C. O. Leach, W. E. Lindsey, Ed. J. Neer, and W. O. Oldham all of Portales, and J. S. Edwards, W. A. Davis, R. C. Reid, A. L. Breeding and B. D. Oldham of Texico. R. C. Reid was chosen president of the bank; B. D. Oldham, vice president; W. A. Davis, cashier and J. S. Edwards, assistant cashier.

By glancing at the list of directors it will be observed that the board is composed of men closely associated with the first National banks of Portales and Texico, together with some of the other banks in this section known as the Oldham banks.

The First National Bank of Clovis makes the sixth bank opened by the above parties, they will also open a bank in Lakewood on July 3d.

Santa Fe car while the train was waiting at the depot in Texico, was arrested and brought to jail here by deputy sheriff, Johnson, Monday.

Farmers Agricultural Fair.

Lists will be circulated in each community that the farmers as well as all the business men may subscribe and take stock in order to purchase a land contiguous to and build thereon, that we will have conveniences to have and to hold our annual county Farmers' Fair.

As soon as a sufficiency of stock is taken a permanent organization will be perfected. This is a move in the right direction and should receive the undivided support of every citizen of Roosevelt County. Address

R. Y. GREGG, Portales, N. M.

Graf-Boynton.

Mr. Carl Graf and Miss Adeline Boynton were quietly married in the court house at noon Tuesday, Judge C. M. Compton tying the knot. Both the contracting parties are from near Elida and their marriage was a surprise to their many friends both there and in Portales.

Boggs Residence Burns.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Boggs, situated four miles north, caught fire from the chimney at 10 o'clock Friday morning and burned to the ground. The only ones at home at the time were Mrs. Boggs and two children who were unable to save much of their belongings. The loss is covered partially by insurance, but there were many things dear to the owners which they were unable to save, among which was a fine new piano.

Mr and Mrs. Boggs will rebuild in the near future.

The Woman's Club.

The Woman's Club met with Mrs. White Wednesday June 19. An instructive session was conducted by Mrs. Oldham, after which the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Boggs at the Vendome Hotel June 26. Lesson for next meeting is the lives of the following Authors: Samuel Johnson, David Hume, Oliver Goldsmith, Edward Gibbon, Edmund Burke, Richard Sheridan, Thomas Grey, William Cooper and Robert Burns. Magazine

Death of Little Ima.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wall will be extremely sorry to learn of the death early Sunday morning of their 18 months old daughter, Ima, a sweet child. She was buried Monday in the Bethel cemetery. Undertaker Neer furnished the coffin.

Hound and Rabbit Race.

A hound race is being gotten up for the Fourth, and it is hoped to have a number of entries. An entrance fee of $1 will be charged for each dog, contest to be decided on points, winner to be given 60 per cent of entrance money, second, 40 per cent. Live rabbits in abundance will be on hand. Entries to be made to Ralph Kerr at Pearce & Dobbs' drug store not later than noon on the Fourth. Bring on your pups.

NEWS OF THE EAST END.

The concrete factory is pushing business now.

Mr. Noah Clayton has gone to Texas with a load of household goods for Mr. Scott, who has moved to the Lone Star State. Noah will be missed from the streets for 8 or 10 days.

Mr. Hatfield of Mo., is visiting his wife and daughter who have been here several months for the young ladie's health and is very happy to find his daughter looking well. He says he will not take them back to Missouri, but thinks he will make a home here. Mrs. Hatfield and daughter have lived in a tent and had the benefit of the pure air which is so plentiful in this country. This tent life is a little inconvenient but very healthful.

Mr. Davis has an offer of $100 per month to go to Memphis, Tenn., and take charge of a dredging crew on the Mississippi river.

Mr. Bob Bange, the big hearted blacksmith, learning that Polk Williams was indisposed, hitched Dan Patch to his new buggy, called and got the patient and gave him a spin of six or eight miles in the moonlight which seemed to make the indisposed feel glad that there are yet men who do not live for self alone, besides such refreshment is better than drugs.

Mr. Frank Thompkins is having his residence property brightened up preparatory to moving to town. He intends to put his children in school, and wants to get nearer his business.

Mr. Tom Mullens who spent a week with Uncle Polk Williams, with a broken shoulder, is improving.

The Historical Society of New Mexico had the good fortune to secure a remarkable set of leading speakers in the United States Congress on the Mexican War and the bills to admit California and New Mexico, in its original pamphlets, comprising the period from 1846 to 1850. Among these are the following, which will be found to include the greatest statesmen of that day:

Speech of William L. Dayton of New Jersey on the Mexican War, in Senate, January 27 and 28, 1847.

