Would Whip the Press into the Fight Against Joe Bailey.

A little organization of probably fifty members constituting themselves "The Harris County Good Government Club" fires into this office, and likely every newspaper in the State, a long tirade against Senator Bailey and in grandiloquent language threaten to pillory every newspaper which fails to publish their so called "address" headed "The Shame of Texas" and signed by H. F. Ring as president. The self-respecting editors of Texas will resent this arrogant threat.

In a perusal of this long dreary Jeremiad we fail to uncover any new exposure, or anything but what is familiar to all readers of the daily papers and we hold that the newspapers generally are better qualified to pass upon the merits of all such charges of corruption against Bailey that are given in glaring headlines with evidence and rebuttal testimony and variously commented upon by the press than is this so styled "Good Government Club," because they do not let their prejudice get the better of their judgment and they have no particular man to boost as a successor to Bailey as Mr. Ring seems to have in the person of Col. O. Thad Holt, and to our mind this suggests the true inwardness of the whole graft or political scheme.

Mr. Bailey has been in congress for fifteen years, during which time a record has been made and published of every official utterance and every crucial vote of his and if with this before him Ring is not able to name one specific word or vote of Bailey's against the best interests of his constituents the public is apt to conclude that his tirade of personal abuse is unworthy of serious consideration. In fact, Ring admits that in Congress Bailey always talks right and always votes right, and if in committee Bailey championed other than the cause of the common people surely such men as Tillman, LaFollette, Towne, Teller and Sulzer, who are known as unswerving champions of the rights and interests of the people, would have given an inkling of such.

Now, whether Bailey is guilty or not guilty we can not say. In our mind the question resolves itself down to just this: If Bailey accepted employment from the corporations as an attorney and with it was to go the influence of his official position than he has virtually accepted a bribe and his punishment should be nothing less than penal servitude; but if the corporations employed him as an attorney and in addition expected him to use the influence and prestige of his official position, but it not being so understood by Bailey, then Bailey is not guilty.

Whether the interests of his clients swerved him from a faithful discharge of his duties as a representative of the common people in Congress we can only judge by his record, and in as much as it has not been shown but that he was on the side of the common people by his vote and in support of all measures before congress we can only assume that it did not.

However future developments may be such as to change one's opinion. Things are getting warm. Bailey in his address at Dallas on Tuesday to vindicate his position denies all the charges and asserts that no client of his ever influenced his course in congress. His address was dignified and calculated to place him in a better light before the people. He threatens to take the stump and meet all charges against him, and if he does Ring challenger him to a contest on the rostrum before the people.

A Grievous Wrong.

About the meanest and most voracious trust infesting Texas at the present time is the school book octopus, which is the child of and has Texas law behind it. And it is a trust hogs everything at the factory and will not "jig" with the retailer—who must abide by the price stamped on the books "according to law" on which the legalized monopolists who make the books leave him only a very meager and skinny margin. The books are at least 50 per cent high; and the argument of their "special" character is lost when it is considered that their sale is guaranteed by the law to every pupil in the State of the given grade. The special expense incident to engraving of diagrams, etc., is lost when the assurance is had by the publisher that at least 100,000 copies of the given book must be taken. Thousands of people in the State are making a struggle and sacrifice of life necessities to give the loved little fellows the advantage of an education to help them in life; and this villainous law-made monopoly dips its claws into thousands of neat suits and shortens the thousands of shirts for these people. It is bald robbery, and it is done in Texas and by Texas laws.—Bill Edwards.

Hunting "a Good Place."

One of the first things the young people have to consider when they begin to contemplate entering upon the actual work of life is, where to settle. Where is there a good place? Especially will these inquiries arise in the mind of the young man, and it is well for him to know that there are good places everywhere; wherever one is is a good place. Some places may be better than others for some special talent, but every place is good. "It should be what will I be?" rather than "where" that should be considered. Whatever one's occupation, or wherever one may be employed, he should seek always to attain the highest possible skill, the same excellence which attracts attention of the many. One should never say: "Because there are so few to see my work I will not

For the establishment of both characted and reputation every place is a good place. A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Burning Off Paint Makes Insurance Void.

