A. J. Owens, Sonora Resident For 64 Years, Relates Hardships Suffered By Settlers

A. J. Owens, resident of Sonora for sixty-four years and prominent in helping to civilize the county, came to this county in 1877, at the age of twelve, before the county was established. It was part Crockett Territory, court was held at Brackett and settlers in this vicinity voted in Kimble County.

Mr. Owens was twelve years old when he came here, and his family settled in Copperas in 1876. That year the Indians made their last raid and took horses from the family. Texas rangers were notified, and according to Mr. Owens the Indians were captured at Monument and the horses were returned to their owners.

Reared in Uvalde, Mr. Owens' step-father, A. J. Sykes, located a ranch here in 1872 or 1873, but was unable to move his family here until 1877 because of Indian raids. Indian raids were bad in Uvalde, but not as dreaded as in the open country. Mr. Owens stated the first Indian raid he ever witnessed was in Uvalde, and that Indians made a raid for horses every light of the moon.

Serving as courier guide for Captain Roberts, whose troops were stationed at Ft. McKavett. Mr. Owens was often summoned to the fort, sheltered in the Captain's bed, and his presence was unknown to the soldiers until morning. He was nick-named "Kid" by the regiment, and often guided them at night, returning to his home on the ranch before daylight.

At the age of twenty-one, he was stationed at Beaver Lake for Services Held For Mrs. Holland Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Lee Holland, 54, were held Monday afternoon at Copperas Creek, with Rev. S. F. Marsh of Ft. Stockton officiating. He was assisted by Rev. P. D. Fullingim. Interment was in Copperas Creek Cemetery, and pallbearers were Ford, Allen, Alton Cobern, Beamon Speed, Cy McKee, J. D. Lowrey and Emmett Lewellen.

Mrs. Holland, resident of Sonora for fifteen years, was born in Thrifty, Brown County, July 25, 1886, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Frank Collier. She came to Kimble County at the age of three and lived there until she came to Sonora.

She was married to Lee Holland September 5, 1906, and he preceded her in death October 10, 1932. They were the parents of six children, one of whom is dead. The five surviving are Miss Viba, Carl, Zeral, Laurence, and Leo Holland, residents of Sutton County.

Although Mrs. Holland had been in ill health since July, 1940, she had been confined to her bed for ten weeks before her death.

TO BE HONORED

J. L. Nisbet, Sonora, who has just been informed by C. F. O'Donnell of Dallas, president of Southwestern Life Insurance Company, that he will be signally honored in Galveston during the Company's agency convention in June, for his outstanding conservation work during the past business year. Mr. Nisbet led all other Southwestern Life agents in the San Angelo territory in conservation work, and is one of eleven of the Company's entire agency system who will receive recognition for such work this year.

three months to cut off the northern herds which wandered in that direction for water. Mr. Owens is the living man of the crew of nine who did this work.

During the four years that J. L. Davis was sheriff here, Mr. Owens served as deputy sheriff, constable and jailer, and resided in the county jail. At the end of the term he Coppers to ranch. He was away about fifteen years, during that time he resided in Real and Brown and in Kerrville. Since returning here he has been a deputy sheriff or constable continuously.

Mr. Owens said supplies for ranches in this country were brought from Austin or San Antonio in carts drawn by oxen. When the men were away, getting supplies, or tending the herds, the women did the fighting, in case the Indians raided. He tells of a neighbor woman of his, "Sug" Cox, who was alone during one Indian attack. She killed the Indian chief and the Indians were so surprised they dragged the dead chief from the ground where he had fallen, rode at top speed to a canyon and dropped him in a clear pool of water. White men, trailing the Indians, saw his body there and were able to find the Indians better.

