Kerrville, Tex., Dec. 31.—A review of business conditions in Southwest Texas for the twelve-month just passed, must begin with the statement that it was the most trying like period of financial institutions in the history of the country. More than that mere statement is not really necessary. Bankers and patrons alike will agree that it is true. In the more than half a century that this bank has done an uninterrupted business at Kerrville, there have, of course, been many financial crises, panics, money stringencies, and the like, but never anything like this. It was not so much the generalness of debt, but the magnitude of debt. In past times of financial depression, the people knew what they might expect to realize for their product, in the event markets should open. They could at least approximate to what extent their holdings would liquidate their indebtedness, in the event of a market offering. In this instance no human mind could conceive what the outcome would be. The currency of the country was inflated, until the rank and file of the people had become profligate spenders, and even erstwhile conservative banking concerns had become reckless in the matter of loans. All values were fictitious and unstable in the extreme.

World Drunk on Prosperity
It was not really a fault, at least not to the extent of moral turpitude, that the standard of living in this country was raised far and away above anything it had ever been before, even in the most prosperous times. It was, indeed, but the seeming achievement of the thing that the average American family had long hoped for. The people had never known anything like the ease with which money could be got. Merchants and business men had never known anything like the ease with which profits could be made. In a word, the whole country was drunk on prosperity—false prosperity though it was.

Bank's Foundations Shaken
During the parlous times when the very foundations of American financial institutions were being shaken, every bank in the country that was worthy of the name, was doing its best to stand as bulwark between its customers and defeat, in irreparable loss. Such banks strained their credit to the utmost, in keeping with the conservative, safe, sane banking principles. For months it was a dead load that they must carry. It is beginning to move a little more readily, and after the usual quiet season of readjustment at the beginning of the new year, I confidently expect to see a decided improvement over present conditions.

Prosperity Seen for Cattlemen
Chicago, Dec. 31.—Cattlemen of the country stand on the threshold of an era of prosperity and the man who has cattle will soon be in a strong strategic position, according to S. B. Stafford, president of the Chicago Live standard of living to comport with their earnings. Meantime, values have made a noticeable step toward stability. Since the day of "no market" for wool and mohair, in the early part of this year, there has developed a fairly stable market for those products, at a better price than was being received in 1913, before the world was shaken from its moorings by the great war. Cattle, it is true, have not yet come back to stability, but we are hopeful that a few more months will see an upward trend, and the general resumption of trading.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION CONTRACT SIGNED WEDNESDAY

Representatives of the McCall-Moore Engineering Company of Waco met Wednesday with the County Commissioners, Judge Lee Wallace and the Commission of Road District No. 1, composed of H. Renschel, Gus F. Schreiner and Tom Duderstadt, to sign the road construction contract.

County Engineer Simpson was present and went over the profiles, maps and all of the detailed information he and his corps of assistants have gathered relative to the road from the Kimble County line to Kerrville.

As soon as County Clerk Leavell furnishes the transcript of the bond issue, which will be finished at once, the McCall-Moore Engineering Company will then have their attorneys to inspect the bonds and if approved, the money will forthwith be brought to Kerrville for the bonds at par and accrued interest.

The McCall-Moore Engineering Company have their money arrangements completed to take care of the bonds, which they secured in the recent bidding. This company also were the lowest bidders for the road construction. They have done considerable road work in Texas and stand well with the State Highway Department as having given satisfactory service.

The construction of this road will put nearly a quarter of a million dollars into circulation in Kerr County, so will aid materially in making better business conditions. It also will give work to many of our citizens as well as a chance for those owning teams to use them.

MORE TUBERCULARS SENT TO MEMORIAL SANATORIUM

Austin, Tex., Jan. 3.—Chairman S. B. Cowell of the State Board of Control, said today that the Federal Government is making a number of transfers of tubercular soldiers to the Memorial Sanatorium at Kerrville on the per diem basis offered by the State of Texas, which is a total hospitalization charge of $3 per day.

"There are now some 60 patients in the Kerrville institution," said Mr. Cowell, "and many more will come when we finish our new dormitories. The Federal Government was not inclined to accept our offer at first, but lately has been availing itself of the $3 charge."

"By calculation the Board finds that the State of Texas will lose no money on the $3 per day basis. It is true that with a small number of patients such as now, the amount would not be adequate, but when we hospitalize 150 more then we will break even or a little better."

Work on the new dormitories for men are well advanced and construction is going rapidly as could be expected. It will be 60 days or more before the first new dormitory is completed after that the other buildings finished until our total of 150 is reached, the ultimate number.

True, there was an element of conservative bankers and business men in the country, who began to cry warnings to the people many months before the crash came, but they were never heeded. Indeed, the warnings were never heeded, and the public went right on with prodigal spending and many banks with prodigal lending. At last, like the guests of Belshazzar's feast, they were confronted, not only with the undeniable handwriting on the wall, but the very palace in which they were feasting was rocking on its foundation.

