COMPANY PLUGGING ON LAST OF THREE WELLS CONTRACTED

The Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co., has moved on the Glenn O'Bannon farm in the Cottonwood community to plug the last of the three wells contracted by the board of directors of the Artesian Pecos Valley Conservancy District. Some difficulty has been encountered by this company in getting in the hole and at last report they had proceeded down about 250 feet. As soon as the hole is cleared for the plugging operations the company will make short work of shutting off the water.

Contracts to plug other wells may be awarded in the near future as operations of the conservancy district continues, Geo. Frisch, board member said here yesterday.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS HELD LAST NIGHT IS A ONE ACT COMEDY

The time honored "steam roller" methods were functioning far excellence in the so-called democratic caucus held in the school house auditorium last night, with the entire convention lasting a total of three and one half minutes "by th' meetin' house clock," and with six delegates to the county convention chosen by a weird process of mental telepathy.

For policy's sake, more than likely, the proposed caucus was not advertised in Hagerman. No one saw a hand bill of it. No one read in The Messenger, a local democratic paper, about the convention. Last night, the caucus was held, with approximately one-fifth of the democratic voters of this precinct creeping to the school house through the dark. The janitor was called from his home to open the building, and the fur began to fly.

The meeting was never organized, no chairman was elected, no clerk elected, and no delegates were elected by vote. Other than this, the meeting was highly successful with each constituent doing his part with dramatic talent and fervor.

Jack Sweatt took the chair and appointed Clifton Hearn clerk of the assembly. J. C. Crowder, highway-man, read from a paper in his hand the names of J. K. West, E. E. Lane, J. H. King, West, E. E. Lane, J. H. King, A. Buford, as nominees.

Following the reading of these names, C. R. Hanson immediately moved for the nominations to cease (A motion which was entirely out of order according to General Henry M. Robert in his "Robert's Rules of Order for Deliberative Assemblies," or to "Kerfoot's Parliamentary Law," to say nothing of "Mells Manual of Parliamentary Practices.") The motion carried by a vote of 24-18.

Ed Lane was on his feet pleading for adjournment. And taps was sounded over Hagerman's greatest political caucus, with never a motion, nary a vote, on the nominees in question never a word of instruction given to the imaginary delegates, and no provision made for the issuing of legal credentials to them to insure their seats in the county convention.

A quaintly humorous aspect of the entire occasion was that certain of the smaller fry democrats of the community, erroneously supposing that they would have a voice in the meeting, were present with the names of other nominees, including two of Hagerman's finest ladies, but these small suckers were entirely upset in their determination to interrupt the divine right of kings, and the "democratic" Ford just rambled right along.

WILLIAMSON MOVED BACK TO HOME HERE WOUND NOT SERIOUS

Deputy Sheriff Jim Williamson was moved to his home in Hagerman Sunday, after recuperating in Artesia for six days from a gunshot wound inflicted April 18. The wound did not prove to be as serious as was first reported. An X-ray picture revealed that the ball from a .45 automatic entered his body above the heart and angled toward the right side, lodging in his right leg. The ball evidently passed thru a fold in his stomach, which gave the appearance of two wounds, one above and one below the heart.

W. H. (Buzz) Tarrant, denied an implication in the Williamson shooting. Gene Walker, the second member of the trio held in the Kemp Lumber Co., robbery at Elida, is alleged to have told relatives that his gun, a .45 automatic accidentally discharged when he hit Williamson over the head.

A complaint was being drawn at Roswell Monday against Fred Sutton, charging him with the crime of assault with intent to kill, in connection with the firing on Chaves county deputy sheriffs Sam McCue and Homer Dunagan at Roswell Saturday morning, April 16th.

Sutton, who was arrested in Carlsbad by Sheriff Walter McDonald is now in the Chaves county jail awaiting arraignment on this charge. He is also being held for Roosevelt county officers in connection with the robbery of the Kemp Lumber Co., at Elida.

