9 Missing As Airliner Disappears

New Transport Ship Thought Wrecked in Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES, May 17. (AP).—Nine aerial travelers, including two children, were missing today in a new $80,000 transport plane which vanished yesterday in the fog-topped Sierra Madre range less than 50 miles from Los Angeles.

Bound for Saint Paul, the plane left here at 1:40 yesterday afternoon. A company official said there was a scant hope the plane had made a forced landing in the desert.

Aboard were pilot Sidney Willey, Fred Whittemore, St. Paul; Henry Salisbury, St. Paul; Northwest Airlines official, his wife and two children; Mrs. Carl Squier, Lolla Totty, Glendale, Calif., and Evelyn Dingle.

A "Cotton Research Laboratory Expedition" of Texas cotton farmers and representatives of all allied cotton industries will leave Texas for Washington on Saturday, May 28, to present to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace a brief setting forth reasons why Texas should be the site of the contemplated cotton research laboratory, it was announced Monday by Burris C. Jackson, chairman of State-wide Cotton Committee of Texas.

Definite decision for trip was made Saturday in Dallas at meeting of sub-committee preparing final brief composed of Experiment Station Director A. R. Conner, Bureau of Business Research Director A. B. Cox; Texas Tech Textile Head, M. E. Heard; Dallas News Agricultural Editor Victor H. Schoffelmayer; Etxe Chamber Agricultural Director Elmore R. Torn.

The famous Scout executive, head of the National Court of Honor, is shown here as he talked to a group of admiring Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs who gathered around him at a session of 536 Local Scout Councils assembled in Cleveland to discuss plans to broaden the scope of the movement.

Monahans School Students Go on Strike After Superintendent Lang Dismissed

MONAHANS, May 17. (AP).—Three hundred striking high school students paraded through this West Texas town and picketed the business establishments of two school trustees Monday after the superintendent of schools, Major A. E. Lang, had been relieved of his duties effective May 24.

B. F. Roche, school board member, called the strike "just a good excuse for the pupils to get out of school for a day."

Trustees of the Monahans-Wickett consolidated independent school district took the action regarding Lang at a session that lasted from 8 p. m. Saturday until 4 a. m. Sunday. Lang, who has been here four years, held a contract with the board which does not expire until

Farley Acts To Ease Fuss In Election

CIO Candidate Is Endorsed on Eve Of The Primary

PHILADELPHIA, May 17. (AP).—Heavy balloting developed today as Pennsylvanians voted in a primary that capped bitter battles for party control and marked the major political test of power for John L. Lewis and his CIO.

In Philadelphia some charges of fraud were heard. Elsewhere verbal squabbles were reported in scattered precincts.

John Kelly, Philadelphia democratic chairman, said nationally chairman James Farley's endorsement of two candidates "isn't having any effect in Philadelphia."

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The democratic party's high command stepped into Pennsylvania's New Deal factional war Monday in an election-eve move for harmony.

From both sides came reports decriing "interference."

National Chairman James A. Farley, fearful that wounds of the slashing campaign would hurt the party's chances in the November general election, proposed a fusion slate of one major candidate from each faction.

One upshot was new emphasis upon the role of Labor Leader John L. Lewis, whose political power receives a test in today's primary balloting.

Farley made his plea in a statement from New York.

"The only solution," he said, is to nominate CIO-backed Thomas Kennedy for governor and Gov. George H. Earle for senator. They lead opposing slates.

Farley's proposal, in effect, was to sacrifice Philadelphia's Mayor S. Davis Wilson, running for the senate nomination on Kennedy's slate, and Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination with Earle.

Earle quickly condemned Farley's interference and reaffirmed support of his ticket, mate, Jones, and fired a blast at CIO Chief Lewis who, with Senator Joseph F. Guffey, is backing the Kennedy-Wilson lineup.

"When asserted Farley's statement would be 'resented,' he cried 'double cross.'"

