Lions and Jaycees Buy New Uniforms for Little Leaguers

Martin Lee of the Bronte Jaycee Chapter said this week he had word from the supplier that new uniforms for Bronte's two Little League teams are on their way. The Jaycee Chapter decided to purchase uniforms for one of the teams, and at the same time issued a challenge to Bronte Lions Club to foot the bill on new suits for the other. The Lions took them up on the deal.

Now both teams will come out in new uniforms, with the Jaycees sponsoring the Giants and the Lions sponsoring the Yankees. Thirty new uniforms were ordered.

Deanie Allen and K. McCutchen to Graduate at ACC

Two Bronte young people will receive bachelors degrees at the annual commencement exercises May 25 at Abilene Christian College. Miss Gloria Deane Allen is a candidate for a Bachelor of Education degree with major in elementary education. Calvin Kenneth McCutchen is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Bible.

An estimated 294 seniors will be awarded degrees at the 43d commencement exercises next Monday.

Miss Allen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Allen of Bronte, and McCutchen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin McCutchen, also of Bronte.

SCOTCH FOURSOME SET FOR SUNDAY

Another Scotch Foursome contest will be held Sunday at 1:15 p.m. at the local golf course. Primary purpose of the Sunday contest is to establish handicaps for Bronte area golfers.

John Boyles, speaking for the Coke County Golf Association, said the establishment of handicaps is necessary before local players can successfully hold a tournament here or compete in one on another course.

Boyles urged all members of the association to be present for the Sunday matches.

BANK RUNNING LIST OF UNKNOWN DEPOSITORS

First National Bank in Bronte is publishing a legal notice this week naming its list of unknown depositors. Publication of the list is required by Texas law.

Any depositor who has not been heard from during the past seven years is listed. Any reader knowing the whereabouts of any person listed should contact the depositor or bank officials.

AD-LIB-BEN

We have a letter to the editor which came through the mail and was not signed. The name was typewritten at the end of the letter so it goes against our policy to print it.

If the person who wrote the letter will come by The Enterprise and sign it, we will be happy to run it next week.

Another graduating class will soon be leaving the classrooms of Bronte High School. We know they must have a feeling of exultation over their accomplishments during the past 12 years. They certainly deserve to feel this pride for it is no easy matter nowadays to earn a high school diploma.

We want to wish the 1964 seniors much good luck and a good life as they leave Bronte High. All these kids are friends of ours and we wouldn't want to do less than wish them the best of everything.

MEMORIAL DAY CLOSING BEING DISCUSSED HERE

Some discussion has developed among Bronte merchants concerning closing for the Memorial Day holiday. Since the holiday comes on Saturday this year, some businessmen are not in favor of closing on that day, but taking the following Monday instead.

Definite plans will be announced in next week's Enterprise.

EDWARD BROUSSARD HOME FOLLOWING FOOT INJURY

Edward Broussard is back home in Bronte after seriously injuring his left foot May 9 in a lawn mower accident. His foot was almost severed by the whirling blades, and doctors had to amputate his two smallest toes.

His mother, Mrs. LaRue Broussard said this week that they are becoming more hopeful every day that the remaining toes will be all right. The accident occurred at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ussery, near Gorman. He received first aid at Gorman hospital and was rushed to Abilene for the surgery. He remained in Abilene until Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Charlie Pumphrey of Winters is staying with Mrs. Jessie Mackey while Mr. Pumphrey is hospitalized here.

'64 Class Prophecy

(Editor's Note: The following class prophecy was read at the annual junior-senior banquet last Friday night.)

"Amazing discoveries made in excavation of buried city!!!" This was the report that spread like fire through the city on the morning of May 15, 2964.

With one accord the whole populace dropped its activities and flocked to the scene before their wondering eyes, a long dead town began to reveal its secrets, under the picks and shovels.

"What's the name of the town," someone called, and without delay a second voice called back, "Springfield!"

True enough! So it turned out to be. Springfield, a small town that had flourished a thousand years before and then had disappeared with the passing of time, until, like Rome, had come into its own once more. Suddenly a loud shout arose above the excited buzz of voices.

"What is it? What is it?" everyone wanted to know.

"We've found a picture of the mayor," one of the diggers answered breathlessly. "Here he is! Take a look!"

