Judge Extends No-Strike Order To March 3

Going Forward

With Eastland
By Bob Moore

IN THE MAIL
"Dear Bob,
I believe it is the consensus of opinion that the Chamber of Commerce was a success. This, in great degree to the splendid publicity given on the occasion by yourself and the Eastland Telegram.
We certainly appreciate your courtesy and co-operation in helping in Eastland's progress.
With best personal regards, I am,
Sincerely,
H. J. Tanner, Manager."

After being in the hustle-bustle, crowded city of San Antonio over the week end, it is good to be back home. If you have never visited the Alamo City, you have a real treat in store. This scribe was the guest of Marshall Fox, vocational agriculture instructor in Eastland High School. Also attending were: two agriculture students, Donald Webb, and Buddy Aaron; and Mr. Fox's young son, Dean. Highlight of the trip was the San Antonio Livestock Exposition and Rodeo. Other scenic points visited included the Alamo, Brackenridge Park, Buckhorn Curio Store, and the Mission San Jose. It was a grand trip—entertaining, educational and interesting.

Progress always involves risk. You can't steal second base and keep your foot on first.
Three elderly men were discussing the ideal way in which to die.
"I'd like to crash in a car going 80 m. p. h.," said the first, aged 75.
"I'd rather die in a plane that crashed at 400 m. p. h.," said the second, aged 80.
"Well, boys, that's all very well," mused the third, aged 85. "But personally, I'd rather be shot by a jealous husband."

Seriously injured was Lou Ann Jackson, about 19, of Carbon. She was hospitalized in Graham Hospital here with three fractured ribs.
Other hurt were Adrain Gonze, 13, Route 2, Eastland; Mary Ellen Harper, 16, Cisco, and Perry Ken Kendrick, 13, of Cisco. They were treated for facial cuts and dismissed.
Frances Bond, Cisco Junior College student who was driving, said the steering mechanism locked, forcing the bus into the ditch.

CHANCES FOR AVOIDING PHONE STRIKE VERY SLIM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (UP)—Government officials said today the prospects for heading off a nationwide telephone strike this Friday "are not too good."
They said spokesmen for the CIO Communications Workers and the telephone industry may be summoned to new mediation conferences tomorrow.

About 100,000 members of the union have voted to walk out Friday. Another 150,000, whose contract expires soon, are expected to respect the picket lines.
The strike was originally scheduled to start Feb. 8, but was postponed at the request of Federal Mediator Cyrus S. Ching.
During the "truce," negotiations were held with Bell System Companies across the country. Industries and union negotiators as well as Federal Mediators reported to Ching today on the status of bargaining efforts.
Ching was not talking about his next move. But other government officials said new meetings with some union and industry officials may be scheduled tomorrow.

The new mediation efforts probably would be directed especially toward the Western Electric Company's dispute with installation and sales personnel.
The installation workers have a strategic importance in the dispute since they are stationed at most of the nation's telephone exchanges. If other workers refused to cross their picket lines, service all over the country would be disrupted.
The union has been seeking better pay, shorter hours, and an improved pension plan in its new contract. The union last week offered to accept a 15-cent-an-hour "packing" wage increase and let bargaining sessions in the field decide how it should be divided.
Union president Joseph Beirne has indicated that the union would be glad to accept a presidential fact-finding board to study the dispute and make settlement recommendations. Government officials said such a procedure is not under consideration.
Beirne has said that, in the event of a strike, the general public and the national CIO's 6,000,000 (M) members should overload the nation's switchboard with calls in an effort to cause breakdowns of the dial system and disrupt service.

MERCY DEATH TRIAL OF DR. SANDER UNDERWAY

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 20 (UP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander came to the Hillsborough county courthouse today to be tried for murder in the "mercy death" of an incurable cancer patient.
The trial began at 10:12 A. M. He carried the memory of his two little daughters peering after him through a scratched lookout in the frosty window pane, when he left his Candia home.
Before him lay a grueling trial for the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto that could end on a hangman's noose.
Dr. Sander reached the courtroom at 9:57 A. M. with him was his chief counsel, Louis E. Wyman another attorney, and Mrs. Sander.
She had not expected to attend the trial because of a cold. But, she said, she felt better today and decided to accompany her husband.
Mrs. Sander wore the same gray coat and hat with feather that she wore at his arraignment. The doctor wore a new steel-blue suit, a black overcoat and gray hat. Both were tense.
As they passed through more than 100 newsmen in a lower corridor and faced a battery of news-reel cameras and floodlights, the doctor was asked, "how do you feel?"

