DANGER FROM FLOODS GROWS LESS SEVERE

Floodwaters from six South-east Texas rivers rolled forward today without adding serious threats of damage, while Amarillo began repairing damage from a week-end of ice storms.

Weeks will be required to complete the task, but water and utilities already were being used on a temporary basis at Amarillo. First direct message from that city since Sunday said that residents were more concerned with the outcome of next Saturday's football game with Pampa for the district championship than over the storm.

Snowstorms covered most of the United States today.

Deaths from the South Texas floods have been remarkably few, though damage to crops and losses in livestock have been heavy, reports today indicated. It is felt that in most sections the worst of the flood had passed and that clearing weather along the watersheds of rivers would remove danger of further damage.

Former Eastland County Man Is Killed by Fall

Emmett Lovell, former resident of the Carbon community in Eastland county, but who has resided in Baird for a long time, died Tuesday afternoon in the Callahan County Hospital at Baird from injuries sustained when he was thrown from a truck by wind catching under timbers being hauled on it.

The wind swept both Lovell and the timbers off the truck bed, Lovell struck the pavement with his head, and the impact crushed the back of his skull.

Lovell and a companion were returning to Baird from a point east of town where they were doing some construction work. Survivors are his parents at Carbon and a sister, Mrs. Jack Manis of Putnam. Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately.

Three Texans Lost In Gulf of Mexico

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27.—Three Houston men and one from Galveston were reported to be missing today after a coastguard boat took W. D. Noland of Houston from the yacht Bagheera, and abandoned it 180 miles in the Gulf of Mexico.

Four others aboard the craft started for shore in a skiff and have not been seen since. It is feared that they were lost.

ALL MATERIAL OF RED CROSS IS ALLOCATED

Arrangements have now been made for all the sewing work to be done by the Ranger Red Cross Station, it was announced Wednesday afternoon, and all the work is to be done in homes of those participating in the program. This will make it unnecessary for meetings at the high school building, as had been planned.

Ladies of the Morton Valley community have responded to the invitation for them to join in the work, and have agreed to do all the sewing on pajamas and boys' shirts.

Ladies of the First Baptist Church of Ranger have taken over sewing to be done on layettes, and will complete this portion of the Ranger Red Cross Station's quota.

A large number of individuals have taken materials for other sewing to be done in their homes in spare time, which accounts for all material received and the Ranger quota of garments is expected to be completed rapidly, with the splendid cooperation of the ladies from Morton Valley.

It is expected that all garments will be completed for shipment to Eastland in time to meet the requirement that these shipments be made from central locations prior to Jan. 1.

No other sewing will be required until a new shipment of material is received, it was stated Wednesday, and no word has yet been received as to when the next consignment will be received.

National Guard to Go to Brownwood Tuesday, Dec. 17

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 27.—Major General Claude Birkhead said today that movement of Texas National Guard Infantry and Artillery troops to Camp Bowie, near Brownwood, will be delayed until Dec. 17 because rain has interrupted work on the campsite.

Advance detachments will arrive in Brownwood Dec. 11.

Company I, 142nd Infantry, of the Texas National Guard, which was mobilized in Ranger Monday morning for induction into federal service for training, is included among the companies that will be trained in Brownwood. At present they are quartered at the armory in Ranger.

Highway Hearing Is To Be Held Monday

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—The State Highway Department announced today that a hearing will be held on requests for a designation of a highway from Cleburne to Grandview.

Boom in Army Testing Business

Boom! Hidden in this thick burst of black smoke and powder is the answer to a question that's most important now that an expanding U. S. Army calls for all available material: How good is the equipment of World War days? To find out, army engineers blasted an old 7½-ton Renault tank with a 12-pound TNT land mine at Fort Belvoir, Va. Below is what they saw when smoke cleared away.

Bridge Players Would Be Shocked to Know How Rigid State Laws Are About Playing the Game in Public

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas bridge and whist experts who have played in places other than their own homes or homes of friends, scarcely look upon themselves as criminals but a recent investigation by the attorney general's department found that playing cards anywhere but in a private residence occupied by a family is unlawful.

The study of the card laws was brought about when the Texas Bridge Club of Houston sought to obtain a state charter under a section of the corporation statutes that authorizes incorporation to carry on innocent sports.

It was held that whist and bridge are not "innocent sports" under Texas law. Bicycling is an innocent sport under the law for it is specifically named in the statute which authorizes charters for corporations organized "to support and maintain bicycle clubs and other innocent sports."

It also may be a surprise to Texans of today to know that the courts once decided that an automobile club could not be chartered under that statute. To remedy this situation a later state legislature specifically authorized charters for automobile clubs.

But to get back to cards, the study of the statutes and decisions revealed that it is unlawful to play cards except in a private residence regardless of whether there is betting.

The recent study made by Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann's staff into the legal status of whist or bridge is not the first that has been made by the department. In fact much of the present ruling is based on an extensive investigation made by the late C. M. Cureton when he was attorney general. He later became chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court.

Nor was the attempt of the Texas Bridge Club to get a charter the first effort of Texas card players to incorporate. In 1934 a similar request for a state charter was made by the Metropolitan Bridge Club of Houston. District Judge A. R. Stout of Waxahachie who was then an assistant attorney general, ruled against the charter saying that it had long been the department's practice to refuse to grant such charters. He cited not only Justice Cureton as an authority but those noted game authorities Hoyle and Culbertson.

"Bridge is just as much a game as is poker," Stout wrote, "and they are both universally spoken of as games. As one who has some knowledge of both Hoyle and Mr. Culbertson, no instance can be recalled of where either of them ever applied anything other than the word 'game' to this great pastime. Stout argued that no lawyer would contend a poker club could be chartered and said that so far as the charter laws stand poker and whist are in the same category.

From the numerous authorities cited in the opinion it appears that the general line of distinction between a game and a sport seems to depend on whether it is an indoor or outdoor affair. There are some exceptions necessary. Boxing and wrestling are known as sports though the usual place of competition is indoors. Quoits, usually played in the barnyard or other outdoor spots, is usually called a game.