Said Earle:

"I regret that Mr. Farley has unwisely seen fit to come in at the eleventh hour and interfere in a purely local primary. That is not the function of a national chairman."

Every man on this ticket is a 100 per cent Roosevelt democrat.

"I am certain—Mr. Farley to the contrary—that the democrats of Pennsylvania will not turn their party over to John L. Lewis in the form of Thomas Kennedy."

Battling both factions is Charles J. Margiotti, independently running for the democratic nomination for governor on a "beat-the-bosses" platform.

Republicans, though warring among themselves for major nomination, aimed their guns in the general direction of the November fight with the democrats who took over the state government in 1934 after more than 40 years as a strictly minority party.

Disney Votes 30-Day Spree Under Girl Mayor

For 30 days the boom town of Disney, Okla., will make all the whoopee it can, then it will stop having fun for 30 days under a rigid set of blue laws administered by Mrs. Vera Silar. Then an election will decide which way the citizenry wants to behave. Getting a jump on the law-and-order lovers, the let-joy-be-unconfined element elected Miss Billy Baker, former cowgirl, mayor on a "wide open" platform and gave the whoopee administration first chance to win backing. An ardent booster for Disney, which sprung up at the site of a $20,000,000 WPA dam project on Grand River, Miss Baker had this to say: "We'll be the best town by a damsite." In the photo at left, Miss Baker, left, and her defeated opponent, Mrs. Silar, reconcile their differences. The pictures at right illustrate the extreme between which Disney must choose. ## Grady Bell Hangs Self In Odessa

Funeral Services Being Held Today For Midland Man

Grady Bell, 49, a resident of Midland for approximately three years, head of the West Texas Insurance agency here, was found dead in a cell in the Ector county jail, where he had been placed earlier, at 10:45 last night by Night Officer Claude Herron, reports from Odessa said.

Justice of the Peace J. B. Crowley this morning declared Bell's death was caused by suicide. When found, he was hanging by his neck, and had been tied around his neck, and tied over top bars of the cell.

Bell was placed in the jail early last night and reportedly was to be charged with drunkenness this morning. Officer Bill Jones was reported to have said that Bell asked him last night at about 10:30 to manage a hearing for him, and when Herron passed the cell 15 minutes later he discovered Bell's body.

Bell apparently made an effort to use his tie in taking his life before he used the belt. His tie, broken in two, was found in the cell. He was in a cell by himself at the time and no other prisoners were within sight of him, officers reported. They declared Bell climbed upon some plumbing fixtures, tied the belt to the top bars of the cell, placed the belt around his neck and leaped, causing his neck to fracture. Death followed immediately.

Funeral services were being held at four o'clock this afternoon at the Hendrix funeral parlor in Odessa for Bell. Reverend Olliff of Wink was in charge. Interment rites were to be held in Odessa.

Born in Archer county in 1889, Bell had spent most of his life in West Texas. He formerly was secretary of the Odessa chamber of commerce before moving to Midland.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen Bell, of Midland; and his mother, Mrs. G. B. Bell, a sister, Mrs. J. C. Wright, a brother, H. H. (Lonnie) Bell, all of Odessa.

Founder of Wheat Oil Field Succumbs

PECOS, May 17.—James J. Wheat, 68, prominently identified with the Texas oil industry for the past 35 years, died in a local hospital Monday. He suffered a nervous breakdown three weeks ago and had been critically ill since.

Mr. Wheat was the discoverer of the first oil well in Loving county and the founder of the county seat and only town, Mentone, in Loving county, the last county to be formed in Texas. The oil field near Mentone, which bears his name, was for a number of years the largest producing field in West Texas.

Two sons, Jim and Woodrow, and one daughter, Mrs. Bob Moorhead, survive. His wife died about five years ago.

Funeral rites for Mr. Wheat will be held this afternoon at Monahans.

