GERMANY HAS OWN EMBARGO ON WAR GOODS

By United Press
BERLIN, Nov. 7.—A government pronouncement disclosed today Germany has declared an absolute embargo on arms and raw materials for Italy and Ethiopia and has made preparations for embargoes on raw materials and foodstuffs if it sees fit.

The embargo was imposed immediately upon the outbreak of war and long before the League of Nations voted penalties against Italy.

It puts Germany in a position where its policy in the next few weeks may strengthen the League of Nations' efforts to penalize Italy for warring on Ethiopia and may lead to negotiations which would mean a new diplomatic lineup in Europe.

The embargo is in effect, but in case of Germany's exports of raw materials or foods increases to the extent that it might jeopardize domestic economic interests the government will take steps to prevent damage to the country's industries.

Critics Have Praise For Mel-Roy The Famous Magician

The Tribune of Melford, Ore., dated May 16, 1935, says in part: "Magician proves a real entertainer. Proving that magicians are as good as ever, even if they are not as numerous, Mel-Roy, world-famous wielder of the magic wand, completely mystified a large appreciative audience at the senior high school last night and those in the house are practically waiting for his second appearance tonight."

"Witnesses of his act agree that it is crammed full of highly entertaining and mystifying feats. The program is varied with humor and interspersed with enlightening dialogue, which adds greatly to the enjoyment of the magician's baffling effects."

"A complete stage setting and numerous 'props' lend to the program an atmosphere that convinces all onlookers that it is the performance of a genuine magician."

This is only one of the many fine reports coming from all over the country about Mel-Roy's performance. He is playing the leading high schools of the state on his tour and will make his second appearance in Amarillo, Big Spring, and Abilene.

Mel-Roy will be here for two performances at the Recreation building on Thursday, Nov. 14, an evening at 2 p. m., and an evening performance at 8 o'clock. Tickets will be on sale in a few days. By purchasing one each individual will not only see a fine, educational entertainment but will be helping the libraries of the Ranger schools also.

Flowers Lead Police To Intoxicated Man

LIQUOR BILLS SIDETRACKED FOR TAX BILLS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Liquor legislation was sidetracked temporarily today as taxes took the limelight in the legislature.

The house omnibus bill failed to find a sponsor in the senate. Sen. W. R. Poage moved to take it up, but with the announced intention of substituting a proposed tax on natural resources.

Sen. Clint Small, Amarillo, had one in mimeograph form levying a 1 per cent gross receipts tax on sales at retail. It exempted 13 commodities, including necessities such as food, clothing and cotton piece goods.

Perfunctory adoption of the 18 committee amendments that struck several million dollars from proposed house taxes in the omnibus bill were first taken up by the senate under a rule permitting bills to be perfected by committees before being subjected to general attack.

The house-passed liquor bill was sent to the state affairs committee of the senate.

Rev. McCluskey, 72, Former Resident of County, Is Buried

BRADY, Nov. 7.—Funeral services were held at Placid Tuesday for Rev. G. W. McCluskey, 72, former McCulloch and Eastland county citizen, who died Friday at Shreveport, La., where he had been making his home with his daughter for the past few years.

Rev. McCluskey came to San Saba county from Eastland county in 1889 and then located in Placid in 1910, where he engaged in farming for a number of years. In 1912 he took up preaching as a minister of the Nazarene faith, holding services in various places in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Lots of Figuring and Considerable Work Saves City $623.66 for Fifty Needed Street Intersection Signs

Ranger was badly in need of about 50 street signs, but street signs cost $12.50 each, which would mean an expenditure of something like $625. But $625 is $625, even if it is the city's money that is being spent, according to the way Col. Brasher, street commissioner, figured it.

So he pressed Fire Chief G. A. Murphy into service. Not that Murphy needed much pressing, because he is always figuring out ways in which the fire and street departments, which are under his supervision, can be put to work and save part of the city funds.

The street commissioner did a lot of figuring, and the fire and street department employees did a lot of work. The result was they produced 50 standard size street markers at a cost of slightly less than 3 cents each. In fact Murphy figured that the total of materials was only $1.34, which would make a cost of $623.66 for the sign standards, not counting the cost of painting them, or a saving of $623.66.

The way they did it was by getting old two-inch pipe that was no longer serviceable for pipe line use, but which could be utilized. Murphy borrowed tools from several places and, when a rainy day came along the entire street department which could do little work outdoors anyway, was pressed into service. As there were no fires at the time the entire fire department helped, too.

