Quick Action Averts Potential Downtown Disaster

A potential disaster was averted in downtown Sonora last Wednesday with the quick reaction of an alert citizen and the volunteer fire department. "Smoke was pouring out of the Devil's River News and it sure looked bad," Jody Thompson recalls as she was closing up at White's Home and Auto Center, a few doors down Main Street.

"The first thing I did was call in the fire alarm," Jody continues, "then I called Wes Burnett."

Burnett, Devil's River News publisher, got the call about 6 p.m. and rushed to the office from his home.

"When Pat and I got to the back door, the firemen were already there and ready to attack the fire," Burnett explains.

"We opened the back door, and the firemen went through the smoked filled building to the front, and there were no flames, that's when they went next door to the Shear Power."

Glenda Hail, Shear Power owner, could not be located, so firemen crashed through the front door, and out came the black smoke.

"We were really worried at first," Burnett adds, "we have a lot of paper stock in the building and if the fire had been in our building we could have had some real problems."

Firemen quickly found the cause of the fire in the beauty shop and had the flame extinguished within a few minutes.

Fire Marshal Gene West reports that the cause of the fire was an electrical heating unit with overloaded wiring.

Fireman Carl Teaff was the officer-in-charge and reports that 14 firemen were at the scene one hour.

The damaged building at 218 NE Main is owned by Monica DuRussel.

There were no damages to the Devil's River News.

"We do have a little smoke odor around here," Burnett adds.

"We just can't offer enough praise for our volunteer firemen," Burnett concludes, "if they hadn't responded so quickly, we could have really been in bad shape."

Glenda Hail echoes Burnett's comments, and announces that she will reopen as soon as the damages are repaired.

Fred Campbell To Leave Sonora

Fred Campbell, Sonora Wool and Mohair Co. manager for the past nine years, will be leaving Sonora in early January to become executive director of the Mohair Council of America.

In an interview with the Devil's River News, Campbell expressed his appreciation "to the people at the wool house, the directors and the employees for the support and cooperation these past nine years."

"I look forward to a continuing relationship in the mohair market with our producers," Campbell added.

Campbell's new position is part of a reorganization plan in the process of preparation by the Mohair Council directors.

The plan calls for consolidation of operations in San Angelo, with some activities to continue in New York. Campbell will be working closely with the International Mohair Association.

He will be involved in the promotional efforts and the work on IMA organization, which will bring Turkey, South Africa and U.S. producers together with buyers and cloth makers.

Campbell is also concerned about the future of the mohair industry in Texas. "We are now seeing a reverse in the declining numbers of goats and we also are seeing improved sheep numbers," he observed.

"We are fortunate in Sutton County to have the experiment station and the people in the industry here who have taken the lead in range management and wool and mohair programs," he continued.

Campbell believes that Sutton County has an excellent future in the wool and mohair business. "We are fortunate here because of our central location and less predator problems," he concluded.

Campbell says the biggest problem in mohair production is the kid crop and getting the kids raised, which he says calls for better predator controls throughout Texas. (See related story on page 9).

New Jail, Ranch Road, Approved By County

Sutton County Commissioners approved the preliminary plans for a new jail, accepted a state highway proposed ranch road and voted to include rural dwellings in the new county-wide valuations, at the regular monthly meeting Monday morning.

The new jail proposal will be presented to the state Jail Standards Commission, which has already issued a variety of standards violations of Sutton County's historical jail.

Sheriff Bill Webster and contractor Jack McDermott told commissioners that the new jail will be adjacent to the old facility, and the old jail will be remodeled as part of the new structure.

County Judge Web Elliott reminded commissioners that the state historical commission as well as Sutton County voters will have final approval authority of any new structure.

"We might as well face it, we're going to have to build a new jail sooner or later," Judge Elliott commented, "and we might as well do it before the federal or state governments force us to."

Sutton County voters will eventually decide the issue of the new jail through a bond election.

The new ranch road to be built will connect the old Fort McKavett road to Eldorado and includes five miles in Sutton County and two miles in Schleicher County.

Right-of-way, fencing, water wells and pipelines were discussed with land owners.

Commissioners decided to continue its plan for valuation of all county dwellings, although the Sutton County School Board voted not to participate.

The commissioners had voted to share the cost of valuation with the school board, but were told by Superintendent Dr. Joe Andrews that the board of trustees had voted to exempt rural dwellings from its valuation for taxation.

Commissioners discussed the issue, pointing out that if dwellings are to be taxed, then the location of the dwelling shouldn't be a consideration.

The school taxation of dwellings will include only those dwellings in the city limits. Dwellings outside the city will not be valued for school taxes, commissioners were told.

Commissioners stated that they felt that all dwellings should be valued in order to be fair to all home owners.

