TEMPTING DISHES MADE FROM GREEN TOMATOES

It is surprising how many good dishes can be made with green tomatoes, says Miss Veda Strong of the New Mexico State College. Why leave them on the vines until some cold night comes along and ruins them? They should be brought in before they freeze and served to the family. The vines themselves can be pulled up, with the tomatoes still on them, and hung in a cellar or other cool place, and the tomatoes used as needed.

Green tomatoes can be used for pickles, in picalilli, or sliced and fried, first dipping in flour or fine bread crumbs; they can also be fried with sliced onions.

Many of the favorite ways of preparing ripe tomatoes will also do for green tomatoes. Plain stewed green tomatoes are delicious; so is cream of green tomato soup.

Have you ever heard of green tomato pie? Have you ever made green tomato marmalade with tomatoes, sugar, lemons and a bit of salt? Do you know that mincemeat to the queen's taste can be made from green tomatoes mixed with chopped apples, raisins, currants, citron, brown sugar and plenty of spice?

Following is recipe for green tomato marmalade. This makes a fine spread for many occasions, being especially good with hot biscuits.

Houses Simple and Lasting The early Connecticut houses, like the dwellings in New England, were stout, honest buildings because the conditions required them to be so. They were intimate and domestic because they were the economic and social centers of Colonial life. They were simple and plain. They expressed the principle of truth above all else, for they were concerned only with the fundamentals of life, of existence, without fixings, without extras. It was perhaps the closest alliance of function with design. They lasted to present times because the materials themselves were as stout and true as the conception.

POPULATION CHANGES MANY ELECTORAL VOTES THIS YEAR

One factor in the 1932 election which has largely been lost sight of is the change in the so-called electoral college—a factor which, in the case of a close election, may bear an all-important place.

For instance, states which are normally republican have gained six votes at the expense of states that are democratic normally on the basis of the 1930 reapportionment made by the congress in the electoral college. This reapportionment was based upon the shift in the proportion of population in the states.

There was an actual shift of 27 electoral votes, 21 states having lost one or more votes while 11 have gained.

The distribution of votes in the old and new college is as follows:

Table showing distribution of electoral votes in old and new colleges across various states like Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, etc.

Master Seedless Secret: South African planters have mastered the secret of growing seedless grapefruit and bulk supplies are now beginning to be exported. A careless plowman discovered the secret originally. His blade came in contact with a grapefruit root and a small tree, growing from the incision, produced sterile (seedless) grapefruit. South African growers experimented and found that similar fruit could be produced only under special conditions.

A NEBRASKA WOMAN CARRIED MAIL 30 YEARS

Thirty years ago the first woman rural mail carrier in the U. S. was driving a pair of bronchos cross country over Nebraska prairies and clay hills to deliver mail to its scattered houses.

From then until last July, Mrs. Ruth Kenyon of Monroe, Nebraska has been on the job of mail carrier, bucking blizzards, windstorms and runaways, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The team of bronchos in time gave way to a motor car, and although the thirty miles of her route are now all graded roads, there are still very few hard-surfaced roads in her district.

Frozen hands and feet were a commonplace occurrence during the long hard winters of driving, when the thermometer often went to 28 or 29 below zero. Often the approach of one of the sudden snow blizzards forced her to turn about and put in for shelter, to avoid being snowed under.

Snowstorms are so severe, Mrs. Kenyon said, that on her father's farm where she lived men and women often tied themselves together with ropes to make the trip from the farmhouse to the barn to feed the stock.

Mrs. Kenyon has been visiting her sister in Philadelphia, Mrs. Walter Garretson. She is a slender, blue-eyed woman, 50-odd and youthful, with auburn hair. The Indians among whom she used to live as a child called her "Wallie's red-haired girl."

"I could carry mail for ten more years," she said, a little wistfully. "When I found I was to be retired on the act compelling retirement of all those eligible to pension I was too unhappy to attend the annual state convention, though I have missed few state and national conventions during my term of service."

Mrs. Kenyon has had a picturesque life. She went to the west with her father, William Wallace Manington, at the age of 5.

As a little girl she was the only white child among 115 Indian children in the government Indian school in Indian Territory. Years later, when she visited an Indian encampment near Pawnee City, she found among its men and women many of the children she had played with.

They gave a dance and a war-whoop and made a great fuss over her, and later invited "Miss Ruth" to a ceremonial feast.

She was still a little girl when her father and mother left the Indian reservation for Nebraska, riding 500 miles on a pony beside their wagon train. Her mother, she remembers, traded her sewing machine and the cow to Indians for supplies as they traveled.