Speech of Hon. Thomas Corwin of Ohio on the Mexican War, in Senate, February 11, 1847.

Speech of Hon. A. H. Sevier of Arkansas on the Mexican War, in Senate, January 4, 1848.

Speech of Hon. Henry S. Foote of Mississippi on Mexican War, in Senate, January 19 and 20, 1848.

Speech of Hon. John Davis of Massachusetts on the Compromise bill, in Senate, June 28 and 29, 1850.

Chewed "Peco" and Died.

Fidelina Martinez, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignacio Martinez, who live near Lucero, in Rio Arriba county, died on the 17th inst., near the home of her parents under very peculiar circumstances.

The girl's seven-year-old brother and little girl had taken two horses owned by their father to the acequia for water. While the horses were drinking the little girl espied the blue flower of the weed "Peco" floating on top of the water. She at once seized one of them and commenced to chew it.

Her brother also chewed some of the flower, but did not like it and stopped almost immediately. Thereafter he took the horses to the stables while the little girl remained at the acequia.

In a few moments she became very ill and cried, and upon rushing to her assistance her parents found that she was dying and in a very short time she had succumbed. The boy was not badly affected by his chewing the weed.

The remains of the child were interred in the Catholic parish cemetery near her home. The parents are grief-stricken as the child was bright and pretty and also on account of the unfortunate manner in which she met her death.

To Cancel Coal Land Entries.

Register M. R. Otero and Receiver Fred Muller of the Santa Fe United States Land Office have rendered a decision adverse to Dr. J. H. Sloan and his co-defendants to contest cases involving coal land entries in Santa Fe and Sandoval counties. However, before the coal land entries in question are finally rejected this decision must be sustained by the commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, D. C. Dr. Sloan and his associates are allowed thirty days in which to file an appeal, and in the event of such action the case goes to the commissioner of the General Land Office for decision and if he affirms the finding of the local authorities another appeal can be taken to the secretary of the Interior. Dr. Sloan was indicted by the federal grand jury here last fall for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with these coal land entries and hearings continuing two weeks were held at the land office in which the original entrymen were called upon to testify. The witnesses in the several cases, who had filed the coal land entries involved were C. R. Huber, C. F. Murray, May Huber, now Mrs. Valdez; Emma Bandler, now Mrs. William C. Schneppe, and Mrs. Minnie S. Zimmerman.

Pecos Valley Very Prosperous.

Santa Fe.—Surveyor General Morton O. Llewellyn has just returned from a visit to the Pecos valley, to which section of New Mexico he went on official business for the commission which has charge of the selection of lands donated by Congress to the territory of New Mexico. He inspected certain tracts of public land for action by the commission, and will make his recommendations at the next session of that body.

Surveyor General Llewellyn states that part of the range in the counties of Chaves and Eddy looks quite dry, but there is plenty of grass and an abundance of water for irrigation. The artesian well belt is astonishing and there seems to be no limit to the artesian flow, more wells being brought in right along in the district.

He found the people of this section very busy, very prosperous and very well contented with official affairs and the administration of the territory.

Changes in School of Mines.

Socorro, N. M.—There will be several changes in the faculty of the School of Mines at this place for the coming college year.

Prof. O. R. Smith has resigned his position as professor of civil engineering in order to enter upon commercial work. Prof. C. J. Sarle has left the chair of mineralogy and geology vacant; Prof. R. W. Twining, formerly of Santa Fe, will no longer be principal of the academy, and the newly created chair of mathematics has yet to be filled. Arthur K. Adams, a man of excellent training, who has had considerable experience in the United States geological work, will occupy the chair of geology and mineralogy next year. The other positions are not yet filled.

Prof. R. V. Smith of the department of mining and metallurgy, will leave here with a party of eight students on May 25th to make a tour of inspection of mines and reduction plants at El Paso, Cananea, Bisbee and other points. This will probably last two weeks, at the end of which time the party will find employment for the summer in some of the plants or mines visited.

The school has one graduate this year, Rue N. Hines, who receives his degree of B. S. in the mining course.

The commencement dance will occur at the School of Mines Friday evening, May 24th.

There have been fewer defections among the students this year than in the preceding years.

The term now closing has been the most successful in the history of the institution and Prof. Robert P. Noble has served with great faithfulness and commendable efficiency. The board of regents has paid particular attention to the duties imposed upon its members by law and has aided Professor Noble in every way to make his administration successful.

