By Nugent Ezekiel Brown

Austin. — Here's hot news! The latest dope is that a straight cut natural resources tax way be allowed to pass the senate this session. The House will always pass such a tax, but heretofore, it would die in the upper house. Dissatisfaction from last summer's elections, has caused, so the story goes, a certain highly placed individual may surprise the major oil companies by turning on them and help through a good-sized natural resource tax on the Governor's lap. If this happens, and there is ground for the belief, it will be a big surprise package for the majors.

Coming Events

The 47th Legislature will open Tuesday, January 14th, when Homer Leonard of Allen is expected to be elected speaker. His policies will be more or less a continuation of the policies of his predecessor, Emmett Morse. While the chairman of all important committees will be carefully chosen, yet the fact that 94 members in the House are new means most anything can happen before the session ends. Governor O'Daniel and Lt. Gov. Coke Stevenson will be inaugurated Tuesday, January 21. Following the ceremony in the hall of the House of Representatives, a barbecue will be served on the Mansion Grounds, to be followed by the ball at night. There will be no big crowds as was the case two years ago.

Omens of Better Government
Two distinct steps forward in more responsible government for Texas were made in Austin this week, the inauguration of Judge Olin Culberson as a railroad commissioner and the advancement of Reuben Williams to the chairmanship of the insurance board. Before a crowd of hundreds of friends from all over Texas, who jammed the senate chamber, Olin Culberson took the oath of office and then announced a set of proposed regulations, which if concurred in by the other two commissioners, will mean much to the oil industry of Texas. He proposed that no order shall be entered by the railroad commission affecting any matter under its control until after ten days' notice and a public hearing. This order will do away with the "political influence" lawyers who have thrived in Austin to a great extent heretofore. Judge Culberson immediately began the job of selecting 98 employees (his third of the personnel) out of more than 1000 written applications. A dozen changes had already been made the first two days.

Reuben Williams, casualty insurance commissioner for the past three months by appointment of O'Daniel, was named by

WAR HITS TULIPS

Even the flower beds at Texas State College for Women are feeling the effects of the European war. Known all over the Southwest for its beautiful tulip beds, TSCW next spring will not have a single tulip from Holland for the first time in 13 years. Instead the bulbs will come from Holland, Mich., and Tacoma, Wash.

Hospital buyers ordinarily purchase mattresses with an 8-ounce ticking, which means that a yard of ticking 32 inches wide weighs 8 ounces. Home economists, too, urge consumers to insist on at least 8 ounce ticking, either when making or buying mattresses.

JUNIOR REPORT

Well, we are ready to start to work again after a ten days vacation. We had an extra week added to our vacation, which, I am sure, pleased most of us. We enjoyed the holidays very much.

Alta Mae Marshall visited friends in Raymondville. Mr. Lowe went to Lometa, his home town and visited his relatives.

Miss Hoting spent the holidays with her relatives in Brenham, which is her home town.

Miss Welch spent the holidays at home.

We Juniors have started reviewing for the mid-term examinations which will be later than expected.

SENIOR REPORT

The Senior class gives welcome to Christine Metz, a former student of Mingus High School, Mingus, Texas.

The seniors report one hundred per cent on the flu. Our second week of holidays were deeply appreciated by all.

With mid-term examinations coming next week, the seniors seem to be busy and studying pretty good. Certainly hoping everyone will do his very best and thus have our full class as graduating seniors in the spring.

SPOTLIGHT

Lorine Burks

We focus the spotlight this week first on Lorine Burks. Lorine is one of the best students in the senior class. She is one of the five making a straight E. We sincerely hope she continues with the good work.

Lorine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Burks and now resides in the Lake Merritt community. She commutes to school daily on one of the school buses.

Lorine entered the first grade at Brownwood and went there two years. She attended the Priddy school the next three years and the next two at Newburg, in Comanche county. She was valedictorian of the seventh grade. She was in the eighth grade at Mt. Olive. These last three years have been spent in Goldthwaite.

She is a member of the Student Forum and Home Economics Club.

She plans to take a business course. She hasn't decided where she will take the course yet.

James Collier

There's one in every class! A red-headed, freckle-faced boy! In the noble class of 1941, James Collier is that boy.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Collier. He has lived in Goldthwaite all his life and has also attended school only in Goldthwaite.

At the present James belongs to no school club, but during the football season, he was manager.

James plans to be an engineer. He wants to get his training at Texas Technological College.