"The first fall we were in the section that is now the state of Oklahoma, 700 Indians died because they were not acclimated to the reservation," she said. "They had a simple means of treating 'chills and fever.' When the chills came on they would go out and lie in the sun. When the fever seized them they would jump in the creek to get cool."

Mrs. Kenyon took up mail carrying on the advice of her doctor to get into the air. She had been a dressmaker. She liked it too well to give it up, and most of the families she served are her friends. During nearly thirty years' service she has been off duty only about three months. The number of stops on her mail route has nearly doubled since she began work.

Last winter Mrs. Kenyon was forced to abandon her car for horses because of the worst winter of the whole thirty years. For the only time during her mail carrying she was forced to take a man helper with her, to dig a path through the snow.—Kansas City Star.

DON'T WATCH POTS, BE 'OVEN CONSCIOUS'

Do you believe that "a watched pot never boils"? Yes or no, it makes no difference, for it's certain you don't enjoy watching pots! And you don't need to, if you are, as the psychologists say, "oven conscious."

Oven cooking is good cooking, and it is easy cooking. You just pop the food into a baking dish, then into the oven and let the trusty stove do the work. The oven produces an even cooking, too, and dieticians aver that food thoroughly cooked in this way is good for us. Besides which, it saves fuel, and enables you to cook your whole dinner at the same time. Best of all, you can even "read and cook" (or indulge in some other pastime, if you are not literary-minded) if you use your oven!

If your stove is equipped with a regulator, you are lucky; if not you might as well invest in an oven thermometer. If you have neither, use the "flour" or "paper" test. Flour is better because it is more uniform than paper. Use ordinary standard bread flour, spread a teaspoonful or less about 1/4 inch thick on a pan. If paper is used, be sure it is the unglazed white variety. Either flour or paper will turn a light golden brown in the time stated. Cut out this handy table:

Handy Oven Table

1 egg plant 1 tsp. onion
1 cup soft bread Salt and pepper crumbs
2 tbsps. Mazola crumbs

Cook egg plant fifteen minutes in boiling water to cover. Cut slice from top and with spoon remove pulp. Chop pulp and add one cup soft stale bread crumbs. Heat Mazola and add finely chopped onion. Cook two minutes. Add pulp, season with salt and pepper, and if necessary, moisten with a little stock or water. Cook five minutes. Fill egg plant and cover with browned crumbs. Bake 25 minutes in hot oven, 450° F. Remember that the bland oil used in this recipe is such as to bring out the true flavor of the vegetable.

1 1/2 tbsps flour 1/4 cup milk
1 tsp. baking 1 pkg. pasteurized powder
1 cup sugar 1 cup dried bread crumbs
2 eggs 1 cup nut meats

You will welcome a suggestion for the use of bread crumbs. Remember to use only pasteurized dates when you make this delicious pudding.

G. O. P. OPENS STATE CAMPAIGN TUESDAY

New Mexico's political battle got underway at Socorro Tuesday night as the republicans opened their first offensive drive in the 1932 election campaign with former Governor R. C. Dillon, candidate for governor, firing the first shot.

Mr. Dillon, speaking on taxation, said, "I want to assure the voters of New Mexico that my first concern shall be a reduction of taxes by reducing expenditures wherever they may be cut without doing more harm than good."

During the address, he declared that "property taxes must come down," and said he believed the two remedies to the tax situation involved "reduction of expenditures where reduction can be made without doing more harm than good," and the enactment of a "law by which the burden of necessary taxation can be better distributed."

HEALTH COLUMN

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp, Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

THERE MAY BE A FOOL

"Drive Carefully; There May Be a Fool Ahead." So reads a sign in the Black Hills. A poor driver may cause an accident all by himself. Often, however, it takes a good driver as well. The good driver can say afterwards, if he is still able to talk, that the other fellow stole his right of way, cut a corner, had no brakes or did not sound his horn. Being in the right will not mend a broken arm. It is better to yield your right of way to a road hog (masculine or feminine) than to be both right and wrecked. Never assume that the other driver is either intelligent or polite until you have had time to find out.

They discovered up in Massachusetts that nearly six tenths of the accidents were caused by less than two-tenths of the drivers. They had the good idea of sending for these unskillful drivers and finding out what they were doing which got them into accidents. Before this driving clinic was held 985 drivers had 1,937 accidents or violations in six months. After the clinic the same 985 drivers had only 17 accidents in the course of three months.

There are many people who believe that no one should be allowed to drive until he has passed a medical examination for physical efficiency and a driving test to show that he can manage his machine. Neither of these is required in New Mexico. But your doctor will examine you if you ask him. And you can examine yourself on the rules. Read the traffic regulations printed on the back of the official road map. Grade yourself!

