Lady Blizzards win district 6-2A championship

Editor's note: Because Tuesday night's games were finished after press time, the following information is a brief summary of the district 6-2A outcome. More information will follow next week.

With a 55-32 win over the Lady Bulldogs of Coahoma, and a 45-43 overtime win for Wall over Jim Ned, the Winters Lady Blizzards captured the district 6-2A district championship Tuesday night.

The Lady Blizzards meet the Lady Indians of Jim Ned this Friday, February 10 as the final game of the regular season. The gymnasium at Tuscola will open at 5:30 p.m. for the 6:30 competition.

Regardless of the outcome of Friday night's game, the Lady Blizzards stand alone at the top of district 6-2A.

The Lady Blizzards won the first half of district play and remained the only undefeated team after Tuesday night's game.

Playoff action is tentatively scheduled for Friday, Feb. 17. The opponent and location will be determined after Friday night's games to complete the regular season.

Valentine Salad Luncheon planned for this Monday

The Winters Area Chamber of Commerce will be sponsoring a Valentine Salad Luncheon on Monday, February 13, 1995, at the Main Street Church of Christ Fellowship Hall, 502 N. Main. Serving time will be from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Cost per plate is $3.50. Plates to go will be available.

WHS Glacier King and Queen to be crowned Friday

Winters High School students will elect Glacier King and Queen this Friday, February 10. The coronation will begin at 9 a.m. in the high school auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Nominees chosen by their classmates are seniors Jamie Brown and Chane Reagan, juniors Marcie Pritchard and Jeff Miller, sophomores Janet Guy and James Andrae, and freshmen Erica Martinez and Eric Bernal.

The king and queen are selected annually in honor of the Glacier, the high school yearbook. The entire WHS student body and junior high vote for their favorite boy and girl after a two-week campaign by the candidates.

Glacier King and Queen will be announced in next week's edition of The Winters Enterprise.

Community-wide men's breakfast planned Sunday at First Baptist

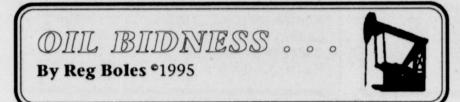

There will be a community-wide breakfast for men and boys from all churches in the area at First Baptist Church on Sunday, February 12, at 8:00 a.m.

Reverend Glenn Shoemake of First Baptist Church will be the host and Reverend Jim Hanson of St. John's Lutheran Church will bring the devotional. The Brotherhood of First Baptist Church will cook the breakfast.

All men and boys in the area are invited to join in the fellowship and worship.

I saw something interesting in equipment and services required a national business publication the to find it. other day that I thought might be of interest to you.

The magazine is called Worth and it is filled with investment advice to increase the readers' same.

A story is headlined on the cover entitled "The Next Oil Boom". It is written by Peter Lynch, a prominent figure among investment professionals because he is the fund manager for a very large and successful mutual fund.

If you haven't heard of Peter Lynch, suffice it to say that he has "guru" status among stock market watchers because of the success he has had in beating everyone else in return on his fund's money.

Back to our point

Mr. Lynch pens an article about the stocks he would bet on in the oil service sector that will benefit from a coming boom in the oilfield. He considers the boom to have a chance of beginning in this decade.

He concentrates on service companies (because he feels they are the most undervalued in the marketplace), but his words have implications beyond the companies he mentions.

Now, remember, this is a publication that does not concentrate on the oil business, and Peter Lynch is certainly no oil patch expert. Although this removal from the oil patch causes the article to contain some oversimplifications and such, it does not reduce the significance of what is being said.

In fact, the idea that someone outside the oil patch is looking at our business as someplace to invest actually adds credibility to the article. After all, Mr. Lynch and his readers are only interested in increasing their worth, which means making money. They have no other agenda of favoritism or

A Tribute to J. R. Lacy

J. R. Lacy, a most loving, caring and compassionate man, left his physical body to serve God in Heaven as he did on earth Jan. 28, cherish and relive. Although J.R. has left us in body, his essence lives on in us all. All who knew him and his Spiritual greatness will surely feel the void of his physical presence. Yet we must all remember death is not an ending, but the beginning of a better life. We can only hope to meet him as we cross over and that he guides us in the afterlife as he did here on Earth. We love you, J.R., and may peace be with us as it is now with you. by Cindy Lacy of San Angelo, niece of J. R. Lacy

Me Lynch's logic goes as follows? oil demand is increasing at 1 million barrels per day each year; current capacity (without Iraq) is about equal to demand; Iraq has 3 million barrels per day at its ready if allowed to come on stream; so, even if Iraq is allowed to start selling, the excess capacity will be gone in three years or less and demand and supply will tighten dramatically as early as 1998.