"Oh, what a handsome man!" several of the ladies sighed.

"What was his name?" one gazer wished to know. They turned the picture over and there on the back they found the answer to the latest question. In large black letters they beheld the mayor's name: Ray Sissom. But scarcely had they had time to repeat the words before another loud shout arose. More amazing discoveries had been made. A garter with initials L. T. inscribed on it. It must have belonged to the Thunderbird Night Club's famous stripper, Lynda Taylor.

Along with the garter was found some of Mayor Sissom's city tax records. The first business on the list seems to be Springfield Goat Farm, owned by Georgia Owen. She always wanted to have a bunch of kids. The next name on the list was the zoo. Seems their main attraction was the monkey house with its monkey trainer, Charles Coppock. He always liked to be with his ancestors.

Along with the tax records were found court records. There was a fine of $5,000 assessed to Jimmy Wells, the wealthy rancher. It seems he was trying to raise sheep in his pent-house apartment. There was also another complaint filed against Jimmy by Mert's Bar which was located across the street from him. Marilyn Glenn, the owner, complained that the smell didn't mix well with the drinks. Another complaint filed by Mert's Bar was against Jeanna Denman, famed Salvation Army Band. Seems as though Jeanna's band slowed down business by singing "Yield Not to Temptation" in front of the bar.

As the men continued to dig a famous masterpiece by Carolyn Owings, the twentieth century Michael Angelo, was found. The painting was of Melvin's Million Marching Midgets. Weldon Broussard always envied Bobby Bingham, music wise and heightwise.

A photograph of Mayor Sissom and one of his friends, Glenn Sims, alias Little Billy Sol, was found. Little Billy Sol was a big promoter of cracker jack toys until the F.B.I. caught up with him. His partner, LaJan Belli Kiker, was able to get him out of the swindle by her maneuvering and fast talking. The legend goes that after the trial she suggested he change from the cracker jacks to Big Time Yoyo.

A few yards away was found a crucifix with the name Sister Hester. She was the most godly of the nuns. She devoted her time to caring for the mentally ill. One of her patients, Judy Lee, received her disorder when she was injured in a drag race. Judy was of the opinion that she was the head nurse of the institution, and was always giving her medical assistance. Her first aid course she had in high school must have gone to her head.

In the excavation a ragged and torn program from the city's famous opera house was found. There was to be a dual attraction that night. Featured opera singer, Barry (Caruso) Curlee, and the famous orchestra leader, Jan (Mitch Miller) Wilkins. It was the opening night and the opening number, and as he sang and her orchestra played, the newly built theater began to crumble. As the number continued the whole city fell to destruction, and was lost forever until this day.

New JFK Stamp Goes On Sale Friday, May 29

Washington — A new five-cent stamp will be issued nationally on May 29, on what would have been the 47th birthday of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced that the John Fitzgerald Kennedy postage stamp is the most carefully planned stamp in postal history. He said that a seven-man team in the New York City design firm of Raymond Loewy — William Snaith has worked exclusively on the project from Jan. 16 to Mar. 17 when the stamp design was approved.

The stamp pairs an informal portrait of Mr. Kennedy with a reproduction of the eternal flame at the Kennedy grave. Circling the stamp is a quotation from his inaugural address of 1961 "...and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

First day ceremonies for the stamp will be held in Boston, Mass. The stamp is blue-gray on a horizontal format. The initial print order of 250 million is double the customary production of commemorative stamps. (AFPS)

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McDonald and John Doughty have returned home from a recent trip to Tyler and Dallas. John Doughty spent several days with the D. E. and W. W. Walton families in Tyler while his parents were in Dallas.

County Agents News Column

By STERLING LINDSEY

The Coke County Livestock Protective Association members gate signs have arrived. If you have ordered signs or wish to secure some of the signs, come by our office or the sheriff's office. The signs are 10" x 14", black on yellow, baked enamel on 28 gauge steel. They are attractive, legible and should be helpful to the association's program.

The time to begin watching for the pecan casebearer is upon us again. I have checked a few trees, but have not covered the whole county. I have not found any eggs on the nuts in the clusters checked. It appears that the peak egg laying period is still a few days away.

