"REFLECTIONS" "REFLECTIONS" "REFLECTIONS"

BY RICHARD C. THOMAS

The late John McCormack, Democrat from Massachusetts, was a member of the U. S. House of Representatives for 42 years. He was Majority Leader for 16 years, and Speaker of the House for nine years.

One of McCormack's favorite observations: "The highest temporal title this world can bestow: Citizen of the United States."

This quotation could provide much food for thought, as we go into Friday, May 1, "Loyalty Day." This special day was designated by the U. S. Congress with the passage of Public Law 85-529 on July 18, 1958, and needs to be noticed and observed with more emphasis and concern than a mere note on the calendar. As individuals and organizations, we need to overtly and eagerly involve ourselves in a more dedicated display of loyalty to our country.

We too often exercise a complacency in our thoughts and attitudes toward our country, and the things for which it stands. We need to take a longer look at what we have.

Unique among nations, the United States. In no other nation of the world do the citizens realize the latitude of personal freedom which we, the citizens of this land realize. All too often we take for granted the things and the opportunities and the freedom of action and choice offered. Republic and/or democracy are only words, actually without substance, if those who live under those mantles do not fill the voids by their actions and participation.

We must pledge ourselves to maintain this free society in which loyalty is, and must be always, encouraged and respected. For, without loyalty the United States, the world's hope for a future blessed with freedom, cannot long survive.

We should, on this Loyalty Day, May 1, 1981, eagerly participate, if only individually, in testimony of our loyalty. If we do not, even in some small measure, do this, the work and the dreams and the blood of those who have placed this trust in our hands will have been for naught.

If we have an opportunity, we should take part in multiple activities marking the day. If our response is single by necessity, we owe it to ourselves and to the nation and to the world to at least pledge anew our individual loyalty to a great nation which has nourished us. If we cannot do that, we deserve something less.

VFW to observe Loyalty Day on Friday

Winters Post 9193, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Post Auxiliary, will have a special "Loyalty Day" observance at the Post Home Friday, May 1, at 8 p. m., R. C. Kurtz, post commander, has announced.

The public has been invited to this special observance service, in which Americans "will reemphasize their loyalty to the United States and to the principles of democracy and freedom."

Flags will be flown in observance of Loyalty Day, put up by members of the VFW.

A game night will follow the special observance at the VFW Post Home.

Check for $800,000

John Wolfe of the Abilene office of the FmHA hands the check to Mayor W. Lee Colburn. The amount of the U. S. Treasury check represents part of the funding for the new lake now under construction.

City receives $800,000, first installment on dam

Although construction crews have been working for several days on the new dam and pipeline project for Winters, and all contracts had been signed and the entire project approved by appropriate federal agencies, no money — grants and loans — had changed hands until last Friday, when the City of Winters received partial payment from the Farmers Home Administration.

Members of the city council and representatives of the FmHA, along with representatives of engineers and contractors, met Friday to go over last minute details and requirements connected with financing of the project, and the city was presented a check in the amount of $800,000. Other installments will be forthcoming as the project progresses.

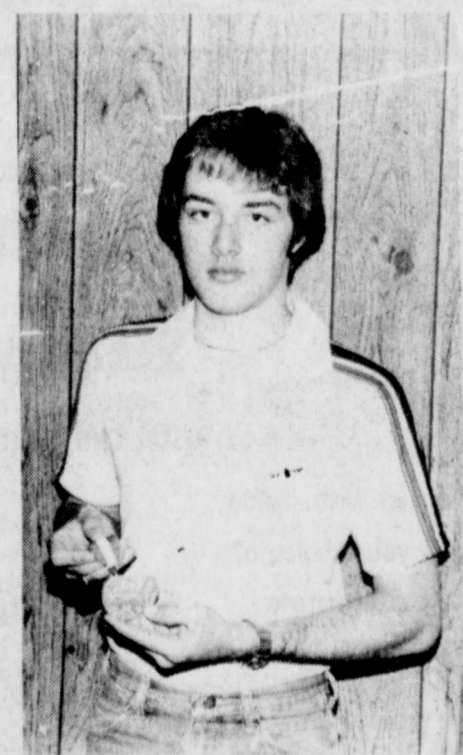

The check was presented to Mayor W. Lee Colburn, representing the City of Winters, by John

The city also has sold $800,000 in bonds to help finance the project, which will cost in the neighborhood of $4.7 million.

