

EASTLAND

By JOE THOMAS COOK

Alex Clark, member of the local relief committee and supervisor of the work under the unemployment relief fund, took the Eastlander to the sites of each one of the projects now under way yesterday and explained to us the improvements that are being made. Painters were starting yesterday morning giving the west ward a new coat of paint, the first, by the way, that it has had since it was built back in 1919 or 1920.

People of the town who have not seen the work that is being done on high school hill should drive by and see the metamorphosis that is taking place. Two retaining walls of native sandstone are being built, one within a few feet of the street front along West Plummer and the other near the top of the hill in front of the school building. The rough, rocky hill will be landscaped and sodded after the walls are completed. The circular driveway in front of the building will be graded and surfaced, and much room will be provided for parking of cars. The school grounds are being leveled and improved and the street leading up to the grounds at the rear of the building will be put into much better shape, Mr. Clark explained.

The work relief fund may be used only for labor and not for materials, and here are some of the examples of expert management that have been devised by Mr. Clark and the committee. Trees on the land were cut down and the wood sold for enough to buy dynamite to blast out rock which is being used to construct the retaining walls. The cement used in the masonry is being obtained from lumber companies that are delinquent in their school taxes, and the teams being used in grading and leveling the ground are being furnished by contractors who owe delinquent school taxes.

The Eastlander has heard lots of hunting stories during the last week or two and this week we heard a real lion story. It goes like this: The lions that accompanied Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive" to town were stored (in their truck, of course) in one of the local garages over night. The garage attendant who opened up the next morning, not knowing the lions were in the garage, went nonchalantly about his morning duty of preparing the place of business for the day. He heard an unfamiliar noise, halted a moment and listened again. This time the paper lion roared with all the ferocity of his native jungle habitat and the attendant left the garage somewhat hurriedly in the complete and undisputed possession of the lions.

Mavericks eligible for the team next year will play a matched game with the Breckenridge Buckaroo team of 1933 this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Breckenridge. Coach Joe Gibson said this week. The two teams will meet again next Friday at the same time on Maverick Field in Eastland.

These games have been arranged for the teams to give the players returning next year more experience so they will be better prepared for next season.

OPENS LAW OFFICE

Loftin Witcher, who was formerly attorney for the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and located in Eastland, has recently opened a law office for private practice in Fort Worth.

Another Project Started in Work Relief Program

One project has been completed and another started in the unemployment work which is under the supervision of Alex Clark, chairman of the City Commission. Painters finished with their work on the exterior of the City Hall this week and another crew started repainting the woodwork on the exterior of the west ward school.

In the meantime the work on the high school improvement project and the clean-up work at the cemetery are going ahead, Mr. Clark said. At least the month of December will be required to complete the work at the high school. Other projects that will be undertaken under this relief fund will be the improvement of several of the city's unpaved streets. Residents of both South Daugherty and South Connelley streets have raised money to buy the necessary materials for the improvement of these streets.

A second shift of laborers was begun on these projects Tuesday of this week with 68 men working. Approximately 50 men are required every day on the improvement of high school hill. More than 300 men have applied for work under

John Lewis Tindall Buried Last Sunday

Funeral services for John Lewis Tindall were conducted at the family residence on South Daugherty Street at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with the Rev. W. P. Wall officiating. Interment was in Eastland cemetery.

Mr. Tindall died here at 5:30 o'clock last Friday afternoon. He was born in Mississippi January 14, 1846, and came to Texas as a young man. He was one of Eastland's pioneer citizens, having been deputy sheriff of the county in 1881 and 1882. He was a member of the Christian Church and of the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges.

He was married September 19, 1867, to Miss Elizabeth Long. Three of their six children survive him, Mrs. R. L. Davenport, Jack Tindall, and Robert C. Tindall. A number of grandchildren also survive.

Pall bearers were R. E. Sikes, Ross Crossley, Neal Day, Bam White, Clyde L. Garrett, James A. Beard, Lynn Hightower, and Loss Woods.

Red Cross Cloth Totals 3000 Yards

More than 3000 yards of cotton cloth had been given away by Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. W. E. Stallter, supervisor of the distribution, said this week.

Orders for 281 yards were filled Saturday, and 128 yards were given away Tuesday. Only a few garments are being made at the workrooms, Mrs. Stallter said.