"Fine," he said in a barely audible voice.
Outside in the two-below-zero and blustery wind, were about 50 townsmen. They cheered and shouted words of encouragement as he passed.
Inside were many of the 163 veniremen.
The doctor said he and his wife spent yesterday away from home and returned late last night. He said he hoped he might continue to stay at home during the proceedings because of his wife's cold and because he did not wish to impose on neighbors.
The courthouse was a bedlam of confusion long prior to the doctor's appearance.
Deputy sheriffs were halting newsmen as they walked through the building, demanding that they show their passes.
Only 10 seats were available for reporters for the start of the trial since the veniremen were seated in the courtroom pending selection of the jury.

West Texans Opposed To 'Gravy Train'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 — West Texans are alarmed over federal spending and "socialistic leanings," of their government in Washington, Representative Burleson of Anson said Sunday when he reported results on the questionnaire which he sent to poll tax holders of the 17th Congressional District.

Burleson blocked off space on the questionnaire for his constituents to comment on the federal government. Heavily predominating all the comments were "cut government spending" and "stop socialistic leanings of the government," Burleson said.
This is the second straight year that Burleson has sent questionnaires on national issues to poll tax holders of his 12-county West Texas congressional district.
Excise taxes on so-called luxury items should be retained, the congressional district's voters told Burleson voting 3,092 to 2,958 against removing the taxes on cosmetics, furs, jewelry, luggage, etc.
But the district told Burleson overwhelmingly that taxes should not be increased, voting 4,839 to 1,297 against lifting taxes.
The results revealed that the congressional district is opposed by a close vote to federal aid to education if it is extended only to public schools, and against it overwhelmingly if given to both public and religious schools. A total of 3,206 in the district voted "no" when asked if federal aid should be given to public schools, while 3,048 voted "yes."

Those who answered Burleson's questionnaire voted 5,835 to 550 in favor of extending the present draft law, due to expire June 24, "if it appears necessary for national security." They snowed under the proposed compulsory health insurance program with a 5,137 to 1,085 vote against it.
Burleson asked his constituents' opinion of his idea of deporting traitors to a place of American exile—an "isle of elba"—and found 6,010 votes of approval against only 325 of disapproval.
Burleson mailed 41,693 questionnaires and 6,627 were returned, he said. The counties of his district are Callahan, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Hamilton, Jones, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor.

J. C. Poe, owner, said the plane design required nine bunches of carnation pinks, six bunches of cornflowers, and 100 Esther Red Daisies. It was three feet long, with about a 34-inch wing spread, and it was mounted on a four foot easel. One dozen white gladioli were used at the base, with greens and red, white and blue ribbon.

WANTS MORE TIME TO STUDY 80-DAY INJUNCTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (UP)—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach today extended until March 3 his temporary no-strike order against John L. Lewis' striking soft coal miners.
The original order was due to expire tomorrow.
Keach ordered the extension so he could have more time to consider the government's request to convert the temporary order into a full 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction.

Meanwhile, government lawyers indicated they probably would withhold until tomorrow any request for contempt of court citations against the UMW and its leader.
There were predictions by some sources that President Truman might ask Congress for power to seize the mines. Chairman David L. Cole of the president's fact-finding board raised that possibility last week. But Mr. Truman has said that he does not have now war seizure authority.
The coal strike and a walkout of Chrysler workers, now in its 27th day, already had idled about 570,000 workers. And government officials were pessimistic about the chances of heading off a nationwide telephone strike Friday.

About 100,000 members of the CIO Communications workers are scheduled to walk out, and 150,000 other telephone workers are expected to respect their picket lines.
Government officials said new mediation conferences may be scheduled tomorrow.
In the coal dispute, negotiations were to resume this afternoon, saying that he and Federal Mediation chief Cyrus S. Ching were dissatisfied with the way things were going.
Meanwhile, precious fuel supplies were going faster as the northern part of the nation suffered in cold weather.
Further brownout orders were expected within a few days.
The Illinois Commerce Commission met today to receive reports on utilities' supplies of coal, and members said they would consider declaring a brownout.
Massachusetts was considering plans for coal rationing, and Minnesota state fuel conservator James W. Clark already had ordered rationing.

In New York City, Times Square turned off its huge electrical signs and Broadway's great White Way was dimmed into just another street.

ENGINEER OF WRECKED TRAIN DAZED WITH GRIEF

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N. Y., Feb. 20 (UP)—The engineman blamed for the Long Island railroad wreck which killed 29 persons and injured 115 still was so dazed and "grief-stricken" today he could not tell how it happened.
His son said Jacob Kiefer, 55, a veteran of 32 years of railroad, has had only rare "minutes of clear thinking" since the Friday night disaster. He repeatedly lapses into a dazed stupor, his son said.
Because of Kiefer's condition, his arraignment on a manslaughter charge, originally scheduled for this morning, has been postponed until he recovers himself.