THE LITTLE MAN WHO WASN'T THERE

You have probably heard of unusual hobbies but Buddy Stokes has an unusual one sure enough. He collects telephone numbers.

It seems as though Hope and Pat have some common interests, at least they did Saturday night.

We wonder when L. B. learned to be such a skilled mechanic. Anyway, he seems to know how to remove parts of cars.

Norma, if you went to church Sunday night, why was it that you got only five hours of sleep?

Virginia wonders who the bold person is who shoots firecrackers on her front porch.

Joe, if you'd learn that you must grow up some day, you might stand a better chance with the girls. Cleda the sore arm gag is okay.

Alta Mae wonders why the phone never rings from 207W anymore.

Why was it Sam and Stoddard were so excited when the new girl entered English IV class? Could it have been because there was an empty seat between them?

Sybil, will you never quit having the flu?

Foy Von and Iharhea were seen investigating the lovers seats in the show at Hamilton.

Walters old car needs greasing, eh?

We wonder if Bobbie Obenhaus likes o'possum hunting.

Jack Kelso and Robbie Moreland were seen out Saturday night.

What do you know? James Collier actually parted with enough money to treat seven people Sunday afternoon.

Everyone was thrilled a couple of weeks ago when they learned that there would be an extra week for the holidays. We regret to say that the reason for this was because of so much illness. The extra week helped. Almost every pupil was in school Monday and resumed the regular schedule feeling much better after the long rest.

We sincerely hope that that man with a long white beard dressed in red commonly known as Santa Claus, was good to all of you. Although it is after New Year's day, we wish to take this time to wish you all a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Next week on the 15th and 16th we will all be very busy taking the mid-term examinations which are scheduled for that time. In the years before this, we have had many failures in various subjects. Fellow students work between now and then and let's have fewer this year than ever before.

FRESHMAN REPORT

We can certainly tell that everyone enjoyed the Christmas and New Year's holidays by the way they can't answer any questions. We hope everyone had a swell time. (I'm sure I did.)

We are glad to report that we have a new freshman in our class. She is Laura Joe Gaugh from Shreveport, Louisiana.

It seems as if somebody in the freshman class still believes in Santa Claus. They sat up to see him or was it to see somebody else? How about it, Horton?

SOPHOMORE REPORT

The Sophomores have now returned to their classes after fully enjoying the extra long holidays.

Monday morning in the sophomore room before the first bell rang, everyone was talking about what Santa Claus brought them.

Several of the students are still absent due to illness. However, the rest of the sophomores are attending classes regularly.

During the next week or two, we will be reviewing for the mid-term examinations in most of the classes. Some of the reviews have already started.

No grades will be issued on the report cards until all of the library fines have been paid, so some of the sophomores are raking the money together to pay the fines they owe.

Four and one-half million dollars worth of blue surplus food stamps were distributed through the Food Stamp Plan during the month of August in the 125 areas throughout the United States where the plan was in operation.

Startling Facts Told of Alloys

Denton. — Calling the present an "age of alloys" and predicting that all metals must compete more and more in the future with plastics, Ernest S. Hediger, Swiss lecturer and former employee of the League of Nations' International Labor Office, told an audience at the North Texas State Teachers College recently that magnesium is listed as the number one defense material of the world, yet not one of the world's industrial nations has a major supply of the vital metal.

Principal war-time use of magnesium, Hediger said is in making incendiary bombs. When Chamberlain handed over Austria—land of the biggest magnesium deposits in the world—to Hitler, Hediger said, he gave him the magnesium supply for making incendiary bombs that are now falling on London.

This was the fourth in a series of lectures given on the campus by the lecturer. Four other lectures were given on "The Economic Resources of the Americas," "The Economic Resources of the British Empire," "Japan and China," and "Germany and Italy."

In a lecture on cotton earlier Hediger declared that a long continuation of the China-Japanese conflict would greatly lessen Japanese competition in the cotton markets with the United States but that victory on the part of the Japanese would mean Japanese control of China's cotton markets. The cotton famine brought about in Asia by the first World War, Hediger said, was responsible for the development of Japanese cotton factories that turned out extremely cheap cotton goods bought by the poor masses of China and India.

The cotton war, Hediger said, has caused England to keep all her cotton, which comes from her possessions, at home; Germany to use synthetic substitutes; Italy to develop synthetic substitutes and plan so divert the course of the Nile so as to irrigate her own fields in Ethiopia and thus destroy the Egyptian cotton crops.

