Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

What in the world has come over the Supreme Court of the United States. As they began their new session this week there were a number of items that were processed quickly by the nation's highest court and among those items was one that clears the way for the banning of handguns.

This was a major victory for the advocates of tighter gun controls and those who would like for everyone to give up their weapons.

In the Constitution of the United States of America, the Second Amendment says, "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

What brought all this up was a suburb of Chicago that enacted an ordinance that required all residents to surrender their guns to local authorities or have them rendered permanently inoperative.

It would seem that if this were to become the law nation-wide, all the law-abiding folks would do as the law demands. Those outside the law, the bad guys, who don't normally adhere to the law or community standards probably ignore the law and keep their firearms. Guess maybe that is where the bumper sticker got its quote, "If guns are outlawed only the outlaws will have guns."

Now wait a minute...I remember reading something back in the '60s that had to do with the ten steps to a communist take-over. One of those steps, if I remember correctly, called for the registration and subsequent confiscation of all firearms.

Well now, with this week's ruling, maybe we will not have to register our guns — we will just have to give them to the government.

This high court, in all its honor and dignity, has ruled so many times in favor of the constitution and what it says, so many times the constitutional rights of some person or group of people have been enforced with the full power of the United States.

It would seem that the Supreme Court of the United States has set a new precedent by letting stand ruling of lower courts that completely overlooks the Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America.

Suppose, and the thought is frightening, that other segments of this basis for our free society known as America are found to be unconstitutional.

Now wait a minute...

Total loss

Fire totally destroyed the O.E. Kendricks residence west of Bradshaw early last Thursday morning. Winters firemen were called to the blaze about midnight and flames were visible from just north of Winters and when the firemen arrived the house was totally involved in fire and the roof had fallen in.

Firemen remained on the scene for about three hours and additional water to fight the fire was hauled to the firemen by Ronnie Poehls of Wingate Transport. Relatives and neighbors said that Mr. Kendricks was in Abilene for medical treatment when the fire broke out.

Although the home was destroyed, a carport and shop connected to the rock house was saved.

Now 2-0 in district

Blizzards 16, Eastland 7

The Winters Blizzards got off to a very slow start Friday night when they ran across a highly fired-up Eastland Maverick football team. The Blizzards had several chances the first half to score, but Winters kept turning the ball over to Eastland with two fumbles and one pass interception to stop any threat the Blizzards could stir up. Eric Belk blocked an Eastland punt on the Mavericks' 20-yard line, but the Blizzards fumbled the ball back to Eastland on the very next play. The Blizzards were close to scoring again in the first half, but Eastland intercepted a pass in their own end-zone to kill that drive.

Early in the second quarter, the Mavericks scored on a 4-yard pass play and added the extra point to take the lead 7-0.

Trailing by a score of 7-0 at the half, the Blizzards had set the stage for a thrilling, come-from-behind victory in the second half.

In that second half, the Blizzards came out of the dressing room determined to pull the game out and get the victory to keep their record in district play unblemished. The Blizzard defense was awesome in that second half, holding Eastland to a minus three yards of offense and no first downs.

A turn-over on the Eastland 23-yard line stopped a Winters drive, but the Blizzards kept battling back. With a fourth-down and eight situation, Ronnie Lujano kicked a 43-yard field goal to make the score 7-3.

The Blizzards then put a 50-yard drive together to score on a one yard run by Kentt Billups. The extra points were added by Ronnie Lujano to make the score 10-7 for the Blizzards.

During that scoring drive, Bill Wheat threw a 23 yard pass to Eric Belk to get the drive started. The Blizzards were hit with two penalties, one for five yards and

For depot renovation

Ballinger Council to open bids

Members of the Ballinger City Council were told in their regular meeting Monday that it was expected that bids would be opened on October 27, for the renovation of the old Sante Fe Depot. The historical building, after the renovation will become the new Ballinger City Hall and will house the city's administrative offices, the council chambers, and the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce.

City Administrator Dennis Jones said the anticipated cost of the project will be about $150,000.

