Seven of Ten Urschel Kidnapers Found Guilty

BULLDOGS ARE NOSED OUT BY LUBBOCK 26-21

The Ranger Bulldogs, battling against uneven odds, were nosed out in the last minute of play by the Lubbock High School gridsters Friday afternoon at Lubbock, to lose the game by a score of 26 to 21.

Jacoby, left end, and Bryan, left tackle, were removed from the game because of injuries and Lubbock battered through the weakened line in the last minute after trailing all afternoon. The high altitude and light atmospheric pressure told on the Ranger team and fresh material, sent in from time to time, wore the line down to a low resistance point before Lubbock could win.

Ranger kicked off to Lubbock and after two line plays Ranger received a punt on the 38-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage Rankin Britt plunged off tackle for 82 yards and a touchdown. Anderson kicked goal.

Ranger again kicked off and after failing to gain Lubbock again punted. This time it took five plays to put over a touchdown, Anderson carrying the ball 55 yards for the score and then kicking goal.

Once more in the game Britt got away for a long run, passed the safety man, who lunged at him in an effort to stop him, knocking Britt off stride enough to make him fall after he had passed the entire team.

Lubbock came back in the second quarter to score one touchdown, and Ranger made one more in the third quarter. Lubbock then began battering at the tiring line in the last quarter and, with one minute to play, was trailing by a score of 21 to 20 when the winning touchdown was pushed over.

Bulldogs made an impressive showing in their defeat, which indicated to the fans that they have a good scoring machine and good defense under ordinary conditions.

Next Friday they play Central High of Fort Worth at Lillard field in the second real test of the season. Central defeated Mineral Wells by a one-point margin in a 7 to 6 game Friday.

Trade Plans Are Approved By the Merchants Friday

A group of merchants met with the trade expansion committee at the office of the chamber of commerce Friday night and approved tentative plans made by the committee for a celebration to be held in October.

The committee, after hearing the discussion by the merchants, announced that it was ready to proceed with the plans and would have a detailed program worked out in the near future.

The tentative plans include elaborating on the Second Monday rodeo on October 9, with an addition rodeo to be held October 19, which would be the first day of the three-day celebration. Free boxing, wrestling and a program by the American Legion Tickville band were on the last of entertainment features, with a junior college football game on Friday, October 20, and a grand finale to the three-day event on Saturday afternoon.

It was expected that the money on hand would defray the expenses, together with that obtained from the carnival, so that the only donations needed from the merchants would probably be the merchandise prizes to be given away the last day of the carnival. Committees to take charge of the various phases of the work are to be named later.

The material has been stored in the office of the Chamber of Commerce, where it will be distributed. A desk has been provided where applications will be received and a large counter has been erected over which the goods and garments can be distributed.

BANDEEN ON STAND TELLS OF RELIEF WORK

AUSTIN, Sept. 30.—D. A. Bandeen of Stamford, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, today reiterated his denial the organization had distributed federal relief funds to counties on a basis of their membership subscriptions.

The manager, testifying before the senate investigating committee, cited two instances where counties had asked if they might deduct their membership fees due to the West Texas Chamber from the federal funds allotted them. In each instance Bandeen read letters in answer to such requests that pointed out such a plan was contrary to the law, that relief administration and the membership drive were separate jobs and must be kept separate.

Bandeen denied telling representatives of Johnson county at a conference in Fort Worth that they must raise the county's quota of relief distribution costs.

Nine Cleburne witnesses and the manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, Hubert Harrison, were excused without testifying last night.

A. H. Gardner, relief administrator at Henderson, today admitted using relief funds to pay 16 members of the Henderson baseball team of the Dixie league this summer. Gardner explained the team encountered financial difficulties and would have disbanded had not the relief fund been available. The board of welfare gave $15 a month to 16 players for three months in order to keep them employed, Gardner wrote.

W. R. Long, Jr., of the American National Bank here was summoned to bring bank sheets of deposits allegedly made by former Governor James E. Ferguson.