Sutton has maintained complete silence since his arrest, but according to the statement of W. H. (Buzz) Tarrant and Gene Walker Sutton was implicated in the Elida job and was in the car at the time officers were fired on at Roswell.

Tarrant and Walker, officers said, told them that Sutton separated from them on Monday morning near Dexter. Sutton caught a freight train to Carlsbad where he was arrested and Walker and Tarrant were placed under arrest near Lake Arthur by Deputy Sheriff Jim Williamson.

Sutton has been finger printed and the prints have been sent in by officers upon the theory that Sutton has a criminal record.

It was understood here that District Attorney Osborn of Roswell had filed charges of assault with intent to murder against both Tarrant and Walker.

HOBBBS WELL GIVEN BOOST IN NEW TEST BURCH 3 INTERESTING

Potential of the Turner No. 8 of the Midwest Refining Co., in the SW sec. 34-18-38, in the Hobbs field was materially boosted when given a new test recently through the tubing. The Turner flowed at the rate of 7,128 barrels daily with approximately 6,000,000 feet of gas. The water has been completely shut off, a field report states. On a previous test through open casing the Turner was given a rating of 8,000 barrels of fluid daily, twenty-five per cent of which was water.

Another well of the Midwest Refining Co., the State No. 29 in the SW 1/4 sec. 10-19-38, has been completed at approximately 4,170 feet and will likely be given a proration test today. Oil operators say prospects are good for developing a real producer in this test.

The Burch No. 3 of the Grayburg Oil Co., NE sec. 19-17-30, now the most promising well drilling in Eddy county will be completed before the close of the week, unless some unforeseen hindrance occurs. The Burch is down 3,035 feet and is heading about a barrel of oil every time the bit is drawn from the hole.

Preparations are being made by the New Mexico Potash and Chemical Co., to start exploration work on its holdings in the south part of the county. Messrs. Chase of New York and Lamb of Albuquerque have been here this week arranging to purchase materials for the start of the first test, which will be located on deeded land west of Loving and west of the Pecos river. Plans have been made by the company to test its holdings much in the same manner as other companies. Several holes will be core drilled over the prospective area to test the thickness and extent of the potash deposits.

SHUART TELLS HOW WAR ON ROUGH FISH IS MAINTAINED HERE

Harry Shuart, editor of the New Mexico Magazine, who spent a few days fishing in this section last week explains the idea of the state game and fish department in warring on the rough fish of this section:

Now the rough fish outnumber the game fish, living off their eggs. The idea is not to exterminate them, but, to reduce their numbers which will place the game fish live on minnows of the rough variety and complete extermination would not be a friendly act to them.

From a half to a ton of rough fish is being removed daily.

Below Carlsbad, electricity is being used in this work. An electric current is passed through the water. It stuns all of the fish and all the game department workers have to do is wade in and toss the rough fish out in the banks. The game fish recover quickly and go about their business.

At other points the work is being carried on by seining.

DEXTER AND LOVINGTON WIN DECLAMATION AND DEBATE CONTESTS

In the district debating and declamation contests held in the school auditorium Friday afternoon and night, the Dexter debate team composed of Jack Hubbard and Richard Davis, won over Hagerman in the final match and Lovington won the declamation event with their entrant, Edwin Byers.

The declamation contests began at 2:00 p. m., with four entrants Everett Lankford of Hagerman, Jack Henly, of Hobbs and Olva Garner, of Lake Arthur, besides the winner. Everett Lankford took second place, losing by two points making a total of 257, to 258, which won.

The first debate of the afternoon was won by the Dexter team competing against Lovington, the team composed of Frances Neal and Winnie Pearl Byers.

Following this, Hagerman team, Elizabeth McKinstry and Dorothy Sweatt, upholding the affirmative of the question: "Resolved That Compulsory Unemployment Insurance as Practiced by the Several States, is Desirable," defeated the Hobbs team, Jewell Huddleston and Stanley Wimberly.

