BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

PURGE PROGRESSES

A FEDERAL district judge who does not owe his new job to senator Harry Byrd or senator Carter Glass has been appointed in Virginia. One of Senator Pat McCarran's political enemies has been named U. S. district attorney in Nevada. The federal housing administrator for Maryland, who was in Senator Millard Tydings' patronage coop, has been fired.

OBSCENE OBSERVATIONS

Federal Communications Commission has cautioned broadcasting chains at stations which in covering big news events sometimes poke microphones before spectators picked at random and ask them to express themselves.

A large western station was covering a big fire that way when one stranger interviewed by the radio audience could express himself only in combined profanity and obscenity. Asked to say what the thought of the fire, this person yelled into the mike: "She sure is one..."

Big federal jobs, especially in the states, and including even theoretically sacred judgeships, are traditionally items of political pie and it's practically unheard of to appoint a federal judge or other official without endorsement by the senator or senators belonging to the right party and representing his district.

For five year Democratic senators have had their own men appointed judges, district attorneys, postmasters, marshals, WPA administrators, and so on, and the administration has made little if any effort to discriminate in patronage between New Deal and anti-New Deal senators.

The fact that federal machinery in most states is manned by partisans who owe their jobs to incumbent senators presents a real stumbling block when Roosevelt attempts to defeat Democratic conservatives who have opposed his measures.

SENATORS FIGHT BACK

Byrd and Glass will fight the confirmation of Judge Floyd Roberts of Bristol, Va., "on the ground, among others, that the President disregarded their recommendations." They know well that Roosevelt nominated Roberts in order to aid Governor Price of Virginia—who has been breaking up the Byrd political machine and probably will run as a New Dealer for Byrd's seat in 1940—and New Deal Congressman John W. Flanagan, Jr. of Bristol, both of whom endorsed Roberts.

Similarly, McCarran knows that Roosevelt's refusal to reappoint the McCarran man who has served four years as U. S. district attorney in Nevada and his replacement of that man by an anti-McCarran Democrat were not actions taken without consideration of strong primary opposition which McCarran faces this year from Pro-Roosevelt candidates. McCarran also got the point of Roosevelt's refusal to appoint any of the three men he endorsed for the Civil Aeronautics Authority created by a law which McCarran pushed through Congress.

Whether dismissal of Maryland's FIA Administrator Henry Webb, was a "political goulting," as charged by Tydings, or due to inefficiency as claimed by FIA, cannot be decided by anyone unfamiliar with Webb's work. But few believe Webb would have been given the gate at this time if he hadn't been a Tydings man.

Weather and Work Cause Prisoners To Plan Escapes

HUNTSVILLE (P).—Weather and work conspire at this time of year to fix the thoughts of some inmates of the Texas penitentiary upon ways and means of escape.

"We expect trouble and unrest just before the cotton picking season," said General Manager Jack Ellington of the vast Texas prison system, which includes many farms in the cotton belt of hot South Texas. "The prisoners don't like to pick cotton. They hate it above all work."

The cotton picking season is at hand in South Texas and soon the convicts of the various prison farms will drop their hoes and pick up cotton sacks. Mechanical pickers have not been used on prison farms, the main idea in the prisons being one of labor and not of labor saving.

Conspiring with the work of the hot months is the weather. When a convict plans an escape he knows he likely will be forced to hide out in the woods a few nights. He knows, too, that bloodhounds will be put on his trail. Therefore, he picks the warm weather for he doesn't relish the idea of hiding out in bitter weather. The convict knows, too, that bloodhounds are less efficient in the hot, dry months because the scent dies quickly. The bloodhound must have water when the weather is hot. The convict has a chance to make tracks and widen the distance between his fleeing heels and the prison while the dogs are being watered. Even a con dog trained to trail men can't last long during hot, dry weather without water and rest.

Various prison officials say convicts never profit by escaping, and the records, even those of last summer in Texas, show that the liberty won in escapes usually often is but a short time this side of the grave.

Hilton Bybee, for instance, was a petty criminal until he muscled into a big escape a few years ago. It was the spectacular break in which Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, one of the worst criminal pair ever to spill blood in the Southwest, liberated Raymond Hamilton, their running mate, from the swampy Eastham prison farm.