The prospects for the coming year are of the brightest and with the erection of a greatly needed dormitory at the school the number of students will be materially increased. There is hardly a graduate during recent years who does not now fill a well-paying position with some smelter or mining company, mostly in Arizona and in the mining states of the Republic of Mexico. Graduation and diploma from the School of Mines of New Mexico are accepted everywhere as proof that the holder will make "good" in any position in the engineering and mining line which he may apply for.

To Improve National Cemetery.

Santa Fe.—Superintendent A. J. Chapman of the United States National Cemetery near this city, has received instructions from Washington to secure bids on a large amount of repairs to be made at the cemetery. The work will be let to the lowest bidder and the superintendent reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Among the improvements and to which the attention of local and other contractors is called are the following each of which constitutes a separate piece of work:

Grading slope near lodge; repairing stone wall; addition to stone barn; removal of cut stone; new sewage disposal; paving main driveways with vitrified brick; extending stone enclosure around unimproved ground, paving driveway to cemetery and bridging arroyo.

As the government desires this work to be done as soon as possible contractors are urged to visit the cemetery, make estimates and submit bids in order that the contracts for the work may be let at once.

Sues for $2,000.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Ex-Sheriff Thomas S. Hubbell of Bernalillo county, has filed suit in the District Court here against Sheriff Perfecto Armijo for $2,000 alleged to be the amount earned by Armijo while serving as sheriff under executive appointment from September 6, 1905, to January 1, 1907.

Hubbell was removed from office by Governor Otero for alleged malfeasance, and Perfecto Armijo appointed to fill the unexpired term. Upon the case being taken to the Supreme Court of the territory it was ruled that the removal of Hubbell was illegal and that he was entitled to the fees and emoluments of the office for the remainder of his term. The latter ended the first of the present year.

Notaries Public Appointed.

The following have been appointed notaries public by Acting Governor J. W. Reynolds:

Herman H. Reinken of Logan, Quay county; A. V. Logan of Artesia; Eddy county; Emma E. Endres of Texico, Roosevelt county; Charles L. Hunt of Nara Visa, Quay county; A. M. Hallenbeck of Pasamonte, Union county; Frank C. Allen of Tularosa, Otero county.

Increase in Price of Envelopes.

The postal authorities have announced an increase in the price of stamped envelopes sold in quantities, the increase to go into effect on July 1st. The increase amounts to 4 cents per thousand and is caused by the increase in the price of paper out of which the envelopes and newspaper wrappers are made.

Postmaster Appointed.

James J. Lewis has been appointed postmaster at Berino, Dona Ana county.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Alcohol will remove candle grease. All vegetables should be put into boiling water.

A brush dipped in salt water should be used in cleaning bamboo furniture. All corks should be washed, thoroughly dried and kept for any future use.

Varnished woodwork can be easily cleaned and brightened with crude oil.

If you wish to peel onions and keep cheerful take off the skins under water.

A little raw linseed oil rubbed upon a stovepipe will stop rust; cover the places with a little blacking and polish.

When running brass rods through window curtains, put an old glove finger over the end that is being pushed through the hem. Unless this is done the material is apt to tear.

Gas burners, like other things, are apt to get dirty. Very often there is quite a little collection of rubbish on them, and if this is cleared away the improvement in the light is very noticeable.

Salt moistened with vinegar will remove burnt marks from enameled saucers and dishes; but don't forget that they should be soaked in cold soda water for a few hours first to loosen the stains.

CARE OF PICTURE FRAMES.

May Be Cleaned and Freshened with Little Trouble.

The gilt frames of pictures or mirrors, if they are not so far gone as to require gilding, may be cleaned by just a simple washing with spirits of wine or oil of turpentine.

Take a small sponge and, having wet it in either of these liquids, wring it out thoroughly and then apply. The gilt should not be wiped afterwards in order to dry it; leave it to dry of itself.

Gold paint comes in very nicely when the frames are somewhat bare and worn, and want more than a simple washing. But before applying it, be careful to have the surfaces perfectly clean.

With a small soft brush or duster remove all dust, then gently wash with lukewarm water and a mild toilet soap. After the frame has been thus thoroughly cleaned, then apply your gold paint.

Do not wet the frame overmuch when washing, for this would remove all the old gilding. A tightly wrung sponge is the best thing to use.

Cleaning Plumets.

Shave and boil one-half bar of naphtha soap in a granite basin. When thoroughly dissolved add this to a washbowl of warm soft water. Put the plumets in and let remain for about 15 minutes, moving it around in the bowl. After the dirt is loosened up take water of the same temperature to rinse it in. Now lay it on a table or oilcloth with a soft brush, such as an old toothbrush, brush it gently in outward strokes using soap on the brush if necessary. Put it under the faucet and let the water run on it until it is thoroughly clear of the soap. Squeeze the water out, but do not twist the feather. Hold it firmly in the palm of the hand. Pin it to a curtain to dry with the head up, and the fibers falling down toward the end.