Tin, an alloy in engine and automobile manufacture and a vital material for canning an army's food, may be cut off from the western world, Hediger declared, by fast-moving events in the Far East motivated by the hunger with which Japan is regarding the wealth of the Dutch East Indies. Such an eventuality, he said, would be a difficult emergency for the United States which consumes one half of the tin in the world and which at present has no important tin mines in its own territories and no major smelters.

Recent discussions between Bolivian tin king and Washington authorities, Hediger said, probably indicate plans to establish tin smelters in the United States—possibly at Corpus Christi. American interests, he said, now control 50 per cent of Bolivian tin.

Examination of 4,157 pupils in 17 junior high schools in New York City revealed that five per cent of the boys and less than one-half of one per cent of the girls were color blind.

Rare Books Recd. By Texas Librarian

Austin. — Five rare books—part of the first brought to the American continent—have been acquired by the University of Texas at the Latin-American Collection.

The volumes were acquired in 1937 as a part of the library of Joaquin Grijalva, Mexican collector, scholar, included in the first European edition of Thomas More's Utopia, published in Switzerland.

These 400-year-old volumes with the original owner's nature still eligible—a collection of 150 books, the New World in 1528, Zumarraga, first bishop of Mexico and sponsor of the American printing press.

Huge Fire Losses
 Would Buy Much

Austin. — The value of insured property alone, destroyed by fire in Texas each year, would go a long way toward solving the relief problem or building up our national defense, Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner said.
 Texas has an annual insured fire loss of approximately nine and one-half million dollars, the commissioner declared, and if this amount of money could be saved it would pay for 950 war planes costing $10,000 each, or pay one-half the cost of one of the world's finest first-line battleships.
 It would pay the cost of food, clothing and shelter for more than 9,000 families for a period of one year. This amount of money would build 1,900 modern one-family suburban homes sheltering 9,500 people—the population of an average Texas city.

THE FINE SEASON

It's just once in a blue moon Mills county has such a fine deep moisture in the ground. Creeks are up, streams and branches running and water standing in tiny crevices.

This time last year we were running low temperature cold and freezing, with snow on the warmer days, through January and February. Frozen water pipes were contagious it seemed. Water was the hue and cry of the majority of the good citizens and if it was not water, then it was wood and more wood two very essentials. So count your blessings that 1941 is giving this January.

New Open Cities To Result from War

Austin. — One real contribution to civilization may be expected from World War II — a newer, better architecture for crowded, unsanitary European cities, a University of Texas architect predicts.

W. T. Rolfe, chairman of the University's architecture department, bracketed the current war along with history's other major catastrophes as "a cause of sudden architectural change."

Rolfe believes that Europe will re-build her bomb-leveled cities in a more decentralized manner, somewhat reminiscent of that trend in America—a community center city.

"In spite of the fact that European architecture will certainly reflect the influence of the victor, her rebuilt cities will spread over wider areas as people begin to take advantage of modern transportation facilities."