Pair held on burglary count

Two Winters men are being held in the Runnels County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each and two juveniles have been released to the custody of their parents following their arrests over the weekend.

The four were arrested in connection with two burglaries of the same Winters residence and the stripping of a car left abandoned along U.S. Highway 83 about three miles south of the city. Jailed were Harvey Sparks and Willie Wright both of Winters. The two juveniles were local residents.

According to police reports, officer Winfred Reel was stopped while on routine patrol by a motorist who said that two subjects were vandalizing a vehicle parked along the highway. Reel, accompanied by police chief L. C. Foster, officer Mike Bowers and deputy sheriff Johnny Wilson located the pair parked in front of the abandoned car with a front tire and wheel removed from the vehicle and installed on the rear of the car said to have been driven by Sparks and Wright and the battery from the disabled car in the other vehicle. Officers also said that an attempt had been made to pry open the trunk on the car.

After the two were arrested officers discovered a large amount of coins and tools that had been taken in a burglary of the residence of Mrs. D. J. Kirkham on East Pierce street in Winters. Officers also located another car believed owned by Willie Wright near Hatchel and found a battery that had been taken from a pick up belonging to Joe Irving at 111 North Sanders street.

According to officer Winfred Reel, one of the juvenile subjects told officers that the Kirkham residence had been burglarized on two separate occasions and that cash, cold drinks, and frozen meat had been taken.

District attorney Royal Hart in San Angelo said that the cases against Harvey Sparks and Willie Wright would be presented to the next session of the Runnels County Grand Jury.

Commissioners to pick new county attorney

The Runnels County Commissioners Court will meet in a special called meeting Thursday, April, 30 to consider appointing a successor to county attorney John McGregor whose resignation becomes effective the same day.

County Judge Bill Stultz said that only one person had made application for the county attorney's position. McGregor, who had served as county attorney for the past four years and as assistant county for three years said that he was resigning to devote full time to his private law practice.

Patrolmen hand in resignations

Two Winters police officer have submitted their resignations to the police department. Officer Ron Curry said that he was leaving Winters to move to New York State to join his family there and officer Mike Bowers will join the Coleman County Sheriff's Department.

City administrator Glenn Brown said Tuesday that Curry had already left the department and that Bowers' resignation would become effective at the end of May.

Police Chief L. C. Foster said that his office is accepting applications now for the two positions on the police force and that a number of applications from certified, experienced police officers from area cities had already been received. Foster and city administrator Glenn Brown indicated that they expected the vacancies to be filled in the near future.

Floyd Taylor memorial fund has been opened here

A special memorial fund to be forwarded to Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., in memory of the late Floyd Taylor has been opened here, according to Ted Meyer.

Mr. Taylor died in North Runnels Hospital Sunday night.

Funds contributed to the memorial fund may be sent to Wesley M. Hays or to Ted Meyer. Meyer said the guide dog which had been Mr. Taylor's constant companion for several years, will remain in Winters with a responsible party, as yet unknown. Meyer said the dog could be returned to Guide Dogs for the Blind in California, but that it was too old to retrain.

The guide dog, known as "Ronald McDonald," was given to Mr. Taylor by the Guide Dogs for the Blind organization, at no expense. The only expense was travel for Mr. Taylor from Winters to California and return; this was underwritten by the Winters Lions Club and several other individuals and businesses.

CAC to recommend bond issue and tax hike

When the Winters school board meets in a special called meeting Thursday evening, April 30, the Citizens Advisory Committee will be recommending a $2.2 million bond issue and an unrelated tax increase.

According to the Rev. Bob Holloway, chairman of the committee the proposed bond issue would finance the remodeling of the high school building, the elementary school building, and both gymnasiums. Holloway said that the separate tax increase that will be recommended would be used to finance an improvement in the curriculum and to improve the system of building and maintenance. If done now, Holloway said, this will save money in the long run.