Swiss Steak.

Get a round steak, about three inches thick; salt, pepper and flour it, take a meat pounder and keep pounding the flour in for about half an hour, use just as much flour as can be pounded in the meat. Put butter in pan, and after it gets hot put meat in and brown on both sides, then add hot water and let cook slowly, closely covered. Keep adding water until tender. If onions are liked, boil six or eight onions in salt water until tender. About 15 minutes before taking up the steak pour the onions with the liquid over the meat, cover and simmer.

Historic English Church.

The oldest Protestant church in England is the Moravian. Recently the London congregation celebrated the 450th anniversary of its organization. This was held in the same building where John Wesley experienced his wonderful change of heart.

Keeping it Dark.

Although men are obliged to conceal the fact for all they are worth, their secret opinion of women is higher now than it has been for some seasons past.—Lady's Pictorial.

Shades as Aprons.

Dark Holland window shades make durable work aprons. Soak the shade in cold water, then put in boiler after other clothes are out. Boil rapidly a few minutes, then wash. Take two; tear one in half lengthwise and put on each side of a single one to give the necessary width.

Little Money Wasted There.

Though the half yearly net profits of the Industrial Bank of Japan amounted to $350,000, only $10,000 was paid out for "directors' fees and bonuses."

THE NEW INSURANCE AGENT.

He Comes in With the New Law—Paul Morton on His Opportunity.

The new insurance law of the State of New York has opened up a promising field for both men and women with brains and energy in the sale of life insurance. The law now provides standard forms of policies, each of which practically bears the hall mark of the State of New York, and this new order of things has established the sale of life insurance on a correct basis.

The prohibition against rebating and extravagant allowances to agents has driven out of the business the old type of insurance agent, who in many cases virtually bought business, with large rebates, instead of selling it. His place is being taken by professors, lawyers, school teachers of both sexes, and others, who find that being a life insurance agent under the new system offers greater reward than their previous vocations. The law has reduced commissions but all of the commission now goes to the agent. Life insurance is something that everyone needs and under the present system its sale is being conducted with becoming dignity and propriety.

Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, has taken the lead in building up an agency organization that is in keeping with the demands of public sentiment, and the standard he has set for his company. He says: "We want new agents, both men and women, but none except energetic, able and truthful people need apply. For such there is a splendid opportunity."

Mr. Morton's policy of injecting new and vigorous blood into the agency force of the Society is meeting with success in all parts of the country.

We cannot understand a character greater than our own until something congenial to it has grown up within ourselves.—Whipple.

Good for the Blues.

If your appetite on a vacation, your energy absent, and everything else out of "Whack?" If so, you had better take something and take it now. Simmons' Sarsaparilla is the King of Tonics. It will make you eat all you want to pay for. Try it and hear your self laugh again.

Ghosts of Dead Lakes.

In the great basin between the Rockies and the Sierra Nevada lie the ghosts of many dead lakes. Rivers still flow down to the dry edge of these once-time great reservoirs and are licked up by evaporation and the chertic winds of all the lakes that once lay there, only Great Salt Lake, Lake Tahoe and Bear Lake are left. The Southern Pacific will for 105 miles across the bed of what was once Lake Lahontan, and the passengers gazing idly from the windows may see the terraces and wrinkles in the crust of the fossil lake which nature robbed and defrauded of its crystal treasures ages ago.—Exchange.

"Tainted Money" No New Thing.

"Nay, nay, nay" said the archbishop, waving a white jeweled hand as the chief began to divulge some of his larger plans. "Tell me not of thy wicked schemes! Thy methods I must condemn utterly, but if thou bringest me the money, well I can at least see to it that it be not used for bad purposes. And speaking of money, we need for the walls of the case a hundred bags of gold. Dost think thou couldst manage it?"

"Ay," said the Gentle Robber, and that night he despoiled nine men, killing three that resisted longest, for he was a great lover of holy church, and a devout believer, nor could he ask of him any service that he would not perform.—"The Gentle Robber," in McClure's.

DR. TALKS OF FOOD.

Pres. of Board of Health.

"What shall I eat?" is the daily inquiry the physician is met with. I do not hesitate to say that in my judgment, a large percentage of disease is caused by poorly selected and improperly prepared food. My personal experience with the fully cooked food, known as Grape-Nuts, enables me to speak freely of its merits.

