Sally Wows 'Em

Dancing unclad (except for a bubble) before a night club audience is nothing compared to the apprehension of appearing fully clothed (and very demurely, too) before a group of Harvard freshmen—that's the opinion of Sally Rand, shown above as she told the Class of 1941 "How to Be Intelligent, Though Educated." Sally tried on every dress in her wardrobe before choosing the chaste white gown in which she is pictured.

Hitler Ends Visit With Mussolini

Reichsfuehrer on Trip Home After Meeting With Duce

FLORENCE, Italy, May 9, (P).—Adolf Hitler, homebound from his triumphant visit to Rome, arrived here today for a hasty survey of Florence's renaissance beauty. Premier Mussolini who preceded Hitler to Florence after bidding him farewell in Rome, was on the station platform to welcome him here. A bargain to divide Central Europe and the Balkans into Italo-German spheres of influence appeared last night to be the major outcome of Adolf Hitler's $30,000,000 visit to Italy. This was indicated strongly by high Fascist quarters as the Fuehrer spent his final day here watching the Italian air force display its knowledge of how to make war from the skies. King Vittorio Emanuel and Premier Mussolini accompanied their guest to the Tyrrhenian coast where two 23,000-ton condemned merchantmen were sunk off Furbara and tons of bombs were dropped in a mock battle in which 400 airplanes took part. A few miles away, at Santa Marinella, a valley was torn to pieces in a demonstration of various forms of shelling. The warplane maneuvers rounded out the exhibition of Italy's armed might for the Fuehrer.

Death—or Blindness—for Baby

President Back On the Job As Vacation Ends

WASHINGTON, May 9 (P).—President Roosevelt returned to the capital today refreshed and tanned after a nine-day vacation cruise in the South Atlantic and Caribbean. The president later held a conference with congressional leaders. Representative Rayburn, Texas, said the whole congressional situation was gone over with the president. Rayburn said he thought adjournment may be reached by June 1.

Smashing Victory Over Guerrillas Reported by Japs

SHANGHAI, May 9 (P).—Japanese military authorities Sunday reported a smashing victory over a Chinese guerrilla force participating in an apparently coordinated effort to break Japan's hold on North China. The victory was announced by the Japanese while the embattled defenders themselves received welcome news that Kweichow and Yunnan provinces heretofore relatively indifferent to war, had lined up their vast area and resources in support of the Chinese cause. The Japanese said reinforcements crushed the Chinese guerrillas who had attempted to cut off Nantun-chow, important supply base for 10,000 Japanese fighters. The town is 60 miles north of Shanghai on the Yangtze River. (At Peiping, Japanese held North China city, all gates were reopened after having been closed when reports circulated that 13,000 Chinese irregulars were in the vicinity. (Although no guerrillas were to be found just outside the city where they had been reported in great numbers, apprehension persisted in Peiping. The irregulars were known to be in possession of some towns less than 20 miles away.) Japanese authorities said the victory at Nantun-chow relieved danger which had threatened a Japanese column moving north through Kiangsu province. This column is aiming at the Lunghai railway from the south in an attempt to break the four-month stalemate to the west, where the Japanese have failed to penetrate the Lunghai zone. A deadlock continued on the northern and southern sections of the Tientsin-Pukow railway despite steadily increasing force on both sides. The Japanese are expected to change materially the war map in those areas. Foreign observers brought first-hand information from southwest China that Kweichow and Yunnan, with a combined population of at least 20,000,000 had started a Herculean effort to pour men and machinery into the "war unto death" against Japan.