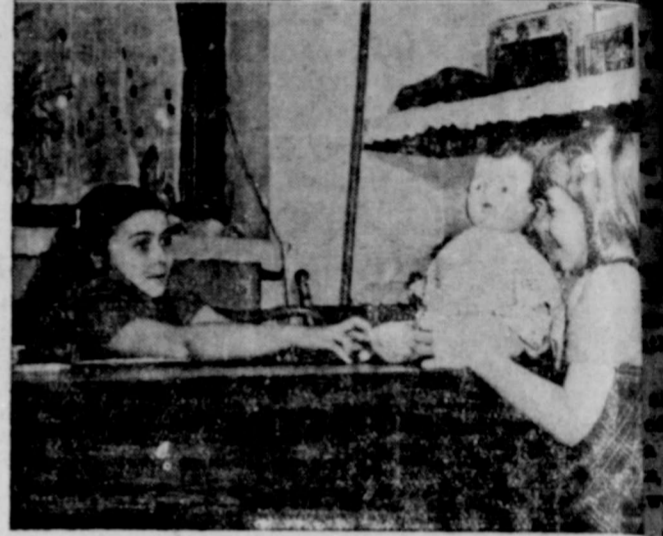

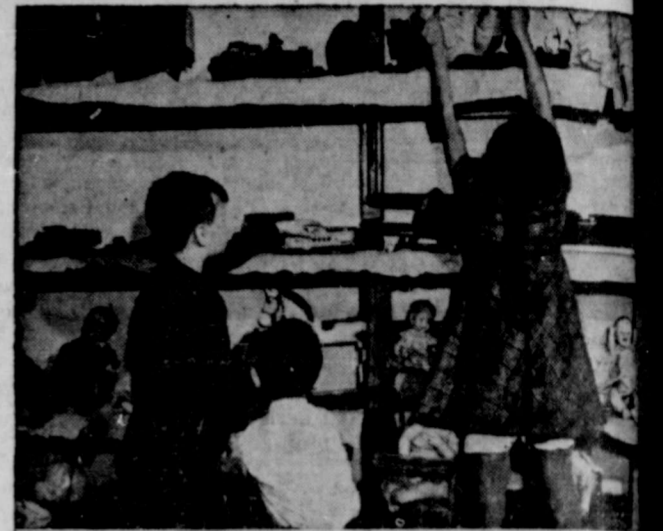

"Communities will emerge with convenient neighborhood shopping centers and humanized shelter, designed to relieve the unsanitary, unsafe and crowded conditions of large cities."

Adventists Training To Save Lives

Keene, Jan. 9.—Seventh-Day Adventist students, whose religion forbids bearing arms in war, are using the usual Christmas vacation period to prepare themselves as medical auxiliaries if the country ever needs them.

Draft-age youths who are of Seventh-Day Adventist faith are here from throughout the Southwest to take a three-week train-

Toy Library for Under-privileged Children

For underprivileged, toyless children, there is the toy library these days. The toyery, a notable scheme to contribute to the contentment of indigent little ones, is at last taking on the dimensions of a national undertaking, what with chapters opening up in many sections of the country. The plan duplicates library procedure, substituting playthings for books. The toyery is no transitory holiday project, but a year-round enterprise ing course at their denominational school, Southeastern Junior College, as part of a medical cadet corps.

The course will end on Jan. 7. Before that each youth will receive 216 hours of instruction in military science, military drill, advanced Red Cross instruction and denominational principles. Emphasis is being placed on stretcher drills, first aid and hospital service.

The school is being conducted on advice of the U. S. Army Surgeon General under a program designed by Army officials.

A spokesman described the school's purpose as follows: "Seventh-Day Adventists have been exempted from combatant service in all of America's wars because of conscientious scruples against taking human life. Nevertheless, they would not have their non-combatant stand confused with conscientious objection to serving their country either in war or peace.

"They offer, at their own expense, to train themselves in the service of saving life rather than that of destroying life."

Elder R. J. Roy of Keene, secretary of Missionary Volunteers and Education in the Southwestern Adventist Conference, arranged for the camp here. Dr. E. N. Dick of Union College, Lincoln, Neb., is director. Assistants are Cadet Lieut. George Stone of Union College; Prof. Stanley Kanneberg of Ozark College, Gentry, Ark., and Carlyle B. Haynes of Washington.

Keene is a Johnson county community about 40 miles Southwest of Fort Worth, and is populated almost entirely by Seventh-Day Adventists. Members of the church observe Saturday as the Sabbath and strictly tithe their incomes. — Fort Worth Press.

WORKERS CONFERENCE

The Mills county Baptist work- ers conference will be of an un- usual nature this month. It will convene with the Center City Church next Wednesday, Janu- ary 15, at 10 a. m. At noon lunch will be served by the church to all comers. In the afternoon a program of rare interest will be given. At the evening hour there will be a continued service at Star at 7:30 o'clock and one at the same hour at Goldthwaite.

The program will be given by a group of workers from various parts of Texas, all a part of the four-year program being promo- ted by the Baptist Sunday School Board, in the interest of trained workers.

The out-of-association work- ers to be heard will be Rev. Her- man Davis, Dallas; Miss Nella Casement, Dallas; Miss Fernet- ta Hines, Dallas; Paul Counts, Abilene, and one other whose name is yet unknown.

Special effort is being made to get every church represented in all three of these meetings. The evening services have been arranged with the hope of en- listing all young people especial- ly. At Goldthwaite in the even- ing, the following will give the program: Rev. Herman Davis, Miss Nella Casement and Miss Fernetta Foley. At the same hour at Star the program will be put on by Rev. R. G. Command- er, Mr. Edgar Hines and Paul Counts.