In this dire distress, with inflated values dropping hourly, and with their supposed fortunes melting and vanishing before their eyes, business men, merchants, ranchmen, speculators, and whole army of money users, rushed to their bankers as to cities of refuge. Even the wisest and most thoughtful bankers and financiers of the country were staggered at the enormity of the cataclysm that had befallen American business. For a time there seemed to be danger that the entire actual currency of the country would seek a hiding place until the storm was over. Money, the circulating medium of commerce, seemed to have coagulated in the arteries and veins of trade, and thrown the entire economic structure of the country into financial thrombosis. Much of the currency of the country, no doubt, did seek a hiding place until values became more stable.

1922 Finds Conditions Better
Such was the financial condition in the territory tributary to this bank, which means practically all of Southwest Texas, at the beginning of 1921. It is with much gratification that we find at the threshold of the New Year, a decided change for the better. Not a return to conditions that prevailed throughout the country two years ago. Nothing like that. Indeed, I question seriously if the ordinary business man would consent to a return to such dangerous business conditions, bad as the outlook still is. The improvement consists in a measure of recovery from the violent shock of falling from riches to poverty almost overnight in many instances. In getting our bearings, and making the determination to go steadfastly on and recoup our fallen fortunes so far as may be possible. Inconvenient and unpleasant as it may be, the people have largely determined to lower the

Government Hill Defeats All-Stars by Score of 13-0
San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 2.—The Government Hill football team, aided and abetted by players from the 23rd Infantry, the Ninth Infantry, the Twentieth Infantry, the Seventeenth Infantry, Main Avenue High School, Tulane University and Texas University, Sunday afternoon defeated Kerrville, reinforced by men from the San Antonio Knights of Columbus team, Texas University, Texas A & M, Freshman, Tivy High School and at least one player who hasn't had a uniform in a couple of seasons. The game—a sure-enough all-star combat as can be seen from the above—was played before about 500 fans at League Park. The score was 13 to 0, the team that sported the name of Government Hill outplaying the losers from beginning to end.

GIRLS' DANCE IS GALA EVENT OF THE CHRISTMAS SEASON

The Girls' Dance, given at the Queen Hall Thursday evening of last week, was the gala event of the Yuletide season. The hall was decorated in the Christmas colors, different kinds of greens being used on the walls, while red and green globes over the chandeliers carried out the color scheme. Ropes of gray moss extended across the hall from one end to the other, adding a most artistic touch. The adjoining room had been converted into a reception room by the use of rugs and wicker furnishings, and here punch was served during the evening.

For the first cotillion, led by Mr. and Mrs. Scott Schreiner, favors of strings of beads for the ladies and ash trays for the men were given. Confetti, serpentine flyers, balloons, horns, whistles and other noise-making devices were given as favors of the second cotillion, which was led by Miss Frances Jones and Herman Saenger and Miss Ellen Mason and Glenn Brooks, and added greatly to the joy of the occasion. A spotlight of different hues played on the dancers during the evening, adding much beauty to the scene. Excellent music was furnished by one of the Eubank Orchestras from San Antonio. At a late hour refreshments of brick ice cream, cake and mints in red and green colors were served.

The hostesses for the evening were Mesdames Scott Schreiner, Leslie N. Shaw, Nannie Sommers, and Misses Frances Jones and Ellen Mason. Mrs. Schreiner wore a Bendel model of beaded violet chiffon with heavy gold fringe trimming over cloth of gold. Mrs. Shaw was in black Chantilly lace over black satin and jade green girdle. Mrs. Sommers, black Canton crepe with jet trimmings. Miss Jones, white melinè, bouffant style with heirloom panels of crystal beaded net over ivory satin, silver slippers and corsage bouquet of Killarney roses. Miss Mason wore a robe of jade green sequins over green satin with corsage of pink roses and silk slippers.

About 150 guests enjoyed this delightful social event and declared it to be the most successful affair ever given in our city.

There will be another clean-up campaign of the new school grounds Saturday next. There will be work for all. Come and lend us a hand in removing the debris and placing the grounds in keeping with the handsome new school building which adorns them.

S. Stone and family and Mrs. Stallard and daughter, Miss Maud, who have been camped on the Peters property below Ingram for the past several weeks, left Tuesday of this week for their home in Robstown, with expressions of their delightful stay in the Hill Country.

The farewell party, given at the old school house Thursday night of last week, was much enjoyed, especially by the younger set of the community, who will long cherish pleasant memories of happy school days the little building has afforded them, and though forsaken is not forgotten.

A happy and proud lot of children, as well as teachers, wended their way to school Tuesday morning to take possession of the handsome new school building just completed, each with a feeling of individual ownership. The new building and New Year should inspire renewed energy on part of the pupils in their school work with glowing results at the end of the term.