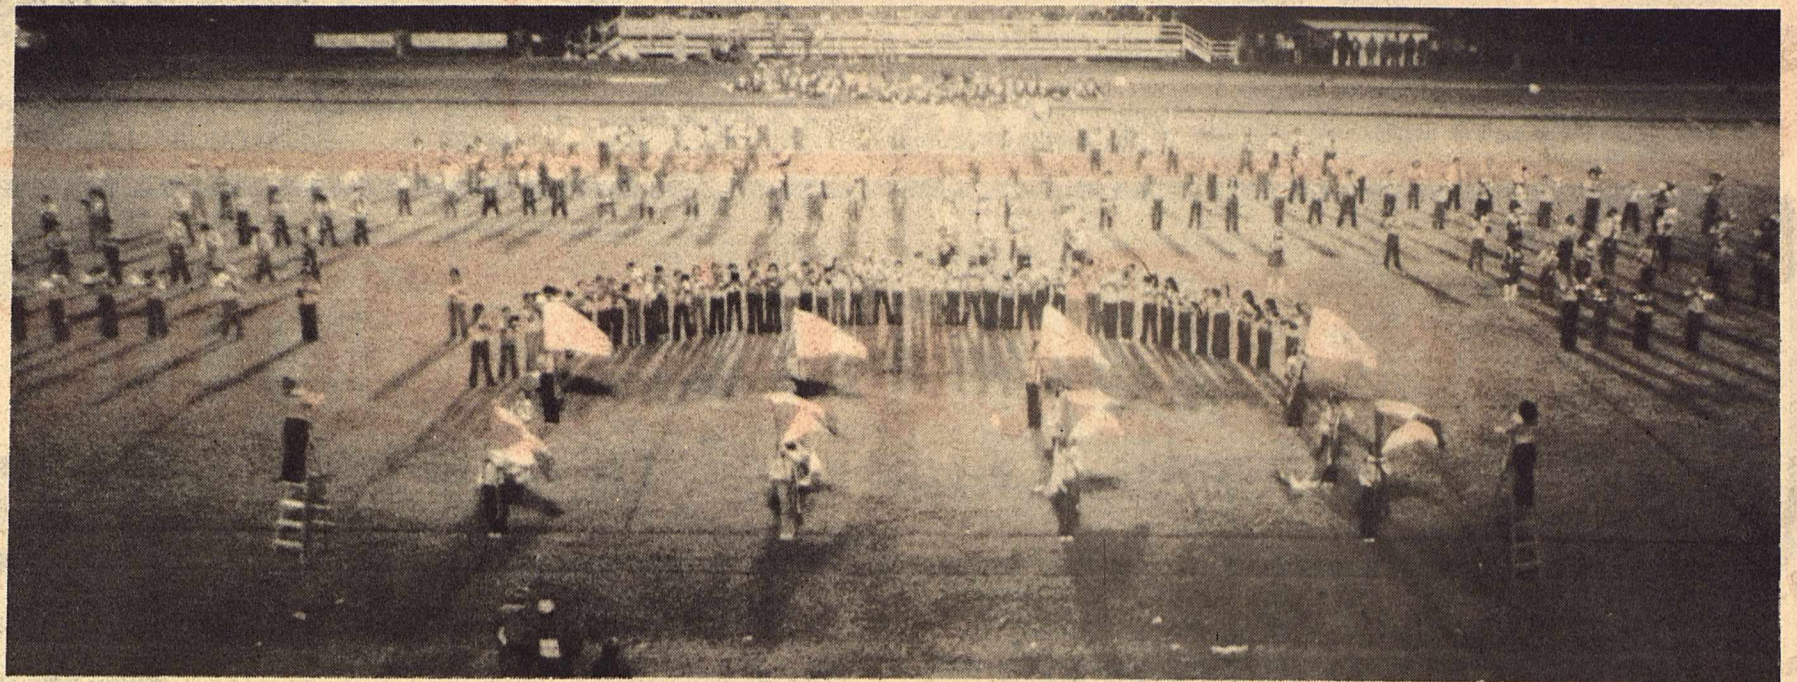

If enough new taxes are recovered as a result of adding rural dwellings to the tax rolls, the commissioners added, that the actual tax rate will be lowered.

"This is not an attempt to raise more taxes," Judge Elliott pointed out, "but merely a way to show equalization for tax payers."

Commissioners also voted to raise the per day meal allotment to the Sheriff to $3.25 per prisoner.

Combined Bands March Friday

Ed Martinez' Marching Bronco Band entertained fans Friday night with a spectacular half time show for their last football performance of the year. Marching with the high school band were members of the junior high band bringing the total to more than 200 band students involved in the performance.

Sonora Minister Speaks

Paul, in his epistle to the early church at Phillipi, makes the statement that he longs to share in the suffering of Christ. Perhaps no other verse in his writings better expresses his deep love for Christ, and his understanding of the meaning of love itself.

It is one thing to love someone enough to share good times...but it is quite another matter to love someone enough to desire to share the painful experiences of life.

What was the meaning of Paul's statement? How, indeed can someone share in the suffering of the Lord? The answer to this is perhaps not what many of us would like to hear, for to have Christ in one's heart, to know Christ, to love Christ, is not to have some immediate panacea for all of life's pain.

Christians still suffer tragedy in their personal lives, they still know pain, and agony, and suffering. However, the love of Christ gives the inner peace and the strength to cope with these things, and beyond this, enables us to share in His suffering. We can, at least in part, see the world through his eyes, and His pain at the hungry, the naked, the imprisoned, becomes our pain. But, as we share in his suffering at the sight of these and other atrocities, the suffering becomes enabling rather than disabling. We see where Christ is at work in the world, and we join him there. We, in our actions toward others, go out into the world seeking to alleviate the suffering we see and feel. This is love of Christ.

School Board Trustees Approve Re-appraisal Contract

School Trustees met in regular session November 8 and approved a contract with Southwestern Appraisal Company of Austin for re-appraisal of properties within the city limits, Sinaloa, and Loma Alta.

However, the board did not approve adding the ranch dwellings to the re-appraisal contract.

The board authorized employment of a mechanic to service and perform preventative maintenance on the school's vehicles. The purchase of a site for vehicle storage and bus repair shop was also discussed.

The use of the gym and other basketball equipment by the Little Dribblers Basketball Program was approved.

Carol Hamilton was approved as assistant coach for girls basketball and track.

Letter To The Editor

It is with a great deal of excitement and enthusiasm that I write this letter, for it deals with a subject very important to me and the entire population of Sutton County-the Sonora Woman's Club Library.

The Woman's Club is beginning an extensive fund raising campaign, the money to be used to restore the present library facility and to expand that facility to accommodate the increased use of the library.

Sonora is an industrialized ranch community filled with people rich in cultural interests and expansion. Perhaps this is unusual only in the fact that towns that grow as rapidly as Sonora at a technical level often fail to grow in spirit and vision as well. That is not the case with Sonora and surrounding area. For that reason, I have chosen to write this letter.

There is not an institution in a community more important than the library. Our children need exposure to every bit of recorded resource material we can provide. They should not have to be carted to San Angelo or any other place to obtain necessary materials for their school work.

Not only is it important to the children but every person in Sonora has the privilege of using the materials in the library for his own individual pleasure.

Some have said that the Woman's Club Library is not used enough to warrant expansion. This is a misconception. According to Ms. Lois Duncan, librarian, the use of the library facilities has more than tripled in the last two years.

The facility is open Tuesday through Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. and could be used many more hours than that; however, due to inadequate accommodations and limited operating funds, it is not.

Now, we the Woman's Club need help. The members of the club are committed to do the work; all Sonorans must help us with their money.

December 12 is the first of many fund-raising projects the Woman's Club is offering the public.

A spaghetti luncheon will be held in the Methodist Church basement from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. All proceeds will go to the Woman's Club building fund. Please, please begin now expecting to say is that I hope all of Sonora will dare to reach as high in their expectations as the members of the Woman's Club. This is a tremendous undertaking and we will not see it become a reality for many months; however, it will happen. It will happen because we want it to happen.

Five Constitutional Amendments Pass

Five of the seven Texas constitutional amendments won approval of Sutton County voters in last week's election which saw only 100 people voting.

There were no local election decisions.

Amendments which were defeated by local voters were the Historical Property Tax Relief and the Electronic Funds Transfer Authority.

Those amendments failed with 58 against to 42 for and 55 against to 43 for.