STRIKE END SEEN IN CODE ADJUSTMENT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt today opened the way to peace in the coal fields by approving an agreement that places mines owned by steel companies under the coal code.

Mr. Roosevelt expected the agreement to put 100,000 men back to work on Monday. The Western Pennsylvania fields have been disrupted for days by a strike of 75,000 workers protesting because the steel controlled mines had not signed the coal code. Approximately 35,000 steel workers were deprived of work because of the strike.

The agreement already had been signed by mine owners and labor leaders when the president signed it.

Allocation For Texas Will Be Lowered by Order

AUSTIN, Sept. 30.—Reduced oil allocation for Texas fields to absorb the 10,000 barrels daily reduction ordered by the federal oil administration, was expected shortly, the Texas Railroad commission announced today at the close of a moratorium hearing.

Issuance of the allocation order awaited arrival of schedules reported enroute by airmail from Washington. Commission Chairman Lon Smith said the commission wants to consult them before acting. By telegram from Washington the Texas total allocation was fixed at 965,000 barrels, effective Oct. 1.

History of the Urschel Case From His Abduction Through Conviction of Seven Saturday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 30.—The famous Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case, rivaling even the Lindbergh case in interest, unfolded in a series of dramatic incidents.

This is a chronological history of the case: July 22—The multimillionaire oil man was snatched from his home while playing bridge with friends, and carried away at the point of machine guns.

July 23—The government struck swiftly to trap the abductors. Federal agents took full charge of the investigation, swinging the entire might of the nation's law enforcement agencies against the criminals.

July 24—Agents pretended they had left the house unguarded to permit the family to negotiate with Urschel's captors. However, a federal officer remained hidden in the home.

July 25—Urschel's brother-in-law, Arthur Sceligion, arrived to negotiate with the gang. For six days, he announced they had received no communications.

July 26—John Catlett, friend of Urschel, of Tulsa, Okla., received a note from the millionaire, mentioning ransom.

July 28—A second note, demanding $200,000 for Urschel's release, arrived. Methods of payment were outlined.

July 30—E. E. Kirkpatrick, friend of Urschels, "paid off" $200,000 to a kidnaper at a Kansas City hotel, while three cars of hoodlums "stood by" to protect their representative.

July 31—Urschel was shoved from a car north of Norman, Okla., two hours before midnight. Unharmed, he walked into his home. Aug. 1—Millionaire gave an account of his treatment, his experiences in nine days of blindfolded captivity, but said he was unable to identify his abductors, locate the hideout, and refused to name the amount paid for his release.

OIL COMPANY FILES PLEA IN OUSTER SUIT

AUSTIN, Sept. 30.—A plea that the oil code approved by President Roosevelt under the national recovery act abrogates, suspends and repeals the state anti-trust act as to action within the code, will be made before the district judge, J. D. Moore, when the state's $17,850,000 penalty suit is called here Monday.

A formal plea in abatement, citing the code, was filed by the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company. Fourteen other defendant oil companies added it to their defense pleas already on file.

The time for filing special pleas in the case expired several months ago but oil attorneys however, say that since the national recovery act and the code are new matters, the plea still can be made.

Convicts Again Stage Riot to Get Radios In Cells

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Eastern penitentiary convicts staged a riot today.

Informed by a committee of prisoners the board of trustees refused to place radios in the cells, furnish newspapers daily and free certain convicts from solitary confinement, approximately 1,500 inmates set up a wild hubbub in their cells.

The inmates smashed furniture and tossed burning papers into the corridors. The prisoners rioted Wednesday but were quelled after 250 police had been brought within the walls to restore order.

Six Given Life In Luer Kidnaping

Highway Body Paid Salaries From Its Surplus Fund

AUSTIN, Tex.—How the state highway commission, its current revenues exhausted, saved the jobs of workers this summer by pouring its bulk of cash reserve into the breach was revealed by the Texas Good Roads Association today from figures for the fiscal year ending August 31, compiled by E. J. Amey, department statistician.