Another recommendation from the advisory committee will be a pay increase for the teachers in the Winters Independent School District. Also the committee said that a lower teacher to student ratio would also be suggested, that the committee felt that the best results in teaching the basics could be achieved with the low ratio.

The use of a structured physical education program throughout the school system will also be recommended with emphasis on a physical education curriculum rather than just on a recess from classes.

The Citizens Advisory Committee also recognized a long range need for a program of maintenance and repair to the school facilities in order to keep the physical school plant and its equipment in the best condition possible.

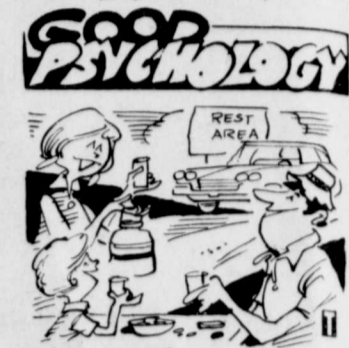

Committee chairman Holloway said that any final action on calling a bond issue election would rest with the school board, that the committee was asked to take a complete in-depth look at the entire school program and then make its recommendation. A bond issue, if any, and the amount of the issue along with any tax increase will have to be called by the school board. Also, Holloway said, teacher pay raises would have to be set by the board. That the committee was just making its recommendation.

The chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee had praise for the members of the committee and their high level of interest and commitment. Holloway said that over 60 percent of the members of the committee were in attendance at all the meetings. Holloway said that the overriding thought of the committee was "Is this something wanted and needed by the community, something that can and will be supported by the community."

The special meeting of the school board is set for 7:30 pm in the school cafeteria. Members of the Citizens Advisory Committee are expected to attend the meeting and the school faculty has been invited to attend the meeting along with residents of the Winters Independent School District.

The Space Shuttle's Future

Six years have passed since the last American manned space flight and films like "Star Wars" and computer games such as "Space Invaders" have created a new level of fantasy.

The reality of man's exploration outside the Earth's realm was demonstrated once again when the space shuttle Columbia left the Earth in a litany of thunder, light and sound. An estimated 80,000 Americans watched the shuttle launch at Cape Canaveral and millions more watched the billion-dollar spectacle on television sets around the world.

Getting a spaceship up is a task of near maximum risk and anxiety. All the fire, thunder and vibration carry a message of manifest peril. But getting a spaceship down can be equally risky and never more so than in the case of Columbia, which had to slow down from a velocity of 25 times the speed of sound, drop like a rock out of orbit, and glide to a perfect touchdown on a runway in the California desert.

Where the space program goes from here remains to be seen in this time of fiscal austerity.

But the impact of two decades of space technology has touched our lives in countless ways: Sophisticated weather satellites show us in detail what tomorrow's weather will be and why — as well as giving us storm warnings that save untold lives. Earth mapping satellites show us within inches where we are in this globe, and reveal to us previously hidden energy and mineral resources. Today's tougher-than-metal plastics, kitchen food wrap — even our freeze-dried coffee and juice crystals — are products of this technology.

The flight of the good ship Columbia was widely interpreted as a successful resurgence in space flight. Ironically, it came on the 20th anniversary of the first manned space flight by the Soviet cosmonaut, Yuri Gargarin.

Unlike the earlier Mercury and Apollo launchings which generated so much initial excitement and a clear sense of American technological achievement, the shuttle takeoff was viewed by many with far more confidence that it would succeed and with a quieter sense of pride and accomplishment when it did.

The launching signaled America's entry into a huge laboratory that will enable the country to travel where we've never traversed before. With the shuttle comes the opportunity for new technology the creation of which is one of those milestones in the history of the United States.

The shuttle means the military can make more use of space, flying bigger navigation, communication and surveillance satellites into Earth orbit than ever before.

Science also benefits. Projected to be among the satellites the shuttle will take into space in the next five years is a 54-foot-long telescope that will peer 10 times deeper into the heavens than the largest telescopes on Earth.