Bybee wasn't in on the party of big-shot criminals and was left on his own. He soon was captured and returned to prison. Last August he led a big escape at the Eastham farm. A few days later officers shot him down in Arkansas.

Blackie Thomson also escaped with Hamilton. He was filled full of bullet holes a few months later by officers at Amarillo. Hamilton, despite his reputation as the Southwest's desperado after officers' guns stilled Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, went to the electric chair by the escape route. In the big break Barrow engineered with a machine gun, a guard was killed. Hamilton and Joe Palmer were convicted and sentenced to death. With inside help, they made a successful break from the death cells. They finally went to the electric chair the same night.

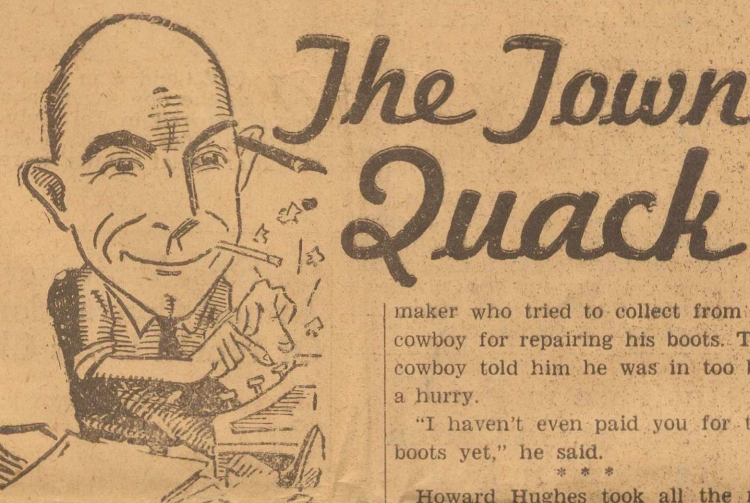

Even "Big-Shot" John Dillinger, who was shot down by G-men in Chicago the night Hamilton and Palmer escaped from the death house, won notoriety by an escape—the famous wooden gun one at Crown Point, Ind.

"Prison breaks are bad business," said Ellington, and the records show his opinion is authoritative.

Fox Hunt Is Turned Into Night Wolf Hunt

TYLER (P).—A Wood county fox hunt recently turned into a wolf hunt. A party of sportsmen, including Dr. Alfred Cowan of Mineola and Fort Worth residents who had brought their hounds, were in the midst of the fox hunt when the howling of a wolf was heard near camp. The men recalled their dogs and put them on the trail of the wolf, the chase lasting until well after midnight.

Hunters say wolves as well as foxes are plentiful in the country.

I read a very pessimistic little story about a woman who put her small boy on a train, when he was starting to visit his grandmother, and she told him to put his name on a card and keep it in his pocket. He read the following: "In case of accident, this was Johnny Jones." Men still die with their boots on, but the trouble is they usually have one boot on the accelerator instead of on the brake. And then there was the boot maker who tried to collect from a cowboy for repairing his boots. The cowboy told him he was in too big a hurry. "I haven't even paid you for the boots yet," he said. Howard Hughes took all the romance out of his flight for our society staff when he said, in effect, that speed is nothing in itself unless it is commercialized. Many a girl thought Howard was just giving vent to his bubbling youth when he flew around the world to set a new record. We have more citizens making long vacation trips and ocean voy- ages this summer than ever before. They may have had as much money a year ago, but this time they have the happy combination of money to spend and time in which to spend it. The hurry and bustle a year ago didn't give busy people time to get away from it all. Let's hope that condition will come back soon. There really wasn't anything TOO personal about the crack I made yesterday about the Reporter-Telegram family's two dozen votes, nor about the failure of some officers to give us the news. It just happens that a public official now and then fails to comprehend that the public is entitled to news of public offices and that the newspaper is a medium for presenting such news to the public. WTCC Museum Said Aid to Education

ABILENE, (P).—Dr. Kirk Bryan, associate professor of physiography at Harvard university, believes the West Texas chamber of commerce resource and museum institute here will be a practical aid to education. Dr. Bryan visited the WTCC exhibits recently in company with Dr. Cyrus N. Ray of Abilene, president of the Texas archeological and paleontological society and member of the WTCC museum board, and dean Julius Olsen of Harden-Simmons university. "It is a remarkable exhibit, not only of the resources of West Texas, but also of its historical features and natural history," he said. "This young and vigorous museum will have large effect, especially from an educational standpoint. It will encourage interest in the archeology and natural history of the region and be of large assistance to school teachers in presenting these subjects to their scholars," Dr. Bryan said.