To preserve the livelihood of these thousands of men and their families until the Roosevelt public works program could get steam, the highway department exhausted its surplus funds carried over from better years. It spent $8,000,000 more than it took in, the figures show, yet without going into debt a single dollar.

The near miracle was achieved despite a drop of nearly $12,000,000 in state road revenues, due to retirement of many motor cars, loss of county aid, and diversion of one-fourth of the gas tax to refund county bonds.

Money for the successful job-saving fight came from a 33-percent emergency boost in federal aid, $1,000,000 in old license fees which had been in litigation, and $7,500,000 in cash surplus from other years, all the department could spare and still finish its projects. Federal aid is not paid until jobs are complete, it was explained.

W. O. Huggins, Texas Good Roads Association president, called the figure "a valiant battle against human misery," but warned that the state fund is now crippled. "For next year we are absolutely dependent on federal aid," he said. "To hold our ground, we must get more money from Washington. To do this, one course is imperative; we must not divert any more state road money to other uses.

Guarded After Trapping Kellys

Geraldine Arnold, above, 12-year-old girl whose tip brought the capture of the notorious George (Machine Gun) Kelly and his wife in a Memphis boarding house, has been hidden away to thwart possible vengeance of the desperado's underworld associates.

BANK HEAD IS SELECTED AS COORDINATOR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Henry Bruere, president of the Bowers Savings Bank of New York, has been selected by the administration to act as coordinator of the government's credit operations, high treasury officials said today.

Bruere, they said, will work under the direction of the director of the budget, in a new agency which will be set up to further the credit plan.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt was understood to be formulating his new monetary policy to be announced soon.

This policy was expected to be a sound money pronouncement.

Selection of Bruere, head of the largest savings bank in the country, and a sound money man, was interpreted the administration plans no drastic money inflation.

Substance Homes Asked In Bill

AUSTIN, Sept. 30.—A bill embodying Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's "substance homestead" plan today was before the Texas Senate.

Senator John Redditt, of Lufkin, introduced a bill to allot $5,000,000 of the State's $20,000,000 bond issue for the purchase of small farm homes for destitute families.

The federal government would be asked to meet the fund.

THREE GUESSES

LIFE SENTENCE IS MAXIMUM POSSIBLE TERM

Three Are Freed By Jury Which Deliberated But Three Hours.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 30.—Seven of the ten defendants in the spectacular $200,000 Urschel kidnaping trial, including the notorious Harvey Bailey, were convicted today at the end of an 11-day trial in a fortified federal courtroom.

The prosecution claimed a victory for the government in its war on racketeering with the new anti-kidnaping law as its weapon.

Those found guilty were Albert Bates, Denver; Harvey Bailey, R. G. Shannon, his wife Ora and his son, Armon, Texas farmers; Edward Berman and Clifford Skelly, St. Paul.

Sam Kronick and Sam Kozberg, Jewish cousins, and Isadore Blumenfeld, all from the Twin Cities, were acquitted.

The Twin City men were accused in connection with disposal of the ransom money.

Sentences with life imprisonment the maximum, will be passed next Saturday after rulings are made on motions for new trials.

The verdict, reached last night after the jury deliberated less than three hours, was opened by Judge Edgar Vaught in the tower courtroom in the federal building while a score of guards, armed with machine guns and rifles, kept watch.

All the defendants gave notice they would seek new trials and appeal, even to the supreme court of the United States.

Charles F. Urschel, kidnap victim, shook hands with District Attorney Herbert Hyde and congratulated him when the verdicts were read.

Bailey, stared unblinkingly as the verdict was read. Bates smiled and took the outcome good naturedly. The Shannons wore a sour look. Mrs. Shannon managed a smile however as she walked with her attorneys later.

The Shannons were taken to the county jail. Bates and Bailey were led back to their cells in the federal building.

The government announced that George (Machine Gun) Kelly would be brought to Oklahoma City from Memphis, possibly this afternoon.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 1.