Eastland women who have assisted with the work this week are as follows: Mrs. Milton Newman and Mrs. Ed Graham of the Methodist W. M. S., Mrs. J. P. Truly of the Baptist W. M. S., Mrs. E. Day and Mrs. Morris Shelton of the Civic League.

Still Destroyed by County Officers

One of the largest stills found by the sheriff's department in several years was destroyed this week and 1500 gallons of mash was poured out. The still was located near Pioneer in the southern part of the county.

The still was deserted at the time the officers visited it and no arrests were made. Sheriff Virgo Foster and Deputies Loss Woods and Steele Hill found the still.

N. L. Smitham is reported to be improving after a serious illness.

Trades Day Program for Next Monday Includes Riding and Roping Events

Plans for the first Monday Trades Day program and rodeo sponsored here each month by the Retail Merchants Association are being made this week, H. C. Davis, secretary, announced Thursday.

Calf roping, bronc riding, steer riding, and goat roping will be features of the rodeo. The corral is to be dragged and graded before Monday, the work being done by the city.

A number of good ropers will be here, and they as well as the goats and calves, will get their fling, Mr. Davis said. Some good broncs are being brought, and plans are under way to secure one or two steers to ride. The program will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Favorable comment from the people of Eastland's trade territory has been heard concerning the last few programs of this nature, and prospects for next Monday's entertainment are better than ever before, Mr. Davis said. The merchants of the town offer this free entertainment to all who enjoy the thrill of the bucking bronc.

Trading of livestock has been taking place on the lots just off the square, and others are expected to bring their livestock Monday.

CofC. Has Free Wrapping Station

A free Christmas wrapping station will be maintained at the Chamber of Commerce rooms during the Christmas season, Dr. H. B. Tanner announced this week. Parcels will be wrapped for mailing, without charge, as has been the custom the past four years. Dr. Tanner's statement follows:

"In line with the idea of making the Chamber of Commerce useful to our citizens, we propose to capitalize this 'good-will' during the coming holidays by continuing the custom we have observed during the past four years of a free Christmas wrapping station in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

"We will properly wrap free of charge all packages brought to us by our citizens who wish to have them go by parcel post or express. Our rooms will be equipped with tables, paper racks, wrapping paper, twine, ink, blotters, uniform address labels and perhaps mistletoe, the latter to be included in the packages if our friends wish. We will wrap these packages according to the requirements of the post office department so that they will be handled without breakage.

"We will be ready for this service about the fifth of December and continue till the holidays are over.

"This will relieve the congestion at the post office where too frequently packages are offered for parcel post that cannot be accepted on account of their not being properly wrapped.

"It will also largely eliminate goods being broken or lost in the mails. The same applies to express packages.

"It will be of assistance to our merchants in relieving them of the necessity of extra labor in trying to please their customers by securely wrapping packages for shipment. It will give our city fine publicity, since every package carries a uniform label with a cut of Old Rip and also the name of our city and the legend 'wrapped by the Chamber of Commerce'."

Batdorf Resigns Pastorate Here

The Rev. J. W. Batdorf, pastor of the local Church of God congregation for more than two years, read his resignation from that office Wednesday night at the prayer service. His statement follows:

"I have appreciated my contact with the good people of Eastland during the past two years. Everyone has been a pleasure to me. I am especially grateful for the fine fellowship I have enjoyed with the ministers and members of other churches. I trust that the same spirit of co-operation and Christian unity will continue to prevail between the churches in the future as it has the past two years. I am quite certain that this is pleasing to the Master who prayed that his people might all be one. My resignation as pastor of this church becomes effective immediately. I will preach my farewell message Sunday night, December 4. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this service."

Roy Brown, Troy Harkrider and Odell Crubb spent Sunday in Breckenridge.

Fire Department Praised by Tate

A letter of gratitude from Mayor W. A. Tate of Carbon for the work of the Eastland Fire Department in extinguishing a fire in Carbon Sunday, November 20, was received by Fire Chief A. W. Hennessee this week. A check for $10 accompanied the letter and this money will pay for some of the clothes damaged by several volunteer firemen who accompanied the truck to Carbon.

