Last Friday at the 11 o'clock service a large congregation was treated to one of the finest and most realistic sermon and reviews of a voyage made by the Zam Zam loaded with missionaries, their wives and children and other passengers besides the crew that the people of Coke County were ever treated with. The Rev. Ted Fix delivered this sermon and was equal to all essentials to make it a real Bible sermon along with the interesting travelog of the meandering of the Zam Zam and other transporting facilities. The meeting closed out Sunday night with around 20 conversions

Local Items

Mrs. Herbert Lang of Corona, Calif. visited her uncle Mr. J. S. Gardner and Mrs. Gardner first of the week.

Mrs. Kate Vaughn returned to her home at Lubbock last week after several weeks visit with relatives in and near Robert Lee.

Mrs. H. L. Scott, Mrs. J. C. Snead, Mrs G. C. Allen and W.T. Roach went to Dallas on a business and pleasure trip first of the week.

Committeemen named For Farm Security Administration

Appointment has been made of eight Coke County citizens to advisory committees which will assist in the operation of the rehabilitation and tenant purchase programs of the United States Department of Agriculture here.

Samuel F. Malone, Coke county supervisor for Farm Security Administration, announced the appointments as made by C. M. Evans Regional Director of FSA at Dallas.

Committeemen for Coke are:

Mr. C. N. Webb, Mr. H. C. Allen and Mr. R. B. Allen will serve as members of the subcommittee for the tenant purchase program and the rehabilitation program also. Members of the subcommittee for the farm debt adjustment and tenure improvement work are Mr. Edward Adams, Mr. Allen Butner, and W. E. Burns. Mr. S. R. Young, Mr. L. T. Youngblood and Mr. Preston Fitzhugh are members at large to advise on the various phases of assistance to low income farm families, with which the Farm Security Administration program is concerned.

Under the tenant purchase program funds are provided for the purchase of family type farms by qualified tenants under the Bankhead Jones Act. Coke County already has 7 new farm owners who were financed under this program. Funds were available for the purchase of 4 more farms in this county this year.

The rural rehabilitation program makes FSA loans available to low income farmers who are unable to get adequate credit elsewhere. The loans are for the purchase of seed, fertilizer, livestock and farm equipment and are based on a carefully worked out plan of farm and home management according to Mr. S. F. Malone. Several farm families in Coke County have been assisted under this program.

All farmers, as well as FSA borrowers, may seek the assistance of the debt adjustment committee. The purpose of the committee is to assist creditors and farm debtors to reach an amicable adjustment of debt, based on the ability of the debtor to pay. Creditors as well as debtors may ask for the help of the committee. This service is being used by many farmers.

The other function of this committee—assistance in obtaining better tenure arrangements for tenant farmers—is one of the most important phases of the rural rehabilitation program, Mr. Malone said. Lease forms for long term leases, to encourage conservation and promote better living conditions on the farm, are provided by FSA. The service is not restricted to FSA borrowers, but is available to all farmers in Coke County.

Mrs. Calvin Sparks come home from the hospital Monday and improving nicely.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Germans Claim Deep Gains in Russia With Three Thrusts on 'Stalin' Line; New Japanese War Policy in Offing; British Push 'V' Propaganda Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

RUSSIA: Line Pierced

Though claims of Russians and Germans continued to conflict, it was apparent that the Stalin line had been pierced at least three times, once each in the northern, central and southern fronts.

Thus it was evident that despite the huge numbers of troops involved, which lent a confused element to the picture, the Nazi technique of spearheads and pincer movements was working out inexorably, even though more slowly than the Nazis themselves had figured.

Some of the German claims met public denial from the British mission to Moscow, such as the assertion from Berlin that the Russian air fleet had been rendered useless in the face of German air attacks. The British in Moscow informed London that this claim was premature, that Russia still had a large and active air-force, and was dealing important damage to the Nazis.

Though perilous and daring, the spearhead technique which with equal armies might prove a terrible boomerang, especially if defenses are worked out by Weygand should be effectively carried out, was apparently beyond the Russian armies' ability to withstand.

The fall of Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev in many quarters was believed inevitable and perhaps imminent, and whether the Reds could get their armies back of the Moscow-Leningrad-Kiev line and go on fighting rear-guard actions seemed dubious in the extreme.

Still unconfirmed reports had Smolensk, vital city on the road to Moscow, in German hands or surrounded, and there were even reports from Sweden that Moscow was under terrific bombing and that the Kremlin had been "ruined."

This, however, the Germans did not claim, the high command simply stating that the Nazi forces would content themselves with the destruction of the effectiveness of the Russian troops before going on to Moscow.

With regard to Leningrad, the Germans said that their pincers were closing on the city, and that it was sure to fall soon.

As to Kiev, Nazi sources claimed their advance units were to the east of the city, having passed it to the south.

From the Russian viewpoint, all was not so hopeless, for while they admitted German advances on the central front, they claimed that the two pincer-heads attacking Leningrad were not moving through the Russian defenses, and that on the south the German-Rumanian armies were stalled also.

VOICE: With an Idea

Great Britain, after quietly and without much fanfare experimenting with a radio broadcaster who would give Europe something equal to or surpassing Germany's Lord Haw-Haw, came out boldly with "Colonel Britton," and polished off his opening broadcasts with a "V for Victory" day.

It was to be a campaign to enroll all the disgruntled conquered peoples in a new secret organization whose purpose would be to harass Germany's army of occupation at every possible turn.

JAPAN: And Russia

Two things began to emerge out of the formation of a new Japanese government by the old premier, Prince Konoye.

1. The army and navy were to be in the saddle.

2. The attitude toward Russia is to be stiffened, probably including the breaking of the neutrality pact and possibly with some overt move either in Siberia or from Manchukuo toward the Siberian border.