That the shuttle exists gives testimony to the very spirit of America and its ability to accomplish any mission it so desires. The 4.5 million-pound, 184-foot-high complex of machinery and electronics was fitted together by 49 different companies.

The launch itself was the first time human pilots have gone into space on an untested new spacecraft.

This shuttle launching was not to achieve novelty but to institute routine — a continuous American presence in space. Some compare the shuttle's forthcoming career with the mail planes that opened the first air routes in the 1920s and 1930s. To embark in the shuttle, astronauts John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen therefore needed as much courage and intelligence as the pioneers of civil aviation.

Future shuttle pilots, whose main work will be to instruct machines to think and act, will be different in kind from the helmsmen who inspired the seafaring novels of Herman Melville and Joseph Conrad. Some of the old pilots, such as Charles Lindbergh, created a literature of flight that long outlived their aeronautical careers. But through their readers came to feel both the extraordinary beauty and omnipresent danger of flight and a generation of people became "air-minded."

It is the public now who will decide how far and how fast the United States will go in mankind's inevitable reach for the stars. So, for the space shuttle, the real test is America's heartbeat now. Whether it makes Americans feel as giants in the world once again or turns us back to the easier escape of fantasy films and computer space games will be the real test.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

To talk about the unusually green and beautiful spring in the Southwest may be considered old news for some readers. However, when considering the fact of this being the most lush spring in 20 years for these parts, and remembering the seven year drought, of the 1950's, the story is banner headline material!

Normal years, we find bluebonnets along farm and ranch roads thick in fields and pastures throughout the Texas Hill Country. But this being a somewhat abnormal year, we can witness the sea of Texas flowers mingled with other wildflowers westward to Fort Stockton, Big Lake, Ozona and southwest to Sanderson and the Rio Grande.

Terrell County has received over five inches of rain in the past several weeks according to the Keith Mitchells. Matter of fact, it was raining when I visited their ranch last week.

On return to San Angelo, Lawn Slaughter who has ranching interest in the Sanderson and Pecos County area asked me for a report. "It's the first year I have seen the bitterweek so healthy and beautiful," I smiled.

"Well, is there any cow grass between them?" asked Slaughter.

Yes, there is grass everywhere, too. Boze Hartgrove who ranches in the Reagan County area as well as Concho County speaks of the green spring with guarded optimism. "I always have the fear it will turn off dry and extra hot about July and we will have to worry about range fires with all this vegetation," he stated.

But for the most part, farmers and ranchers of the Greater Southwest area to whom I visit with content we face July when July arrives. In the meantime, "we have a heck of a good wet spring going for us now and that's all I'm going to worry about," commented Tom Massey, San Angelo attorney and ranchman.

Bill Shurley of Marfa smiled and added: "This is the only time in my life I can honestly say I have nothing to complain about!"

Andy Smith, Big Lake and Water Valley ranchman, stated the same. "When it is green at Big Lake, you know the ranching business still has a future."

Billy Dan Sorrell of Eden predicts a lamb crop of 126 percent in one flock with "maybe 110 percent in another. We could end up with an average of 120 percent."

Sorrell, who also operates a ranch near Marathon, said "we have already received more rain in that Big Bend country in the last six months than our average rainfall. The whole West Texas area looks like a flower garden."

Jack Grafa, Fort McKavett ranchman, says his Angora goat and lamb crops are running 100 percent plus. "We have plenty of vegetation," he continued. "There is always something to worry about and I'm on the watch for predators."

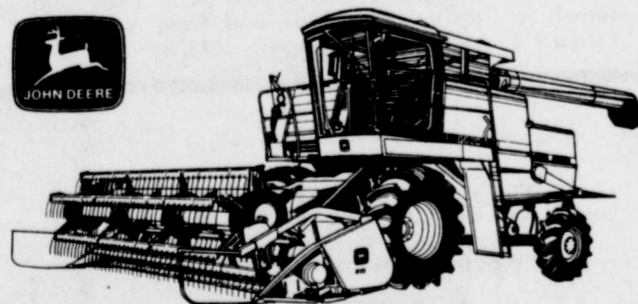

For the livestock which survived predators and fatten on early grass, the payoff has been better the last several weeks! Spring slaughter lambs were fully $2 high at Producers in San Angelo. All cattle classes were fully steady to firm.