"From overwork, I suffered several years with malnutrition, palpitation of the heart, and loss of sleep. Last summer I was led to experiment personally with the new food, which I used in conjunction with good rich cow's milk. In a short time after I commenced its use, the disagreeable symptoms disappeared, my heart's action became steady and normal, the functions of the stomach were properly carried out and I again slept as soundly and as well as in my youth.

"I look upon Grape-Nuts as a perfect food, and no one can gainsay but that it has a most prominent place in a rational, scientific system of feeding. Any one who uses this food will soon be convinced of the soundness of the principle upon which it is manufactured and may thereby know the facts to its true worth." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in 1kg1. "There's a Reason."

BACKACHE IS KIDNEYACHE.

Cure the Kidneys and the Pain Never Returns.

Only one way to cure an aching back. Cure the cause, the kidneys. Thousands tell of cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills. John C. Coleman, prominent merchant of Swainsboro, Ga., says: "For some years my kidneys were affected, and my back ached day and night. I was languid, nervous and lame in the morning. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me right away, and the great relief that followed has been permanent." Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box.

A Dig at Her. "O! dear," sighs Miss Maud, "do wish I knew of an effective way to preserve my complexion." "If you keep the box in a cool place it will be all right, won't it?"

PALE, WEAK PEOPLE.

MADE STRONG AND ENERGETIC BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

General Breakdown Caused by Deficient Blood Quickly Corrected by This Tonic Remedy. A feeling of general weakness, loss of appetite, loss of breath after the slightest exercise and broken sleep are some of the symptoms of general debility. You may think that they have no relation to each other and that you will never along, hoping all the time to feel better soon. This is a mistake, for every one of the symptoms is caused by bad blood, which must be made pure and so before treatment will be restored again. Tonic treatment is necessary and for this purpose there is no better remedy than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. J. G. Haves, of 95 Willow A. Chelsea, Mass., says: "I was sick for number of years from general debility and indigestion. I was never able to eat stomach trouble and my nerves were shattered for any serious work. I slept restless on account of twinges in the small of my back. The pains would sometimes last for a week or two. My sight grew weak, threatening to be a blur constantly before my eyes. I couldn't concentrate my mind on my work, and the attempt to do so completely exhausted me."

"I was finally forced to give up my position I had held for twenty-two years. After trying several medicines without help, I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. They made me feel so much better and so much stronger that I started in business for myself here in Chelsea. I have never had a return of my former debility and cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as an excellent tonic and blood tonic."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been recognized as an excellent remedy in cases of indigestion and general debility, where the stomach and other organs of the body are weakened and disordered simply through lack of proper nourishment. They have been especially successful in curing anemia, rheumatism, after-effects of grip and fevers.

A pamphlet on "Diseases of the Blood" and a copy of our diet book are sent free on request to anyone who writes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

CHAPTER IX.

Two Ghosts.

As he spoke MacArdel reached for his hat and my eye followed him as he went to the table beside which we sat. He looked at me and where I had seen him before a moment before.

He vanished as completely as if he had swallowed it up.

I sprang back and the door with a bang, while he was going through his pockets in a bewildered sort of way that was nervous to witness.

"What's gone!" said MacArdel, as he finished his search. "I wouldn't have been an even hundred for it!"

"What mysterious occurrences are these?" he explained in a very simple way, when all is said and done.

"I'm tired, dryly. Doubtless we'll have some trouble in finding out what's gone of it."

"Don't dry up!" said MacArdel, impatiently as was his wont.

"The door was only open about six inches," I continued. "Nobody could have come in."

"It's gone out," said MacArdel.

"Well," I went on. "It's shut now. Can't we have a look about?"

Without any apparent reason, we searched the room high and low for the missing cigar case, peering into boxes and jars, moving furniture about and disturbing things generally until the place looked like a curio shop in the middle of housekeeping.

Finally we gave up in disgust, and indignantly struck with the ridiculousness of our own performances, sat down in the chairs that we had forsaken, occupied by the side of the table.

The cigar case was lying under the lamp where MacArdel had first laid it down.

There was nothing to say, and so we said nothing. At length, MacArdel picked it up, examined it carefully, put it in his pocket and muttered: "Let's get out of here, Ware, I want some fresh air."

"Close outside the house, he continued. "That's the most remarkable occurrence I ever heard of. Ghosts don't walk by day, so it couldn't have been a ghost, but how on earth do you explain it?"

"I don't explain it," I replied. "It's just like the note on the bed."

"Oh, hang the note on the bed!" said MacArdel. "This happened right under our eyes and noses!"

"Well, what if it did," I persisted. "It isn't any more mysterious, and we've got to get to the bottom of the whole business before we can let Miss Carney come back. No vacation for us, my boy. We must stay here and find out what's going on."

