In a regular meeting of the Winters Housing Authority on Tuesday, March 3, the Board awarded the renovation to Langston Company of Lampasas. The Langston Company representatives stated that they would use local contractors and also local general labor to do a lot of the work.

Anyone interested in working

Of the 24 apartment units to be remodeled, 16 units are family units and eight are elderly units. Two of the 16 family units will also be made handicap accessible.

Onstage and backstage with recording star Mark Chessnut

by JOYCE JONES

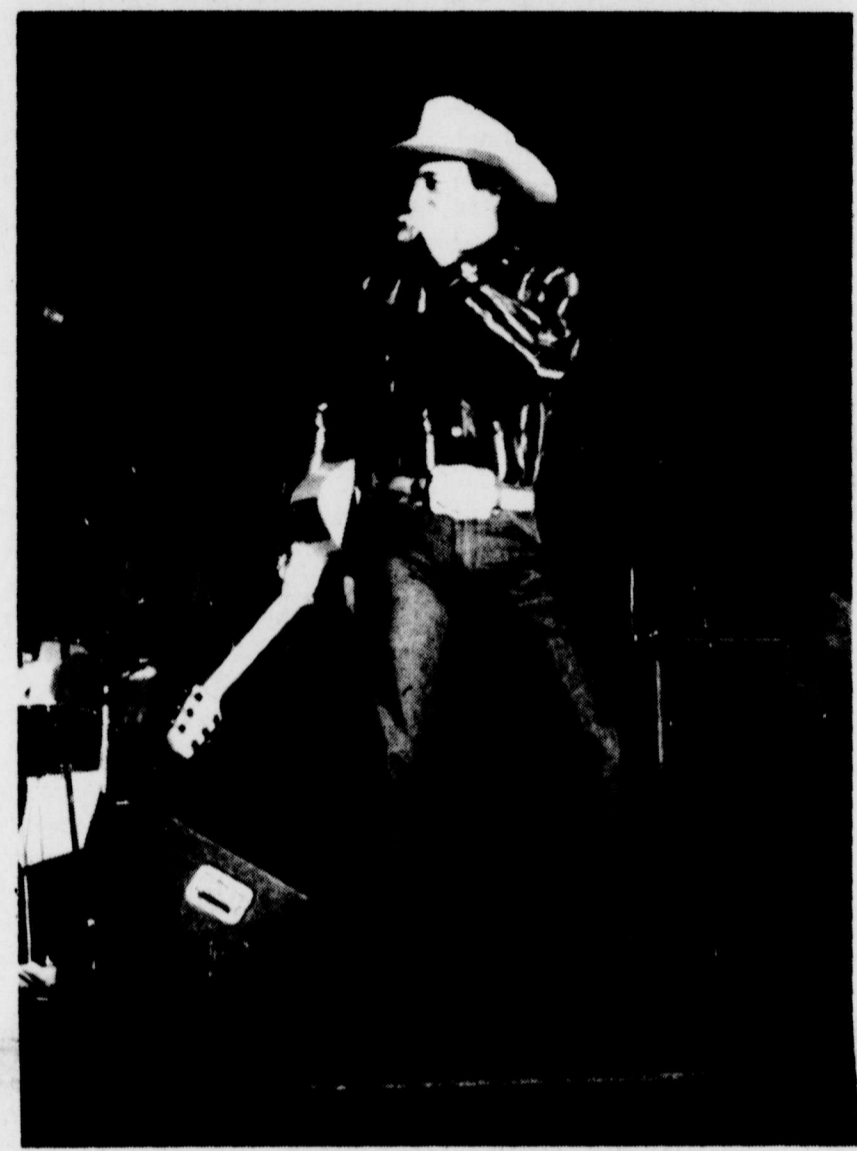

Mark Chessnut, recently nominated for this year's Academy of Country Music (ACM) "New Vocalist" award, was on stage at the Taylor County Coliseum in concert with another newcomer to the country music scene, Joe Diffie, on Saturday night, February 29. Chessnut has a strong following of country music fans, both young and old, as was seen at the concert.