The pipe was cut into proper lengths. Large sheets of tank steel which had been accumulated some time ago, were cut into strips the proper width and length for the sign background. The strips were mounted with two braces, also cut from tank steel, so they resemble and are as strong as the $12.50 street markers the city could not afford to buy.

The street and fire department employees worked five days making the signs, which required making 100 cuts on the two inch pipe, drilling 550 holes and riveting the signs together. Another two or three days will be required to give the 50 standards two coats of paint, and there will be some expense of having the names of the street painted on by a local sign painter. But adding that cost there will be quite a saving to the city, and the streets will be properly marked before many days.

A little ingenuity and considerable hard work can be made to save plenty of money on occasions.

BULLDOGS AND LOBOES BOTH DETERMINED TO WIN IN THE ANNUAL ARMISTICE CLASH

Despite the rainy weather which has prevailed most of this week, the Cisco Lobos have been working hard each afternoon in preparation for the annual Bulldog-Lobo football game to be played in Cisco Monday afternoon.

The Lobos and Bulldogs will clash in an important encounter, not that either has any hopes of winning in the district, but because each will be fighting desperately to keep from being shoved into the cellar position, which is, at present, occupied by the Bulldogs, a situation unequalled in modern Bulldog history.

The Lobos, who have fared but little better than the Bulldogs this year, have at least tied one game, which is more than the Bulldogs have done, and on the basis of this showing they will be the favorites Monday. However the Bulldogs scored on Eastland and threatened on a number of occasions, which is more than the Lobos have done, which may place the teams on a more even footing than previous games have indicated.

Should Cisco win it will place the Lobos a game and a half ahead of the Bulldogs, but with a win for Ranger the Lobos will be in the conference dungeon by half a game.

But, wet weather or dry, muddy field or not, the Bulldogs, who have been thoroughly revamped in the past few weeks, are determined to keep the Bulldog record clear so far as the Lobos are concerned. The Lobos have not won from the Bulldogs since 1930, when a 3 to 0 victory was scored. In 1931 the teams played to a 13 to 13 tie; in 1932 they did not play, in 1933 the score favored the Bulldogs by one point when they won 7 to 6, and in 1934 a one-sided score of 42 to 0 was registered by the Bulldogs.

NEW DEAL IS ALARMED OVER LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The New Deal, which has fathomed a long list of alphabetical combinations, found a new and unwanted one on its doorstep today.

Administration leaders were frankly concerned over the high cost of living—HCOL—as reflected in continued increases in retail food prices. Rents, too, are going up.

The increases have focused attention on the bureau of labor's statistics, a somewhat obscure division which gathers and compiles food data. Cabinet officers have been asked to be kept informed on its reports.

An increase of .8 per cent in retail food prices in the two weeks ended Oct. 22 caused official concern.

The report revealed it now costs the average housewife about 7 per cent more, an average of $1.50 a week, to fill the market basket than it did a year ago. It costs 25 per cent, or $5 a week, more than it did three years ago.

Patrolmen Ordered To Enforce State Laws On Speeding

State patrolmen Morgan Myers and Ernest Daniel stated today that they were in receipt of orders from headquarters that they concentrate on enforcing the speed law, which gives passenger cars a speed on highways of 45 miles an hour, and through towns and villages of 20 miles an hour.

The truck limits are 25 miles an hour on highways and 18 miles an hour through towns and villages.

The reason these orders were given is that 90 per cent of cases where patrolmen investigated a car accident they find that the high rate of speed was the principal cause of the wreck.

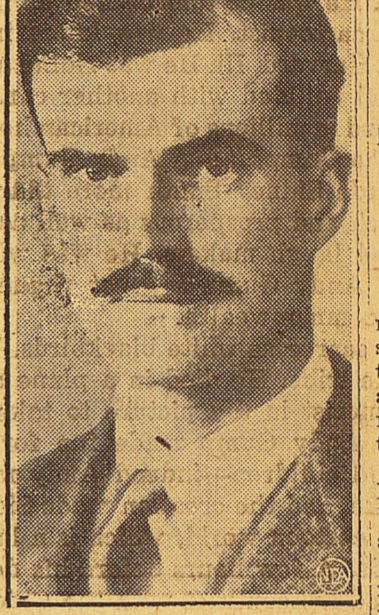

The cooperation of every automobile driver is requested by the patrolmen in observing the law as every effort is being made to eliminate deaths in wrecks.

SANCTIONS ARE TIGHTENING ON ITALY TODAY

The economic ring around Italy tightened today by announcement by the German government sanctions were being applied.