At Junction Stockyards, the Angora and Spanish goat market was quoted strong last week. The nation's goat market center had receipts totaling 9,711 head with more than 7,000 of them Angoras, according to Willard Jordan, co-owner.

"Several sets of Angora goats sold for prices far out in advance of the bulk of the offering," he reported. Hamer Hurst of Eden topped the sale with 81 yearling muttons at $82.50 per head.

So, talking about the good spring and the aftermath of it all is nothing less than good news.

Combine hunting? Climb aboard the John Deere 6620 on our lot — it's delivery-ready

You can expect as much as 20 percent more productivity out of the 6620 over the 6600 it replaces. With the 145-hp engine option and our 4-way-adjustable rigid-cutterbar platform, it outperforms all others in its class, in any type of harvesting conditions.

Platform adjustability is outstanding. You can tilt the cutterbar so the platform bottom is parallel to the ground with any size tires. For efficient cutting in short or tall crops, green or dry, you can set cutterbar-to-auger distance in any one of three settings. For good pinch-and-pull crop movement, you can adjust the big-diameter cross auger forward, back, up or down. Platform sizes for the 6620 range from 13 to 22 feet.

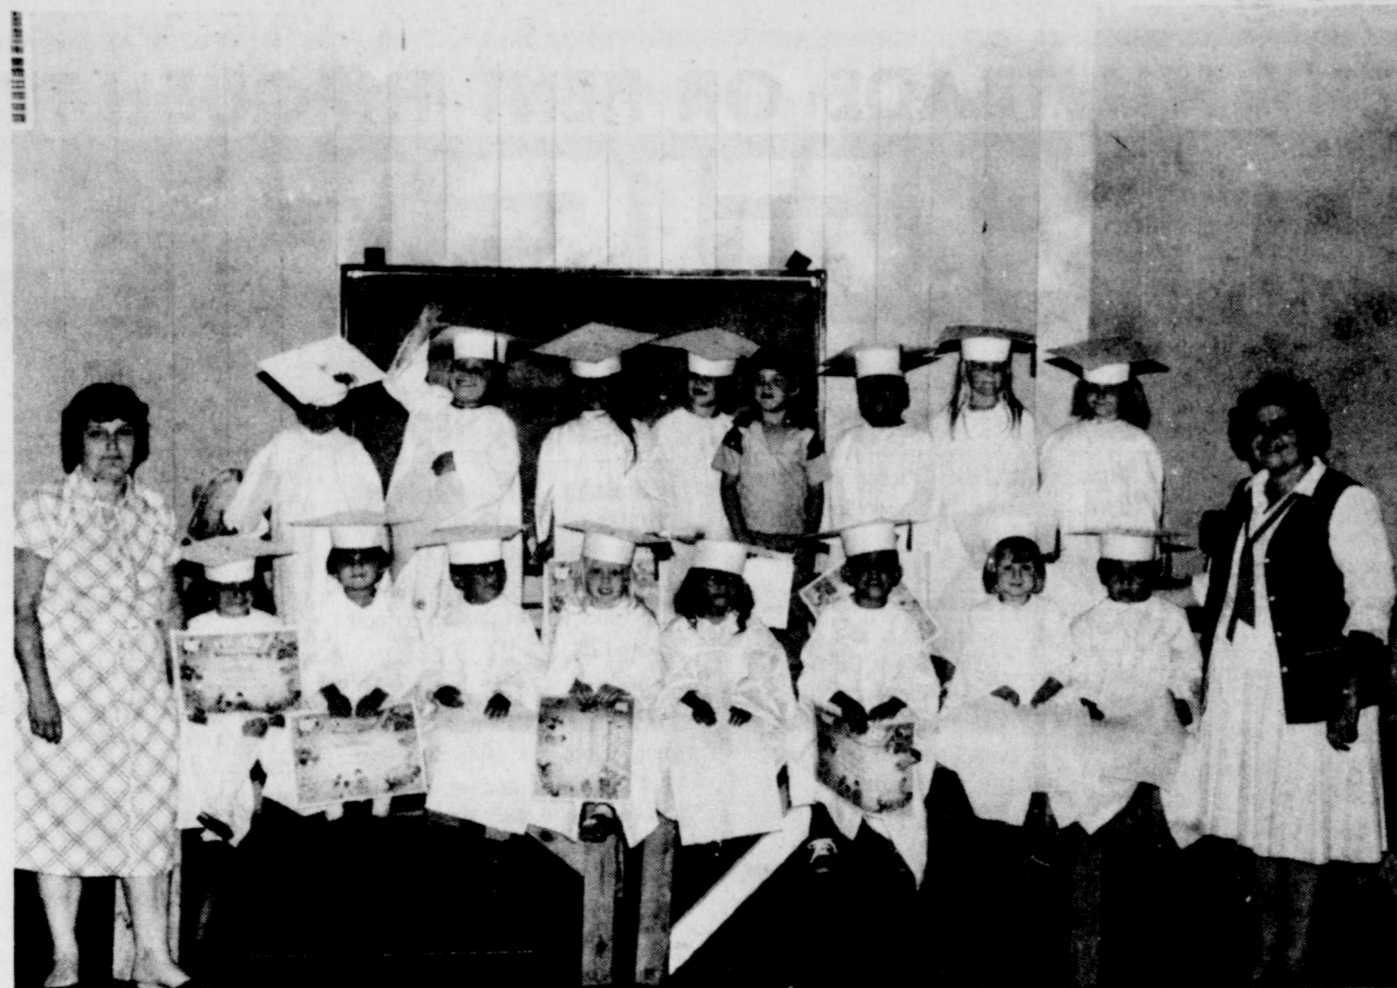

And when it comes to wet, muddy conditions, John Deere Power Rear-Wheel Drive gives you that extra pull that can make the difference in getting your crop out on time.

Texans still have "love affair" with automobiles

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has announced that last month's collections of motor vehicle sales taxes revealed a surge in car buying in Texas.

"From the figures, I'd say that the love affair with the automobile in Texas not only isn't dead, but it looks like it isn't even sick," Bullock said.