Even the Chinese, apparently well-informed about Japanese intentions, failed to pierce the veil of mystery surrounding the new government's plans.

The Chinese called it a "water-bird" government, which meant that it would be calm on the surface, but that this calmness would mask a terrific activity soon to be launched.

Yet a report in Washington (coming from diplomatic quarters, back of which was that powerful figure Ambassador Grew) tended to indicate that the likeliest Japanese move would be toward the South Pacific, the direction in which Hitler is believed most anxious for Japan to turn.

Washington says that Japan's plan to "send a million men toward the north," ostensibly "disclosed" from Nipponese sources, is entirely too boldly and obviously displayed, and is intended to mask a move in the exact opposite direction.

The capital's viewpoint probably is most highly influenced by the doubt that Japan, faced by the never-ending war with China, is able to undertake any such major move as would be required to threaten Russia's Far-East armies, and that Nippon is much more apt to take the "soft touch" in the direction of Thailand and Indo-China.

DRAFT: Men, Business

The drawing for the second draft, that of 750,000 new 21-year-olds, came at a moment when the controversy was at its height over two other drafts—that of whether the older selectees and National Guardsmen should be kept in more than a year, and whether the bill calling for a "draft of business" if necessary, should be passed.

General Marshall had not pulled any punches in letting congress know his stand in the matter, which was to keep both guardsmen and selectees in over the time limit, and he had President Roosevelt apparently vigorously back of him.

On top of this, the senate military affairs committee revealed that it had been informed that a "vital military weapon" which might prove to be of the "utmost importance" had been denied to the army by the fact that the government did not have the power to "draft industry."

No further details as to the nature of the weapon were revealed, but the report was important in that it showed a spirit on the part of the senate body to ask the passage of this bill, which had been under a legislative cloud for some time.

As to the addition of time of service for the guards and selectees, some Washington observers reported sentiment growing for passage of the measure, others seemed to see it doomed to defeat.

Saved 'Eagle'

Shot down in a dogfight with Nazi planes over the English channel Pilot Officer N. Maranz (above) of New York, a member of the U. S. "Eagle Squadron" of the British RAF, was feared dead. But now there is joy in the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Maranz in New York. For they have a letter from their son, telling of his battle and ultimate rescue by a German rescue boat. He is now a prisoner of war in Germany.

BELTS: Pulled In

Economists estimated that the United States' population, used to buying and having what it wanted, even if it took 18 months to a couple of years to pay for it, would have to do without about $2,000,000,000 worth of consumers' goods this coming year.

Biggest slices in what America is used to buying came in automobiles and mechanical refrigerators. With these naturally would come reductions in accessories like rubber tires, gasoline and oil and other commodities.

Washing machines were another item ordered cut to conserve the raw materials demands of the defense industries. In all of these items a 50 per cent cut in production for the coming year was ordered. Stocks on hand will fix it so that the public won't feel the difference at once, but before long the belt will have to be pulled in and given a lusty yank at that.

Leon Henderson, man at the helm of this and price-fixing moves, said:

"The program is severe, but the reduction will be partially offset by the increasing participation of these industries in defense work, the auto industry alone having contracted for $2,000,000,000 worth of defense goods.

"The curtailment program calls for no increase of prices at retail."

Mr. Henderson pointed out that the automobile, refrigerator and washing-machine industries were the largest, or close to the largest civilian consumers of common metals where shortages exist.

R. A. F.
Results Noted

Most analysts agreed that if the bomb tonnage reported from R.A.F. sources as being dropped on objectives in occupied territories and in Germany was reasonably accurate, the damage must be terrific.

Perhaps outstanding of the British claims in this regard, however, was the toll of German shipping of a coastwise nature. This claim ran 300,000 tons since the start of the Russo-German war, and all of it sunk by air action.

Also the R.A.F. directly claimed that at least one-third of the cities of Aschen and Muenster were destroyed or seriously damaged; that at least 301 Messerschmitts of two types had been downed; that 118 British fighters had been lost "over a country where an oil leak may mean a fighter has to bail out," but that 17 of the pilots had been saved.

But a New York Times correspondent in Ankara, quoting sources that had recently made it to Turkey from Berlin, painted a picture which covered broader and more important territory.

He cabled a report that Hamburg and Hanover had practically been ruined as ports, that Bremen was seriously damaged, and that rail junctions had been wiped out, forcing the Germans to take to coastwise shipping to replace damaged rail services.

This writer's informants declared that shipping sunk in the port of Hamburg made it necessary that dredging and dynamiting operations be carried out every week to make the waterway passable at all, because of direct bomb hits and vessels sunk by air action and blocking the passage of other vessels.

Sharing of Wheat Supply Has Complicated Aspects

Distribution of Surplus to Nations Needing Flour Is Vital Problem; Nazi Film Is 'Scare' Drama.

By BAUHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Today there are hungry millions in Belgium, France, Spain and elsewhere. For many people in the world there is starvation just around the corner.

At the same time, in the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina, there is a wheat surplus for export or carry-over of 1,137,000,000 bushels—an all-time high.

But there is little chance for many of the hungry mouths to be fed by the surfeit. That is the topsy-turvy world's answer to man's ancient cry for bread!

Haltingly, gropingly, with small hope for any answer to the surplus problem, except "plow it under," the representatives of the four "wheat powers" have met again in Washington for the first wheat conference since 1938. They examined the question from the production point of view, for distribution of the earth's abundance to the world's starving is a problem too complicated for any one group to solve.

It is quite probable that the conference will have dissolved without taking any constructive action by the time this appears in print. Before long, however, it is expected that there will be an international agreement on world quotas. Unwillingly, perhaps, Canada, Australia, and Argentina will be forced to join with the United States in a division of such world market as exists. I use the word "forced" purposely, for it is the big stick labeled "export subsidy" in Uncle Sam's closet which will bring the competing nations to yield to the American farmer his share of the world market. An export subsidy would permit the American farmer to sell his wheat regardless of the world price, for he is then paid the differential by the government. This means that as much American wheat can be sold as the government is willing to subsidize and the market can absorb.