At all events the latest ruling in Texas is that bridge and whist are games and not innocent sports within contemplation of the statute authorizing incorporations.

America's Biggest Cavalry Post Will Be At Fort Bliss

EL PASO, Tex.—With the arrival of a sixth anti-aircraft regiment at Fort Bliss, America's largest cavalry post, the number of troops stationed there will reach 22,000, Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, fort commander, said.

The sixth regiment is expected next year. Five others will be in training here within the next two months.

Regiments already in training at Fort Bliss include the 202nd Coast Artillery of the Illinois National Guard and the 63rd, Regular Army.

Three other regiments of the National Guard will arrive between Jan. 3 and 19 of next year.

United already assigned to Fort Bliss include the 56th Cavalry Brigade of the Texas National Guard which is in camp now and the First Brigade of the First Cavalry which is due Feb. 1.

Cactus Is Grown Among Cottonwoods

SIERRA BLANCA, Tex.—D. Ortega has learned a horticultural secret sought by many tree lovers.

The Sierra Blanca man has raised cottonwood trees alongside cactus of the West Texas desert, a feat never before performed in this arid region.

He flooded a small irrigated area near Sierra Blanca with rain water that he dammed through a series of contour listings and tanks. The cottonwood trees grow in the water-filled tanks.

Ortega also has squash, beans and chili peppers growing alongside mesquite and cactus.

"Hug-The-Coast" Highway Will Be Dedicated Dec. 17

By United Press
RAYMONDVILLE, Tex.—One of the biggest celebrations in the history of the Lower Rio Grande Valley is being planned for December 17 when the Texas Highway Commission formally opens the Hug-the-Coast Highway between Raymondville in Wilacy county and Sarita in Kenedy county, last link in a paved highway paralleling the full length of the Texas Gulf Coast from Orange to Brownsville.

Completion of the highway will provide the Lower Rio Grande Valley area with its second paved highway outlet leading to the north across the sand dunes and ranch country lying between the Rio Grande and Corpus Christi.

Thus will the four-county "empire" on the Texas side of the international boundary stream be given another link with the remainder of Texas. Residents of Cameron and Willacy county, in particular, will save many miles on their automobile trips to Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Houston and other points outside the Valley. It will save the 62 miles of a round-trip between Harlingen and Pharr along the Valley's "Main Street."

From Corpus Christi, the Hug-the-Coast Highway moves through some of the most beautiful coastal country on the gulf. It follows the coast very closely, keeping the motorist in view of the blue salt water most of the time. Some of Texas' oldest and most picturesque towns are located along the Hug-the-Coast Highway, which, north of Corpus Christi, touches Rockport, Tivoli, Fort Lavaca, Palacios, Bay City, West Columbia, Angleton, Alvin, Galveston, Sabine Pass, Port Arthur and Orange.

The official celebration of the opening of the new highway will be held here in Raymondville, where preparations are being made for the entertainment of 20,000 persons.

Judge Ben F. Wilson, county judge of Kenedy county, is chairman of the celebration's general committee.

Features of the celebration already include a barbecue and rodeo on Dec. 17.

Also taking a prominent part in the celebration will be officials of the Texas Highway Commission, who directed construction of the highway. Many Texas officials, the governor-elect of Michigan and other celebrities have indicated their intention of attending the celebration.

Dr. J. C. Karcher

Dr. J. C. Karcher, above, will be principal speaker at the banquet of the ninth annual meeting of West-Central Texas Oil and Gas Association at Abilene, Monday, Dec. 2nd.

South America is More Friendly in Its U. S. Relations

DALLAS, Tex.—Throughout South America a strong feeling of friendship for the United States is developing because of President Roosevelt's and Secretary of State Cordell Hull's good neighbor policy, George Sergeant, former mayor of Dallas, believes.

Sergeant has just returned from a 20,000-mile tour of the southern continent. He left Dallas in July, and visited all but one of the South American countries.

"The people of South America highly respect both our president and secretary of state," Sergeant said. "I am convinced that if the American presidential election had been held in South America Mr. Roosevelt would have received an almost unanimous vote."

Sergeant said that he talked to a number of Germans in sections where there were heavy German settlements and found that these people were resentful of Uruguay because of its actions during the Graf Spee incident.

"These Germans believed that Uruguay could have helped the Germans in that battle in which the Spee was damaged by British warships," he said. "They believe that the Uruguayans actually helped the British."

Big Bend Project Should Be Pushed Its "Daddy" Says

ALPINE, Tex.—War or no war E. E. Townsend, known as the "daddy" of the proposed Big Bend National Park which is to be south of his Alpine home, believes that there should be no let up in the campaign to raise funds for purchase of over three-quarters of a million acres for the project.

Plans call for the buying of 788,000 acres in Brewster County down on the Rio Grande's edge for $2,000,000. The acreage is then to be turned over to the National Park Service for development.

Townsend has lived in the rugged and picturesque Big Bend country for 56 years and he was one of the originators of the park idea.

As a member of the Texas legislature he got a $750,000 appropriation for purchase of part of the property, but Former Governor James V. Allred vetoed the bill. In 1933 he helped introduce a bill that first set aside the Big Bend area as a proposed park site.

Townsend is displeased with the lag in the money-raising campaign, however. He believes there is adequate support latent in Texas if the state park organization will push the campaign, however.

Airplane Strike in Downey is Settled

DOWNEY, Calif., Nov. 27.—The Big Vultee aircraft factory resumed work today, after being closed by strikes for nearly two weeks.

A compromise has been reached upon which the strike which closed the plant was settled. Workers were reported to have received one-half of the pay increases which they demanded. The plant had been working on government orders.

BIG NAVAL BATTLE IN MEDITERRANEAN RUNS ITALIANS TO SHELTER

Ohio Rotarian Delivers Address At Ranger Meet

Felton Brashier had the Rotary program Wednesday and introduced Fred W. Hopkins, member of the Frostoria, Ohio, Rotary Club and Past District Governor of Rotary International in Ohio, who addressed the Club on "Rotary Information."