He said March was a record month for collection of motor vehicle sales taxes with the amount reaching more than $51.2 million for the period.

Bullock said seasonal new car-buying peaks, manufacturer rebates and higher vehicle costs all contributed to the increased tax collections.

Motor vehicle sales are taxed at 4 percent of the selling price and the state will receive about $450 million during this fiscal year.

The Salt Talks

SODIUM: LEARN A LESSON FROM PRIMITIVE INDIANS

Our highly civilized society can learn a lesson in healthy nutrition from some of the primitive people of the world—the Olong Java fishermen, the Yanomatio Indians of Brazil, the Congo pygmies, the Masai Warriors, the Greenland Indians.

More and more people are consuming low-calorie drinks that unfortunately have a high sodium content.

What do these people have in common? They haven't succumbed to salt as part of their diet. Result: most have low blood pressure all their lives; it doesn't even increase with age.

This isn't true in the U.S. where we consume many times more salt than is necessary or healthy. Result: we have a high incidence of high blood pressure, stroke and heart disease, all problems that have been directly linked to a high salt diet.

You don't even have to pick up the salt shaker to get too much salt in your diet. It's in many processed foods, and in such beverages as canned tomato juice, milk and diet or club sodas.

Couples return from tour

Two Winters' couples recently returned from a tour of the Great Smokies. The tour originated in Belton, with travelers from that Central Texas area as well as some from Olney and one from Nuernberg, West Germany.

Making the tour from Winters were LaDell and Maurine Davis, and Mida and Vivian Colburn. The tour included visits to Graceland and the grave of Elvis Presley, a performance of the Grand Ole Opry, and other ports of interest in Nashville, Gatlinburg and Chattanooga, Tenn.