Reports from other areas indicate a moderate to heavy casebearer buildup in the state this year. Each area, however, is more or less independent from the other areas as far as casebearers are concerned. We cannot depend on having the same infestation as Ballinger, San Angelo, or some other areas. And the infestation will vary within an area or even within one town. To reach my point, each group of trees must be checked to determine exactly when they should be sprayed for maximum protection.

In checking for casebearer eggs, look on the blossom end of the nuts for a pearly white, very small egg. If the egg has a brownish or reddish cast, it is nearing hatching time. When most of the eggs on a tree or trees are nearing hatching, spraying should give good control. If you spray too early, your chemical will break down before the eggs hatch. If you wait too long, the casebearer will be in the nuts. So, if possible, time your spray with the egg hatch — hit the peak hatch if at all possible.

There are several insecticides that will control casebearer. The more common ones are Malathion, Toxaphene, DDT, Sevin and Nicotine Sulfate.

Be sure to use enough pressure to drive the spray on to the nut cluster.

Also, add zinc sulfate to your spray. Zinc sulfate will prevent pecan rosette or die back. This is a common nutritional problem of pecan trees in this area.

We will be doing more checking in an attempt to determine best time to spray in our area. As of now, that time appears to be several days, possibly a week or more away.

Check your trees for eggs. As we mentioned above, casebearer build-ups are different even in small areas. Be ready to spray when most of the eggs are darkening.

Several club members will be attending District 4-H Club camp next week. District 7 will hold their district camp at Lake Brownwood from May 27-29.

Attending from Coke County will be Larry Corley, Tennyson, Mike McKown, Bronte; Lynsey White, Robert Lee, and Gaylon Pitcock, Sanco. Gaylon is Coke County's district 4-H Council delegate and will attend a district council meeting during camp.

The camp will have 4-H Club girls and boys from the 22 counties that make up Extension District 7. The boys will be accompanied by the County Agricultural Agent.

Mrs. A. S. Masterson went to Mount Pleasant Tuesday to be with her father, Charlie Johnson, who is seriously ill in a hospital there. Rev. Masterson is attending annual conference of the Methodist church in San Antonio. The Masterson boys remained with friends here.

Junior-Senior Banquet Was A Gala Affair

Annual junior-senior banquet was held last Friday night with approximately 100 members of the two classes and their guests present.

The school lunchroom, site of the banquet, was decorated in the motif of a front porch and garden of a southern plantation home. The west wall of the lunchroom was decorated to look like the front of the house, complete with flower-entwined pillars. Redbud trees were in one corner and near the center was a bubbling fountain.

Tables were arranged to accommodate four persons, and each was centered with a hurricane lamp entwined with flowers. Miniature top hats and ladies fans were plate favors. The menu consisted of mint julep, chicken salad, fruit salad, congealed salad, potato chips, ribbon sandwiches, strawberry shortcake and iced tea.

Junior Class president Jerry Don Holcombe was master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Glenn Sims; the welcome was by Holcombe and the response by Barry Curlee, senior class president. Mrs. LaRue Broussard played dinner music during the meal, and Janet Caperton entertained the group with two vocal numbers. The senior class history was read by Lynda Taylor, the class prophecy by Jan Wilkins and the class will by Jimmy Wells.

Following the banquet and program the emcee invited the crowd to move onto the breezeway between the high school and elementary building for the prom. The breezeway was decorated with pastel streamers and balloons.

Mrs. Royce Fancher is sponsor of the host junior class and Mrs. Billy Joe Luckett is senior sponsor.

MRS. RUSSELL HOSTESS TO PROGRESSIVE CLUB

Mrs. M. Russell was hostess for the Woman's Progressive club when it met May 14.

The program consisted of talks by Mrs. L. T. Youngblood "Ring of Hate Around Israel", and Mrs. Mattie Glenn on "Cuban Refugee Problem in America."

A salad plate was served to the following: Mmes. Edna Butner, Joe Carter, Linton Crow, W. C. Duncan, F. S. Higginbotham, Olive Keeney, J. D. Leonard, J. W. Labenske, Mabel Myers J. E. Quinn, A. N. Rawlings, Emma Sims, L. E. Smith, Annie Wilkins, Youngblood, Glenn and the hostess.