The United States remained the principal country Italy still could hope to get raw materials vital to prosecution of a war.

Though Secretary of State Cordell Hull suggested last night the new congress should broaden the neutrality law, making it possible to apply an effective embargo, it was made plain in Washington this country cannot and does not intend to do anything of the sort under the present law.

The League will have to be content with the moral support of the United States, plus any effort the administration may make to persuade private interests to curtail exports to Italy voluntarily.

On Nov. 18 the full weight of the penalties will be imposed by some 50 nations. It remains to be seen whether they will be enough to stop Mussolini or if the British fleet will strip for action.

In the war zone the Italians resumed their advance on all parts of the northern front. The Ethiopians showed signs of resistance. There was an actual fight in the Makale region.

Italian casualties were two dead and 12 wounded. The Ethiopian losses were not known and it was not clear which side won the engagement.

CAPT. KELLEY RESIGNS AS A FARM MANAGER

Is First Major Move Since Resignation of Lee Simmons.

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—The first major shakeup in the Texas prison system under the new administration of Dave Nelson, general manager, was seen today in the resignation of Ike Kelley, director of the Retriever Prison Farm.

Kelley's resignation, effective Dec. 1, has been accepted by the board, Chairman W. A. Padlock announced. Rube Connor, Houston, former city manager and farm manager of the prison system, will succeed him.

Kelley's administration was under fire several months ago after two members of the prison board charged farm guards with brutality which led to self-mutilation by prisoners.

Lee Simmons, who was succeeded as general prison manager by Nelson on Nov. 1, reported that convicts chopped off their hands and legs in efforts to bring about the discharge of Kelley. An investigation of the mutilation exonerated Kelley.

The most desperate prisoners are kept at Reprise, but only five have escaped during Kelley's administration. Simmons said the management was the "best in the system."

The policy of giving the convict more axes, "so they can chop themselves," as an alternative to escape, led to opposition to Simmons and his ultimate resignation as general manager.

Wheat Sign-Up to Begin on Friday

The wheat program will get under way in Eastland county Friday, Nov. 8.

Eastland county has been allotted 9,333 acres and 111,000 bushels of wheat. Under the terms of a wheat contract, a producer is guaranteed a parity price for 50 per cent of his allotment, and his sales are not limited, his compliance with the contract being based entirely on the number of acres seeded and the use of the acreage retired from wheat production.

The Secretary of Agriculture has set 5 per cent as the reduction in acreage for the 1936 crop year.

If you are interested in going into this adjustment program you can meet with the local committee men as follows, and discuss the matter with them, County Agent C. Metz Head announced.

Cisco—Chamber of Commerce, Friday, Nov. 8, Roy Phippen, O. C. Holcomb.

Eastland—County Agent's office, Saturday, Nov. 9. A. M. Hearn, O. C. Bennett, I. S. Echols and J. G. Medford.

Ranger—Chamber of Commerce Monday, Nov. 11. Walter Duncan and Leslie Hagaman.

You may call any time from 8 until 5 o'clock at these places on dates shown, the county agent said.

A Brilliant Cartoonist Who Made the People Laugh

Sidney Smith is dead. He was 58 and he had an international reputation as a cartoonist. He was killed in an automobile accident near Harvard, Ill. He was riding alone in his own automobile and collided with another car.

Real humorists are as scarce as white blackbirds. Will Rogers was the ace of the tribe. He died in a plane accident and there is no humorist in the picture to take his place. Sidney Smith and Andy Gump made fun for the millions—men, women and children—indeed Andy made fun for old and young alike, and the creation made Sidney Smith an immortal in the cartoon world.

