GHS Class Of 1924 Holds Third Reunion At Lake Merritt Saturday

By SIDNEY PASS
The Goldthwaite High School graduating class of 1924 held its third reunion at Lake Merritt Saturday, September 1. Sixteen graduating class members and three former high school teachers of the class attended. Husbands, wives, a few children, and friends of the classmates brought the total attendance to more than fifty.

James Alldredge of Palestine, 1956 class president, presided for the reunion activities. Robert L. Steen, Goldthwaite, vice-president, was in charge of local arrangements. Lucille Miller O'Brien, Breckenridge, was 1956 class secretary; Earl Summy, Lufkin, was treasurer, but was unable to attend the meeting.

A small group gathered at Stacy's Cafe for lunch Saturday. The afternoon and evening were spent at Lake Merritt in fellowship, reviewing scrapbooks, looking at old photographs, and in taking movies and other pictures.

A barbecue supper was enjoyed at 7 o'clock and was attended by about forty-five persons.

Following the supper hour Sidney Pass of Abilene directed a brief program during which the three former teachers present were recognized and paid tribute. All three teachers spoke briefly. These included D. A. Newton who was superintendent of Goldthwaite schools for the first year in 1923-24, the year the Class of '24 graduated; James W. McCann Jr. of Lometa, who was principal during the class' sophomore year; and Mrs. Johnnie Belle Harrison Oglesby, Goldthwaite, who was history teacher during the sophomore year.

As a humorous climax to the evening's program James Alldredge presented "gifts" to several members of the class because of certain interests or needs. This fun period was enjoyed by all.

Lucille Miller O'Brien was elected to the class presidency at a business session Saturday night. Others elected to serve with her are Norman Jackson of Austin, vice president; Verna Hall Miller of Goldthwaite, secretary; Ernest Calaway of Dallas, class treasurer.

The group voted to hold its fourth reunion in 1958. The time and place will be decided by a special committee.

Other graduates attending the gathering were Pearl Casbeer of Austin; Millard Cockrum, Goldthwaite; Nolan Horton and Laura Featherston Horton of Ponca City, Okla.; Hazel Fulton of Menard; John Jones of Mercury; Myra Kuykendall Kyle, Brownwood; Leta Simpson Taylor of Garland; Robert L. Steen, Goldthwaite and Lucille Welch, Brady. Three other former classmates attending were Johnnie Harper of Anton, Robert Burdette of Goldthwaite and Lawrence Weathers of Brownwood.

Letters, cards and telegrams which expressed regrets at not being able to attend this third reunion of the Class of '24 were received from the following persons and were read at the program: Annie Richardson Roberts, Lolita; Clyde Brown, Fort Worth; J. Pat Fallon, Westaco; Claude Hearne, Seagraves; Mae Virden Boyd, Belton; George Brown, Houston; Wesley Linkenhoger, Lubbock; John Ross, Corpus Christi; Mabel Goode Johnson, Aztec, N.M. Mrs. Thelma Asbury Cave, Plainview, and Mrs. Dora Lay Thompson of Washington, D.C., both former teachers, sent expressions of regret.

No formal activity occupied Sunday. However, several members of the class attended the church of their choice, then met

A JUROR'S CREED

Most of us want to do our civic duty but we hate to break up the pleasant routine of living. Sometimes we shirk our civic duty to vote. Sometimes we exert every effort to avoid jury service.

Perhaps we do these things because we don't value our freedoms enough, because we haven't had to pay for them through hardship and suffering.

Instead of a sacrifice, jury duty is a privilege enjoyed by the free citizens of our country, giving us an opportunity to participate personally in the administration of justice.

Here is a creed which we might do well to read when the call to jury duty comes our way.

I am a juror.

I am a seeker after truth.

I must listen carefully and with concentration to all the evidence.

I must heed and follow the instructions of the court.

I must respectfully and attentively follow the arguments of the lawyers, dispassionately seeking to find and follow the silver thread of truth through their conflicting assertions.

I must lay aside all bias and prejudice.

I must be led by my intelligence and not by my emotions.