The state Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Long Island Railroad meanwhile started inquiries into the disaster. Authorities began to interview all known passengers on the two electric trains which smashed in a head-on collision on a gantlet section of track.
Nassau District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta accused Kiefer of running "through a red light." The engineman was placed under house arrest and a police guard has been stationed at his nearby Baldwin, N. Y. home since early Saturday morning.
The description of Kiefer's condition came from his son, Donald, who said "it is all still as much of a mystery to our family, including my father, as it must be to the rest of the island."
He said his father had a "fine" record and his first concern always was for the safety and comfort of his passengers.
He said he was sure his father "will not try to alibi or escape any fault that is justly his."
Kiefer would face a maximum 15 year prison term and a $1,000 fine if convicted of second-degree manslaughter. No charges were contemplated against J. W. Markin, engineer of the west bound train, who escaped serious injury in the collision.
Ten of the 38 passengers still hospitalized were in a critical condition.
The wreck, worst in the history of the railroad and the worst in the nation since the Naperville, Ill., wreck in which 45 died in 1946, occurred about 1,000 feet of the Rockville Centre station. Kiefer's east bound train and Markin's west bound train, each with 12 cars and carrying a combined total of about 1,000 passengers, collided on a stretch of overlapping track.
The overlap had been set up pending completion of a project to raise the railroad's right of way to eliminate 11 dangerous grade crossings.

Rotary Will Hold Inter-City Meeting Here

An inter-city meeting of Rotary Club in this area will be held Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the American Legion Hall, with the Eastland Club as hosts, president Kenneth Cowan stated.

Clubs to be represented include Cisco, Ranger, Breckenridge, Stephenville and Dublin.

Scout Troop 66 Has Weiner Roast

Approximately a dozen members of First Methodist Church Boy Scout Troop 66 enjoyed a weiner roast Friday night in the City Park.
Rev. J. Morris Bailey, institutional representative, presided in the absence of Scoutmaster Bob Moore.
Following the feed, Rev. Bailey conducted a game session with "I See A Bear" proving a favorite with the boys.
Troop 66 will hold its next regular meeting Friday night at 7 o'clock in the basement of the First Methodist Church. The troop still has several openings for new members. Boys, at least 11 years old, are eligible to join.

Long Range Atom Weapon Rumored

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (UP)—A guided atomic missile that can be launched 500 miles from the target by a big bomber may be just around the corner.

Defense officials revealed in weekend interviews that "several" self-propelled, surface-to-surface guided missiles with ranges of more than 500 miles had been developed.

Informed sources said these missiles, with modifications, probably could be converted to be dropped on enemy targets by bombing planes.

Defense officials, reporting "satisfactory" progress in all phases of guided missile work, also disclosed development of a 12,000-pound free-falling bomb that can be guided all the way to its target. They said this could be an atomic bomb.

Air Force officials said the largest guided bomb is ready for combat use. This raised the possibility that atomic bombs might be "guided" in the forthcoming

"THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN under the Fatherhood of God is our only guarantee of the preservation of the blessings of Democracy," Governor Allan Shivers says in an official memorandum designating February 19-26 as Brotherhood Week in Texas. Governor Shivers, far right, issued the memorandum at the request of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders. Shown with the Governor from left to right are W. F. McNamara, Joe C. Carrington and Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, Austin leaders of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, sponsors of the 17th annual national observance of Brotherhood Week. In issuing the call to observe Brotherhood Week, Governor Shivers urged all to rededicate themselves to that principle of our government that recognizes "the dignity and worth of every citizen" and guarantees these rights through the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights.

The 500-mile guided missiles still are labeled as experimental because at the full distance of 500 miles must wait until the new Banana River, Fla., long-range proving ground is ready about a year hence.

Brig. Gen. William L. Richardson, who will command the Banana River testing ground, said the Air Force is "vigorously pushing" work on multi-stage missiles both as to propulsion and guidance.

Mississippi Spreading In Lower Valley

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (UP)—Floodwaters crept higher and wider in the lower Mississippi Valley today, but tributaries of the big river were falling farther north.

The Red, Black and Ouachita rivers in Louisiana rose slowly toward predicted crests, and Brig. Gen. Raymond Hufft, state disaster relief co-ordinator, said the situation was "critical" at Marksville, Jonesville and Ferriday, La. "A levee break anywhere in those regions could hurt and hurt badly," Hufft said.

More than 9,000 lowland residents were homeless in Louisiana and an estimated 20,000 were still refugees from the St. Francis and other streams in Arkansas. In Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana, rivers were falling and most refugees had returned to their homes.

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Azalea Palmer, young, beautiful, platinum haired, finds her father murdered at her home. A short time before her fiancé, Paul Moody, a young sculptor, had come to see the murdered man, Wendell Palmer, because he had opposed Paul's plans to marry Azalea and had prevented Paul from obtaining a commission to sculpt a group of figures for a new building. Nadine Fennell, Azalea's closest friend, has succeeded in quieting the murdered man's daughter and the police have been called.

Dorton's voice gave a sharp command: "Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone!"