LARGE CAVE FOUND IN GUADALUPE MTS.

A large cave believed to have been occupied by a group of men seeking to evade compulsory military service during the World War has been discovered by federal forest officials in the Guadalupe mountains, it was recently learned at Alamogordo.

It was well known that during the war draft there were many men in hiding in the mountains. The cave which was discovered is in an isolated and uninhabited section which officers said would make an ideal hideout.

Copies of a newspaper dated 1917 were found in the cave and there were other indications it was occupied during war days, forest officials said.

The discovery was made while the officials were checking up on herds of Rocky Mountain sheep. Incidentally, they mentioned that during war days the bands of sheep were greatly depleted, apparently being killed for food by men who were in hiding.

SIXTY-TWO HUNTERS GET ANTELOPE BUCK

Every one of the 62 hunters who got permits to hunt antelope on the St. Augustine plains got his buck, State Game Warden Elliott Barker reported Thursday. The season closed October 5th.

The state game department planned to issue 300 permits, but there were only 62 applicants. Barker said all of the 300 bucks could have been taken without seriously depleting the herds.

"There is no reason why we cannot have a permit season every year," he said, "permitting about 100 bucks to be taken annually—for a time at least."

There were no hunting accidents. Barker was disappointed in that the hunting failed to scatter the herds, sending the antelope into adjacent areas. The number of bucks slain was so small that there was no alarm and the herds remained on their customary ranges.

COMMENTS ON THE N. MEX. STATE FAIR

(By an observer)

"It seems to me that each year new ideas would be exhausted as to decorating floats, but each year they seem prettier."

"What a ship! What a ship! Oh, and say don't I wish my ship would come drifting in."

"Say that Dexter float!"

And from one of our neighbors on the first afternoon, "You know I think it is wrong to have this carnival during such times, look at all this money being spent and those families will need that this winter."

"These are the usual Coe apples."

And a small boy putting his arms around a wistful and tired looking mother, "Mother, come over here you can see better."

Those poland China hogs certainly never had dwarfs for ancestors, and we wonder if we would not feel a little shaky to meet them on a dark night all alone. The livestock was all in excellent condition, and worthy of blue ribbons, we also wonder if they don't feel their importance. At least they appear to have that suavity of success.

And oh, the attractive store windows, possibly we noticed them more on Roswell day.

(GUESS WHO?)

"Well I'll want a pretty practical dress, I thought that during the fair was such a good time to buy, I like red, something to preserve my youth." (we want to add, "school girl appearance").

That picturesque caballero is Damon, and what do you know, in the old timers parade, well! well! thirty years is not so long, and look there is papa Jim wearing his white sombrero and E. D. Menoud and Mmes. Nail and Hamilton. (Which reminds me we heard one little lady say she was never going to be in the old timers parade, for it would be admitting her age, now guess who, again). There are some others we are going to give away next year, but we will spare them that long.

Did you see the graceful smooth rhythm of those old time dancers, and hear that dreamy waltz, that old fiddler won the contest on the last night, and did you say happy! Well, he certainly could fiddle with a smile.

We lost our hearts to those two bands, their costumes, their vigor makes us wish for youth once more. Just let those scarlet and white or the royal purple and white come down the street, and watch the stampe. And did you notice the remarkable number of blondes in the Clovis band?

Jiminy Christmas! Oh, boy, howdy! some body hold me, or I'll fly off to China before this whirl-a-ma-gig stops.

That little jockey, dressed in red and white needs weights in his shirt, but he can ride. We bet Whitey Stewart practiced in his boyhood days. And say that riding act of Bill's was the envy of everyone.

Hank Kennan says in the times of depression he will trade his galluses, for one of those Hereford bulls. Since they are all in the capacity of earning the living.

Do you know the handsome, courteous gentleman at the old timers dinner, and why he wins votes?

We would like to board with the people by the name of Wheelers this winter, judging from the blue ribbons, we know they are good cooks.

Well, its over, and the sad faces in that carnival the last night, all the passions, ambitions and woes of the pulsing humanity radiating from their eyes, soon they will go trekking once more over the long trail to the next event of their lives, and the world moves on.

GAME PLENTIFUL SAYS STATE WARDEN

SANTA FE—An abundance of big game awaits the nimrods of New Mexico and adjoining states on the opening of the deer season and bear season in this state October 25 Elliott Barker, state game warden said yesterday.

Hunters this year will have a chance to hunt deer, bear, squirrels, wild turkey, quail, band tailed pigeons, geese and ducks, Barker said, as the seasons in many cases overlap, particularly during the month of November.