The young recording artist from Beaumont sings country music from the heart; some people refer to it as the old foot stompin', honky tonk type music. The singer has made a rapid climb on the country and western music charts all across the country since his first album "Too Cold at Home" was released in August of 1990.

Chessnut, who attributes his love of country music to two of country music's greatest performers—the late Hank Williams Sr. and George Jones—sang hits from his first album and a new album, "Long Necks and Short Stories," which will be released in April. The first single, "Old Flames and New Names," from the new album has already been released. Several songs from his first album, which recently went gold, were released as singles and went to the number one spot across the country in a short time. "Too Cold at Home," the title song was the biggest seller on the album.

During Diffie's segment of the show, he called Chessnut on stage and the two teamed up in some of George Jones' hit songs, bringing a standing ovation from the crowd.

In an interview backstage, Chessnut said that he has wanted to be a country western recording artist all of his life. "That's all I've ever wanted to do. I've sang since I was a child. I always wanted to be a big star." He said that he started singing professionally on stage at age 15 and always felt that he would make it as a recording star someday.

Chessnut said that his father, who died last year, was the single most contributing person toward his career. "My dad kept me going. He would fire me back up when I would get discouraged and wanted to slow down."

The young recording artist said that he would like to win some awards, but that he wouldn't quit singing if he didn't. "An award boosts your ego and raises your prices, and I will keep on working hard until I'm on top." When asked which award he thought was the most important to win, the ACM awards or the Music City Awards, he replied "They are both important. The ACM awards are special because they are voted on by your peers and the Music City Awards are special because they are voted on by the fans. I would be honored to receive either one."

When Chessnut isn't recording or traveling across the country on a concert tour, he said he likes to spend his time fishing, golfing or hunting. Chessnut said that he had recently bought himself a new fishing boat but hasn't had time to use it yet because of his busy schedule. And no, Chessnut doesn't have a special lady in his life either because of that same busy schedule which prevents him from having much of a social life these days.

City hires new City Administrator

Aref (R.F.) Hassan was hired as City Administrator at the regular meeting of the City Council on Monday, March 9.

Hassan had applied during the previous search for an administrator and after being contacted, was still interested in the job. After being interviewed by the Council, Hassan was in the running for the job when James Blankenship was hired. Hassan should start work around the 1st of April.

In other city business, the Council approved the solicitation of bids for a metal roof for City Hall. All the recent rains have emphasized the need for a new roof and a metal covering over the existing roof was decided upon as the best long term solution.

Also passed was a motion to advertise for a city lakekeeper. Councilman Jim Linceycomb stated that he thought it was worth protecting our city water source to have a lakekeeper. Mayor Sandy Griffin and interim administrator Charles Ludwick were instructed to write a job description that would include mowing the grass, live on the premises, enforce ordinances and pick up trash.

Other action included moving the May meetings from the 2nd and 4th Mondays to the 1st and 3rd Mondays to allow for canvassing votes after the election and missing the Memorial Day holiday.

Local board elections set

Plan now for severe weather

Although tornadoes, severe thunderstorms and floods can strike virtually any part of Texas at any time, spring seems to bring an increase in violent weather.

You can take precautions to assist yourself and your family in the event of a tornado.

Periodically hold a tornado drill so that family members know what to do and where to go if the national weather service issues a tornado warning. The safest part of a house during a tornado traditionally is the basement, but be aware of the potential for flooding if there is heavy rain in the area. Interior bathrooms, hallways and closets on the ground floor also offer protection from toadic winds. Avoid windows and outside walls. Take along blankets or sleeping bags to protect yourself from falling debris and shattering glass, which are frequently cause of death and injury during a tornado.

Make certain you have a portable radio and several flashlights (and fresh batteries for both) as well as bottled water, extra prescription medications and a first aid kit in your shelter area.

Remember, if a tornado strikes, electricity, gas, water and sewer service may be disrupted for several days.

Mobile homes and automobiles are dangerous places to be during a tornado. If you live in a mobile

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles ©1992

I had the opportunity several weeks ago to hear Mr. T. Boone Pickens speak, and I was very impressed with his delivery and his subject matter.