He says buy the big service companies that are undervalued to take advantage of this coming surge in demand for oil and the

at heart up until the very day he transcended our world to join a more worthy, heavenly place.

J. R. inspired many while on this earth, setting an example for all the true meaning of Christianity and unconditional love. His legacy of love will live on in his children, grandchildren, brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, and all others who knew him. Tessie, his wife of 53 years, will surely feel the loss most deeply.

One could not know a more honorable man nor be unaffected by his unassuming goodness. J.R. loved children and never too busy to give them his attention, he doted on them all. He challenged all of us to become our highest self. physically, mentally, and spiritually. The world and especially Texas became a better place on the occasion of his birth in Cooper, Texas.

Throughout his life, J.R. was committed to nurturing the earth through his gardening, helping others and keeping himself physically fit. He could outdo any youngster and most adults in doing pushups, paying a dollar a pushup to any child that was up to the challenge. What wonderful memories this dear man left us to

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to everyone for your prayers, acts of kindness, cards, flowers and food during the loss of our loved one, J. R. Lacy.

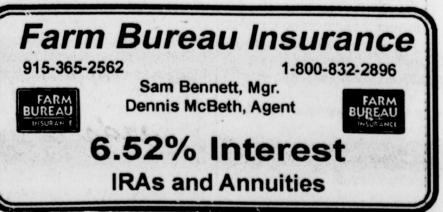

It is never easy to lose someone you love, but you helped to make our loss more bearable and we will always be grateful for your caring and loving support.

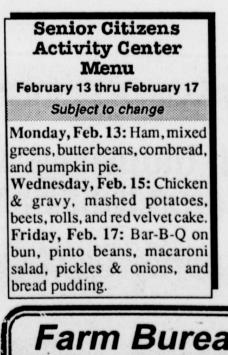

Also, a special thanks to Mike Meyer and Linda Dry of the Winters Funeral Home for their kind and caring assistance during this very difficult time.

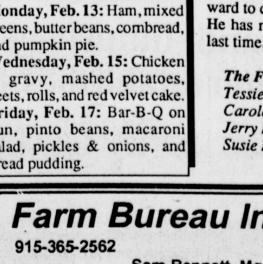

J. R./Daddy loved Winters and although he had moved to Bloomfield, New Mexico several years ago, he truly left his heart in Winters, Texas.

He continued to take The Winters Enterprise and talked of people he knew and experiences he had in Winters, and he kept up with the Winters Blizzards football team. He always looked forward to coming back to Winters. He has now come home for the last time, and he is at peace.

Last week I helped bury a friend. A minister. He lived in Odessa. I had called him to come and serve with me as my assistant when I was pastor there. We had really looked forward to serving together. For over 25 years we had done stuff together, but, not in the same church. Or, even the same denomination. Bob was an Episcopalian. I was Lutheran. But, we were friends.

I remember the first time I laid eyes on Bob. We were living in Glendive, Montana, at the time. I was serving a large Lutheran congregation with a brand new sanctuary and an education building with 44 Sunday School rooms. Big. With a building debt to match its size. Bob was serving a little old Episcopal church, small, and almost unseen. He was sent there from a large church in Chicago.

Of course, we had heard about him and his wife and family before he came. Small towns are like that, news travels fast, and almost every telephone is a "hot line" of the latest information. Anyway, we were wondering what these big city folks would be like.

We met, Bob and I, on the second floor of the community hospital. He was wearing a black clergy shirt with a white clergy collar, a moustache over his lip, and carrying a cane. I thought to myself, "Here's a dude from the city." And when he introduced himself as "Father Robert Wittenstrom, presently serving St. Matthew's Episcopal Church," I could feel a distance coming in between us. He was rather proper, and, in my eyes, a little pompous.

Ramona had some apprehension regarding Jean, his wife. We did want to welcome them to town, so Ramona made certain Jean was invited to a community style show. She went to pick her up, and, when Jean got to the car she announced, rather out of breath, "I'm sorry I am late. But, as I was getting ready to come, I reached for a can of hair spray. Only to discover, after I had sprayed my hair, it was Right Guard and not hair spray!" And then she laughed, at herself. And all the barriers came tumbling down.