Jones said that approval was given Tuesday by the state for the plans on the project for access by handicapped persons.

In other action the council designated Drury Hathaway as its representative on the Runnels County Appraisal District Board of Directors and named Andy Eubanks and Tom Lee to serve additional two-year terms on the Planning and Zoning Commission. Both had been appointed to one-year terms last year during a re-organization of the commission.

While paying routine bills, the Ballinger Council approved a payment of $383,750 to the Jack Anglin Company for work done so far on the new Ballinger Lake. The council was told that work was about 55 percent complete at the lake, and that it should be ready to hold water by December.

In his routine report to the council, Dennis Jones said that plans are being made by the Airport Advisory Committee to apply for state grants for improvements at the Ballinger Airport. Those improvements will include extending the runway from 3,200 feet to 3,800 and changing the low intensity runway light to newer, medium intensity lights.

The two project proposals will cost approximately $100,000 and funding from the Texas Aeronautic Commission could cover 75 percent of the cost while the remaining 25 percent would be funded locally.

Jones said that the extension of the runway will allow larger aircraft to use the airport and that the present lighting system at the airport is beginning to cause problems. The new lighting, medium intensity lighting, will increase visibility and will remedy the prothe score board with a 43 yard field goal.

Winters Council boosts tax rate

The Winters City Council, meeting in regular session Monday, approval to an ordinance that increases the 1983 property tax rate in Winters by eight cents. Also the council approved an ordinance adopting the 1983-84 budget for the City of Winters.

The tax increase will be from $.44 per $100 property valuation to $.52 per $100 property valuation.

This marks the second time tax rates in Winters have been increased in 22 years.

The increase, according to city officials, was necessary because of an anticipated $20,000 deficit in the next fiscal year.

The City Council said that it was "biting the bullet" with the budget for the next year which will allow the city to continue to offer the same services as it has in the past.

City Administrator Glenn Brown said that the city is offering only the barest of minimum services with a minimum of employees now. He said that there was just no way to cut expenses to compensate for the projected shortage in revenues next year.

That revenue shortage was

The Proposition Confronting Us

Memoirs of Indian Fighting on the Texas Frontier by Captain John M. Elkins was written in 1929. This is a continuation of his story begun on July 7-Chapter 2.

We had organized by election John R. Baylor, Colonel, and H.A. Hammer, Captain, but a question of momentous magnitude immediately arose: "What were we to do?" So long as we stayed there the Indians were content in staying in their reservations but, we knew that the moment we disbanded the red skins would return to Jacksboro to take our property and lives. For some reason, we were not receiving the protection from the United States Government that we should have received.

We were thinking, planning constantly. Speeches were made by some of the prominent men of the state who were with us: Judge Lewylin of Collin County, Judge Bledsoe, John R. Baylor and several other men of prominence. We were trying to arrive at a decision to act upon which would be best for our families and ourselves who had already gone through many hardships.

Reverend Byars, a pioneer Baptist minister, who had fought under the command of Governor Houston through all of his battles and was his life-long friend, rose to speak. Before he had said a word his influence seemed to predominate over every man around him. The old man who was, perhaps, as well experienced in Indian fighting as any among us and prominent throughout the state, said with striking gestures:

"Men, as the Government has failed to give us protection, the only thing that we can do is to march upon these blood thirsty savages and kill or drive them from the country."

The minister's solemn and emphatic words were endorsed and sanctioned by every man of the camp and hats were hurling into the air.

We then moved up into the rough country near the Caddo Village and camped. In the fort there among the Government soldiers, we had trusted and reliable friends who kept our officials posted as to all matters concerning our welfare and the safety of our lives. We were informed by these friends that the U.S. troops had taken the Indians from their wigwams of Caddo and Waco Villages into the fort with them, and that the fort was strongly fortified with artillery.