Mr. Pickens is well-known for his takeover attempts (the stock holder type) on several major oil companies, including Gulf and Phillips. Those memories are inspiring to some, simply intriguing to others, and downright painful to still others.

Depending on who you were during those years in the 80's, you may have been a victim of the cost-cutting that inevitably followed a "raid" by Mr. Pickens. For that reason above all, Mr. Pickens is considered by some to be a cold "green mailer" with profit as his only motive.

I will confirm and concur that Mr. Pickens is very interested in profit and the success of any enterprise of which he might be a part. That much is clear after hearing his determination to make an honest buck in the best way he knows how.

I would also submit that Mr. Pickens is a red-blooded capitalist who believes in the free-market and its efficiencies.

I would conjecture that some of his decisions to that end result in some painful occurrences for some folks in certain situations, but I would also tend to believe that his pride in his labor and ownership would result in some very faithful shareholders and even employees.

He spoke of his dedication to making natural gas a more available fuel, especially for automobiles.

In his words, he "...has no special affinity to natural gas, it is just that he owns a whole lot of it and it would help him out if he could sell some of it..."

It appears to me that he is trying to market a product he has a substantial position in for his own benefit (and the shareholders', too). And, hey, that is what America is all about. As long as he is being honest about it, and he is, in my opinion, then he can do whatever provides an income or a profit.

Of late, he has drawn a little flak for teaming with some environmentalists to promote natural gas as a clean alternative fuel. Any combination of oil man and environmentalist is viewed with suspicion, so Mr. Pickens has been criticized for being hypocritical.

He doesn't see it that way. He says he believes in protecting the environment and he wants to market natural gas, so he has that in common with the environmentalists. He may not agree with the more liberal of the lot, but that doesn't enter in to this particular transaction and promotion.

The really neat thing about his campaign (some call it a crusade) to make natural gas a fuel of choice for automobiles and manufacturing is that the product is really a good one. It doesn't have to be hyped above its real value. It is plentiful, very cheap compared to gasoline and coal, exceptionally clean-burning, and mostly ignored by a large part of the populace.

TORNADO PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT 15 SECONDS WATCH/WARNING

Knowing the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning could save your life. A watch means conditions are right for tornadoes to form. A warning means a tornado has been sighted in your area, and you should take cover quickly.

TORNADO PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT 30 SECONDS TAKE ACTION

Tornadoes can strike at any time, any place, in Texas. Listen to National Weather Service bulletins for weather information. If a warning is issued or you see a tornado, immediately take shelter below ground or in an interior hallway or bathroom on the ground floor. Stay away from windows.

If you're outside, lie flat in a ditch or ravine and cover your head with your arms. Do not stay in or under your car or mobile home, since both are easily moved by tornadoes. Do not try to outrun a tornado or drive away from it in your car.

From The Well

by Pastor Jim Hanson
St. John's Lutheran Church

Sunday we celebrated Girl Scouts. We had five Girl Scouts in church, along with leaders and parents. I was impressed with their different colored uniforms and the awards attached to them. I was glad we could acknowledge the girls and their program.

I suppose that most of us are familiar with Girl Scouts because of their annual sale of Girl Scout cookies. Each year, we end up buying at least three boxes. It has become a tradition. Besides, who can turn down a pretty little girl who comes up to you and asks, "Pastor, will you buy some Girl Scout cookies?" The sales are pretty impressive. Lots of money is generated through the work of the girls.

But what impressed me most this year, was a bulletin insert made available to us for distribution on Sunday morning. On one side was a statement that said, "THE GIRL COMES FIRST IN GIRL SCOUTING." I want to quote the rest of the article. It was so good.

"We live in very exciting times, but they are also times of change. Girls growing up at the end of the 20th century are deeply concerned with the environment, political upheavals, economic problems, and shifting value systems. And they are looking for answers.

Girls need a place especially for girls—where they can enjoy close friendships, expand their horizons, develop a sense of purpose, and explore answers to those all important questions. That place is Girl Scouting.