The GOLDEN FEATHER by Robert Bruce

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her answer when BOBBY WALLACE, automobile salesman, asks her to marry him.
The Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS whose business connection is vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to "BOB" and "MRS. LEWIS." Bobby sees some bonds for Lewis, who buys a car.
LARRY GLENN, federal agent, trailing WINGO LEWIS, bank robber, he learns about the bond connection and questions Bobby. Bob's bonds were stolen. Larry believes the car Lewis bought is armored. Bob's whereabouts to find out.
Jean goes home for a vacation. Sandy comes to see her and she agrees to a secret engagement.
The bank of which her father is president is robbed. Larry starts a search for the robbers.
Jean's employer tells her Sandy has been injured in a little town some distance away and wants to see her. She goes to the farmhouse where Sandy and the Lewises are staying.
Larry learns Sandy was one of the bank robbers. He also locates DOC JECKER, believed to have trained one of the robbers. Jecker's name is in the papers.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII
LARRY GLENN sat on a table in the Division of Investigation office and looked down at the slyster medico. Doc Jecker, Jecker cowered in his chair, the defiance that had marked his demeanor earlier that day completely vanished; instead he cringed and was humble, and his hands kept twisting and rubbing each other as if he had no control over them.
"You'll let me have that box—after?" he begged.
Larry nodded. "Just as soon as you've told me what I want to know."
Jecker made a violent effort and regained a semblance of self-control.
"Just what do you want to know?" he asked.
"I want to know about this man you treated for a gunshot wound first of all, when was it?"
"It was—let's see—four days ago. This is Thursday, isn't it? This was late Sunday night. About midnight, or such a matter."
"Tell me all about it. Everything."
The little man darted a longing glance at the pill box in Larry's hand, moistened his lips, and began:
"I got a ring there in my place," he said. "A man I'd—treated before. He gave me a name that we'd used before, so I knew it was him. He said to come right out to a North Side apartment to take care of a man who'd got hurt. He gave me the address."
"What was that address?"
"Apartment 23, in the Ranelagh apartment building, out on the drive."
"Go ahead."
"I called a cab and hurried out. I got there in about half an hour and buzzed the buzzer and went right up. There were four men there. One of them had been shot through the shoulder. He—"
"Just a minute. Who were the men?"
"I didn't recognize any of them. I'd never—"
"Who were the men?"
"I'm telling you—"
"Come off it," said Larry roughly. He got up and slipped a box back into his pocket. "If you're not going to come clean—"
"So help me," said Jecker desperately. "I don't know who they were. I knew this one guy—that is, I'd seen him before—but I never knew his real name. All I knew was they called him Wingo."

"And you didn't even have a notion who he was, or who any of the others were?"
"Well, I might've had a hunch—"
"What was that hunch?"
"I might've figured—"
Jecker twisted his hands in agony of apprehension. "I—one man was big and red-haired. I figured he looked like Red Jackson—I mean, like the pictures I've seen in the papers, and so—"
"All right. We'll let it go at that. How about the man who was shot?"
"He was tall and light-haired, and tanned," said Doc Jecker, obviously relieved to be through with the painful business of identifying the nation's most badly-wanted criminal, who was notorious for the punishment he meted out to people so reckless as to give the authorities information about him.
"Youngish chap, looked like he might've been a cowboy or something. He'd been shot—"
He lapsed into medical jargon to describe the wound; the gist of it was that although the man had been seriously weakened by loss of blood the wound had not been infected, no bones or vital organs had been hit, and recovery should be relatively speedy. He had bathed and dressed the wound, administered a shot of antitetanus serum, and then taken his departure.
A few more questions satisfied Larry that there was no more useful information to be had from Doc Jecker. He tossed the little pill box in the man's lap with a contemptuous "Here you are, then," and withdrew to Matthew's office, while Matthew arranged for Jecker's transfer to jail.
"We're still about two jumps behind them," said Larry, as the five agents sped along the drive in their car. As far as the janitor knew, they'd learn something, though."
THEY reached the Ranelagh apartments, a big, square building of yellow brick, looking like a thousand other city apartment houses all over the land. Larry rang for the janitor, they displayed their credentials, and the janitor informed them that suite 23 had been engaged by two men some months ago. The men had been out more than they had been in, it seemed; whole weeks would pass during which they never came near the place. Sunday evening, however, they had arrived and taken possession—a apparently accompanied by two other men—and 24 hours later they had disappeared again. As far as the janitor knew, they had not since returned.
Somewhat unwillingly, the janitor led them up to the apartment and opened the door with his pass key. The agents found themselves in a perfectly ordinary six-room furnished apartment, and they immediately set to work to search it from one end to the other.
Peterson and LaRocco were busy with their fingerprint apparatus, collecting prints from the glasses and bottles. Gunderson was methodically going through drawers and cupboards and finding nothing worth a second glance. Matthews was busy in the kitchen. Larry Glenn stood in the living room, looking slowly about him for some clue, however slight, that would shed some light on the sudden move the occupants of the apartment had made.