Again: "What should we do?" We had to fight the Indians. There was no doubt about that. They had left their reservations many times and ridden across the country to our happy and peaceable little settlement, killing our families and friends and stealing our property in general; happy and peaceable settlement, killing our families and friends and stealing our property in general; if within their power, they would have killed everyone of us. We know that we had to fight them and it was our choice and to our advantage to fight them near their reservation where they could harm only us, the ones who were fighting against them, instead of our mothers, sisters, elderly fathers and young brothers—that was why we had stationed our bank of sturdy fighters at a point where we could meet them

Rites held for Myrtie Cornett

Mrs. Myrtie Cornett, 89, of Afton, died on Monday, September 19, at the Crosbyton Hospital. Services were held September 21, at the Afton Baptist Church with Rev. Robert Fields of Amarillo officiating. The Sulpher Springs native moved to Dickens Co. in 1905. On November 16, 1910, she married Joe W. Cornett. He preceded her in death in 1948.

She was a member of the Afton Baptist Church. Survivors include a daughter, Gaynell Cook of Mansfield; four sons, C.J. of Wingate, James, Elfred, and John, all three of Afton; a sister, Modena Ellison of Roswell, New Mexico; four grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Services held for Effie Copeland

Graveside services for Effie Copeland, 87, were held after she died Thursday morning at 9:00 a.m. September 22nd, at the Sweetwater Nursing Center.

The Rev. Kenneth Ford, pastor of First United Methodist Church officiated. The service was directed by Cate-Spencer Funeral Home of Sweetwater with burial in the Blackwell Cemetery.

The former Blackwell resident was born January 7, 1896, in Bell County. She came to Nolan County in 1900. She was a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and taught school in Nolan County for many years. She retired from the Farmers' Home Administration in Colorado City and was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Colorado City.

Survivors include two nieces, Mary Nell Bullard of Snyder and Sue Hipp of Allen; and a nephew, Tom V. Copeland of Levelland.

Captain John M. Elkins of Coleman County, Texas, noted Indian fighter and survivor of the company of frontiersmen who participated in the recapture of Cynthia Ann Parker in 1860.

before they reached the section of the country where they could do us unspeakable harm. But these red rascals were wise; they would not meet us there; they reported to the U.S. troops and were taken into their forts for protection.

This act of the U.S. troops in protecting the Indians would have been proper had the troops justly rendered their duty in the post by keeping the Indians away from our settlement where they had been continually raiding. The Government had placed these soldiers in the reservations and was paying them to keep the Indians under control, in harmony with their treaty and away from our settlements. Doubtless, none of the high officials at Washington ever knew of the negligence on the part of the stationed troops, and truly our trusted friends with the troops, who seemingly had betrayed the confidence of their commanding officers by assisting us, were doing a greater deed towards building up the government under which they were serving than the ones responsible for such action on the part of the Government Troops, of the U.S. Government which was paying these soldiers, we and West Texas were a part.

We considered disbanding but after discussing the subject freely among ourselves, we unanimously arrived at the decision to continue our fight. We knew that if we returned to our homes the Indians would follow us back and soon it would be necessary for us to reorganize—This would cause a total loss of our efforts; the money we had expended to thus far sustain our organization would be lost; and the sacrifices of ourselves and families while undergoing the hardships resulting from our absence from our home duties which we had so earnestly strived to perform well, all would profit us nothing.

Our friends of the Government Troops had informed us that the U.S. Soldiers in the fort would fight for the Indians—That, another proposition confronted us, but we were determined to fight the Indians who had so cruelly slain our citizens and stolen our property regardless of who it might be that was assisting them. But without a piece of artillery at our command we knew that it would be the height of foolishness to attempt taking the fort. There was artillery at Houston however, which we could procure from the citizens but that was from us a distance of nearly four hundred miles and our transporting facilities were such that it was impossible for us to attain it.

Upon learning that there was sufficient artillery for our use at Camp Cooper and that there were only fort soldiers stationed at that fort, we decided to capture that artillery to turn against the walls of the fort near Caddo and Waco villages which was shielding the Indians which we were seeking.

Captain Peter Garland was selected as one to capture the artillery at Camp Cooper and immediately after it was dark he began his ride with two hundred and fifty men to perform his duties. Captain Garland had instructions to bring the captured artillery to Fort Belknap to where Colonel Baylor with his command would meet with him.