For the past 80 years, Girl Scouting has offered girls a special place—to combine eternal values and contemporary insights and meaningful relationships with adult leaders who are such splendid role models.

In Girl Scouting...The girl comes first!"

I'm so glad. Wouldn't it be nice if more of our programs put people first. Hats off to the Girl Scouts! They have their priorities right. The girl, first. No wonder they are alive and well after eighty years.

New pastor at Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church

by NORMA SUDDUTH

Rev. Bill Thompson and wife, Jan, have arrived in Winters from Nashville, Tennessee to begin a pastorate at the Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church.

Pastor Thompson and his wife were full time Evangelists and Gospel singers on the field before coming to Winters.

Pastor Thompson feels that it had to be God that sent him all the way to Winters. He said that since arriving, he and his wife have met some wonderful people that makes for a real joy being here.

The Thompsons are recording artists for Star-Way Records and song writers for Tabitha Publishing Company and members of BMI out of Nashville.

The church feels that Pastor Thompson and his wife will go far in helping the church grow. He has made plans to bring in many outstanding ministers from across the United States. Plans are being made for a great homecoming for the church in May of this year. With Deacon Childers and Treasurer of the church, Norma Jo Sudduth, he plans to go forward to a greater height in the church. There are some who want to see the church grow; and grow it shall.

Pastor Thompson has his earned Doctor of Theology and is making plans to have Bible classes for those that seek a deeper insight into the word of God. He plans to train teachers and have a youth department that will be led by a very precious man that feels this calling.

The pastor and his wife will be singing and working the area in fellowship meetings. They have a new album out that was recorded live in Jasper with a fine church helping them. Their style of music has been acclaimed throughout the United States. They have appeared on television in many states and sang on many stages. They both feel that with God's help they can make a difference at the church. He said, "There are many rivers to cross and mountains to climb but I am a winner as long as God helps me."

The pastor, his wife and members of the church extend a welcome to all that have no church home. Come and worship with them at home. Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church, where you are always welcome.

First Baptist's Beat

"Reaching people and growing churches" was the theme of Home Missions Week of Prayer observed in First Baptist Church March 1-8.

The women met in the Fellowship Hall Tuesday morning for a program that focused on four of our largest cities and their needs: New York City, Miami, Baltimore and Indianapolis.

David Speegle led the group singing and sang a solo for the special music.

Beth Bradley introduced the cities and two people discussed needs in each city interspersed with one verse each of the songs "Tell the Good News" and "Ye, Christian Heralds!"

Bradley announced that New York is the nation's largest city with a population of over 18,000,000. It is the business and publishing capital of our nation.

Nadeen Smith told of the ministries of the Metropolitan New York Baptist Association to all of the many language groups and students of the area. Darlene Sims discussed the door to door witnessing. Prayer for this work was offered by Linda Morrison and Bradley.

"Just 100 years ago Miami was a mosquito infested trading post at the mouth of the Miami River," said Bradley. Today it is one of the nation's most popular resorts. Spanish is heard everywhere, and signs are in both English and Spanish.

In the last five years Carvajal, a Hispanic immigrant, has assisted with the start of more than 50 new work projects and a goal of 30 more by 1995. His work was discussed by Charlie Poe and Lillian Eubanks. Edna Smith and Bradley led in prayer for this project.

Baltimore has been a city of firsts—starting point of the first railroad and telegraph communication. Marcie Webb and June Sibley discussed the activity there where Baptists are a minority. Verda Smith gave the prayers.

Indianapolis, a city that pulses with activity forged by its high-tech industries, was presented by Sara Beth Heidenheimer and Hortell McCaughan.

Darlene Sims read the names of missionaries with birthdays for the day and offered prayer for them.

The week began with distribution of prayer folders to members for each day. The church offering goal of $3,000 was announced. On Sunday night area missionary Ferris Akins and his wife discussed a missions project in Brazil. A special film was shown on Wednesday night at prayer meeting.

Following Tuesday's program a birthday celebration for Jo Olive Hancock, president, was observed with a cake and other refreshments.