J. A. Leinweber and wife entertained at "42" at their home, "Windy Ridge," on Indian Creek, Friday night of last week in honor of Miss Elsie May Smith, sister of Mrs. Leinweber. Invited guests included Misses Gertrude Smith, Maud Stallard, Mittie Smith, Orena Crenshaw, Pearl Nichols, Edith Leinweber, Mr. and Mrs. O. Garland, and Messrs. Claude Smith, S. Stone, Ralph Johannessen and Ains Nichols. Delightful refreshments were served.

Wiley Evans of Hotel Guadalupe had the misfortune to lose a new spare tire, which was removed from his car during the holidays. This was a contemptible trick and we trust the miscreant guilty of this offense merely took some from sheer stress or emergency with the intention of reimbursing the owner later. At least this is what should be done. Or, perhaps, this was a practical joke, as we cannot believe anyone in these parts would deliberately steal an automobile tire or anything else.

Near Reddington, Arizona, rains uncovered the burying ground of a race of people who are believed to have lived thousands of years ago. A miner discovered the skeletons amid pieces of pottery, earrings and remains of charcoal fires. The skeletons are much larger than the average man's skeleton, and one skull showed a thickness of nearly an inch.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES

By Father Kemper

1921 RETROSPECT

The history of the past twelve months can be tersely expressed in the expressive phrase: "proficit eundo," "it grows, as it goes."

The sacrament of baptism was administered to 35 neophytes, of whom six were adult converts.

One hundred and sixty different kinds of Catholic publications were distributed free of charge to all Catholics and to some interested non-Catholics.

From all appearances the newborn year promises to exceed the bygone record, because it is a regular experience every Sunday to greet an overflowing attendance, which goes to show that the old church building has about outgrown itself.

On Friday of this week is Epiphany, or "the Christmas." A High Mass will be sung in the Convent Chapel at 7:15 a. m.

This oratory will again be used next Sunday at the 7 o'clock mass instead of the church building. Services will be held in Comfort at 9 a. m.

Former Parishioner Reads Mass

Rev. Paul P. Kaspar, who lived for many years in Comfort, and was ordained to the holy priesthood in Shiner on Oct. 16th, gladdened his Comfort friends on Wednesday, Feast of the Holy Innocents, by holding services for them.

On Thursday Father Kaspar read mass in the Convent Chapel. After services he and his loyal friend, John J. Gaddis, and the pastor were invited to breakfast by the good Sisters.

Rev. Dr. Thos. F. Coakley of Pittsburg, a Roman classmate of Father Kemper, held a revival in his church last month, given by Rev. B. L. Conway, author of "The Question Box."

By means of radio telephone the lectures were heard in twenty different States and parts of Canada. Letters to this effect came from Florida and also from Rev. J. F. Burnes of Marshall, Tex., who could follow every word very distinctly 1,220 miles away.

C. Santy Injured to their annual custom Columbus remembered by orphanages with a den overladen with gifts

Some local applicants will join this number for the second and third degrees on Jan. 29th.

Mexicans Clad and Fed The high cost of suits and shoes, shirts and socks did not worry our resident Mexicans very much because the Sisters of Charity provided for them very liberally.

Besides this free commissary department, lodging was provided, irrespective of creed, on 78 occasions, and 378 warm, wholesome meals were given away.

On the first day of the new year, two Mexican children were brought to the baptismal font: Enrique Reyes and Tomasita Sanchez.

Rudolph Stelling motored with his family in his Dodge to Fredericksburg where he spent Christmas with his parents.

The progressive attitude of John Ahnert struck the fancy of a San Antonio baker, who bought the business and real estate. We are glad to know that this sale does not mean the immediate departure of the Ahnert family.

The three daughters of Geo. Dryden, who attend the Lady of the Lake Academy, spent their Christmas vacation in Kerrville. Himself an invalid, George gave $50 to the soldiers' Christmas tree and another $50 to the Tourists' Camp Site.

Hugo Sulzenfuss attended our midnight services on the 25th and returned next day to San Antonio with Clarence and Hilda Mosel.

Leo Strenge came here last Friday from Munster for his health.

My kidneys were weak and out of order and I felt dull and tired and had a soreness and dull ache over my kidneys. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Others in my family had been benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills so I tried them. They corrected the trouble and put my kidneys in good condition."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

J. B. HOLT, Pastor

Christmas week was a very happy one at the pastor's home. The Prayer Meeting was better attended Wednesday evening and no little important business was done.

The services Sunday were splendid. At the evening service Miss Aline Welborn united with our church by experience. She will be very useful indeed. F. E. Garrett is our new Sunday School superintendent.

Chas. Wesch has gone to San Antonio to take a course in the business college. He was our general secretary. The Sunday School Council elected W. H. Rawson to succeed him.

The Woman's Guild of the Episcopal Church met at the Rectory on the evening of Tuesday, the 3rd inst. Twenty-five members were present.

As this was the annual meeting, election of officers for the New Year was in order. Mrs. Richard Galbraith, who has held the office of president for many years, retired this year and Mrs. John Pampell was elected to succeed her.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Wheelless in a beautiful little speech presented the retiring president, Mrs. Galbraith, with a handsome silver flower basket as a token of respect and love of the members of the Guild for her long and faithful services.