We, the family of Mrs. Ermine Schram Livermon, express sincere appreciation for each act of kindness extended to us at the death of our loved one.

A special thanks to the many friends who sent flowers, memorials, donations, and cards; for the food brought by friends and neighbors; to the Ladies of the First Baptist Church of Ballinger who prepared and served lunch; to the Rev. Marvin Burgess for a beautiful message; to the Rev. Larry Keene and the Rev. Fred Thomas for their visits and comforting words; and to Darrell Rains and his staff for their able assistance; and to Mrs. Gloriana Tadlock and Mrs. Iola Crawford for the beautiful music.

Also many thanks to Dr. O. R. Chandler, to Dr. John Green, and to the entire staff of Ballinger Nursing Center for their continued care and concern for Ermine throughout the past four years.

May God grant each of you the same tender love and concern when sorrow comes to you.

CARD OF THANKS

Herman joins me in saying "thanks" to each and everyone for all the cards, flowers, visits and especially your prayers while I was in the hospital, and for the food brought since I've been home.

A special thanks to Pastor Keene for so faithfully standing by.

God bless all of you.

Generous dash ground cinnamon
18 whole cloves

EASY COFFEE CAKE FOR BRUNCH

This elegant coffee cake can be prepared in minutes and uses ingredients easy to keep on hand. Serve it for brunch or with coffee to unexpected guests. The crunchy topping highlights the "treasure" hidden in each rich, flaky biscuit.

TREASURE-FILLED COFFEE RING

3/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon orange peel
1/4 cup chopped pecans
2 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
2 (10-oz.) cans Hungry Jack refrigerated big flaky biscuits
1/2 cup margarine or butter, melted
Heat oven to 350°F. Using shortening, grease 12-cup fluted tube pan (nonstick finish pan, too.) Combine sugar, orange peel and pecans; set aside. Cut each package cream cheese in half lengthwise, then crosswise into 10 equal pieces. Separate each can of dough into 10 biscuits. Separate each biscuit into 2 layers. Place 1 piece cream cheese between layers; seal edges. Dip each filled biscuit in melted margarine, then in sugar mixture. Stand biscuits on edge, slightly overlapping, around prepared pan. Sprinkle with any remaining sugar mixture; drizzle with any remaining margarine.
Bake at 350°F. for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown. Cool in pan one minute; turn onto serving plate. Cool slightly. 10 servings.

Because many people in the Middle Ages used signs of animals to distinguish shops and inns, a number of today's surnames come from animals.

TEXAS, LET'S CELEBRATE

"Texas is 'in' all over the nation," said Truett Latimer at the annual Preservation Conference held in Austin over the weekend.

"I've seen people in other states wearing boots where no Texan would wear them", he continued, and in Monaco, Princess Grace held a big Texas party."

One of the highlights of the convention was the "Cotton-eyed Joe" them of our western banquet on Friday evening. Music was furnished by three men with PhD degrees from Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches who could really play the "fiddles". Dress was western and tables were decorated with everything from boots used as flower vases to ropes and barbed wire.

At noon on Friday, visitors were treated to a brown bag lunch in the historic Paramount Theatre while we heard Liz Carpenter, author, lecturer and former White House Press Secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, speak on the "trials and tribulations of Historic preservation". She seemed to think we were marking everything in Texas and told of being at Odessa and hearing John Ben Sheppard speak at the dedication of a marker to the Jack Rabbit - and he said "as long as the jack rabbit runs across West Texas we are going to remember it."

Liz heard Congressman Strange say that he wanted a monument erected to his memory with these words on it: "here lies an honest Congressman", and she asked, "Don't you want your name on it?"

"That is not necessary," he said. When people see it, they will say, 'Well, that's strange.'

"Back to Basics" was the theme of the Conference conducted jointly by the Texas Historical Commission and the Texas Historical Foundation. Heretofore, these two organizations have had a joint budget, but the Attorney General has ruled that they must have separate budgets and programs.