The Harvard professor is in Texas to study the geology of early man. He is associated in this work with Dr. Claude C. Albritton, Jr., instructor at S. U., Dallas. At Abilene, Dr. Bryan visited site of archeological discoveries made by Dr. Ray and said a large amount of archeological work has been done and important discoveries had been made in regard to early man.

Feminine Fancies

One-flower perfumes are high notes in fashion's tune this summer. And no wonder. They are delightfully fascinating in their single odors.

There is honeysuckle, for instance. Can you imagine anything more old-fashionably sweet (to coin a phrase)?

Sweetpea perfume has just that fresh, uncloying fragrance that one would expect.

Magnolia is a heavier perfume but very attractive for the girl who is the slightly exotic type or for evening wear.

And lilac—lilac is concentrated sweetness, lovely but overpowering if applied with too generous a hand.

Speaking of perfume, we read once that men or attracted by lilac perfume.

Now is the time to try it out, girls.

Howard Hughes has broken another record. Some people may question the fundamental usefulness of risking one's neck in a mad dash around the world, but at least, his exploits may help bring aviation to greater proficiency—which is more than can be said of the exploits of many a rich man's son.

Evidence that Hughes is not mad

Mrs. Hays Hostess To Birthday Dinner For Miss Friday

Mrs. H. H. Hays was hostess to a surprise chicken barbecue dinner at the Log Cabin Monday evening, honoring Miss Dorothy Friday on her birthday.

The honoree was greeted with the singing of "Happy Birthday" when she entered.

Pink rosebuds were used on the dining table.

A feature of the dinner was that the place cards disclosed news of the engagement of Miss Gene Lamar and the hostess' son, Marion Hays. Date of the wedding, which is to be "soon", was not disclosed on the cards.

Present were: The honoree, Miss Friday, the engaged couple, Miss Lamar and Mr. Hays, and Wayne Gregston, Graydon Hays, Jan Hays, Henderson Haynie, and the hostess.

Dancing followed the service hour.

Household Hints

Cool summer gloves of fine rayon or silk reach almost to the elbow and are worn crushed back softly to the wrist. You can buy them of plain fabric, or embroidered in dainty flower designs in all the sweet pastel shades as well as white, navy and black.

Breakfast Fruits.
Fruit for breakfast being a good American custom, manufacturers are now canning fruits, at least eight different kinds, in a thinner and not quite-so-sweet syrup. Especially good for fruit salads, too.

New Color Charm.
Gray and luscious purple plum promises to be one of the summer's most striking color combinations.

Fantastic Fringes.
Late fashion dispatches from midsummer Paris showings stress the importance of fringe as a medium of trimming. Mainbocher designs a sheer black rayon crepe daytime dress with squared neckline, molded bodice fitting closely at the waist, two deep rows of fringe, starting low on the hips, forming the skirt. Schiaparelli creates a simple white sheer crepe evening frock with flowing skirt worn under a short fitted, round-necked jacket with accented shoulders and above-elbow length sleeves made entirely of row upon row of narrow flame-colored fringe.

Keep Cords Carefully.
A little ordinary care in storing electric cords prolongs their usefulness. Fabric covered cords should not be allowed to become dusty, twisted, damp or worn from coming in contact with sharp surfaces. Hang them straight or in wide loops over a rounded peg. Rubber cords do not twist easily and are more suitable for use in rooms where there is danger that contact with water might cause a short circuit.

Success With Meringues.
Having just the right amount of sugar to make your topping tender and crisp is one of the fine points of making successful lemon meringue pie. About three table-spoons of sugar to one egg white (or a little less, if you wish it not quite so sweet) is the right amount. Beat the whites until stiff and whip the sugar in a little at a time until the mixture is stiff enough to stand alone. Add flavoring. Be sure that the pie filling is cool before the meringue is added. Bake in a slow oven until the top is toast brown.