The golden text is: "The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought; he maketh the devices of the people of none effect" (Psalms 33:10).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end. . . Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity; and quicken thou me in thy way. . . Let thy mercies come also unto me, O Lord, even thy salvation, according to thy word" (Psalms 119:33, 37, 41).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If men would bring to bear upon the study of the science of mind half the faith they bestow upon the so-called pains and pleasures of material sense, they would not go on from bad to worse, until disciplined by the prison and the scaffold; but the whole human family would be redeemed through the merits of Christ—through the perception and acceptance of truth. For this glorious result Christian Science lights the torch of spiritual understanding" (page 202).

Forgotten Sweetheart

By MARY RAYMOND

"It is mine!" Joan said. She reached for the handkerchief. "How in the world—?"

JOAN stirred, stretched slim, strong arms over her head and then bounded into a sitting position. Gracious, it must be seven o'clock! The next moment she was snuggling under the comfort luxuriously. Easy to forget she wasn't at Holbrook Hall with an early morning pupil to coach. Easy to forget she was at home. Tomorrow it would seem less strange, perhaps, to be away from all the excitement—the rush of things that were somehow so ordered, and to be back home settling into old grooves again. Everything was so exactly the same here at home. The mahogany desk stood in the same corner, less orderly than it should be, with Pat's writing materials scattered over it and stacks of old letters exposed. The chiffonier which Joan and Pat had shared since they were little children was outlined in the half gloom. The square bulk of the cedar chest was in its familiar place under the window, piled with bright cretonne cushions and some more frivolous ones of lace and organdy. In summer the chest was filled

"I'll have something soon." Pat thought of her job typing in the large hardware concern. "We can't go very far on $10 a week," she said. "Oh, Joan, its hard being so poor! Do you suppose we'll ever be anybody?" "Don't worry, I'll get something." "Yes. You'll get a half dozen kids to teach after calling on all the mothers in Memphis. I got something, too, after wearing out a half dozen pairs of silk stockings. Interviewing every department store manager in town—after answering all the ads for female help which turned out to be commission jobs—after registering at all the agencies and never hearing from them because more efficient and better trained girls had registered before me—after asking all our friends to be thinking what a fine help I'd be in anything they knew of, and please use their influence and—I!" "Pat, will you stop!"

JOAN was laughing. Pat was utterly ridiculous, of course, but trying to find work without "aiming" must be a sobering experience. Well, of course, the thing would be to go about it properly. She would drive over to the school administration building on Poplar and talk to Professor Jayne about work as a substitute teacher. And call Professor Hartson at Tech and Professor Wilson at Central. They could probably put her in touch with some students needing coaching for college.

There must be opportunities to sing at entertainments, if she only knew about them. Mrs. Walter Courtwell probably could direct her to the right people. She was so active in club and social life and so understanding and cordial. She had been interested in Benny the summer he spent so much time at the clinic—after he broke his arm, thus adding to his other troubles.

"What are you thinking about Joan? You look so sober. Worried?" "No, we can't afford to worry. "Can't afford not to," said Pat. "Joan, I want a different life from mother's. I don't want to slave and get wrinkles and gray hair and be worried everlastingly because my children can't go with the right people. I want to belong to the Cottillion Club and the Dinner Club. It's no fun going to movies when I want to dance on a cool roof or go to the Country Club. Some day I'm going to say 'out to the club' just as casually as other girls. Just watch and see!"

Joan was out of bed now, slipping into a bright green kimono. "Well, when do we begin getting rich and powerful? And how do we do it?" "I've an idea I'll have to marry a rich husband—like Jerry Forrester." "Who is he?" "Just the boss's son. He's been hanging around a lot. I'm just as good looking as some of the girls who drive around with him in that big French car." She added after a moment, "Joan, you know you're awfully good looking now. You've changed." "Don't be silly!" "Probably there's a man." "No." "Haven't you ever seen one who made you feel like you were doing a flip-flop from a plane all excited and scared and thrilled?" "Idiot!" Joan added after a moment honestly. "Well, one—!" (To Be Continued)

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XLVIII
It was the day of the May festival in Pine Forest. Eve awoke at dawn with the first chimes of the church bells, and looked out the window. Already lights were burning in the basement of the little white church at the Four Corners. She aroused Dick.