We did a lot of things together in Glendive. Worked to bring to that town a Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center that is the pride of the area, even today. The most fun we had was driving together to Aguero joins county-seat towns to sell county commissioners on the idea. And while Bob was meeting with the commissioners, I was meeting with the preachers. We organized a 19-county area that became united to a person to get the Center. We'd drive in his little red Mustang, and when we got out of the car, our hosts would say, "Here come the gold-dust twins."

When I left Glendive for Crookston, Minnesota, it wasn't long until Bob left, too. This time for Detroit. While there, he got a lot of training in working with alcohol and drug addicts. One spring, when Bob came through Crookston, we had a little party for him. And, 2 years later, when our town needed a director for an Alcohol and Drug treatment center, one of my friends said, "How about Bob? Wouldn't he do a great job for us?" So, we called him on the phone, and six months later he came with his family. He was still an Espiscopal priest. The Glenmore Foundation for Alcohol and Drug Treatment is still going. After we moved to Odessa, we needed an assistant in our church there. I called Bob. He made the transfer to the Lutheran Church. And we served together. It wasn't the same. There were lots of problems. Serious health problems. Other problems. And, some distance. After we left Odessa, we didn't see or hear much from Bob and Jean. One day Jean called and said, "I've put Bob in a nursing home. I can't take care of him anymore." So, we went. And visited. And became reconciled again. Close. No distance.

"The Runnels County Pioneers," published in 1976 as a bicentennial project, tells the story of the Andrew Herring family settling in Runnels County not far from the Coleman County line in 1887 after Andrew came west and made his first land purchase in 1883; died 1965; married August

Herring sold his farm land in Washington County, Texas, near Brenham, put the money in a sack under the saddle of his eldest son's son were reported to be doing horse, and they started for Runnels County. His son, August, had lost an arm in a gin owned by his father and it has been said he did not think anyone would suspect a one-arm boy and a sorry horse would be carrying money.

Evidently they made the journey safely since he purchased about 14,000 acres of land lying mostly in Runnels County but partly in Coleman County. Andrew Herring was mainly a land man rather than a livestock raiser; he bought land, held it awhile, maybe develop it, and then sell it. Since Bob died, my mind has been like a documentary film, filled with the experiences Bob and I had, that we as couples had. All good! Every day, more came to mind. I could write a book. From the well.

If we hadn't reconciled, would it be the same? Would my remembrances be so good and refreshing, life-giving? I doubt it. Forgiveness and reconciliation are the gates to the flow of love. And love is stronger than death. Last week, at Bob's funeral, it proved itself so.

Locals' granddaughter earns ady top basketball honors

Leigh Ann Reel, daughter of Ronnie and Brenda Reel of Paint Creek and granddaughter of Clemmie Reel and Winford Reel of Winters, was recently named as an Abilene Reporter-News' area basketball Player of the Week.

Reel, a 5-11 junior who is averaging 25 points and 18 rebounds per game, had 72 points and 40 rebounds in two District 20-A contests for the Lady Pirates.

On February 3, Leigh Ann set a new scoring record for Paint Creek when she scored 44 points, breaking the old record of 42 points. In an 86-25 win over Megargel, Reel scored 40 points and pulled down 20 rebounds. She shot 55 percent from the field, (17 of 31), made 6 of 8 free throws, and had four steals and two assists. Reel recorded 32 points and 20 rebounds in a 65-52 loss to Throckmorton. She hit 54 percent of her field goals (13 of 24) and made two steals.

Leigh Ann's father, Ronnie, is a 1968 graduate of Winters High School where he was a member of the Blizzard basketball team.

Highly erodible land conservation

H.E.L., CROP RESIDUE, CROP ROTATION and COM-PLIANCE. As if there was not enough for a farmer or rancher to worry about, these key words play an important part of the farming operation.

Highly erodible land or H.E.L. first came to be with the 1985 Farm Bill. It addresses soil types that have been designated as H.E.L. soils. These soils were chosen due to depth of soil, their ability to restore themselves and how easily they are subject to erosion by either wind or water. In order to bring these soils insures the right amount of residue is being returned to the soil for erosion control and soil maintenance.

> Area farmers need to be aware when picking up new farmland to be operated the following year, to be sure and check the H.E.L. status. It is up to the operator to be sure he or she is in compliance with the Highly Erodible Plan. When the operator's name is changed in the Consolidated Farm Service Agency office, formerly ASCS, stop by the NRCS office and find out about the requirements of the conservation plan.

Increasing concerns of rabies as related to CRP fields

Due to the increasing incidence wells, tank batteries, etc. of rabies in Runnels County a major concern has been voiced about the CRP fields and the contributing factor they play in providing cover and habitat for many of the rabies carriers.