Last Will and Testament of the 1964 Senior Class

Ladies and gentlemen, board of education, superintendent, principals, teachers and friends:

We the class of 1964, in fifteen individual and distinct parts, being about to pass out of this sphere of education, in full possession of a crammed mind, well trained memory, and almost superhuman understanding, do make and publish this, our last will and testament in form and manner as follows:

To the entire school we leave the example we have set as worthy scholars and blameless students. Our record has been spotless and in all the annals of our career we have done no deed, as a class, that we need blush for.

We give and bequeath to the dear faculty, who have been our instructors in all the wisdom of the ages, a sweet and unbroken succession of restful nights and peaceful dreams. No longer need they lie awake through the long watches of the night to worry over the uncertainty of whether this one is doing her homework, or whether he will have his math tomorrow. It has been hard on them, for Seniors are said to be hard to manage at times. But they have all done their duty and verily, now shall they have their well-earned reward.

To the Junior class we bestow our richest treasures. Our Senior dignity, our excellent wit, our superlative brilliancy, our good looks, our charming manners, our favor with the teachers, our splendid grades and our triumphant exit as the most popular class this school has ever seen—these are the rare treasures that we give to the coming Senior Class.

But it would not be fair if we withheld other valuables and with great largeness of heart we pass them along too. Our capacity for fun, our ability to giggle, our good times, our friendship and our loyalty we do hereby bequeath to the Junior Class, and may they count them among the richest legacies they have received.

And now we come to the following personal bestowals which have been awarded to individuals with complete consideration to the fitness of the recipient:

1. Weldon—his ability to get his

English papers in on time and pass to Edwyn McDaniel.

2. Charles—ability to get along with coaches and teachers and never argue with them to Jerry Holcombe.

3. Barry—wills his spelling ability, musical talent, and girl problems to Bob Strickland.

4. Jeanna—wills her ability to hear it all, see it all, and tell it all to Peggy Corley.

5. Marilyn—presents to Margi Oglesby a worm. She already has the book so that now the royal title of bookworm is hers and long may she wear it with all honor and as magnificently as its present owner.

6. Janice—wills her left over cigarette butts outside the ash tray to Kathy Terry.

7. LaJan—wills her executive ability but not her beauty to Mary Corley. LaJan feels she still needs her ability but that Mary needs it more.

8. Judy—wills her ability to break up and make up to Sharon Hurley.

9. Georgia—wills to Marla Rees, her ability to pass Mr. Low's classes by smiling, and acting as though she were trying.

10. Carolyn—wills her ability to play all sports well and her loud mouth to Ida Lee Parker.

11. Ray—his ability to half-perform in a football game to Mike McKown.

12. Glenn—wills his hairy chest and love for smooching to Gerald Parker.

13. Lynda—wills to Beth Ivey her luck of catching and keeping a man with her Daisy Mae figure.

14. Jimmy—wills to Ron Johns his way with women and also his ability to skip study hall.

15. Jan—wills her red hair, green eyes, and fast talking to Tricia Andrews.

All the rest and residue of our property, whatsoever and where-soever, of what nature, kind and quality it may be, and not herein before disposed of, we give and bequeath to our beloved Principal, for his use and benefit absolutely, and to be disposed of for the good of the coming classes as he may see fit.

And we do hereby constitute and appoint the said Principal sole executor of this our last will and testament.

In witness where of, we, the Class of 1964, the testators, have to this our will, written on three sheets of parchment, set our hands and seal this fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-four.

1964 Senior Class History

(History of the senior class of 1964 follows as it was read at the Junior-Senior banquet last Friday night.)

It was the 28th day of August, 1961 — a calm, peaceful autumnal day, radiant with the sunshine of hope, cheer, and joyous promise, that the good ship Bronte High School stood at anchor at the wharf of a new school year. It was the same old ship that had carried a good many passengers to safe harbor in the Land of Great Wisdom, but this day was a gala day in its history, and many people gazed upon it in wonder as they watched the 12 beautiful and charming young ladies and the 11 bold and dashing young gentlemen about to set sail over new and untried waters in a quest for the Fountain of Perfect Understanding.