"Bright May day now is dawning for us!" She sang the words of a song she had learned in grade school.

They went to breakfast in the church that morning in accordance with a custom brought from New England by the first settlers of Pine Forest. Breakfast was served from five o'clock until nine and although Eve and Dick were among the first to arrive they had company. The owner of the general store sat at their table and the general manager of the paper mill was next to Dick. Opposite sat the village tailor, polite and attentive.

The men discussed business conditions. Before Eve had finished the delicious pancakes served with new maple syrup a group of teachers came in.

"After breakfast we are going up into the woods for May flowers," they told her and invited Eve to join them. But she declined, although she was touched by their thoughtfulness.

This day she had set aside to spend with Dick. Soon she would be leaving and she wanted to make the most of the short time remaining. They lingered over their coffee and then left the church. In the tall white steeple the chimes were ringing again. A sense of peace seemed to surround them. Eve slipped her arm through Dick's and as they strolled past the wide lawns on Main street they watched the sun, red-gold, come up over the top of Eagle Hill. Birds were twittering in the tree tops and in Mrs. Williams' garden the pink flower buds were blooming, drenched by yellow forsythia.

That morning Eve rode out to the camp with Dick. The hospital buildings loomed up attractively in that vast wooded area. Dick took Eve on a tour of inspection and she felt an increased respect for the powers that were bringing into being this great institution of healing. By midsummer the hospital was to be opened. Dick, however, would remain there to begin work on more buildings to be added to the unit. That meant that in all likelihood he would spend another year at Pine Forest.

Another long year without Dick!

Another year of such loneliness as she had known for the last eight months. Her mother's words came back to her. "You're not being fair to your husband!"

EVE drove the roadster slowly over the four-mile stretch back to the village. She felt the charm of the countryside and longed to relax and become a part of it. Yet she felt another urge which drew her away into the turmoil of life in Lake City.

She stopped at the little post office and found a letter from Arlene.

"Eve, dear, we are married," wrote Arlene. "Sam and I both dreaded the fuss and excitement of a wedding so we just slipped away and were married at Saint James' church last Saturday. Sam's brother and my cousin were the witnesses."

"We drove to Niagara Falls for our honeymoon. Well—why not Niagara Falls? My parents and their parents, too, went to Niagara Falls for their honeymoons. Anyhow Sam wasn't in a hurry to get back so we didn't return until Tuesday night. We're staying with my parents until we find a place of our own."

"Sam refused to let me go to the office Wednesday and I'm not going back at all! I called Mr. Barnes to tell him I was married and he was very sweet about it. I guess he thinks well of Sam."

"We're looking for a house now. We want a little white one with green blinds and a wide red chimney out in one of the suburbs. Sam says he is tired of apartments and for years he's been ambitious to have a rose garden."

EVE sat still for a long while after she read Arlene's letter. She was experiencing a conflict of emotions and her mind was torn with indecision. She was glad for Arlene—glad that her friend was so happy, and yet she envied that happiness. Because of her own overwhelming ambition, Eve realized, she was thrusting aside the joy that might belong to her and her husband.

And what confusion there must be with both Arlene and herself absent from the office. Eve felt she should go back immediately. She turned the car about and drove in the direction of the little lake where Dick had taken her that first Sunday. High up in the hills she stopped and walked through the woods, kicking up pine needles as she went. When she came to the edge where she could look down at the water below she slipped to the ground and gave herself up to enjoying the golden sunshine.

Here, with the fragrance of the pines carried by the gentle spring breeze, it was easier to think. Eve felt able to take a detached view of her problems and analyze them impersonally.

After a long while she arose and with one hand brushed back her honey-colored hair. There was a shining light in her amber eyes and her firm little chin was held high. With determination in her step she returned to the car and drove back to the village.