The Criminal Appeals Court Expansion, Veterans' Land Fund Increase, Denial of Bail for certain felony repeat offenders, Authorize Marketing Associations and Expand Judicial Commission Powers all passed in Sutton County.

There are 2,585 registered voters in Sutton County. Less than four percent of the voters decided the outcome of the amendments.

Sutton ICA Discuss Funds

Members of the Sutton County Independent Cattlemen's Association met November 9 at the Sutton County Steakhouse for breakfast and a business meeting.

Discussed at the meeting was a fund raising event for the association.

The nominating committee of George Wallace, Bill Whitehead and Bill Shepherd was appointed to name officers for 1978.

The meeting was well attended and successful, according to members Turney Friess and Mrs. Bill Shepherd.

Another meeting of the association will be held Thursday morning at the Steakhouse with all members and interested persons encouraged to attend. Breakfast will be served at 7 a.m.

Soft Is The Spirit of Holiday '77

Soft is the Spirit of the Holiday '77 Season and the fabric is the medium that captures it best. Fabrics at John Meyer are luxurious: rich, elegant, velvets...sensuous, romantic Qianas...lacy wool crepes...pin-dotted crepe de chine...chintz and satins.

Pat Ashley's forte is her mix of fabric, texture and color and it is easy to see that this season exemplifies Pat is again at her best.

The all important feminine details...gathering, smocking, embroidery, tucking, especially on the John Meyer Holiday blouses. These pretty details outline collars and find their way down blouse fronts, ruffles galore...on blouses, sundresses and skirts. Pleats are plentiful. Pleats add alot of feminine fluidity. The drawstring gains in importance, to push, pull and shape up certain looks. Layering is more important than ever. And Pat says, "let's never forget the blouson!"

TOPS TAKE ALOT OF TACKS....It's the year of the blouse, the most important fashion item. Pat sees a definite trend toward the softer, more feminine blouse...with ruffles, rolled-up sleeves, shirred yokes. Even the most classic of styles, the shirt, has eased up this season at John Meyer. Pat has dropped and squared off the armhole, it fits looser, bigger, softer. Shirts have smaller, rounded collars.

BIG, SOFT SWEATERS. Open blend cowls continue, fur blend cowls continue, open weave blouson fur blends make a big hit, with rolled sleeves...raglan sleeves in the soft and fluffy shetlands allow for freer and easier...bloused, open weave natural string knit sweaters.

SKIRTS....that really move, proportions have grown, dirndls are getting fuller, the three tiered skirt appears on the John Meyer line, in a fine liberty chintz, skirts in general are longer, with lots of pleats, tucks and gathers.

TROUSERS....are still important, but softer and they get their fullness through tucks and pleats at the waist. Drawstring and elasticized waist detail add the element of the soft and easy, especially in knits. Pant legs continue to get slightly narrower. Shorts are becoming important now for Resort.

THE BLAZER....still an absolute necessity. The tailored look continues to soften up with blazer going shorter, with less hard-edged details.

THE COLORS....powderface pales and subdued naturals show up almost everywhere. Pat used blush tones, sweet tints and lots of beige to wheat tones. Bright colors appear in flower prints on natural ground chintz. Winter white and electric reds. Holiday glitter in sweaters. Blacks take command in everything from sportswear to evening wear, from lacy wool crepes to lustrous Qiana.

RESORT....at John Meyer means good times. It means clean white on white plaids, lustrous silk numbs and silk nub pinstripes, and a jungle leaf print of pale green and pink. Sundresses continue - full and easy, with drawstrings and sweet ruffles.

Yates Field Operator Requests Increase

The operator of the Yates Field has asked the Railroad Commission to increase the most efficient rate of production for the prolific petroleum province in west Texas to 125,000 barrels daily. Yates' current MER is 100,000 barrels per day.

Marathon Oil Co. made the request last week near the close of first-day testimony at a Commission-called hearing to review reservoir performance and redetermine the MER for the 50-year-old field in Pecos and Crockett Counties.

Yates ranks among Texas' top dozen producing fields. It was unitized on July 1, 1976, with Marathon the unit operator. Marathon is the largest single owner in the field, which has about 200 working-interest owners and some 900 royalty owners.

Top officials of the Commission's Oil and Gas Division—Chief Engineer Billy D. Thomas—are taking testimony from Marathon witnesses and other interest representatives. The hearing is expected to continue into Thursday.

Marathon testimony is being directed by Warren B. Leach Jr., counsel for the company's Houston division.

During Tuesday's day-long session, two Marathon witnesses described the geological characteristics and the production/operating history of the field.

William K. Stenzel, coordinating manager for exploration and production in Marathon's Houston division, testified to the uniqueness of the geological formations and conditions within the oil reservoirs of the field.

Numerous voids of "cavernous proportions" have been encountered in drilling into the oil-bearing formations, he reported.

Robert A. Pfie, engineering manager for the Yates Field Unit, told the Commission's hearing panel that oil production has improved since the field was unitized more than a year ago, with produced gas reduced substantially and water cut to zero.

Yates production can be increased significantly without impairing ultimate oil recovery, Pfie and Leach reported. Both described the field as being in its primary producing life.

Pfie said production efficiency to be achieved by raising the MER to 125,000 barrels daily would result in ultimate recovery of an additional 44 million barrels of oil. He predicted the producing life of the field would last another 90 years under the 100,000 barrels daily MER and 80 years with the MER at 125,000 barrels daily.

Pfie, in recommending an increase in the Yates MER, said:

"Material balance calculations, well tests and reservoir performance history reflect that the Yates field can efficiently produce more than 125,000 barrels per day without waste and that the MER of the Yates Field is greater than 125,000 barrels of oil per day."

The Yates Unit manager reported Yates produced at the rate of 137,868 barrels per day during a recent field-wide test involving 478 wells on production.

Leach also reported that Marathon recently completed a new well in the field which has a calculated 24-hour potential through tubing of almost 6,500 barrels per day.

"I have been unable to find anyone who can recall how long it has been since a well of this size has been completed in any field in the Lower 48 States of the U.S. and, of course, no one can recall a well of that size ever having been completed in a field that has produced for 50 years," the Marathon attorney said.

A Marathon exhibit showing Yates with the highest proved future recoverable oil reserves and the lowest annual allowable, percentage-wise, among Texas' largest oil fields was protested by Lloyd Muennick, Austin attorney representing a number of heirs of Ira Yates on who ranch the field was discovered. Muennick said the Marathon exhibit was irrelevant to the proceedings.