I must respect the opinions of my fellow jurors, as they must respect mine, and in a spirit of tolerance and understanding must endeavor to bring the deliberations of the whole jury to agreement upon a verdict, but

I must never assent to a verdict which violates the instructions of the court or which finds as a fact that which, under the evidence and in my conscience, I believe to be untrue.

In fine I must apply the Golden Rule by putting myself impartially in the place of the plaintiff and of the defendant, remembering that although I am a juror today passing upon the rights of others, tomorrow I may be a litigant whose rights other jurors shall pass upon.

My verdict must do justice, for what is just is "true and righteous altogether"; and when my term of jury service is ended I must leave it with my citizenship unscathed and my conscience clear.—Judge John H. Flanigan, Carthage, Missouri.

POLIO ON THE RUN

The most tragic aspect of Chicago's polio outbreak is that it came at a time when the long fight against the crippling disease was almost won. The scientific genius of Dr. Jonas Salk and other researchers, coupled with the tremendous production effort of the nation's pharmaceutical manufacturers, have at long last given mankind an inexpensive, plentiful vaccine that promises to end for all time the ravages of paralytic poliomyelitis.

Whether mankind will take advantage of this golden opportunity remains to be seen. The Chicago Board of Health reports that no one who received the full three-shot series of Salk inoculations contracted paralytic polio during the outbreak. Yet at the same time, it deplored the fact that "lethargic and indifferent parents" were not seeing to it that their children received their second and third shots of the vaccine. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis also has expressed concern over the drop-off in inoculations. Of the 31 million American children most susceptible to polio, it reported, less than half have sought Salk protection.

The lesson to be drawn from this seems clear: the noble labors of Dr. Salk, plus the dedicated effort behind the production of over 80 million doses of vaccine by the nation's pharmaceutical houses in the last 16 months, as reported by the Health News Institute, will have gone for naught unless all those who need the vaccine's protection get it. In the Salk vaccine, mankind has a powerful weapon that may insure final victory over paralytic polio. But the weapon must be used if the battle is to be won.

Monday night the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brooks was killed in a storm house at the family home, a few miles from this city, in the Center City community. U. S. Has Effective Nerve Gas Detector

Antidote Rushed to Check Delayed Weapons

Special to Central Press Association

WASHINGTON—Military scientists have a hopeful maxim that is being put to its severest test in this era, to the effect that sooner or later a defense is found to counteract even the most deadly weapons.

Nerve gas may have the dubious distinction, say the experts, of being the first super-weapon in history which is so terrible that its defense has been perfected, within limitations of course, before it has ever been used!

Since American and British troops at the end of World War II burst into a little town in the central Germany of Adolf Hitler's colleague Reich and discovered the hidden Nazi storehouses of nerve gas, reports and rumors have gripped the globe about what may be the most deadly weapon ever devised by man to inflict upon his self.

Now comes relatively comforting news that an effective portable electronic detector has been accepted for military and civil defense use, and the doctors have an antidote for nerve gas, a drug known as atropine.

Just how the detectors which have been developed by Army Chemical Corps and Radio Corporation of America scientists can be strategically located so as to protect not only military personnel but also populations and industrial centers is a problem yet to be solved but one that is being worked upon.

AN EVEN MORE BAFFLING RIDDLE is how to distribute widely enough the gas masks and vials of atropine needed to counteract an enemy attack with nerve gas, which is so subtle that it is invisible, odorless, and virtually tasteless except for an occasional faint fruity flavor.

Military strategists point out that nerve gas has its special attractions to a would-be conqueror which are not possessed by the horrendous H-bomb. It would immobilize or even wipe out a population, yet leave intact for almost immediate occupancy the industries, traffic facilities, transportation and power plants.

A tiny drop kills. Since the effect of the gas is to knock the whole nervous system out of kilter, the suffering of a victim is intense—"like a thousand toothaches," say the experimenters. The body's whole mechanism for control of the internal organs, fluids, muscles, eyes and ears is knocked out.

That the Nazis in their desperation at losing the war apparently could not bring themselves to employ the lethal weapon is key to its abominations. Many of the scientists who worked on were seized by the Russians, and the Soviets immediately started work on the gas.

So did the U. S. Army Chemical Corps, because it was vital that all which can be known about its devastating properties be known and every possible defense measure conjured up to meet it.