She wrote three letters but did not mail them, then drove to the camp again for Dick. While she sat in the roadster waiting for him doubts once more assailed her. Did Dick really want her to go back to Lake City or would he rather have her stay here? He had told others as well as Aunt Sophronia that Eve was returning at the end of two weeks. And he had said it in a voice so certain that it left no cause for doubt. Surely if he wanted her to stay he would have implied it in some way!

BUT Dick looked so genuinely glad to find her waiting for him that Eve felt a responsible glow of pleasure as their eyes met.

"Love me a little?" Eve asked wistfully as they drove over the hill.

"Love you—oh, the least little bit!" he teased, smiling.

After dinner Eve asked him to read the letters she had addressed to Mr. Bixby, Mr. Barnes and to Arlene and Sam. The letter to Mr. Bixby contained her resignation and suggested that he consider Sam for the vacancy. Sam Holteridge, she wrote, was in her estimation better qualified to take charge of Bixby's advertising than any other person in Lake City. The letter to Arlene and Sam suggested immediate application for the job.

Dick was amazed as he looked up from the page he had been reading.

"But are you sure," he asked, "that I haven't influenced you to do this, Eve?"

"No, you didn't influence me. You didn't even encourage me to stay here," Eve told him frankly.

"I've thought the whole thing out, Dick. I had the satisfaction of reaching the goal I had set for myself. You and I and a few others know I could have become advertising manager of the store. I don't think anyone else would have been much interested. Staying in Lake City would have meant realizing that ambition but if realizing it had to mean losing you—oh, Dick, we came so close to losing each other!"

"No, we didn't," he assured her emphatically. "I wanted you to work out your problem in your own way. I've never believed in forcing anyone into decisions. But I was willing to wait. I thought that if you cared enough for me you'd come to me in time."

"Cared for you?" echoed Eve.

"Are you sure, darling, that you will be contented here?" he asked.

And Eve answered firmly. "Yes. Something had to be sacrificed and it couldn't be you!"

Dick took her in his arms. (THE END)

SINCLAIR RUNS WILD TO WIN FROM BARBERS

The Sinclair team of the Twilight league made a merry-go-round of the Willows Field diamond Friday afternoon in the last scheduled game of the season to defeat the Barbers 21 to 6 in three innings.

Sinclair made one run in the first inning, while holding the Barbers scoreless. They made six more in the second, when they batted around and then set what is probably a league record in the third when they made 12 runs before being retired.

In the Barber's half of the third, with the score 21 to 1 against them, they ran in five runs to make the count more even. The game lasted until dark.

Young Men's Bible Class Organized At First Methodist

Much interest is being manifested by the young men of the First Methodist church in the recent organization of what is hoped to be a splendid and progressive group of workers.

It is the purpose of this class to fill in the gap and serve those whose age limits place them between the young people's department and the adult Bible class. The approximate age limits are from 24 to 35 years. Some 25 prospective members have been contacted by the membership committee, and in every case a keen interest has been exhibited. J. S. (Spud) Reynolds is chairman of the invitation committee.

A well arranged room on the main floor in the southwest corner of the building has just been renovated and repaired for the use of the class. However, it is hoped that the class will in time outgrow its quarters and require a larger room.

A special invitation is extended to all young men of the community who are not now attending Sunday school. Dr. C. Q. Smith of Cisco will address the class on Sunday morning, Oct. 1, and it is hoped that a large group will be present to hear this splendid speaker.

Wrestle McEuin At Show Monday

Monday night will be a big night for fight and wrestling fans in Ranger at the Elks club arena, and the largest crowd yet is expected. The Elks have gone to big expense to secure a man that rates high in the wrestling world, Cyclone Fox, who will meet Billy McEuin in a finish bout Monday night. This is an opportunity for McEuin to step high up into big time wrestling if he beats Fox and the Tiger is training hard. Fox is a very popular wrestler and rates right next to Champion Hugh Nichols as leading light heavyweight.