It seems that considerable danger to property exists in the practice of burning off old paint before re-painting. The question has long been a subject of debate in the technical journals, and now householders and the newspapers have begun to discuss it.

Those of us who, with trembling, have watched the painters blow a fiery blast from their lamps against our houses, and have looked sadly at the size of our painting bill because of the time wasted on this preliminary work, are interested in the investigation by the Greenfield (Mass.) Gazette and Courier, which gives considerable space to the reasons for the practice, questions its necessity and suggests ways to prevent the risk of burning down one's house in order to get the old paint off. It says:

"There is a good deal of discussion among householders as to the desirability of painting houses of burning off the old paint, a practice that has grown very common of late in Greenfield and elsewhere. Insurance men are strongly opposed to this method. It makes void insurance policies for fires caused in this manner. Several houses in Greenfield have gotten a fire as the result of this method, and in some places houses have burned as a result."

"It is undoubtedly true that when a house has been painted over and over again there comes to be an accumulation of paint in bunches. If now paint is put on top of these accumulations it is almost sure to blister. To burn it off is the quickest and cheapest and perhaps the surest method of getting rid of this old paint."

The Gazette and Courier quotes certain old patrons to the effect that accumulations of paint are unnecessary. These old-timers lay the blame partly on the painter who fails to brush his paint in well, partly on the custom of painting in damp weather or not allowing sufficient time for drying between coats, and partly to the use of adulterated paints instead of old-fashioned linseed oil and pure white lead. The paper says:

"Many of the old householders say that if care is taken at all these points it is absolutely unnecessary to have paint burned off. They advise that people who have houses painted should buy their own materials, and to have them put on by the day, so as to be sure to get good heat and oil. Of course the burning off of paint greatly increases the cost of the job."

"The trouble householders everywhere have with paint is pretty well summed up by our contemporary, and the causes are about the same everywhere. By far the most frequent cause of the necessity for the dangerous practice of burning off paint is the use of poor material. The oil should be real linseed and the white lead should be real white lead. The latter is more often tampered with than the oil. Early substances, and pulverized rock and quartz, are frequently used as cheapeners, to the great detriment of the paint."

Painters rarely adulterate white lead themselves and they very seldom use ready prepared paints—the most frequent cause of paint trouble. But they do often use adulterated white lead because the property owner insists on a low price and the painter has to economize somewhere. The suggestion is therefore a good one that the property owner investigate the subject a little, find out the name of some reliable brand of white lead, and see that the keg is marked with that brand.

The linseed oil is more difficult to be sure of, as it is usually sold in bulk when the quantity is small; but reliable makers of linseed oil can be learned on inquiry, and, if your dealer is reliable, you will get what you want. Pure white lead and linseed oil are not necessary to good paint that the little trouble necessary to get them well repays the house owner in dollars and cents saved.

"Chill" or "Chile." There have been many arguments during the last few weeks as to whether the name of the earthquake should be spelled "Chill" or "Chile." The name is commonly explained as an old Peruvian word for snow, the allusion being to the Andes; but "Chill" has also been identified as a native South American word, "chilli," meaning cold—which would make it really the "chilly" coast.

As to the meaning of "Ondes," there is plenty of choice. The word has been variously interpreted as signifying the haunt of the tapir, the relict of copper, the home of the Anti tribe and the site of the "Ondenes" Spanish gardens on the mountain terraces.

The extraordinary popularity of fine white goods this summer makes the choice of Starch a matter of great importance. Defiance Starch, being free from all injurious chemicals, is the only one which is safe to use on fine fabrics. Its great strength as a stiffener makes it the usual quantity of Starch necessary, with the result of perfect finish, equal to that when the goods were new.

KITCHEN CLEANING.

SIMPLE WAYS OF KEEPING THE COMMON THINGS CLEANLY.

Means of Lightening Many a Disagreeable Duty for the Housewife - Brick Dust, Soap and Soda Essentials.

What is usually designated as kitchen work is gone through by the conscientious woman as a necessary, if somewhat disagreeable duty.

It is shirked, whenever possible, by the careless and incompetent, and relegated altogether to the hired help whenever chance or fortune allows.