IN ANNOUNCEMENTS which have been carefully couched in terms to inform but not unduly alarm, Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe as early as 1950 told the American Chemical Society the discovery of nerve gas called G-gas, or more particularly GB-gas, to indicate its place in the spectrum of weapons that work on the nerves, it has been produced in test amounts at a special Chemical Corps laboratory in the Rocky Mountain arsenal at Denver where also a new $8 million plant is being constructed.

The Germans developed an antidote in a chemical called buscopane, and atropine is effective if administered in enough. Both simply reverse the effect on the nerves.

Chemists describe the nerve gases as a group of organic esters of phosphoric acid derivatives, and they understand how these esters of the nerve tissues in the body. A deadly insecticide called parathion operate along this line.

THE RULES OF FOURTEEN

Have you ever wished for a simple way to tell if you were overdressed or if you were a little on the drab side? The Rule of Fourteen has been developed to meet such a demand. Points are counted as follows:

- Dress of one piece 1
- Suit 2
- Buttons 2
- Hat 1
- Each different color 1
- Veil 1
- Flower 1
- Hose 1
- Dark seams or heels 1
- Shoes 1
- Bows 1
- Buckles 1
- Straps 1
- Purse 1
- Trim on purse 1
- Gloves 1
- Jewelry pieces 1 each
- Scarf 1
- Coat or wrap 1

The basic one piece dress would count one. A figured or plaid dress would count up to five. A basic frame or a hat is one; a feather would count one; so would a veil. Each different color adds a count to a hat as it does to the dress. If you like fancy hats then you should choose very simple suits and dresses. Two earrings count one. Two hose are one as are plain shoes. The trim and style of shoes add count. The combination of engagement and wedding rings is one.

You will notice that most of the count is on accessories and their trim. After you have used this rule for a bit you will become skilled in varying your accessories and will be able to dress so that you will fall under the fourteen count automatically. Now, don't fall too far under the count of fourteen or your ensemble may appear under-accessorized. Count 12

WATCH YOUR LINES

When you buy your fall dresses, keep your eye on your "lines." Analyze the line of your figure as well as the lines of the dress. Select lines that bring out your good points and hide your poor ones. Use these points as a guide:

Well proportioned women can wear almost any line. Lengthwise lines give the effect of height; crosswise lines give the effect of width. For short, plump necks, choose V-necklines with contrast. For long, thin necks, choose high necklines, with contrast if desired. For narrow shoulders, pad lightly. Avoid raglan sleeves and short jackets. For wide shoulders, avoid bulky padding, choose narrow lapels, raglan sleeves and vertical necklines. For a large waistline, keep an unbroken line from shoulder to hem. Try panel effects and coat dresses. Avoid wide and contrasting belts. For a large abdomen avoid tight-fitting dresses, double breasted blouses, and narrow skirts. Try front fullness at bust, in skirt and on side fronts.

For thin or heavy arms avoid sleeves too tight or too loose. Try an easy fullness. For flat chest avoid tight blouses with full skirts. Wear shoulder fullness and bows at neckline. Choose crisp fabrics. Always try garments on before a full-length mirror to get the complete effect of the costume.

Plans Being Completed For 1956 Texas State Fair October 6-21

The State Fair of Texas has done it again.

The 1956 program, now virtually completed, is one America's biggest fair can well be proud of, officials said. The fair runs Oct. 6-21.

There are two extraordinary new features: the "Esplanade of Light," a dazzling sight to see with dramatic illumination and scenic water effects, most spectacular lighting since the Texas Centennial. And plans call for installation of America's only Monorail transit system for a thrilling ride across the fairgrounds.

There will be daily performances of "Damn Yankees," Broadway hit musical satirizing big league baseball; Ice Capades, featuring a lavish production of "Peter Pan," and Jole Chitwood's auto daredevils.

Booked for one-day appearances are such bigtime attractions as "Fiesta Mexicana" Oct. 9, Rock 'n' Roll Elvis Presley, Oct. 11, Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong and his band, Oct. 15, Jack Benny's Sportsmen Quartet and Pianist Roger Williams, Oct. 16, and Victor Borgo Oct. 20.