The letter follows: "We wish to take this method of expressing to your most efficient department our most grateful thanks and appreciation for your prompt response to our call for help in extinguishing the fire that would have ruined our peanut plant and possibly a lot of damage to other properties, on last Sunday, November 20, 1932.

"We want to assure these firemen and your city that we do appreciate their assistance and loyalty to us as neighbors, and should anything ever occur wherein we could help you, call on us and we will be at your service with our best.

"Our citizens who watched these firemen handle their equipment, saw them extinguish those blazes, and saw them die out, know that the firemen certainly know their business, and again we thank you, and assure you of our sincerity, we are,

"Yours most gratefully,
"W. A. Tate, Mayor,
City of Carbon, Texas."

Eastland school children gave $21.33, both South and West wards giving 100 per cent. The Lions and Rotary clubs, Arab Gasoline Corporation, and Piggly Wiggly also attained the 100 per cent mark. Both the Texas Electric Service Company and the Community Natural Gas Company made generous contributions, Mrs. McCarty said.

Mrs. McCarty expressed her appreciation of the splendid response accorded her and her workers by the people of Eastland. She stated that although the goal set for the city was not reached, she was thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which the citizens had responded.

Mrs. McCarty also expressed her appreciation of the corps of workers that assisted in the drive, saying that each was willing, pleasant, and efficient.

A collection of paintings by Texas artists is assembled each year by this association, from which a group is selected to be sent on tour. These paintings were selected only a short time ago, and Judge and Mrs. Hickman were able to secure them early, this being only the third time they have been on exhibition. They will be shown in Dallas, Fort Worth, and several other larger cities next spring, Mrs. Hickman said.

Members of every organization in town have been invited to see the collection. Open house was held Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon, and another opportunity will be given the public to view the exhibit between 7 and 10 o'clock tonight. School children will attend Saturday morning between 9:30 and 11 o'clock.

"Dear Entertainers: "I am enclosing a few programs of the Men's 9:49 Bible Class.

"The '9:49' refers to the time the class program begins, and we are all ways on time like the 'Katy' special. We start our program on the dot and close just as promptly at 10:44. We have 392 members with an average attendance of more than 100. Will Rogers could not draw as big a crowd every Sunday in a town of 4500 population.

"November 30 the writer will be 73 years young. Have Ken Black play and sing 'Lead Kindly Light.' "Thank you,

"A. L. AGATE."

The request was complied with, and the announcer commented on the record of the 9:49 class, offering it as a challenge for other Sunday schools to match.

Grass in Eastland To Be Burned by Fire Department

Burning of dead grass was ordered this week by the Eastland Department and will continue through the next few weeks. Most of the grass in Eastland business and residential sections has been burned, Fire Chief Hennessee announced this week.

The purpose of this clean-up work is that it will lessen the possibility of serious fire damage resulting from grass fires, the fire chief explained. The department has been called to several grass fires during the few weeks, and luckily the damage has arrived in time to prevent property damage. But the grass will always be present, and the burning of the grass under the supervision of the department is safer than for the citizen to burn it on his own grass.

The progress in grass burning will be dependent upon the weather conditions during the next few weeks. Grass can not be burned safely on windy days, and days will also impede the work of the department.

During the first day or two a chemical truck was taken along the blocks where grass was burned, but the fire chief said that the small pump cans used by each man were sufficient to control the fire, and all the grass is being left at the station.

The chief intends to burn grass on vacant lots and on residential lots without the permission of the owners, except when the residents notifies the department that they do not want grass burned on their property. All necessary precautions are being taken to safeguard the trees and shrubbery on the blocks where grass is burned.

District Rally at Cisco.

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Cisco Baptist Association, by call of the president, Mrs. G. W. Thomas of Ranger, held a rally at the First Baptist church, Cisco, Monday afternoon, with approximately every church in the association being represented. This meeting was in the interest of the Lottie Moon Christmas offering taken each year by the Baptist women of the South, whereby 103 missionaries are kept upon the field and numerous missionary projects are fostered. The goal set for this year is $160,000 for the entire South, the amount assigned to Texas being $40,000 and to Cisco Baptist Association $375.

