Carnegie Centenary

November 25 this year marks the centennial of the birth of Andrew Carnegie who is known as America's greatest library benefactor. The century since his birth has brought great progress in the library world.

In 1835 there were only a few scattered libraries in this country, most of them small college and subscription libraries. The first free children's library was established in that year in West Cambridge, Mass. In 1851 the Boston Public Library, one of the most important, was established. Twenty-five years later the American Library Association was founded with approximately 300 libraries in the United States and Canada.

In those days the library was a retreat for scholars; taking a book home would have seemed a preposterous idea. Wire netting across the shelves protected the books. In contrast, today there are some 10,000 libraries in the United States, used regularly by more than 24 million people. The modern library has won a place beside the public schools as an instrument of education. It does not wait for people to come to the library, but reaches out into the community to find and serve new readers.

Now, readers have free access to open shelves; no more wire fences to protect the books. There are reading guides to help adults find books adapted to their needs. Book automobiles take books to readers and to schools in remote places. Express, mail, telephone and even airplane service make books accessible to those who could not have them otherwise.

The greatest impetus given the modern library came from Carnegie's benefactions in the early 1900s. In 1881 he had given a library to his native town, Dunfermine, in Scotland. In his autoboigraphy he said, "My father, had been one of five pioneers in Dunfermline who combined and gave access to their few books to their less fortunate neighbors. I had followed in his footsteps by giving my native town a library—my first real gift." His second gift was a library building to Allegheny City, Pennsylvania, his "first real home in America," and another to Pittsburgh. New York City was the next place to benefit from his interest in libraries. Their board was given five and a quarter millions for 68 branch libraries in 1903.

The Carnegie Corporation has continued library benefactions since his death in 1919. Since 1881 nearly $65,-000,000 has been given of his wealth to equip, build or enrow almost 3,000 libraries-1,900 of these in the United States and Canada, It has been estimated that 35,000,000 people receive library service as a result of his philan-

Andrew Carnegie said, "I do not want to be known for what I give, but for what I induce others to give." Under his plan the community receiving a grant furnished a site for the building and an annual maintenance fund of 10 per cent of the gift. He attributed most of the usefulness of libraries to the fact that the communities were expected to maintain and develop them. His tribute was: "I chose free libraries as the best agencies for improving the masses of the people, because they give nothing for nothing. They only help those who help themselves. They reach the aspiring, and open to these the chief treasures of the world—those stored up in books. A taste for reading drives out lower tastes—I prefer the free public library to most if not any other agency for the happiness and improvement of the community."

A Scotchman who gave $65,000,000 to libraries cannot be far wrong.

Mickey Cochrane, returning from Wyoming, said he was hunting bear. That seems a bit vindictive after what he did to its children.

Along about the end of that game with Notre Dame, the Ohio State team might have been classed as the "Scarlet Discourageds."

Il Duce commends soldiers for "carrying civilization to the soil of Africa." Just as we thought; it's so far gone that it has to be carried.

It shouldn't be so hard for Italians to do without meat. All they have to do is pretend they're Americans and study American meat prices.

Get Awards For Careful Driving

Cash awards totaling $1,200 and engraved plaques are being awarded to 24 bus drivers of the Southwestern Greyhound Lines, as a reward for driving six consecutive years without an accident of any kind, according to an announcement by Paul W. Tibbetts, president of the company.

In addition to the six-year cash awards, the company will award eight five-year diamond studded buttons and plaques, eight fouryear sapphire studded buttons and olaquest, seven two-year pearl studded buttons and card certificates and 21 first-year plain gold buttons and card certificates, makng a total of 75 safety awards. The rigidity of the requirements for these awards is indicated by the fact that even a scratched fender is charged against the driver as an accident. Despite the strict requirements, the total safety button awards made to Greyhound drivers during the past five years represent in excess of 50,000,000 miles of driving with "no-accident"

In 1936 On U.S. To Panama Road

By United Press

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Pan-American Highway enthusiasts believe that 1936 will witness extraordinary progress toward the linking of the United States with Panama, with probable rebirth of agitation for construction in South America.

The next session of Congress, meeting January 3, will be asked to provide large additional appropriation to finance construction of cooperation with other countries. A figure of from five to ten million dollars has been tentatively suggested, but the actual recommendation probably will depend upon the entry of international arrangements now studied.

The Texas Centennial celebration, to occur in 1936. is expected to cause large motor travel to the Southwestern United States, and that event in connection with the prospective completion of the inter-American highway from Laredo to Mexico City is likely to lead to extensive international travel.