Another Indian attack, which was vivid in the memory of Mr. Owens, was that of Pulliam Creek when they attacked and killed the wife of Colston. Her side-saddle was confiscated and many possessions of settlers were taken as victory spoils. Although all positions were held by the Indians, See OWENS—Page Eight

2 Wrecks On O. S. T. Involve 3 Sonorans

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Fussell and son received head injuries and severe nervous shock Sunday when they turned their car from the Ozona Highway into the Dempster Jones ranch gate and were struck by a car driven by Travis Gaines.

Gaines and his wife were occupants of the other car and Gaines received a knee injury. Mrs. Gaines received a cut arm.

Both cars were badly damaged, the Gaines car being towed to Sonora by a wrecker from here and the Fussell car was pulled into Ozona by a wrecker from there.

ALAMO TRUCK OVERTURNS

Clyde Bunnell was uninjured Friday when the Alamo Freight Line truck which he was driving overturned on the divide between Sheffield and Ozona.

Morris Dudley was driving a car which turned from a side road to the highway in front of Bunnell. Bunnell applied the brakes in an attempt to stop and a brake locked, causing the truck and trailer to overturn. The truck was badly damaged, the trailer slightly damaged.

The truck was towed to Sonora by an Ozona wrecker and was hauled from here to San Antonio in an Alamo truck.

High Percentage Of Worms Reported

A high percentage of the worms dropped in October and November produced flies in December and January. The adult population of these flies was above normal over the Balcones Escarpment area and over the Rio Grande Plain to Zapata and was low on the Gulf Plain.

The abnormally warm weather during December and the first half of January allowed these flies to develop and oviposit, mostly in ranch surgical wounds and the navels of young animals born during these months. Many screw-worm meases have been reported from Sheffield to Kerrville and south over the entire normal overwintering area.

Moisture conditions are very favorable, and unless temperatures are unusually and severely cold during January and February to kill the large number of pupae already in the ground a high March emergence of flies may be expected. Conditions are such that a rather severe outbreak of worms may be expected this spring.

Livestockmen are urged to prevent an early build-up of the spring fly population by performing all surgical operations as early as possible during the usual low activity of the fly in February, watching all animals closely for the next two months and treating wounded or infested animals thoroughly and promptly to prevent worms maturing in the wounds. Only in this way can the indicated devastating outbreak during the coming season be avoided.

Active participation in the "Scrap Iron for Britain" campaign was voted by Lions Tuesday at their regular meeting at the Methodist Church. Local Motorists Asked To Purchase Licenses At Home

It has become a habit for Sutton County citizens who buy new cars out of Sutton County to register these new cars in the county in which they are bought.

The state law states that a car must be registered in the county in which the owner has legal residence. Other than being a violation of the law, this practice is taking money from Sutton County to which it is entitled. All money derived from car registration in this county remains in the county and is used to benefit the local citizens.

If necessary violators may be forced to re-register their car in their home county.

SCRAP TICKETS

Lions and guests are reminded that their admission to the regular meeting next Tuesday will cost ten cents unless they are accompanied by a piece of scrap iron, steel, or a pair of old license plates. The scrap will be sent to Great Britain. The Lions will remain here.

Mrs. Harvey Walker is ill at her home, but it reported she is better.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Schwiening are parents of a daughter, born Friday at their ranch home.

In one session, which started Saturday morning at 10:00 and which was not adjourned until Monday at 2:00, the commission let the contract, sold the bonds, and put the revenue from the bonds in escrow. Construction will begin within two weeks and will probably be completed within nine months. The $175,000 in revenue bonds brought a fancy $5,000 premium.

According to H. V. Stokes, the plant will be equipped with Fairbanks-Morse engines, 2 of 300 and one of 225 horsepower, Woodward governors, and General Electric control boards, and other high quality equipments.

Truck, Van Overturn On G. P. Hill Lawn

H. H. Holt, English Freight Line driver, was uninjured Tuesday morning when the truck and van, which he was driving failed to turn the curve on the San Antonio Highway, and the truck and van overturned on the lawn at the G. P. Hill residence.