The National Register phase of preservation has been canceled by the government, but Latimer, executive director of the THC said that Texas preservation is alive and moving, and that we can raise more money than anything we had received from the Federal government. While there are changes in the program, there was an air of excitement as Texas moves toward its 150th anniversary in 1986.

The Honorable Chris Semos of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Sesquicentennial Commission, told us that it was created by the 66th legislature in 1979 to "coordinate celebrations of the 150th anniversary of Texas' independence as a Republic and progress as a state."

These celebrations will highlight the historic, patriotic, economic, cultural, environmental and social aspects of Texas.

The Commission now promotes the State's 150th anniversary in five ways: by acting as the official liaison between nine state agencies and the public, contributing historical information, technical resources and planning experience; by working closely with community groups in promoting local activities; to ensure the direct flow of ideas and information by printing the 'Texas National Dispoatch' mailed free to all interested subscribers; by inviting national and international participation. The 1986 celebration will attract world-wide attention. Texas is the only state that was once an independent republic and was recognized as such by five foreign countries. We will pay tribute to the nations and people who have contributed so richly to Texas' diverse heritage. There will also be a 150th commemorative stamp; a contest has been held to design a suitable logo, and will soon be announced.

In addition to economic benefit to your community, the celebration offers an exciting opportunity to learn more about the state's heritage. To keep the rich and diverse Texas legend alive for ourselves and future generations.

The Sesquicentennial Calendar will list a continuing schedule of statewide activities throughout the year all comprising an exciting get-together in the Texas tradition.

Most of all, we have a chance to extol the fact that we're Texans! Now we can show the world why we're so famous for our colorful Texas celebrations!

A Word Of Appreciation

It was my privilege to be in Winters from Sunday evening, April 19 through Sunday morning, April 26, to preach in a revival with Pastor Fred Thomas and his gracious people of First Baptist Church.

In addition to getting to know many of the Baptist fellowship, I also met numerous other folk in business houses and on the streets of your friendly town. I was received and treated in a kindly way.

This means is taken, therefore, to express my heartfelt thanks to the church and the citizenship for the personal blessings of these pleasant days.

Local cleanup campaign underway

What's wrong with an ongoing cleanup campaign for Winters? Nothing, so far as the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee is concerned. With that in mind, the committee has recommended to the chamber, and the city, that a beautification and cleanup campaign of five years duration be inaugurated this spring, and has made suggestions regarding the areas the campaign should cover.

In a recent meeting of the committee, plans were formulated for the project. The committee reached the conclusion that a one-time once-a-year project would not be sufficient, and have suggested that specific goals be set for each year, "perhaps even setting of goals for each month or each quarter."

To get the project off the ground, the committee has recommended that two clean-up days be held in May—May 15-16—to kick off the project and to get action officially underway.

In its recommendations, the committee not only has suggested that regular "housekeeping" be accomplished, but that a long look should be taken at abandoned vehicles, sub-standard structures which are unoccupied, and a clean up of vacant lots.

Members of the committee include Pam Connor, chairman; Glenn Brown, David Carroll, Charles Allcorn, Randall Conner, J. W. Bahlman, Joe de la Cruz, Rankin Pace, Jerry Sims and Randy Springer.

Sub-committee chairmen and members, as recommended by the main committee, are:
— Publicity: Pam Connor, Kerry Craig, Charles Poe.
— Abandoned vehicles: Randall Conner.
— Sub-standard structures: Marvin Bedford.
— Finance Committee: Charles Hudson.
— Legal Counsel: Ken Slimp, Randy Springer.
— Main Street/Downtown: Jerry Sims.
— Shade Tree Committee: Rhea Parramore.
— Vacant Lots: J. W. Bahlman, Rankin Face.
— Paint-up/Fix-up: Lee Colburn.
Specific planning for the kick-off days will be announced within the next few days. City trucks already are hauling away dead tree limbs and brush which has been cleared, and probably will be available, along with county vehicles, during the special two-day clean-up May 15-16.

If you pierce the rounded end of an egg with a needle before hard boiling it, the shells are not likely to crack and peeling should be easier.