We walked all around the house, investigating every nook and corner of the walls and shaking the cellar windows and other subterranean openings to assure ourselves that they were securely fastened. Not finding anything of interest on the outside we returned to the interior and beginning at the top, inspected every square inch of space until we reached the basement and were ready to descend to the cellar. I had discovered two candles, which we lighted for this exploration, and I confess that my hand trembled instinctively to the revolver in my hip pocket as we started down the stairs.

The cellar, however, disclosed nothing of importance, though we examined it thoroughly. As we were about to ascend, I noticed the pile of empty whiskey bottles, and, after finding that there were exactly two dozen of them, I got a doubt that they were the ones Mr. Carney had ordered and emptied during his short stay at Carney-Croft three years before.

In brief, there was nothing to indicate that the house had been disturbed in any way since it was closed by Miss Carney, and we strolled slowly along the road to Hoskins' for our luncheon, completely baffled at every point.

"Don't you keep a watchman here?" asked MacArdel at length.

"I wanted to," I replied. "But the Carneys didn't think it necessary."

That night we sat on the veranda, discussing the happenings of the day, while the full moon shone coldly in the south and the river splashed fretfully against its banks back of the house.

The town clock in the distant village had just struck the hour of midnight and I was beginning to yawn openly after my long day of excitement and exertion, when MacArdel said laughingly:

"Now's the time to trot out your ghosts, Ware. The clock just struck twelve, you know."

As he spoke I grasped his arm and pointed to the path leading to the river. Two filmy white figures, one larger than the other, were wafted along under the trees, as if they were part of the air itself, and from them came an odor, so faint and yet so overpowering in its fetid oppressiveness that I could scarcely draw my breath.

For an instant MacArdel sat as one petrified, and then, with a muttered cry, he sprang over the rail and followed the fleeting things into the blackness of the overhanging trees.

I was after him in a bound. Running with all our speed, we saw the creatures, whatever they were, sail majestically before us on wings of air until they reached the river, where, in the full glare of the moonlight, they vanished suddenly under our very eyes.

When I overtook MacArdel he was leaning heavily against a tree trunk, gasping for breath.

"Ware!" he said, as soon as he could speak. "That odor was the smell

Leaving the rags, for such they were, strewn about as MacArdel had scattered them, we returned in silence to the house and reentered ourselves on the veranda.

"Mac," I said abruptly, a moment later, "do you know that we left this place standing wide open and that some one may be inside by this time?"

"Not much danger of that," said MacArdel slowly. "Whoever was around here is as far away by this time as he can possibly get. Make no mistake about it. Ware, those pieces of cloth down there have been around a corpse!"

I shuddered in spite of myself, and we slept in the same room that night, with the doors and windows bolted, and a revolver under each of our pillows.

CHAPTER X.

Courtship and Business.

We breakfasted at Hoskins'. As we were rising from the table, MacArdel said: "I've got a trunk up at the station. I suppose I can get somebody around here to take it down to the house."

"There's an old fellow here who drives what he calls an 'express,'" I replied. "I expect he'll attend to it for you."

Hoskins was standing by the door as we left the room and I asked him where we could find the stage driver, but his reply was far from encouraging.

"Ye can't find him at all," he said.

They Were Wafted Along as if Part of the Air Itself.

of the grave. There's nothing else like it, I tell you, man! I was a coroner for too many years and have opened too many coffins not to know it."

He sank to the ground from sheer exhaustion.

A moment later I heard a crackling in the underbrush not far away and, with a shout, I dashed into the bushes, followed by MacArdel. Suddenly there was a glimpse of white through the leaves, and, with a warning cry, I drew my revolver and fired twice with careful aim. The object in white fell to the ground, and we were upon it in an instant, while the continued crackling of branches showed that some one was escaping at the top of his speed.

The white object was a bundle of towels and odd pieces of bed linen and the articles were permeated by the same indescribable odor that we had noticed as we pursued the fleeting creatures in white down the path to the river.

MacArdel poked the parcel open with a stick and spread the pieces about in the moonlight as it filtered in through the branches overhead, making bright patches here and there under the trees. Whether because of his startled remark that this was the smell of the grave, or perhaps on account of the nervous strain to which I had just been subjected, I was forced to view this operation from a respectful distance and was glad when the investigation was completed.

They're all wompin' to-day, an' I can't git hold o' one nohow."

We decided that we were quite equal to this task, and, proceeding to the stable, undertook to "hitch up" on our own account.

MacArdel did the driving, and I sat on the seat behind him in all the glory of an escorted guest. As we turned the corner into the road that led to the station, a sudden gust of wind wafted into my face the same indescribable odor that had offended my nostrils the night before and I called him to stop.