The weight of the freight in the van was probably the cause of the accident, causing the truck to sway and turn over. The accident occurred about two o'clock in the morning, the van not being removed from the yard until about noon. The truck and van were both damaged. The truck dug a hole in the yard, and the van, narrowly escaping a pecan tree, lodged on a stump in the yard. The curbing was broken and flowers, shrubs, and grass in the yard were damaged.

The freight in the van, mostly shelled pecans, and an electric refrigerated meat case, were damaged. Pecans were spilled along the highway and glass in the meat case was broken.

An English Freight Line truck, van and pick-up were here to clear the wreckage and remove the freight.

MANUFACTURE OF WOOL

Until the past decade, a woolen fabric was made either of new wool or of a mixture of new wool and shoddy, or reclaimed wool with the occasional addition of cotton in cheaper materials.

Within the past decade, the tradition and the trade practice of making woolen textures which contain only wool has been revolutionized. Through the use of enormous amounts of synthetic fibers, wool has come to mean textures which do not possess any of the intrinsic qualities which are exclusive to wool. For that reason alone, labels stating the fiber content which will correctly inform consumers as to what they are getting, are necessary for their protection.

Typical weaves used in the manufacture of woolens and worsteds are plain weave, plain knit, twill weave and basket weave, describing the method of intertwining the fibers. There are five principal steps in the manufacture of wool fabrics. They consist of (1) sorting, scouring and carding, (2) combing, (3) weaving, (4) dyeing, and (5) inspection.

Wool fabrics are of two types: Woolen fabrics and worsted fabrics. Short fibers that do not lie parallel in the yarn are used in the former. Long fibers lying parallel in the yarn are used in the latter. Most woolen fabrics have a fuzzy surface, while worsteds are clear and smooth. They are more wrinkle-resistant than the woolen fabrics. The typical woolen fabrics are homespun, suede, tweed, flannel, broadcloth and overcoating. The typical worsteds are men's suitings, gabardines, and crepes.

Certain lightweight worsteds of fine, tightly spun yarn are known as "cool" wools and are considered desirable for people susceptible to sudden temperature changes.

When spun on the woolen system, three-quarters of the wool on one sheep, or about 4 1/2 pounds of scoured wool, will make one woman's coat. When spun on the worsted system, the wool of one and one-fifth sheep, or about 4 1-3 pounds of scoured wool, will make one man's suit.

In addition to clothing, wool is used for home furnishing products, including blankets and comforters, upholstery, draperies and rugs.

Favorite Villains Listed By Phelps

SHAKESPEARE once wrote, "There's nothing level in our cursed natures, but villainy."

Literature is filled with characters whose chief quality the Bard of Avon describes. Some are more outstanding than others, and for the April issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, William Lyon Phelps, beloved man of American letters, lists some of his favorite villains.

First in Dr. Phelps' selections is Iago in Shakespeare's Othello. He is perhaps Shakespeare's most evil character. His destruction of the happiness of Othello and Desdemona has been thought by many critics to be insufficiently motivated. "I do not agree," Phelps writes. "Shakespeare knew human nature. What torments Iago is Cassio's promotion over his head. And there is here something even deeper—the frightful instinct of selfishness. We know how secretly pleased such people are when their most prosperous and happy friends are ruined."

Pew in Stevenson's Treasure Island is another choice Dr. Phelps makes. "The most dangerous villains in this wonderful romance are handicapped—one is blind, the other has only one leg. Now ordinarily we associate blindness with mildness, with people who are made gentle and sweet by helplessness and by constantly being regarded with pity and love. So to have this gang of cutthroats led by an assassin totally blind has a horror all its own."

Captain Bligh, in Mutiny on the Bounty, Phelps considers one of the blackest villains. "Of all sins," he writes, "I hate cruelty most. Captain Bligh's treatment of Mr. Christian aroused in me a terrific hatred for the tyrant."