The speaker set out first the fact that Rotary is a Democratic organization. It grew out of a democratic situation and today 42 per cent of all the clubs are in towns of 5,000 population or less; 60 per cent in those of 10,000 or less, and 76 per cent in cities of 15,000 or less, while only 4 per cent are in cities of 100,000.

The past governor's second emphasis was on the fact that Rotary is a cooperating organization, with a definite purpose of working with all other movements and organizations functioning for the betterment of city, community, and country. Its influence is illustrated by the fact that in the United States 587 clubs meet on Wednesday, in Argentina 5; Australia 8, Old Mexico 9, and in England today 48 are meeting along with the Ranger club.

The speaker's concluding point was that Rotary is a service organization. It serves as an envoy of goodwill around the world. In America there are many foreigners who intend to become loyal citizens of our country and it would help them to do so. It aids crippled children, Boy Scouts, community projects, the public schools, and at the same time helps develop the individual member.

Visitors today were Rotarian and Mrs. Fred M. Hopkins of Frostoria, Ohio; Rotarians R. N. Cluck, J. C. McAfee and T. G. Caudle of Cisco, Miss Ouida Ware of Rising Star, representing the Girls' NYA School, and Rev. David M. Phillips of Ranger.

Hunting Season Is Comparatively Free Of Fatal Accidents

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas game officials are congratulating themselves on the comparative freedom from accidents that has marked the 1940 hunting season. At the same time the officials are knocking on wood lest hunters become careless and casualties grow.

One death near Burnet blamed on deer hunting and one serious wound attributed to turkey hunting near Fredericksburg marked the opening week of the season.

In both cases the shootings were attributed to hunters mistaking a hunter for game. Another hunter had his ear clipped by a bullet.

A long campaign against the careless handling of guns eliminated for the early part of the season, at least, the numerous accidents that once resulted from dragging loaded guns out of automobiles or through fences.

Strangest quest of the hunting season has been the unsuccessful attempt of Former Asst. Atty. Gen. John J. McKay to bag a deer with a bow and arrow. McKay made the attempt on the Killam ranch near Laredo. While many deer tracks were found and followed, McKay was not able to get a shot.

Using a bow with a 70-pound pull and a steel-tipped arrow which will carry 75 yards in level flight, McKay is still hopeful of getting a deer with his bow and arrow before the season ends. McKay does not feel discouraged because another former assistant attorney general, C. M. Avery, Jr., of Austin, failed to get a deer with his gun on the same hunt, even though Avery's nick-name is "Buck."

QUAIL TO BE COUNTED

Representatives of the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, assisted by representatives from the Eastland county agent's office, have arranged to count the quail on the 3,000 acre Blackwell ranch near Gorman, Thursday, December 6th.

Anti-Nazis, 64 followers of King Carol, were executed before a firing squad in Rumania today, while Great Britain's navy and air force and the Greek army hammered at Italy's forces on both land and sea.

The British Mediterranean Fleet's commander said that a report will be made soon on an engagement "at extreme range" between the British naval squadron and a strong Italian fleet, including two battleships and several cruisers. It is believed from the report that the Italian ships fled upon sighting the British squadron and that the British chased the Italian vessels into protected waters.

The Greeks reported that the Italians are withdrawing from the important Italian port of Porto Edda, and that lines are forming for a battle for Argyrokastron, main Fascist base in Southern Albania, which the Greeks are reported to have reached in their pursuit of fleeing Italian soldiers. A strong Italian stand to maintain the base is anticipated.

Pro-Nazi Iron Guardists conducted Rumania's purge of blood, killing among others a former premier and a general who headed the Bucharest police under the Carol regime.

Aerial warfare continued brisk and British bombers were reported to have set large fires in the Royal Italian arsenal at Turin, Italy.

Stockholm dispatches said that martial law was in effect in parts of Norway, where widespread sabotage has interrupted communication with the German-held coastal bases.

The Vichy government in France announced today that fighting began Nov. 23 between French Indo China and Siam, when French forces repulsed three Siamese attempts to cross the boundary line.

Commodities listed for distribution under the food stamp plan include butter, raisins, rice, pork lard, corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, hominy grits, wheat flour and whole wheat flour, fresh oranges, fresh grapefruit, onions (except green onions), dry edibles, fresh cabbage, Irish potatoes, fresh apples, fresh pears and pork.

Pork to be distributed includes all cuts, fresh pork, either chilled or frozen, pickled, salted, cured or smoked pork, not packed in metal or glass containers.

Only those commodities listed may be exchanged for blue stamps. This list takes place of all previous lists. It was pointed out that the word "tenderized" has been deleted from the definition of pork.

Girls' NYA Center For Eastland Has Been Approved

Jack Hale of Eastland, area supervisor for the National Youth Administration, has received approval of a community center at Eastland, upon which work is to start Monday.

An assignment of 15 girls has been requested for Monday, and more will be added later, it was stated. The center will be located on the fourth floor of the Eastland National Bank building.

Mrs. Lina Satterwhite, who has had charge of the Eastland WPA sewing room, will be in charge of the girls' center, it was stated.

One of the first projects to be conducted by the girls will be making of toys for the Community Christmas, and which will be distributed at Christmas time.

Information concerning the center, or concerning registration of girls for the project, may be obtained from Hale's office in Eastland.

SHOP EARLY, OR ELSE . . .

IF its all right with you to shop in the bone-crushing, last-minute mobs. If you'll be content with half-satisfactory gifts, selected in a hurry. If the thought of leisurely, enjoyable shopping doesn't appeal to you—then don't shop now.

BUT if you are a smart shopper you'll do it early, and that means right now, because Christmas is only a few weeks away! You'll avoid the crowds, select exactly the gifts you want, get better service, better values; you'll enjoy selecting from complete Christmas stocks, and, best of all, you'll save your nerves and strength from the tiring experiences encountered in rush shopping.