Frankie Karr will have his equal in an eight-rounder against Davy Jones, a veteran of the ring that knows all the tricks and is plenty tough. Jones is the fighter that has been fighting in Ranger by the name of Rivers but the Texas commission rules that a fighter must use his real name and Jones states that he fights better under his real name than he did under the name of Rivers, which will make this fight some battle as fans have plenty of confidence in Karr's fighting ability.

Bobbie Reed and Benny Greenfield will slug it out in a four-rounder for the right of the winner to meet Pancho Gonzales at a later date.

Speedy Franks and Sammy McLarren will battle it out in a two-fall match to open the all-star show Monday night.

Popular prices of 25 and 40 cents will prevail and fans may call at their favorite stores for a courtesy pass which will admit them to general admission.

of many seasons.

Mrs. Hubert Jones, hostess member, presided over the registration book, which was hand-painted in ladders, rose wreathed.

Mrs. J. E. Hickman presided as toastmistress and following a clever introduction presented the president, Mrs. F. M. Kenny.

The president's address to her fellow members signaled an introduction of the tiny gold ladders, with name at top, attached with pink satin ribbon, the place card at each charming table.

"In 1916, a seed was planted, and sprouted, and that was the beginning of the Thursday Afternoon club, which has grown like the oak tree, staunch and substantial. The upright principles of this club are the 17 rungs of the ladder, up which the club work has climbed to its achievement through 17 years of work. This was the keynote of the president's address.

Toasts were given, opening with that to the new officers, by Mrs. Leslie Gray; by Mrs. Carl Springer, the "longest continuous member" of the club; given in rhyme, with apologies to Tennyson; by Mrs. A. H. Johnson in graceful tribute to the Junior Thursday club officers; and by Mrs. Ray Lerner, introduced as the new member, who addressed the retiring officers, concluding with the statement, "Progress is made by ignoring precedent."

Leaflets bearing original verse by Mrs. Kenny and set to the air of "There's a Long, Long Trail," was sung by Mrs. Grady Pinkin, with Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin at the piano.

The junior executive board officers were formally presented and received their tribute most gracefully.

The loss sustained by a valued club member, Mrs. W. A. Martin, in the death of her father, Charles H. Simmons, was tenderly referred to, the club members voicing their desire to be with their sister member in her hour of trial.

The informal and graceful entertainment closed with the song, "The Eyes of Texas."

The president announced the next meeting of the club for Oct. 12, with "These United States" the subject for discussion.

Cecil B. DeMille, star-maker, master of spectacle, picked seven sons of seven famous fathers for important supporting roles in his latest picture triumph, "This Day and Age," which opens Monday at the Arcadia theatre. birthday enroute home on the steamer, was quite enthusiastic in her account of the birthday cake and other favors shown her on the occasion.

The two landed in Rotterdam, Holland port, June 17, after a 7-day voyage, much less rough than the return trip. "We were quite sick coming home," Mrs. Perlstein told us. "It was very rough." And we can imagine.

It had been six years since she had seen the homeland, Mrs. Perlstein told us in a brief interview yesterday, and things hadn't changed a great deal. The country, she explained, was in a fever of reconstruction. . . . sounds like America. doesn't it? However, she remarked that prices were as high as in the U. S. A. and articles not so good. There is no silk, due to the high tax rate. Women are forced to resort to rayon hose, and the great majority of them wear anklets.

Berets are quite the style, and German women do not buy clothes with each season as do we, she stated. They buy, and wear . . . wear out, then buy again. Handiwork is quite popular. German women devote their time to the making of such articles as doilies, scarfs, dolls, and sweaters. No politics.

Germany is turning to militarism, Mrs. Perlstein explained, with flags waving at every window and scheduled drills each evening. All parties are uniformed, with Boy Scouts in parade attire constantly.

Bonn, on the Rhine, home of Mrs. Perlstein, and Kassel, central Germany, that of her husband, afforded a number of antiques, which the former brought with her on her return. China, bronze, dresden, silver, lace . . . a steamer load of souvenirs and memories. So back to the homeland from the homeland . . . to friends from

Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.