Shell's Discovery In Yoakum Shut In Awaiting Gauge

BY FRANK GARDNER. Northwestern Yoakum's new discovery producer, the Shell Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Mrs. Dora Roberts, this morning was shut in for storage after flowing 132 barrels of oil, five per cent basic sediment and water, in six and one-half hours while unloading the following second acid treatment, with 5,000 gallons. After the first treatment, with 3,000 gallons, it had flowed 155 barrels in five hours, part of which represented oil, one-half of one per cent basic sediment and no water, on a two-hour test. The second acid treatment will be taken when storage has been cleared. The discovery, located 2,310 feet from the south and east lines of section 793, block D, J. H. Gibson survey, is over four miles west of the Denver pool. It is bottomed at 5,100 feet in line. Another new Shell strike, the No. 1 C. A. Dowden, section 894, block D, flowed 464 barrels the first 17 hours of potential test, bottomed at 5,040. It extends the Denver pool a half-mile west. Dalmot Test Deepening. Deepening from 4,783, present depth, to 4,950 was to start today in Finley & Cherry and Sawyer Drilling Company No. 1 Paul W. Dalmot, southern Gaines wildcat four and a half miles northwest of the discovery in the Kirk area. At 4,783 it had bailed sulphur water, with fluid level remaining 60 feet from bottom during 10 hours of steady bailing. The well had been shot with 250 quarts Landreth No. 1 Dalmot, three miles to the southeast, is drilling ahead from 4,741 feet, using standard tools. It drilled plug from 7-inch casing with rotary. Blackstock Oil Company No. 1 York & Harper-A. L. Wason, in the northwest Gaines pool, is drilling at 4,890 in line, showing oil and gas. It was slated to set 7-inch pipe after reaching 4,900. The well is slightly over a mile northeast of M. B. K. No. 1 Wason, completed last Saturday for potential of 1,710.84 barrels a day after 9,000 gallons of acid at 4,976. J. Lewis Frick and Osage Drilling Company No. 1 Atlantic-T. S. Riley, prospect four miles northwest of the Seminole pool in central Gaines, is drilling at 4,260 feet in anhydrite. Accidents in Traffic Take Lives of 13

Three Suicides Are Reported in Dallas During Three Days

DALLAS, May 9 (P).—Twenty-one Texas persons died by violence during the week-end, 13 of them in traffic accidents. Three suicides were reported in Dallas. Lightning killed a farmer near Terrell; another man died in a fall at Galveston and three persons drowned. Four Dallasites were killed when their automobile was struck by a Texas and Pacific passenger train. The dead were Mr. and Mrs. James Deloach, son Billy, and Mrs. M. B. Deloach, Deloach's mother. The automobile, which was demolished, was tossed into the air about as high as the top of the locomotive, witnesses said. The victims, all of whom were badly crushed, apparently died almost instantly. They were on their way to an airport, where Deloach planned to take an airplane ride, at the time of the crash. Investigators said Deloach apparently did not see the train until he was on the tracks. The car was moving only about ten miles an hour and trainmen said the train also was moving slowly. J. W. Martin, 22, and O. L. Cox, 24, were killed near here early today when their automobile crashed into a bridge and burned. Charlie William Marion Wood, 22, was fatally injured while his brother, Chester, escaped with minor cuts and bruises in an automobile collision in Ballinger yesterday afternoon.

Jerry Sadler, Longview attorney who is running for Railroad Commissioner of Texas on an anti-monopoly and "anti-inequality" platform, told Midland county citizens in an address here Monday that their county has no one to represent them on the force of the Railroad Commission. "While my home county of Gregg has 18 persons employed by the Commission among its army of agents, your county has not a single one," Sadler said.

Most of these yearlings were bought as calves last fall from ranchmen near Midland. Pittman received from Bill Kelton of Midland two loads of short steer yearlings, also shipping them to Hereford grass. Frank Cowden delivered to Frizell of Larned, Kas., 400 head of steer yearlings and 100 head of heifer yearlings, shipping them to Kansas.

The "Toreador Song" from "Carmen" (Bize) was one of the features of the program. Other numbers included "The Prayer" with violin obligato from "Cavalliera Rusticana" by Leon-Cavallo, "Villa" from Friul's "Merry Widow" the "Italian Staget Song," "Billy Boy" and "A Merry Life," both folk songs, two trio selections, and a number by the sextet.