Get out the Christmas list now and get started right away.

Right now the local stores are being stocked with the largest array of Christmas items in history. There is no need to go elsewhere to shop, entailing additional expense of traveling, and no need to get into the usual Christmas rush when shopping can really be made so easy, right at home with the home merchants.

And, too, here's another tip. Use the advertisements in this paper as your Christmas shopping guide. Many have found that this adds greatly to their shopping convenience, as they know exactly where to find what they want.

Yule Seals on Mansion Mail

If you receive a letter from the governor's mansion between now and Christmas it will likely carry a Christmas seal which helps finance the nationwide battle against tuberculosis. Here is Texas' first lady, Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel, and Molly O'Daniel already using the colorful Christmas seal on early mail. Millions of seals will go on mail from American homes and business offices from the White House in Washington to the humblest cottage as America takes part in the 34th annual seal sale beginning Nov. 25. The picture was taken in the drawing room of the mansion.

Wouldn't it be nice if we could wear new shoes for a few days before putting them on? More cigaret lighters would work if they'd take their feet down off their desks.

Short Wave To Be Used As Warning Of Coming Floods

PITTSBURGH.—A short-wave radio network, designed as an auxiliary communications system which can broadcast flood warnings in time of emergency, has been set up by the United States army engineers throughout the Ohio River Valley.

The network spreads from the Tygart dam, in West Virginia, to Paducah, Ky., just above the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and Nashville, Tenn., on the Cumberland river.

Made up of 39 stations, the system covers more than 1,000 miles of territory. Its key point of control has been established at Cincinnati, and there are also four main sub-stations with transmission sets of 250 watts each. Under them, are field stations operating on 100 watts.

THANKS TO YOU!

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY: Embarrassed and sorry when Mr. Bailey tells him Andre is taking Ronnie to the dance, Wes hurries away, then decides to go to the party anyway. He finds Lona Montoya, also alone, stays with her. Suddenly Ronnie breaks in on their conversation: "I thought you had a date with me tonight!"

ANDRE MEETS CONFEDERATE

CHAPTER X
The sudden appearance of Ronica beside him, looking down with frank but quizzical eyes, left Wesley York momentarily speechless. And then, when he remembered to stand up, he only stammered rather inanely.

"I—I—you—good evening! I—" "But Wesley, I thought you really said you'd take me to the dance. Was I simply—stood up?" Ronica said earnestly, and glanced once at the Mexican girl.

"Oh! Oh no! No, Ronica, I—pardon me, Miss, uh, Miss Montoya, Miss Bailey, and—uh—"

"This is Andre Girardeau, Miss Montoya, and Dr. York. I thought daddy said you and Andre came together and so knew each other, Wes. But I'm all mixed up about everything, it seems."

Lona Montoya had only nodded. Andre said nothing but looked on coldly. For a long moment nobody else spoke, either, and after waiting for Wesley to stop pointing awkwardly at her and trying to say something, Ronica suddenly smiled. Music resumed at that instant, and so she took Wesley's hand and put her arm around him.

"Let's dance, then talk, Wesley. All right?"

"Oh, I—yes! We must—I am afraid I dance very poorly indeed. I—you see, I dance only a very little, for courtesy's sake at the university affairs, and—"

"You're doing beautifully. It's just an easy one-two one-two step, easy as walking. We won't try any frills if you don't want to. Can you tell me what happened now? Didn't you really have a date with me?"

"Oh, Ronica!" "She laughed then, dancing very close to him. "You are sure it's that bad?"

"No. I mean—I did think I had a date, but—"

Ronica sighed elaborately. "Okay, pal, no hard feelings. I think I get it, even though it stings. The Montoya girl is lovely, all right."

"But Miss Bailey, you don't understand!" Wesley was appalled. "So you've started 'Missing' me again! Shall I go back to 'Dr. York'? I thought we had become friends."

IT is doubtful if ever a young man suffered any more acutely than Wesley York suffered during this dance. His distraction inevitably caused him to stumble, too. When the dance was over Ronnie guided him back near Andre and the Mexican girl again.

"Professional dancer, aren't you, York?" Andre grinned broadly.

"Hush, Andre! Sarcasm is rude. I'm sorry you are injured, Miss Montoya." Ronica looked at the other girl and her crutch. But Lona's answering gaze was calculating.

"Rudeness seems to be contagious," Lona suggested, in flat tone.

"I don't think I understand."

"Is—being wealthy, and famous, and getting shot at on the border, enough to make everybody overlook rudeness, Miss Balle? Was not Dr. York sitting with me? I did not hear him ask you to dance!"

"Oh!" "Please" Wesley put in now, "let's not misunderstand anybody's, uh, intentions. I am sure that—"

Andre interrupted, sarcastically, "Oh, no indeed, ladies and gentlemen. Let's all pick daisies! Now seriously, Ronica, let's get this straight. I want to know who—"

"Okay, boys!" Ronica's words were clipped now and her chin went up, a signal Andre Girardeau at least recognized from past experience. "We're all sparring around the point so I'll talk plainly. Here's what—"

"Dr. York asked to take me to this dance. He came for me, I know, but somehow Andre managed to shoo him off. I still don't get that."

"But as for you, Miss Montoya, I did have a date with him and he won't deny it. If he wants to jilt me, he damn sure can. But he and I will have words first, and we're going to start right now! Andre, you stay here; Wesley and I are going off to stroll in the moonlight!"

LOLA and Andre watched them go. The little clash had passed unnoticed by any of the other collegians present, even though a few boys and girls did wave or say hello to Lona, and several spoke to Wesley and Ronica as they left the room.

Andre sat down, uninvited. He was a trifle white at the corners of his mouth, but he turned to Lona and forced a sort of genial smile.

"Peppery kid, Ronnie," he began. "Mustn't take her seriously." Lona bit her lip, and her eyes narrowed ever so slightly. Andre glanced quickly around.