It takes seven cars to make a Ford

Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich.

Outside those features which are exclusive in the Ford V-8, many of our advanced improvements can be found in other cars—PROVIDED—you get six or seven of the best cars in America together and combine their particular good points.

But the only car in which you can find ALL these advanced improvements is the Ford V-8.

To illustrate: Begin with the V-type 8-cylinder engine. You can get an ordinary 8-cylinder engine in any of a dozen makes of cars. But if you want the V-type engine of 8 cylinders or more, several other makes of cars will give it to you, if you pay the price of these cars which runs from $2,245 to $5,000.

Take the extra strong X-type frame. You can get this in some other more expensive makes of cars as well as in the Ford. But we do not know of any car except the Ford, in which the X-members continue the full length of the frame, making 4 full length side members instead of two.

Several makes of cars will give you the 3/4 floating rear axle if you pay from $1,310 to $6,250. One maker of cars puts this axle in the high-priced cars, but not in the low-priced ones. It is standard on the Ford.

You can get the torque tube drive in six other makes of cars, only one of which costs less than $1,000. It has always been a part of the Ford.

There is only one other car—according to S. A. E. rating—that has more horsepower per pound of car weight than the Ford V-8 has, and that is a famous car which sells for $4,825.

Take the Ford V-8 aluminum cylinder head, which adds 10 horsepower to the engine without using more gas—in fact, using less gas—it is standard in only two cars today, beside the Ford. One of these cars sells just under $800 and the other at $4,825.

The radiator capacity of the Ford V-8 is larger than that of any car of 30 horsepower or under, except one make of car, and that car sells at $1,895.

Its crank case oil reservoir capacity is less than that of any other 8-cylinder car. Five quarts. That speaks volumes as to oil economy.

And so we could go on with specifications, showing that every Ford car combines the advanced improvements which are scattered here and there amongst a number of other excellent makes. And, of course, there are special points of quality that are exclusively Ford features.

In the list of light 8's, the Ford is lowest priced. Of the V-8's, the Ford costs less than one-fourth the price of the next car on the list.

September 29, 1933.

Anderson-Pruet To Move Into New Quarters

Director Says Screen Presents Improper Picture of Youth

"What Price Innocence?" the photoplay at the Arcadia theatre

today, is a story of modern youth, but it is not a jazz picture.

Willard Mack, the author of the story, as well as its director and producer, for years has had the conviction that "jazz" pictures do not present a proper picture of the youth.

"The picture we've had in the last few years," he contends, "are all one-sided. They would make us believe that all our children are gin-drinkers and do nothing but attend parties where they carry on in disgraceful manner."

The motion picture he has just finished, his first great drama after years of being the master hand of American melodrama, is the result of this point of view.

"What Price Innocence?" centers around the lives of two young girls. One has been warned of the dangers and pitfalls which abound in the path of youth, while the other has been kept in ignorance by a doting mother, whose excuse is

"but nothing like that open to our child."

There are wild pictures and plenty of it is not a "jazz" picture, but it is a picture that has been approved by many organizations.

OF COURSE! NOTHING COULD HAPPEN TO YOUR DAUGHTER!

She's the most lovable, sweetest girl in all this city!

BUT--

How will she know what to do when she meets her first romantic emotional crisis?

Have you told her everything? Or have you taken it for granted that life is an open book to modern youth?

You owe it to yourself and your children to see this starkly beautiful, heartbreaking drama of young love trapped in the web of its own ignorance. Told with rare delicacy, startling beauty and a depth of understanding—unparalleled in any picture in recent years. It is one of the outstanding dramatic sensations of the season!

TO OUR PATRONS: While there is nothing in "What Price Innocence" that will offend anyone we hesitate to recommend it for children unless accompanied by their parents, since the picture deals with a subject that will neither interest nor entertain them.—THE MANAGEMENT.