The outstanding features of the afternoon were the addresses made by Miss Bertha Hunt of Pernambuco, Brazil, and Miss Willafred, who for 22 years has been a missionary in the North China field, having left China in July. As these two workers told of the wonders that have been accomplished on the foreign field with the money sent over by the homeland, their hearers determined to try to have a greater part in this work than ever before. Eastland was represented by a group of thirty women and their pastor, Rev. O. B. Darby.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

Included with other passages read from the Bible was the following from Psalm 118: "This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it. Save now, I beseech thee, O Lord: O Lord, I beseech thee, send now prosperity. . . Thou are my God, and I will praise thee: thou art my God, I will exalt thee. O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever."

Citations were also read from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one citation being as follows (p. 3): "We admit theoretically that God is good, omnipotent, omnipresent, infinite and then we try to give information to this infinite Mind. We plead for unmerited pardon and for a liberal outpouring of benefactions. Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech. . . . What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds."

"Ancient and Modern Neuro-mancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 27.

Among the passages read from the Bible was the following from James 3: "Who is a wise man and endowed with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. . . . For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work."

The lesson-sermon also included citations from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which was as follows (p. 407): "Man's enslavement to the most relentless masters—passion, selfishness, envy, hatred, and revenge—is conquered only by a mighty struggle. Every hour of delay makes the struggle more severe. If man is not victorious over the passions, they crush out happiness, health, and manhood. Here Christian Science is the sovereign panacea, giving strength to the weakness of mortal mind,—strength from the immortal and omnipotent Mind,—and lifting humanity above itself into prerer desires, even into spiritual power and goodwill to man."

TEMPERAMENT

By PAUL HAWK

Elise, carrying her heavy traveling bag, looked up at the rambling, aristocratic old structure that was, she hoped, to be her new home for a long time. It was a beautiful place surrounded by spacious grounds, and it seemed to be a perfect setting for the sign which announced in Old English letters: Hudson Institute of Fine Arts.

She crossed the wide veranda and entered a panelled hallway. Sounds to the left told her a dancing class was being held. Muted pounds of pianos from various parts of the house came to her. She went into the office on the right.

"I'm Miss Chesterton," she announced to the woman there.

"And I'm Mrs. Wilson," said that lady. She was little and energetic, as befitted the business manager of such a large school. "I'm glad you're here. I've already quite a large class of beginners for you. Come, I'll show you your room. You can get settled today, and tomorrow you start work."

The room was on the third floor. "I must warn you, Miss Chesterton," Mrs. Wilson told her, "that it's Mr. Carleton you'll have to please. Understand it's not to make you nervous or anything, but, although I'm business manager, he has the say about our instructors. And he's quite temperamental. He won't stand for any disturbing noises. So, as your room is just beneath his apartment, you'll have to be careful. And he's liable to practice at any time of the day or night. You know of him of course. His programs are well received all over the country. Some day he'll be America's leading musician. But I'm sure you'll get along all right."

Elise found her trunk in the hall. As she went into her room, she heard strains of music from the studio above. She listened for a while, standing at the window and looking out over the garden of flowers, the velvety lawn and well-kept shrubs, toward the river in the background. What a musician that man was!

As she turned away from the wide window she inadvertently tipped over a potted plant that some former occupant had left there. It fell to the floor with a loud crash. Instantly the music above stopped. She heard restless footsteps. She could picture the artist tearing his long hair in a frenzy of being interrupted in his work.

She heard a crisp voice through the ceiling. "I suppose you are Miss Chesterton?"

Elise's face flushed. Not a very auspicious beginning for her. "Yes," she answered.

"I hope you will contrive not to follow your noiser practices when I'm practicing. It's quite unfortunate that you should get the room below me."

"I'm sorry," said Elise, "but I certainly didn't do it on purpose."

His voice hadn't been unkind, but, if he'd say that to somebody he'd never met, what would it be later on after he got to know her? She'd be worried all the time.

Elise walked down to the river's edge. On the way back she stopped to admire the flowers in the garden. Rounding the corner of a little trellised summer house, she bumped into a bareheaded, overalled young man. His sandy hair was all awry. His hands were dirty, and in one of them there was a trowel.

"I beg your pardon," he said, and stepped back to look at her.

Elise was enough to make a young man look twice. She had long black hair coiled in a knot low on her neck. She had dreamy black eyes that fitted the solemn intonation of her name—Elise. Her skin was of that milky whiteness that only appears startling on the perfect brunette. And while she was not fat, Elsie was very properly curved.

