RUNNING GIRLS.

With Some Observations That Apply to the Maidens of Washington.

It used to be said that there were two things which a woman could not do. One was to run, the other to throw a stone. Up to the last census she had not learned to do the latter feat, but at the former she was an adept. Those who doubt may be convinced if some wet morning they will take a street car and observe the young ladies come down the cross streets just a second or two later than they intended to be. On these occasions they will be tolerably sure to see some of the prettiest sprinting imaginable—straight, clean stepping, with head well up, shoulders well back and never a trace of waddle.

The observer feels that the fair creature is dressed in shoes and garments that do not catch, and when she takes her seat in no car, breathing as gently as a dove, he is apt, if his years number a couple of score or more, to sigh lawfully for the time when he could have run a block, or a dozen of them, and have breath enough left to keep him from gasping. The last generation of girls could not run. They were told it was hoydenish and tomboyish and everything else to do so. They were forbidden by all the canons of good behavior and propriety to go faster than a walk, like a team crossing a country bridge.

If by any mischance it became absolutely necessary for them to run, the way they went at it was calculated to make a man weep. They wriggled, they waddled, they stepped on the side of their feet, they held their heads down to hide their blushes, and they puffed like porpoises when they had gone half a dozen yards. There were a few exceptions, of course, but now the exceptions are the other way. Croquet was the first step toward emancipation, and tennis was the consummation of it.

Fenimore Cooper tells us in his charming way of the grace and beauty of motion exhibited by the fleet footed Indian girl. Mayne Reid paints vivid word pictures of the impossible female aborigines of northern Mexico as they seemed to fly, so swift were their footsteps, but it would be safe to lack a Seattle girl on a wet morning when she wants to catch a street car against any dusky maiden of fact or fiction for speed, and as for grace, beauty, the je ne sais quoi, the tout ensemble, so to speak, of the fair Seattleite, until some poet has been born and bred on this coast we need not hope to see justice done them by words of description.

Until I read a story I attribute to the Seattleites who runs in a street and let it be added that she is the only girl who is one of the army or workers—God bless her and may her pathway ever be smooth. May she run and never grow weary. —Seattle Telegraph.

The Scriptures as a Book of Fate. The practice of consulting Scripture as a book of fate was generally condemned by the church. A council at Vannes pronounced against it in 461 A. D. So did one at Agde in 506 and one at Auxerre in 533. Charles the Great forbade it in his capitularies, and so did Pope Gregory II. Nevertheless, curiosity as to the future was so strong in men's minds that the custom continued.

An odd circumstance is that the cathedral chapter at Orleans in 1146 appealed to a prognostic of this sort in a supplication addressed by them to Pope Alexander III against their bishop. At his consecration, when the Gospel was opened above his head, the finger of the deacon rested upon the words, "And he left the linen cloth and fled from them naked." This was a token that the bishop, Elias, was to be turned out of his see.

The practice of observing the book, when opened over the head of a prelate at his consecration, was very common. It was thought that a sure augury could thence be drawn as to what sort of a bishop he would prove.—Chambers' Journal.

Antipyrine Blackens the Teeth. It is asserted that the internal use of antipyrine blackens the teeth.

AT CRAB ORCHARD SPRINGS.

Where Judges and Grave Senators Dance "Old Dan Tucker" with Boyish Zest.

"I have just come from Crab Orchard Springs, Ky.," said Ralph Walderson, of Boston. "I go there for a brief spell, not so much for the benefit of the water as to enjoy the charming society of the place. It is unlike any health or pleasure resort on the continent. It is a veritable landmark in all its characteristics. Crab Orchard is patronized nearly exclusively by Kentuckians, and there you see the pretty bluegrass woman and the vigorous bluegrass man at their best. There are no frills or furbelows about them. They represent all that is best and noblest in Kentucky life and manners. None of your insolence of wealth or arrogance of position do you see there. Everything is old fashioned, without the least show of ostentation. The class of Kentuckians who patronize the place belong to the old regime, and the warmth of their hospitality imparts to every phase of life a genial glow that does not characterize another summer resort of this country.