The Pan-American Livestock Exposition Oct. 6-14 will present championship beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats and poultry. Youthful Texas livestock raisers will compete

Oct. 16-20 in the Junior Livestock Show. Horse shows will be held all three weekends.

Over a dozen foreign governments will exhibit in the picturesque International Center. The Agriculture Show will stress soil, water, plant and wildlife conservation. The Automobile Show will be one of the three largest on the continent. The big Food Show will be staged in the setting of an Old West frontier town. Farm machinery will occupy two acres of space.

Of special interest to the ladies will be the glamorous array of exhibits in the Women's Building, where free fashion shows will be presented daily, and the fabulous lineup of model kitchens.

The Museum of Fine Arts' unique election-year feature will be "Mr. President," portraits of all 33 U. S. presidents.

Football games include Texas A&M-Texas Tech Oct. 6, Texas-Oklahoma Oct. 13, and Prairie View-Tennessee State Oct. 15.

Big special days are Rural Youth Day and West Texas Day Oct. 6, Mexico Day Oct. 9, Texas Public School Day and Music Festival Day Oct. 10, Crippled Children's Day Oct. 11, Negro Achievement Day Oct. 15, East Texas Day and Garden Clubs Day Oct. 16, Women's Day Oct. 17 and Fort Worth Day Oct. 20.

IN THE NAME OF THE LAW

CONTRIBUTED IN THE
PUBLIC INTEREST BY
TEXAS POLICE ASSOCIATION

DELINQUENTS: PARENTS OR CHILDREN?

By
Col. Homer Garrison, Jr.,
Director Texas Department of Public Safety

The problem of juvenile delinquency is one that has troubled us since the beginning of civilization.

It will be here tomorrow, and the day after. It is beyond the realm of reason to believe that someone will one day develop a panacea that will stamp out juvenile delinquency.

On the other hand, it has always been my contention that there is no such thing as a delinquent juvenile, but instead there are only delinquent parents.

The thing we call juvenile delinquency is a product resulting from a multitude of causes or contributing factors, such as broken homes, bad companions, lack of religious training and education, and a scarcity of recreational facilities.

Probably the number one contributing factor is the lack of home supervision.

Even though trite, the term adult delinquency has considerable truth. Parents have the basic responsibility of teaching their children to be good citizens. Parents know the child best—his interests, desires and weaknesses. And it is the parent's responsibility to see that the child learns to obey the laws and to respect the rights of others.

It is unfortunate, but nevertheless, it is true that too many parents have abdicated this responsibility. This is one of the greatest tragedies of modern society. Too often the home has become merely a place to sleep, eat and change clothes. The home is no longer a center of living and learning.

Instead of sympathetic bonds of companionship between parents and their children, there is merely little more than a nodding acquaintance in the morning and evening. This, as reflected in police records all over the country, is the pathway to juvenile delinquency.

As a result of our modern rapid-pace way of life, we have failed to maintain family restraint and family discipline and, in doing so, we have not taught the youngsters to develop self-discipline. Beyond this, our sordid juvenile situation has resulted from insufficient spiritual and moral training. Until our youngsters learn to know, respect and obey the teaching of Almighty God, we can never expect them to obey civil laws or the rules of society.

Building good citizenship in our youth of our State must have additional boosts; it is not the sole responsibility of parents. The school, the church, the civic groups and the law enforcement agency all have their roles to play.

These agencies can and are doing much good, but it must be remembered that nothing can fill the void left by the refusal of parents to be interested in their children.

There are no new answers to the question of how to educate parents to accept their responsibility of combatting juvenile delinquency. However, legislation, making parents financially responsible for the vandalism of their children, would bring about a decided change in the attitude of many parents.

The State of Michigan has such a law commonly called "The Parental Responsibility Act." In effect the law holds the parents responsible for certain damages wrongfully created by their children. As a result, vandalism has dropped as much as 50 per cent in many sections of that state.

In passing the law, Michigan has recognized that neither the police, school, nor the social agency can take on the job of raising children. This job and privilege belongs to the parents.