As the ship stood at anchor on that eventful morning of August, the passengers began to arrive; and as I was the first to be enrolled upon the list of passengers, to me was entrusted the important task of writing the log of the voyage — the voyage that, even then, they all realized was to be the most important of their lives. I had scarcely finished the task of placing my signature upon the ship's register when a companion joined me — a girl who had sailed with me through the eighth grade cruise among the Islands of Smaller Learning, and who I was glad to learn was to join me in this larger voyage. We were both congratulating ourselves upon the mutual pleasure of longer companionship together, when we turned to welcome a third comer, who had come from a distant city to take passage with us.

We peeped over her shoulder as she wrote her name and were surprised to decipher the letters that she wrote — Georgia Owen. We had heard of the young lady before, and had known of her many pranks, so while we knew we would not find her overly fond of study, we were sure her jolly nature would brighten for us many an otherwise gloomy hour. In a short time we were joined by a fourth, and soon so many were crowding around us that all the berths were filled and we were assured of a very happy voyage.

The new log consisted of: Jack Bailey, Johnny Brock, Maria Cantu, Larry Caswell, Shirley Caulder, Charles Coppock, Jeanna Denman, Ellis Freeman, Marshall Freeman, Elaine Glenn, Marilyn Glenn, Janice Hester, LaJan Kiker, Judy Lee, Gale Mackey, Kenny Mayben, Lester Mayberry, Frances Murphy, Glenn Sims, Ray Sissom, Lynda Taylor, Jimmy Wells, Jan Wilkins.

We were naturally very enthusiastic and asked many eager questions of our Captain, as to the incidents of our voyage and its probable length, and were assured that if we were persevering and diligent in our duties we should easily reach our destination at the end of four years. So it was with very hopeful hearts and smiling faces that we bade our parents and friends good-by and waved our handkerchiefs from the deck at those left behind in the Grammar Grades, as we steamed away from the wharf and out of the harbor, actually embarked for a four years' absence on our Voyage of High School Life.

We were young and socially inclined, so it did not take us long to become acquainted with our fellow-passengers, nor to feel very much at home with our pilot, captain, stewardess and even the porter. Our fears of shipwreck were entirely wiped away in the assurance that so able a staff of seamen had us in their charge. There were naturally a few cases of seasickness and various ones were tempted to throw up algebra, geometry, and other disagreeable dishes and toss some of their best belongings overboard in times of rough sea, but the stewardess assured them calmly but firmly that they would only have to consume these indigestibles over and over until they were perfectly assimilated, and so they bravely managed to hold them down.

We noticed at the outset of the voyage that the stream upon which we had set sail was comparatively narrow and sheltered, but using field glasses we could see such wide vistas of water ahead that we were led to inquire of the Captain the significance of the situation. He explained to us that the Voyage of High School Life was in reality to be over four seas, though the four bodies of water were so closely joined together that they seemed but one immense sea. He informed us, further, that we had just entered the first and smallest of these, which was called Freshman Sea.

The usual intimacy of shipboard soon sprang up between us voyagers and we have been loyal shipmates ever since. We sailed over Freshman Sea and received our checks of identification from the Purser almost before we knew it.

It would take too long to read the complete log of this eventful voyage. It would be very interesting to tell the many delightful experiences, the many wonderful lessons, the changes in the passenger list at the various ports along the way, the partings from this one, and the welcoming of that, with the why and the wherefore of it all; but after all, it has but little vital significance except to ourselves, the few who still remain together to land tonight at Banquet Wharf. We must not divulge the secrets of our shipmates. We must not forget the loyalty due to our class colors so valiantly flying at the masthead. The best and most vital history of any person or thing is never given to the world. So must it be with the Class of 64!

It has been a most wonderful voyage and we have accumulated many souvenirs from every port, striving, however, to guard against the danger of excess baggage, and of taking unto ourselves anything which would not be of service to us on the yet greater Voyage of Real Life upon which we are about to embark.

We have not faced any gale

The Bronte Enterprise

May 21, 1964

which we were not able to withstand. We have not been wrecked upon the shoals of the threatening task. The tides of our averages have continued to ebb and flow; the waves of mathematical problems have kept up their ceaseless motion and commotion; the billows of examination questions have sometimes tried their worst to overwhelm us; but none of them succeeded. We have been able to procure the necessary passport at the entrance of each succeeding sea, and have been able to pay the price in good hard work for every part of the passage. We have sympathized with the seasick passengers that made up the various new classes. We have enjoyed the successful experiences of those who have landed on other shores.

