PARADE OF THE G. A. R.

Lovely Weather and Great Crowds of Spectators Smile Upon the Old Veterans at Boston.

Boston, Aug. 12.—The day opened perfectly for the Grand Army demonstrations. Light clouds obscured the sun's rays. The thermometer was 67 at 9 a. m., with a nice breeze. It is estimated that 100,000 strangers were in the city.

Before 8 o'clock the roar of cannon from the fleet in the harbor announced that the Dispatch, with Secretary Tracy, Vice President Morton and General Sherman, was coming up the bay, and half an hour later another salute announced its arrival in the harbor, President Harrison breakfasted early, and shortly before 9 o'clock he received the Governor and State delegation, and the party took carriages and rude over a portion of the route of the parade to view the decorations. During the ride the President was the recipient of many expressions of good-will and .respect from the crowds along the way.

Meantime the formation of the great parade was proceeding on Commonwealth Avenue. The Common and the streets adjacent were black with marching hosts, while many thousand spectators witnessed the maneuvers from the public garden and every other spot in the neighborhood where space could be procured. There was an unexpected delay in the formation of the column, owing to the late. ness of the arrival of some delegations and the difficulty of massing so large a force in such narrow quarters. The departments ranged on Commonwealth Avenue in the order of seniority, Illinois leading and Massachusetts, as the receiving department, occupying the left of the line. At 11:30 a. m. all was ready, and Commander-in-Chief Alger, with a full staff of mounted men, escorted by the One Hundred and Thirteenth Massachusetts Cavalry and headed by a corp of mounted police, rode to the head of the Illinois depart. ment, the band struck up "God Bless the Soldiers," and at the command of the leader the greatest military street pageant evre seen in Boston began marching.

At 10:20 strains of "Hail to the Chief" and rousing cheers announced the coming of the President, and a few minutes later a carriage drawn by four horses, drove hastily up and Governor Brackett sprang out, quickly followed by President Harrison. The second carriage bore Vice President Morton and Mayor Hart, followed by the carriages of Secretaries Noble, Proctor, Tracy, Rusk, Private Secretary Halford, Admiral Girard, Governor Dillingnam and staff of Vermont, Hon, Wm. Mc. Kinley, Hon. Cabot Lodge, General Daniel Sickles, Governor Davis of Rhode Island, ex-Governor Barlow and other prominent Scarcely had the applause which greeted the Presidential party subsided when there was a flutter of excitement, which broke into hearty cheers as the familiar face of Mrs. John A. Logan appeared above the sea of upturned faces. Mrs. Logan was accompanied by Mrs. Alger. These ladies were followed by Mrs. Mc-Kee, Lillian Nordica, the prima donna, and their hostess, Mrs. A. L. Coolidge. Mrs. McKee was the center of attraction, quite overshadowing her illustrious father in her fresh beauty. Miss Noble, accompanied by a friend, was also of the waiting party. The party broke into groups. Mr. Harrison entered into conversation with Mrs. Logan, gallantly handing her the small bouquet which he carried.

Just as the chimes of newTrinity rung at 11 o'clock, a great cheer went up which simultaneously announced the arrival of General Butler. The appearance of General Alger, who rode a spirited bay, was the signal for the arising of Mr. Harrison and cabinet. As each department came in front of the stand, colors were dipped, hats raised, and in many instances rousing cheers given for the president, "Uncle Jerry" coming in for the lion's share of the attention when Wisconsin passed in review. At 1:40 p. m. a squad of mounted police, immediately followed by Commander-in-Chief R. A. Alger and staff, made their appearance in Adams' Square. The commander and staff were received on the reviewing stand by General B F. Butler and others. General Butler had been on the stand since 1 o'clock, having come over from Copely Square. Hardly had he taken his position in the reviewing stand, when the head of the procession came into sight. Generals Alger and Butler stood side by side saluting column after column as they passed.

After the long march which the veterans had undergone, they braced themselves for a good appearance as they passed their commander and did finely. Some of the posts seemed to be in as fresh condition as when they started. Post C, of Chicago. gave the first cheers at a call of "Hurrah for our next President," and they were given heartily. Next came a call for "Three cheers for General Butler," from a Wisconsin post and they were given with a will. In fact, the honors were well divided between the two throughout the passing of the procession. On the appearance of the Pennsylvania posts with their battered battle flags, rousing cheers went up from the crowds on all hands.