Despite the unfortunate personal element here, this was precisely the logical meeting with Lona Montoya that he had wanted. Logical, and natural, so as to arouse suspicions from no one.

He forced himself to be reasonable, reminding himself that the fellow Wesley York was probably just some passing whim of Ronica's, a boor not to be taken seriously; he could deal with that later. Now, here at hand was this beautiful Mexican girl who was, in addition, carrying the very badge of intrigue he had been told to seek. The crutch at her side was definite proof that she was working for his own employers in the precarious business of espionage.

But—perhaps she was not!

Perhaps her crutch was a coincidence, her sprained ankle genuine. Sudden realization of that possibility rather frightened him. He wondered if he ought to look about town for another person with a lone crutch. But no—he could at least test this girl, delicately, and make sure of his ground.

"Pepper kid, you call her," Lona was saying. "I think it is spoiled spice!"

"Don't take her seriously," Andre was tumbling in his pocket. There, he carried the ring with the chrysocolla stone.

"Girls do not steal men from Lona Montoya, senor!"

ANDRE laughed. He liked her spunk. He liked the fiery nature of Lona, obviously very angry. With a definite little zest of anticipation, then, he extended his hands. The ring was on his left middle finger, and with careful casualness he fingered it with his right hand.

Lona glanced down, saw the ring. Slowly, her eyes widened. She looked up at the crowd quickly. She looked right and left. Before Andre's gaze her expression changed completely. She took a deep breath and ventured one studied look at his face. For a long moment she said nothing.

"That is a—pretty ring. Yes?" "Your crutch must be a nuisance," ventured he.

Her lips tightened, and her voice dropped to a whisper. "Fool!" She almost spat it.

"Why have you waited so long? These crutch drive anybody crazy, and—the high ones are demand action from us at once!"

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Legislation to give permanent status to about 100,000 "temporary" government employees in Washington will probably get approval by Congress within the next few days, and if the act is passed, it will permit one of the slickest dodges ever conceived to evade civil service restrictions.

The trick will be done through the Ramspeck bill, giving the President authority to extend civil service ratings to government workers who are not now on that basis. This bill has been kicking around—or, more accurately, kicked around—in Congress ever since the first of the year, but the last kinks are now being ironed out.

Catton

Its passage would mean that non-civil service employees (except for WPA and administrative workers) could, under presidential orders, get civil service protection by passing non-competitive tests. Thereafter they would be protected against political dismissals—although, of course, they would not be protected against toppling-off of their jobs if some economy-minded Congress in the future should decide to cut the budget.

Congress was a bit leery about passing the bill before election, Republicans figuring it would enable the New Deal to salt away too many faithful Democrats in case of a G. O. P. victory. It picked up some screwy amendments along the way, too, the worst being a House-aided rider stipulating that the blanketing-in couldn't take place until all state and territorial patronage quotas had been filled. That would have meant that the bill could never be put into effect, for under

See the A&M T.U. Game Thru the Humble Program

Although no more tickets are available for the classic last-Thursday football game between those ancient rivals, the University of Texas and Texas A. & M., football fans unable to secure tickets may see the game through Kern Tips' eyes on the Humble Oil & Refining Company's broadcast, scheduled to begin at 2:20 p. m.

The game this year will be played in Memorial Stadium in Austin and the Humble Company's broadcast will be direct from there. Cy Leland will be on hand to assist Tips with the description of the colorful spectacle which is part and parcel of this November classic. The Humble Company's broadcast can be heard over station KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; KNOW, Austin; or WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth.

LABOR PEACE WITHOUT UNION?

SOME of the government's labor experts are now suggesting that peace between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. may take place without any union between the two groups. All that's needed, they say, is a fair-play agreement on the "spheres of influence" the rival unions ought to have.

For instance, A. F. of L. might waive all rights to organize auto workers, and C. I. O. might give up its rights in the building industry. If such agreements could be reached for half a dozen major fields, it is suggested that the two organizations could go along side by side without much trouble.

MORE DOLLARS FOR DIES

THE Dies committee is due to ask for (and get) a new appropriation to continue its work next year. Noteworthy is the fact that the hot opposition the committee used to get from the "liberal bloc" in the House has cooled off considerably.

An illustration of this fact is furnished by the election campaign recently won by Congressman John M. Coffee of Washington, the liberal bloc's floor leader. Coffee's opponent made the Dies committee his campaign issue and belabored Coffee for having opposed the committee. Coffee turned the tables by producing letters from a majority of the committee—Congressmen Starnes, Voorhis, Casey and Dempsey—warmly urging his re-election. He won by 30,000 votes.

Point is that an ultra-liberal like Coffee not only can stand well with the Dies committee, but can—as Coffee did in the campaign—state that congressional liberals will support continuation of the committee if it works as in the last few months.

WE ARE THANKFUL

For the business and social privileges of a peaceful, Christian nation and for our fine associations with the people of this community.

Thank you for the patronage you have given us in the past and may we continue to serve you in the years to come. We pledge you the same efficient service.

Again we say, thank you, and may this day be just what you would have it be.

Olden and Clyde Play in Eastland For 12-B Crown

The Olden Hornets and the Clyde Bulldogs will meet this afternoon at 2:30 at Welch Field, Eastland, in the contest that will determine the championship of District 12-B. Olden is winner of one division of District 12, while Clyde has won the other half of the district championship. The game will be called at 2:30.

Both teams have a good defensive and offensive record, with the Hornets making 216 points in eight games this year, while only 31 points have been scored against them. Clyde, in eight games, has scored a total of 238 points while only 19 have been scored against them, all in the first game of the season. Since then no team has been able to cross the Clyde goal line.

Last week Clyde met the strong Strawn Greyhounds, in what was expected to be the most severe test for the Bulldogs this year, and came out victorious by a score of 26 to 0.

Records of the two teams this year are as follows:

Indians Fear Loss Of Their Long Hair

By United Press
 GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Mayor George Welsh has been asked to intercede for a tribe of Indians at Taos, N. M., so that when its members are conscripted they won't lose their long braids and their chance to go to the Happy Hunting Ground.