Here in Texas we are not as well equipped—legislatively speaking—to handle juvenile offenders. Under our Texas laws, there are only a few instances in which adequate punishment is provided for juvenile offenders. The main offenses are perjury, drunk driving, reckless driving, speeding and possession of intoxicating beverages. The right kind of law, making parents responsible for the acts of their youngsters, would be a step in the proper direction.

Public opinion has done much in helping curb juvenile delinquency. The fact that some news media has begun to publicize the names of delinquents and their parents in the more serious crimes has had a very healthy effect.

Law enforcement officers know from experience that the best defense against juvenile delinquency is prevention. But above all, and certainly the most important, there must be a moral re-awakening throughout America. We must once again hold the belief that God's Law reigns supreme. For once the moral law is disregarded, the individual feels free to do as he wishes.

With God's Law supreme, obeying our Civil laws would be a simple matter of routine.

Border Collies Win National Honors At Illinois State Fair

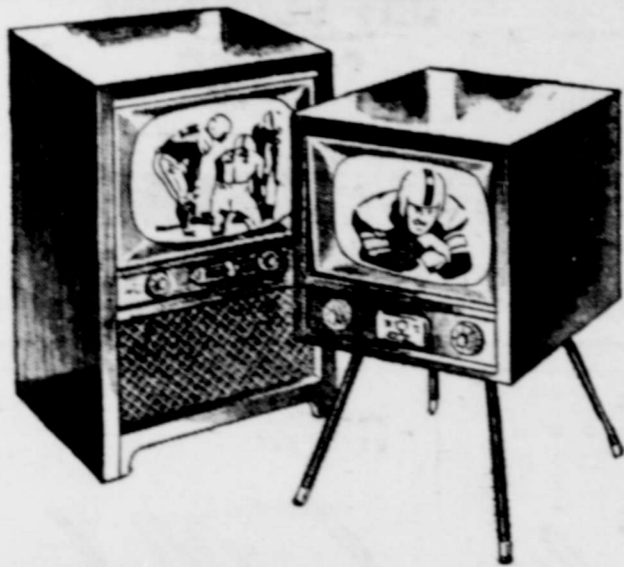

Willard Potts of Lometa returned recently from DeQueen, Illinois, where he was top winner with his Border Collie, Ben. The collie won the National Sheep Dog Trial on August 27 and 28, competing against 27 other top sheep dogs of the United States.

Ben outscored all others in gathering, driving and penning to win the National Trial with a score of 47 out of a possible 50 points. This was Ben's second straight year to win the National.

Mr. Potts also had a 15-months-old female dog who was high scoring Junior dog at the Trial and he also won the Breeder's Trainer Trophy. This Trial was sponsored by the Purina Company and held in connection with the State Fair of Illinois.

More Liberal Terms Announced For Title I F.H.A. Home Repair Loans

Home modernization will enjoy a healthy increase in Goldthwaite and Mills County as a result of more liberal terms on loans insured under FHA's Title I program, according to O. O. Smith, of Barnes & McCullough Lumber Co., local retail lumber dealer and member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Recent changes in the national housing law permit home owners to borrow more for repair and modernization work, and monthly payments on longer jobs are lower than ever before because owners can take longer to repay a loan if the amount exceeds $600," Mr. Smith said.

"Monthly payments on major improvements can be as much as 35 per cent lower than under the old law. For example, a loan of $1000 can be repaid over a period of 5 years at the rate of $20.79 per month, whereas a monthly payment of $31.94 was required when the maximum amortization period was three years.

"FHA now will insure properly improvement loans as large as $3,500, as compared with the previous limit of $2,500, and the rate of interest is lower on amounts over $2,500.

"In addition, buyers of newly-built homes now can take advantage of FHA loan insurance earlier than before. The waiting or occupancy period on loans to owners of new homes now does not apply on work costing $600 or less, and has been reduced to 90 days on larger loans.

"The home owner has the choice of repaying FHA-insured loans in a shorter period than five years if desired. "The increase in the amount that can be insured will be of special interest to owners wishing to make improvements on older homes or wanting to add extra space to newer dwellings."

Importance Of Modern Heating Essential For Health And Comfort

current wave of home construction lends impetus to the importance of modern heating equipment with its benefits for health and comfort. Consultants, builders and architects recommend that heating be planned in advance and the appliance be installed as the house is built.