The entire parade was a series of ovations for all the departments along the line from scores of thousands of patriotic citizens. Clouds protected the marching veterans from the sun without wetting them, while the rain which had fallen last night made the streets as hard as a floor.

EXECUTED BY ELECTRICITY.

Death of the Murderer, Kemmler, at Auburn Penitentiary.

The first man to be executed under the new law of New York State, which provides for the use of electricity in executing capital sentences, was William Kemmler. A number of invited guests, mostly doctors, were present at the hour for the execution-six o'clock.

The stated hour had arrived and fifteen minutes more before Dr. Spitzka arrived with a case of instruments in hand. Drs Shrady and Jenkins, of New York, were yet missing. They were yet at the hotel table. At 7 o'clock the 1,200 convicts would be marched out from the mess-room to the shops, and then the belting to operate the dynamo way down in the loft of the marble shop could not be run on without the prisoners' knowledge that Kemmler was to die. No one could tell what spirit might be developed by the men in striped clothes if such knowledge was forced upop them. The agent and warden therefore grew momentarily more impatient.

"Gentlemen, I will not wait any longer for those who are not here," he exclaimed at length, after peering a last time down to the iron gate. "This affair cannot be made subject to personal convenience, and I think it unfair to me that I should have been kept waiting until this hour.

The party proceeded at once to the execution room where chairs were placed for the visitors. In the meantime Kemmler in his cell was being prepared for death. It was explained to him that he must have the top of his head shaved. The prisoner demurred. He had taken great pains dressing his hair, and, besides, as he explained to the warden, he did not want to be disfigured. He wanted the people to see and know that he was not a man of repulsive appearance, as had been stated Nevertheless his head was shaved and then the death warrant was read to him-Having been taken to the death chamber' he was asked if he had anything to say before he died. His answer was: "Well, I wish everybody good luck in the world," he said in easy, steady tones, "and I'll go to a good place; and the papers have been saving lots of stuff about me that ain't so.

The mask covered his eyes, grasped his chin and firmly pressed his forehead. "It was not well fitted," Kemmler said, and he spoke to direct its proper adjustment. "Do everything right, Mr. Dunston." said he, "and push down that more on top tween the shoulders while the mask was buckled back so tightly that the edge was buried in the skin of the nose and fore- land. head. Once more he spoke, and they were his last words.

"Well, I want to do the best I can; I can't do any better than that," he said.

"God bless you, Kemmler, you have done well," spoke Dr. Spitzka, in his quick, nervous way, and there were pitying tears in many eyes, and husky voices muttered: 'You have, Kemmler, you have." Every strap had been tightened, each electrode had been pressed to the seat of life; the warden's deputy stepped back.

There was a hush. The warden inquired of Drs. McDonald and Spitzka how long time with the Welch party. Immediately the current should be maintained in Kemmler's body. The first response was twenty seconds, which was almost instantly changed to ten seconds.

his secret room. And at that moment Dr. Fell of Buffalo, who made the death-chair. was dropping water from a bulb syringe through a long rubber tube into the electrode sponges. The warden reappeared from the ante-room.

"Well, everything is ready," he said, while he faced the death chair, six feet away. The bound man in the chair had heard every word. His hands were clinched and rigid. He awaited the shock. The hour was 6 o'clock and 431/4 minutes.

The warden turned and nodded his head to some one who stood in the secret room at the fatal switch. There was a convulsive start of the bound figure in the chair, a little squeaking sound of straining straps, breathless watchers with every sense bent upon the moveless wretch bound head and foot, and no sound save and was extremely handy with his gun. bird songs in the bright sunshine outside Those who know Welch best think he will the windows. Drs. Spitzka and Dr. Shrady make a determined resistance against drawn by deep interest almost unconsciously from their places, moved on tiptoe to places by the chair. But all was still and no one spoke. Every faculty was contributing to that of vision. Such a scene there never was on earth before. No man had ever before died thus by the deliberate purpose of his fellow man. if possible. A close watch was kept, and After the convulsive start that marked at 9 o'clock he rode into Arlington stating the stroke of lightning upon Kemmler, that he was looking for stray mules. He there was no movement of muscle or bought feed for his mules, ate his supper twitch of nerve. The features from bridge of nose to chin seem to have been pursed yards one mis south of town to camp for up as one facing a sleety storm or of one the night. In town he was identified, and breathing a powerful dust wind.