Over in the corner there was a little table bearing a telephone. Larry strolled over and stood frowning down at the instrument. He bent and picked up a phone book, and rifled through the pages with care, looking for scribbled numbers, notes, checkmarks—anything. The quest was useless. The book seemed as new and untouched as the day it came from the printers.
HE laid it down and glanced about him. Then he saw what he was after. On the tan wall-paper close to the door frame, three feet from the telephone stand, was something scribbled in pencil. He bent closer to look at it. Someone, apparently, had written a phone number on the wall: Middlothian 326.
Matthews came into the room and departed. Peters and LaRocco came in. He came over and looked at the number, which Larry was copying into a notebook.
"That's not a Chicago exchange," said Matthews.
"No."
"No. Anyhow, all Chicago numbers would have four numerals."
Larry gave the number another scrutiny. "That's been written recently," he said. "You can tell—look—it isn't smudged or faded."
Matthews bent to take a second look and nodded agreement. He called Gunderson, and when the agent reached his side he said:
"Look, Gundy, copy that number and then slide down to the phone company headquarters and find out where in the United States there's an exchange named Middlothian. You may have to spend half the night at the job, but find out. I know it's not a Chicago exchange, and I doubt if it's anywhere in this area. I never heard of it before, anyhow. But stick with it until you find out. Look up the phone company's traffic manager—man named Edward Huth—he's a pretty good scout and he'll see you get the help you need."
Gunderson copied the number and departed. Peters and LaRocco came in, to report that they had finished recording all the fingerprints that could be found.
"We'll go back downtown and develop those prints and compare them with what we've already got," said Larry. "By that time we ought to be hearing from Gunderson."
So they all went back to Matthews' office, through the late afternoon traffic rush. An hour later LaRocco handed Larry the pictures he had developed. Still moist, Larry spread them on a table and compared them with the facsimiles of the Jackson gang's prints which he carried with him.
"Well, it's no surprise, of course, but these are the birds," he said at last. "Most of these prints are pretty badly smudged, but we've enough to go on. Here's Red Jackson's, big as life and Wingo Lewis's. That's enough."
As he was putting his facsimile cards back into his pocket the door opened and Gunderson came in.
"It's back in your bailiwick Mr. Glenn," said Gunderson. "That phone number is in a little town named Middlothian, about a hundred miles from Dover. It belongs to a farmer named Engle, who lives out on the edge of town."

P.-T. A. Compliment to City Council Delightful Affair
Despite unpleasant weather one of the most delightful social affairs to be included in the season's happenings took place Wednesday afternoon at Cooper School when the Parent-Teacher Association entertained in compliment to the Ranger City Council.

Schools from Colonial Days to the present." Mr. Walton spoke in a forceful manner and held the strict attention of his audience throughout. On many previous occasions he has spoken and always is highly commended for the ability to hold his hearers' interest so intensely.

The auditorium was beautifully graced in a profusion of chrysanthemums, their rich tones flinging their colors in artistic fashion clustered in vases and baskets.

Business was given attention and a thorough discussion of the state convention to be held at El Paso was a highlight.

Guests were received by the president of the P.-T. A., Mrs. Roy Wilkes and Mrs. Carl Clemmer. Mrs. Louis Pitcock, president of the City Council for 1935-36, presided over the program, presenting W. T. Walton, principal speaker, whose topic was "The Public

There were some 25 guests present for the entertainment.

High School and Jr. College Notes

By Mavis Murray

Sub-Deb Initiation
Eight new members were initiated into the Sub-Deb Club Wednesday morning at 11:30. Catherine Jane Conley, Aline Reuter and Mavis Murray were in charge of the initiation. The following program was given: Mountaineer tap dance, Cecelia McDowell; reading, Doris May; jokes, Nancy Martin; riddles, Mildred Fern Mitchell; song, Imogene Stafford, Alda Mae Miller and Jennie Lee Rice. These members will sell candy to students at the school next Tuesday. Plans for a Christmas entertainment were discussed. The president, Camilla Hunt, appointed the entertainment committee, as follows: Sammy Ruth Matthews, Vivian Champion and Bobbie Lee Tolliver. Mrs. Neill is the club sponsor.

Teachers Meeting Tonight
All teachers and assistant teachers of the Church of Christ, are asked to be present at the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Nichol, will not be present since he is conducting a revival meeting at Stephenville. An important discussion is to be held and is the desire for all teachers to attend.

Returns From South America And Family
Play Meroney, brother of J. E. Meroney, who has been working in South America for the past two and a half years, is visiting his brother in Ranger. Meroney returned to the United States because of ill health and will remain in Ranger for a few days before leaving for South Texas, where he has another position.

College Choral Club
The Junior College Choral Club met Tuesday morning with Mr. LaMance. Songs to be given on the Armistice program at the High School were practiced. Interest is being shown by the attendance and enthusiasm. New members are being added at each meeting. Reporter, Rena Mason.