U. S. Subsidized Export.
Although it was not expected that an agreement on quotas would come out of this summer's conference, such an arrangement is assured before long for one on the point of consummation when the war interrupted. Why? Because, when the United States, in 1938, subsidized the export of a million bushels of wheat, just one million bushels had to remain unsold by the other wheat-growing countries.

Unless, by mutual agreement, the world market is shared, Uncle Sam can again cut under his competitors and make up the difference to the American farmer out of government funds.

But even if an agreement on world quotas is reached, that does not solve the problem of surplus wheat. To raise prices substantially, production will have to be cut down. And as for the hungry consumer, then even the faint hope of obtaining his daily bread is removed.

The farmer in the United States at the present time is able to make up in part for the loss of foreign markets and low prices by obtaining government loans on his wheat crop at higher than market prices.

Wheat Prices Higher.
According to the report of the department of agriculture for June, "Computed on the basis of export values, current prices (of wheat) are now about 40 cents higher than existing export price levels . . . at the present time market prices in the United States are below the loan values established for the 1941 crop."

But no government can go on forever taking the surplus wheat crop and piling it up—there are not sufficient storage facilities. On the basis of the new crop prospects, stocks will be increased another 200 million bushels to a quantity almost equal to a whole year's domestic needs.

And so, as you know, the department of agriculture is encouraging the reduction of wheat acreages, encouraging the raising of other products instead and establishing wheat quotas within its own boundaries.

It is hard enough to carry out such a policy of controlled production and distribution in our own country. How much more difficult it is to obtain such a working arrangement where clashing national interests interfere! In spite of majority agreement on method among our own farmers, some threaten to burn their wheat rather than withhold it from the market. How much more of a problem it is to reach an international understanding restricting the market or cutting down acreage, in countries like Argentina and Canada where wheat is the very backbone of the national economy!

'Victory in the West' Is Real 'Scare' Drama

The other day I sat with a group of invited newsmen and a few army officers and watched a movie called "Victory in the West." It was a German propaganda film, showing how the German army smashed through the Low Countries and France. It was seized as it was being smuggled into South America to impress our southern neighbors with German might—and well it might! The film was a wonderful job in propaganda, photography and "scare" drama.

The military efficiency revealed in that picture is a partial answer to why the rivers of western Europe and later Russia, usually considered such powerful obstacles against an advancing army, were crossed so easily by the Germans. The movie showed the German advance in the Low Countries with dramatic shots of engineers swimming rivers, crossing in frail rubber boats, and building bridges under shell fire. The German propagandist explained:

"The men were led, not by officers using telephones and written orders, but by officers who lay beside their troops in the same dirt."

Later, an American official, familiar, through long study with German military methods, gave his explanation of German successes. He said: "The Germans were led by trained warriors, not one of whom ever had a clerk or a desk."

Today in Washington there is a quiet but persistent movement led by General Marshall, chief of staff, to get rid of American officers who have difficulty functioning without desks, stenographers, clerks and caddies. For a long time the general has been working with congress for legislation which would make it possible to remove officers, young or old, whose records show that they are incompetent. Such a measure is pending but there is strong prejudice against it in some circles.

An Appraisal of Hitler's Business Methods

"Truth is anything that helps the German cause." Thus spake Hitler.

And Douglas Miller, 15 years in the American embassy in Berlin, (commercial attache for last five years during the Nazi regime) tells the following story in his new book which has made a considerable stir in Washington, "You Can't Do Business With Hitler" (Little, Brown & Co.).

While the commercial treaty with Germany guaranteeing the United States equal treatment with other nations was still extant, Mr. Miller discovered that Denmark was being given preferential treatment in regard to importations of lard by Germany. He called on the foreign office to protest and was told that America was treated precisely as any other country. Mr. Miller produced evidence that Denmark was given a 25 per cent larger quota than the United States. I quote the rest from Mr. Miller's book:

The German official appeared to be only slightly embarrassed. He reached into his desk and pulled out the German text of the identical treaty and explained that was the way things were done nowadays.

I said, "Well, what can we do, now?"

He said, "You can file a protest."

"Yes, but we have already filed a great number of protests, many of which have not even been answered and none of which appeared to do any good." I took my hat and started for the door. The official accompanied me to the door and said: "I hope this little incident will not disturb our friendly personal relations, because I want you to remember that I have to earn my living somewhere."

INSTALLMENT THREE

THE STORY SO FAR: Buck Hart, brother of Sheriff Hart, is found with a bullet in his back. A reputed rustler, his friends blame the murder to the big cattlemen. Someone fires a shot at Calhoun Terry from the Red Triangle saloon.

Lane guessed, "Jeff Brand?" "Yes. I told him I was going with a handsomer man." Ellen smiled at her father. "So you mustn't let me down." "I won't," Lane answered.

CHAPTER V

Among the rolling hills to the north of the Diamond Reverse B lay the empire of the Bartlett Land & Cattle Company, familiarly known as No. By Joe.

The manager, Clint Ellison, rode in from watching a beef cut to hold a conference in his office with important guests.

John McFaddin, joint owner with his brother of the Flying V C, a very large ranch far up on Elk Creek, poured whiskey into a glass and drank it neat, after a perfunctory "Here's how!"

Perry Gaines, manager of the Two Star Ranch, shook his head. "I never drink until I'm through my day's work."

The third guest reached for a glass and the bottle. He was a round, roly-poly man of middle age, rubicund countenance, and bright, twinkling, merry eyes. "I drink before I begin it, during same, and after I have finished," he announced. "Here's to you, gentlemen. Happy days."