In the finals, Friday evening, Dexter taking the affirmative, defeated Hagerman.

In the evening, a delicious luncheon was served by the girls of the domestic arts class. The girls prepared the entire meal themselves.

Miss Cleo Holloway and Miss Eldra Dye were in Artesia Sunday afternoon to hear the Simmons University Choral club in a cantata, "The Beatitudes."

ROSWELL WILL ACT AS HOST TO DISTRICT W. O. W. MEET SAT.

Plenty of entertainment is promised those who attend the district meeting of the Woodmen of the World in the Odd Fellows hall at Roswell, Saturday, beginning at 8:00 p. m. G. C. Smith, past head consul and assistant state manager of the Woodmen has announced that a large class of candidates will be initiated by the Clovis drill team. In addition to the initiation ceremonies several Woodmen officials have promised to attend and will make short talks on the work of the order. Officials expected include W. M. Walling, Albuquerque, head consul; J. H. Jackson, junior head consul and L. B. Feather, head clerk, both of Artesia.

Refreshments will be served by the Roswell camps at the close of the meeting.

NEW MEXICO FARMERS SHY ABOUT ASKING FOR THE CROP LOANS

While railroads, banks and big business institutions of the nation are borrowing from the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation in lump sums of as much as $10,000,000 or more, New Mexico farmers are shy of government loans as horses were of automobiles in the late 90's.

New Mexico business leaders agree that the placing in circulation of $1,000,000 for farm supplies would be a genuine stimulant to business, but records of the regional agricultural loan office in Albuquerque of the reconstruction finance corporation indicate that less than $750,000 of the $1,000,000 available for New Mexico farmers will be used.

As April 30 is the "deal-line" for farmers filing applications for Uncle Sam's reconstruction finance corporation money, it is expected there will be a last minute rush in filing applications with county loan committees. While many farmers who have adopted balance farming methods do not require credit, there are thousands of other farmers who do need credit but because of misinformation or lack of information have not applied for loans. Carl Gallagher, federal crop loan supervisor for New Mexico and Arizona reports: "These loans are in no sense charity," said Oscar M. Love, cashier of the Albuquerque National Trust and Saving Bank, Albuquerque, "because this money has to be repaid."

Any deserving farmer who really needs money and is morally entitled to it should take advantage of this opportunity of obtaining a government loan because of the scarcity of commercial credit for financing the present crop.

As to the importance of businessmen giving their support to government crop-production loans, Colonel Albert T. Woods of Artesia, president of the Consumers' Natural Gas Company and chairman of the advisory committee appointed by Governor Arthur Seligman to arrange for New Mexico getting its share of reconstruction finance corporation money, says: "New Mexico is an important agricultural state, and in order for bankers, merchants and public officials to make money, the farmers' business must be healthy. Anything that is done to help the farmer make money will help the banker, businessman, railroader and everybody else."

PECK IS CANDIDATE FOR CHAVES COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Mr. Peck who is an old time resident of this county, has served in the capacity of sheriff for the last two years. He has been identified with Chaves county politics for many years, having served before this term as sheriff.

John C. Peck is a conscientious representative of the law, and, in the event of his election to the office which he seeks, will make Chaves county an efficient public official. He is well known to residents of this community, and of Dexter, and has a great many friends in the two communities.

LINDBERGH CONTACTS KIDNAPERS RECENTLY

HOPEWELL, N. J.—A personal contact with the kidnapers of his son is understood to have been made by Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh in Virginia last week, a high New Jersey official said.

The meeting was reported to have taken place while the famous flier was away from his estate last Monday and Tuesday.

Those with whom he conferred were understood to be the same group which received the $50,000 ransom that Dr. John F. Condon, 72-year old educator, paid to a man in the shadow of a New York cemetery April 2.