But was it death? Who should say! The law demanded life. And so they watched and listened in teen seconds.

rent," said the warden's chosen physician, Spitzka, and the warden passed the word within the adjoining room, where someone had turned on the current and where the same one cut it off. Then spoke the doc-

"There," he exclaimed, as he strode away from the chair, to a knot of witnesses at the other end of the room, "there is the culmination of ten years' work and study. We live in a higher civilization from this day."

But even while he spoke, a quick, sharp cry went up from those yet closely watching about the silent figure in the chair. There had been a movement in the breast of the man whom all believed had died one minute and forty-seven'seconds before. Soon there was another movement, accompanied by a sudden gasp, and then the breast began to heave with long, deep. stentorious respirations.

"Start the current, start the current again," shouted Dr. Spitzka.

All crowded about the chair and watched the laboring wretch whose breast, despite the broad tight bands about him, was rising and falling with strong force. The doctors declared, however, that the man was beyond consciousness, and some thought the action which had startled and sent the warden away with a white face to order the current renewed, was only a reflex muscular action. Not so.

Meantime Mr. G. G. Bain, of Washington, D. C., had fainted and lay upon a bench where he was being fanned.

This spectacle was continued from 6:45 to 6:51. Then there came again to the figure in the chair another shock in which the straps were strained again. The lungs, however, filled again and again while the current was pouring through the unconscious body.

At 6:51 smoke was observed curling up from Kemmler's back.

"He's burning," shouted one of them. "Cut off the current," cried another.

"There's no use keeping up the current longer," said some one else.

Again the warden gave the signal to open the switch, and the body in the chair, surcharged with four distinct shocks that had been given it, developed no further movement. And the murderer was dead.

He did not wish to see any change in the rules of the Senate if it could be avoided. But there was a duty imposed upon the majority. It was responsible for the delay, although it did not cause the delays. Sena-tors would have to perceive as sensible men that some time or other the majority would have to take the responsibility of

Mr. Teller said that as to the question of haste in passing the bill, he was not disposed to deny its opponents a fair and free discussion. Nay, he wanted it in the interest of the bill. He was willing to stay and discuss the tariff question, or allow it to be discussed, because he believed the American people wanted to know whether the bill was a proper revision of the tariff. If it occupied the Senate till December the Senators could not complain, unless there was an undue consumption of time.

UNFORTUNATE KANSAS.

Prairie Fires Destroying What the Sun had not Burned Up.

That which the Kansas farmers have feared has come to pass. Prairie fires are devastating the western counties of the State and are spreading in spite of the most strenuous efforts of the people to check them. In Ford and Edwards counties the fires appear to break out from spontaneous combustion, and they burn so fiercely that they sweep over large tracts of country, leaving nothing but the bare ground in their track. In the northern part of Ford County, a tract twenty miles square was burned over inside of two hours after the flames started. The cornfields are like so much tinder, and when the fire strikes one edge of a field it passes through it with the quickness of a flash of lightning.

Nearly all the farmers are preparing for the advent of fire by burning patches around their homes, and this has proven to be a wise precaution in the case of Francis E. Clark, who lives in the northeast corner of the county. When the farmers began to patrol the country for the purpose of preventing fires, Clark strongly advocated the protection of each house by burning a strip around the buildings. He thus protected his own property. On Friday a fire was started about ten miles northeast of Dodge City and rapidly made its way before the southwest wind. Clark's house stood in the center of a large field of corn which was dried yellow by the sun's action. A space of about one hundred feet had been cleared around the houses and the ground was perfectly bare. When the fire reached the corn; it was but an instant until it had passed clear across the field and the house stood in the center of a roaring mass of flames. It took the constant efforts of the entire family to prevent the houses from catching and for two hours the fight was continued. Dozens of times the roof or sides of either the house or outbuildings were on fire and when the danger was over the house had the appearance of having received a coat of black paint. Two fine colts and a cow that were in a lot broke away and fled before the fire and their charred bodies were found in the field after the flames had passed.

Reports from these fires come from all parts of the counties mentioned, and in many instances there have been hairbreadth escapes from loss of life. So far there has been no loss of either life of people or of buildings, but in numerous instances the live stock has been destroyed in addition to the total destruction of grons

When a man sells out his business, good will and all, for a good round sum, on account of "ill health," and then turns around and uses the money for embarking in the same business, and in trying to "down" the party he sells out to, is he to be considered an honorable gentleman?