Many producers as well as nonland owners are concerned about whan can and cannot be done on these fields to help combat this rabies problem.

Many variables exist concerning whether a person should consider burning his CRP, which would provide the best reduction of habitat, or just shred the grass which will certainly help reduce this cover. During this time of the year, after the grass is dormant, a shredding down to 5-6 inch stubble height is a recommended practice especially if soil moisture is low in the field. This shouldn't be the case in Runnels County at this time. Shredding would be the most easily planned, scheduled and carried out practice for getting this cover off the ground.

Burning, on the other hand, increases the variables or concerns a person must be aware of before walking out and torching a CRP field. The staff at the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NCRS), formerly Soil Conservation Service, in Ballinger, can assist landowners in developing a prescribed burn plan for more safely buring their CRP fields. We can also provide on site assistance to some of these burns based on a first-come first-served basis until workload or weather forces us to turn down requests for assistance. Major concerns to be dealt with on burning CRP are: 1. Protecting personal or com-

2. Protecting neighboring CRP, rangeland or pastures from escaping fire and causing a wildfire and its liabilities. This includes, proper fireguards, adequate labor to fight wildfire, adequate equipment firetruck, cattle sprayers, backpack sprayers, swatters, etc. - the more prepared you are, the less chance of an escape.

3. Having a prescribed burn plan that states the climatic conditions needed to insure as safe a burn as possible. This includes, wind direction and speed, relative humidity, air temperature, equipment needed, labor required, and types of fires to be used to accomplish the burn e.g. headfires multiple headfires used to break up a large field into smaller more controllable fires.

4. Notification of law enforcement, fire fighting personnel and neighbors.

5. Prevention of smoke from crossing a state highway or any major road. Have radio equipped flaggers on both ends of road to direct traffic.

6. Notify the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Service of your intent to burn.

If you are planning to burn pastures or CRP fields, I'd advise you to contact your neighbors or other CRP participants to see if they are willing to help you make up a burn team that can help each other carry out these burns. It helps when the persons involved have an idea of what's going on or going to take place.

For persons interested in carrying out a prescribed CRP burn, you may contact the Natural Resources Conservation Service at 2000 Hutchings Avenue in The extra few minutes spent mercial assets permanently lo- Ballinger or call 365-3415 bechecking may be the difference cated in the field, e.g. barns, tween 7:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Soil testing may identify gardening problems

If your garden performed be- soil sample? There is really no low expectations last year, or secret and it is really very simple. maybe things just didn't grow just With a spade or a sharpshooter, right, a few dollars invested in a soil test may be just the solution. A properly prepared and fertilized garden soil is the real key to successful gardening in most areas of Texas. You can't look at the soil, taste it, smell it or feel it and tell whether your soil is low in nitrogen, high in phosphate or maybe just right. One sure way to overcome the mystery and avoid the confusion when it comes time to purchase fertilizers is to have your garden tested.

Why is it important to know how much phosphorus or nitrogen is in the soil or what the pH of the soil is? The answer is simple. Vegetables don't do well in improperly fertilized soil, whether it be too fertile or not fertile enough.

The soil test report will tell you the level of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium and magnesium that is available to your garden plants. It will also indicate the pH (acidity or alkalinity) of your garden soil. For the most part, this is all you need to know to prop- done and properly interpreted, will erly fertilize your garden soil to go a long way toward insuring a make a hole about a foot deep in the garden soil. Throw out the first spadeful of soil. Then from the back of the hole, cut a 1/2 to 1 inch slice of the soil. Be sure the slice is at least 6 to 7 inches in depth with fairly even width and thickness, then place the soil slice in a bucket or tub. Repeat this procedure four to six times in different spots in the garden, depending primarily on the size of the garden. Thoroughly mix the composite of the soil and mail it to the Soils Testing Laboratory where Texas A & M University provides a soil testing service. Combat winter skin woes with these helpful tips

Delma P. Posey, M.D.

Question: Every winter my skin gets raw and itchy. What can I do to combat this problem?

Answer: With the end of summer's warm weather, the drop in humidity and an increase in dry artificial heat, your skin loses moisture. The result can be dry, red, flaky, itchy and raw-feeling skin - all signals to change your skin and moisturizing routine

Here is some advice on how you can combat dry, winter skin: Body lotions containing petrolatum, an ingredient used in many lotions, creams and ointments, are excellent overall moisturizers. Apply them after bathing, while skin is still damp. This helps seal in the moisture. Bath oil, which has a limited effect if added to bath water, can be a problem for some people because it makes the tub slippery. It's best to apply bath oils directly to your skin after you get out of the bath or shower.