An irrigation expert, Mr. Wheat formerly lived in Grandfalls. In 1930 he went to Loving county and established the town of Mentone, purchasing 7,000 acres of flat land. When he announced his intentions of drilling for oil on the land, geologists were amused. There was no oil under the land, they said. But Mr. Wheat went ahead, and discovered it. He saw the field develop into one of the most important in this section of the state.

Midland's Junior-Sized Postoffice.

A look at government appropriations for new post-offices in smaller towns of Texas reveals that Midland got its federal building too soon. The allotment of approximately $60,000, and the resultant edifice which, before completion, was at least one-third too small, shows that Midland citizens must have been asleep to the possibilities for securing an adequate postoffice structure.

Most any town now is good for an appropriation of $75,000, according to a list published recently. Odessa was given such an allotment but, on protest and explanation of citizens, secured promise of an additional $55,000. Odessa may have profited by Midland's mistake, but the $130,000 edifice, twice the amount spent for the benefit of Midland's mail customers, will more adequately answer the purpose. The Ector county citizens are to be congratulated on going after their just dues.

However, there is a possibility that Midland's facilities may be augmented by erection of an addition to the present building. With the aid of Congressman R. E. Thomason, the chamber of commerce and the postmaster are working jointly on information to be submitted to the postoffice department to show that the present office is vastly inadequate. When occasion arises, Midland civic leaders and the citizens in general should stand ready to beseech the government for sufficient funds to provide adequate mail accommodations.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this article are those of Mr. Dutcher, NEA-Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and are not to be construed as expressing the editorial policy of The Reporter-Telegram.

By RODNEY DUTCHER, Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON—Among other depression results is a partial revision of the theory, previously held almost unanimously by politicians, that Herbert Hoover wouldn't have the ghost of a chance of being the next Republican nominee for President.

As the "Roosevelt depression" drags along, many Republicans, although they still remember the "Hoover depression" vividly, aren't as convinced as they were that their last President would be the worst possible candidate in 1940. This fact is not due to any inspirational quality of Mr. Hoover's latest 11-point "recovery" platform, which has caused no large ripple.

Nor can it be said, despite the former President's desire to vindicate himself with a second White House term, that there is any actual boom in Hoover stock. The man's chances have improved somewhat from zero. Or, if you felt he was a 100-to-1 shot a year ago, you might say he was a 50-to-1 shot now. Odds against Hoover may continue to shorten. He is still in virtual control of the Republican party machinery.

Berry Bustup.
Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee, heretofore a loyal and obedient administration servant, has flailed out at the new spending-lending program. This means George and the administration have busted up. The White House decided not to help Berry get renominated, figuring that the TVA-Marble episode in which Berry figured, the senator's attempt to monkey in the federal-state-TVA-private power whirligig and the almost unanimous opinion that Berry couldn't win under any circumstances added up to a heavier load than it wanted to carry.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson is a guest in nearly all local doghouses since other members of the Interdepartmental Committee on Civil Aviation (representing Commerce, War, Navy, Postoffice, Treasury and one or two more departments) discovered Johnson was plugging for a one-man commission to regulate aviation with the idea that he would be chairman.

Assistant Postmaster General Harlee Branch and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson prominently wrecked J. Monroe's chances beyond repair. The aviation industry helped them. There will be a five-man commission, as desired by the Senate, or a threeman board, as favored by the House.

Johnson once achieved fame before a congressional committee when, asked what he knew about the merchant marine—over which he had supervision—he replied "I can handle a small boat as well as any man in this room."

A 'Return' From the Grave

The reunion shown in the top picture brought delirious joy to the Raymond Fiore family of Masontown, Pa., but to curious townspeople it also brought a tantalizing puzzle. When 15-year-old Donald Fiore, pictured with his mother, walked into his home after a two-year absence, Masontown citizens began wondering whom they had buried in the grave shown in the lower picture. About a year ago Mrs. Fiore identified a youth shot to death during a "kissing game" at Olive Hill, Ky., as her runaway son Donald and brought the body back to Masontown for burial.