New WATS number for the blind

Due to an incorrect telephone listing, the State Commission for the Blind has changed its toll-free WATS line number. Effective September 27, the new number is 1-800-252-5204. "We anticipate some minor inconveniences as a result of this change," notes executive director John C. Wilson, "but we expect that the service will continue to be used extensively by citizens of our state."

The Commission offers the toll-free WATS line to give blind, visually disabled, and interested persons an additional opportunity to access the Commission and its services. The line is operational Monday-Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is staffed by a Commission employee who is responsible for relaying requests or concerns from callers to the appropriate agency personnel for necessary action. In addition, this staff member files a monthly report, outlining each call received during the previous month, with the executive director.

Since the inception of the service on April 1, 1979, an estimated 2,637 calls have been received on the toll-free line with an average of 51 calls coming in each month. Information is available on the Commission's services and programs for blind children, adults, and elderly citizens. For more information on the Commission, call toll-free 1-800-252-5204.

Preston Sides appointed as 4-H executive

Preston D. Sides, who has served in several capacities with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, over the past 20 years, has been named to the combined position of 4-H and youth specialist and executive director of the Texas 4-H Foundation.

Sides will have primary responsibility for resource development to support 4-H, the youth program of the Extension Service. He fills the position formerly held by H.T. Davison, who was named state 4-H program leader last June.

"Sides will have major responsibility for obtaining private sector support for the 4-H program," said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, Extension Service director. "This support is critical to the continued growth and development of the 4-H program and is the basis for the many awards and scholarships available to 4-H youth."

Davison said that Sides will be working with the 4-H Foundation's board of trustees in administering the organization's budget of more than three-fourths million dollars. These funds go to support 13 major program areas, including more than $350,000 in scholarships and the Texas 4-H Center at Brownwood.

Sides began his Extension Service career in Brazoria and Waller counties where he was in a training position for three months before being named assistant county Extension agent in Bexar County in 1963. Eight years later he was named 4-H and youth specialist for South Texas with headquarters at Weslaco.

He transferred to the Extension headquarters staff at Texas A&M University in 1975 as a 4-H and youth specialist

Seed dispute in agreement

Dreyfus Co., Inc., a MeGehee, Ark., seed firm, has paid $600 to the U.S. Department of Agriculture to settle a case involving shipments of seed alleged to be in violation of the Federal Seed Act.

The case was settled in an agreement between the company and officials of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. The company neither admitted nor denied the charges.

Thomas H. Porter, an AMS official in Washington, D.C., said the case involved two shipments of soybean seeds to Texas and Georgia.

The alleged violations were false labeling of percentages of pure seed and other crop seeds and whether the seed was a certified class of seed.

The Federal Seed Act is a truth-in-labeling law designed to protect farmers and consumers who buy seed.

AMS administers the program with the help of state seed officials. Seed regulatory officials in Texas and Georgia cooperated with the Agricultural Marketing Service in making the investigations.

Dieters need more beef

Many dieters deny themselves beef when they might be better off including it in their meals, says nutritionist Marilyn Haggard.

Beef and other meats are nutrient-dense foods that provide relatively large amounts of essential nutrients in relation to the total calories they contain, she explains.

"When dieting it can be difficult to obtain recommended levels of all nutrients, especially those which are present in relatively low concentration in foods," says the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension specialist.

Nutrition-conscious dieters who are concerned about getting enough vitamin B-6, iron and zinc, will often take costly vitamin pills and dietary supplements. Yet beef is an easily available source of these nutrients, says Haggard.

The key to including beef in low-calorie diets is selecting lean meat and eating it in appropriate amounts, says the nutritionist.

For example, a 3-oz. serving of cooked lean meat will provide a considerable quantity of B-vitamins, minerals, and trace minerals like iron and zinc, but contains only 200 calories.

Increasing consumption of lean meat is one way to improve the zinc and iron content of a diet low in calories, Haggard says.

Teenage girls and women who are dieting should be especially concerned about their consumption of lean meat, since this is the group most likely to be iron-deficient, notes the specialist.