McFaddin thrust into words the thought that was in his mind, that had been present with all of them for some days. "So an accident happened to one of the gents too free with a rope and a running-iron near your range, Clint."

Ellison passed a box of good cigars and took one himself. "Referring to Buck Hart, I take it."

The foreman of the No. By Joe looked at the Flying V C man, no expression whatever in his steely eyes. "I'm told he was shot. With a rifle. In the early morning. By a person unknown."

Slanting a grin at Ellison, the plump, red-faced man—he was Tod Collins, manager and part owner of the Antelope Creek Ranch—offered a chuckling suggestion. "Have to call him Mr. X, I reckon, like they do in these detective stories."

Ellison looked a long time at his cigar tip. "Like the rest of you, I've been milling this over night and day, gentlemen. We represent four out of the five biggest ranches in this part of the territory. I didn't ask Cal Terry to join us today because he isn't in quite the same position as we are. A few years ago he was a little cattleman himself, and though his old friends hate him like poison now, he may still have scruples against what I have in mind. Later we'll have to take him in, but we might as well make our plans first. If we're going to protect our properties from wholesale thieving we must wipe the rustlers outenmasse."

Tod Collins grinned. "The Antelope Creek rides to war with the rest of you. Cut loose with what's on your mind, Clint."

Clint leaned forward and in a low voice began to outline the plan he had in mind.

CHAPTER VI

Ellen drew up on the bluff at the edge of Johnson's Prong. A windmill on Sheriff Nate Hart's place, near the upper end of the valley, caught the sun's rays and heliographed them to her.

Her glance picked up a puff of smoke, and a fraction of a second later there came the sound of a shot.

She dipped down into the Canyon, following the steep trail winding among the boulders.

She swung around a great boulder and came face to face with a man. Both of them pulled up, taken completely by surprise. He was a lean, bronzed man, broad of shoulder, strongly built. A vague memory stirred in her. She must have known him when she lived here before going to school.

"Good morning," he said. "Did you meet anybody as you came down the canyon?"

"No," she told him.

"Are you headed for Round Top?" he said.

"Yes."

"Don't go," he replied curtly. Ellen sat a little straighter on the horse. Her chin set. "Why not?"

"There has been some trouble. A man has been killed."

She stared at him, her eyes on his. "Who was killed?"

Man named Tetlow. Lives on Fisher Creek."

"Who did it?"

"I don't know. I heard someone galloping away through the brush, and a little later I came across the body."

"Murder." The word fell from the girl's lips in a low, shocked voice. "The second in a week. Are the big cattlemen starting in to kill all the settlers who are in their way?"

"No." He spoke sharply, instantly. "These men were both rustlers, according to common report. They lived violently and made enemies. Maybe they quarreled among themselves."

"One of them was my cousin."

Then, as her glance fell on the rifle in its scabbard beside the saddle, there jumped to her mind a horrid thought. He might have done it himself. Why was he carrying a rifle in a country where the almost universal custom was to wear only revolvers?

"Then you live in the hills here," he said.

"My name is Ellen Carey."

There jumped to his mind the picture of a thin, long-legged, harum-scarum girl flying about the Black Butte country on a pinto horse. It was amazing that such a child could have developed into such a beauty.

Ellen echoed the last word, "Killed."

"Lane Carey's daughter?"

"Yes." She frowned at him, on the verge of a discovery. "You are Calhoun Terry," she said. "I knew I'd seen you before. You were a friend of my father then."

"Before I committed the crime of trying to better myself honestly and lawfully," he explained.

"What are you going to do with . . . the body?" she asked.

"I'll notify his friends where to find it."

"I could tell the coroner while I'm in town."

He shook his head. "Better not go to town this way, Miss Carey. The killer may still be down there in the flats somewhere."

Ellen looked at him, startled. "You don't think he would hurt me, do you?"

"Not unless he thought his safety required it. I'll ride up the canyon with you as far as the Hartman place."

"It's not necessary. I haven't seen anybody coming up the canyon—except you."

Grimly he smiled. "Nobody—except me. And I came direct from the scene of the crime, carrying the rifle that may have held the cartridge. Maybe it is not safe for you to ride up the gulch with me, since you're the only eye-witness against me."

Their eyes met and held, searching for what lay beneath the surface. Into Ellen's consciousness there beat an assurance that this man was no assassin.

"I'm as safe with you as I would be with my father," she said quietly.

He was a man not easily moved, but her words sent a little shock of pleasure through him. He looked at her.

"Some of your friends might not say so," he answered dryly.

When they came out on the top of Johnson's Prong the man moved forward and rode beside Ellen. A snatch of Heber's missionary hymn jumped again to his mind. He laughed.

sold to the big outfit, and is hated by the small men for it. Ellen Carey, back from school, sees some cattle driven hard one early morning, probably by rustlers. One of the men, she thinks, is Jeff Brand.

The girl looked at him. "You are amused?"

He quoted the verse: ". . . every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

Her eyes, judging him indignantly, refused to join his mockery. "I don't find murder funny," she said. "I wasn't thinking of murder, but of the man who turned his back on his friends. I suppose you would call him a traitor."

"It isn't my business to call him anything."

"You don't need to have anything to do with him—after we reach the fork in the road just ahead. That's so. You can go back to your nice good friends, who shoot at enemies as they pass, through a window."

"That's not true!" she cried.

"My mistake. I should have said cousin, not friend. The name is Lee Hart."

"When did he shoot at you—if he did?"

"Wednesday a week ago, about 4 p. m., from the Red Triangle Saloon."

She did not speak for a moment, and when she did it was to repudiate Hart. "He isn't really my cousin. Only a distant relative by marriage. I haven't spoken to him five times in my life."

For days Ellen's mind was full of this adventure.