The following is a list of those present: Mesdames R. Galbraith, Wheelless, Burney, J. L. Pampell, Milton Pampell, E. E. Palmer, Wall, Kinsey, Martin Wilson, McLellan, Weiss, Ed. Mosel, Young, Martin, Emil Dietert, T. Dietert, Macdougall, Braeutigam, Thompson and Lee Mason, Misses Sally and Fanny Huntington, Reba and Lynn Burnett, Ella Jarmon and Roberta Macdougall.

Baptist Circle

The Osborne Circle of Baptist women met Wednesday, December 28th, with Mrs. Gammon, it being their regular time of meeting.

Owing to the fact of this meeting coming at the holiday time, by mutual consent the regular program was omitted and the meeting was in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. Osborne, who leaves this week for her new home in Dallas.

was spent in a regular old-fashioned "good time."

This Circle of women feel that in losing their enthusiastic and progressive leader they are losing their most valued friend and helper, as Mrs. Osborne is deeply loved and honored.

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Baptist Church met in the basement of the church Tuesday afternoon for their regular monthly business meeting.

Before the business session, Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. Kokanut of San Antonio made interesting and inspiring talks on the proposed new Baptist Hospital, which the Baptists of Southwest Texas hope soon to erect in San Antonio.

The January Week of Prayer, which started last Sunday afternoon with a prayer and praise service, has been held each afternoon and evening with inspiring missionary programs carried out by the members of the various circles.

The program for next Sunday is as follows: At 9:45 a. m. the Sunday School begins. The Young Men's Class, which meets in the pastor's study, is taking a special course in "Biblical Athletics."

At 11 a. m. will be the hour of our morning worship. The subject will be "The Christian Paradox." We cordially invite the public to worship with us at this hour.

The Junior League will meet at 3:30 p. m. At 6:45 p. m. the Senior League will meet. The leader for the program is Horace Starkey.

Just a word about our Christmas program. "Scenes From the Nativity" were put on by the young people of the church in a most successful way under the leadership of Mrs. H. C. Geddie, who directed the performance, and was ably assisted by John Ward, who had charge of the music.

During the Holidays we were pleased to have as our distinguished guest and visitor Rev. J. T. King, a former pastor of the Kerrville Methodist Church, but who is now the popular Presiding Elder of the San Angelo District.

The evening worship will be at 7:30 o'clock, and the subject will be "Having a Mind to Work."

Women may be ordained as deacons in the Presbyterian Church, according to a recent decision made at headquarters.

IN THE OUTLAW CLASS

Dearborn Independent: In a recent address before the University of Michigan, former Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, indulged in some very plain speaking in regard to the present propaganda of disrespect for law in the United States. The prohibition amendment and its enforcement were only incidental to a clear and convincing discussion of the administration of criminal law in this country. But Mr. Whitman's sane and vigorous exposition of the question dissipated the smoke-screen of pretext and catchword set in motion to delude the unthinking.

"There is no such thing as an unenforceable law!" was one striking sentence that should set people thinking. Prohibition, in particular, had been made a part of the Federal Constitution and so of the basic law of the land under all the orderly processes and safeguards provided by our democratic system. To regard its violation lightly, then, would be to bring all law into disrespect. Nothing less than entire social disruption and disintegration and a lapse into mob rule was involved in the idea that any individual or group should receive public tolerance for the assertion of a right to say what laws they would obey and what laws they would refuse to obey.

The fact that this constitutional amendment had been adopted by the vote of the Legislatures of two-thirds of all the States in the Union should be sufficient refutation of the loosely banded objection that it is "not backed by public opinion." Our American Government being a representative government, and not a mobocracy, it is the deliberately registered judgment of the lawmaking body that must be regarded as the absolutely determining expression of public opinion, and not the disorderly and spasmodic shouts of the mob. Whenever a majority of the people regard a law as a bad law, they can repeal it by the orderly methods they themselves have laid down.

Governor Whitman made it very plain that much popular condemnation of our courts in criminal cases rises from thoughtless ignorance or disregard for the fact that at every step our jurisprudence leans to the side of mercy in its regard for the rights of an accused person. He made it plain that it would be an unhappy thing if any considerable section of the people of this country should allow themselves to be misled into placing themselves in the outlaw class by violations of the law or the aiding or abetting of law violation by failure to condemn it. Fundamentally, Americans are a law-abiding people and the effort to destroy their respect for law is doomed to failure.

Let us get busy to make 1922 a banner year for Kerrville and all of this section. By united efforts we can accomplish much.

Senator Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania died as the old year went out. He was one of the strongest Republican leaders in the Senate or country. He had been in bad health for some time. Senator Penrose had never married.

Every indication is that Kerrville will this year have one of its most successful years. We expect more health seekers, there will be a greater number of tourists, the Presbyterian Encampment will have an increased attendance, while building activities will be necessary to accommodate this influx of people. Then, there is the road building to which we are looking with many pleasant anticipations.