4-H reaches 5 million youths annually

"4-H: Building on Experience," the yearlong theme of the 4-H program across Texas and the nation, reflects on the rich past of this youth program. The theme will receive special emphasis during the upcoming National 4-H Week, October 2-8.

"The 4-H program has long taken pride in its roots and the practical learning experiences that it has provided for millions of youth," says H.T. Davison, state 4-H program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "In fact, 4-H is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year."

"4-H, which now reaches some five million youth each year in the U.S., actually had its beginning in Texas in Jack County back in 1908," notes Davison. "From the early corn clubs for boys and canning clubs for girls, 4-H has grown into the largest youth organization outside of schools that today reaches young people from all backgrounds and walks of life."

Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service in each state and supported by each state's land-grant university and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the 4-H program is built around a "Learning by Doing" philosophy that has stood the test of time.

"We now have more than 187,000 Texas youth between the ages of 9 and 19 enrolled in 4-H, and they are engaged in some 50 project areas that provide a host of learning experiences to prepare them for the future," Davison points out. "These educational projects help young people gain practical skills, develop good nutrition and health habits, explore career opportunities, generate leadership capabilities, and become involved citizens."

From the traditional projects of field crops and livestock to baking and sewing, 4-H has expanded over the years into such areas as small engines, rocketry and veterinary science. And now computers are finding their way into 4-H.

"With new projects and programs to challenge today's young people, the future of 4-H looks bright," says Davison. "4-H has a proud past on which to build as it continues to help youth prepare for the future."

CCC announces final word

The Commodity Credit Corporation has announced final determinations for the 1983-crop peanut price support differentials for warehouse and farm-stored loan program.

Purchase rate for soybean

The preliminary loan and purchase rate for the 1983 soybean crop is $5.02 per bushel.

Government program working as intended

The government farm program is working as it was intended to work—providing help to the farmer when he needs it.

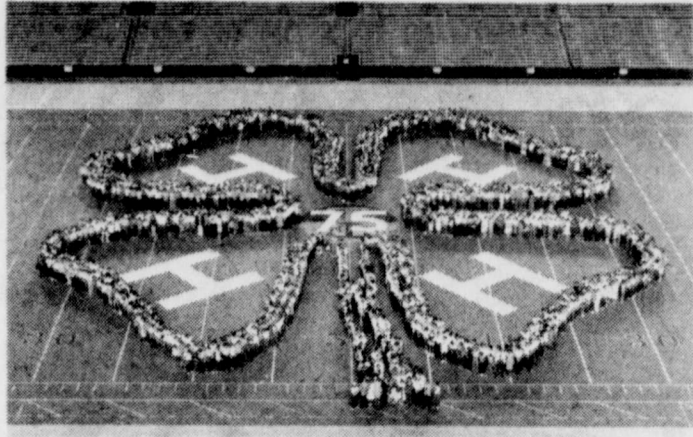

That was the view expressed by Lloyd E. Cline, a Lamesa, Texas, cotton producer and National Cotton Council vice president, at a meeting here this week of the Cotton Board.

Cline said that without question farm program costs have increased.

"But in all fairness," he added, "those outlays should be measured over a period of years and not just on the special conditions of the past two seasons."

He explained that government expenditures for cotton programs, as now constituted, averaged only about $266 million annually over the past ten years.

Reviewing the history of cotton programs since passage of the 1973 farm act, Cline explained there were no deficiency payments for cotton for the first seven years. They were triggered for the first time in 1981 by a record yield coming onto the market in the deepest worldwide recession since

Texas sized 4-H Clover...

It took about 2,300 Texas 4-H Club members and sponsors to form this giant clover on Kyle Field at Texas A&M University during the 1983 State 4-H Roundup. The unique clover formation was one of the highlights of the 75th anniversary of 4-H Club work in Texas, which was noted during the 4-H Roundup. In the foreground of the clover stem are Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the parent organization of 4-H, and H.T. "Tom" Davison, state 4-H program leader with the Extension Service. The 75th anniversary observance continues through the remainder of the year.