The big game season, which requires a big game hunting license, opens October 25 and closes November 15. During this period deer, bear, squirrels and wild turkey may be taken. From November 16 until December 10 bear may be hunted with dogs. Hunting with dogs is prohibited during the period from October 25 to November 15. Each hunter will be allowed one buck only this year during the deer season.

The quail season opens November 10 and closes December 10.

Church Pew Space
The minimum spacing for church pews back to back is 30 inches—32 or even 33 inches to be preferred. A space of 18 inches in the length of the pew is considered a sitting. The actual seating capacity can be determined only by drawing the floor plan and then measuring the linear feet of the pews. For approximate values six or seven square feet may be allowed for each seat.

Best Lighting
Artificial light should resemble sunlight as much as possible, ample to see to work by but not too glaring. Electric light is probably best because it does not consume oxygen from the air of the room, nor does it give out to the air any waste products. Light should not fall directly on the eyes, but should come from the side or behind the shoulder.

In Use
Mrs. — started to get ready to go to church. She hunted the house over for her rubber reducing corset. It simply could not be found.

In desperation she went to her young daughter's room to awaken her and see if she knew anything about the all-important article. Sleepy little Miss Fifteen was aroused sufficiently to reply to the almost demand:

"Where is my rubber corset?"
"I got it on."

FEDERAL FUNDS ARE ON TAP FOR FARMERS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Funds were on tap Saturday at four agricultural credit corporations for loans to farmers and stockmen.

The reconstruction corporation, which established these regional agricultural agencies, said that $12,000,000 was in the treasury subject to drafts up to $3,000,000 each by the credit corporations at Sioux City, Salt Lake City, Spokane and Columbus.

This announcement was made Friday shortly after South Trimble, clerk of the house, made public the corporation's August loan report to congress, overruling objections of Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board. It showed loans aggregating $186,209,310 were authorized during August.

It was learned also that the reconstruction corporation, which has encouraged applications for self-liquidating loans, has encountered legal difficulties in the way of some of the advances and has its legal department at work trying to overcome them.

In announcing that money now was available for the four agricultural agencies, Ford Hovey, who directs this work for the finance corporation, said first loans would be made immediately. He added: "A vast amount of preliminary work and detail has been necessary to establish these agencies and it is hoped that through the credit facilities offered, much necessary relief will be provided to this basic industry."

The reconstruction corporation's report to congress showed that $107,500,000 had been made available to the secretary of agriculture for crop production loans that $64,201,989 had been disbursed up to September 1.

During August the corporation received 1,151 applications for loans and granted 1,110. Of the total authorized loans, banks and other financial institutions and railroads received $122,277,641.

States were authorized to borrow a total of $13,931,669 for relief purposes. The sum of $35,000,000 was made available to the American Cotton Cooperative Association and $15,000,000 to the Cotton Stabilization Corporation. In addition, another $10,000,000 was allocated to the secretary of agriculture for loans for crop production purposes.

WILD HOBBS WELL SOAKS PART OF THE RESIDENCE SECTOR

Fire from a wild oil well threatened the central residential section of Hobbs Tuesday, when the control head blew off the Turner No. 1 well of the Skelly Oil Co. This well was completed the first of September and the Olson Drilling Co., had just completed moving the rig when the control head blew off and the oil spouted high in the air. Three blocks of the resident section was soaked with oil when the well flowed for an hour before being shut off. Residents hastily abandoned their homes endangered and moved back late Tuesday afternoon.

Dulcimer Long Played
The dulcimer is one of the oldest of musical stringed instruments and it is said shows fewer changes from early times than practically any other. It consists of a flat board with two converging strips fastened across, on which strings are stretched and tuned to the natural scale. The German name "Hackbrett" (chopping board) indicates the way of playing, the wires or strings being struck with two hammers, one in each hand.

Nest in High Altitude
A ranger in Mount Rainier National park recently reported finding a grouse's nest in the White river section at an elevation of about 5,000 feet, that was situated at the base of a hollow nearly two feet deep in the snow. The hen apparently had made her nest in a slight depression in the snow, with no lining of grasses, and the warmth of her body had melted out the hollow to its surprising depth.

Kneading Bread
The bread kneading machine has long been the most familiar mechanical unit in the bakery and dates at least to 1700, when a Frenchman, Sallgrac, devised a model in which narrow-shaped arms, mechanically operated, mixed the dough in a trough. The Boland machine, which dates from about the middle of the Eighteenth century, was also of French origin.

WILD GEESSE MOVE TO SOUTH
If the migration of wild geese means colder weather, winter is on its way. Tuesday a flock of geese was seen flying southward, after cold and snow was reported in many Rocky Mountain states.