"Mac!" I said, "there's something wrong here! I can get that confounded smell again!"

He pulled up his horse with a jerk and, springing to the ground, began, with me, to peer under the seats of the vehicle. A moment later he extracted from a pile of blankets and laprobes, a bundle of white cloths similar in appearance to those we had discovered on the previous night, and exhaling the same odor.

"Put them back!" I exclaimed suddenly, "and cover them up again, too! After we get the trunk we can take them to the house and see what they are."

"Great idea!" muttered MacArdel, "only I was on the point of suggesting it myself. Get in here with me. The air's better up front."

I clambered into the seat by his side and we proceeded on our way to the station.

"Who is it that owns this turnout?" asked MacArdel. "Do you know anything about him?"

"Nothing more than that he makes regular trips to and from the trains," I replied. "Runs a sort of local express, you know, between the station and Hoskins' hotel. Carries the mail and passengers, if there are any."

"Did you ever see him and talk to him?" continued MacArdel.

"Oh, yes!" I said. "He was the first to tell me about the ghosts at Carney-Croft; all that story of the Bruce woman's prophecy that the place would be haunted, you know."

"Humph!" said MacArdel, thoughtfully. "And where's the Bruce woman now?"

"She lives on the place yet," I replied. "Miss Carney gives her the use of a little house and about 20 acres of land rent free, and some man about here works the property on shares for her. It's that hilly land about a mile east of the house, where the big elm is. You remember, I told you the new golf links would take in that tree and the land around it."

Our return trip from the railway station took us past Hoskins' again, and that individual was sunning himself in front of the house as we drove up.

"By the way, Hoskins," said MacArdel, stopping his horse and beckoning the man toward him, "what's the name of the fellow that owns this outfit?"

"Jenks," said Hoskins, briefly. "Sam Jenks, th' lazy cuss."

"When is he going to marry the widow?" asked MacArdel, in a most matter-of-fact way.

"That's jest it!" replied Hoskins in obvious disgust. "You tell me an' I'll tell you. Goodness knows; he's be'n a-sparkin' her long enough; ever since 'bout a month ago: her boy got killed. S'pose he felt kinder sorry fer her at first, an' then, after a time, he began teh git mushy over it, I wish teh goodness he'd either marry her or leave her alone! What with his gallivantin' all over the country with her every week or ten days, an' not gittin' his hoes in th' stable till nigh onto daylight, there's no dependin' on him teh meet th' trains or do anything else, fur that matter! Here he is now, abed an' asleep, an' ef it hadn't ben fur you gents a-drivin' up teh th' deepo', we wouldn't ha' got no mail till nigh in th' mornin'."

With this remark he fished out two mail bags which the station master must have tossed into the back of the wagon as we were driving away.

CURING DISTEMPER.

How This Infectious Disease Should Be Dealt With.

Distemper is an infectious disease and can be prevented if the quarters are kept free from the infection. Washing the trough with soft soap suds or carbolic acid solution twice each month, whitewashing the stall at least once each month and occasionally scrubbing the floors of the stalls are measures which will generally prevent an outbreak. In addition to this the animal should have an abundance of exercise and pure air. It is known that an animal which is allowed the run of a pasture is not so liable to the disease as one which is confined to the stalls in a poorly ventilated barn.

If the disease is light, it need not be the cause of any particular alarm, as Bandaging the Throat.

It will be a benefit rather than a detriment. Colts which have it are generally immune thereafter. If there is a serious outbreak, the best remedy is to apply salve or poultices to the affected parts. One of the best salve mixtures is olive oil, four parts and acetic acid, one part. Bathe the swollen parts freely twice each day with this mixture. As a poultice, nothing is better than hot bran, using about a half gallon of the bran for each horse. To this should be added two tablespoonfuls of the following mixture: Neatsfoot oil, one quart; spirits of camphor, eight ounces; pulverized mustard, six ounces.

The illustration accompanying this article shows how the bandage should be fastened on the head. Take a common grain sack and cut the ends into four strips, but leave the middle of the sack whole.

Place the poultice on a white cloth under the swollen part, then under it place the whole part of the sack, says Journal of Agriculture. Securely sew the ends of the strips together over the top of the head, allowing one band to rest in front of the eyes, another between the eyes and ears and the remaining two over the neck back of the ears.

One-fourth of a pint of Glauber salts may be administered twice each day in the soft feed. If there is a great deal of fever, give a half teaspoonful of iodide of potash once each day in the food.

GENERAL PURPOSE HORSE.

Best Results Obtained from Medium Weight Animals.