Support your local 4-H Club as they celebrate National 4-H Week, October 2 through 8, 1983.

Livestock prices show improvement

Livestock prices should show a slight improvement for the rest of the year, but 1984 could bring some strong gains for cattle, hogs and lambs, says an economist in livestock marketing.

Cattle prices should remain fairly stable with only modest gains in fed cattle supplies for the rest of 1983, says Dr. Ed Uvacek with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Cattle feedlot marketings should be just under a year ago during the July-September quarter but down sharply in the last quarter of the year. Hog slaughter is expected to remain high through the rest of this year but will drop seasonally in the first and second quarter of the new year.

Prices for fed cattle and for yearling feeder steers are expected to average in the low $60s per hundredweight during the remainder of 1983, while feeder steer calves could average near $70, Uvacek predicts. Utility cow prices should stay below $40 and will likely dip into the low $30s by fall. Continued good grazing and more rain would help prices considerably.

For next year, Uvacek estimates that prices will rise, with the strongest increases occurring in the second quarter of 1984. Choice fed steer prices may average in the mid to upper $60s by then. Prices for yearling feeder steers will move slightly below fed cattle prices but could move back into a premium in 1984. Utility cows should average in the low $40s during most of next year.

Hog prices are expected to average $38 to $42 per hundredweight for the rest of this year, says the economist, but they should increase to an average of $42 to $46 during the first quarter of 1984.

And, Uvacek adds, choice lamb prices at San Angelo in 1984 could average $2 to $6 higher per hundredweight than the mid $50s price of this year and should be fairly stable for the rest of this year.

4-H youth development program

4-H is a youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which focuses on the needs, interest, and concerns of young people. Its aim is to help youth gain a positive self-concept, rational social behavior, knowledge, and problem-solving capabilities. Boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19 from all ethnic, racial, cultural, and economic groups, regardless of geographic location, may participate.

Through planned individual projects, meetings, camps, group activities and participation in local, county, regional, state and national events, members develop new skills, learn cooperation, develop leadership abilities, improve their citizenship and have fun.

A 4-H member is any boy or girl who enrolls and participates in a planned sequence of related learning experiences, under the guidance of Extension staff members or under the guidance of Extension-trained leaders, and who are aware of the meaning of 4-H.

4-H is many things to many people, but it all adds up to developing the youth of today for the challenges of tomorrow. If anyone has any questions about the 4-H program, they may contact the County Extension office, third floor of the courthouse in Ballinger - or call 365-2219 or 365-5042 - or see Allen Turner, County Agricultural Extension Agent, or Curtis Thompson, Assistant County Agricultural Extension Agent.

Each of the eighty stores, six of which operate under the name Roadrunner in New Mexico, participated in the fund-raising event.

PRO BRAND WHEAT 812

Northrup King's PRO Brand Wheat 812 is a short, stiff-strawed variety that produces excellent grain yields and exceptional winter pasture grazing. Ideal for most of Texas and Southern Oklahoma, 812 has superior plant vigor that promotes rapid regrowth. Growers have reported 812 to have been the best grazing wheat they had ever planted. Early-maturing 812 has a significantly wider leaf than most competitive varieties. Plus it has resistance to most currently known leaf and stem rusts and soil borne mosaic virus. The early maturity of 812 makes it a good variety for doublecropping ahead of soybeans or sorghum.

PCNB Terra-Coat® LT-2* seed treatment has been applied to 812 wheat seed at 2 oz./bu. This fungicide is designed to control common smut or bunt plus damping off by Rhizoctonia. (*Registered trademark of Olin Corporation.)

Congress honors Ranchers Registry

National Ranchers Registry, a computerized agri-business information exchange based in San Antonio, Texas, was recently honored by its inclusion in the Congressional Record by U.S. Senator John Tower.

Tower praised NRR's technological response to the marketing needs of the agricultural sector.

"National Ranchers Registry has opened up new doors for increasing the marketing efficiency of agricultural goods," he noted.

