Compete and Conserve

There has just been a conviction of 16 oil companies and 30 of their executives for violation of the anti-trust laws. They fixed the price of gasoline, a jury found, and that meant there was no competition between them. The inference is that they must compete.

Very well. Now right on the heels of that dictum comes a meeting of executives from 10 oil-producing states to consider what is to be done about a report on petroleum reserves. This report, by Alex W. McCoy of Ponca City, Okla., indicates that 6,000,000,000 barrels of oil will have to be discovered in the next five years to balance supply with demand in 1945. Governor Tingley of New Mexico sees 50-cent gasoline within eight years unless strictest conservation is practiced.

This makes the competition situation even more complex, for the federal government is insisting on competition, while state governments, alarmed, are debating joint state action to regulate production and stabilize prices. That is generally regarded as necessary to intelligent conservation.

To compete and conserve at the same time, that is the problem.

Chummy Royalty

So the British royal house and the exiled German royal family have "kissed and made up"! King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, and Mary the Queen Mother have sent the former Kaiser a telegram congratulating him on his son's approaching marriage, and signed it "Bertie, May, and Elizabeth."

It's just as well it wasn't "Bertie, May, and Lizzie," for then it would have called to mind even more forcefully the "Nickie and Willie" correspondence that passed between the same Kaiser Bill and the Czar of Russia just before the World War started.

When royalty gets chummy, it would seem to be time for the ordinary citizen to take to the cyclone cellars. Let's hope that this time Bertie and Willie don't get TOO chummy.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this article are those of Mr. Dutcher, NEA-Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and are not to be construed as expressing the editorial policy of The Reporter-Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Now the New York Stock Exchange knows what it is likely to get from the Securities and Exchange Commission as operated under Chairman William O. Douglas.

The SEC has just whammed down on bear raiding and short selling by ordering that short sales be made only at a price above the last transaction in the stock concerned. SEC did this, however, on no more information than that which the exchange itself already had gathered.

Here's the story behind the ruling:—

After studying short sales for two sample weeks last fall, the Stock Exchange made a statement which appeared designed to dress up facts and figures to make them prettier than they really were and to bury some of the most significant phases.

Finally, the Stock Exchange statement said, the figures would be turned over to the Twentieth Century Fund for analysis, and the SEC could look at them if it so desired. SEC members looked on that as a back-handed slap and promptly went to work on their own analysis.

THE result was the first trading rule which SEC actually has promulgated for the Stock Exchange. The rule carries penalties for violation and in this punitive feature differs from rules imposed by exchanges "in co-operation" with the SEC.

Although the SEC doesn't say so, it concluded that 11 members of the New York exchange were bear raiding in a distressed market, pushing down the whole list by concentrating on bellwether or leader stocks day after day. It isn't suggested that there was any concerted effort to discredit the administration, but it has been demonstrated that bears pushed the market well below points where it could have been held by public support.

Short selling is sale of stock which seller doesn't own, in expectation of decline to a price at which the seller can buy and deliver. A parallel would occur if A were to sell an automobile to B for $1500 in anticipation that automobiles would be cheaper. A would then borrow a car from an automobile company, deliver it to B and collect the $1500. Buy a similar car for $1000 if the price dropped to that point, give it to the automobile company and pocket $500 profit. Of course that sort of thing doesn't occur in the automobile business. But it used to go in the stock market.

Trade Treaty Hits Japan. CONSUMMATION of a reciprocal trade treaty with Great Britain is now virtually certain and so is the fact that its terms will be of no comfort to the Japanese.

Tariff concessions made in such treaties by the contracting nations at once become applicable to the goods of other nations, although they're made on commodities which the two signatory countries are most interested in exporting, and those which they can most expediently import from each other.

But pains are being taken to see that no provisions in the Anglo-American treaty open the way to any discernible quantity of Japanese products. Lower duties will not be stated as applying only to given items manufactured in Birmingham, Manchester or Leeds, but that's more or less the general idea. Definitions of imports upon which this country grants them will be closely restricted to British types.

The most important increases of American exports as a result of the treaty will be in wheat, barley, fruits, lumber, tobacco, canned goods and rice. The British will be shipping us, in return, more manufactured goods, primarily specialties in cotton, wool, silk and rayon and in iron and steel items.

Following the treaty with England and a supplemental treaty with Canada, the State Department and Tariff Commission expect to negotiate trade treaties with the British dominions of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

The annual cost of rust in the United States is figured at $1,000,000,000.

"Have you any idea when he will be back?"
"I don't know, sir—he went out on an eternity case."

Bill while swimming at a bathing resort, met a friend who introduced him to his wife who was in bathing. A week later Bill found himself seated opposite his friend's wife on a trolley car. He bowed. She looked puzzled for a moment and then exclaimed: "Oh, how do you do? I didn't recognize you with your clothes on."