Incentives Needed for Energy

The Chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission today said Americans need to infuse efforts to solve their energy crisis with production incentives rather than rely on more Washington regulation.

Commissioner Mack Wallace, in an address before the Beeville Chamber of Commerce, stressed the United States has a strong energy base in oil, gas, coal, nuclear and other long-range fuel resources.

The energy and transportation official noted Texas, alone, possesses some 112 billion tons of coal reserves equivalent to 300 billion barrels of oil. Also, he cited, a federal energy agency estimates the state has 44,000 tons of uranium oxide reserves.

Wallace pointed to the U.S. Outer Continental Shelf as a petroleum province containing 26 billion barrels of oil and 107 trillion cubic feet of natural gas that are classified as undiscovered but recoverable by the U.S. Geological Survey.

But, Wallace emphasized, production of America's enormous energy resources, like record-time construction of the 1,400-mile Big Inch Pipeline in World War II, presents stout challenges.

Wallace insisted that the key to tapping the nation's energy reservoirs "is production incentives—not regulation of prices; not a national leadership unwilling to insure a period in which our country can remain in a position of economic stability because it has the fuel to run its machines; and not an environmental bureaucracy bent more on its own perpetuity than on problem solving."

"The government of Great Britain is preparing today to give Britons a $1.75 million tax refund for Christmas because Britain encouraged the development of its energy resources off the coast of the North Sea and has taken advantage of such development to its economic growth," Wallace reported.

"As a result of the North Sea oil boom, the British government announced refunds of up to $61 for individual taxpayers.

Applications For Drilling Increase

Applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests in Texas totaled 19,869 for the first ten months of 1977, up from 17,170 for the same period in 1976.

Year-to-date applications to drill, deepen, plug back and for service wells totaled 23,105 against 20,284 a year ago, the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division reported in its semimonthly drilling report.

The report showed 23 oil discoveries and 34 gas strikes were completed in Texas during the Oct. 15-31, 1977 period.

Oil discoveries included five in the Refugio area, four each in deep south Texas and west central Texas, three in southeast Texas, two each in the Midland, north Texas and Panhandle areas, and one in east central Texas.

Gas discoveries included ten in the Refugio area, nine in deep south Texas, seven in southeast Texas, four in east Texas, two in east central Texas and one each in the San Angelo and Midland areas.

The Oil and Gas Division listed 10,961 oil, gas or service well completions for the year to date, up from 10,173 a year earlier.

Of the 6,744 oil completions so far in 1977, 483 were discovery wells. A year earlier there were 6,158 oil completions with 460 listed as oil discoveries.

Gas well completions this year totaled 3,622 of which 666 are discovery wells. For the same 1976 period, Texas had 3,577 gas well completions including 787 discoveries.

There were 350 oil and 219 gas well completions since the last semimonthly drilling report. In the Oct. 15-31, 1972 exploratory and field tests wound up as dry holes.

Oil and Gas Story Group Works To Raise Money for Film

For the past year, the American Oil and Gas Story group, under the guidance of Ed Thompson, Committee Chairman and

Clarke Straughan, President, Midland, has been working to raise the seed money to prepare the "Bible," necessary for presentation to a major network, for a TV-movie mini-series about the domestic, independent oil and gas industry.

Frank Lee and Bob Pruitt, Denver, have also reported that they'll work over the Rocky Mountain area, since nothing has been heard from there to date.

Crane County Gets Liquefied Storage

The Railroad Commission today authorized Atlantic Richfield Co. to use a well drilled in the Block 31 Field Area of Crane County for storage of liquefied petroleum products.

The Commission's action at the weekly conference on Oil and Gas Division matters allows Arco to create a cavity that can store 10,000 barrels of LPG products initially and to expand capacity to 60,000 barrels.

The cavern will be used as a stand-by for storage of products in the event products lines leading from the Block 31 (Devonian) gasoline plant are not operating.

At the top of the cavern will be at 1,060 feet.

In another action, Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioner Jon Newton approved the application of Lawn Tank Trucks, Inc., Dallas, to operate oil reclamation plants situated north of Abilene in Jones County and at Lawn in Taylor County.

The plants have been operated for the past seven years by W.C. Holt of Lawn.

The Jones County plant is permitted to receive tank bottoms from Oil and Gas Division Districts 7B, 7C and Baylor and Knox Counties in District 9. The Lawn plant is permitted to receive tank bottoms from Districts 7B and 7C.

The main thrust of the AOGS effort is to get the story of the industry told to the general public as it has never been told before.

Total budget for such an effort is $99,000 and the group has raised over $75,000 of the amount.

Men like Jim Wooten, Dallas; Jimmy Cahill, Sonora; Clem Barnes, Al Dillard and Joe O'Neill, all Midland; Bill Hall, Jay Alvey and Jerry Warton, Odessa have been responsible for this work.

In an effort to wrap up the final phase of the program, K.V. Northington, San Angelo, has offered to join Jimmy Cahill to improve the response from San Angelo, while Jerry Warton has volunteered to work the Odessa area for additional support.

Basic research led by Terry Clotiaux, has been on going, as have efforts by co-producers Pierce Beneke, Paul Guenette and Bob Asselin to put it all together in preparing the final form of the presentation that will eventually be made to one of the major TV networks.

Currently, Guenette-Asselin are involved in the upcoming John Wayne ABC special which they will write, produce and direct.

The independent oil and gas story series, in the vein of Roots, The Captains and the Kings, etc., will cost anywhere from 3 to 4 million dollars and those funds will come from either commercial sponsors, or the network, not the AOGS group.

LoVaca Hearing

The Railroad Commission's Gas Utilities Division today scheduled a Nov. 17 hearing to review its rules regarding Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.'s sale of surplus gas in the interstate market.

The hearing will commence at 9 a.m. in Room 812 of the Ernest O. Thompson Bldg., headquarters of the Commission.

Mohair Council

Campbell Named Executive Director

The Mohair Council of America, now in the process of being reorganized, has named Fred R. Campbell as its new executive director.

Campbell, 50, manager of Sonora Wool and Mohair Co. since 1969, will assume his new duties on Jan. 1.

The Council announced two weeks ago that it would close its New York marketing office in early November and shift all its marketing operations to its general office in San Angelo, Texas. The move to close its New York office is a temporary one and does not signal any cutback in the organization's promotional budget or activities, Sid Harkins, Council president, explained.

With the new changeover on Jan. 1, Campbell will assume full management of the Council's entire operations.

Prior to the November closing, Ed McManus was in charge of the New York office and all promotion and advertising programs.