He added that Americans are witnessing a shift from a material-producing society to an information-producing society. "There is no sector of our economy that does not benefit from the possibilities brought on by this ingenuity," he said.

NRR's services provide agri-business subscribers with unlimited listings ranging from livestock and acreage to farm equipment and produce.

"The need for this up-to-date information exchange is constantly emphasized as farmers and ranchers attempt to cope with today's erratic economy," affirms Director Dick Bailey.

Let me begin by saying that you are in for some very 'dry' reading. There is no way to make constitutional amendments sound exciting but please do read about them.

On November 8th, eleven (11) constitutional amendments will be on the ballot for the people to vote either for or against. For the benefit of the voters in my district, over the next few weeks I will be explaining each proposal stating the views of both supporters and opponents of each. I do this in hope that you will all get out to cast an informed ballot whether or not you are in favor or opposed to the proposed amendments.

Proposition no. 1 on the ballot would allow counties with a population of less than 30,000 to have fewer than 4 constable and justice-of-the-peace precincts. Counties with a population over 30,000 would continue to have from 4 to 8 constable and JP precincts.

Supporters say many small counties do not need 4 constables and 4 JP's and requiring that many for smaller counties serves no purpose and day Ann and Amber attended the wedding shower for Jamie Stauer in the home of Mrs. Kay Black in Ballinger. She is the bride-elect of David Cauchon.

Mrs. Alta Hale visited Mrs. Lemma Fuller in Coleman on Thursday. On Saturday she went in to see Foy and Edgar Whitley.

Mrs. Vivian Brevard, Neva and Marion Davis returned home to Canton after attending the funeral of Mrs. Nona Davis in San Angelo on Friday. Alta visited with them for a while.

Alta attended the Merkel Telephone R.E.A. meeting in Merkel Tuesday. She came home with a prize, a microwave skillet. On her way home she went by to see Mrs. Ebb Harris in Abilene.

Sorry to hear Mr. Arthur Allcorn is in the Coleman hospital.

Sidney and Jeral Dietz of Dallas spent the weekend and Mrs. Effie Dietz 80th birthday.

Many more Happy Birthdays Effie. Other callers were Jack Merseur of Brownwood, Keith and Amanda, Courtney Collom.

The H.P. Morrison's grandson, Bradley Scott of Sweetwater, was down Saturday night.

Ray and Sherry, and Amanda Cooper of Abilene spent Sunday with the Earl Coopers. The Ray Coopers have moved from San Angelo to Abilene this passed week.

David Gray, son of Betty and Marvin Gray, a burn victim, is some improved in a Lubbock hospital. Our prayers are with David and his family.

EPA denies risky request

EPA has denied a request from the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce for a specific exemption to be able to use ferriamicide to control imported fire ant infestation. EPA said that an emergency did not exist, and that broadcast products, Amdro and Prodrone, are available to control the imported fire ant on all sites, except cropland. Also, the potential risk to human health in the environment outweighs any benefit that might be derived from the use of ferriamicide.

wastes the county's money. They feel it is much better to have one qualified and adequately paid JP and constable rather than 4 to 8 who are underqualified and underpaid.

Opponents say lowering the number of elected local officials sets a bad precedent and could be cited by a future Legislature to help justify cutting the number of county commissioners.

Proposition no. 2 would replace the urban homestead exemption from a $10,000 limit to a one acre limit and would be retroactively applied to all homesteads in Texas.

Supporters feel since urban land values are inflated, the constitutional exemption is protecting fewer and fewer urban homesteads from forced sale for debt. The $10,000 exemption used to be reasonable but now may represent just a fraction of the value of a newly-purchased lot, leaving anyone purchasing a lot for more than that amount without homestead protection. Since more and more often creditors stand to

Recent growth of economy

The Texas Industrial Production Index rose a seasonally adjusted 1.6 percent in June and was 2.2 percent greater than the period a year ago.

All reported segments of the economy experienced strong growth in the most recent period, ranging from a 2.7 percent increase in mining to a 0.8 percent increase in durable goods production.