Death or Blindness to Be Decided by Jury for Baby

CHICAGO, May 9 (P).—A council of medical specialists decided today an immediate operation should be performed on baby Helaine Colan, whose parents faced a dilemma of letting her live in at least partial blindness or die eventually of a cancerous tumor. The decision was announced after experts met with the infant's father, Dr. Herman Colan, dentist. The council recommended the operation be performed on the left eye to arrest glioma threatening the baby's life. CHICAGO, May 9 (P).—A jury of 12 men-nine doctors, and three rabbis—was selected Sunday to decide the "death or blindness" dilemma confronting the family of baby Helaine Colan. Dr. Morris Hershman, the child's maternal grandfather, and attorney Samuel Hoffman, acting as the family spokesman, announced the 12 men had consented to act on the jury. They planned to meet this morning, examine the five weeks old child suffering from glioma, and decide whether to operate for removal of the eyes, use x-ray treatment in the hope of saving both sight and life or let nature take its course, which some doctors said would end in death. Dr. Hershman and Hoffman said the jury included: Dr. Maurice E. Cottle of Illinois Masonic Hospital, Dr. Sanford Gifford of Northwestern University, Dr. Max M. Kulvin of Hines Veterans' Hospital, Dr. E. V. L. Brown of Billings Hospital, Dr. Robert H. Goode and Dr. William A. Mann, Jr., all Chicago eye specialists; and Dr. Castus C. Rogers and Dr. Theodore Stone, Chicago brain specialists; Dr. Harold N. Waite, x-ray specialist, and Rabbi A. W. Abramowitz, the family's spiritual adviser; Solomon Silber, president, Chicago Hebrew Theological College, and Samuel C. Cohen of New York, executive director of the United Synagogue of America in session here. Dr. Hershman said that Baby Helaine's distraught parents, Dr. Herman Colan, 30, a dentist, and Estelle, 23, agreed to the jury plan after long hours of family consultation. He and Hoffman said Mrs. Colan has become seriously ill from the trying ordeal of trying to decide what should be done for her baby. Dr. Hershman added that if the jury decided for an operation it would be performed "immediately." The glioma affecting the baby's eyes is a cancerous growth which spreads along the optic nerves to the brain, causing death. It has destroyed the sight of Helaine's left eye and impaired that in the right. The child appeared normal until two weeks ago when Dr. Hershman detected a flaw in the left eye, subsequently diagnosed as glioma.

Joint Effort Asked By President to Improve the World

WASHINGTON, May 9, (P).—President Roosevelt looked over the troubled international scene and called Sunday for a "joint effort in constructing a new and better world order." A message from the President, who is returning to the capital from a vacation at sea, was read by Secretary of State Hull in an international broadcast on "Economic Cooperation in the Americas." Apparently referring to his administration's program of reciprocal tariff reductions, Mr. Roosevelt declared: "The government of the United States is pledged to a course of international economic cooperation and will spare no effort in loyally continuing on that course." He added: "Cooperation in the solution of economic problems offers one of the practical approaches to the task which the world must undertake. There is a general and growing realization that no nation or group of nations can enjoy prosperity and plenty when a large part of the world is in economic distress. The nations of the Western Hemisphere, the President commented are prepared to accept and act upon these conclusions, as is evidenced by the resolutions of recent inter-American conferences. "A start already has been made," he exclaimed. "Such action is an integral part of and is in entire harmony with our inter-American peace structure and the general system of inter-American cooperation." The President began his message by remarking on the fitness of sending the broadcast from the Pan-American Union building, a symbol of international cooperation. After reading the message, Secretary Hull said: "The United States is making its contribution through the policy of negotiating reciprocal trade agreements. The people and the government of the United States are determined to carry this policy vigorously forward. "It is our firm conviction that there is not in the world today a more potent force making for economic well-being everywhere, for social stability within nations, and for durable peace among nations than expanding international trade, functioning on the basis of mutual advantage, fair dealing and non-discriminatory treatment."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

The opinions expressed in this article are those of the Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and should not be construed as expressing the editorial policy of the Reporter-Telegram.

WASHINGTON, May 9 — Long experience in political war-fare might well have taught Mr. Roosevelt never to lead with his chin. If so, he forgot the lesson when he invited Mr. Henry Ford to the White House.

As a political boner, that one ranks only with the enlightenment of the "little business men" to Washington in the hope that they would give the President and his policies a pat on the back.