"What a pretty garden!" she exclaimed.

"Thank you," said the young man.

Elsie looked back at him. He was rather handsome for a gardener. "And do you help in the house too?" she asked.

The young man looked at her curiously. "I might," he said, and grinned.

"Because I've a trunk to get in my room. I'm Miss Chesterton."

"Call me Red," he said.

Red was a sympathetic person. He moved her trunk in, offered her a cigarette, and before she knew it, Elise was confessing her hopes and fears about her job to him.

Red scoffed. "Afraid of that fellow? Don't let these temperamental ones bother you. He's just a lot of wind when he's keyed up that way. If Carleton worries you, you just let me know."

"Even your sympathy helps," Elsie said. "You see, I've studied a lot, and I'm good, but I've never taught before."

"What's your —er—handle?" Red asked boldly. "Miss Chesterton's too long."

"All right—call me Elise then."

The first week was very long. The pupils of Elise had liked her, but the hour lessons all day long were trying on her nerves. And then there was the matter of wondering if Mr. Carleton, whom she still had not met, would like her work. And the other matter of evening's in a city in which she had no pals.

She retreated daily to the garden. Since he was always there, it was only natural that she talk to the understanding Red.

"That Carleton's so sneaky," she complained to him. "Why, after a lesson the other day, I opened the door, and there he went, down the dark hall. I just know he was listening in on me. I thought he was an older man though."

"Bout my age," said Red. "Did you talk to him?"

"I've never even had a good look at him. He beats me!"

"Want to go to a play with me tonight?"

"Oh, I do."

The next day, Mrs. Wilson called Elise into the office. "Mr. Carleton's not exactly pleased with your method of giving lessons," she said. "He hopes you'll be more patient and try harder."

Patience? As if she weren't!

"Why doesn't he talk things over with me?" Elsie wailed.

"Now don't be too alarmed, my dear. He just doesn't like interviews and routine work. We have to humor him you know. And it does show he's interested in your work."

Elise retreated to the garden. She sat down in the summer house hidden from view. Her best chance, and she was failing! The tears came to her eyes.

Red came in. She couldn't see well enough to tell he wasn't at all dirty from his gardening.

"Tell me about it," he demanded. Elise did.

"Come on, get it over." He pulled her head down to his shoulder and patted her comfortingly while she cried a little. Then he turned up her wet face and kissed her lips. That remedy seemed to relieve her a little.

"I hope," Red said cheerfully, "that Carleton keeps on picking on you. It certainly helps me! As a comforter, I'm at my best."

Elise smiled through her tears. "You might try that—that remedy again."

Carleton did keep on fussing at her—but still through Mrs. Wilson. And Red was there each time with his remedy—a remedy daily acquiring more healing power. In fact, she looked forward to the remedy more than she hated Carleton's complaints.

Then one day, Red said, "Listen. I know a permanent cure for this Carleton trouble. If you take it, Carleton won't ever cuss you out any more."

Elise looked at him questioning-ly.

"Marry me. You know I love you."

Some time later, Elise started for her studio and called back to him. "Till dinner then, Red."

Mrs. Wilson appeared beside her. "Wha-what did you call him?"

"Red," Elise said defiantly, prepared for criticism about her acquaintance with a gradener.

"Imagine! And with his temperament too! Oh well, Mr. Carleton does some funny things—such as that—and putting around in the garden. All great musicians do."

Elise gasped—and finally understood.

Milk Production Increases in 1931

Milk production on farms in 1931 is estimated at 101,815,000,000 pounds by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as compared with 99,705,000,000 pounds in 1930, and 98,782,000,000 pounds in 1929. The department's Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated, in addition, that about 2,807,000,000 pounds of milk are produced annually in towns, villages, and rural places not classed by the census as farms.

Of the milk produced on farms last year, it is estimated that 25,398,000,000 pounds was fed to calves, used for making farm butter, or consumed as milk or cream on farms where produced. This left 76,417,000,000 pounds available for sale as milk or cream, and of this quantity about 34,973,000,000 pound was skimmed on the farms for sale of the butterfat, about 6,943,000,000 pounds was retailed locally by producers, and about 34,501, 000,000 pounds was delivered to creameries, condensaries, cheese factories, milk receiving stations, or marketed through other wholesale outlets.