Good planning and design produce minimum one-story houses of simple character. This small house of conventional design has a number of noteworthy features. The well-placed windows give ample light and at the same time conserve wall space for furniture. The kitchen and the bathroom are placed close to each other, making for economy in construction. The inside entrance to the garage is an unusual advantage for a house of this size and cost. Cross ventilation is secured throughout, and the entire plan is compact, efficient, and economical. This property, located in the Southwest, was financed with a mortgage of $2,300 insured by the Federal Housing Administration. Monthly payments on a mortgage of this amount, over a period of 25 years, average about $14, exclusive of taxes and hazard insurance. Similar properties located in other climates will vary in cost.

RACE HORSES SAVE LIVES OF MEN AND OF LIVESTOCK, TOO

Austin, March 31.—Race horses are good for something besides racing—they have made possible scientific research that has saved many human lives as well as other discoveries which have helped horses in general owned by farmers and ranchers.

So declared a group of noted Texans who were in Austin on behalf of the return of racing to the State. Among the number were Dr. R. T. Dickenson and Dr. W. G. Brock of Dallas, the former being president of the State Veterinarians Association.

Serums obtained from horses have prevented the death of humans from tetanus (lockjaw) and other serums have helped to heal human disease.

Because thoroughbreds represent a heavy investment, usually by men of wealth who love horses and are not primarily seeking to make money, the owners of the valuable racing animals employ veterinarians who otherwise might not be in the community and so their services are available to stockmen in general. Besides many thoroughbred owners have provided large sums for scientific study and this has resulted in the finding of remedies which have helped all kinds of horses and cattle, too.

In the delegation here were Col. R. B. George of Dallas, machinery dealer and philanthropist, who is president of the Thoroughbred Horse Association of Texas; Watt Reynolds, Fort Worth, and W. W. Holman, San Saba, both ranchmen, who declare that stockmen in general favor the return of racing; W. C. Stroube, well known Corsicana oil man, and Judge Alfred McKnight, secretary of the association. They favor a racing bill with strict regulation, local option and $2,500,000 in new tax revenue for the State, of which three-fourths would go to the old age pension fund and the remainder to the public schools.

Dr. Bishop of Washington, head of the Entomology Department, and Emery Cushing, head of the Entomology Department in Menard visited at the Experiment Station and in Sonora Wednesday.

Johnny Keating will play for the Sonora Woman's Club dance on Saturday night, April 12.

METHODIST CHURCH ANNOUNCES SERIES OF EASTER SERVICES

The Sonora Methodist Church is offering to its membership and to the entire community a series of services planned to make Holy Week and the week following of real help and significance in Christian living. The services of next Sunday—Palm Sunday—will be centered around that theme. At the evening service, the choir of the First Methodist Church of San Angelo will sing and Dr. K. P. Barton will bring a short message. The series will continue on Wednesday night with the Rev. Eugene Sater of Ozona as speaker. There will be services each night the remainder of Holy Week—the nature of which will be announced—a program of Easter music and a dramatic service of worship, "The Challenge of the Cross," are features for which to watch.

Easter Day will begin with a Sunrise Service at 6:30—this is a service of inspiration and beauty. The regular services will continue throughout the day at their regular times giving special place to the baptism of babies and the receiving of classes and others desiring to be received into the church.

On Monday evening, April 14th, the Rev. W. H. Dellinger, District Superintendent of the Liberal-Dodge City District of Kansas will arrive and will speak that evening and each of the following evenings of that week. The Rev.

Dellinger was chosen because he seemed peculiarly fitted to be of real help to individuals, church and community. He is a man of wide understandings and interest. He was a successful man in business before he entered the ministry—he knows men—their interests and problems—and they like him. His ministry began in one of the smallest churches of the Southwest Kansas Conference from which he was promoted gradually because of his outstanding success to some of the largest churches of the conference. Now he is serving the largest and most difficult district of the conference with zeal and loyalty even though his preference it to have his own church. He is an earnest student—having built up one of the finest libraries of any pastor. He is sincere in both his living and his preaching—a man worth knowing and hearing. The public is cordially invited to attend all of the services.