Editor visits classroom

by Tamara Thorpe, Jamie Bishop, Mandy Merfeld, Uma Patel and John-Morris Edwards

Mr. Glenn Dromgoole, editor of the Abilene Reporter News, visited Miss Magee's fifth grade Gifted and Talented class March 4. Mr. L.C. Hounsell and Mrs. Dianne Merfeld joined the class discussion during which Mr. Dromgoole shared impressions of his recent trip to the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republic.

First, Mr. Dromgoole showed the group pictures of Russian people. Mr. Dromgoole pointed out to the class that Russians do not look any different from Americans. Some pictures also showed the beautifully restored buildings he had observed while on his visit. One of his interesting souvenirs included a doll in almost the shape of a bowling pin that, when opened, had a total of eight other dolls inside of each other. This kind of doll is called a "nesting doll." He also had a nesting doll designed to resemble some of the most important Russian leaders.

Mr. Dromgoole felt that the former Soviet Union would not re-unite and that it might be awhile until everything settled down. He thought the 'coup attempt, a last ditch effort, did not preserve the Communist government as planned. He also felt that the largest obstacle the country has to overcome will be their economy.

He stated that Russians want foreign money because of the little value of their ruble. Mr. Dromgoole told the class of some changes that have occurred. Trying to trade with the rest of the world, the ruble has gone down in value. Now, the price of food and other items remains extremely high in relation to the peoples' salaries. During the time of his visit the going rate of a ruble equalled about two cents. To encourage tourists to their country, customs officials no longer search luggage or clothing as they once did. This kind of openness should encourage more travel.

In response to a question, Mr. Dromgoole expressed his feeling toward the land he had visited. He replied sadly, "When I was your age, I thought of Russians as—enemies." He now believes that if we would get to know the Russians, we would find they have similarities to us and that we could become great friends. Mr. Dromgoole left for the class addresses to write for pen-pals.

Mr. Dromgoole graciously gave the class a Russian alphabet poster, two lapel pins showing symbols of Russia and a picture of the student friends he had met during his journey.

Because of Mr. Dromgoole's visit, the class will continue to study and learn more of our Russian neighbors.

LONE STAR STATE HISTORY by DAN BROWN

ATHENS OF TEXAS

THE ATHENS OF TEXAS...
Coles Settlement, in present-day Washington County, was founded in 1824 by Judge John P. Coles. In 1836 the name was changed to Independence in honor of the new Republic of Texas. Baptist church leaders received a charter in 1845 to establish Baylor University. The school opened in 1846 as a co-educational institution with 24 students. Because the University attracted the best educated and most intellectual citizens of the day, Stephen F. Austin dubbed Independence "The Athens of Texas."

Poe's Corner by Charlsie Poe

Cotton-picking Time

Cotton-picking turned out to be my favorite time of the year because it was the only time when the money came rolling in. George left home early every morning on a wagon piled high with fluffy bolls of cotton pulled by big Missouri mules—he swore he'd never use a tractor—and returned with an empty wagon.

I was busy in my little love nest learning to cook. George told me he didn't like light bread and I knew he wouldn't eat cornbread—so I was making biscuits for every meal.

One night George came in greatly excited. He had paid all his bills including $90 to brother Fred for nine months rent. He was also carrying a portable victrola; one that was wound by hand, since we didn't have electricity. He played it almost constantly; such fiddling tunes as Wabash Cannon Ball, Down Yonder, Golden Slippers, Buffalo Gal and many others.

A constant diet of these tunes was hard on a girl whose mother was a music teacher.

We had little time to visit during harvest but managed to eat Sunday dinner with his parents or mine. I noticed that George ate the light bread and left the biscuits alone. From then on he was served whatever kind of bread I wanted to prepare. He was apologetic. He just wanted to be sure that I learned to cook.

The W.W. Poes moved to Runnels County in 1904. They had 10 children: eight boys and two girls. Their oldest son was older than my dad. After bumper wheat crop in 1919, they moved into Winters with their two children at home, Eva and George.

All the Poes who lived near enough to visit, gathered on special occasions. Each family brought a dish or dishes. Mother Poe was a wonderful cook. She furnished the turkey and trimmings for the Christmas or Thanksgiving dinners.