The bureau says that the estimates of production and utilization of milk in the various states in 1931 indicate rather wide regional variations both in production per cow and in the use of the milk. In general the highest production of milk per cow is reported from market milk areas where cows of the low-testing dairy breeds predominate, where few calves are allowed to run with the cows, and where returns from the products sold encourages intensive feeding of cows.

WHEN?

"When?" seems to be an appropriate question under present conditions if you consider the number of times during the last four or five years you have heard: "our capital is being drained from the smaller communities."

Like the foregoing expressions "buy it in Eastland" is about to become threadbare and trite. It has been repeated so often without the one who used it knowing its full significance and purport that it has lost its effect.

But to those citizens of this town who are out of work or who are receiving only one-half, one-third, or even less, of the salary they received a few years ago there is a meaning, and a poignant one, to "buy it in Eastland."

Part of this condition today undoubtedly is due to our money's leaving Eastland. And, Mr. Merchant, where can you borrow money? Or where could you borrow money the last year but so that Eastland had a bank? You could not borrow it. One Eastland merchant, one characterized by a banker as a sound merchant and a good risk, was unable to borrow money. He returned to his store immediately and let all of his employees go. The loss of jobs for these two or three people was only a small part of the evil results. This instance had a tendency to discourage other merchants and citizens and played its part in the downward trend of things.

This merchant's own words were these in substance: "I wanted to expand. I did not absolutely have to have the money, and, when I received the answer that I did from the bank, instead of employing more people and expanding my business, I took the other route."

The conversation with the banker and the one with the merchant would lead one to think that the only reason the merchant did not receive the loan was that the bank did not have the money, and the reason the bank did not have it was that Eastland people, including the merchants, were supporting out-of-town institutions—perhaps buying dry goods, groceries, bonds, and newspaper advertisements, all of which contributed to out-of-town payrolls.

The merchant has a duty just as great as the consumer in the "buy it in Eastland" move. We know that in order to make money you must be in a place where there is money. The merchant needs customers with money and the customers are likewise dependent on the merchants and need a prosperous group of merchants—those that are able to pay a living wage, expand their business, and put money into the pockets of their customers.

So WHEN will it become more evident to all of us that we must keep our money at home if Eastland is to grow and prosper?

Odd Things and New—By Lane Bode

Better Rural Schools Prepared by the State Educational Committee

Much of the best blood of the Nation is kept poor and ignorant because its possessors are in the depressed class of farmers. Especially is this true in the South, where farming is the dominant vocation, and depressed prices and wretched marketing keep even the industrious poverty-stricken. Poor communities mean poor schooling and poor schooling means ignorance. It is an endless chain that must be broken in some fashion. No democracy can prosper unless the average citizen has a fair amount of intelligence. No matter how good a brain he may inherit, it remains dormant for the most part unless social and educational contacts develop in him intelligence. The greatest waste in Texas, for example, is not the waste of public money nor of natural gas, but the waste of brain capacity undeveloped through a lack of education. An undeveloped brain means a wasted life and there is a great social loss through capacity unused. Any system of education is defective that fails to give the children of rural families as good an education as that given in the cities. It is the States business to see to it that all its children of school