Revisions in the April and May indexes reveal a 0.7 percent increase in total production during that period.

gain something by forcing a sale, naturally they are doing so and the current exemption does not protect people's homesteads as it was intended. Supporters also say basing the exemption on land area instead of value would make periodic revisions of the exemption limit unnecessary. Rural homestead exemption has always been figured by area, not dollar value.

Opponents feel one-acre for an urban homestead is too much and treats claimants in different locations unfairly. Land in an affluent section of a large town is more valuable than land in a poorer section. They feel making it retroactive would be harmful to creditors in a poorer section. They feel making it retroactive would be harmful to creditors who now have contracts and might be found to be unconstitutional. Some opponents feel the $10,000 is too generous since it does not include improvements, such as a home, and a homestead claimant can invest large sums of money making improvements yet creditors would not be able to get money owed to them because the investment was in the homestead.

Proposition no. 3 would authorize the Legislature to enact legislation (which it has already done contingent on passage of this proposal) that permits commodity boards to collect a refundable fee on product sales if the fee is approved by a referendum of the producers. The fee would be used by the board to promote the production and marketing of that agricultural product. Passage of this proposition would allow SB 7 to take effect. This legislation which was passed last session permits commodity boards established before September 1, 1983 to adopt a rule denying an exemption of the fee at the time of process or sale of the product; however, the producer may still apply for a refund of that fee. Should any commodity boards be established after September 1, 1983 or should the territory of an existing board be expanded, producers, themselves, could vote to deny the exemption. Refunds of the fee would still be allowed. Should this proposition fail SB 7 would have no effect.

Supporters say that commodity boards do a good job which is beneficial to producers and that they need the fees to carry out their programs of promotions, marketing and researching their products. If revenue is cut, the influence of Texas boards will be diluted at a time the national commodity organizations are enlarging or expanding foreign markets for their members.

Opponents say that even though the fee is refundable upon request, it is still a forced fee if there is no option for exemption in the first place.

They feel commodity boards are not so popular with agricultural producers that they should be granted special taxing powers. Opponents say Texas voters have rejected similar propositions twice before and it should be permanently laid to rest.

Hopefully these admittedly very brief explanations have been informative and help you in making a decision on how to vote on the propositions. Next week I will continue discussion on propositions 4, 5, and 6. It is not my intent to sway you in anyway; however if you would like additional information on a particular proposition, please contact my Austin office for a more complete analysis which has been done by the House Study Group, a research group funded through money from many representatives' office budgets.

Rock Hotel gets Historical marker

A Texas Historical marker for the Rock Hotel will be unveiled on Sunday, October 9, at 2 p.m. The hotel, located at 300 W. Dale, was built in 1909, the year that the Abilene and Southern Railway was extended to Winters.

The two-story native stone structure of 14 rooms, manager's apartment, and lobby was erected by J.L. Heath as a business venture. Sold to S.L. Alexander in 1912, it remained in the family until purchased by Marvin Pumphrey in 1944. The present owner, Mrs. Lorene Frazier, operates the hotel as a rooming house.

M.R. Williams, member of the Runnels County Historical Commission will preside at the unveiling. Rev. Glenn Shoemaker, pastor of First Baptist Church, will give the invocation. Mrs. George Poe, who provided the research for the marker, will introduce special guests.

Claude Hearne of Seagraves, a nephew of the Heaths, will read the marker inscription after it is unveiled by his sisters, Helen Hearne of Seagraves and Blanche Mabray of Abilene. Rev. Shoemaker will give the benediction.

Immediately following the ceremony, open house will be held at the Z.I. Hale museum next door. A toy display is the feature of the day and will be directed by Kay Colburn and Jo Olive Hancock.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony and visit the museum, furnished with mementos of our heritage.

Ventilate your mobile home

"A mobile home, like any other home, can be sealed too tightly for your health," says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service.

"Some exchange between indoor and outdoor air should go on all the time. When you weatherize make sure you do not seal or block openings intended to ventilate the wall cavity," says Owens.

If the inside air seems stuffy, homeowners should ventilate with exhaust fans or open a window a crack, says the specialist.