After we went home in the evening, George always called for pork and beans with bacon. He said, "this is the best meal I've had today." We had this dish real often.

In 1927, two weeks after we married, Fred and Beckie welcomed their first child, after many years of marriage. Little Fred, was a plump, blue-eyed boy that became very dear to us. George and I thought we had to help raise him.

After the cotton had been gathered it was time to prepare the land for a new crop. Before the mules pulled the large breaking plow with the circular disks to turn the cotton stalks under and loosen the soil, George wanted to groom them.

"I want you to hold the mules while I give them a haircut," he said. He handed me the reins and started to work. The mule reared back. I dropped the reins in a hurry and climbed the lot fence. When George discovered me, I was sitting on the very top of the fence. I thought it was funny and when I told his mother and dad they laughed at me for saying haircut—"you shear mules," they said.

Before the land breaking was finished, I wanted to go to the show. George told me if I'd drive the mules several rounds he would take me. I was proud of my accomplishment until I heard him say that the mules were trained and could have made the trip themselves.

I was getting tired of being the one that always had to "be taught." I didn't intend to, but I taught George a lesson he never forgot. I've always been subject to "motion sickness." I never knew when I would have one of these attacks.

One night we were coming home from the movies and I became suddenly sick. "Quick! stop the car," I said. Then jumped out and vomited—I got back in the car and said "let's go"—George was so scared he could hardly move "I thought you were going to die!" he stammered. I felt just fine, but after that incident he became more concerned about my welfare.

Girl Scouts holding ecological event on Sat., March 14

In honor of the 80th anniversary of Girl Scouting in the U.S., the Winters Girl Scout Service Unit is holding an ecology event on Saturday, March 14th. Seven Winters troops will be participating in the event, including Daisies, Brownies and Junior Girl Scouts. The theme for the day is "Winters Girl Scouts care for the Earth." It will take place in the park area beginning at 9:30 a.m., lasting until 4 p.m., and will conclude Girl Scout Week activities.

To prepare for the event, individual troops have been talking about ways to protect and care for our environment. Each troop was to create a banner presenting their environmental message, to be displayed on Saturday. Troops have also prepared a craft activity using a recyclable, to share with other troops during the day.

The highlight of the day will be the planting of three evergreen trees in the park area, as an ecology conscious, beautification effort. This will involve all Winters Girl Scouts in a "Care for the Earth" community service project.

A Walkathon entitled, "Go the distance to make a difference" will take place in the afternoon at 2:30. This is being organized to be Junior Girl Scout Troop 161 as part of a badge requirement. To enter, each participant will contribute one or more aluminum cans to be recycled for the "Plant a Tree" fund. Anyone in the community is invited to bring a can and come up to the track field and walk with the girls.

This day promises to be a fun and exciting as well as learning experience for our Winters Girl Scouts.

Parks, Day engagement announced

Both Shawn and Laura are currently employed by TW Recreational Services of Yellowstone National Park.

The wedding, to be officiated by Jon Campbell, will be held Saturday, April 25, at 2:00 p.m. in the Trinity United Methodist Church in Coleman.

All family and friends are invited to attend.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its first annual Membership Appreciation Reception with an Open House on Tuesday, March 17, from 4 to 6 p.m. Members and the public are invited to drop by and see the renovations and improvements that the Board of Directors and their helpers have made to the building. Refreshments will be served and door prizes given.

Values Statement COMMUNITY OF CARING WHAT WE STAND FOR

We think values are ever-present; everyone stands for something. Our program is built around five core values which empower people to be responsible and caring members of a community.

CARE

Care is rooted in our emotions or feelings, and it leads to actions of tenderness and protection. The opposite of care is disregard. It is important to care for others and ourselves. Sometimes people care for the wrong things, or care too much about something. But persons and institutions should demonstrate that they care for people and their fate.

RESPONSIBILITY

People who care must be willing to take responsibility. That means they are accountable for their actions, enjoying praise when things go well and willing to accept blame when things go wrong. Accepting responsibility is a sign of maturity; it can be frightening because as I am responsible, I become vulnerable to criticism. If I am responsible, I cannot blame my mistakes on peer pressure or what "everyone" does. Being responsible means being willing to stand up and be counted, to say "I" decided to take an action. It was my choice, achievement or fault.