Ross McSwain, the Council's assistant director, was manager of the general office in San Angelo and handled program and budget planning, foreign market development and public relations.

McSwain also was executive assistant to the Texas Mohair Producers Board which collects the voluntary deduction paid by growers to finance mohair promotion and advertising. McSwain was asked by the Council to work with the new director through January during the management changeover.

Campbell, reared at Paint Rock, Texas, is well known throughout the wool and mohair and sheep and Angora goat industry.

A Navy veteran and graduate of Texas A&M University and the University of Wyoming where he earned a master's degree in wool technology, Campbell served as an Extension farm agent in Taylor and Sterling counties in the early 1950's.

He was in charge of the ram test project at the Sonora Research Station from 1957 to 1962. Before becoming manager of Sonora Wool and Mohair Co. he was manager of San Angelo Wool Processing Co. and West Texas Combing Co. from 1965 to 1968.

He operates a stockfarm near Paint Rock where he raises registered Rambouillet sheep, commercial Angus cattle and winters old crop lambs on small grain pasture.

Campbell has been active in the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, is vice president of the Texas Wool and Mohair Warehouse Association, serves on the executive committee of the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Commission of Texas, and served on the board of governors, Wool Associates of the New York Stock Exchange.

He is married to the former Cora Ellen (Kay) Sims of Paint Rock and they have two sons, Bill Campbell, a lawyer at Eden, and Scott Campbell, a photographer for the San Angelo Standard-Times. Mrs. Campbell is a teacher in the Sonora school system.

Goat Production Changes Needed

Edwards Plateau Angora goat producers were told here last week that they will have to change their production methods if they are going to improve kid crops.

Jack Groff of Kerrville, an area sheep and goat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service told more than 100 producers assembled at the Texas A&M University Research Station near here that "methods we are now practicing in this region are not doing the job, and change is the key to raising more Angora goats."

Basking in the light of good prices for Mohair this season, producers are turning their attention to finding ways to improve kid crops and capitalize on the good prices.

"Mohair outlook is good and there is plenty of room for production expansion in the market," said Sid Harkins of Sanderson, president of the Mohair Council of America.

The problem for Texas producers has been the 40 percent kid crops which have kept them from taking advantage of the better prices.

Rocksprings rancher Hayden Haby prefaced Groff's comments on production method changes by telling his fellow ranchers that the "answer to a profitable Angora kid crop will require some preparation and management long before the kids are born."

Haby outlined seven production methods he believes are essential to producing a good kid crop. They are the following:

---Follow a systematic deferred rotation grazing system on rangeland to allow the palatable, nutritious plants to return to their vegetative composition. "I believe this is the most important management decision ranchers have to make," Haby said. "Without adequate range forage, much of our breeding, feeding and medication will be in vain."

---Kid as early as practical. "If does are kidded on the range, ranchers will have to wait until warm weather," Haby said. "The ideal situation would be to have most of the kids dropped just as ranges are beginning to spring growth."

Haby also suggested that producers in this area of the country might consider "shed kidding" as a method for raising more kids. "Shed kidding with an adequate feed supply will allow ranchers to kid earlier and regulate milk production in the does," he said. "Shed kidding offers great potential for improving the percent kid crop and increasing size and development of kids."

---Try to provide adequate nutrition for suckling does during the first six months either with good pasture of supplemental feed. "Kids will make the fastest and most efficient growth the first six weeks after birth," Haby said.

---Stay on top of internal parasite problems. Haby, who followed on the program a report on Coccidiosis (internal parasites) given by Texas A&M Assistant Professor Tom Craig, told ranchers that internal parasites are the most serious production problem facing Angora goat producers today.

---Try to avoid unnecessary stressing of all goats, particularly during shearing.

---Take extra steps to care for the kids between weaning and spring shearing. "Up to 25 percent of the kid crop is often lost between weaning and spring shearing," Haby said. "This makes fall a critical time in the life of Angora kids. An ideal situation is to wean kids and put them in a well-watered, deferred pasture."

"They should be rounded in to the water for several days after weaning, and give them plenty of alfalfa hay, especially if they are to be kept in a pen or trap for long periods."

---Feed Angora kids. "Our efforts to feed kids are sometimes lessons in futility," Haby said. "Probably the main reason we do not properly care for the kids is that we do not have the facilities. Most of the goat sheds I see are about 50 years old and in pretty bad shape. I seldom see adequate feeder space or hay or bulk feed suitable for feeding kids."

Robert Kensing, an area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, also stressed the importance of feeding in the management scheme. He said there are basically three times when feeding is warranted.

These include emergency feeding when inclement weather or confinement make it necessary, survival feeding when there are prolonged periods of inclement weather or drought to require feed for survival of the herd, and supplemental feeding which allows animals to have access to reasonable quantities of natural forage of reasonable quality.

Kensing said feeding decisions under supplemental feeding situations can account for minimum production or optimum production. "It is seldom a good economic goal to try to achieve maximum production with purchase supplemental feeds," he said.

Citing research which shows that poor nutrition for goats in the late gestation period (winter months) usually spell abortions or low birth rates, he said ranchers should recognize that the best time to economically employ a supplemental feeding program to increase kid crops is in the fall and winter months.

Exportation of Bobcat Pelts Halted

While sheep and goat producers were busy trying to keep the bobcat off the endangered species list, a strange series of events succeeded in giving the cat much of the same protection.

Export of bobcat pelts has been halted, and ranchers were caught almost totally unaware.

It was one of those cases where you watch something happening, never quite realize what's going on, and are powerless to do anything about it anyway. Then when it's all over, you really have no one to blame.

Government trapping programs and ranchers' efforts have failed to keep up with predation in recent years, so ranchers have welcomed high export-boostered fur prices which have stimulated free-lance trapping.

Authorities estimated that up to 95 percent of bobcat pelts taken in Texas are sold on the international market; there is almost no domestic demand.

Unfortunately, the same situation exists in Africa, but in their case, many sought-after cats face extinction.

An international agreement designed to protect a multitude of endangered plants and animals by restricting trade has thrown a wider loop than necessary, and our bobcats were caught in it.

The United States is one of more than 80 nations cooperating in the agreement. During a 1976 meeting of the group, members voted to restrict trade in all wild cat products, and that's where our troubles began.

U.S. species covered under the restriction may be exported only under permit from the Fish & Wildlife Service. The permits are granted only if a new agency, the Endangered Species Scientific Authority, can show "scientific" proof that such export will not endanger the species.

Dr. William Y. Brown, ESSA executive secretary, admits that

Ranchers Get Ready For Hunting Season

With good, general rains salvaging many pastures over most of the region, Southwest Texas farmers and ranchers have turned their attention to getting ready for the deer season.