Star Gas Company heating engineers point out that the health and comfort of the family depends upon the temperature and humidity within the home. They state that one of the most important considerations in building or remodeling present homes is the type of heating equipment and how it is installed.

The most effective, complete type of heating, a floor, wall furnace or central plant is recommended. This type of equipment with proper sizing, installation and venting is the program to provide excellent heating for the home. Proper installation gives the right amount of heat, even on the coldest days. Proper installation and professional service and proper venting eliminates wall and ceiling sweating.

There are many efficient and modern makes of gas heating equipment and each produces maximum operating efficiency. These are the perimeter heating system which, like central heating plants, does away with cold floors and produces a uniform flow of warm air that stops drafts before they start. The perimeter system actually places the heat where it is most needed.

The perimeter gas furnace produces the warm air which travels through underfloor ducts to small diffusers installed in the outer walls and under windows. From the time it leaves the furnace until circulated in the rooms of the house, the warm air is at work producing healthful, comfortable temperatures.

Because heat from the ductwork under the house staves off chilly drafts, cold air never reaches floors. As a result, children may play in cozy warmth. The furnace for this gas heating unit can be installed in the average small closet. The underfloor location of the ducts goes away with disturbing existing walls. Normally only one return register is required, eliminating costly decoration.

Other types of gas central furnaces popular in this area: the closet-type furnaces, the most common, can be installed in a closet, equipment room, garage or the corner of a room. The attic-type furnaces are installed in attics or upstairs game rooms and produce excellent heating, using a minimum of space. The under-the-floor furnace hangs beneath floor joists in the crawl space underneath the house.

However, the best central heating furnace is of little value without an adequate air distributing system. Quality central gas heating affords these five advantages: 1. Even temperature from room to room throughout the home. 2. A minimum temperature difference from floor to ceiling. 3. The air is evenly distributed throughout the home with no drafts or cold or hot spots. 4. Temperature controls permit a person to dial the temperature desired. 5. Air passes through thick filters removing dust, dirt and pollen. Air is cleaner than that breathed outdoors.

Other types of gas heating equipment are wall heaters, floor furnaces and vented circulators. Wall heaters are excellent for modern heating in existing homes. They provide economical heating, plus comfort, and are excellent for heating upstairs rooms, hallways not wide enough for floor furnaces and homes without enough crawl space clearance for floor furnaces.

Where central heating is not practical, floor furnaces give adequate heating results. Care should be given for properly sized, placed and vented floor furnaces for best heating results.

All types of heating equipment should be properly sized for the area to be heated. There must be an adequate equipment for the number of rooms to be heated and the equipment needs to be properly installed.

TEXANS ASK EGG GRADING LAW

Egg production is big business in Texas—187 million dozen worth each year, to be exact.

Yet Texas stands alone among the 48 states with no legal means of protecting its egg industry. As a result, the housewife suffers through unrestricted shipment of inferior egg products from other states, as well as frequent misgrading and labeling which sells her poor quality eggs branded "top quality."

Farmers and egg industry men, alike, are now asking that the State Legislature pass a uniform grading and labeling law. Such a law would have a double purpose:

1. It would protect the consumer. The industry wants to guarantee the housewife that she will get 12 good eggs in every dozen she buys—and that the eggs actually are of the size and grade which the label claims.

2. It would assure the producer a fair price for the grade of egg he sells, by encouraging and promoting payment according to quality.

Such a law is a strong possibility in the next session of the legislature. In the meantime—and especially during the hot summer months—industry men are recommending to producers methods to keep eggs fresh until they are sold and consumed.

Egg producers are urged to gather their eggs at least three times a day in wire baskets and leave them in the baskets overnight in a cool, damp, ventilated place.

A good on-the-farm storage temperature is around 50 to 65 degrees if eggs are marketed often. The humidity should be 65 to 80 percent.

These steps are also suggested:

1. Clean dirty eggs with steel wool, sandpaper or emery cloth brush. Be careful about actually washing unless you know the procedures recommended, or the quality can deteriorate rapidly after eggs are wet.