Cotton Held Until Sept. 3 Good for Loan

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Cotton produced in 1937 but not sold before Sept. 10, 1937, will be eligible for a flat payment rate of 3 cents a pound on the amount eligible under the amending act passed by congress providing for speeding up cotton price adjustment payments. This information was received from Washington at the state AAA office at Texas A. & M. college.

Farmers who certify they have not knowingly overplanted their 1938 cotton acreage allotments and agree in writing to refund the payment in case it is later found that they failed to meet the requirements, will receive payment as soon as forms and instructions are received and issued and application made. E. M. Holmgreen, administrative officer in charge, said.

All acreage is now being measured, Holmgreen said, but compliance will not be required of farmers who produced cotton in 1937 but are not producing the fibre this year.

Farmers who put their cotton under the 9 cent government loan may receive cotton price adjustment payments on that part of the loan cotton that is eligible for payment without transferring or selling the staple.

The appropriation for cotton price adjustment payments is $130,000,000. This sum, said Holmgreen, is not large enough to cover all the cotton produced in 1937 at the rates specified; therefore, it will be used as far as it will go to provide payments at the specified rates to farmers complying with their 1938 acreage allotments, or who did not knowingly overplant such allotments.

The payments will be made to producers who file applications, and the 1937 cotton base that will be eligible for payment will be established on the basis of an estimate of the total amount covered by these applications. This percentage will be uniform for all 1937 cotton producers.

Babs Travels Far for Her Romances, But Somehow They Just Don't Last

Dime-Store Heiress' High, Wide and Handsome Globe-Trotting Ends Up Twice in Couple of Divorce Courts

By NEA Service.

PEOPLE with heaving hearts often have itchy feet as well.

Barbara Hutton Mdivani Haugwitz-Reventlow, now sweeping up in a London court the fragments of a romantic career which began in Siam, is only one of the rich world-travelers to whom romance and rambling go hand in hand, and a steamer ticket leads to heart's desire as well as to odd ends of the earth.

Barbara, heiress to a stack of 5-and-10-cent store dimes that would make the Great Pyramid look like a pinch of snuff, was born an American, and raised a "poor little rich girl." At the age of 18, her debut party cost $60,000, her private car $120,000.

To discourage several youthful romances deemed unsuitable, her father launched her on the restless career of travel in which she has moved ever since.

In Paris she met Prince Alex Mdivani, youngest of several brothers from Georgia (Caucasus, not the deep south).

Back to the United States and then off on a world tour went the restless Barbara. In Bangkok, Siam, by the river Me Nam, Prince Mdivani caught up with his princess. They were married in Paris in 1933.

The honeymoon covered Lake Como, Biarritz, southern France, Morocco, and Venice. The fashionable beaches and night spots of Paris, Rome, and London soon knew them well. By fall of that same year they were off on a world cruise—restless, unwilling to stay long in one place.

When they returned, there were rumors of quarrels. Barbara retired to a London nursing home, Mdivani devoted himself to polo.

Soon they parted. Barbara crossed the ocean once again and went to Reno for the divorce.

The reason for the lack of grieving was then revealed, for immediately she married Count Court von Haugwitz-Reventlow, a minor Danish nobleman.

Back to New York, and on to Denmark for a honeymoon in the "haunted castle" of Herdenberg. Her baby, Lance, was born in London.