It is reported that the Commissioner of the Land Office has issued an order stopping all entries in the arid regions. in accordance with the Attorney General's opinion on the act of Oct. 2. 1888. This is probably done for the purpose of forcing the present Congress to repeal the obnexious act at once.

THE Democratic tickets, both District and County, will be elected by a good rousing majority, if the true Democrats will do their duty. The chances are good for electing a Democratic Legislature in New Mexico this fall, and if the Lincoln District does her duty she will have two Democratic legislators in that body which will be a credit and a material benefit to our section.

Roswett and Eddy are the twin sisters of the Pecos Valley, the one the Pride, the other the Pearl. THE REGIS-TER hopes that the beauty of the Pride and the lustre of the Pearl will never fade: Iset us have no jealous bickerings, either, in future. What we need is the development and advancement of the entire valley. The interests of the two towns will not materially clash. There is plenty of room for both of them to make prosperous, bustling cities, and this they are both bound to do.

This people of the arid region are apparently very slow in their comprehension of the situation in regard to the act of 1888. That act, if enforced according to the decision of the Attorney General, will ruin the arid region, or at least give us a set-back that we cannot recover from in ten years. Right now the investment of half a million dollars (private capital) in an enterprise for reclaiming 150,000 acres of desert land adjacent to Roswell, is being retarded owing to the decision. There are hundreds of other enterprises of the same kind that are being delayed, if not abandoned. The people of the arid re-gion must be up and doing if they wish to accomplish anything. And the press of the section most injured has been strangely silent on the subject.

"There is not a section or line in the thitre (McKinley) bill that will open a market for another bushel of wheat or snother barrel of pork." From James G.

G. A. Richardson has received letter from Hon. A. Joseph, dated Aug. 14, saying that the petition for increase of mail service between Seven Rivers and Roswell, was indorsed by him and he had recommended that it be granted. So we will undoubtedly soon have an other daily mail line connecting us with the outside world. Mr. Joseph's letter winds up with a most important postscript, containing great good news for this session of Congress."

Our people should organize a Roswell Sanitary and Street Improvement club, to which every citizen should belong and take an active interest in. There will be plenty of strangers in Roswell during the next few months, and many of them will be capitalists seeking locations for profitable investments. If we pression upon them, our chances for inducing them to invest here will be materially advanced. Let us organize, keep our streets, back yards alleys and protect those now growing. The cost terns. will be repaid a thousand fold in increased property values, to say nothing of increased healthfulness and comfort, besides the favorable impression we will make upon dur visitors. We have all story brick front when it is erected. the natural advantages for making a large and prosperous city. If we do not improve them no one will suffer so much as ourselves, whilst other towns will profit by our neglect.

They Will Not Fail.

From the Santa Fe New Mexican. Mr. J. J. Hagerman, the organizer of New Mexico's latest railway enterprise, the Pecos Northern railroad, is a man of remarkable success, and that road will surely be built. Mr. Hagerman was the projector of the Colorado Midland railroad, an engineering wonder that has attracted the attention of the world, as it tunnelled miles of rocks and pierced the very clouds in order to give the mining camps of Colorado a standard guage outlet for their ores. Many predicted its failure when it commenced but had to applaud the men who carried it through in the end. For the past two years Mr. Hagerman has joined forces with Hon. C. B. Eddy in the Pecos Valley and there these gentlemen have scored a triumph none the less great than that achieved by Mr. Hagerman in Colorado, for the desert has been made to more than blossom at their bidding. Having conquered the mountains and the plains, it seems that Mr. Hagerman is the proper man now to undertake the tieing together of the mountains and the gulf. Already his forces are at work constructing the Pecos Valley railroad to Eddy and when that is finished, November 5 next, the chances are that all the details for continuing the construction of the road into northern New Mexico will have been completed. Such men Messrs. Hagerman such word as fail.

AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

A Lincoln, N. M., Gentleman Talks About the Pecos Ditch.

