroused by the flames and smoke, she ran around the Street home, shouting a warning, then went to a phone and called the volunteer fire department. The fireman, believing the Streets to be attending a dance, went to work to fight the blaze and it was not until sometime later it was discovered that the family was in the home.

Firemen battered their way in and found the victims, removing Mrs. Street and Mary Mildred immediately to the Plainview hospital, where they were placed under the care of doctors about 2:30 Sunday morning. —Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

The little girl and her mother both died Wednesday and were buried in a double funeral. The people of Goldthwaite and Mills county deeply sympathize with the Street family, who lived in Star and later in Goldthwaite, and were held in high esteem by all who knew them.

Mrs. McLeod Dead

Word was received here Thursday that Mrs. J. A. McLeod, a pioneer citizen of Goldthwaite, in the early days, had died at her home in Handley, Texas, and would be buried at North Brown cemetery Friday (today) at 1:00 o'clock.

Are Their Ears Red?

On the day the super-World War broke, Samuel Grafton in the New York Post (Ind.) insisted it was a national duty to remember that "only a month ago some of the tubbier Republican politicians in the land were sassing the President over his earnestly propounded neutrality proposals. They didn't know," he recalls, "that the gun was loaded. They thought it was just a game called 'Bite the President.' They believed they had a man by the ankle and it turns out to have been a world. Maybe as they stand before their mirrors and shave there is a little whisper insisting to their red ears: 'If you had allowed a vote on this momentous matter there might not have been this terrible crisis.' That is not a good thought for a man to live with, if he has any conscience at all. It must produce a sinking feeling after those last hysterical days of July, when the bi-partisan coalition went running up and down the Capitol corridors, giving out harse little cries and conducting the business of the great Republic like a street corner gang fight.

"They voted against aid to Britain and France. That is the spirit in which a two-by-four town selects a dog catcher. In that spirit of resolute littleness the most influential nation on earth made its legal contribution to the cause of world peace. They had it all settled in their minds. 'The President is a warmonger!' Wheel — and they swung the loaded stocking.

"Their shriek decided how a committee should vote but it did not tell the South what to do with the 6,000,000 bales of cotton it must export each year or die; what the auto factories of Michigan will do with the 20 per cent of their motor trucks which must ride the high seas; what the great American shipping companies are to do with their empty cargo vessels; what American industry is to do to get the tin and rubber, etc., it must import with British help. One must be able to count above five to figure out a means of keeping the greatest exporting country alive while keeping it rigidly isolated. In July the boys had the blind bi-partisan staggers and gave every indication of not being able to see at all."