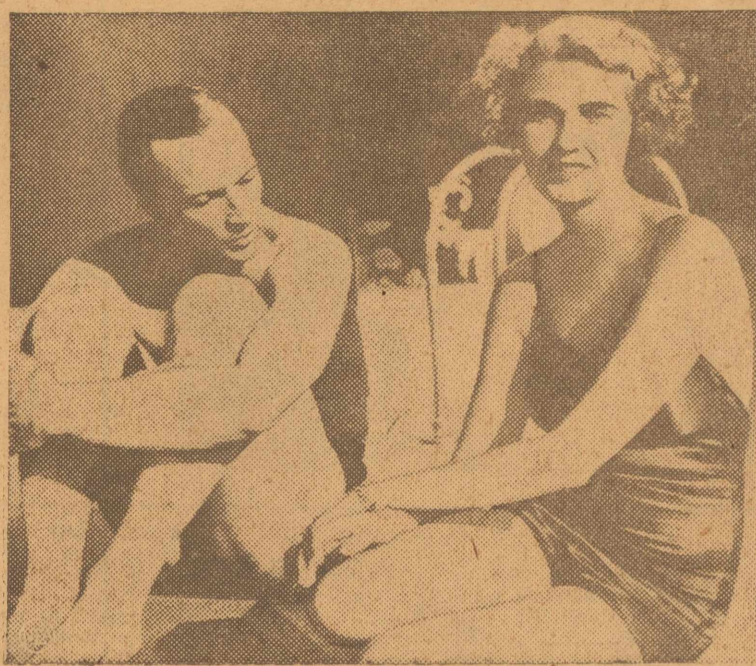

Once again to the United States came the restless Barbara, this time for only a brief stay to sign away her citizenship. But the boy, Lance, who might have been expected to be a bond, became a source of discord. A long trip to Egypt and up the Nile and a long stay at St. Moritz failed to bring the hoped-for marital happiness.

Soon Barbara, with a divorce suit pending in Copenhagen, was in London, while the count denied from Paris her charge that he was trying to steal their son. When they got together again it was in a London court where he posted a peace bond not to disturb her.

Is it any wonder that the Woolworth heiress is the idol of the travel agencies? Doesn't it seem unlikely that even divorce from the Danish count will cure her yen for restless romance?

"Big Grunt" Get WPA Aid.

HEALDSBURG, Cal. (U.P.) — When WPA officials made a grant for improvements in the foghorn equipment at Point Arena, they probably did not know that the foghorn is known locally as the "Big Grunt." It is expected that the modernization of the foghorn will permit of a rechristening to some other kind of a noise.

Girls' Camp Becomes Clara Barton Tribute

OXFORD, Mass. (U.P.) — The birthplace of Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, is now the site of a camp for diabetic girls.

More than 600 New Englanders attended the dedication of the new Clara Barton birthplace camp, which includes a new administration building and six large cabins accommodating 65 girls.

A bronze tablet commemorating the noted American philanthropist was placed in front of the old Barton farmhouse here.

Although the camp is sponsored and financed by the Universalist church, it is open to girls of all denominations.

HARRRODSBURG, Ky. (U.P.) — A carp that had been nick-named Old General and which had eluded thousands of fishermen at nearby Herrington Lake (Dix Dam) for several seasons, has been hooked by Mrs. Louis Sarbeck of Cincinnati, O.

The carp, weighing 28 pounds and measuring 40 inches in length, gave Mrs. Sarbeck a fight for 27 minutes before it was finally landed.

Wrong Animal Caught; Nudist Colony Tragedy

LOS GATOS, Cal. (U.P.) — Here is one of the stark tragedies of life in a nudist camp. Mrs. X (officials of the Elysium Nudist Colony refused to reveal her real name) was awakened by the patter of feet by her tent. She decided it must be a raccoon and set a trap to catch it. Shortly afterward she heard the trap snap and went out to see what she had caught. The rest of the night she passed standing in the breeze. The stark tragedy of it was that she couldn't change her clothes because, being a member of a nudist colony, she had none on when she went to investigate the animal.

Planes "Burst the Clouds"

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (U.P.) — County Judge Grizzle, en route to court, was told by a hobo, who accosted him for a coin, that the real cause of cloudbursts are airplanes, which set up currents of air that disturb atmospheric conditions that finally result in the bursting of clouds and the down-pour of rain. The judge is still figuring how much he really ought to have given the man for this new scientific information.

Sign Warning Evaluated

OAKLAND, Cal. (U.P.) — Mrs. Louise Rothwell saw a new sign posted in Lake Orlanda park but could not quite make out the wording. So she walked over to get a closer view. It read: "Beware, Poison Oak." But it was too late. However, she had one recourse and that was to sue the city, which she did for $1,000. The court awarded her $100 for medical services.

When pursued, the African wart hog runs for a hole and enters it backward.