CHAPTER VII

Excitement ran like a prairie fire through the Buck River country. The heat of it converged on Calhoun Terry. He had reported finding the body of Tetlow, after having been seen by two men an hour or so after the killing not far from the upper end of Box Canyon. When seen, he had a Winchester rifle in a scabbard tied to the side of his saddle.

The sheriff's posse had followed the trail of a horseman from the body to the lower mouth of the canyon. Here he had been joined by another rider.

Sheriff Hart rode up to the Diamond Reverse B to ask Terry to explain his movements. His brother Lee had suggested a posse, on which Jeff Brand and Jack Turley had offered to serve, big enough to capture the foreman of the ranch unless his men offered organized resistance. But Nate Hart decided against this.

"You'd better let me and some of the other boys go along," Lee insisted.

The sheriff's eyes drifted a little scornfully over his heavy-set, bow-legged brother. "I'm going for business, not war. If I took you along, Lee, it would be like waving a red rag at Cal."

The sheriff found Terry looking over the ranch accounts.

Hart was in his early thirties, big and rangy and vigorous. The general opinion was that he was by all odds the best of the Hart brothers. "I've heard a lot of talk, Terry," he said. "Thought I'd better ride up and find out what you have to tell me."

"You mean about your brother shooting at me from the Red Triangle," Terry said, on the theory that a swift attack may be the best defense.

"Don't believe all you hear. My brother didn't shoot at you."

"I must have imagined the holes in my hat," Calhoun said.

The sheriff did not pursue that line any further. "What I want to talk about is the Tetlow killing. You were the first to reach the body. Were you in time to see the killer?"

"No. I heard the shot. He was gone when I found the body."

"What were you doing down on the North Fork at that time?"

"I was on my way back from Jim Creek, where I had been to see the station agent about wiring for some cars I needed to make a shipment."

"We found two sets of tracks, both very recent. You didn't happen to see anybody else?"

"I met two men on the mesa above."

"But nobody in the canyon?"

"No. Isn't it possible that the second set of tracks could have been made by the killer while he was escaping? He may have passed up the canyon before or after me."

"Yes, it may have been that way. But the tracks show that the two rode side by side for a ways after they reached the prong."

"Not necessarily. The tracks may have been made at the same time," the foreman suggested.

PAUL PREACHES FAITH IN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Romans 3:21-31; 5:1, 2. GOLDEN TEXT—As it is written, The Just shall live by faith.—Romans 1:17.

Justification by faith is a doctrine which lies at the very heart of the gospel. It provides the answer to man's age-old question, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30).

"This was a question with which Paul had himself grappled, and for years he had sought salvation in the traditional Jewish way. Then one day he met Christ and he underwent a spiritual transformation through faith in Him, apart from the works of the law. Because of that experience, and because of the divine revelations made to him, he was able to show others how to be saved and how to live a life of victory." (Olmstead).

I. How Can God Be Just and Justify Sinners? (Rom. 3:21-31).

The portion of Romans just preceding our lesson is devoted to a devastating treatment of man's sinfulness, bringing him face to face with the question, "What can I do about it?" The answer has a hopeless ring to it.

1. Man has no righteousness of his own, and cannot by any of his own works save himself. "He has tried many ways, in every age, but no human being, or groups of men or women, have ever devised any scheme, have ever conceived of any ritual, have ever established any religion by their own efforts, through which peace with God has been found." (Wilbur M. Smith).

2. Christ paid the penalty for man's sin by His own blood. How clearly verse 25 declares the sacrificial death of Christ to provide a covering of blood (the real meaning of "propitiation") which will enable a just God to forgive the sinner that believes in Christ (v. 22). Why not receive it in all its grace and power, not trying to explain it away or to evade its requirements? Why attempt to provide some other means of salvation when we know that "without the shedding of blood is no remission" of sin (Heb. 9:22)?

3. Man receives salvation by grace through faith, apart from works. Man can only be "justified freely by his grace" (v. 24). It is for "them that believe" (v. 22), it is "through faith" (vv. 25, 26) and, note with care, "man is justified by faith apart from the works of the law" (v. 28). Thus God establishes the law (v. 31) and yet becomes the righteous justifier of a repentant believing sinner.

II. What Happens When a Man Is Justified? (Rom. 5:1, 2).

These verses sound like the uplifting music of a mighty organ, with the celestial choirs joining in to sing. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have"—What? Oh many precious possessions, three of which are here mentioned.

- "Peace With God."
- "Standing in Grace."
- Rejoicing in Hope.

"To stand in grace is to occupy the position wherein love is able to carry out its desires. To stand in grace is to come into such relationship with the Lord that He may do that thing that is in His heart, the thing which His love prompts. To stand in favor is to be unafraid. It is to be able to pass into the presence of One of whom we are unafraid, and know that there will be welcome." (G. Campbell Morgan).

The world is sorrowful for it has lost hope, but the believer rejoices "in hope of the glory of God" (v. 2). The Christian has the forward look. His future is as bright as the promises of God. He knows that he will one day see the glory of God revealed in all His holiness, power, love and grace. Even now the believer has that hope in his heart, and lives a rejoicing life (or should do so!). It's a great thing to be saved!

Household Hints

Bed sheets shorter than 108 inches will not tuck in securely at each end of an ordinary full-sized bed.

Sponges can be cleaned by soaking them overnight in warm soapy water to which lemon juice or borax has been added.

When spreading meringues on cakes, puddings or desserts dip your spoon frequently in cold water. This makes the meringue easily slip off the spoon and have a smooth surface.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry; irregular habits; improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Certified: 13,398 MILES ON A SINGLE 5-QT. FILL OF THIS NEW OIL

5 OTHER GOOD OILS
OUTDISTANCED 74% TO 161%
Impartial test in Death Valley Desert.
6 cars Destroyed to give you
Economy data beyond any Quibbles.