Welsh, who on visits to New Mexico became friendly with the Indians and invited them to visit here, received a letter from a rancher representing the tribe.

The letter sets forth that long

Mussolini should have known that if you stick your fingers in boiling Greece you get them burned.

From now on when man bites dog it's no longer news. Germany has legalized dog meat as human food.

Oh! What Relief; I Am Regaining My Health Again

Restful Sleep, Quiet Nerves, Strength Returns, Elimination Regular, Thanks to Hoyt's Compound.

Mrs. Frank Miller, 621 E. 5th St., Pueblo, Colo., states: "I suffered with headaches, sharp pains in my neck, shoulders, back and limbs. My feet and hands would swell and I was so nervous I could not sleep. I was in pain continually. Even my teeth would ache although they were all good. I was in such bad health that I could hardly do my housework. The least bit of exertion, my heart would pound like a trip-hammer. I was continually taking laxatives. I was so run-down I felt like giving up until one day a friend told me about Hoyt's Compound and thank God for the relief I have received. The pains in my head and back have disappeared, my limbs hardly swell anymore and my nerves have quieted down. I can enjoy a night's sleep and am able to eat things I have not eaten for years. My bowels are regular and I do my housework. I am gaining strength every day and Oh! What relief it is for me to relax and realize that I am gaining my health back again."

Hoyt's Compound is sold and recommended by the Texas Drug Store and all druggists in this entire section.

DON'T STOP AT MURDER!

A newspaper is an accurate reflection of what today is doing with people . . . and what people are doing with today.

Murder is big-type news. So is a bank stick-up. And so is the dedication of a new library, or the launching of a new ship, or the employment of hundreds in reviving industry.

But you have read only half of the story, if you stop at murder. In our advertising columns can be found news in its most authentic sense.

What are people wearing? What are they eating? Where are they going? How are they going? Why this style, and why that vogue? When is the time to build? Who has the latest? How much does it cost?

Answers to these and like questions give you real information . . . news . . . about this business of modern living. And you will find these answers by carefully reading the advertisements in this newspaper.

Bulldogs to Play At Mineral Wells Park Tonight

The Ranger Bulldogs will play the last game of the season tonight at Mineral Wells, when they meet the strong Mineral Wells Mountaineers, conquerors of Brownwood and who tied Breckenridge last week.

The game was set for tonight because Mineral Wells observed Thanksgiving on Nov. 21, and a larger turnout for the game was expected at a night game than in the afternoon.

The Mountaineer game will complete the Ranger schedule for 1940, with 10 games being played, and will be one of the last two games in the Oil Belt schedule, Cisco and Breckenridge being the other two teams which play today.

Rail Crossing Order Hard To Enforce

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—The Utah Public Service Commission ordered a railroad crossing in Provo closed—but is having a hard time getting its order enforced.

When the order was issued, the Salt Lake & Utah railroad placed a wooden barricade across the highway on each side of the tracks. Next morning, this was sawed off even with the ground. Then old steel rails were placed across the road and embedded in concrete. But this didn't stop traffic. Railroadmen soon found the rails cut with a torch and the

Mrs. Mary Peabody of the New York college of Home Economics says it is a good health practice to keep growing plants in living rooms in day hours during winter because they increase the amount of oxygen and decrease the carbon dioxide in the air. She adds that they should not be kept

Wallace in Thunder-Land

The interests of the United States and of all the Americas are best served by steady, orderly, forward progress in Mexico.

The designation of Vice President-elect Henry Wallace to attend the inauguration ceremonies at Mexico City Dec. 1 as a special envoy, reads most clearly against that background.

The Mexican election of last July was no election at all if judged by the highest democratic ideals. This political-turbulent land, over whose head thunder the periodic drumrolls of revolutions and rumors of revolutions, has not yet developed its educational and political systems to the point where the best practices of democracy can really function freely. The presidential campaign was free, but when the election came, traditions, procedures, and practice were all such that "no election" would have been the only just verdict. Florid claims of Juan Andreu Almazon that he received 90 per cent of the votes cannot be proved. Neither can the claims of President-elect Avila Camacho that he had a huge majority. There it stands.

In any case it is not up to the United States to judge which candidate was elected. In their own way, and without any widespread violence, the Mexicans appear to have settled on Avila Camacho as their next president. Short of a civil war supported from outside Mexico's borders, there can be no other result on Dec. 1.

That being the case, the United States does well to accord full honors to the incoming Avila Camacho administration, and it could send no more sympathetic envoy than Wallace. He has deeply studied the trade relationships between the Americas, especially as related to farm production, and he has put an exclamation point behind that interest by learning Spanish during the past year or so.

The custom of sending special envoys as a courtesy at inaugurations is general in South America—Mexico only recently sent a large delegation to Cuba for the inauguration of President Batista. It is an appreciated expression of goodwill.

This formal recognition of the Avila Camacho regime in Mexico almost assures that there will be no violent opposition to its inauguration. The United States has no wish to dictate to Mexico or any other country who shall lead it. But Mexico having made its decision in its own way, the United States has a natural wish to develop the closest and most cordial relations with the new administration of a country whose future geography and fate have closely intertwined with its own.

The fatalities of the hunting season best prove that many a person who has a hunting license has no license to hunt.

'It Is Later Than You Think!'

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

ROBERT JOSEPH SAGGAU'S natural speed, which won him two letters as a sprinter, makes him a constant threat for Notre Dame, no matter what the figures say. Bob Saggau passes with his right hand, but kicks with his left foot . . . for no special reason.

"I just started that way," he explains. Saggau blossomed as a triple-threat star in his sophomore year. Handicapped by injuries in 1939, the green-eyed redhead from Denison, Ia., still did a fine job, averaging five yards a trip from rushing both seasons.

But somewhere along the line he has lost some of his running knack, as 99 yards in 53 trips shows.