Useful Gifts For The Whole Family

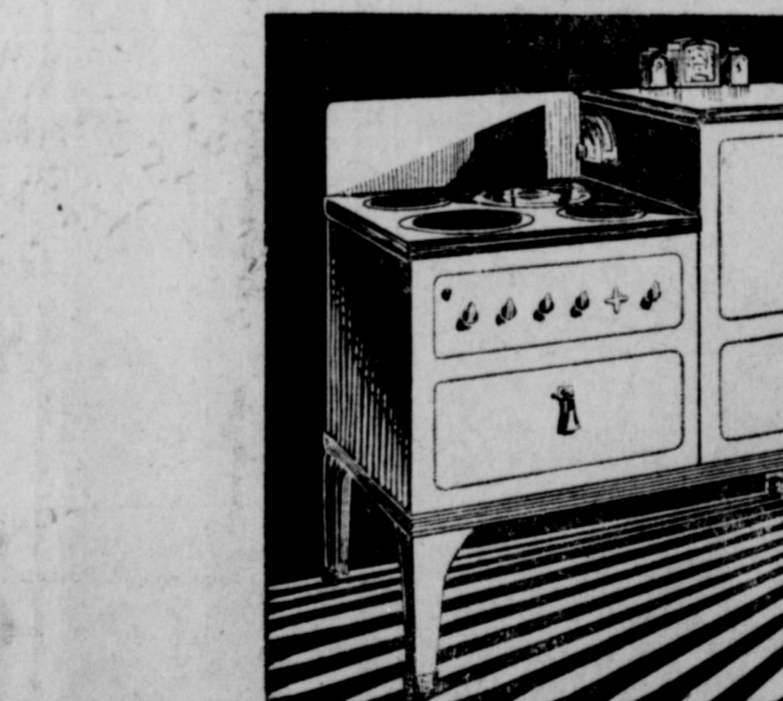

"Make Them Happy with Things Electrical"

One useful gift for the whole family—that is sound advice to the modern Christmas shopper. In bygone days we picked individual presents for every member of the family—one for Dad, another for Mother and the same for Brother and Sister. And most of the time, knickknacks and baubles were the rule because for the average giver, four or five useful, sizeable gifts per family meant too great an expense. We've solved that problem—in our store are dozens of low-priced, high quality electrical appliances, any one of which takes care of the gift requirements for the whole family. Look them over—electric ranges, percolators, irons, heaters, lamps—real, honest-to-goodness "family" gifts that will for years and years remain as reminders of your thoughtfulness. FIRST METHODIST CHURCH Sam G. Thompson, pastor.

The Sunday school meets every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. The total attendance last Sunday was 357, an increase of twelve over last Sunday. We are confidently expecting a larger attendance next Sunday. We want to reach four hundred and have every one on time.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The evening service will be held at 7 o'clock. Some of the brethren forgot about the change of time and came after the evening service was over. As a good steward and friend of mine used to say, "Let us have the service in the forepart of the night." About fifty were present at choir practice Monday night. Great preparation is being made for not only the Christmas music but for next Sunday's services.

The pastor wishes to invite every body who does not go to some other church to be with us in our services together with strangers and visitors. Everybody will have an enthusiastic welcome.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

Eastland Mavericks Finish Season Trouncing Brownwood Lions 34 to 7

The Eastland Mavericks snapped out of the doldrums which had gripped them most of the season and finished the season in a flashing style to swamp the Brownwood Lions 34-7 in a game played on the Maverick Field Thanksgiving morning.

With Co-captains Burgamy and Mackall carrying the ball, the Mavericks ripped through the Brownwood team and scored at will. Most of Eastland's long gains came through the center of the line and around end, and so frequent were the gains that few passes were resorted to for yardage.

Clearly the underdogs of the contest since Brownwood had made such a remarkable showing against the championship Ranger Bulldogs, the Mavericks played inspired football to keep themselves out of the cellar position in the Oil Belt conference.

Burgamy scored the first touchdown of the game when he drove through right tackle into a broken field for a 30-yard run and a touchdown. Joe Simmons kicked goal. This touchdown and several others to follow may be accredited to the work of Desmond Daniels, who was shifted from the backfield to his regular position of right tackle.

Vaughn Recovers Fumble. The second touchdown, also scored by Captain Burgamy, came as a result of a fumble recovered by Vaughn on the Lions 20-yard line. Co-captain Ed Mackall, who ripped through the middle of the Lion's forward wall with ease, scored the third touchdown late in the second quarter.

The Lions' only touchdown was made early in the third quarter came as the result of a blocked punt and a 25-yard penalty for Eastland. With the ball on the 7-yard line, the Mavericks held for two downs, but Harlow plunged through for the marker and the third attempt. Thomas converted.

Following a series of consistent gains by Burgamy and Mackall, in which Burgamy made a 20-yard end run, Garrison plowed the line for the Maverick's fourth touchdown, and Simmons converted the third time out of four attempts. The fifth and last touchdown for the Mavericks was another Burgamy-Mackall combination, and Simmons kicked goal, placing the final count at 34-7.

In the line Baggett and Fulcher at guard and tackle respectively played their greatest games, and Allison, though somewhat under par, was another reason the Mavericks so outclassed the Lions. Daniels play at right tackle was outstanding and his consistently good punting kept the ball in Lion territory most of the game.