From the Albuquerque Cititen. When a good man from New Mexico visits the east and a newspaper reporter asks him about the news pertaining to his territory he usually gives out for publication encouraging reports, as for instance read what 'the Chicago Post gleaned from Dr. W. S. Block, of Lin coln, who was recently on a visit to that

"One of the largest-if not the largest-irrigation ditches known is rapidly nearing completion in the southwestern part of my territory. The speaker was Dr. W. S. Block, of Lincoln, N. M., who is stopping at the Leland hotel. "This ditch starts just above the town of Eddy, 140 miles from Lincoln. The extends from the starting point in two directions, one arm reaching forty-five miles out and the other arm 65 miles. The top width of the ditch is 150 feet, the bottom 120 feet, and the depth, I think, is twenty feet. From these two arms lateral ditches will irrigation is $2.50 an acre for the digging of the lateral and $1.50 an acre per sub-laterals may be dug, as many as the owner of the land pleases to dig. the contract with the irrigation company being that the company shall furnish all the water the lessee may desire. Should the water supply stop the company is liable for heavy damages. But there is little likelyhood of there ever being any shortage, much less stoppage of water, as the Pecos River, from which the water is obtained is large and inex-haustible. The two arms of the ditch have cost $1,000,000, and the dam for storing water cost $500,000. The course is through Pecos Valley, at present dry and unproductive, but designed when the ditch is in full oporation to be one of the most fruitful spots in the country. The soil is exactly like that of

Mr. Joseph has reconsidered his inwill be a candidate for re-nomination before the Silver City convention. His admirable record in congress makes him a mighty hard man to beat for nomination or election.-Albuquerque Demo-

Mr. Joseph is in a position to do more for New Mexico, than any other man who can be sent to Washington. He is experienced, is held in high esteem by members of the House, of both parties, and he rarely fails to get what he asks for. We are aware that it distresses the Republican leaders to see Democrats united upon Mr. Joseph, but really, we feel that we must look to the best in terests of the Territory, even at the risk of defeating the Republican nominee.— Deming Headlight.

Hon. Leonidas J. Moore, one of the most prominent Republicans of North Carolina, thus defines himself on the Force bill:

For twenty years past in every elec tiou, both national and state, I have cast my ballots for the Republican party. I have continued in the same old course. The time has come, however, in my judgement, when no man who lives in be dug as fast as land is taken up by settlers. You see this land can be bought for $1.25 an acre. > I sympathize with the wanderer, with the vagrant out of employment, with sad, weary men seeking work. When I see one of the men, poor and friendless, no matter how bad he is, I think that somebody loved him once; that he was once held in the arms of a mother, that he slept beneath her loving eyes and wakened in the light of her smiles. I see him in the cradle listening to lullabys soft and low, and his little face is dimpled as though by rosy fingers of joy. And then think of the strange and wandering paths, and weary roads that he has traveled from that mother's arms to vagrancy and want.-Ingersoll.

DRICKLY ASH

human body is the LIVER. When it fails to properly perform its functions the entire system becomes deranged. The BRAIN, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS, all refuse to perform their work. DYSPEPSIA, CON-STIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DIS-EASE, etc., are the results, unless something is done to assist Nature in throwing off the impurities caused by the Inaction of a TORPID LIVER. This assistance so necessary will be found in Prickly Ash Bitters!

It acts directly on the LIVER, STOMACH and KIDNEYS, and by its mild and cathartic effect and general tonic qualities restores these organs to a sound, healthy condition, and cures all diseases arising from these causes. It PURIFIES THE BLOOD, tones up the system, and restores perfect health. If your druggist does not keep it ask him to order it for you. FOR HOUSEWIVES TO TRY. Possibly a Useful Bit of Information from Uncle Sam's Bug Bureau.

In a bulletin issued by the division of entomology. Department of Agri-culture, Dr. C. V. Riley, writing of in-sect pests of the household, after de-scribing various species of cockroaches says: In the latitude of Washington and further south the croton bug eats everything which contains paste, and consequently wall paper, photographs, and especially certain kinds of cloth book bindings suffer severely from their attacks. In a recent number of Insect Life will be found an account of severe injury done to certain of the important files in the Treasury Department in Washington, the bindings of many important public documents being distigured and destroyed. In the office of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey they have become an intolerable nuisance by eating off the surface and particularly the blue and red paint from drawings of important maps.

But I need not elaborate further upon he damage which they do. How to kill them and prevent this damage is the question.

Without condemning other useful measures or remedies like borax I would repeat here what I have already urged in these columns, viz., that in the free and persistent use of California buhach or some other fresh and reliable brand of pyrethrum or Persian insect powder we have the most satisfactory means of dealing with this and the other roaches mentioned.