So long as there are women who so stigmatize the work of making "the house beautiful," so long may we expect the unsatisfactory hired help which we at present experience or hear so much about. Domestic work must first be held in higher honor before we can hope that a woman working for a wage will take it up with her whole heart, or as other than a last resource.

The great thing is to prevent the work from accumulating, and unless under special or unusual household conditions, it need not accumulate.

Cleaning a saucenpan thoroughly inside and outside every time it is used is only way to avoid that big "turn up" which is the best thing I know for upsetting the comfortable routine of a household for the whole day.

Brick dust, soap and soda are all necessary for perfectly clean pots and saucenpans.

Keep the brick dust, plenty of it, in a can along with a soft cloth. Add the washing soda in hot water, and after you have removed every particle of food from the inside of the saucenpan proceed to dip the cloth into the hot water. Then soap it thoroughly, dip into the brick dust, and apply it vigorously inside and out. The soap and soda remove grease, the brick dust removes soot and roughness. Next wash off with plenty of hot water and soda, finally rinsing with clean water. The saucenpan can now be dried if properly done with a cloth. This may be pretty hard work if the pan is in a very bad state to begin with, but once right in is easily kept right.

A very short time will do the work each day, and it will be found a pleasure instead of a hardship. Of course, where gas is used this work is much easier, but even with a range much unnecessary work can be saved by habit and resolution. Do not once put a pan away without cleaning it. The habit once formed the routine becomes easy.

Another common little domestic matter is one seldom noticed by the majority of inexperienced people, and the neglect of which causes a good deal of extra work. I allude to the cleaning of brush handles, also the handles of the coal shovel and chopping-axe. A maid will finish cleaning a range and then, without removing her gloves by washing her hands, will take the brush and sweep, or lift the axe and begin to chop wood. She then leaves these things just as they are. The next time she uses these articles she dirties her hands again, and unconsciously leaves "her mark" on everything she touches.

These finger marks on handles, chairs and doors are the "hallmark" of the inexperienced, incompetent and careless cleaner. To remove apply a little paraffin on a flannel cloth. The use of ammonia is a great saving of labor. When scrubbing tables, chairs and floors a little ammonia in the water will lighten them in a very short time. Silver and polished articles can easily be cleaned if washed in warm water, to which has been added one teaspoonful of ammonia to each cup of water. If the kitchen is tiled in any part, wipe over with skimmed milk once a week after washing.

Another method is to rub the tiles every month or two with linseed oil and then polish with a soft cloth. To clean the kitchen sink, wash it thoroughly with ammonia and warm water. If common sulphate of iron be dissolved in the proportion of one pound to four gallons of water and poured over the sink three or four times ofensive smells will be completely destroyed.

Brass, copper and tinware should be cleaned with turpentine, and ashes and soap are sometimes used for brightening zinc articles. Turpentine gives a fine polish to tinware and is efficacious in cleaning bath enamel which has been discolored. Dip a cloth in the turpentine, rub the stained parts and polish with a soft duster.

The cleaning of brooms is rarely thought necessary, yet they require cleaning as much as anything else, and if washed occasionally will be found to last far longer than otherwise. About once a week prepare a good cupful of hot water and soap and into it dip the broom, shake it until it is nearly dry and hang it up with the bristles downward until quite so.

To Cure Dark Circles. Dark circles under the eyes generally indicate a sluggish circulation or torpidity of the liver. Kidney disorders are other causes. Exercise daily, breathe deeply, live on simple, nutritious food, and get enough sleep; thoroughly rest you. Every morning bathe the eyes with diluted witch-hazel or strong salt water. At night massage around the eyes gently with orange flower skin food.

"Hercules" Bobs Up Everywhere. There is an unusual amount of hercules braid apparent in the trimmings of costumes of all materials, including silk, mousseline, voile, nets, woolsen goods and velvet, and the newest fashions. Its introduction as a further trimmed with soutache braid, and sometimes insets of lace or embroidery are also used in connection with the braid.

Brilliant Belts. The new belts, although erected in Paris, are very Scotch in effect and of extreme smartness. Made as they are of brilliant plaid silks edged with wide bands of white kid, and having white kid buckles, they are very effective with both dark and light gowns.