2. Pre-cool egg cases or cartons before packing eggs.

3. Pack eggs with the large end up.

4. Market at least twice a week, more often if possible.

Mrs. Joe Anderson and son, Benny Jo and Phillip Suza, of the Philippines, who spent the summer with the Andersons, were Saturday and Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. J. M. Spinks. Mrs. Anderson accompanied the boys to San Antonio on Sunday where they will attend Peacock Military Academy again this school term.

Bond Purchases In Mills County Above Quota Set

During July the sales of Series "E" United States Savings Bonds in Texas increased 18 per cent Mr. W. P. Duren, Mills County Savings Bonds Chairman announced today. Texans purchased $13,700,543 in Series E and $3,021,000 in Series H. Bonds, Mr. Duren continued.

The sales in Mills County for July were $7,106.00. In Texas sales for the first seven months were $115,029,501 and the sales in Mills County for the same period were $66,130.00.

Mr. Duren also stated that of the Series E bonds that have matured, over 70 per cent are still being held for the additional option period of nine years and eight months.

Mr. Duren also reminded those people who hold matured F and G bonds that these bonds do not earn interest after maturity and that they should exchange these matured F and G bonds for Series E or the new H, J, and K bonds in order to earn additional interest.

As of August 1 Mills County had reached 59 per cent of its quota of $112,000.00, Mr. Duren concluded.

Mrs. A. E. Miller, Jr., and children, Marsha, Ann and Lawrence, of Eagle Pass spent a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Collier. They were accompanied by Mrs. L. S. Karnes of Eagle Pass, who is a patient in Lampasas hospital.

INDIAN LODGE on the Scenic Loop in Davis Mountains State Park is in the heart of a sky-brushing part of Texas where the peaks and colorful canyons are reached by mile-high paved roads.

PARK OF THE WEEK—Davis Mountains State Park is on the famous 74-mile Scenic Loop, about four miles from historic Fort Davis and 12 miles from world-famous McDonald Observatory.

The park occupies a comparatively small area in Keesey Canyon but easily available to the park campers and the occupants of this unique Indian Lodge is a vast spread of mountains, canyons and romantically historic spots.

Davis Mountains State Park is far enough south to be enjoyable through the winter. In summer it draws a host of visitors who like to go where no artificial cooling is needed for pleasant rest, sightseeing and play.

Being situated about midway between Big Bend National Park and Carlsbad Caverns, Indian Lodge in Davis Mountains State Park is a convenient night stop-over for travelers between these two national parks.

Bureau Of Business Research Releases Mid-Year Reports

AUSTIN (Spec.) — Mid-year reports from the Bureau of Business Research, The University of Texas, show that Texas farmers' cash income ran 12 percent lower during the first half of 1956 than it did in the comparable period of 1955. Total income for January-June 1956 was $571,925,000; in January-June 1955 it was $648,920,000.

Nine of the 17 major commodities reported produced less income this January-June than last: flaxseed (minus 83 per cent), wheat (minus 75 per cent), oats (minus 48 per cent), cotton (minus 22 per cent), cattle (minus 19 per cent), eggs (minus 14 per cent), mohair (minus 12 per cent), calves (minus 11 per cent), and wool (minus 1 per cent). The combined decreases in cotton and cattle meant a loss of $66,652,000 of income this year as compared with last year.

Seven commodities registered gains: peanuts (plus 37 per cent), poultry (plus 19 per cent), fruit and vegetables (plus 18 per cent), corn (plus 17 per cent), grain sorghums (plus 15 per cent), milk and milk products (plus 12 per cent), and sheep and lambs (plus 9 per cent). Hogs made no significant change; they brought some $29,785,000 in January-June 1955 and $29,766,000 in January-June 1956.

Prices received by farmers in Texas for all farm products in June stayed at approximately the same index level as in May. This put them some 4 per cent lower than in June 1955. The fact that prices are running only 4 per cent below last year while income is averaging 12 per cent less indicates that farmers are taking less to market. The index, compiled by the Agriculture Marketing Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, shows that all crops gained 5 per cent in June as compared with May and remained at the same level as in June 1955. However, livestock and its related products lost 6 per cent in June from May and 8 per cent from June 1955.