Inasmuch as the Sunday School Board is going to the ex- pense to bring this competent team of workers into our asso- ciation to help us make progress, there will surely be a widespread response manifest in the atten- dance. Please come.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

E. E. Dawson, Pastor

In spite of the epidemic we got off to a fair start last Sun- day. Now that the illness is sub- siding, we hope for an increase in every line of work next Sun- day, and a rising tide as the year progresses. If your plans for the year do not include church attendance, put it in yet and make the year one of spiritual development. What the year holds for us is beyond the fore- cast of any human being. But it is certain we can make ready to meet all eventualities by be- ing in fellowship with God.

All the regular services will be held next Sunday at the regular hours. "The Concern of the Saints" will be the subject of the pulpit messages both hours.

Affectionate welcome awaits you.

First Methodist Church

Serving the Community

W. H. Marshall, Minister.

Did you go to church last Sunday? Do you go to church when you can? If you don't go to church have you ever asked yourself just why you don't?

No, I don't think any of us should go to church as a mat- ter of duty. To go to church is something more than a matter of duty, it is a great privilege. We are Americans. America is here. Not because men stayed away from church, but because men felt the privilege of the church and what the church means to any society or people.

Listen, why don't you take yourself for a walk, and ask yourself just why you don't go to church. That question put honestly to yourself might startle you. Anyway, boys, it is real- ly a sad day for any man when he gets to the place in life where he puts other matters ahead of his privilege to wor- ship his God. Let every good man go to church next Sunday. I hope you will.

Quick Freezers a Help to Farmers

Austin.—"Community centers of the future" will be the ice houses of yesterday, restored to popularity by the growing rural and urban need for extensive freezing facilities, a University of Texas engineer believes.

W. R. Woolrich, University en- gineering dean, sees in the lock- er storage plant the answer to the farmer's perpetual problem of preserving perishable foods for an all-year market.

In such buildings, he said, both housewives and merchants will be able to store vegetables, fruit and meat for use through- out the year.

In many localities ice man- ufacturers can offer freezing and storage facilities at a reasonable cost, while in other places the work may be undertaken as a cooperative project, Dean Wool- rich said.

Although the construction of freezing equipment has in the past been a costly process, the invention of low-cost machines like one now being patented by University engineers has brought the advantages of quick-freezing within the reach of the small farmer, he explained.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Morris and son of Hobbs, N. M., have been visiting relatives in Goldthwaite. Mrs. Morris' sister, Miss Chris- tine Hill accompanied them home for a visit.

The Passing of Mrs. Paul McCullough

The Death Angel came silent- ly and swiftly on December 28 and wafted the sweet spirit of Charlotte Mingus McCullough to that Heavenly home where sick- ness, sorrow nor tears ever come but all is peace and joy and watchful waiting for the loved ones left behind.

Charlotte was an unusual character, and was loved by all who knew her, always ready to assist in any social or religious affairs, unselfish to a degree and talented in so many ways that made life attractive not only to her loved ones, but also to her many friends and ac- quaintances.

She will be missed in all cir- cles in Goldthwaite and else- where, as well as her home for her dainty hands had magic in them when they touched the things of every day life and made more beautiful the attrac- tive home and surroundings.

Charlotte Mingus McCullough was born at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Simpson near Hico and spent her girlhood in Hico, graduating from Hico High School. She then finished Jun- ior College at John Tarleton, Stephenville and received her degree from C. I. A. at Denton. She taught in the High Schools of Hico and Abilene.

At Easter, 1935, she was mar- ried to Paul McCullough. To this union was born one child, Mi- chael, age 3. Besides her hus- band and small son, she is sur- vived by her father, Frank Min- gus of Hico. (Her mother hav- ing died a little more than a year ago,) and a brother, Odie Mingus now living in Aruba, Dutch Indies, a sister, Mrs. James Bauknight, of Ganado, and a number of other rela- tives many of whom were pre- sent.

Yuletide

For all the joys the season brought, For every kindly deed and thought, For every gift that came our way And brought a joyous Christmas day, Gifts of God's love born from above, Accept our gratitude and love, It's dear to be remembered now When frost has painted silver brow.

May He who guides the rolling sphere, Bring changing seasons of the year, Who guides the wild birds in their flight, Throughout the dark and track- less night, Protect the sparrow lest it fall, Who holds dominion over all, Guide and protect you on your way, To glories of a cloudless day.

—J. S. Bowles.