When trouble comes, your soul to try,
You love the friend who just "stands by."
Perhaps there's nothing he can do—
The thing is strictly up to you.
For there are troubles all your own,
And a path that you must tread alone;
Times when love cannot smooth the road,
Nor true friendship lift the heavy load.
But just to feel that you have a friend,
Who will "stand by" until the end;
Whose sympathy, through all, endures,
And whose warm handclasp is always yours—
It helps—some way—to pull you through,
Although there's nothing he can do.
And so, with thankful heart I cry—
God bless the friend who just "stands by."
(From Ray and Bill Holder's Lancaster Herald)

Big, smiling Tom King has been even more than a "friend who just stands by;" he has held out a helping hand more than once to this writer and his retirement as State auditor means the loss of the services of a capable and sincere public official. He can carry with him the satisfaction of having been appointed by two Governors and of having been confirmed by two Senates and having served longer than any other man in the history of the department.

Surplus of St. Patrick's Day material:

Two Irishmen, about to fight, agreed that the one who first wanted to quit had only to yell "Sufficient" and the other would stop. Flanagan got Casey down and was pounding him unmercifully when Casey yelled, "Sufficient" but Flanagan kept on. A spectator said, "Don't you hear him say that he's got enough?" To which Flanagan replied, "Faith, an' he's such a liar, who'd be believin' of him?"

A similar story is one about the Dutchman who was going to fight an Irishman and it was agreed that when one had enough he would yell "Sufficient" and that would end the fight. The Dutchman knocked the Irishman down five times. Finally Pat floored his opponent and pounded him whereupon the Dutchman shouted, "Sufficient." Pat jumped up, snapped his fingers and said, "D - - - it, I've been tryin' to think of that word for five minutes." And now and then they kiss; And then he says some fool thing, And they sit Like - - - - - this!

What purports to be a speech delivered many years ago at a Jackson Day dinner is presented in J. C. Smyth's Vindicator:

Members of this meeting: You don't know me, I suppose, but I live at Huckleberry—I air the postmaster an' a Jackson Democrat. I am a big man—can eat green persimmons without puckerin'. Salt don't keep me nor likker injure me. I am a tearin' critter of the catamount school; in religion I am neutral, and am decidedly masculine on the upright principle.

Jacksonians, I say, exaggerate yourselves. I am no book-larnin' man but there is few who can beat me swappin' hosses or guessin' at the weight of a ba'r. I have come here because my people voted for me, knowin' I was a honest man and could make as good whiskey an dapple brandy at my still as any man: I want you all to finish this job on the Jacksonian principle and if you don't do as I advise, you'll come up short and it will be harder for you to git a place again than it would be to ride down from the clouds on a thunder bolt through a crab-apple tree and not git scratched.

L. W. ELLIOTT SCHOOL NEWS

The second annual Athletic Club banquet for the L. W. Elliott School was held Friday night in the homemaking room. Miss Bernice Henderson was in charge of the arrangements.

The centerpiece for the table was a road, representing the route from Sonora to Fort Stockton, since all games were played with Fort Stockton. Along the road were white, after-dinner mints, representing rocks. Places were designated with blue and gold streamers, with a name on the end of each, which extended from a huge gold basketball on the wall.

The program and menu was printed on blue and gold pennants, the school colors.

Enrique Cardona was toastmaster, Juanita Virgen gave a toast to the Athletic Club and Louis Perez gave the response. R. A. King, high school teacher, was the speaker.

After the program Cecilia Cardona, Enrique Cardona, Pablo Cardona, Manuel Pina, Pedro Virgen and Amando Virgen were awarded school letters for having participated in all basketball games this year. Those receiving honorable mention for playing in at least one game were Dagoberto Chavez, Leova Urias, Isidoro Virgen, Theo Virgen and Louis Perez.