It might be that the Irish blocking has fallen off a bit. Elmer Layden is first to admit that the South Bend line has not been charging fast enough on either offense or defense.

BUT when the chips were down in the Navy battle—fourth down, seven yards to go, Notre Dame trailing 7-6, 4 minutes 11 seconds left—it was Saggau who faded deep, faked a pass, and scampered around end and over the goal line for the winning touchdown.

He had a net gain of exactly nothing for five attempts from rushing, but he got the six points that sewed up the game. His passes covered another 52 yards, and he caught one for 18 in the 78-yard drive that brought home the bacon.

Going into the Iowa game, Saggau had completed 16 of 34 passes. Only four were intercepted.

His total of 365 yards by passing means he averaged more than 10 yards every time he pitched, and more than 20 yards for every completion—indicating that his is not the short, spot type.

DESPITE a slightly off day against Navy, when one quick-kick slid off his foot for only 25 yards, and a last-minute kick with lots of height for safety's sake against a possible runback went only 18, cutting his day's average to 34, Saggau booted 17 times for 676 yards, or an average of 39.8.

Against inspired Army, he averaged 47, frequently kicking from deep in his own territory.

Bob Saggau's passing and kicking have more than offset any lack of touch that may have befallen his running game.

He must be ranked with the nation's greatest in these two departments.

so labelled, as well as the amount or reworked wool, or shoddy. If wool content is not claimed for the fabric placed on sale, it may be merchandised without labeling."

Passage of the bill, which culminated a 35-year effort by the National Wool Growers Association for "truth in fabrics," is comparable in its scope to the enactment of the pure food law. It will prevent any misrepresentation of the staple content of cloths offered in retail commerce.

Although bills similar to this, which will be known in the statutes as "Wool products labelling act of 1939," have been introduced in practically every session of Congress since the turn of the century, progress toward realization was more halting than enactment of the pure food law.

The law defines the term "wool" to mean the fibre from the fleece of the sheep or lamb, or hair of the Angora or Cashmere goat, (and may also include the so-called specialty fibres from the hair of the camel, alpaca, llama and vicuña) which has never been reclaimed from any woven or felted wool product.

Enactment of the law may revive the program of the National Wool Growers Association, with which the Southwestern Sheep and Goat Raisers Association cooperates, to raise a fund for a campaign to advertise wool, Mr. Nisbet said. Different proposals have been offered to that end, inquired to stamp, tag or label their product to show the proportion of the types of wool as well as the content, other than wool, in it.

"This act," says W. R. Nisbet, Extension Service Animal Husbandman for Texas A. and M. College, "opens the way for women to know precisely the wool content of the fabric, especially wearing apparel, they are buying. Moreover, they can demand labeling of any fabric placed on sale as 'woolen'."

"Manufacturers are obliged under the law to state the percentage of virgin wool in any fabric

Co-operation Is Increasing farm Buying Powers

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Efficiency of the machinery which processes, transports and distributes farm produce, C. E. Bowles, Extension Co-operative Marketing Specialist for Texas A. and M. College, believes has kept pace with improved methods of production. Butressing his conclusions with demonstrable facts, Mr. Bowles contrasts the share of the consumers' food dollar received by farmers in the periods 1913-1917 and 1930-1938. In the former period farmers received an average of 55 cents of each consumer's dollar, but in the latter period this share had declined to 39 cents. Comparably, 45 cents of the 1913-17 dollar went to distribution, including processing and transporting but this climbed to 61 cents in the eight years after 1930.

"One of the most noticeable results of this loss of farmers' exchange," says Mr. Bowles, "is the piling up of surpluses of food and fibre in warehouses surrounded by needy people on farms as well as in the cities."

Check and recovery lies in co-operation because farmers can do little about the problem individ-

Large supplies of cotton, which may be increased through the loss of foreign customers while the war lasts, is a major phase of the situation which farmers will consider before they vote on Saturday, December 7, to approve or disapprove marketing quotas for the 1941 crop. They must decide then whether they need the support of all features of the farm program, or whether they can get along without quotas and loans. The Agricultural Adjustment Act provides that loans can be made available, under certain price and supply conditions, if two-thirds of the voting farmers in the referendum approve marketing quotas. However, the Act also provides that, if quotas are rejected, no loans can be made available during the following marketing year.

members more than $1,000,000 in savings since organization, in addition to paying for eight gin units.

Mr. Bowles says the blackland belt of north Texas has had more co-operative expansion in recent years than other parts of the state, and official records show 84 co-operative gins and 24 other co-operatives within 65 miles of Greenville.

"Farm people may well ask themselves who is going to break up the system of 'toll bridges' which has grown up in our complicated distribution machinery," Mr. Bowles suggests. "Relief through legislation usually has been disappointing. The simplest solution seems to be for farmers to own the bridges and pay the toll to themselves. Certainly they can own enough of the processing facilities to establish yardsticks by which the services and charges of privately owned enterprises can be measured."

Odessa Meteorite Will Be Dug Up

By United Press
 ODESSA, Tex.—Less than 10 miles from this oil town sunk 100 feet in the dry West Texas soil is a huge meteorite that fell from the sky ages ago.
 Recently, Texas University geologists and oil company experts have explored its crater, finding iron and nickel among the fragments of the fallen star.
 Shafts are scheduled to be sunk in the near future in an effort to determine the extent and depth of the meteorite. One oil company has made magnetometer tests at the crater to determine roughly the location of the main body. The crater is estimated to be the second largest in America.

 When the main body is uncovered officials of Ector County, with WPA help, propose to sink inclined shafts to it so visitors may view the top and sides of the meteorite. The central mass is estimated to measure 40 feet across.
 Already the obsolete star attracts up to 500 visitors daily to the crater's edge. Officials of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce have been indicated they will try to have the crater and meteor designated as a national park.