But almost anyone who knew the automobile man could have told the President that Ford could be counted on to cast more raspberries than roses.

The invitation was based on a supposition that Ford would feel inspired to deliver a public message full of co-operation, confidence and good cheer.

VERSIONS as to what was said at the White House conference differ. One story is that Ford commented snappily on various New Deal theories, especially those of Chairman Mariner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board.

After the luncheon and conference Ford seemed in some doubt as to just who Eccles really was.

Ford has his peculiarities. The last memorable occasion on which he visited the White House was in the early weeks of the 1929-33 depression when President Hoover summoned an array of the big men of industry and finance.

FORD sat through the conference and never said a word. But after it was all over he slipped a piece of paper to a friend among the horde of correspondents outside.

A Rotarian remarked, just before leaving Sunday, that these district conferences should be held early enough for a fed hat or late enough for a straw hat.

Miss Gwen Ollinger spent the week-end in Lubbock.

Feminine Fancies

Sometime we're of the opinion that there is some truth in the old saying about there being nothing new under the sun.

In a column of food hints recently, we were intrigued by coming across mention of "breakfast sundaes." Now as all the sundaes we're acquainted with have to do with ice cream, we wondered just how this dish had been adapted to 6 o'clock in the morning. Did we learn? Not at all.

Upon investigation, "breakfast sundaes" proved to be nothing more nor less than breakfast cereal and fruit plus cream!

How long we wonder until toast, bacon, and eggs have to be retailed to the public under a swanky name?

seem to be special seasons for the gay, informal luncheon cloth sets that can perk up the breakfast, lunch, or supper table so nicely.

Delightfully simple and cool looking are the cloths of green linen with a conventionalized design of flowers and leaves outlined in the applique manner in—of all things—white rick-rack braid. Effective also is the green rick-rack monogram on yellow linen.

And if your budget doesn't run to linens for the more informal cloths, why not substitute plain percale or gingham or solid-color print material? All on equally good terms with rick-rack—and also with soap-suds.

This is the day of the dress which specializes in changes of appearance and duties. But we never realized how for the idea of adaptability could be carried in this way until we observed a dress with a four-way scarf.

The scarf could be taken from around the throat and tied round the waist to make an apron. Or knotted up into a sizeable bag for one's knitting or for carrying home various small purchases. Or tied on the head to hold the hair in place.

Sometimes we're of the opinion dress may be TOO practical.

Actual tests, so it is said, prove that the average woman takes about 14,000 steps a day.

Fourteen thousand steps daily! Maybe feet have a right to develop fallen arches, corns, and bunions when used like that. And 420,000 steps to the average month. Also, 5,040,000 steps each year. It's a wonder the average housewife isn't forced to use crutches.

CARDINALS TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER FROM CLOVIS PIONEERS SUN.

PAIR OF INDIAN HURLERS CAPTURE THE TWO BATTLES

CLOVIS, May 9, (Special). — The Midland Cardinals snapped out of a two-game losing streak by administering a sound defeat to the Clovis Pioneers in two games here Sunday afternoon, 17-10 and 7-3.

The Pioneers got off to a four run lead in the first game by scoring two runs in the first, one in the second and one in the third. The Cardinals tied up the score in the fourth when the landed on Duncan for four runs, only to see the Pioneers make one more in their half. The Red Birds made one in the first of the fifth to tie the score again but Clovis again took the lead by scoring two tallies in their half. The Texans fought right back and tied up the score with two runs in the sixth and drove Duncan from the mound in the seventh when they scored five runs and took a lead they held on to. They picked up four more in the eighth and one in the ninth to assume a victory for "Dizzy" Warren. Warren gave way to Neighbors in the seventh but got credit for his second win since joining the Cardinals.

Midland's margin of victory in the first game was provided on a home run by Brown in the fourth with three on base and a homer by Sutar in the seventh with two on.

In the second game, Franklin was complete master of the Pioneers after giving them a couple of runs in the first inning. The visitors had scored one run in the first half of the first before the home town picked up their two tallies. The Cardinals came right back in the second with two runs on three hits to take a lead they increased as the game went on. They made one more in the third, two in the fourth, one in fifth and went scoreless in the sixth and seventh. Clovis picked up their other run in the fourth.