Now we look at the larger, more majestic ocean ahead and feel that our experience has fitted us to withstand every storm, and weather any opposing force with no fear of disaster, saying with Byron,

"Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll

Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain—"

But not in vain the Class of 1964. We will go on writing new logs of greater adventure, and yet more wonderful discovery, for while the Voyage of High School Life is at an end, the Voyage of Real Life is just now and here at its triumphant Commencement.

As the voyage is ended and the captain calls the names of the passengers departing, we find these names still upon the log: Jan Wilkins, Weldon Broussard, Judy Lee, Jimmy Wells, Jeanna Denman, Marilyn Glenn, Glenn Sims, Georgia Owen, Charles Coppock, LaJan Kiker, Ray Sissom, Carolyn Owing, Lynda Taylor and Barry Curlee.

As the passengers leave calling "good-bys" and "thanks for a wonderful voyage", the captain writes across his log — "All present or accounted for."

I am now working with a Special Interest group doing a series of programs on Foods. The first program was held May 1 and it was the "Using of Dry Milk as a means of getting milk in the diet." This past Friday, the program was Vegetable Salads and Salad Dressings.

The meetings have been attended by Mmes. Julia Longoria, Theo Virgen, Antonio Carrasco, Elvira Ovalle, Chuz Gloria, Lucy Gloria, Lalita Ybarra and Candelia Portales. Mrs. A. R. Granado of Houston attended the meeting Friday.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, June 5, in my office at 2:30 p.m.

The Bronte Jr. H. D. Club should be congratulated for the Hootenany they sponsored Saturday evening. The program was entertaining and it gave a number of young persons an opportunity to practice and perform for an audience.

I was pleased to see a nice crowd turn out for the evenings entertainment to help the club raise funds for its projects.

The members of the club worked diligently to prepare refreshments as well as the program. All are to be commended. Mrs. John Boyles is the club's president.

Mr. Eddie Garvin, Blackwell, did a fine job as Master of ceremonies.

Be sure to bring your pets Thursday to be vaccinated. The proceeds will go to 4-H clubs. You will find time and places listed elsewhere in the paper.

I am giving you a pie recipe this week that I think you will want to use over and over again during the hot weather. It is one of those "fix ahead" desserts that most homemakers dearly love to make.

Pineapple Cream Pie

(Makes two 8-inch pies)

Drain juice of 1 flat can of crushed pineapple into small saucepan and heat to simmer. Add 1 box lemon jello and stir until dissolved. Set aside.

Beat 1 tall can chilled evaporated milk until stiff. Add 1 cup sugar and beat until dissolved. Fold in jello-pineapple juice mixture and dash of salt. Add pineapple.

Pour into graham cracker crust. Sprinkle crumbs over top of filling. Cherries and or nuts may be used to decorate the pie. Chill until ready to serve.

We Are Proud Of Your Many Accomplishments

During the 12 short years you have been going to Bronte School or some other place to receive your start toward an education, your accomplishments have been many. You have brought many coveted honors home to your school. You have excelled in many activities, both in the academic and athletic departments of the school. Probably more important than all these things of which we are so proud, are the tools with which your teachers have equipped you—learning how to read and write, how to study and how to think. If you have done your work well, you are now prepared to do some real learning. You are prepared to get down to the business of more formal education at some college or university, or to learn from life itself in day to day living with and competing with your fellows. Regardless of your next step, these past 12 years have been good preparation.

For many centuries man has had his heart set on some of the tremendous feats which have been accomplished in the fields of science, mathematics and the humanities during the past two decades. For example, man has long sought to release the basic energy of the universe, and he has long dreamed of sailing around in outer space like a miniature planet. These accomplishments and many hundreds of others have been realized during your lifetime. Probably no period in the history of man has seen so much progress. These gigantic feats, however, are only an opening to the possibilities which lie ahead. The beautiful part of this picture is that you are now entering a world in which you can become a part of this glowing future. We have all come to believe that practically nothing is impossible, and you have your entire life ahead of you to help prove it.