"I was there one summer when Senator Vest, of Missouri, and Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court, both Kentuckians, visited the Springs, as is their custom every year. The chief dance—and one from which more genuine pleasure is extracted than from all your new fangled 'Newports,' 'Boston dips,' etc.—is 'Old Dan Tucker.' Everybody, old and young, indulges in it with a heartiness that is inspiring. Now in 'Old Dan Tucker' there must always be one more gentleman than there are ladies, and that's where the fun comes in. At the end of the set there is a mighty rush and scramble by the men for a lady partner to escort off the floor. One night Mr. Justice Harlan and Senator Vest were in the same set, at the end of which they found themselves in a terrible predicament, as things go in 'Old Dan Tucker,' for the unlucky man who gets left by the ladies is in a sad plight indeed.

"When the last 'figure' had been danced and the Senegambian 'prompter' called 'promenade to your seat,' the United States senator and the associate justice of the supreme court found themselves rivals for the favor of the same lady, a delightfully plump little creature in blue. Each, without knowing of the other's predicament, made a profound bow to her majesty, and when they straightened up the embarrassing situation was disclosed to them. The lady, with a grace indescribable, declined to pass upon the point at issue, of 'Old Dan Tucker' but the senator went to walk off the floor with one lady. The situation grew more interesting every second, for the crowd was standing around tittering, while Vest and Harlan blushed and stammered like country boys at a frolic.

"Finally the Missouri senator grabbed the lady by both hands and bore her triumphantly from the room, leaving Justice Harlan standing in the middle of the room the picture of despair and embarrassment. But Harlan got even with Vest the next evening, and the two distinguished sons of Kentucky left Crab Orchard 'horse and horse' in the matter of 'Old Dan Tucker' honors and penalties."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Procession of Ants.

W. F. Leisching, writing in the Selborne society's magazine on ants in Ceylon, says he saw one day a string of ants streaming forth evidently in search of "pastures new." He flicked away the leader and waited to see the result. An immediate halt was made by the foremost ants and a scene of the utmost confusion ensued. The ants from behind kept arriving at the scene of the catastrophe, and there was soon a black crowd of ants huddling and jostling one another. Some detached themselves from the main group and took a turn around, trying to find traces of their leader.

At last the tail end of the tribe arrived, and after brief consultation they all started off again, and a line soon began to unravel itself from the tangled mass, moving back to the hole from which the whole con-

A New Reliable Blacksmith and Tin Shop.

In order to meet the growing demands of my increasing business and to give better satisfaction to my customers as well as the public in general, I have purchased the blacksmith shop, good will and stock of J. R. Copeland, also the business of H. P. Taylor.

This business has been established in the P. K. Freeze old stand. The business in the upper story, under the management of Trevan Feller, and the blacksmith business on the lower floor, under the supervision of J. R. Copeland.

I claim to have one of the best appointed shops in the West, and will be prepared to execute promptly all kinds of work in a manner satisfactory to the customer. Plenty of first-class help will be employed in order that no delay nor other annoyances may be experienced.

Orders by mail will be promptly attended to, and a man will be sent for and will return horses, carriages or other work if order is made personally or through the post office.

Trusting that my dealings in the past will be sufficient guarantee of the satisfaction that may be expected from my new shop, I am yours truly,

CITATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS. To the Sheriff or any Constable of Crockett county, Greeting: Oath therefor having been made as required by law. You are hereby commanded to summon Gist Blair, by making publication of this citation one in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 51st Judicial District but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 51st Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District court of Crockett county to be holden at the Court house thereof in the town of Ozona, on the 8th Monday after the 1st Monday in September 1892, the same being the 31st day of October 1892, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 17th day of August 1892, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 3, wherein H. Kemper and Eliza Kemper are plaintiffs and Gist Blair is defendant, said petition alleging: That on the 17th day of February, 1891, the plaintiff, Eliza Kemper, wife of said H. Kemper, was in her own separate right, lawfully seized and possessed, in fee simple, of the following alternate surveys of land situated in Crockett county, to wit: Survey numbers 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13, 15, 17, 19, 21, 23, 25, 27, 29, 31, 33, 35, 37, 39, 41, 43, 45, 47, 49, 51, 53, 55 and 57. All of said surveys containing 640 acres of land each, except survey number 31 which contains only 320 1/2 acres, and all of said surveys being in the name of M. A. Allen, survey numbers 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13, and 15, in Block S L, containing 640 acres of land each. All of said 37 surveys having been duly patented to the Texas and St. Louis Railway Company by the State of Texas. That on the said 17th day of February, 1891, while plaintiffs were seized and possessed, as aforesaid, the defendant, Gist Blair, unlawfully entered on said land and ejected plaintiffs therefrom, and now unlawfully withholds plaintiffs from the possession thereof.