During the social hour which followed table games were played. All Athletic Club members and their dates attended, and several faculty members were present.

Boy Scouts of Troop 25 are making plans to have a circus and barbecue on April 20. The troop will entertain the parents. They also are organizing emergency service patrol in keeping with the National Defense program.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the L. W. Elliott School met Tuesday night. During the business meeting problems pertaining to that organization were discussed. Later a program was presented.

'CLASS GAS'

BIOLOGY—Coach spends most of his time trying to find the other half of the cover glass or trying to keep R. W. out of his collection of preserved animals. The class as a whole enjoy each class gathering in which they have opportunity to study the lower class of animals for a change. To date they have had an opportunity to carve on an earth worm, starfish, and a crawfish. This has been interesting for the boys but sickening for the girls.

CHEMISTRY—The chemistry class has been studying colloidal dispersion and claim it is a little stiff. "Who knows what an emulsion is?" ask the class, and there's no answer. "Well, does anybody know what the lesson is—still no answer. "Blank, blank," said the coach.

BUSINESS ARITHMETIC—The business arithmetic class has at last found the secret of Mr. Lightfoot's great speed in multiplication and addition, the little short cuts. An every-day conversation—the only kind of figures you know, is the kind they put on calendars.

ECONOMICS—You can't make a living with it unless you teach it, Richardson. The stuff you hear but never see, Johnson.

GEOMETRY—It takes four boards to put it on, Lightfoot.

BOOKKEEPING—Eleven more weeks and ten more days.

Goodyear Undergoes All-Weather Tests

Scene of tests made to determine results of tire improvements has been on Arizona highways, where year-long climatic conditions simulate Summer and warm weather's effect of driving on tire mileage can be scientifically determined.

Conclusions, following tests recently completed in which the new Goodyear G-3 All-Weather tire and competitive units were driven until worn to the fabric, according to Sam Hull, local Goodyear dealer, proved that, under the identical conditions, G-3 quality construction averaged 20 per cent longer mileage than other popular first-line tires tested.

Interesting in these many test results was the fact that the non-skid edges of the All-Weather's tread total more than 19 feet of gripping surface for every 12 inches of tread, a 19-to-1 safety factor that will operate in any direction, Mr. Hull indicated.

Coupled with this is the factor of quick stopping and starting plus no slippage on curves, increased resistance to cuts and bruises and greater blowout protection. Consequently, cost per mile of the new tire is much less than previously, declared the local tireman.

Speaking of Blitzkreigs, Sonora High witnessed its own Tuesday when some twenty boys of Ozona rushed down to a forced landing in front of Mr. Jones bookkeeping room but managed to make an escape through the side door. We are not informed as the news goes to press, as to how they made out on the home field.

Clayton, why did you eat yeast for dinner on Monday—you had us all fooled for awhile—ha, ha—ea, yeast.

Oh, ma-ma. That's what Doris Keene is yelping for now. I guess that you all can guess and I believe that some of the rest of us know how to sympathize with her. Don't we, children? Ahem, hum, it couldn't be about April Fool's Day, could it?

Say, Manley, is it a fact that alligators set on their eggs to hatch them or do they build fires under them?

I bet you could never have told us what use a stump could be until Tuesday morning, could you, Lois Hill?

Well, Well, imagine Clayton attending school Tuesday, but I guess there is a reason. I heard Mr. Lightfoot made him a second lieutenant. Or you might call it a second offender. While we're at it, we might mention that R. W. is a first private. Wow, I bet there is a bunch of the same rank next week.

We have always heard that April Fool's Day has already passed and you're the biggest fool at last. I believe there are several that will agree with us now.

OWENS—

sessions were regained no Indians were captured at that time.