The general program envisaged here contemplates construction of the 3,200-mile highway between Texas and Panama before the Southern half of the route to Buenos Aires is attempted, but officials watch with interest every South American highway development which would contribute to the eventual success of the twocontinent system.

At present, longitudinal routes in South America appear to be developing less rapidly than transverse routes. The major recent developments have been, the expansion of highway traffic between Venezuela and Colombia, Peruvian development of highways intended to connect the Pacific slope with the upper Amazon Valley, rapid modernization of highways in Argentina, and reported agitation for a Trans-Andean highway between Chile and Argentina at sufficiently low altitude to permit year-round travel. Highway officials here feel that practical means of international cooperation in furtherance of the highway to Panama has been established through the Congressional Act of June, 1934, which provided $1,000,000 "to meet such expenses as the president in his discretion may deem necessary to cooperate with the several governments, members of the Pan American Union, in connection with survey and construction of the proposed inter-American high-Prusuant to this authority. THIS IS A WARNING TO BE-WARE OF THIEVES POSING AS SOLICITORS, salesmen or inspectors. STRANGERS seeking admittance to premises as salesmen, solicitors or inspectors SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED UNTIL THEIR CREDENTIALS HAVE BEEN CHECKED UP AND VERI-FIED THROUGH DEPENDABLE LOCAL PERSONS OR LOCAL INSTITUTIONS.

IN MANY CASES STRANGERS, without reliable credentials, are spotters for professional criminals, and according to police records, lack of caution on the part of the householders in admitting such strangers oftentimes results in costly property losses and bitter experiences.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN AD-VANCE TO STRANGERS ON ANY MERCHANDISE . . . in many cases and from experience reported to the police department the customer has never received anything for the cash advanced nor has any refund been made of the original cash deposit.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS FOR STRANGERS NOR ISSUE A CHECK as down payment on any order to a stranger, as in a number of cases these checks have been altered and later cashed by a third and innocent party.

SHOPLIFTERS WORKING THROUGH HERE pilfer merchandise from local stores and dispose of this merchandise to citizens in KEEPING CHECK OF SUSPECT-ED INDIVIDUALS and your cooperation is asked in tracing down stolen goods. Beware of this merchandise usually sold as a special deal or offered at a ridiculous price for quick disposal.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY . . . BE SURE YOU KNOW who the stranger is at your door before granting admittance to your home. IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS PHONE THE POLICE AT ONCE . . . as we are anxious to co-operate with our citizens at all times.

HIGH-PRESSURE FREE GIFT ARTISTS HAVE BEEN WORK-ING the residence and farm districts of late selling all kinds of merchandise and offering "something free" to get into the homes. IN MOST CASES THERE IS NOTHING FREE TO BE GIVEN

Fidelis Class Winner at Banquet

Last evening at 7:30 o'clock an enthusiastic group of Central Baptist young people met in the banquet room of the church for their annual Thanksgiving banquet. Interest has been running high in each class during the past week, as each planned and prepared their own menu, decorations stunts and contacting members of their class for this evening's enterment were ushered into the banquet room which was gorgeously decorated in autumn leaves, yellow chrysanthemums, nuts and fruits. Each table was an array of autumn beauty, spread with all the good things that go with Thanksgiving. Mrs. Dick Williams acted as toastmistress. After the luncheon was served much merriment and laughter was provoked by the stunts put on by the classes. Judges for the evening were Mmes. Dick Williams, George Robinson and Barney Sides, who awarded the honors to the Fidelis Class, Mrs. Frank Hick-

As a closing number of the eve ning each class retired to its class room for its monthly business meeting. Many plans are being laid for the department's activity during the month of December. The Fidelis class will hold its annual Christmas party with Mrs. Frank Hicklin.

The Amica Class, Mrs. H. H. Stephens, teacher, re-divided into groups with Lloyd Landtroop and R. V. Robinson as captains, selected colors for each group and will make chair covers for the depart-Christmas party which will be held early in December.

Cardui Pain Relief Also Strengthening For Weak Women

Failure to receive proper nour-shment from the food they eat is believed to cause many women to have monthly suffering which stronger women escape. Promptly relieving certain functional pain, and (by its con hued use) strengthening the entitie system,--Cardui has won the praise of thousands of women.

"I suffered quite a bit of pain, cramping and bad feeling and this made me extremely nervous," writes Mrs. H. Anglada, of Biloxi, Miss. "A friend recommended Cardui and I commenced using it right away. Cardui did me so much good -built me up and I was much better in every way. I took twelve bottles in all. I am glad I heard of Cardui."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