Wild Tobacco Is Urged for Plains

By United Press
 LUBBOCK, Tex.—Cowboys who roll their own from the back of a horse may not have to get the "makin's" from a store if a suggestion by the plant industry department of Texas Technological College is carried out.
 All they'll have to do is ride up to a tobacco plant and pick a cigarette-to-be.
 The plant industry department of the Lubbock school has suggested the use of wild tobacco as a quick growing background plant for landscaping on the South Plains.
 The plant, native of Argentina, Paraguay and Bolivia, probably was shipped into San Diego where it became naturalized and since has spread from California to the Rio Grande Valley, O. B. Howell, college horticulturist, said.

 He suggested the whitish-blue plant with large clusters of yellow trumpet-like flowers as an alternate to the castor bean as background growth after it had been identified by college botanists in answer to requests.

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY, Dr. Wesley York takes up singing, while Andre conducts his search for the girl with the crutch. Girardeau makes arrangements with Ronnie's father to take her to the Saturday dance.

DR. YORK GOES TO A PARTY

CHAPTER IX

DR. WOODROW WESLEY YORK, of Pueblo University, had a perfectly genuine Ph. D. degree and a reasonably good salary for a junior faculty member.

Moreover, Andre himself had perceived haughty aristocracy when he ordered Wesley off the premises and stepped into Ronica Bailey's home.

Suddenly he remembered something, and took the glasses off. He didn't actually need them except for reading, but habit is strong.

"Why, ah—" Wesley couldn't speak coherently, partly because Mr. Bailey had him by the arm and was genially leading him to the living room door.

Another for the old joke contest: "The poor, benighted Hindoo, He does the best he kin do; He sticks to his caste From first to last, And for clothes he makes his skin do."

fore Ronica saw him, Wesley stopped. "N-No! Mr. Bailey, I—the fact is, I was just leaving, thanks just the same. I, uh, did come—but I must make another call immediately. Many thanks, sir."

WESLEY almost ran to his old car. He felt sure Ronica must have heard him, but apparently not. Let her be caught yet, however, and so subjected to more acute embarrassment, he jabbed at his starter and roared off down the narrow trail again.

The thought hurt deeply. He had felt that Miss Bailey was a sincere, kindly girl although a famous and most vivacious one.

His thoughts grew blacker and blacker as he left the moon-bathed countryside and came within the village lights of Pueblo again, and so without realizing it he pulled up at his home.

A fellow has to bluff. To keep face, he forced a casual manner, went to his room, then out again and drove off in his old car.

HE glanced hastily around. No, she wasn't here yet. But across the room he did discover that exquisite, dark-eyed girl, Lona Montoya, the one who had just registered this year from away down in Vera Cruz, and who had suffered an unfortunate accident.

On a swing through the eastern and southern half of Texas, your observer had "Old Home Week" in Alice where Publisher V. D.

her crutch. He crossed to her. "Dr. Wesley York!" Lona beamed sweetly at him. "Isn't everything so loveable tonight?"

"Not at all! It is a pleasure for me. I, uh, came alone, and—" "So did I. I wanted so to be here, but I would not burden any man who might ask me for a date, because I can not stand out. But these music—o-o-o-oh! Is loveable!"

"To tell you the truth, Lona," Wesley dropped a title too, and was plunging on courageously, "I came alone in the hopes that I might, uh, find just this opportunity to—to be with you!"

It occurred to him that, if Ronica Bailey did come in, she would see him here and so think he had brought Lona. If so, well and good! Then he could hold up his head in truth. It would, in effect, proclaim to Ronica that he, too, knew Ronica had been just waiting for him that afternoon in the airplane; that their "date" hadn't been taken seriously by either one.

THE relief was almost physical to Wesley. He suddenly relaxed. After all, Lona Montoya was nobody for any escort to be ashamed of; she was beautiful, even if she was from a foreign land.

"Hey, for pete Q, sakes, Wesley York!" somebody was saying, "I thought you had a date this evening with me? Can you please tell me what the score is?"

He turned in consternation to face Ronica Bailey and the man Girardeau he had left at her home.

Robert's Widow Is Given Millionth Copy of His "Order"

PENN YAN, N. Y.—The millionth copy of "Robert's Rules of Order," bearing the autographed congratulations of Vice President John Nance Garner of its fly-leaf, has been presented formally to the author's widow, Mrs. Henry M. Robert.

Harold J. Peet of Leroy, Western New York representative of the publishers, presented the de luxe blue-leather bound volume at a special convocation of Keuka college. The book is the recognized authority on parliamentary law. Peet said it was the only non-fiction book of its type except the Bible and Webster's dictionary, to sell a million copies.

In his presentation speech, Peet told how Gen. Robert happened to write the book in 1876, as related to the publishers by the author himself.

once rose in a meeting to voice his opinion," Peet said, "but was immediately shouted down with loud cries of 'out of order,' 'out of order.' He made up his mind then and there that wouldn't happen again—that he would study parliamentary procedure till he knew it so well that no one could ever question his authority to speak. The result was the 'Rules of Order' we know so well today."

Hideous Picture Wins First Prize

WACO, Tex.—A still life that was hoveled under a bed because it was "too hideous" to display won the first prize in the second annual West Texas Art Exhibition at Fort Worth. The story was revealed when Mary Shepard, 23-year-old art instructor at Baylor University, received the $100 award that went with the winning place. She said that she took the painting, a pot plant done in riotous colors with sawdust mixed in the oils, to Wichita Falls to show to her mother and that the latter had shoved it under a bed because she thought it "too hideous."

Several months later Miss Shepard retrieved it to enter in the contest, the first in which she had offered an entry. Attendance is not restricted to members of the oil association or oil operators, said Elbert E. Hall, chairman of the chamber of commerce oil and gas committee. Hall, however, urged that reservations be made early. The reservations at $1.50 per person will include admittance to the afternoon session, the evening program at the Fair Park Supper Club and to a dance afterward at the Hilton hotel, for which Jack Free and his orchestra will play. Managers of Abilene hotels, who joined in the chamber of commerce invitation to association executives to hold their meeting here, have guaranteed they will take care of the out-of-town guests here for the meeting.