Dine or Dance

(From Bonwit Teller, New York)

A COOL-LOOKING and utterly feminine gown with navy organza skirt and white embroidered top is just the thing for dining and dancing at the country club or on a hotel roof during summer months. The high pointed waistline of the skirt, the delicate floral design of the bodice, and the up-swept coiffure combine to present a picture that is distinctly summer 1938. This was shown at a fashion-show luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton.

Miss Freddie Lou Barber, bride-elect of Clyde Pate, was honored with a miscellaneous shower at a picnic meeting of the YWA Monday evening. The group assembled at the home of Marcella Strawn, 605 W. Indiana, and motored to Cloverdale where a picnic supper was spread.

Presentation of the shower gifts was made in unusual style. Packages had been heaped into a huge basket and covered with a cloth, in the guise of just another basket of picnic lunch. When Miss Barber was instructed to open the basket, she discovered numerous gifts, ranging from linens to dishes and other articles welcomed by about-to-be housewives.

Games furnished amusement for the group which included: Meses. J. L. Tidwell, Lawrence Beauchamp, Fred Barber, C. E. Strawn, the honoree and Mr. Pate, Marcella Strawn, Elton Hines, Miss Doris Tidwell, John Rhoden, Miss Daphne Shuler, Ernest Nance, Alvon Patterson, Miss Ruth Tidmore, Miss Martha Tidmore, Charles Patterson, Misses Alta Merrell, Helen Ruth Merrell, Lucille Scarborough, Mrs. Marvin Douglas, Miss Kathryn Beauchamp.

CARDS BEAT LEAGUE LEADERS IN SERIES OPENER -- SCORE: 6-4

CLUBS WILL MEET AGAIN TONIGHT; NELSON TO HURL

Once more, after losing two straight games, the Midland Cardinals came through with a victory, this time by outscoring the Wink Spudgers, 6-4, at City Park last night. Husky Hank Froschauer threw a third strike past 15 of the Spudger batters and was very prominent indeed in Midland winning.

The two clubs meet again tonight at 8:30 and Manager Withers said today he would use Frank Nelson, another right hand hurler, in an attempt to make it two straight over the league leaders.

The crowd last night wasn't anything to write home about but the weather can be blamed more than anything else. The game was held up several times by sand whipping across the diamond and only in the later innings did it approach being agreeable.

Froschauer was as "hot" as they come last night for the first six innings but he got into a little trouble in the seventh when he gave up a walk, an error put another man on base and both scored on a double by Reeves. The final two Wink tallies came in the ninth on three two-base hits.

The Cardinals got off to a one-run lead in the second inning when Ballinger led off with the first of two triples that he got during the evening and Zemek singled to send the catcher home.

The Cardinals got all the rest of their runs in the third inning when they put together four hits, a walk and an error for five tallies.

Del Ballinger led the Red Bird hitters with a double and a couple of three-ply blows and Beers, Morris and Battle each had two hits.

Scatters His Fire

Tony Lazzeri, one of the San Francisco Italian colony's contributions to the majors, obtained his training in Golden Gate Park proving ground of a number of stars. Lazzeri worked in a boiler factory even after he made the grade in the Pacific Coast League.

Lazzeri was first to hit 60 home runs and lead league in that department and stolen bases in same season--on coast in 1925.

Grover Cleveland Alexander ended the 1926 world series by striking out young Lazzeri in one of baseball's big moments.

After helping the New York Yankees to six pennants and five world championships in 12 years, Lazzeri now is an integral part of the Chicago Cubs' lead of strategy, and at the same time proving that he's far from being through as an active participant.

UTILIZATION OF STATE'S RESOURCES OF SUPREME IMPORTANCE TO CITIZENS

AUSTIN.—In an analysis of some economic aspects of Texas resources, Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer in the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas, has pointed out that the utilization of the State's resources is of supreme importance to the future development of the vast commonwealth.