The New Jersey official also disclosed the colonel is planning to meet John H. Curtis, Norfolk, (Va.), intermediary, on a boat off the Virginia coast, where they hope to complete the new negotiations and obtain the return of the child.

It was stated on the same high authority that $1,500 of the original ransom bills have been recovered, most of them in or around New York, but that investigators so far have been unsuccessful in tracing them.

BRIDGE CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Losey entertained the regular bridge club in their home Thursday evening.

Four tables of players enjoyed the occasion, with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ware as high score winners. The prize was a souvenir flower pot holder carved out of wood by an ex-soldier who has made a decided success of his interesting vocation.

Refreshments of ice cream, delicious light and dark cake, and coffee were served.

Little Miss Cynthia Wimberly came in Saturday evening for a visit with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wimberly.

Bernice Barnett made a business trip to Carlsbad Wednesday.

THE TOWN BAND

It is safe to say that no institution of a civic nature gives greater returns for the money and effort expended upon it than does a good town band.

Members of the organization are enabled to develop their musical talents in pleasant association with their fellows, while the discipline necessary to their successful advancement is most desirable for boys and young men.

After the band is capable of playing in public its presence adds immeasurably to parades, ceremonies and celebrations of every kind, while its regular concerts are a source of enjoyment for the entire citizenship.

As a business proposition, a good band is of the greatest value in advertising its town. The better the band the better the advertisement of course.

It does not take a large town to maintain a good band; in fact, some of the best amateur bands are found in towns of less than 1,000 population.

With Robert Cumpsten as a leader, and plenty of home musical talent, there is absolutely no reason why Hagerman should not have one of the finest small town bands in the entire state.

AN EDITOR GOES TO HEAVEN

Charles S. Crosse, whose death last year was recorded in the Stoughton Courier-Hub, paper which he had edited for many years, with an obituary notice numbering by his expressed wish only four words, "Charlie Crosse is dead," concluded a discussion of subscription collections at the 1905 convention of the Press Association with a poem picturing an editor in heaven.

The editor gazed, with head bended low, Into the seething, boiling caldron blow. A million lost souls writhed in that awful hole,

And emblazoned there on a big slab of mica, This legend, in bold face extended, sixty line pica: "Delinquent subscribers fricasseed, a la soup."

"Come, come," spake the angel, let us wing our flight, For falling fast are the shades of night.

Where's old Bill been lately. I haven't seen him for months. What? Haven't you 'eard? He got three years for stealin' a car.

THE RUNAWAYS

By H. IRVING KING

EDITH JAFFREYS had two admirers who counted—William Lester and George Calton. As a rule, Lester was away ahead of Calton in the race, but just now a quarrel with William had brought George within measurable distance of the winning post.

The quarrel was about—well, several things; one thing leading to another, as they will when two positive characters get to arguing—smoking by women, bobbed hair "ships and shoes and sealing wax and cabbages and kings."

The first time Edith had refused George Calton, George felt that life had turned to dust and ashes. Each subsequent refusal left him less and less afflicted. Edith had become merely a habit with him, but she had so long been the object of his dreams that he thought she was so still and made love to her automatically.

The evening after Edith's great flare-up with William, George made his semi-annual proposal. This time it went, "Edith, when are you going to throw over Bill Lester and marry me?"

"Mr. Lester and I, with my consent, will never meet again," she answered. "And George, I will marry you at any time."

George was amazed at his own sensations. He knew that he ought to be delightfully joyful; but subconsciously he had a feeling of dismay.

The answer flashed across him suddenly. Helen Marlowe! Yes, hang it! he was in love with Helen Marlowe and engaged to Edith Jaffreys. George groaned as deeply on this, the first night that Edith accepted him, as he had on the first night she had rejected him.

Edith, after George had gone, a first fairly gloated over the hopeless agony that William Lester would suffer when he learned of her new engagement. Then she began to be sorry for him, and by the time she turned off the light and got into bed she was crying.