From time to time during the construction of the new Convent and dormitory building of Notre Dame Institute in Kerrville, mention was made by Father Kemper in his weekly articles about the general design and details of it. However, one must see this up-to-now structure to appreciate its many conveniences, excellent arrangement and comfort afforded. The editor of The Sun, accompanied by his wife, had the pleasure Thurs-

Furniture of Distinction for the Home

Good Furnishing creates an atmosphere of harmonious taste with the provisions of actual comfort.

For lovers of Fine Furniture, who wish to practice economy, a cordial invitation is extended.

These are days of quality buying. So it's up to you to remember quality—real, genuine quality—rather than the price. Think rather of the article's lasting value than the low amount you may pay for it. Get better furniture and, in the long run, greater satisfaction and greater value.

The economy in furnishing homes lies in knowing where to look for Quality Furniture at moderate prices. This is the reason we ask you to come here, if only to look and compare. You will find all that you could desire to satisfy your ideas of comfort and individuality, and the prices much less than you would expect to pay.

day afternoon of last week to make a visit to Notre Dame and were greeted by the Mother Superior, who showed us through the building. In all its appointments there has been extra care for cleanliness, convenience and comfort. There is not a foot of space wasted. The building has a basement, two complete stories and an attic that is finished in excellent style to accommodate any overcrowding. There is steam heat, fire protection by hose on each floor and an iron ladder fire escape at each end of the building, connecting with every sleeping section. There is a large tank for rain water and also connection with the city water works. It is indeed a highly creditable institution, and we learn that Father Kemper was a genius in that line. There is arranged in the east end of the building on the first floor a beautiful chapel, and adjoining it is a temporary hospital department—or first aid apparatus—with beds, etc. The building is furnished throughout substantially, exquisitely and conveniently.

WANT COOL HOMES IN SUMMER

Hungarian Engineer Has Designed Evaporation Scheme to Regulate Temperature.

Americans may soon be living in "ice houses."

The houses will not be the kind in which ice is stored, but a new type of dwelling designed by Leopold Pollak, an engineer and constructor, of Budapest, Hungary. He is contemplating building a house manufacturing plant in Philadelphia so that the public will have a place to escape the sweltering heat without trekking shoreward or northward.

Mr. Pollak said that the houses will be made of insular earth and covered with porous bricks. In appearance they will be similar to those used by the natives of South America, who use "monkey jugs," or water bottles made of pottery, to cool their homes.

The South American natives place in each corner of a room a water jug, and in a few moments the room is cooled by evaporation. Mr. Pollak does not go into detail about his new plan, but states that he can regulate the cooling of a house in summer in a similar manner as that of heating the same building in winter. He said he can make a home as cool as an ice cellar on the hottest day in the year at a cost of approximately 10 cents a day.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mr. Real visited a number of the different dealers in sheep in Ohio while on his trip and he believes that he has a grade of sheep now that he can highly recommend. It is of benefit to raisers of sheep to get the best grade in our section, and Mr. Real is to be commended for going to this extra effort and expense to secure them.

E. J. Murray, who has been County Tick Inspector here, has been sent to Medina County and will be stationed at Hondo. Mr. Murray has supervised the excellent work done in Kerr County in eradicating the ticks, and the county has been lifted from quarantine quicker than any county in the State. It is regretted that Mr. Murray should be sent elsewhere, but he is succeeded by an excellent officer and most genial gentleman in J. C. Campbell, who has been stationed at Boerne, and he is also accompanied by his son, J. D. Campbell, who will assist in the work. We extend them a welcome to Kerr County.

VALUE OF THE MERIT SYSTEM IN POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

The following extracts are from an article by Postmaster General Hays, recently printed in the Review of Reviews. It is good sound reasoning, but seldom put into practice by politicians when there is a change of political control of the Government:

Value of the Merit System
Firm in the conviction of proved demonstration that nothing will contribute so much to the betterment of the service as the improvement of the morale and the co-operation of the men and women doing the service, I am just as firmly convinced that the one duty above all others which we owe the employees is honesty to apply the merit system. You cannot expect men and women to give service if they are to be shuttlecocks of politics. I have said, and I reiterate, that the postal establishment most certainly is not an institution for politics nor for profit, but an institution for service.

It would be my very greatest satisfaction if in this period of activity I might contribute a little to the end that the postal service, as indeed the entire Civil Service, might be made more and more a desirable career into which the young can enter with a certainty that their services will be performed under reasonable conditions for a reasonable wage and for an appreciative people. The men and women who constitute the great army of postal co-workers are doing a distinct Government and public service, and they are entitled to an appreciation commensurate with the efficacy and importance of that service. The very first element of a proper appreciation is to make certain that honest and efficient service shall be honestly recognized, and that the merit system shall control without any subterfuge.

We find no great opposition any more to a reasonable application of the rule of Civil Service, and the principle of promotions on merit in the classified service. It takes constant watching, however, and there is no department of Government where there is as likely to be a breaking down and loss of what has been gained as in the Post Office Department. There are a total of about 600,000 classified service employees in the Government, and about 300,000 of these are in the Post Office Department.