U. S. Patent No. 2,218,132 tells exactly what is new about the new Conoco motor oil named

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

5 quarts of this same new Conoco Nth oil that you can buy today, lasted 13,398.8 miles in a stock coupe—under lock and under scrutiny every minute.

13,398 miles up and down Death
Valley. Sand and sagebrush. Lowest land and highest extremes of heat in our U. S. A.

5 other well known oils got the same chance as new Conoco Nth oil. 6 identical new cars were used. Tune-ups, tire pressures, speeds, and all other factors were the same for all—impartially. Engines were under lock. Qualified authorities eyed everything.

The test was simple and stern... Each car got its 5-quart fill of some one competing oil and was run at a 57-mile speed, without added oil, till the engine smashed up. New Conoco Nth motor oil went 13,398 miles. Certified. Not another oil came within 5,683 miles of that and one was outlasted 8,268 miles by new Conoco
Nth oil. Certified.

The reasons are straight and simple...
New, patented Conoco Nth motor oil contains Thialkene inhibitor, a new synthetic... man-made by Conoco.

Now an inhibition is something that restrains you—checks you. And Thialkene inhibitor checks the effect of poisons always formed in normal engine operation. Instead of "festering," weakening, and passing out, this oil is scientifically prepared to keep its health, so that the engine can do the same—a good way to keep up the oil-level.

OIL-PLATING, too!...Long the keystone of Conoco success, OIL-PLATING comes from another Conoco synthetic... (U. S. Patent
1,944,941). Magnet-like action bonds
OIL-PLATING to engine parts, so it can't all drain down—not even overnight.

While you use Conoco Nth, this OIL-PLATING stays on guard against wear in advance! By OIL-PLATING the engine and inhibiting the worst effect of oil pollution, one fill of new Conoco Nth lasted 13,398 miles. Certified.

You'll not put your car through such a third-degree—any more than you keep starting in high gear just because you could. You'll certainly never want to exceed the recommended distance between crankcase drains. But knowing that new Conoco Nth oil lasted 74% to 161% longer than other oils tested, see how seldom you add a quart. At Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today popular-priced new Conoco Nth oil.

THE PASSING OF THE Boomtown

Oil boomtowns exist today only in the movies. The old-time "gusher" wells are gone forever.

In the early days, as long as oil flowed, the boomtowns flourished. But soon the wells failed and the booms collapsed, carrying with them the income and security of those who had depended on them.

Today, through a sound program of conserving oil and gas, hundreds of Texas communities are enjoying a permanent type of petroleum development. Furthermore, because of conservation, we have the largest oil reserves in the world, one of our greatest assets for National Defense.

Oil now builds stable communities. It provides assured tax revenues and greater ultimate tax returns than were ever possible in boomtown days. And every citizen benefits from the income oil creates.

Conservation not only protects Texas oil resources. It also assures for many years the prosperity which oil brings to every community where it is found.

Social Troubles Often Cause of Digestive Ills

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE records show that of every 100 patients who consult physicians, more than 50 per cent have no organic trouble, their symptoms being due in many cases to emotional disturbances.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

In fact, Dr. C. F. Martin, formerly dean of McGill Medical school, Montreal, and a specialist in diseases of the stomach and intestines, stated a few years ago that "Every patient who consults a physician is a 'mental' patient," aside from whether he has any organic disease or not. This means, then, that every patient must be treated from the mental standpoint also if he is to receive help from the physician.

Now, we are all familiar with cases where shock, worry, anxiety, or other emotional disturbance has caused mental symptoms in that the individual acts queerly, partially loses his memory, and may suspect members of his family or his friends of plotting against him. But what we are apt to forget is that these emotional disturbances can affect the workings of the body, and "apparently" not disturb the mind to any extent. It is interesting, therefore, to read of the experience of another specialist in stomach and intestinal diseases, Dr. G. Canby Robinson, Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, in The Bulletin, Johns Hopkins Hospital.

"In order to illustrate the fact that social disturbances cause illness," the report said, "we studied 50 patients with digestive disorders, admitted in rotation and studied without selection in the gastro (stomach) intestinal clinic of Johns Hopkins hospital. Patients with digestive disorders (indigestion) were, we knew, frequently ill because of emotional disturbances, but we were not prepared to find, as we did, that adverse social conditions were entirely or importantly related as a cause of illness in 44 of the 50 patients (88 per cent). In 30 patients no organic disease could be discovered."

Now the fact that nervousness and emotional disturbances are the only cause of many cases of indigestion (as they are of heart and other symptoms) and have an aggravating effect when real trouble exists, does not mean that symptoms of indigestion should not be investigated.

Treatment of Trifacial Neuralgia

TRIFACIAL neuralgia—tic dolo-reux—is a painful condition which comes on suddenly, lasts for hours and days sometimes, then suddenly disappears. The pain is on one side of face and is almost unbearable.

The treatment in former years was surgery and in some cases today surgery is necessary to rid the patient of this terrible pain.

Fortunately, it was found that the injection of alcohol into the main root or nerve bundle supplying the whole side of the face would stop the pain for months in some cases, years in others, and apparently permanent relief is obtained by some patients.

The effectiveness of this alcohol injection is recorded by Dr. W. Harris, London, in Brain, a British medical journal devoted to the brain and its disturbances.

Dr. Harris has treated within 30 years 2,500 persons suffering from this ailment (1,056 in private practice) by injection of alcohol. He has notes on only 377 of the hospital patients. Of the 1,433 patients 942 were women and 490 were men. The ages in majority of cases were between 41 and 70.

The cause of tic dolo-reux, in the opinion of Dr. Harris, is infected teeth, infected gums, abscess and infection of the sinuses. Letters written to the patients who could be reached revealed that the majority of those who reported had been free of pain for from three to thirty-one years. Some reported that there was still numbness on the one side and others that partial loss of taste occurred on the affected side. In some cases complete loss of taste on affected side occurred. A few reported that a few weeks after injection a new type of pain appeared.