RESPECT

If I take responsibility for myself, I must respect you as someone who can and should do the same. When I respect you, I care for you as someone who is valuable in your own right. I must listen to you and give you space. I should expect you to be different from me, and I should celebrate that difference. Self-respect and respect for others go together. Self-respect means realizing that I matter, that I care for some things, and that I have to live with myself.

TRUST

When people responsibly care for and respect each other, trust develops. Trust implies dependence. If I trust you, I acknowledge that I need you for something, often support. And, trust also involves expectations. Thus, trusting people means counting on them: depending on them and expecting them to deliver. Communities of people require a certain level of trust. Trust can be foolish or misplaced, but a whole life without trust is impossible. Worthwhile trust requires knowledge. I cannot trust myself if I do not understand myself, and cannot trust you if I do not understand you.

FAMILY

We first acquire our values in families, from the people we live with. And our choices about love and sex create new families. We understand family to be the community that raises children, the community they leave to go to school, and a kind of community they may create themselves one day. Not all families are the same, not all are good; we do not all need or want exactly the same kind of family. But families have been called the "school of character." And we take family stability, responsibility of family members to each other, mutual respect, trust and care among family members as ideals worth working toward.

"The previous Values Statement has a message to teach us all. Through its teachings and participating professionals and parents, we discover how to work together to avoid those ever-present traps—drug and alcohol abuse, sexual promiscuity, child abuse—and we need not be reluctant to point them out and face them head on. As a means of education and part of the task to make adolescents more aware of their power to make good moral choices, we will offer a beginning in "Relationship Education" through new curriculum material. Values and Choices will be presented to students beginning this spring, targeting those youths in grades 4 through 8. This course material sets the stage and establishes ground rules for defining the concept of sexuality and promotes self-esteem as the basis for positive feelings about self and others. These lessons will identify consequences of decision-making, and provides a forum for students to identify appropriate guidelines for themselves. The Community is encouraged to become involved and support this curriculum as well as the entire Community of Caring Program." Submitted by Mitzie Deike, Community Coordinator, Community of Caring Program.

Art Show

An art show for area artists will be held Sunday, April 12 at the Rock Hotel, as planned at the Z.I. Hale Museum meeting Tuesday. Entrants will be allowed two pictures each, or more if space permits. Each picture must be framed and equipped with a wire hanger.

A special attraction will be the "Starving Artist" sale—one room will be reserved for this event. Entries can be matted or unframed. Each person will be responsible for his or her exhibits. There will be a charge of 25% on sales.

A flower show will be held at the Rock Hotel the later part of May, but the date was not set.

The possibility of providing a filing case for families who wanted to keep their family histories was discussed—also the possibility of sponsoring a workshop on how to write your personal or family story was considered but further information was needed for a decision.

Supporters and volunteers needed for literacy program

Twenty-seven million American adults are functionally illiterate. Many people in the community can't even fill out a job application. Everyone loses and everyone pays for illiteracy in many ways, including programs that treat the symptoms, but hardly ever the cause.

Consider these facts:

LOST: Dollars
 An illiterate adult earns 42% less than a high school graduate. That adds up to $8 billion a year in lost tax revenues. $5 billion of your taxes support welfare recipients who are unemployable due to illiteracy.

LOST: Productivity
 At the same time that unemployment edges toward all time highs, American industry can't find enough employees with basic literacy skills to fill empty positions. Countries like Japan, with a better educated work force, outstrip American productivity rates.

LOST: Human Rights
 20% of America's adults can't make informed decisions because they can't read. They can't understand a contract or shop for a bargain. Illiteracy among blacks and Hispanics is two and three times greater than the national average, insuring racial inequities in employment and income.

What can you do? You are invited to support the local literacy program that is being planned. Contact Margaret Anderson or Pauline O'Neal at the library, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harrison, Mrs. Jim Hanson or Leslie Daniels.