George had proposed and been accepted on Wednesday. Thursday he did not show up. Friday afternoon Edith packed her bag. She had a great aunt living out on Long Island. Meanwhile George had been going through the same mental processes as Edith. "I shall go crazy if I think of this much longer," thought he. "I can't face this girl! I'll disappear for awhile that's what I'll do. Something may turn up in the meantime."

He packed his bag and bought a ticket for Champlaine, Long Island. It was a small town. He had never been there; but he had heard it had a good hotel which was open the year round. At this season the hotel would not be likely to have many guests and there appeared to be a small chance of encountering anyone he knew.

Five people got off the train at Champlaine. Three of them hurried through the little station to waiting automobiles. Two stood on the platform and stared at each other in consternation. The two were George and Edith.

"Why George?" "Why Edith?" Silence for a minute and then "Where you going somewhere?" from George.

"Oh, no," said Edith, "were you?" "Of course not," replied George trying to assume a look of childlike innocence.

Just then an automobile came rushing up to the station on the further side and two familiar voices were heard in the waiting room. "I knew we would not get here by the time the train did," said the voice of Helen Marlowe.

"What's the difference?" replied the voice of William Lester; and then he and Helen saw George and Edith standing there staring at each other.

With a joyful cry Helen rushed out. William followed more cautiously, as not entirely sure of his reception. "Then you got Jack Huntington's wire all right?" cried Helen. "You see, in making up his house party, he quite forgot to send you invitations. But as soon as William and I arrived he wired at once. But gracious! how did you make the train? He only wired half an hour ago. Edith where are your trunks? Gone astray? Phone at once and find out about them. But first, William, you drive Edith over to Soundedge in the two-seater and send back a car for George and me. George is going to get a wigging in the meantime. He has avoided me now for two whole days.

Edith had never been so glad to see anybody in the world as she was to see William. They made it all up on the ride to Soundedge. Before she got into the car she said: "Remember what I said to you Wednesday night? Of course, you understand I was only joking?" "Oh, perfectly," replied William with beaming face.

TRICKS OF MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

HOW TO CHANGE ONE CARD INTO ANOTHER

Three cards are used in preparing for this trick. Two of the cards are folded in half, and one-half of each is pasted on the face of the third card, which remains straight. The cards are pasted so the creases meet in the center of the third card, and this leaves the other two halves standing upright with backs to each other. These are then pasted together, and you will find that by blending them in either direction you will be able to change one card into the other.

NATIONAL EGG WEEK FROM MAY 1 TO MAY 7

National egg week will be observed this year from May 1 to 7. During this time, consumers are urged to take advantage of the present low price of eggs by serving them as frequently as possible says W. M. Ginn of the New Mexico State College.

Eggs are very cheap. A dozen eggs weighing 1 1/4 pounds can be purchased for 10c to 12c in most producing areas. Of this amount, there is very little waste, there being no bones nor gristle.

Eggs are quickly and easily prepared, requiring only a very slight knowledge of cookery, in most instances.

Eggs are sometimes called "the complete food," since nature prepared the contents for the sole purpose of supporting the growth of the chick for the 21 most delicate days of its life. They are rich in vitamins, minerals and protein. Vitamin A, which prevents ophthalmia (an eye disease) and Vitamin D, which helps prevent rickets, are abundantly supplied by egg yolks. Eggs also carry some of the other vitamins. Rare but essential minerals such as iron, iodine, and phosphorus are obtained by eating eggs. Due to their unique food value and the ease with which they are digested, they are especially recommended for the sick, the very young and the old.

The poultry industry ranks third in agricultural activities, the 1929 census showing it to be over a billion dollar business. Its returns are far ahead of beef cattle, cotton, wheat and many other farm industries of which so much is heard. Almost 90 per cent of the farm families raise some poultry.

Eat more eggs, increase good health, and help 90 per cent of the farmers in the United States.