Our 12,500 Presidential postmasters are not in the classified service, and I am fully aware of the skepticism that exists as to the possibility of an effective application of the merit system in the appointment of Presidential postmasters. This skepticism is easily understood. The entire post office service has been more or less regarded over a long period of years as a political treasure house where there was always available that which might be needed for the payment of political obligations. Just why the Post Office Department has been used for this purpose I have never been able to figure out, unless possibly because there are more jobs in that department than in any other.

Certain it is, however, that this more or less prevalent opinion as to the alleged perfect propriety of the prostitution of the great postal service has had no geographical limits, either political or physical. It has been a long fight to go as far as we have in the elimination of politics in the classified service, the old fight of proficiency against plunder, of service against spoils. It may be a fight to keep what has been accomplished. If so, it must be made.

The chief argument advanced by those favoring the old method of political appointments is that the postmaster of a first or second-class office, who comes in such close contact with the people and has large executive, business and public responsibility, should be responsive to the popular opinion as reflected in the result of an election. It is contended that the postmasters in the larger offices especially should be of the political faith which dominates at the moment.

It is correct, of course, to insist that we expect and are entitled to have political offices largely filled by members of the political party to which we have voted to entrust the administration of our public affairs. The question is, what are political offices, and how far should the principle apply? Wise men will not propose that we carry this principle into the appointment of our army officers, nor into the appointment to technical or purely business positions. I am sure it is steadily growing in the minds of the public that if we are to have the most efficient postal service we must keep it as far as possible out of politics. This should be done. There is no doubt about the soundness of the purpose, and it is the most earnest determination of the present postal management to carry it out. It is a matter, however, of evolution and not of revolution. It cannot be accomplished in a day.

The President and the Department are endeavoring to select the man best fitted to serve the public as postmaster. The executive order of May 10 clearly states that there is to be no method of selection which is scholastic or cloistered in its tendency. We must have a man of high standing in his community and of real ability. This is determined through an examination by the Civil Service Commission into his qualifications as an executive. That refining is invaluable. It gives three men from whom to select, and leaves with the appointing power, the President, who is the one responsible, some discretion in the matter of selection.

Personally, I favor the enactment of such legislation as will bring all postmasters into the classified service, followed by such legislation or rules as will make such classified service thoroughly amenable to discipline when necessary, and with a compensation in the more important positions sufficiently lucrative to invite the best ability in the country to strive for such appointments.

It is good business—and it is good politics. If the advocates of politics in the post office service would really investigate to the bottom they would find that partisan politics in post offices has done their party far more harm than good. If they will hark back not so many years ago, and study their political histories, they will find that the largest element of causation in the results of the Congressional nominating conventions and primaries has been the efforts of the gentlemen who were NOT appointed postmasters. And they may agree with the distinguished gentleman of long political service who said: "Every time I have appointed a postmaster I have made one ingrate and eleven enemies."

Keep The Egg Basket Full!

The feed elements that make whites of eggs are entirely different from those that make yolks. When hens aren't fed both the white and yolk making elements, they can't keep the egg basket full. The usual method of feeding mostly grain makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs.

Missouri Experiment Station tests prove that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks to 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

	Yolks	Whites
Purina Hen Chow	247.49	142.11
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05	282.55
Combined Ration	429.54	424.66

These Purina chows not only make a practically equal number of whites and yolks but more of both than ordinary chows.

Note that Purina Chicken Chowder contains the necessary white-forming elements to balance up the yolk-making grain ration. That's why it makes hens lay so heavily. Instead of the yolks being absorbed by the hen's system, Purina Chicken Chowder makes the whites to complete the eggs and they are laid. Thus we can absolutely guarantee more eggs or money back on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Hen Chow as directed. You take no risk.

NOTRE DAME REOPENED

Not much time was lost in getting down to real work for the second semester. Classes were in full swing on Monday and all out-of-town boarders reported for duty. New applicants could not be accommodated because the faculty realizes that an over-crowded condition interferes with the superior standard they wish to safeguard.

The first session opened with an enrollment of 119 pupils, of whom 54 were non-Catholics, and were accepted on equal footing whether they could pay anything for tuition or not.

Work on the Convent basement has been completed, making it a spacious well-lighted and well-ventilated room. It serves as an ideal refectory for day scholars who bring their noon-day luncheon with them. An ant-proof cupboard is in the room, and also a stove whereon the food can be re-warmed.

Vacation Frolic

Nearly every night during the holiday season the Notre Dame boys and girls had some lively program. If it was not a dance or card party in Washington Hall, it was one of the social functions going on during the busy week in town. For this reason, liberal patronage was given to the elaborate dance held on Thursday night.