Hi-Y Club
The Hi-Y Club met Tuesday evening at the High School with Mr. Warford. The vice president, Robert Ray Herring, and Barcus Coalson and Harmon Ainsworth were in charge of the program. C. E. May Jr., Earl Walton, Charles Whitefield and Terrell Williamson were initiated into the club.

Rena Mason C. L. F. Hostess
All members of the C. L. F. were guests at the home of Rena Mason, Pine street, Tuesday evening. A short business session was held with the president, Reba Calloway, in charge. Josephine Rick was elected by acclamation as a new member of the club. Games were played and refreshments were served. Reba Calloway, May Jo Brown, Dorothy O'Donnell, Etta Mae Sikes, Leta Grace Hart, Florine Long, Pauline McGee, Mary Helen Childs, Mattie Beryl Montgomery, Mildred Moorman, Maxine Guthrie, Donleita Taylor, Rena Mason, Eloise Wellborn, and the sponsor, Miss Winsom. Glen Lee Will Play At Dance at Cisco

CISCO, Nov. 7.—One of radio-land's outstanding bandmen is being brought to Lake Cisco Amusement Company's big lake-side pavilion for the Armistice Day dance, Manager P. G. Berry announced this week.

He is Glen Lee, late from a seven-months engagement at Terrace Gardens, Morrison Hotel, Chicago, and now playing at the Adolphus Hotel, Dallas, and broadcasting over KRLL and the Southwest Broadcasting System.

Lee and his orchestra are under the management of the Music Corporation of America.

An absolute limit of 450 couples has been placed on this dance by Mr. Berry, who expects a demand for tickets that cannot be satisfied. A price of $2 plus tax will be charged.

Berry comes to the management of the Cisco resort after five years spent away. He was the manager who opened the resort in 1927 and the excellence of the dances and other entertainment that he provided patrons at that time is still remembered.

Nine new constitutions framed in Brazil. Upon reflection, however, isn't that where nuts come from?

"Ethiopians plead for permission to storm Adigrat-Aduwa-Aksumline." There always seems to be trouble wherever those initials "AAA," pop up.

TO LOSE FAT EAT SENSIBLY

Go light on fatty meat, butter, cream, and sugary sweets—eat fresh vegetables, fruits, fowl and fish (except salmon and mackerel).

Be sure and take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts with the juice of half a lemon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Mrs. J. R. McCausland of Pittsburgh writes: "I took off 8 lbs. in two weeks with Kruschen. I ate as usual and feel fine."

Pay no attention to gossipers who say there is no safe way to reduce. Millions the world over take the little daily dose of Kruschen not only to banish excess fat but to keep stomach, liver, gall bladder, bowels and kidneys in healthy working condition.

No more cathartics—no more laxatives, and no constipation when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen. Oil City Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.

Soldiers In Alps Use Heroic Dog To Deliver Mail

LYONS, France.—A St. Bernard dog acts efficiently as army postman for the 98th Alpine Infantry of the French army in the Maurienne Alps.

This same dog received publicity last winter when it saved the life of a sportsman who suffered a broken leg during a snow storm on a mountain skiing expedition. The St. Bernard was told to lie beside the injured man to keep him warm. The dog stayed for two days until a rescue party arrived. A formal ceremony was held last spring to award a medal to this dog for heroism.

The mascot of the soldiers, the St. Bernard now takes great pride in the new responsibilities of being postman. A mail bag is strapped to its back and the dog carries the mail to an Alpine post almost 10 miles away.

After delivering the letters from Turraz to Lanslebourg, the dog is given a hot meal, then it trots back faithfully to headquarters, ready to deliver the next day's mail.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—His features almost obliterated, the body of Charles (Chink, the Chinaman) Sherman, newest victim of the war for control of the $1,000,000 a month policy racket, was found today in a shallow grave near Monticello, N. Y.

POLITICAL BOOKS POPULAR

CHICAGO.—Business men in the Middle West are reading books on political philosophy and government more eagerly than ever before, according to a survey of reading preferences of buyers who come to the Merchants Mart.

"Eastern safety organization considers placing governors on automobiles to keep down speed." idea would hardly work if it used president's sons.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBE

Medical authorities agree that kidneys contain 15 MILES of tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scant amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tube may need flushing out. This signal may be the beginning of ailing backache, leg pains, loss of energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 2 p.m. and so get rid of more than pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give relief and will help to flush out 15 MILES of kidney tubes. DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.