Hunters will be out in force this weekend and preparations are underway to get lease lands ready for their arrival.

Generally, the good rains have promoted forage growth throughout the region, especially cool season grasses and weeds responding to the cool autumn nights.

Cattle remain in fair to good condition across the area and most Texas Agricultural Extension Service agents say cattle marketings have slowed some during the past two weeks.

Pecans are beginning to arrive at markets with some complaints about quality this season. Pecan harvest completion estimates range from five to 60 per cent in some counties.

Planting of wheat and oats continue where soils have dried out enough for work. In the winter-garden, harvesting of cabbage started last week with a good outlook on prices.

Worm damage was severe on the early cabbage with better cuttings expected later as the weather eliminates insects. Kale is almost ready for harvest along with spinach. Onions also are growing well.

Penalties, Sputtering Offense Drop Sonora to Ozona

By Kay Holdridge
 Penalties at inopportune times and a sputtering offense resulted in a 7-24 loss for the Sonora Broncos as they dropped their third consecutive district game against the Ozona Lions. The Broncos finished district competition with an 0-3 district 7AA record and a 4-5-1 season chart.
 The Broncos offense managed 12 first downs to Ozona's 14, but fumbles, a pass interception, and penalties halted Sonora's offensive thrusts. Ozona netted 247 yards to the ground to Sonora's 167 and Ozona added 82 yards in the air while the Broncos went 0-3 with one interception for 0 yards in the passing department.
 Sonora was guilty of 55 yards of mistakes on five times in the first half while Ozona had four for fifty yards. Sonora added 4 more penalties for 40 yards in the 2nd half while Ozona was guilty of 3 for 25 yards.
 Sonora possessed the lead throughout the first quarter as they took the opening kickoff 80 yards to score in 9 plays. Benny Granger, starting quarterback who played most of the game as a tailback, ran for 10 yards to the Sonora 25. Runs by Johnny Creek and Manuel Lopez plus 2 Ozona penalties moved the ball to the Ozona 3 where Lopez danced over for the only Bronco tally with 9:30 left in the opening quarter. Mike Jones' PAT was true and the Broncos led 7-0.

 The Bronco defense, as was true all year long, played stingy and forced a Blake Moody fumble at the Sonora 20 yard line where Dan Lawson covered the ball for the Sonora offense. Creek ran for 2 yards but an offside penalty against the Red & White moved the ball back to the Sonora 17. Lopez moved the pigskin to the 20 before Creek lost the handle and the Lions' Hector DeLaGarza recovered. A 15 yard Ozona penalty, a stiff defense, and Bunk Galbreath's interception of a Dan Sewell pass ended the threat.
 Three offensive series later, after a Kent Cagle pass was intercepted by Freddy Garza on the Sonora 27, Ozona scored on a 4 play drive. Halfback Randy Allen punched the ball over from the 1 and Moody's PAT tied the contest 7-7 with 2:35 remaining in the half.

 The second half was under Ozona's command as the inconsistent offense of the Broncos could not muster an offensive drive.
 Ozona taking the opening kickoff at their own 30 and marched to the 15 where the Bronco defense held fast on a 3rd-13 situation. Moody was faced to try a field goal from the 15 where he was successful. The Lions went ahead to stay 7-10.
 Lopez's runback of the ensuing kickoff to the Sonora 38 gave the Broncos good field position. Runs by Lopez and Cagle moved the ball to midfield, but Eddie Favila fumbled away a threatening Bronco drive to Ozona's DeLaGarza at the Bronco 49.

 The Bronco defense wasn't ready to give up yet and held the visitors to 3 plays and 4 yards. The offense couldn't find the right blocking assignments and fizzled at their own 36. Again the defense did its job and forced Ozona to punt it away.
 The offense netted 6 yards and again had to cough up the ball. Granger punted to the Ozona 47 where it was killed. Moody lost no time as he zig-zagged through a tired Bronco defense for a 47 yard TD jaunt. Moody tacked on the point after and Ozona was in command 17-7.

The Broncos netted a first down as QB Cagle ran for 20 yards. A pass interference call against the Broncos made the count 2nd-25. After an unsuccessful attempt at the 1st down, Granger sent the ball to the Ozona 25. Ozona iced the victory as Moody hit end Cruz Garza with a 3 yard halfback pass for the final TD of the season. Moody added the PAT and Ozona led 24-7.

 Favila ran the kickoff 80 yards to paydirt only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty. With the steam completely gone, Sonora netted 6 yards before the game ended in their 3rd consecutive loss.

Sonora's girls' basketball teams took a clean sweep in their contest last night against Rankin, with the varsity overwhelming Rankin 57-39, highlighted by Becky Cavaness' 35 points. Gloria Gomez [22] takes a shot with Jamie Condra [32] set up for the rebound for the varsity. In other action last night the girls' jr. varsity won 24-23 and Sonora's freshmen won 18-15. Jr. varsity high scorer was Annabel Gonzalez [10] and freshman high scorer was Judy York [14].

Baking Turkeys Can Be Easy

Even the non-cook can bake a turkey with the help of an oven cooking bag. A turkey of any size, or turkey pieces, will bake to moist perfection in the confines of the bag.

There's no basting, no stove grease to clean up, and the bird will come out of the oven a delicate golden color, SAYS MISS SARAH MAHON, COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT.

When you've chosen the turkey, choose the cooking bag--the right size for the bird.

The roasting pan is also important. It should be at least two inches deep for all the liquid that cooks out of the bird.

To cook an 8- to 10-pound turkey, shake 1 tablespoon flour in a 14"x20" oven cooking bag and place in roaster. Put 1 slice onion and 3 stalks chopped celery--with leaves--in the bag. Rinse thawed turkey in cold water and pat dry.

Season cavity with salt and pepper. Stuff body and neck cavities lightly with your favorite dressing, allowing 1/2 cup stuffing for each pound of bird. Close body cavity with skewers.

Brush entire surface of turkey with melted butter

Girl Scouts

El Camino Girl Scout Council Board of Directors met November 5 at the Del Rio Bank and Trust Building. Mr. I.W. Santry III, Council President, presided.

The steering committee consisted of eight members with Dolores Hodges of Sonora serving as committee member.