Slacks and Shorts Outfits Styled for Every Occasion

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE vogue for slacks and shorts outfits has developed into one of the most significant, outstanding movements in the field of modern costume design. Beginning some few seasons ago as a mere experiment, the new mode of costume today flings a challenge to designers to give their best to a movement that is advancing in leaps and bounds to unqualified acceptance by women everywhere, women who recognize the chic, the comfort and the ease that slack costumes offer.

A few seasons ago the wearing of slacks was restricted to certain time, place and occasion and if you ventured beyond a prescribed program you were made to feel conspicuous. Nowadays slacks costumes are so generally worn, nothing less than a whole wardrobe of slacks is required in order to keep up with the social and fashion demands of the times.

Impetus has also been given to the slacks costume movement owing to the spreading of interest in civilian defense works which is creating a new and most exciting demand for slack outfits, because of the need of durable workaday clothes. Among college girls who are taking courses in "emergency mechanics," there is a call for trouser costumes and coveralls made of denim, gabardine and other sturdy materials that will be increased as the fall school terms begin.

However, the workaday idea is but a single phase and a very recent development of the slacks-trousers costume theme, and there will be much to say later in this regard. Just now a most fascinating story is being unfolded at vacation resorts and amid home environs, a story so thrilling in interest and so wide in scope it carries through from sun-up to sun-up all through the 24 hours of a calendar day and night.

And so, while the vacation spirit is going strong throughout the nation, fancy turns to cool sleek streamline types such as the trim suit pictured to the right. Tailored with precision and cut to give the style-correct streamline silhouette, this is a type that makes instant appeal to best-dressed women. Over this smart outfit the wearer tosses one of those short wool jackets, the rage at resorts this summer.

In the same category as this "classy" slacks suit are the exquisitely tailored jacket and slacks suits. Fashioned of gabardine for the most part in fetching pastel greens, violet shades, soft blues and dusky pinks. There is a nicety and finesse about these suits that indicate genuine refinement and appealing femininity. See the pert little play suit pictured above to the right. The entire outfit is made of waffle pique with large stars in red and white.

Shown to the left in the background is a slacks suit that answers the call of both chic and comfort. It is a navy blue gabardine with a white boxy jacket, falling loosely over the slacks.

On a hot midseason day, it's butcherboy pajamas in checked percale (pictured to the left). They will give you much comfort and ease. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Whims of Fashion

Green, red and purple belts are good. Small girls look well in a bonnet faced with red and white checks.

If you are devoted to swagger sports hats, be sure to watch for the new ones done in two-toned felts. Yellow belts, clips or buttons will do wonders if you don't feel like investing in a yellow linen jacket or hat.

The duchess of Windsor has four new costumes—the first important additions to her wardrobe since she and the duke left Paris almost a year ago.

The maribou jacket is back on the fashion scene. Softer and fluffier than before, it is not supposed to shed. In colors, red, white and black. Slightly longer than a bolero.

Button-On-Vestee

Soon the time will come when college and back-to-school wardrobes will be the paramount theme in every household where school-faring daughters live. Why not look ahead and, in idle vacation days, make up a simple basic wool dress and brief jacket which will serve as a suit for a "starter" on the fall clothes program. The costume pictured will prove ideal as a many-purpose outfit.

Button-on vestee is in crisp white pique and really very easy to copy. Bright metal buttons make a smart trim for the dress when the vestee is removed. To give your costume a final flipp, knit a smart turban in white sports yarn.

New York vs. London

There has been much argument as to whether London or New York can claim to be the largest city in the world. The balance seems to be in favor of New York, for now just under 10,000,000 people live within a radius of 19 miles from the city hall. Yet if you take Greater London, its present population is 8,650,000, which compares with 7,986,000 for the area under the municipal government of New York.

New York is at present growing much more rapidly than London. The population of Greater London is increasing at the rate of 55,000 yearly; Greater New York at 155,000 a year.

McTavish Asked for It

Sharp received a letter from his friend McTavish which bore no stamp, and he had to pay the postage. The letter concluded:
"You will be delighted to hear I am enjoying the best of health, old chap.—Yours, McTavish."
Sharp pondered over this for a time, then he secured a large stone, wrapped it, addressed it and sent it express collect to his friend McTavish. Attached to it was a note, which read as follows:
"Dear McTavish:
"This great weight rolled off my mind when I received the good news of your state of health."
"Yours sincerely,

LET'S HAVE AN ICE CREAM SOCIAL!
(See Recipes Below)

ICE CREAM 'N CAKE

Shining in their starched dresses, the girls are ready "to recite their pieces," the boys, slicked and combed, are watching them shyly, and everyone's waiting for refreshment time to come. Of course, it's an ice cream social, that typically American festival to which homemakers bring their most delectable cakes and choicest ice cream. There, too, you'll find lemonade, "made in the shade by the old maid."

There was a time when an ice cream social, though as pleasant an affair as you'd find on the summer calendar, carried with it a great deal of careful preparation. Ice cream had to be kept in heavy containers which in turn were wrapped in blankets, and if the speeches and program lasted too long it was apt to be more melted than icy when you were finally served. But no longer do you have such a risk. The ice cream can be stored in your refrigerator and it will be kept really hard.

Making ice cream with the freezer method is fun, and usually the whole family gets together to do some of the cranking. The freezer has a wooden or metal bucket holding the ice and salt and a non-rusting metal container with a closely fitting cover for holding the mixture to be frozen. The mixture is stirred by a paddle attached to the crank which is operated by hand, and sometimes by a small electric motor.

Use three parts of ice to one part of salt. Turn the crank slowly at first for about five minutes or until the mixture stiffens, then as quickly as possible until it is difficult to turn. This takes about six minutes. Add more ice and salt if necessary. Pour off salt water, push down ice and salt being careful to get none in the can of ice cream.