She left the car at the next corner. A Yankee was on a walking tour in Scotland. Snow had fallen, and he was struggling along a narrow road when he met a Highlander. "I'm afraid I'm lost," he said plaintively. "Is there a reward out for ye?" asked the Highlander. "No," answered the American. "Well, ye're still lost," was the reply.

Judy: "Zeke played a mean trick on our parrot."
Anne: "What'd he do?"
Judy: "The parrot was sound asleep in its cage, so Zeke got a great big candy Easter egg and sneaked it into the cage with it. Then he woke the parrot up. The parrot took one look at this great big old egg and said: 'That's a lie!'"

The doctor's five-year-old answered the call at the door. "Is the doctor in?" inquired the caller.

"I understand," said a young woman to another, "that at your church you are having such small congregations. Is that so?"
"Yes," answered the other girl, "so small that every time the rector says 'Dearly Beloved,' you feel as if you had received a proposal."

There are poor people in the Tennessee mountains who live in such dilapidated shacks that everytime it rains they have to go and get in the sedan.

Housewife: "Come here, quick, Mandy, the baby's got something in his diaphragm."
Mandy (on the run): "Laws sakes! Bif dat don't beat all—and I jes done put it on him."

An inveterate officer came home to dinner. During the meal his wife said: "Willie tells me he caddied for you this afternoon."
"Well, do you know," said Willie's father, "I thought I'd seen that boy before."

Indignant Father: "Do you think it is fair, Bobby, after I told you there wasn't any Santa Claus, to go and tell the neighbors I laid your Easter eggs, too?"

"Mamma, may I go out and play?"
"What! With those holes in your pants?"
"No, with the girl next door."

TO GO TO AUSTIN.
Mrs. H. B. Dunagan and son, Lloyd, will return to their home at Austin tonight. Lloyd suffered injuries in a car wreck several weeks ago which enforced an extended stay in a Midland hospital.

Elimination of Jump Speeds Up Hoop Game And Swells Scores; More Substitutes Needed

Last of six articles on basketball, America's greatest indoor sport.

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD.
NEA Service Sports Writer.

The automobile industry has nothing on basketball when it comes to streamlining.

They've taken the country's biggest indoor sport and pared off all the excess baggage possible, and, as a consequence, the game, 1938 style, is a spectator's game if ever there was one.

In fact its the closest thing to perpetual motion that you'll find in the field of sports.

The most important piece of streamlining, of course, was the elimination of the center jump, the most drastic rule change the game has accepted in years.

Everything now is speeded up to a furious tempo. In the first place tests prove that since the center jump was tossed into the ash heap, anywhere from three to five minutes of actual playing time have been added to a contest.

This in turn, coupled with the greater speed, is definitely making basketball a higher scoring game.

Long Island University in its first 13 games this season, scored 830 points, or an average of 63 per contest. This represents a 14-point increase per game over last year. Clair Bee, the Blackbirds' coach, admits he has some of the deadliest sharpshooters in seasons, but also points to the elimination of the center jump as the reason for all this point collecting.

Pity The Scorekeeper.
In two games on the Pacific coast, Stanford and Southern California rolled up 215 points between them!

Many coaches, however, contend that the hardwood has been turned into a race-course, and insist that basketball is much too fast as played now.

With the center jump gone, the ball is taken out of bounds by the team scored upon and immediately tossed by into play. In most cases this has meant a mad scramble back up the floor for both offensive and defensive players.

team physician, has studied pulse rates since the start of the season and finds the heart beat of most players rises to 108 a minute... in one extreme case it went to 144. Normally it is 60 to 90. These tests are not conclusive of anything definite, but he does believe that experiments under the old playing rules would produce an interesting contrast.

Dr. Hobart goes on record as saying that basketball under present conditions is a test of speed and stamina rather than skill as it was meant to be.

Good Reserves Best Remedy.
Doug Mills, youthful Illinois coach, and George Keogan of Notre Dame, agree that a terrific premium is being placed on stamina, but claim a good check against permanent ill effects would be for every team to be equipped with plenty of good reserves.

Very idealistic, other mentors answer, but what about a club whose reserve strength is woefully weak? Every move a player makes in 1938 seems to have been speeded up. The fast break never before has been so fast. Clever ball-handling forwards are whipping around faster in the pivot with one-handed shots that are becoming almost stock equipment. There just doesn't seem to be time to get set for the old squat-and-shoot style of play. Greatest alarm over this dizzy tempo is being evidenced in high school competition. Many districts have brought back the center jump for the prep school game, claiming that 17-year-old hearts, lungs and legs just aren't built to stand the gaff.

The keynote in 1938 is on speed, all right, and the faster the better is the spectator's chant.