 Avoid long, hot baths. Instead keep your shower or tub lukewarm, bathe less often and use milder soaps or a soap substitute. Avoid using facial moisturizers with fragrances. These some-

Sharp said that the EBT system is scheduled to expand region-byregion until it covers the entire state in 1996, serving 1.3 million Texas households. The surrounding Gulf Coast counties are scheduled to receive the Lone Star card within the next few months, as is the North Texas region, including Dallas and Tarrant counties.

"The expansion of the Lone Star card is serving notice on those who illegally profit from the food stamp bureaucracy," Sharp said. "The Lone Star card benefits both Texas taxpayers and Texas food stamp recipients, because neither likes to be ripped off."

Sharp's recommendation to expand the successful EBT program is a centerpiece of "A Partnership for Independence," his recently released package of welfare reform proposals designed to ticularly about family and personal information which inmates might obtain about female prison employees. Hightower, who chairs the House Corrections Committee, said it is obvious that "these inmates have nothing better to do than to clog public agencies with requests for information for which they have no constructive need or use". "A strong open records law is essential for open government and an informed public, but obviously, a convicted felon is not due the same rights and access," Turner and Hightower said.

Collins said that as a practical matter, TDCJ has not granted inmates' requests for public information about employees but has instead referred each request to the Attorney General's office for an official ruling. The Attorney General has not ruled on any of the requests. "It is a waste of resources for both TDCJ and the Attorney General, but it would cost us even more to actually fulfill the requests," Collins said.

The Turner and Hightower bills, Senate Bill 388 and House Bill 949, would close the records of all public agencies to inmates. Inmates would still be able to get records involving themselves, such as information as to why they were turned down for parole.

The start-up phase of the Lone Star card that began on October 1 in portions of southeast Houston and throughout Chambers County has been a success for recipients and businesses. Now the program has been expanded throughout all of Harris County. It is scheduled to expand to adjacent Montgomery County within the next couple of months.

The Lone Star card is administered by the Texas Department of Human Services and Transactive Corporation. It uses modern technology embedded in a plastic bank-like card to deliver public assistance benefits more effectively and efficiently, while reducing fraud and saving taxpayers money.

Previously, the state of Maryland ran the largest electronic benefitstransfer-orEBT-program streamline the state's public assistance efforts, improve vital services and save taxpayers morethan $400 million.

"A Partnership for Independence" specifically recommends adding benefit programs such as child support payments, Medicaid and unemployment insurance to the Lone Star card.

"While others have been talking the rhetoric of welfare reform, in Texas we're making welfare reform a reality," Sharp said.

Texas accounts for about 10 percent of all food stamp coupons distributed nationwide. Coupons bound for the Lone Star state each year cost $4.7 million for printing, $460,000 for shipping and $2.4 million for final processing.

Rabies vaccine is not a poison

Some landowners have been concerned about a Texas Department of Health plan to airdrop rabies vaccine in an effort to control the spread northward of this disease. Many thought the plan was to drop poison.

In February, the health department will be dropping 800,000 baits filled with oral rabies vaccine, said Don Wilson, fur-bearer program leader at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The bait, 2 inches by 1.5 inches by three-fourths of an inch, is made of dog food and is hollow. Inside the food is a plastic container with oral vaccine for rabies.

"This is not poison," he said. "It will not hurt livestock or pets."

State officials are planning to drop the baits in 20 counties as part of an intensive effort to control the canine strain of rabies now rampant in the South Texas coyote population, TDH officials said. The baits will be placed to establish a barrier to stop the spread of rabies.

How to tell if you're a Real West Texan

Well, I'm a little bit disappointed in all of you. As of today, not one single person has written or called to buy my upcoming new book. You know, the one about how you can tell a Real West Texan when you see one. I outlined some of the early excerpts here in a haul stuff in. special column last April.

What! You don't remember! I'm truly and deeply hurt. I guess this book authoring stuff is ing.

going to be tougher than I thought. To show you what you'll be missing if you don't get your order in soon, here's some of the latest ways to tell a Real West

Texan from an imposter. * You know you're a Real West Texan if you save up vacation time to spend at chili cook-offs and farm auctions.

*Real West Texans have never quite figured out that the only way to make money in a beer joint is to own it.