Just before nightfall go into the infested rooms and puff it into all crevices, under base-boards, into the drawers and cracks of old furniture-in fact, wherever there is a crack-and ir the morning the floor will be covered with dead and dying or demoralized and paralyzed roaches, which may easily be swept up or otherwise col-lected and burned. With cleanliness and persistency in these methods the pest may be substantially driven out of a house and should never be allowed to get full possession by immigrants from without.

For no other insect have so many quack remedies been urged and are so many newspaper remedies published. Many of them have their good points, but the majority are worthless. In fact, rather than put faith in half of those which have been published it were better to rely on the recipe which T. A. Janvier gives in his charming article on "Mexican Superstitions and Folk-lore, 'published in a recent number of Scribner's Magazine, as current among the Mexicans: To get rid of cockroaches—Catch three and put them in a bottle, and so carry them to where two roads cross. Here hold the bottle upside down, and as they fall out re-peat aloud three credos. Then all the cockroaches in the house from which these three came will go away!- Washington Star.

Bamboo Fish-Poles.

The manufacturers of fishing-rods are in a state of mind over the fact that the stock of Calcutta bamboo poles from which the rods are made has given out, and it is impossible to secure another stock of these poles until next July, which will be too late for this season's trade.

Such a state of affairs never existed before in the history of fisherman's supplies, says the New York Evening Sun. It shows that the anglers are increasing faster than the rod dealers ever imagined they would, and the dealers are totally unprepared to meet their demands.

Split bamboo rods will therefore go up in price during the rest of this season. These bamboo poles are imported in bundles of fifty, and usually brings about $15 per bundle. Today one of these bundles could not be bought for love or money. This particular bam-boo is sought after and used in preference to others owing to the strength of its enamel. Its life as a rod is twice as long as that of a rod made of Japanese bamboo, for instance.

The Japanese bamboo is almost as tough as the Calcutta variety, but the oints are so close together that it is lifficult to cut it up to any advantage. The action of the Japanese is perfect, but the tip is fatally weak and can not be used as a substitute for the Calcutta

It is not generally known that America makes the best fishing-rods in the world. They last longer and the workmanship is far superior even to those produced by the best English maker.

An Extraordinary Beacon.

The most extraordinary of all lighthouses is to be found on Arnish Rock, Stornoway bay-a rock which is separated from the Island of Lewis by channel over 500 feet wide. It is in the Hebrides, Scotland. On this rock a conical beacon is erected, and on its summit a lantern is fixed, from which, night after night, shines a light which is seen by the fishermen far and wide. Yet there is no burning lamp in the lantern and no attendant ever goes to it, for the simple reason that there is no lamp to attend to, no wick to trim, and no oil well to replenish.

The way in which this peculiar lighthouse is illuminated is this: On the island of Lewis, 500 feet or so away, is a lighthouse, and from a window in the tower a steam of light is projected on a mirror in the lantern on the summit of Arnish Rock. These rays are reflected on to an arrangement of prisms, and by their action are converged to a focus outside the lantern, from where they diverge in the necessary direc-

The consequence is that to all in-tents and purposes a lighthouse exists which has neither lamp nor lighthouse keeper, and yet which gives as service-able a light—taking into account the requirements of this locality—as if an

A FORTUNATE CHICAGOAN.

Smiled Upon by the Louisiana State Lottery to the Extent of $15,000. Chicago (Ill.) Times, July 17.

The good fortune to-day enjoyed by a young Chicagoan, W. E. Spingenberg, a clerk in S. Schipps' fire insurance agency at 206 La Salle Street, may have been in the nature of a reward for persistent efforts, or it may have been simply one of the smiles which Dame Fortune so often sheds on favored residents of the world's fair city. Be it as it may, Mr. Spingenberg in June invested in a one-fortieth interest in ticket No. 59,843 in the Louisiana able a light—taking into account the requirements of this locality—as if an elaborate and costly lighthouse, with lamp, service-room, bed-room, living-room, store-room, oil-room and water tanks, were erected on the summit of the rock.

terest in ticket No. 59,843 in the Louisiana State Lottery and now has 15,000 cold, hard dollars to show for it, the entire ticket represented by his number being $500,000. When called upon by a Times reporter he was very reticent as to details, but tacitly pleaded guilty to the extent named. Mr. Spingenberg is a sharp, shrewd young business man, and already has his newly acquired fortune invested to good advantacy of the pleasant troubles that riches generally bring with them.