DOCTOR DESPAIRED

Anemic Woman Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Recommended to All Others Who Suffer.

Anemia is just the doctor's name for bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure anemia in its food-cure form. They cured Mrs. Thomas J. McGowan, 17 Lincoln Place, Plainfield, N. J., says:

"In the spring of 1903 I had a usual house cleaning and toward evening I began to have the most terrible headaches. My heart would beat regularly that it was painful and I came a morning when I could not get up. My doctor said I had anemia. He was surprised that I had anemia. I was confined to my bed for two months, the doctor coming every day for the first few weeks, but I did not improve to amount to anything together. I was sick for nearly two years. I was as weak as a rag, unable to get a good night's sleep. Legs ached and I had swollen feet. I feared they would burst."

"Before very long after I tried Williams' Pink Pills I felt a change for the better. I have taken about a dozen boxes and although I was as weak as a rag, I now feel like a new man. I have no more headaches, the heart beats regularly, my appetite is good, my sleep is good, and I feel like a new man. I feel that I have been very cheerily and I have recommended the pills to lots of my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by druggists, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medical School, N. Y.

JEALOUS OF BOBBIE'S WIFE. New York Woman's Excuse for her Extravagance.

Women dearly love an extreme little extravagances, says the New York Globe. Of course, the mass readers of this column are not expected to indorse this, for, according to the masculine thought, women are no "excuse" for their extravagances; they just have them without rhyme or reason.

An up-town woman has a charming excuse for any extra indulgence her two-year-old blue-eyed son, Bobbie and Bobbie's future wife. In fact, for Bobbie is a handsome estate which gives her great content because she feels that she must save and economize for Bobbie, for Bobbie's education, his European trip, and "dear!" she always adds, "Bobbie's wife." Wearying of a continued state of economy, in a moment of reckless extravagance she'll buy a lot of the delectable things, have her fine-maneured, her hair shampooed, and take fascinating trips here and there. And then when her conscience prick she'll say, "Why not Bobbie's wife will, and he won't care much it costs." And Bobbie's wife won't, either. She'll spend joyfully and gloriously.

JAPAN TAKES TO NEWSPAPER. Most All of the Younger Generation is Able to Read.

In Japan there were already in 1903 1,328 newspapers, dailies and others, the highest circulation of any one paper reaching about a quarter of a million, says the World's Work. Among the lower classes the paper is read as far as I have been able to observe by five or six persons. A very few of the older people cannot read, but of the younger generation can.

Thou eager interest is taken not only in stirring public events but in administrative measures, such as the very recent nationalization of the railway. Every newspaper prints daily issues in the street, and all of the lower groups of readers, too poor to buy a copy, replace each other to read the news of the day. Discussion runs high among people who are far below the voter's level, though every man over 25 years of age and paying a direct tax of ten yen (five dollars) is entitled to vote. The rights of discussion, public assembly and publication are as full and as fully taken advantage of as in England.

Salvation Army for Russia. Russia may soon be invaded by the Salvation Army. The czar's opposition to the movement has been overcome, through the efforts of Gen. Booth's agents at St. Petersburg and Moscow, and the sympathy of prominent Russians.

There's a smile of satisfaction on the countenance after eating a meal at the Miami restaurant.

Attorney Hendricks' visit to Fort Worth last week was to see his brother who is critically ill. Instead of professional business as stated in these columns. The condition of his brother who is in the sanitarium at Ft. Worth is such that he is likely to be called there again at any time.

An adding machine, has just been installed in The Johnson Mercantile Company's store in Miami, at a cost of $75.00. This store is up-to-date in its fixtures and probably has the most handsome building and better equipped with modern appliances and conveniences than any mercantile establishment in the Panhandle.

F. L. Benton spent several days the former part of this week in Miami. He says the wheat crop in Cooke county was a failure; that wheat stopped the motion and that crop is no good; that such conditions causes him to think seriously of again making his home in the Panhandle. Mr. Benton owns a section of smooth plain land five miles from Amarillo, which he purchased last April.