JUST ONE RUN. BUT IT WAS ENOUGH

Zeke Bonara slides across the plate with the one and only run of the game in the 13th inning of Washington's victory over the Cleveland Indians. The big first baseman scored from third on Wright's fly to left field. The catcher is Rollie Hensley, the umpire is Quinn, while the Washington player looking on is Mel Almada.

Leonard's Knuckle Ball Makes Him Senator No. 1

By HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service. WASHINGTON, — Who is this Dutch Leonard, newest pitching star of the American League?

The old Dutch's first name was Hubert. He helped pitch the Boston Red Sox to world championships with his left arm. This Dutch's front handle is Emil, and he shuts out the Washington Nationals' opponents with his right arm.

Emil Leonard's knuckle ball, his stock in trade, is perhaps the hardest to handle in a catcher's book of trick deliveries. It flutters like a wounded bird, breaks sharply for as much as two feet, sometimes.

While Leonard was matching Bob Feller's three-hit performance for 10 innings here the other afternoon, and going on to slam the door in the faces of the Cleveland Indians, 1-0, in 13, Riek Ferrell hopped around in back of the plate like a hen on a hot griddle.

Ferrell says that he expects a fistful of mangled fingers every time he calls for the dippy-doodle ball. Leonard throws it often, and batters usually pop it up. Hitters and catchers don't know which way it is going to break. Leonard has developed two speeds on the thing . . . slow and not slow.

Pet Pitch Isn't Knuckler at All. Actually, Leonard's pet pitch isn't a knuckler at all. He doesn't hold the ball by his knuckles, like Fred Fitzsimmons and as did Eddie Rommel.

Leonard digs his first two fingers into the ball as hard as he can. He must have his nails manicured and develop callous on his finger tips before the season gets under way.

Leonard hints that he believes the secret of his release by Brooklyn, after he had spent 1934 and '35 in Flatbush, was that the catchers were just plumb afraid of his peculiar pitch.

Leonard heard a Dodger coach tell about the great knuckle ball pitchers who used to have in the big leagues. He talked so glowingly about them that Leonard suddenly remembered he had pitched a knuckle ball on sandlots as a kid. Leonard started to throw the knuckler, but quit when Al Lopez and other Brooklyn backstops complained to Casey Stengel that he couldn't control it.

Emil says that he always has believed that Lopez squawked because he couldn't hold the knuckler. It makes a catcher look especially bad with men on base.

groups of 20 strands each and fastened one end to a swivel on an automobile. The other end of each strand was fastened to an automobile crank. Three cranks were then placed equidistant from the swivel and about a foot and a half apart.

The cranks were turned individually until the 20 strands in each group were tightly braided, then a board was fixed on the three cranks so all could be turned simultaneously to braid the three groups together. Two automobiles were fastened together at the end of the rope held by the swivel. Each was in gear and the brakes set. Mitchell twisted the three cranks until the rope pulled the cars backward 40 feet. "By twisting the rope that hard," he said, "it remained twisted after all pressure was released."

TO SPEAK ON SAFETY. George Walker, high school student, will speak on "Safety on the Streets" at the regular Monday safety broadcast to be sponsored by the safety council over station KRLH this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock.

Emil (Dutch) Leonard

He's extremely simple in his speech, and takes the game vastly more seriously than any other man on the Washington and a lot of other clubs. He's 29 years old, married, and still makes his home at Auburn, Ill., where he was born. There are no little Leonards.

Hard Luck Has Followed Leonard like a faithful hound. Injuries, gall bladder operations, and just plain tough breaks have all conspired to lay him low. Even now, although he's the best pitcher on the Washington club, his mates can't seem to hit him.

He has yielded only one earned run in the last 19 innings. He has pitched 17 scoreless rounds with his streak as yet unbroken. He shut out the Athletics before starting against Cleveland in the most dramatic game of the young season.

Clark Griffith took Leonard at the $7500 draft price on the belief that any guy who could win 15 games for Atlanta before hurting his arm was worth inspection. And Leonard quickly convinced the Old Fox that something more than a stiff neck can be picked up in a draft.