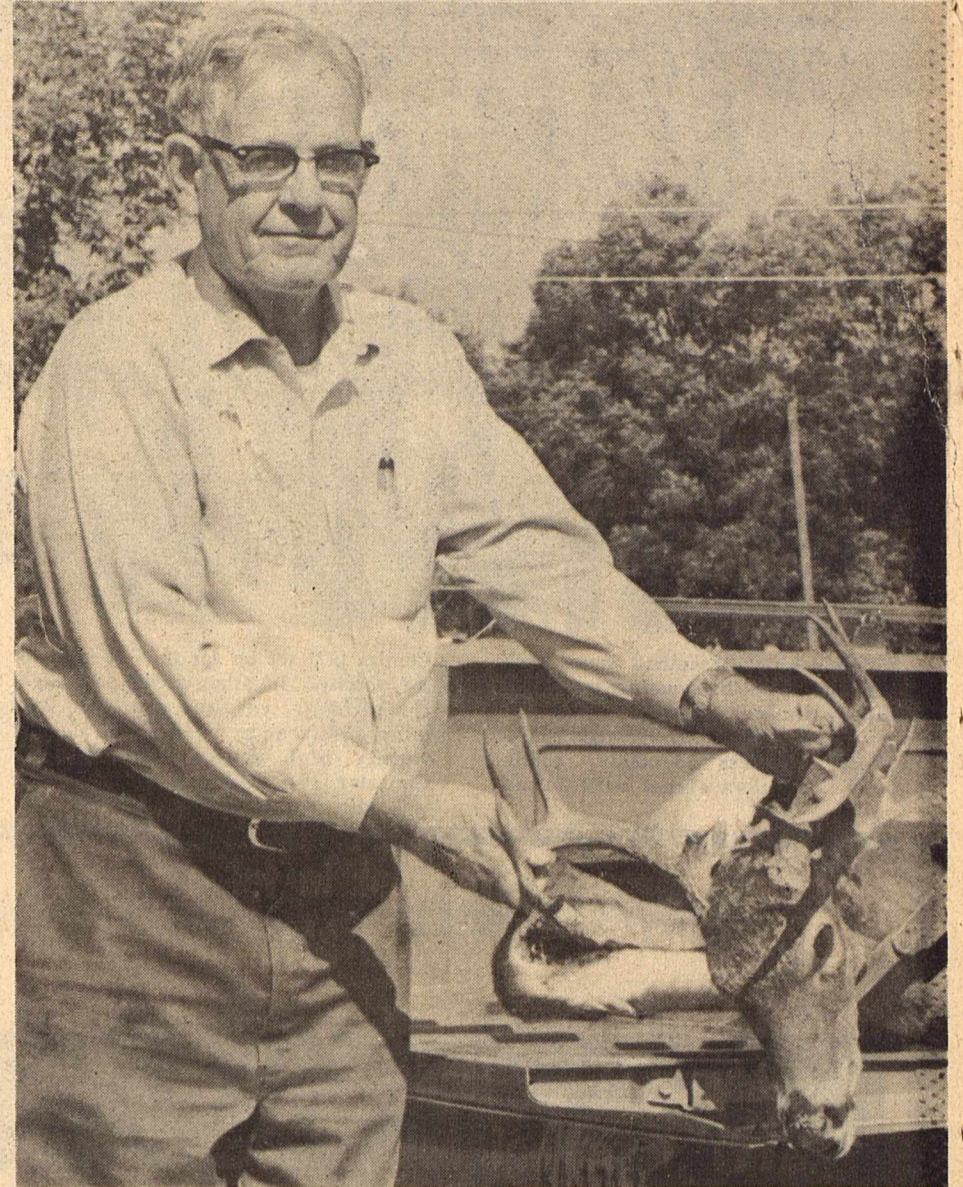

Executive Director, Virgie Sellars, noted a 17% girl membership increase for the Council.

or margarine and season with salt and pepper. Place turkey in bag. Close bag with twist tie and cut six 1/2-inch slits in top. Allow enough room in the oven so that the expanded bag will not touch the oven sides, walls or racks.

Cook at 350 degrees F. for two to three hours or until thermometer reads 185 degrees F. Allow the turkey to "rest" for 20 to 30 minutes--it will cool some, the juices will "set" (that is, they will not be as free-flowing), and the bird will carve better, the agent says.

ICA is Working for you

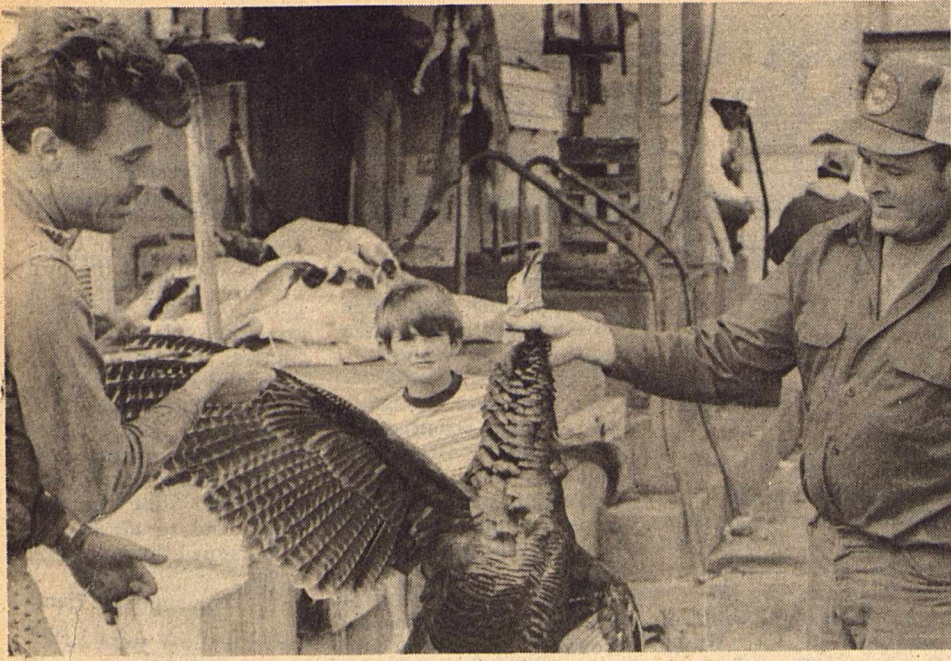

For a long time the agricultural community had needed someone to speak for them and present their problems to the government. Now we have that someone, ICA, headed by T. A. Cunningham and his capable staff. Letting the government know our problems and thoughts on issues which concern us greatly.

Mr. Cunningham, a rancher himself, speaks with the voice of experience, as he knows first hand of the problems confronting us. Speaking not only on the state level, he carries the thoughts and needs on to the national level. Speaking out on such issues as meat imports, taxes, land use, and the many other things of which we, the ranchers are concerned about. ICA is opposed to the Meat Import Laws we have today. Meeting with several representatives of the government, ICA has taken the stand to protect the domestic cattle industry. After all we the ranchers are the life blood of this country.