A Watch Party at Notre Dame helped to bury the old year and welcome the arrival of 1922. Both the church and the Convent bells were rung at the midnight hour. To the untrained ear there is at first a faint resemblance between the Convent bell and the firm alarm. The distinction, however, becomes apparent very quickly. Moreover, the Convent bell is rung at fixed hours for the Angelus (6:30, noon and 6:30) and for the chapel exercises at 7:40 a. m., and is rung in a very clearly specified manner, namely three times three struck by the tolling hammer and followed by the verberation of the half-ton bell.

If we can put stock in Billie Hart's prophecy, we are due for a cold and rainy January. In December he made ten correct guesses, whereas the previous month he almost guessed correctly for one of the days.

School Library

Friends of Notre Dame were very generous during the Christmas season with donations of valuable school books and encyclopedias. The shelves are filling up more rapidly than had been anticipated.

Among our Christmas benefactors we include in particular Capt. Chas. Schreiner and his son, Louis A. Schreiner, both of whom lend the good work a generous helping hand.

One admirer from Old Mexico sent a beautiful hand-made shield of the United States, done in delicate bird feathers.

During the holidays very many Kerrville citizens and visitors utilized the opportunity to inspect the palatial Convent, which the good Sisters were only too glad to show them without any reservation.

On account of the magnitude of the building, a unique system of call bells is devised in connection with the speaking tube and telephone. With one signal the message is sounded both within and without the house, thus insuring a prompt reply and avoiding much confusion.

A very recent patent is also being tried out in the Convent Chapel. Instead of the rubrical sanctuary lamp, the Sisters are using an approved Olivaxine candle, which is far cheaper, cleaner and clearer.

After much hesitation it was finally decided to erect an iron fence around certain portions of the campus so as to protect these parts of the lawn from the incurable fiend for short cuts. Nothing looks more unsightly than a green carpet criss-crossed with cow trails radiating everywhere and nowhere.

St. Mary's Park is maintained at considerable expense as a public beauty spot and every Kerrville citizen can rightly claim it as common property for himself and his visitors. Our best wishes go out to you and your family for a thrice happy, prosperous and healthy New Year!

A new world record for long distance radio communication was recently made when President Harding's message addressed to the nations of the world was picked up in New Zealand. New Zealand is 10,000 miles from where the message was sent, the new radio center at Rock Point, Long Island.

Oil inspectors in Minnesota have found a new way to test gasoline for water content. Molasses on a plain pin stick glides through gasoline without showing any effect of the molasses. Water is heavier than gasoline and always sinks to the bottom. When the water is encountered at the bottom the molasses comes off the stick. When the stick is withdrawn the exact amount of water in the bottom of the tank is clearly revealed.

PANTHER IS CAPTURED NEAR FREDERICKSBURG

Fredericksburg Standard, Dec. 31: On Monday evening a large panther was killed on the ranch of Holmes Moss in the Willow City neighborhood. Mr. Moss brought the skin to town on Tuesday and quite a bit of excitement was created by this curiosity, which was exhibited in Hohmann & Stehling's show window. The skin will be prepared and mounted, the head, paws and tail of the animal are fully preserved and the skin shows no blemishes. The fur measures from nose to tip of tail seven feet and two inches, and the large tearing teeth protrude one and one-fourth inches above the gums. The claws are perhaps two inches long. The color of the skin resembles that of a deer. This was a beautiful but a dangerous animal.

In the afternoon two boys of Mr. Moss went to their traps, which they had set for small game, such as skunks. One of the traps was missing and the boys, together with their dogs, soon trailed the animal. The boys, after finding the animal, sent word home and Mr. Moss and others, together with about nine dogs, joined in the chase. The pack of dogs soon treed the panther and a load of bird shot, which did not penetrate the skin, tickled the animal sufficiently to make it jump out of the tree. In its jump to the ground a bull dog got hold of the panther's neck, strangling the latter after a terrific fight. There was but one other dog in the bunch that would attack the panther.

This one was a young male animal and there is a report that since then fresh tracks of another panther have been found in Mr. Moss' field. A panther seldom finds its way into our county and if it does get here it is rare, indeed, that it is captured as in this case.

The well equipped bath room is now one of the fundamental necessities of decent, healthful living.

If you have no bath room in your home, or if you are putting up with out-of-date plumbing, it means that you and your family are depriving yourselves of an economic convenience and luxury which most of your neighbors are enjoying.

Your doctor will tell you that a morning shower or a dip in the tub just before retiring will increase your vitality and with it your mental and physical efficiency.

Considering the matter from a standpoint of health, it will pay you to have a modern bath room in your home.

BEARSKIN A MARK OF HONOR

Five British Regiments Won Right to Wear Headdress, at the Battle of Waterloo.

Recently published portraits of the king of England at the historic British ceremony, "trooping of the colors," at the Horse guards parade in London show him wearing the high, shaggy bearskin headdress which appears to the uninitiated to be a heavy, uncomfortable article of apparel. As a matter of fact it is not as uncomfortable as it looks.