GREETINGS

She would be indeed glad to hear from old friends and loved ones from this county where she is so kindly remembered by many.

Which shared the best she had With all who would receive it.

In the spacious field beyond our seeing, Grant her employment of her every talent, And fulfill any broken yester- days unto Thyself, Surround this family with the love and trust of friends, Buoy them up with the Everlasting arms of Thy com- passion, And to Thee we shall give the praise and the glory Through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

DEAR MR. MUSSOLINI—

Mr. Un-Benito Mussolini,
Out-on-a-Balcony,
Rome, Italy.

Dear Un-Benito:

I don't know whether you have changed your name yet or not, but if Benito means something like happy or blessed or lucky, it sure doesn't fit you today. Seems to me like you're about the unluckiest Italian since J. Caesar got it in the neck.

So I'm going to do a little sympathizing while you hold your aching head and mumble "I came, I saw, I got conked."

It sure is a tough break, Un-Benito, old boy! Here you had everything figured out so good. You waited until France was down and out before you sneaked in her back door and grabbed some of the vittles. And you didn't aim to fight England at all if she would just let you have the Suez Canal quiet and peaceful. So as soon as those Australian soldiers made a face at you, you stopped that glorious war in Egypt and started one in Greece. Only England didn't stop.

It sure was hot Greece for you. I'll bet the reverse gears of all those tanks and trucks you had in Albania are all wore out from backing up so far — those that the Greeks haven't captured.

And all those battleships and cruisers and destroyers that England chased behind the guns of Taranto weren't even safe there. Now England has cut loose again and just about wiped you off the map at Bardia.

But the worst is yet to come. After you've got licked good and proper, your fine friend, Adolf Hitler is going to step in and "protect" you in the good old German way, and that's where you'll lose your shirt sure enough.

It's too bad, Un-Benito, but it's all your own fault. You ought to have stayed in the Bush leagues fighting bare-footed Ethiopians and such like instead of matching a scrap with real fighters like the English and the Greeks. You could have pranced up and down that balcony, sticking out your chin and shaking your fist, and your folks would have gone on being fooled into thinking you were somebody come.

Now, what do they think about you? Don't answer, cause we couldn't print it.

According to your style of fighting, now is the time that big Uncle Sam ought to jump on you with both feet and trim you up to where you'd be real peaceable.

But we don't want to fight you, Un-Benito. We remember Christopher Columbus was the first Italian immigrant, and we've had a lot of others just as good as well as a few bad eggs that really smell. But we've got a little suggestion to make. Seems like you're squawking about our helping England in her fight against your big boss, Adolf.

SO WHAT?

Better lay off that stuff, Un-Benito. You'd better be thankful Uncle Sam isn't trading punches with your chin. We've never had a fight with Italy, but back in our short-pants days we had a scrap with Spain, and just ask them what it is like.

The trouble with you and Adolf is you bragged so long and loud you got to believing yourself. Well, it never pays to believe a liar, as you're right now finding out. And

ATTACK ON AMERICA
By GENERAL ARD WHITE WNU Release

● Today, more than ever, you and we are glad to live in the United States, to be members of the greatest democracy in the world.

But we do not stop to think that it may not always be thus. Do we realize that our country has a weakness which might spell disaster should we be invaded? Do we know how easily such an invasion might be accomplished?

For the complete, unvarnished facts read this new bombshell serial.

IN THIS NEWSPAPER

THE NEWSPAPER

Free Symbol of a Free America

Sometimes it is a genuine pleasure to lift our eyes momentarily from our own individual fields of effort and pay frank tribute to other hard-working people who are doing an outstandingly able and worthwhile job in another and totally different field of effort.

That is exactly what this writer wants to do here and now, to the best of his ability, in this brief appreciation of the newspapers and the newspaper profession of America.

I want to salute the men and women of the press—the editors and publishers, reporters and photographers, and all other newspaper workers — for the marvelous job you are doing of gathering, editing and interpreting the news of our own country and the rest of the world in these fast-moving and critical times.

I want to salute you and say, "Well done," and I am thoroughly convinced that the great ma-majority of the people in all parts of the land are equally eager to pay you this same tribute.

All the more so because newspapers and newspaper men, who print millions of words every day about the rest of the world, seldom bother to say anything at all about themselves.

All the more so because newspapers and newspaper men, who perform so many varied and valuable services for other branches of society, seldom if ever ask society to perform any particular service for them.