*A Real West Texan can never say foreign sounding words like Boston or Connecticut, especially with a double dip of snuff. *In a pinch, Real West Texans can use the backsides of their belt buckles for Texas-size dinner plates. *A Real West Texan thinks armadiller racin', washer pitchin', cow chip throwin', tobaccer spittin', and bass fishin' should be recognized as Olympic events.

*A Real West Texan has it in his pick-up if he can just find it. *If you held hands with your first date while sitting in a deer it. blind, you're a Real West Texan.

*A Real West Texan, appear- Texas Kid if you learned to roller ing on The Wheel of Fortune,

*A Real West Texan thinks rock-and-roll is something you do in the back of a pick-up while chasing jackrabbits over terraces. *As Real West Texans, we are very efficient with our time, proved by the fact that we can eat a sandwich and clean a mess of doves at the same time.

*A Real West Texan thinks "Gone With The Wind" is either a story about what happens to our topsoil in March or a terrifying tale about the tornado that blew away the hay barn.

*To a non-West Texan, it's 5 degrees with a wind chill factor of minus 15 below zero. To a Real West Texan, it's "a right smart cool" and that icy blue norther is "kickin' up a little breeze".

*To a Real West Texan, the term "forever and ever" refers to the eternity between planting cotton in May and harvesting it in November.

*A Real West Texan has four criteriato determine an item's usefulness: 1) can I ride it, 2) can I rope it, 3) can I eat it, 4) can I drink

Disaster Program pays for weather related losses

Sign-up into the 1994 Disaster Program began December 1 and continues through March 31, 1995.

Crops with FCIC insurance that suffered a 35% or greater loss (or 40% loss for those crops without crop insurance) will be eligible for payment. Only crop losses resulting from weather related causes are eligible for payment.

Producers should file an Application for Disaster Credit (ASCS-574) before destroying or making another use of a failed crop. All production evidence turned in from harvested crops must be verifiable. It must also show the producer's name, commodity, buyer's name, date, weight, and identify the farm on which the crop was produced.

Acceptable production evidence includes commercial sales, elevator or warehouse receipts, gin records or gin bale receipts, verifiable scale tickets and settlement sheets.

In addition to filing an ASCS-574 and providing production evidence, farm operators must also file an Application for Payment (CCC-441) and other documents so eligibility can be determined and payment issued.

Exhibitors place at Fort Worth Stock Show

Several students, under the direction of Winters Vo-Ag Teacher Roy Shackelford, recently participated in the Fort Worth Livestock Show. Results are as follows: Tanner Donica - 9th, Mediumweight Polled Hereford Steer

Jeff Miller - 6th, Lightweight Finewool Lamb

Jessica Pritchard - 12th, Lightweight Yorkshire Barrow Matthew Angel - 16th, Lightweight Poland China Barrow.

The Runnels County Pen of 15 received second place in the three things in life: 1) drought, Finewool Cross Lamb.

there ain't nothin' that cain't be fixed, swung, held or tied with a piece of bailin' whar. (IF you have to ask what "bailin' whar" is, you're not a Real West Texan).

*For the Real West Texan, there is no more honored profession than the guy who delivers sixpacks to local convenient stores. (Unless it's the guy who scoops out fishin' "minners" at the bait shop).

*While never admitting it, a Real West Texan secretly knows that a chili cheese dog, greasy fries and a Dr. Pepper from Der Wienerschnitzel is the best eatin' known to man.

*A Real West Texan tells the patrol officer, in all honesty, that he didn't know his headlights were out, since he hadn't been away from the farm after dark since the fall of '85.

*A Real West Texan fears only 2) flood, 3) Wranglers that are too short.

Winters Police Beat

The information below is taken from reports on file with the Winters Police Department. Some of the information is provided to police by citizens, and in some cases, police have not finished investigating the reports. These reports make up a small percentage of the total calls the Department receives and responds to each week. Winters Police Department reports received and/or investigated from Sunday, January 29, through Saturday, February 4, 1995. Winters Police Officers: · investigated a report of a criminal mischief in the 300 block of Jones in which person(s) unknown damaged the paint of a vehicle. There are suspects and the investigation continues.

· investigated an attempted suicide.

· investigated a traffice accident on Texas Highway 153 in which a 1992 Dodge van driven by Bonifacio Galvan, 52, of Waco, struck a black cow. There was extensive damage to the van and the cow was killed. Galvan and a passenger in the van were transported to North Runnels Hospital by North Runnels Emergency Medical Service. Both were treated for minor injuries and released.

· received a report of an accidental shooting with a pellet gun in the 500 block of N. Rogers.