Plaintiffs further allege, that defendant by thus disseminating them of said lands, has deprived them of the reasonable rental value thereof, which is alleged to be one thousand dollars per annum, from the alleged date of ejectment.

Plaintiffs pray judgement for title and possession of said lands, as well as for the reasonable rental value thereof, and for costs and general and special relief.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed same.

Issued this 17th day of August, A. D. 1892. Witness: Frank Olinley, clerk of the District court of Crockett county.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in Ozona, this 17th day of August, A. D. 1892.

FRANK OLINLEY, Clerk District Court Crockett County, Texas.

A true copy I hereby certify: JOHN C. PERCY, Sheriff, Crockett County, Texas.

MIKE MURPHY, Proprietor.

Sonora, Texas, September 24, 1932.

On to Sonora is the cry of parents who want to give their children the benefit of a good school.

Cholera or no cholera, it will benefit your health and the health of the community to put the town in a sanitary condition.

Cholera may come to Sonora and it may not. If you don't clean up it will and if you do clean up it wont. See.

Throckmorton, Maxey, Giddings and, presumably, Ross are for Clark; Coke, Culberson and Reagan are for Hogg; Hubbard and Ireland are non-committal. The old-timers do not seem to agree any better than the kids.

Bergman, the anarchist who shot Frick, was found guilty and sentenced to twenty-one years in the penitentiary and one year in the workhouse.

The action of the Hogg executive committee in bringing out candidates in opposition to nominees for congress, senate and legislature who support the Clark ticket,

The Clark and Hogg democratic conventions of the Twenty-fourth senatorial district met at Kerrville on the 20th.

O. S. Robinson of Bexar, was nominated by acclamation in the Hogg convention, and Perry J. Lewis was likewise nominated in the Clark convention.

The Callaghan delegation from Bexar was re-organized in the Hogg convention, and in the Clark convention the recognized or reformed democrats were seated, while the Schramm delegation was denied recognition by both bodies.

Judge Nugent pleads guilty to the charge that before he decided to make the race for governor he preferred Clark to Hogg. His reason is that while he regarded them both as extremists, he thought the Waco man would be less likely to do injury to the state's material interests than the Tyler man. Candidate Nugent is, perhaps, the frankest man who ever ran for office.

Right Way to Look at It.

Sutton county is like a bank and all citizens are stockholders. There will be a meeting of stockholders on the 8th of November for the purpose of electing directors. The capital represented is something over a million and one-half dollars. In choosing the directors, pick out men whose business abilities are well known and whose honesty and integrity is unimpeachable.—DEVIL'S RIVER NEWS.

That's the way to look at it, Bro. Murphy. When voters can be brought to view their county's affairs in that light, and not be guided so much by personal favoritism or party preferences in the selection of county officers, the whole country will be more prosperous and happy.—Kerrville Paper.

Success is always envied and jealousy is a sure indication of it. When San Angelo became in a few short years the leading wool market of the state, the green eyed monster took possession of a good many towns that had similar aspirations. Most of these finding that it was impossible to change existing conditions have accepted the inevitable and subsided. Occasionally, some little Jim Crow place which can possibly boast of a postoffice and half a dozen stores imagines that it is a wool centre and straightway tries to show why it is better than Angelo. By the very comparisons San Angelo is shown to be the leading market in the west and the seasons wool reports of that city never fail to prove the fact. The leading buyers of the wool market have always pointed than at those smaller places which they visit but periodically. San Angelo will be the natural wool shipping point for a long time to come and the town that squanders its money to try to pull some of its trade away will have a great deal of labor to no purpose.—San Angelo Enterprise.