Mothers need have no hesitation in continuing to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their little ones as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children but is a medicine of great worth and merit. It has a world wide reputation for its cures of coughs, colds and croup and can always be relied upon. At Central Drug Store.

Ed Humphrey returned Thursday from Galesburg, Illinois, where he was called on the sad mission of paying the last earthly rites to a younger brother, who died on Wednesday of last week and was buried Sunday. The Galesburg Evening Mail has the following notice of the funeral:

The funeral services over the remains of H. W. Humphrey were conducted yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Grace Episcopal church, the Rector, Benjamin E. Diggs, officiating. The music was beautifully rendered by the choir. The fraternal order of Eagles and the Horsehoers' Union attended in a body. The pall bearers were James Lane, Thos. Whalen, John Nelson, Alfred Hoyer, Dan'l Nolan and T. J. Dyer. Interment was in Linwood. Many attended the funeral from out of town, among them, his mother, Mrs. Hannah Humphrey, and his brother, John B. Humphrey, of Lockport, N. Y.; Fred Humphrey and Mrs. Lucy Tubbs of Kiowa, Kansas; Edwin Humphrey of Miami, Texas.

For Twenty Years.

Other child remedies have sprung up, flourished for a brief season, then passed away—even from memory—but for twenty long years Chamberlain's Child Remedy has been in the field of action. The Panhandle exhibit car started on its trip to the north east Wednesday to disseminate knowledge of the productiveness of the Panhandle soil by showing specimens of crops, fruits, vegetables, grain, etc., raised here. It is a good display, considering the short time had in getting the car up. In order to keep the display fresh new specimens will have to be sent in every few days, so our farmers are asked to bring in nice specimens of their various products to Judge Carter who will see that they reach the car.

Geo. B. Dunn brought in a load of nice, large smooth apples yesterday, of the Ben Davis and Jenion varieties.

Mrs. Hooper, the wife of a young railway man at Amarillo, after a quarrel with her husband, took a dose of iodine, but prompt service of a physician saved her life.

In pronouncing for government or public ownership of railroads, Mr. Bryan will look longously for a very short time only. He has simply stepped out in advance towards the inevitable of the immediate future; and when the natural surprise is over the people will step up with him. That is the greatest stand for the people Mr. Bryan has yet taken, their name is legion who will so appreciate it, and he has simply beaten the other great political factor to a strong position. He has proven himself a leader really; in a progressive age and country conservatism is absolutely impossible.—Henrietta Review.

Alarmed over the fight the labor unions are making on the Republicans has caused President Roosevelt to issue an order extending the eight-hour day to all public works, in the hope of appeasing the labor voters.

Cooke county laid the corner stone of the largest and finest county court house in the world, that at Fort Worth having heretofore held this rank.

Land in the Southwest yielding crops valued at $20 and $30 per acre, growing corn, cotton, wheat or alfalfa, are certainly worthy as much as the $100 lands of the best developed agricultural regions of this country, yet these lands rarely sell for more than the value of one year's crop. The people must soon appreciate the real productive value of these lands. In the meantime there is great opportunity to pick up good land at low prices.—Ex.

Ten car loads of printed matter—principally catalogues—were received at Fort Worth one day last week billed to a local firm in that city from a Chicago mail order house. These catalogues were shipped by freight to Fort Worth and there turned over to the various express companies for distribution to people in various towns and communities in Texas. The estimated express charges on these catalogues is $7,000. No estimate, as yet, has been given of the amount of trade legitimately belongs to Texas merchants, that will go to those mail order houses, as a natural result of the distribution of this vast amount of literature.—Exchange.

Texas Booming!

Texas was never so prosperous as she is today. The remotest corners of the State are alive with progress and material development. Homes are being built, factories are building, railroads are improving their roadbeds and building new lines and developing new territory. The lumber mills are months behind with their orders, though prices are considerable higher than two years ago; but so is everything else. Labor is high and hard to get. Verily the State is booming as she never did before, and the town that does not get out with the tide of present prosperity is full of mosquitoes and her longevity is limited. Every community should strive to get a share of the great upheaval of progress that is sweeping over this great State, and the Panhandle is going after her share, in fact, is enjoying it in a substantial way, for no section of the Lone Star State is more prosperous than this.