The bearskin, as it is called to distinguish it from the shako and busby, is made of the skin of the Russian bear and stretched over a basketlike framework. In reality it is not any heavier than the oldtime helmet. The one the king wore on this occasion had a white plume on the side, the insignia of the Grenadier guards, of which regiment King George is honorary colonel. Five British Guard regiments are entitled to wear the bearskin, a distinction they won at Waterloo when the British guards defeated the Old Guard of Napoleon, who wore this towering form of headdress.

Besides the Grenadier guards a regiment dating from the time of Charles II, the Coldstream, Scots, Irish and Welsh guards, the latter formed during the World war, wear bearskins. They form the brigade of Foot guards in peace time and are part of the household troops, whose duties include the guarding of Buckingham and St. James palaces.

NEW FRENCH LINER ARTISTIC

The Paris, Recently Launched, Has Eleven Decks and Is Like an Art Museum.

A writer in a recent number of Le Petit Parisien devotes nearly a column of most poetic prose to the new steamship Paris of the French Transatlantic company, launched recently at Le Havre for the New York run. The Paris is a little more than seven hundred and sixty-eight feet in length (not quite as long as the Mauretania), has 11 decks, 64 lifeboats and three stacks. Her weight is 35,000 tons.

While not palatial, the new liner is described as a work of art. She carries a crew of 904 and about 3,000 passengers. Among the features of her equipment are mentioned a terraced cafe and an elaborate children's playroom. The vessel is an oil burner, and all the cooking and heating is done by electricity.

The French writer, above mentioned, observes that the Paris would do very nicely as a museum and is a "permanent, lasting salon of modern French art." In the grand drawing room, lined with mauve woodwork, the Painter Lalique has employed a design of butterflies representing the hours, while a symbolical canvas from the brush of Albert Besnard pays homage to France and America.

Citrus By-Products.

In co-operation with the citrus fruit growers of California, the United States bureau of chemistry has been trying for some years past to develop methods whereby profitable uses might be found for the enormous quantities of oranges and lemons which now go to waste because unfit for shipment. It does not pay to ship to market any fruit that is not first class and in prime condition. Of waste oranges, called "culis," there are 14,000 tons a year. What shall be done with them? A partial answer to the question is furnished by a score of factories which have already been put in operation for the production of marmalade and jellies. Also, a profitable market has been found for orange oil and lemon oil, orange vinegar, citric acid and dried orange peel. Fresh orange acid is used for the marmalade, while the oil is extracted by pressure from the skins. Up to the present time all of our orange oil and lemon has come from Italy and Sicily.

Kipling's "Brevities."

It is quite true, as Mrs. Gerould says, that Mr. Kipling's fame rests upon "significant brevities," but what she and critics of a similar complexion cannot see is that these "brevities" are "significant" in a sense diametrically opposed to her interpretation of the word. She means, of course, to be complimentary, to intimate that Mr. Kipling is brief from choice; whereas the exact reverse is the truth, and, far from being brief from choice, Mr. Kipling is brief from necessity. Mrs. Gerould would intimate that Mr. Kipling prefers the short story, whereas, in point of fact, Mr. Kipling's gifts restrict him to the short story.—F. A. Waterhouse, in the Yale Review.

Pioneer Log Building Restored.

An old log building, near Chehalis Wash., which housed one of the first federal courts ever held in the Pacific northwest, has been rehabilitated and presented to the state. The building erected in 1845, housed Gen. Phil Sheridan and Gen. George B. McClellan when they were in the northwest before the Civil war and had to travel between Fort Vancouver, on the Columbia river, and Fort Steilacoon, on Puget sound.

Prize Stock for Canada.

The prince of Wales won most of the prizes with his exhibits of Short horn cattle and Shropshire sheep at the agricultural show, held recently in England. He declared his intention of shipping some of these farm animals to his ranch in Alberta, Canada, where there is already a blooded aggregation.

TRUTH OUR BOND

OUR greatest humorist once said: "Truth is our most precious possession, therefore, I personally use it very sparingly." Sometimes we feel that he was not the only one who economized in its use. Truth is always a relative term—perhaps no two individuals will agree concerning many aspects of common honesty. But for our store, it is absolutely necessary that we reach a decision that our printed message meets the truth requirements of an intelligent public. To deserve and hold the confidence of our customers, we must not indulge in any hair-splitting approaches to near-truth, but rather must censor our expressions so that there may not be even the appearance of garbling or carelessness. The printed word of this store is its bond, and, within human limitations, is the absolute statement of facts as we know them.

Cheer O Club Program

A short program was held in Ward No. 1 at the American Legion Memorial Sanatorium on New Year's Day by the Cheer O Club.

Dr. Macdougall gave a "Cheer Up" talk for the New Year in his usual happy and helpful way. Mrs. O. R. Dewees of San Antonio sang for the boys, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Young on the organ. Both of these ladies are fine musicians, Mrs. Dewees having sang during the war at many of the army camps.

After the service at the Legion Hospital they visited Thompson's Sanatorium, where Dr. Macdougall held his regular bi-monthly service.