For the Lions Harlow and Thomas were the mainstays, both making most of the gains recorded for the Brownwood team.

Miss Maudell Dominey visited her mother and sister in Ranger Sunday.

the work relief fund and they are being employed in rotation with the men working in 6-day shifts.

A total of $1,491.60 had been expended on the local projects through Wednesday night, November 30, W. C. Marlow, treasurer of the local relief committee, announced yesterday. The quota received by Eastland for the month of November was $3,175.86 and only approximately half of this amount has been expended. Another check for the same amount is due within the next few days for the month of December.

The money spent for salaries up to December 1 was apportioned as follows: Job No. 1, high school; $816.80; job No. 2, clean-up work at cemetery and elsewhere, $265.60; job No. 3, painting of city hall, $154; miscellaneous work and relief, $255.20. These amounts total $1,491.60.

Besides the expenditures on these projects within the city limits of Eastland $50 has been given to each of the following communities within a radius of five miles from Eastland: Morton Valley, Yellow Mound, Bedford, Mangum, Union, Flatwood, and Grapevine. Olden has received $240 for improvement work in that town.

KARL TANNER ILL

TWO GOOD RECIPES

By Miss Ruth Ramey, County Home Demonstration Agent

PEANUT BUTTER

Peanut butter, which is now recognized as a staple article of food, was only a few years ago very little used except as a special food for invalids. The food value of peanut butter is very high. Peanut butter of good quality will retain its sweetness and flavor for many months in an air-tight package. The presence of the "hearts" or germs in peanut butter cause a slight bitter flavor and it is believed will promote premature rancidity. All of the red skins should be removed before the peanuts are ground; otherwise a specky appearance of the butter will result and the flavor will not be sweet and good. In order to be sure of a good grade of peanut butter, it is best to make it often rather than to make a supply which will last for several months. When made at home, the actual cost of peanut butter is much less than the price paid in stores. In fact, it should not exceed 15 or 20 cent a pound, which is very low priced for a product of such high food value.

2 quarts spanish peanuts.
4 quarts Virginia peanuts.
2 ounces salt.
Roast the peanuts uniformly

brown. Cool, remove the red skins and tiny hearts or germs. Grind, add the salt and grind twice again so as to have salt well distributed throughout. (A good food chopper or meat grinder with fine knife or plate is good for grinding). A little oil or melted butter may be added if the peanut butter is not moist enough. If you add butter, just mix enough to use within the next few days as the butter will likely get old and give the peanut butter the old flavor.

WHOLE WHEAT CRACKERS

2 cups finely ground whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons solid fat
6 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon soda
2 tablespoons molasses
Mix dry ingredients and cut in the fat with a biscuit cutter. Mix the molasses and water and stir into the dry ingredients. Spread the mixture on to a baking sheet. Cut into squares (3 inches) and bake in a hot oven. Roll into a sheet as near one-eighth inch thickness as possible and cut into squares and put on baking sheet. Stick several holes in the squares with fork.

M. C. From Kansas

Miss Katy O'Laughlin of Hays Kan., is the first woman elected to represent Kansas in congress. She is thirty-eight years old. Running as a Democrat, she won over the incumbent, Representative C. I. Sparks, in the normally Republican Sixth district.

RAISES STRAWBERRIES

Clarendon — From 2 to 3 gallons per week of fresh strawberries, preserves for her pantry, and a start for beds for 10 friends, have all come from 100 Everbearing Mastodon plants set out last year by Mrs. J. M. Acord. She has given more than 1000 plants to her friends, states Miss Martha Buttrill, home demonstration agent.

STORE VEGETABLES

Farwell — One hundred and fifty heads of cabbage, 16 bushels of beets and some turnips have been stored in a long pit one foot deep, dug with a scraper by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thornton of Farwell, Parmer County. The pit was lined with corn shucks and the cabbage placed roots up, one layer deep. Then the beets and turnips were placed one layer deep and the pit covered with shucks and dirt. The Thorntons have found this method satisfactory for several years, according to Miss Rozelle McKenney, home demonstration agent.

Graham—Testing for estimated 100 to 200 barrels daily placed on steady production by Claro Co. Co. No. 2 Marshall estate in the area north of here.