All the more so because newspapers and newspaper men, who wield such great power and influence in the community, make it a point of honor never to abuse that power and never to misuse it for their own selfish interests.

Citations for Service
And so, if you will permit the great silent majority of your newspaper readers to become newspaper writers for a little while, here are a few of the things you are doing that we'd like to "write up" for you . . . a few of the things that have aroused our deep interest and admiration . . . a few of the things that inspire our whole-hearted appreciation.

Here are our citations for your faithful and efficient service to us and to all America:

Citation—For your constant efforts to report all the legitimate news of the day, fairly, accurately, completely.

Citation—for your willingness to aid and support all sound programs for civic and social betterment.

Citation—For your policy of doing everything possible to promote business activity, employment and general prosperity.

Citation—For your interest in youth and its problems; in education; in healthful sports, hobbies and recreation.

Citation—For your sympathetic treatment of religious news and your constant protection of religious freedom for all sects and all creeds.

Citation—For your policy of presenting the news and views of both major political parties while reserving the right to champion the party of your choice.

Citation— For your deep and abiding allegiance to America and America's principles first, last and all the time.

We applaud you for all of these policies and programs . . . and for a great many traditional services too numerous to mention here . . . and we want you to know we are backing both you and them every step of the way.

"Keep on Keeping On"

You, the newspapers and the newspaper men of America, have great and growing responsibilities to all the people in view of the conditions the nation is facing today.

We look to you and stand guard over our liberties . . . to keep us informed . . . to warn us of dangers . . . to urge us on to our objectives . . . to point the way.

You are meeting all these responsibilities fully and faithfully today — We believe you will continue to meet them fully and faithfully tomorrow.

Do this to the best of your ability, and neither you nor we will have any cause to regret the great trust that is reposed in you.

Do this to the best of your ability, and you will continue to enjoy the respect and the confidence and the esteem of the entire nation in the future as in the past.

So . . . for our sake as well as for your own sake . . . "keep on keeping on!"

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

FUN WITH LIGHTING

High speed film—candles not too far from the subject—lens set at f/6.3—and a one-half second time exposure got this perfectly. Be sure to use a firm camera support for "time" shots.

WE HAVE had a lot of fun at our house recently, taking pictures with unusual types of light and lighting. It all began with our fire-side shots—using flood bulbs tucked back in the fireplace to simulate firelight.

From these fireplace shots—they were good ones, too—we proceeded to candlelight and lamplight. For the shots by candlelight, we used real candles. Some were in branched candelabra—which are very attractive in pictures—and for one series, we arranged a birthday party with a cake and small candles. It wasn't anybody's birthday, really—but a cake had just been baked for Sunday, and we managed to borrow it.

Of course, candlelight is rather weak—so we used high speed film and time exposures. By having several candles, and placing the subjects quite near them (but not too close for safety) we were able to make exposures of one-half to one second at f/6.3. That would be two to four seconds with a box camera—and, don't forget, high speed film. Daytime film is much slower by the yellow candlelight.

We used two lamps in our lamp-light pictures. One was a kerosene lamp, with an interesting old-fashioned design, that we found in the attic. With that one, we got good results at the same exposures used for candlelight. The other lamp had a chimney and base, like the oil types, but was wired for an electric bulb. When Ann held the lamp, she shielded the bulb with her hand—and we concealed the electric cord, too—so the results were quite realistic.

Exposures were shorter for our electric lamp—but the time will always depend on the wattage of the bulb, and its distance from the subject. That's the point to keep in mind when you try these special shots. The nearer the subject, the stronger the light. It works the same way when you use photo bulbs. Candles one foot from a subject are four times as efficient as they would be when two feet from the subject.

I'm sure you'll want to try some of these shots. The nice point about them is that you can have the lamp or candles right in the picture. Sometimes, possibly, you might get a reflection spot or "flare spot" on the film—but we didn't. And anyway, the shots are so interesting they're well worth that slight risk.

Granddad Carter is still not improving as was hoped. His children have been at his bedside constantly.

A miscellaneous shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coffman in the home of Mrs. Ira Alldredge recently. They are a popular couple of our community and have gone to house-keeping in the McGirk community.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Head are recovering from an attack of the flu.

Our community was shocked Tuesday morning when news reached here of the sudden death of Jim Brim in Goldthwaite. He is an uncle of Thos. Atchison and our sympathy is with all his loved ones.