Boston Wool Reporter:

"There has been more activity in the market this week than for any like period in a month. The leading feature has been territory—some larger lines having been sold owing to the concessions in prices. Probably over a million and a half pounds of territory wool have been disposed of since our last writing. A large manufacturing concern in Rhode Island is mentioned as a large buyer, principally of Dakota and Montana, grading a fine medium, at prices ranging from 18c to 22c in the grease. This stock has been held at prices which the manufacturers deemed too high; at figures, in fact, in their judgment above intrinsic value of the several grades; so having received concessions, they have been buying more freely. Where certain of these wools have been scarce, as No. 2 Colorado, manufacturers starting in to buy

EDITOR DEVIL'S RIVER NEWS:

I have been watching with interest the movements of the plucky little town of Sonora. I see in the columns of your worthy paper, a steady increase, a forward movement, which means onward and upward to success. I admire the way you are giving your paper to the interest of the people of Sonora and Sutton county. The church people are due you many thanks for the way in which you have stirred the citizens up to a sense of duty in the church line. I read with interest the Church meeting in the NEWS of Sept 8. I rejoice to see them taking hold with the determination which means no failure. Sonora needs a church; yes churches. What is a town without a church? It is a home without a mother.

You have your places of merchandise, dealing out to the people food and raiment. Christ is offering you the bread of life. You have your press giving to the people each week food for the mind, Jesus is offering you food for the soul.

Now, since you have it in your heart to build him a house, may He come not only "to sojourn, but to abide" with you, and not only be among you, but abide in every one of you.

God bless you all in your good work, and may you ever treasure in you hearts the sweet sentiment of that good old hymn

"I love thy kingdom, Lord,
The house of thine abode,
The church our blessed redeemer bought,
With his own precious blood."

To her my tears shall fall,
Thy tools and mine own will.

Referring to the comments of the Kerrville Paper regarding Kerrville and San Angelo as wool markets published in the DEVIL'S RIVER NEWS two weeks ago the San Angelo Standard defends San Angelo in this way:

There is a good deal of unmitigated gall about the above remarks made by our Kerrville contemporary, published in a little village in a hollow among the hills that lie south of us. In order to get wool into this picturesque village it is necessary to use pack mules and derricks. On its arrival there the owner of the village takes charge of it and no such word as competition is ever whispered within range of his ears—or woe be to he who utters it. The reason Kerrville has never had or never will have a boom, is very plain—there is nothing to boom. San Angelo handles more wool in one year, than Kerrville will ever see in all its erratic existence and Angelo does this because she is situated in the exact center of the D. Creswell sold 10 rams to James Weddell at $17.50 and 11 to J. F. Bustin at $15.

J. B. Cherbino sold five rams to J. J. Ervin at $20, three to Wm. Lackey at $20 and eight to S. W. Childress at $18.

Hemphill & Murray sold out their Pennsylvania rams at one clatter to the Sante Fe. The car was ditched at Cleburne and about 60 killed. The owners have refused to receive the rest and have collected $525 from the railroad.—Enterprise.

Pat Thompson bought 19,000 head of sheep this week from Thomas Upton at $1.75 per head all round. He also bought 7,000 head from B. L. Crouch, ewes and lambs at $1.25 and drove the whole to Maverick county.

G. F. Ling the Jugo sheepman, is our informant that much of the wool which has formerly gone to San Angelo from his neighborhood will go to Comstock for shipment this season. He says the San Angelo market has become very unstable, and some sheepmen

The fleecy staple has commenced to arrive slowly, shearing being delayed by the recent rains, and the roads being in such bad condition, has made receipts about two weeks behind the usual time. About 800 bags have arrived up to date being distributed about evenly between the different warehouses. The wool opens up in much better condition than last spring, and with the exception of one or two clips that have not had the benefits of the summer rains, the shrinkage as a whole is very noticeable less. Local buyers are looking around and taking samples, and outside buyers are making inquiries as to the probable time of the market opening. All advices from the east, quote those markets as being in about the same tone as for the past eight months. Stocks in the country are very much reduced, and manufacturers are running full time. The consumption of the raw material has been larger than ever before in the history of the trade, and from all indications, before the next spring clip comes on the market, the present supply of wool will have been exhausted. The coming election will have a tendency to keep prices from an upward turn until the result is known.—San Angelo Standard.