THE OIL INDUSTRY PAYS MILLIONS INTO THE U. S. TREASURY

Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association made the following statement at a recent hearing of the senate finance committee:

"The oil excise taxes in the proposed revenue law are practically the only ones which will produce large receipts for the federal government without imposing additional burdens upon industry, commerce or the ultimate consumer. At the rate fixed of 1c per gallon upon the various petroleum products, over $40,000,000 will be assured, if we base this estimate upon the average amount of imports for the past three years. The various items upon which this total is estimated are as follows:

Crude oil, 2,636,368,888 gallons at 1c equals $26,363,678.00.
Fuel and gas oil 1,002,734,334 gallons at 1c equals $10,027,343.00.
Gasoline, Naptha and other finished light products 551,349,414 at 1c equals $5,513,494.00.
The total therefore would be $41,904,515.00.

"If the proper distinction had been made between gasoline and crude oil so that the former were taxed at a rate proportioned upon the tax levied on crude oil a 3c impost would have been set as the rate on imported gasoline. In round terms it requires three barrels of crude oil to produce one barrel of gasoline. If the same rate is fixed for both of these commodities, it would be more economic to refine the crude oil before importing it, thus affecting American labor now engaged in American refineries. If this amendment were made, solely to equalize the rates in the present bill, then the tax of 3c per gallon upon gasoline would produce from this single item $16,540,482 instead of only $5,513,494.

"Since, according to the United States Tariff Commission, the differential between foreign and domestic production costs is $1.03, it is self-evident that the imposition of a 42c tax upon a barrel of foreign crude oil will not constitute any embargo and should not materially affect the volume of these imports. Neither should the gasoline tax, even at the increased figure which would make it equitable, constitute any barrier against this foreign product.

"The imposition of this tax upon imported petroleum and its refined products should not impose any additional burdens upon the prices paid by gasoline consumers. It is well known that there is no essential relation between the prices paid for gasoline and the prices paid for crude oil. Comparison of these prices in typical cities of the country over a period of years demonstrates the fact that gasoline has sold at its highest price when the crude oil from which it was produced sold at an unusually low price. Conversely, gasoline has sold at record low prices when the crude oil from which it was produced had reached an unusually high figure. Actually the price of gasoline is determined by the great distributing corporations which manipulate it at their will.

"The fact that incredible dividends were paid during the depression period by the subsidiaries of the oil-importing concerns ranging from 100 per cent to 400 per cent per annum, demonstrates the enormous profits now being reaped by these organizations, at the expense of the consumer. "In the event that the purposes of this tax measure should be defeated by any movement on the part of the great oil-importing corporations to decrease their importations, the nation's requirements could be adequately met by the American petroleum industry which would, thus, be enabled to re-employ approximately 300,000 oil workers now idle with a stimulating effect upon related industries upon which approximately 2,000,000 persons depend

THE OLDEST TOWN OF SOUTHWEST IS FOUND IN NEW MEX.

DENVER, Colorado — Those mysterious diggers in the earth—archaeologists, have discovered the oldest dated ruined town in the southwest 861 A. D., and also unearthed valuable ceremonial deposits in the great sanctuary at Chetro Keti in New Mexico.

Announcement of the findings was made for the first time Monday by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, director of the school of American research in Santa Fe and head of the department of archaeology in the University of New Mexico in a paper read at Monday's session of the 12th annual meeting of the southwestern division of the American association for the advancement of science.

In his paper on "The Excavations in Chaco Canyon, New Mexico, by the school of research and the University of New Mexico," Dr. Hewett announced that "Professor Florence Hawley, assistant for the past three years in the Chaco Canyon excavations, especially in charge of tree ring studies reports that from a beam taken from the crudest masonry of the Una Vida (a ruin two miles above Pueblo Bonito) there is obtained the earliest building date so far known in the southwest—861 A. D. The earliest date heretofore is one from Pueblo Bonito, 919 A. D."