Washington Drafts New Star for $7500. Leonard bagged 14 games for Brooklyn in '34 and remained on the banks of the Gowanus in '35. He spent the past two campaigns in Atlanta, where last season he won 15 and lost 8, striking out 68, and passing only 34 in 188 innings before injuring his arm.

In four starts this spring, Leonard has yielded 26 hits in 36 innings. He walked seven batters, none in the last 19 rounds, so it is plain that his control is as near perfect as possible, despite all his stuff.

He has yielded only one earned run in the last 19 innings. He has pitched 17 scoreless rounds with his streak as yet unbroken. He shut out the Athletics before starting against Cleveland in the most dramatic game of the young season.

Driving to Victory In Kentucky Derby

Lawrin, bay colt owned by Herbert C. Woolf of Kansas City, Mo., win ning the 64th Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs after coming from behind in a stretch drive. A length behind him is Dauber, while Can't Wait is third. Although his time was slow, 2:04 4/5 for the mile and a quarter, Lawrin ran a strong race under Eddie Acaro's expert handling.

DUCKING A DUSTER

This remarkable action picture is something in the way of an argument for batters' helmets. The apparent proximity of the pitcher is due to the unusual camera focus. The shot was taken through the screen from the grandstand. Note the ball as Center Fielder Ducky Holmes of Binghamton barely gets his head out of Pete Naktens's first pitch in an Eastern League game in Albany. Holmes walked, but Naktens evidently succeeded in convincing the Triplets that it didn't pay to take too firm a toe-hold. The southpaw shut out his former mates with three hits, 3-0.

Farmer Reaches a High in Economy

CHANNING (P).—W. L. Mitchell, Hartley county farmer near Dalhart, has reached a new high in farm economy, County Agent J. S. Coleman believes. Using three balls of binder twine left from last fall's row crop harvest, Mitchell made a 280-foot rope with which to pull pipe from his well. The cost was $2.50 whereas the purchase price of the rope would have been $8, Coleman said. Mitchell cut 60 strands of twine 320 feet long, put them in three Refused permission to testify at the Senate lobby committee's investigation of his magazine, Rural Progress, Dr. Glenn Frank, top chairman of the Republican program committee, accused Chairman Minton (D., Ind.), lower right, of using his authority "to harass and intimidate" any newspaper or magazine criticizing the New Deal. The controversy arose as the committee questioned M. V. Reynolds, lower left, vice president of the publication.

Snake Bites Are Warned Against

AUSTIN.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, urges everyone to be careful to prevent snake bites when in the country. In Texas the chief offender is the rattlesnake, and, contrary to common belief, it does not always rattle before it strikes.
About seventy-five per cent of all bites occur on the lower extremities and do not get prevented, to a large extent, by wearing high top boots or leggings. About twenty per cent occur on the hands and arms. Care should be exercised in not putting the hands in invisible places when climbing rocks, and to look before picking up anything that may be obscured by vegetation, brush or rocks.
If one is bitten, prompt action is necessary and a physician should be obtained as soon as possible. No time should be lost in removing the poison by suction; this can be done by a suction cup. First, a tourniquet should be applied above the wound, so as to increase congestion and assist in washing out the poison. A cross cut incision with a sharp, clean knife or razor blade should be made over each fang mark, or preferably to connect the two fang punctures. These cuts should be at least a quarter of an inch deep and at least that long. Suction should be applied for at least a half hour. The tourniquet should be released every ten or fifteen minutes for a minute at a time.
If bitten by a snake, do not run or get overheated; do not take alcoholic stimulants; do not use potassium permanganate (which is now known to be of no value as an