III
AZALEA PALMER and Nadine Fennell were still numb with shock and dumb for lack of words to fit their horror when the air was pierced by a wild superhuman banshee wail that seemed almost to express the mad sorrow that death and sudden death and vicious death must uglify the world.

The two girls, shrinking away from the mute victim of crime, were in such terror that it seemed as if Nadine had no more than left the telephone and taken the shivering Azalea into her strong arms when the radio siren-shriek was broken off, and they heard the sound of footsteps on the outer marble stairway.

Through the open door came two big officers, who strode to the side of the two girls and stopped short as if on the edge of an abyss, as familiar to them as death is to a doctor.

To the questions implied in their eyes, Nadine gave what answers she could. Indicating Azalea, whose head was buried in Nadine's shoulder, she said:

"It's her father, Wendell Palmer."
The two officers exchanged glances and then looked down at the dead with a new respect. Wendell Palmer was a big man. This homicide was a big thing. Dorton saw that the heavy base of the telephone must have been the weapon that crushed the reddened skull. He did not need to ask if either of those frail girls had done the work. Nadine went on:

"This is his daughter, Azalea Palmer. I just brought her home from the tennis tournament. I let her out at her door and drove on. I found her gloves and drove back. She came running down the steps, crying that she had found her father—murdered. I came in with her. I telephoned the police. We haven't touched a thing."

"And a good thing you didn't," said Cloyd. Dorton added: "We won't touch nothing neither till the detail from downtown gets here." Cloyd added to that: "Don't you think the little lady had ought to lay down and save her strength? She's got a lot to go through yet."

BUT at the idea of such idle repose, Azalea rebelled. For all her gentleness of soul, it was her nature to meet her problems standing up and fighting. Already a few strangers were drifting in, sightseers whose curiosity and the sight of the police car at the curb had drawn up the steps to the open door. The officers herded them back to the crowd clotting on the sidewalk, and closed the door.

Then, while Dorton stood guard in the room, Cloyd prowled about the house, the cellars, the upper rooms, the gardens against the remote chance of catching the killer still lurking about.

Nadine had forced Azalea into a big chair and sat on the arm of it, helpless to offer any solace to the softly weeping girl, who was now a complete orphan, with no mother, no father, no brother, or sister, or any kin or kith to share that suffering that was still a secret, not yet the headline mystery of the day which would soon fascinate the whole nation.

The girls kept their eyes averted from the untouchable body on the floor, and hardly noticed the entrance of a big, ugly man in plain clothes whom Dorton greeted with a none too friendly,

"Hi, Kelso."
"It was not till long afterward and then by some trick of awakened memory, that Azalea recalled hearing Dorton's voice in a sharp command:

"Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone! My God, ain't you been on the force long enough to know better'n to lay hands on the weapon that prob'ly done the deed? Keep back, I sav, or I'll run you in, detective or no detective." Azalea and Nadine heard the words and saw the man, but paid no further heed.

Meanwhile the police machinery was still at work. The voice that had sent the radio car to the scene had notified Police Headquarters of Wendell Palmer's name and fate and address. Instantly a team of two police detectives had dashed to a car and sent it shrieking through the traffic.

THE medical examiner, who had just come in from the gory street-scene of a car collision dived back into his sedan and made for the Palmer home.

Since there would doubtless be latent fingerprints to discover and develop, Ray Pinker, the chief of the Crime Laboratory, did not send a man from the R and I (Records and Identifications) Bureau, but chose one of the dozen or so experts in the SID (Scientific Investigation Division).

He detailed James Stivers, who hurried away carrying a field kit the size of a suitcase. In the caravan were also a cameraman and a police stenographer.

As the various cars pierced the thronged streets, through twisting lanes opened by the sirens, a covey of newspaper reporters raced after them.

In less than half an hour, the home that Azalea had found so dreadfully empty was more crowded than it had been when her father and mother had given one of their famous receptions there.

Mild Weather In Texas Continues

By United Press
Texas today continued to enjoy the kind of weather that makes Chamber of Commerce managers happy.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Dallas, in an early morning forecast, reported that skies would be clear to partly cloudy over the state during the day, with temperatures rising in the eastern section.

A mass of cool air may drop temperatures slightly in the Panhandle Tuesday afternoon, weatherman said. But they emphasized it was too early to tell whether another cold front is coming in.

There was no precipitation between midnight and dawn, and at 4:30 A. M. temperatures ranged from 35 at Dalhart to 64 at Brownsville.

WE LIVE IN A GREAT COUNTRY —

... and one of the things that has helped to make it so is insurance. In one particular at least the average American is unique in that he buys a lot of insurance. This means that he doesn't have to carry his own risk and the worries that go along with it. He just insures himself, his family, his property—everything—because it is good business to do so. Yes, it's American to be insured and insurance is typically American!