"It will be recalled," said Dr. Hewett, "that in a previous report by Miss Hawley (El Palacio, Feb. 24, 1932) a pilaster beam from the east tower kiva at Chetro Keti yielded a beginning date of 634 A. D., its cutting or building date not determinable, thus carrying Dr. Douglas' tree ring calendar back 90 years earlier than heretofore."

Dr. Hewett also announced the opening of five of the blind niches in the second terrace of the lower level in the great sanctuary, all of which were carefully sealed, and the discovery of valuable deposits of shell beads and turquoise ornaments.

"The principal feature in each deposit," said Dr. Hewett, "was a bead necklace of shell and a black mineral as yet undetermined, together with numerous pendants and buttons of turquoise. A total of 7,713 beads were found.

"The important thing about this find," he continued, "is its indication that the sealed crypts in the ancient period at Chetro Keti were carefully covered and never molested by subsequent occupants, while pointing to the fact that in the upper and later town all niches

EARLY SIGNS OF CANCER

With rare exceptions, there is no pain in the beginning of any kind of cancer. By the time pain is felt, the cancer is usually far advanced in its development.

One of the most common signs that attract a patient's attention to cancer is an unusual growth, which frequently starts without any apparent cause. A small, painless lump appears in the breast. A mole or wart begins to show signs of change. A little thickening is noticed on the tongue or lip. A bone develops a slight swelling. In this very quiet way the growth of cancer may begin.

Another common sign of cancer is an unusual discharge. The very slight "weeping" of the sore on the face which does not heal may mean cancer. The persistent discharge from the nose which fails to respond to ordinary treatment may be due to cancer. A slight discharge from the nipple may indicate a beginning cancer of the heart. The appearance of blood in the stools is frequently one of the first signs of cancer of the rectum, although it is unfortunately not an early symptom of that disease. Blood in the urine is frequently due to cancer of the bladder or the kidney, and is generally the first sign of such trouble. Cancer of the female genital organs frequently gives warning at first by an unusual discharge, which later becomes a hemorrhage.

In cancer of the stomach, persistent unexplained indigestion is often the first symptom. Lack of appetite, especially for meats, and a peculiar disturbance of taste early in the majority of cases.

Unfortunately, some of the deep-seated cancers give no early signs which make their existence known to the patient.

The commoner forms of cancer, however, usually present early signs which can readily be recognized by the average individual.

This is the fifth of a series of ten articles on cancer prepared for the New Mexico Bureau of Public Health by the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Financial Independence

That men have attained financial independence in years passed, does not mean that they have miserably in saving or have resorted to crooked means to attain their end. It means that they have wisely as well as saved wisely. They realized tomorrow would not take care of itself unless vision was made for its coming. They did not extravagantly in the days of high prices, when positions and jobs were plentiful. Possibly the men attained financial independence, could be classed as prophets, but they did not refuse to view conditions in their actual light. They started a plan of right thinking and right living with waiting for a more propitious time.

Financial independence does not mean that man who occupies the coveted position occupies a pedestal alone nor does it mean that he has for his friends to attain this position. It is secondary to the man who has attained this position is able to meet perplexing problems without employment or business. He is in position to take any opportunities and thus add prestige to his business or profession.

There Was a Man--

WHO used electricity AND used it EVERY DAY of his life HE used it at home AND in his business HE used it for light HE used it for power ALL this time HE simply pushed a WHEN he wanted LIGHT or when HE wanted power HE just turned THE switch MONTH in and MONTH out he ALWAYS got what HE wanted when HE pushed the BUTTON or pulled THE switch. SWEET are the USES of adversity BECAUSE until the HE failed to get WHAT he expected WHEN he pulled THE switch and PUSHED the button HE failed to realize THAT many men AND much equipment ARE on the job AT all times TO make it possible FOR him to turn THE switch and PUSH the button AND get what he WHEN he wanted it