Child Movie Stars are Growing Up

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
HOLLYWOOD.—Two years ago Bonita Granville was the hell-child of Hollywood, a malevolent little meemie extravagantly praised for her evil deeds in "These Three." The picture lifted her at once to the top rank of character players, and she has remained there ever since by dint of more villainy and an occasional venture into sweetness and light.
"But now," wailed Miss Granville, "I'm 15. It's the most unattractive age in the world! Oh, it is, but definitely. Last year I was a little girl, and next year I'll be an ingenue. But what am I today?"
Sitting there in her dressing room and watching her readying her makeup and long golden hair for the next scene, anybody could have told Miss Granville what she is today—a very attractive, if very young, woman. Put her into adult clothes and hair-dress, and higher heels, and she could play a college senior.
Nor could you guess her age by listening to her talk. Most movie youngsters are conversationally sure of themselves, but Bonita is a veteran with the confidence of seven years of picture-making and three years on the stage. Apparently she is one of the very rare child actresses who are able to progress from juvenile to adult roles without a break.
Under her Warner Brothers' contract and frequent loan-outs to other studios, she has been very busy, with a total of three weeks off in eight months. "I don't mind, really," she said. "But I would like to get in a little more swimming."
"Pretty soon I'm going to start a series of pictures—the Nancy Drew stories. They're about a girl of my age who's the daughter of a famous lawyer. She gets into adventures and becomes an amateur detective and solves a lot of cases. They're good movie stuff, and series are awfully popular these days. And I'll be featured in them, which is something.

Bonita Granville
One of the more beautiful "child" actresses, Bonita Granville, above, doesn't care whether she does comedy or drama, as long as the parts are sufficiently "substantial."

stand for it.
Keeping Up Studies.
"No, I have no dates," she said. "Of course I go to parties, and some grown-up parties, and I like to dance. I have two groups of friends and one of them is from my Hollywood high school days and they're not in pictures."
Miss Granville will get a high school diploma next year, but expects to go on studying languages and literature and history under instructors at the studio school.
She already has had five years of French, and, incidentally, five years of dancing and five years of piano instruction. Now she wants to study voice and designing. She already designs most of her own clothes and has a good deal to say about her movie wardrobes.
Five feet one-half inch tall, without heels, Bonita is anxious to grow another inch so that she can wear clothes more smartly. For years she has been stretching every day, trying to grow faster.
No Longer "Typed."
Before Samuel Goldwyn cast her as the sly, lying little poisoner of other people's lives in "These Three," early in 1936, Bonita had played a lot of ordinary, little-girl roles and was wondering whether she'd ever have a chance to act for an emotional display that seldom comes to youngsters of 13, and for a year thereafter she was in demand for similar roles, some of which were especially written into stories for her.
Lately, though, her parts have been more or less alternately sympathetic and heavy. Her current part in "In Every Woman's Life" isn't much of anything—just a fill-in assignment until the Nancy Drew series is ready for her.
Her favorite actress is Bette Davis, who also has done very well in vixen parts. "There's nobody, though, that I particularly want to be like," Miss Granville said. "And I don't care much whether I do comedy or drama, so long as the parts are substantial. That's when acting's fun."

A Kaiser Loses Her Castle

Screaming and wriggling in defiance, but helpless in the arms of two bailiffs, Miss Augusta Kaiser, 83-year-old Akron, O., spinster, was evicted from her ancestral mansion as shown above. The daughter of a pioneer Akron merchant Miss Kaiser claims that she was duped into signing a transfer of the estate in 1936.

Research 'Lab' Asked for Texas

AUSTIN.—In an effort to discover new uses for Texas cotton and to promote its increased use in this country, the Texas planning board today urged Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace to locate one of four proposed research laboratories in Texas.
In its brief to Wallace, the planning board pointed out that Texas, because of its size, population, livestock and agriculture background, diversity of products, variety of climate, transportation facilities, power development, fuel supplies, water conservation plans, and more especially on account of its immense production of cotton and other agricultural products, presents an unusual opportunity for agricultural research.
The board also called Wallace's attention to the fact that Texas exports nine out of every 10 bales of cotton produced within its borders and that loss of foreign outlets imposes hardship upon every cotton farmer, upon the agencies of transportation which haul it to the state's numerous deep water ports and upon those thousands of families whose livelihood comes from the great cotton exporting industry.

Unless new domestic outlets for Texas cotton are found, the planning board believes the state will suffer a serious economic upheaval and face social problems of utmost gravity.