Your Income Tax
No. 7 Duplicate Returns
Every person (except nonresident alien individuals, nonresident alien fiduciaries, nonresident foreign partnerships, and nonresident foreign corporations) required to file an income return for a taxable year (calendar year 1937 or a fiscal year ending the last day of any month in 1937 other than December) or for any taxable period in 1937, must file with the return a copy thereof on the duplicate form (green paper), which will be provided for that purpose, or a photostatic or photographic copy of the original return of no larger dimensions than the original return. Such copy must be a complete duplicate of the return except that the affidavits on the duplicate form need not be filled in. The copy on the duplicate form must also include any schedules and statements attached to the original return except (1) schedule C-1 (information to be furnished by corporations as to compensation of officers and employees in excess of $5,000), (2) in the case of a fiduciary return the copy of the will or trust instrument, (3) in the case of a return made by an agent the power of attorney on Form 935 or Form 936, and (4) in the case of an insurance company the copy of the annual statement made to the state insurance department.

Any person who fails to file such copy at the time required shall be assessed $5 in the case of an individual or $10 in the case of a fiduciary, partnership, or corporation return, and the collector with whom the return is filed shall prepare such copy.

In accordance with the statute above mentioned, within a reasonable time after the returns are filed, the copies thereof will be made available for inspection in the office of the collector of internal revenue in which the returns are filed, by any official, body, or commission lawfully charged with the administration of any state tax law, if the inspection is for the purpose of such administration or for the purpose of obtaining information to be furnished to local taxing authorities. The law provides that the inspection shall be permitted only upon written request of the governor of such state, designating the representative of such official, body, or commission to make the inspection on behalf of such official, body, or commission. The statute does not authorize inspection of the duplicate returns by the public.

Inspection of returns is governed by subdivisions (a) of section 55, which provides, in effect, that income returns made under the Revenue Act of 1936 shall be open to public inspection only to the extent expressly provided by law or as authorized in regulations approved by the President, and this provision is similar to the provisions of preceding revenue acts. Under existing law and the regulations approved by the President, income returns are not open to inspection by the general public.

'Tarleton Boys' Aid Texas Against The Bears Tonight

AUSTIN.—Two new faces will be in the Texas Longhorns' starting lineup when they meet the undefeated Baylor Bears at Waco Friday.

A cautious observer would not bank too heavily on the Longhorns' apparently improved offense, however, as the Swedes were much weaker than in former years.

Elmer Finley, lanky, agile Meadow youth who scored 17 points against the Swedes, and Oran Spears, husky guard who played well despite an injured ankle, are the two sophomores Coach Gray probably will shove against the Bears.

Gray's days—and nights—are filled with foreboding this week as he realizes another skirmish with the best Kirkpatrick is at hand. The towering Baylor center scored 19 points as the Bears defeated Texas here recently, 51-45. When Big Hub fired through 35 points against T. C. U. Tuesday, breaking Gray's own Southwest conference record of 32, the news didn't serve to ease Jack's mind.

Tate, the tallest Longhorn, having already failed to halt Kirkpatrick, Gray may put Spears on him. But Spears, inexperienced in conference play, would have to give away in addition a full three-inch height advantage.

Near the Rhine frontier, in the passes through the Jura mountains and in the Alps on the southern border, chains of small fortified works are being constructed. To man these, Swiss citizens, living in their immediate neighborhood, are being specially trained as frontier defense brigades so that they can be mobilized within a few hours.

Secret Defenses Are Rumored. Defensive devices that are not officially reported, but rumored, are:

Devices whereby, when necessary any bridge in Switzerland may be instantly blown up by electricity. Iron gates, let into all main roads, which can be lifted by machinery in front of an invading army, blocking the path of armored cars and even of light tanks.

Plan to Arouse Meat Interest Undertaken By Packer-Institute. With current meat prices substantially below peak levels of last fall, quality greatly improved and meat production definitely expanding, the entire meat trade of the United States has launched an intensive campaign to arouse consumer interest in meat, according to E. M. Purdy of Abilene, district chairman of the Institute of American Meat Packers. The campaign is part of a national mobilization of effort undertaken by the Institute to create greater interest in the present attractive prices of all meats, he said. "This campaign," Purdy said, "has been undertaken primarily to aid the livestock producer, who, at the current livestock prices, is facing severe losses in many cases. Some cattle feeders, for example, are sustaining losses estimated as high as $40 per head. Lamb feeders say they are not receiving the cost of production, and hog prices have declined drastically since September. "With the harvesting of crops of livestock food has production of meat has substantially. Livestock have been rapidly converted into livestock of imity, and sending them with the result that available to the consumer a full supply of quality, attractive prices. "The meat trade has under the leadership of the Institute of American Meat Packers, fully to acquaint the public with this situation. "Meat is a delicious wholesome food. It is around which the American diet is planned. It is rich in elements needed in the diet for growing children, and is most valuable in supplying health sustaining elements needed by persons of all ages. Doctors will tell you that meat is among the most easily and thoroughly digested of all foods and it gives full nutritive value with each delicious morsel. "More plentiful supplies of pork and of better grades of beef have relegated to history the meat shortage of last September, and present meat prices are much lower than they were then, Purdy said.