In the June-May comparison of prices received, only two farm products registered increases in the index: potatoes and sweet potatoes gained 1 per cent, truck crops 69 per cent. Decreases were made by cotton (minus 1 per cent), food grains (minus 4 per cent), poultry and eggs (minus 6 per cent), and meat animals (minus 9 per cent). Feed grain and hay, fruit, oil-bearing crops, dairy products, and wool all remained at the same levels.

Carload shipments of livestock had a 6 per cent increase in June over May and a 16 per cent increase over June 1955. Cattle, the big factor in total shipments, were up 10 per cent in the June-May comparison. Shipments of calves were up 32 per cent. Hogs and sheep (which account for only approximately 15 per cent of the total) decreased 33 per cent and 24 per cent respectively. Carload shipments of fruits and vegetables at mid-year were running 4 per cent above the first half of 1955. Fruit shipments (which account for approximately 16 per cent of the total) decreased 10 per cent. However, shipments of all vegetables increased slightly more than 4 per cent and thus counterbalanced fruit losses.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley citrus industry is highlighted in this month's survey of the Texas agricultural scene in the Texas Business Review. The Big Freeze of January 1951 almost wiped out the Valley's citrus groves. In that winter 7,700,000 of the 9,550,000 producing trees were killed. As one grower put it, "The freeze dealt a terrific blow—California and Florida termed it a 'fatal' blow." But though loss was in the multimillions, the Valley men refused to concede defeat. Setting aside part of their acreage for quick-profit crops such as cotton and vegetables to tide them over, they bulldozed the dead trees; developed new rootstock, and started replanting their groves.

Nursery production was run at full capacity, and trees were set out as fast as seedlings could mature in the seedbeds. Usually, citrus trees are not planted until they are two years old. They reach full production four to six years later. Thus the trees planted in 1951 and 1952 directly following the freeze are now beginning to bear fruit in sizable quantities. From the 1951-1952 low of 1,850,000, the number of producing trees has increased 78.4 per cent to 3,300,000 in 1955-1956. In the same period, the total number of trees has increased from somewhat over 3 million to almost 4 million. The value of marketed production has risen from $1,726,000 in 1951-1952 to an estimated $5,300,000 in 1955-1956.

Although growers are predicting that it will be at least 1965 before their tree losses will have been completely recouped, the citrus industry has already progressed much of the way on the long road back. Stanley B. Crockett, owner of Crockett Groves, Inc., and director of the First National Bank of Harlingen expresses the typically optimistic, typically Texas outlook of the industry:

"(The freeze is) . . . turning out, over the long-run, to be a blessing. Based on actual replanting experiences since the freeze, I feel we can reasonably expect 50 per cent more fruit per acre from the new orchards, which are being planted just as fast as good stock is available. This is brought about by better trees, better budwood, planted in our very best citrus land, with practical application of our citrus production know-how. The freeze cleared the way for us to reap greater dividends from our research dollars."

Korean Veterans Planning To Start School Should Make Application

"Korean veterans planning to start school this fall should file their applications now to beat the last minute rush," Dr. George T. McMahan, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, said today.

"We expect some 9,000 veterans to be in schools and training establishments in this region and by applying early veterans can help prevent delay in processing their papers," Dr. McMahan said.

Application forms may be obtained at any VA office. The completed application, along with a photostate or certified copy of the veteran's separation paper, should be sent to the Waco VA Regional Office. Papers should not be sent to the Veterans Administration in Washington, D. C.

To help school-going veterans, Dr. McMahan issued a checklist of steps to be taken before enrollment:

Since the law allows only one change of program, veterans should be sure they have chosen the course that will lead to their educational goal. If not certain, they should ask VA for vocational counseling. Next, veterans should be sure the course they plan to take has been GI-approved by the state.

They should also complete arrangements for admitting their school before filing applications with VA.

Applications should be in completely so VA will have to write for missing information. Veterans with dependents should have the necessary proof when VA requires. These are marriage or certificates.

Finally, Dr. McMahan veterans should take enough money of their own to tide them over the first months of training. Due to large volume of veterans entering training during this period it takes about that long for a veteran's first monthly check to reach him.