Owens and his brother were in the habit of putting milk cows in the pens for persons desiring, so they could be easily milked when the settlers arose. For this service they received from twenty-five to fifty cents. One morning, the brother, Bob, had gone to round-up. Mr. Owens arose earlier than usual and was en route to pen up the cows as usual. As he reached the cross trails, near a picken pen in which a man, Bates, kept a horse, he saw an Indian. Mr. Owens made a run for his home, and was too frightened to arouse the household to tell his experience. But, at breakfast, he was relating the incident and before breakfast was over Mr. Owens said Bates had come for his step-father to help trail the Indian. The horse was found dead, because the Indians were unable to drive it and so had killed the animal.

Mr. Owens related several other Indian raids, of which the worst one was the capture of a boy about five, a school friend of Mr. Owens, and his mother. The mother fought the Indians, so they killed her and threw her in a thicket, but the boy was taken to Mexico for a time. Through the efforts of Captain McKenzie, the boy was returned to his father, and the remains of the mother's body was found.

At the first old settlers' reunion, Mr. Owens was in conversation with J. C. Brown of Rocksprings. Mr. Brown was a soldier in Captain Roberts' division, and unaware of the identity of Mr. Owens was relating several incidents in which the "Kid" had participated. Mr. Owens smiled and asked, "Would you know the 'Kid' if you saw him?" The other man stated that he would not and Mr. Owens revealed that he was the "Kid."

Mr. Owens stated "Things are so easy now that these memories seem like ghost stories, but they really happened."

LEAD-HEADED nails are an essential element in sheet metal construction. The lead caps seal the nail holes in galvanized, or otherwise coated corrodible metal, against moisture seepage which inevitably results in the gradual rusting out of widening areas.

Available in a variety of stem types and quantity containers, lead-headed nails manufactured by the modern cold-compression system are obtainable at less than half the cost of those produced under the old, wasteful hot-casting process.

When self-sealing lead-headed nails are used in combination with a rust inhibitive priming coat of red lead paint, maintenance costs are reduced to a minimum, while top-coats of pure white lead and oil will prove the economical medium for a wide variety of lasting color styling treatments.

Q.—How can I determine whether fixtures are pure brass or merely coated metal without spoiling the finish?

A.—A small magnet of the type available at a wide variety of stores should do the trick. The magnet will have no attraction for the pure product, while on the other hand, it will adhere firmly to brass plated steel.

Q.—A leather easy chair is cracking due to steam heat. What treatment do you suggest?

A.—When leather upholstery gives evidence of drying out, a simple remedy is to rub in plain white vaseline or neat's-foot oil. Rub in firmly all of the lubricant that the dry surface will absorb, then remove any excess with a clean, soft cloth.

Q.—Please suggest an adhesive for securing linoleum which is coming loose from the kitchen floor.

A.—Among others, plastic roofing cement is a strong adhesive widely specified for such repairs.

Miss Ruth Freeman and Miss Doris Meckel were in San Angelo Saturday visiting Miss Virginia McGhee.

Dee Gibbs, who had been in San Angelo hospital for some time has returned to his ranch home, and it is reported he is doing fine.

EYES IN HIS FINGERS

DETROIT, MICH.—Twenty-one years ago a man was led into a factory employment office.

The man was then forty-five—at the age when, some people have said industry "draws the dead-line."

Also, Oscar Youngsnitch was totally blind. When he was eighteen, working in a Detroit foundry before automobile factories were dreamed of, molten metal destroyed his eyesight.

The blind man's father was a veteran Ford employe, who died in 1919—and the blind, middle-aged son applied for his job!

He was given a trial—and has been at work ever since. Youngsnitch assembles split bushings, a job requiring exacting accuracy—and his fingers are marvelously skilled.

He is one of more than a score of blind men holding important jobs in the Rouge plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Huling of San Angelo were visiting relatives here Tuesday night and Wednesday. Sunbeam Automatic Coffee-makers, G. E. Percolators, Corry and Pyrex Coffee-makers at Sonora Electric Co.