"Texas and the Southwest are growing up," he said. "The outlook in anything but a troubled world would be very bright indeed. The obstacles to be overcome—and overcome they will be, even though they delay the procession—serve to curb over-confidence, and to test and to sharpen the agencies of progress. And, basically, the great agencies for the maintenance of progress have been the great experimenters in the laboratories of science; these have supplied the bases of those qualities of leadership for tackling the problems, the solution of which has brought about the potential conquest of scarcity—for they have been the spear-heads in creating new processes, in establishing new industries, in making possible the fuller utilization of natural resources, and in raising the levels of intellectual attainment.

"Contrasted with the simple patterns of economic life which obtained at the close of last century, the present situation is infinitely complex; a whole new series of problems and questions call for immediate attention. It is painfully obvious that these problems are not being solved on the old patterns of another century; nor is there any indication that the old patterns will be adequate. The solution must be attacked on the lines of research and investigation that will yield results—results that will make for a richer life of individuals and communities the country over.

"Past attainments of an economic nature, the present diverse structure of economic life, and the future promise of still greater economic development in Texas are all dependent upon the utilization of the state's natural resources. Problems of employment, income, standards of living, growth and arid distribution of population, urbanization, the development of industries and the like, all have common bases—the geography of the state and its natural resources. The varied and interrelated combinations of geography and resources give in no unmistakable manner and individuality to Texas and to its various natural subdivisions or regions. The material wealth of Texas like the wealth of the nation is based upon the resources and the degree to which their utilization is carried.

but change is the law of life, Readjustments there will be, even if we tried to stop them, by whatever means. The spread of buying power in this country can come in a substantial manner only through the expansion of geographic dispersal of industry—the progressive spread of the industrial frontier exemplified by the creation of new processes, the ever wider use of raw materials, the development of new industries, and the growth of new industrial centers.

"In this trend of expansion and enlargement Texas occupies a most advantageous position. Its vast supplies of diversified agricultural raw materials can still further be enlarged as economic circumstances warrant; its magnificent reserves of petroleum and natural gas are more than the spear-points, they are the bases of its industrial advance; its vast non-metallic resources are available to supply thousands of market outlets as the economic integration of the nation proceeds; its favorable location on and with reference to the Gulf of Mexico gives, or will give, to Texas industries commercial access to the markets of the Eastern Seaboard and to overseas markets as well. For although the oceans are the greatest of barriers they are also the greatest of highways—a fact of momentous importance to the future of Texas.

"The economy of this country is dynamic; it will continue to be. The regional economy of the nation makes necessary a high degree of economic interdependence within the country. The economic growth of any one region, if based upon substantial foundations, makes for the growth of industries, if economically justified, elsewhere in the country. These industries should awake to this fact that their future is also the future of enlarge buying power and that this enlarged buying power must permeate every community in the nation. In sum, since the economic life of the nation is necessarily interdependent, the facts and factors of progressive integration of regions and occupations which comprise our economic life must be given careful consideration.

"A new outlook on the economics of agriculture as well as on the economics of manufacturing industry is on its way, and as usual, those theorists with their eyes only on the distant past are having a difficult time to keep up with the procession."

STORY OF THE PLAY Act One The operetta is based on the legend of 'The Three Beautiful Princesses' in Washington Irving's 'Alhambra.' The three princesses are triplets, daughters of Mohamed, king of the Moors in Granada. Their mother, a Spanish lady of high degree, and a Christian, had been taken captive by Mohamed, who loved her for her beauty and married her for love. But she had died soon after the birth of her daughters, and they had been raised by Kadiga, an old Spanish nurse who had been taken captive at the same time as the queen, but who had discreetly foregone the Christian religion and become a zealous convert to the Moslem faith, thereby gaining the entire confidence of the king.