ICA has not gotten a lot of legislation passed, but they have gotten a lot stopped that would have been harmful to the ranchers. One Piece of legislation we were instrumental in getting passed was the revision of the Texas School Tax Law, which saved each of us from having our taxes doubled January 1, 1978.

ICA helped organize a new organization, The Independent Food and Energy Producers, who are working for you also.

The Sutton County Chapter of ICA is starting a fund raiser Monday, November 21, 1977. All ICA members are urged to bring any type of livestock that you would like to donate to ICA to the Powers Livestock pens. We will get them to market from there. If you have something you would like to donate, but do not have a way to haul them, call Louis Powers, 387-3106, George Wallace, 387-3341, or Turney Friess, 387-2425 and they will pick them up for you. If you do not have any livestock to donate we will accept checks. Members, we need your support and donations, remember I C A is working for you, so do your part.

First Grade Holds Open House Thurs.

The first grade held an Open House for all the parents Thursday morning. The purpose of the Open House was to acquaint the parents with the new report cards, the reading program and the necessity of better home-school communication. The five teachers explained the individualized approach to reading at each level. Approximately 60 parents attended.

The Social Studies program has been involved in the study of Thanksgiving. The classes have been discussing Indian and pilgrim dress and customs. They are creating costumes for interclass enjoyment.

Hanging Plants Can Hang Anywhere

If you don't have room for all the gorgeous plants you wanted to put in your house, don't worry. Just hang them somewhere, suggests Sarah Mahon, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Hanging baskets can live up terraces, porches, eaves or the walls of a house," says Sarah. "Any types of drooping, spreading plants such as ferns or airplane plants look good in hanging baskets."

Asparagus sprengeri ferns are good for hanging baskets because they can tolerate a lot of direct sun and some cold. Succulents are also fairly hardy plants. Boston type ferns require high humidity and partial shade.

Periwinkles are well suited to hanging baskets and will bloom through the hottest weather until the first frost. Petunias, which also look attractive in hanging baskets, are best to use during the spring and early summer.

Any clay or ceramic pot with good drainage hung in a galvanized wire, wooden, terra cotta or string hanging planter is suitable to use.

"Use a good potting soil which is high in organic matter. Put the plants in the basket at the same depth they were originally growing," advises Sarah.

Sample Family History

Old Timer 1925

The Wamel Family

The immigrant ancestors of William (Bill) J. Upton, who is a resident of Deming, New Mexico, were Franz Von Wamel and his wife. They had to leave their home in Germany for political reasons. In 1841, with their four small children, they set sail for Texas, where they knew land was available. The mother died at sea but her body was not buried until they landed at Indianola, Texas.

After burying his wife, Franz Von Wamel proceeded on to Fredericksburg, where he and his four motherless children bought a home. When the oldest of these children, Henry Julius, reached young manhood, he struck out on his own and settled in Bastrop, where he met and married Sophie Herms in 1851. They had four children and the son with whom we are concerned was William Julius Wamel, who was born in Bastrop County in 1859. He married Martha Elizabeth Hinyard in 1882. She was 17 and he was 21. Henry Julius offered his sons a good education. A younger son, John, became a doctor, but William J. chose cattle ranching instead. William J. suffered from asthma in the humidity of Bastrop County, and so in 1886 the family moved to New Mexico, traveling in a covered wagon and bringing their livestock with them.

The first Wamel child, Daisy, had been born in Cedar Creek, Texas, in 1883. Their second son, Rufus, was born in Menard on their way out. The Wamels settled in the Animas Valley and made their home there for many years. The Wamel's third child, Wallace, was born in 1888 and was the first white child born in the Animas Valley. At that time there were only four white families in the entire valley. The Wamels' first home was a tent stretched alongside their wagon. At night they could see Indian campfires up in the mountains, and although Mr. Wamel would often find the remains of a steer the Indians had killed for food, the white families living in the valley were never molested.

When the Wamels' two youngest daughters were born, the family was living in Shakespeare. In addition to raising cattle, Mr. Wamel and his wife operated a dairy and he sold milk house to house in Lordsburg.

In 1892 the Wamels moved to the outskirts of Deming to a farm they called "the slaughterhouse," about a mile north of where Bill and Lola Upton now live. At this farm cattle were slaughtered for sale in the Wamel General Merchandise store in Deming. Later Mr. Wamel also operated stores in Santa Rita and in Douglas, Arizona. The Wamel children all went to the Deming schools, and it was there that Daisy May Sophia Wamel met Tom Green Upton. They were married in the Methodist Church in 1902 and their first child, William J., was born on June 26, 1903. He and Lola Turner were married in Mexico City in 1926 but their lives will be another story.

Plan Christmas Shopping, Save

Win the race against the clock this holiday season. Plan ahead and use these few time management ideas to make your holiday relaxing and enjoyable, says Miss Sarah Mahon, County Extension Agent.

Start a notebook or calendar with plenty of space to plan for each day in the holiday season. As soon as activities are scheduled, write them in and set priorities. Try to oblige no more than 40 per cent of a day. Take into account if you are an early or a late starter.

Put harder tasks first. Offer yourself an incentive or special reward at the finish of hard tasks—something to look forward to, and encouragement to get through with work. Take advantage of odds and ends of time to do small tasks, working from a list of short-time jobs.

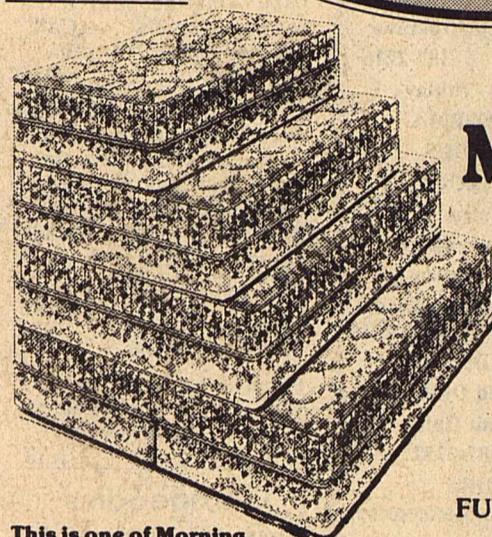

Center holiday activities on the family. Involve family members in addressing cards, making and putting up decorations and shopping.

Are you sick and tired of being sick and tired? There is help! If you or someone you love needs help with their drinking, call 387-3665 or 387-2708.