Wipe top of can, uncover, take out the paddle, and beat the frozen mixture with a wooden spoon. Cover can with wax paper, and pack again. Let stand several hours to ripen.

LYNN SAYS:

Did you know that: Ice creams should stand several hours to blend or ripen the many flavors combined in them? Each flavor will stand out separately if the mixture is not properly ripened.
Texture is affected by the method of freezing? Ice cream will be coarse and rough if frozen too quickly, whereas slower freezing improves texture. Before putting the cream in the freezer it should be properly whipped or it will be icy.
Richer mixtures give smoother textured ice creams? The amount of fat in the cream also affects the flavor. Richer ice creams have full bodied flavor.
Ice cream expands? If the ice cream is well made, it expands to at least one-third more than its original size, and that this has an important bearing on flavor. If frozen too rapidly, ice cream is prevented from increasing size.
Flavors should be lightly suggested, not pronounced? Amount and quality of extracts used are very apparent in the finished product.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Ice Cream Social
- *Vanilla and Chocolate Ice Cream
- *Walnut Torte
- Lemonade
- *Recipe given.

Vanilla Ice Cream.
(Makes 1 1/4 quarts)

- 1 1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk (15-oz. can)
 - 2 cups thin cream
 - 1 cup cold water
 - 1 tablespoon vanilla
- Blend thoroughly the sweetened condensed milk, thin cream, cold water and vanilla. Freeze in one-quart freezer. Remove dasher. Pack in ice and salt for one hour or more after freezing.

For Banana Ice Cream, use the above recipe, except to substitute 1 teaspoon of lemon extract in place of vanilla. Mash three bananas to a smooth pulp with a silver fork and add to ice cream after removing dasher.

Coffee Ice Cream: Proceed as for Vanilla Ice Cream, using 1 cup of cold black coffee in place of 1 cup of water and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla in place of 1 tablespoon of vanilla.

Maple Nut Ice Cream: One of the most requested flavors, made just like the vanilla except maple flavoring is substituted for vanilla, and 1/2 cup of chopped nuts is added just after removing the dasher.

Among the pleasant surprises in appearance and in flavor among ice creams is this one called Tutti-Frutti. If you're longing for a change from familiar favorites this one leaves nothing to be desired. To make it really gaily for the youngsters, take a scoop of it, pop two raisins in for the eyes, a currant for the nose and a cherry for the mouth. It's a simple gesture but one which they'll appreciate for all it's worth.

Tutti Frutti Ice Cream.
(Serves 6)

- 3/4 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1/4 cup finely chopped maraschino cherries
- 1/4 cup seeded raisins, finely chopped

Mix sweetened condensed milk, water and vanilla. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Freeze in freezing unit of refrigerator till half frozen. Scrape from tray, beat until smooth but not melted. Add chopped fruit. Replace in freezing unit until frozen.

No social is completely a success without an array of freshly baked, nice smelling cakes with their swirls of frosting piled high to tempt. One cake which will really give you a new high in reputation is this Walnut Torte, an old-fashioned favorite with new found fame.

Walnut Torte.

- 1 cup zweiback crumbs
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 4 eggs separated
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 pint cream, whipped

Crush the zweiback crumbs, mix with baking powder and nuts. Beat egg yolks thick and lemon color, beat in sugar, and then gradually, the crumb nut mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into two greased and floured tins and bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 10 to 15 minutes. When mixture is light to touch and pulls from sides of pan it's done. Cool thoroughly. Put layers together with whipped cream and garnish with whole walnuts.

Of Interest To Coke County Cotton Growers

It is permissible for Coke county cotton producers to dispose of cotton to comply with the supplementary cotton program to bring their acreage reduction in line with the reduction indicated on their intention sheets, C. N. Webb, chairman of the Coke county AAA committee, has announced.

This is made possible, Mr. Webb explained, by the recent amendment to the 1941 agricultural conservation program which provides that acreage will not be considered as planted to cotton if the cotton is disposed of before reaching the boiling stage or within 10 days after notice of the seeded acreage is given, whichever is later.

Under no circumstances, however, may a cotton producer receive cotton stamps for reducing more acreage than he signed on his original intention sheet on the cotton stamp program, "Mr. Webb pointed out".

To make this ruling clearer, Mr. Webb said, assume just for illustration to bring out my point that a cotton producer has a 1941 cotton allotment of 50 acres, planted 50 acres in 1940, and to receive cotton stamps, indicated a reduction of 2 acres. This would permit 48 acres to be planted to cotton for this year. However, when the cotton acreage was measured, he showed 49 acres planted. He would be allowed to dispose of 1 acre to come within his intended 48 acres but he would not receive cotton stamps on more than 2 acres since this was the amount signed on his original intention sheet.

Under the original definition of cotton, the acreage of cotton disposed of below the acreage allotment would still be classified as acreage planted to cotton.

The amendment also provides that if cotton is seeded but does not reach maturity, the smaller of (1) the acreage seeded to cotton (2) 3 acres, or (3) 3 percent of the 1941 cotton allotment will be considered as having been planted to cotton. This provision was made, the AAA official pointed out, so that farms will not show zero acres of cotton when cotton was actually needed.

The new amendment also permits producers to dispose of cotton acreage to come within total soil depleting acreage. By this method, deduction for overplanting total soil-depleting allotment will be avoided.

An Old Art Flourishes at Greenfield

DEARBORN, Mich.—In the days when the tintype was the last word in photography, the gentleman was always seated and his lady stood when they faced the camera. That's still the procedure at the Tintype Studio in Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Michigan, where thousands of visitors have called since the Village was founded a dozen years ago by Henry Ford. The 75-year-old tintypist, Charles Tremear, learned his trade over a half century ago.