I get the best results from horses weighing 1,200 to 1,300 pounds, writes a farmer in Orange Judd Farmer. These horses are used for general purposes. They must have good action, be compactly built, something on the old Morgan type, but a little larger. Such horses are large enough to haul a reasonable load and can do a good day's work on the average farm. They are useful on the road for light work. The most useful horses for my general work are good, snappy creatures.

I have but little trouble in breaking cur colts, as we treat them kindly, handling them considerably while they are young. We never have any trouble with them when they are old enough to break. I believe in giving good care to colts as well as work horses. In my experience, a horse not properly cared for as a colt does not develop as early as one that receives proper attention. Horses should also be housed in bad weather. I believe in giving plenty of good, wholesome food. Horses should have special attention, and the man who succeeds is the one who keeps a close eye on the individuals.

STOCK NOTES.

Broken colts are less valuable than trained ones. Note the difference.

It is almost impossible to destroy hen lice when they once get a start on the horse. Horses should not be quartered near a hen house, nor should chickens be allowed to roost near the horse's stall.

It has been said that there is not a section of the country where a leguminous crop cannot be raised or where a domestic animal cannot be kept to eat the legume. The live stock belt is as wide and long as the nation.

Due to Gift of Speech

Many and Various Are the "Benefits," Says Writer in Puck.

The gift of speech is the last proof of divine favor, in virtue of which mankind has the rest of the animal kingdom faded, and stands in a class by himself. Some beasts are stronger than men, and some know more, but no beast can be such a bore as a man, nor can any beast slop over, in the true sense of the term. These distinctions we owe to the gift of speech. The gift of speech, moreover, lays us under compulsion to read a great many things which otherwise we would not, in order that when we have nothing to say, we may nevertheless say something. Thus we promote the publishing business, create a demand for wood-pulp, assist in the deforestation of the earth's surface, stir up a new school of kickers, increase discontent and contribute, at length, to progress and petulance. Our ancestors used to consider speech a means of concealing thought, but we have nothing to conceal.—Puck.

A long time before America was discovered Japan had its banks, clearing house, and Europe's supposedly modern system of checks, drafts, letters of credit and notes. The country also had a thorough rural delivery postal system—before Columbus crossed the Atlantic.

A Revelation.

The new editor of this paper, coming west as he did for the first time, having lived all his life in the south and east, was much surprised at seeing the rich brown soil and the vast array of farms and buildings which dot the plains in every direction as far as the eye can reach. He had studied his little old geography which had west Texas and almost the whole of New Mexico staked off as the Llano Estacado or staked plains, where only cactus could grow and coyotes live. No wonder the sight of prosperous cities and fertile farms were a surprise and there are thousands in the east who still think as he did. When the truth is known about New Mexico there will be a stampede for this country, the like unto which there has been no parallel in the history of the United States.

The fight that has been started between the commission men and the packers may have far reaching results. The new order requiring the purchase of cows and heifers subject to post-mortem inspection means practically a complete change in the method of conducting the live stock business at the stock yards at the big market centers. While the order applies only to the "she" stuff, it will be made to apply to all kinds of cattle and hogs as well.

This is the season when cattle shippers are shipping their cattle to pasture preparatory to fattening them for the markets. Stock shipments from the Pecos Valley are very heavy on railroads entering Wichita. So far this year the Missouri Pacific railway has shipped 570 cars of cattle from Quanah, Texas, and other points in the Panhandle of Texas and the Pecos Valley country. These cattle are consigned principally to the pastures in the Flint hills at points between Eldorado and Yates Center, Kansas.

And the fine rains this week, did anybody ever see verdure which responded so quickly as ours to the call of mother nature. True, there was a dry spell in June which delayed the coming up of seed and impaired the grazing ranges some, but what country does not have its wets and droughts. Now, since that downpour of almost four days and nights, during which several inches of water fell, the fields brighten, grass springs up over night, feeds burst and grow, corn is already knee high, the farmer wears a smile. He begins to plan an addition to the house or barn. He comes to town on Saturday and lays in his supplies with a more generous hand. This helps the merchant, who helps the newspaper by his advertising. The newspaper man boosts the town and country which helps to bring in new people. New people buy land and build houses.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SAID:

"TEXAS IS THE GARDEN SPOT OF THE LORD"

95,000 Acre Ranch of Dr. Chas. F. Simmons Now On the Market.

Here is Your Opportunity to Buy a Farm of from 10 Acres to 640 and Two Town Lots in This "Garden Spot" for $210. Payable $10 per Month Without Interest.

Investigation will show that this 95,000 acres comprises one of the finest bodies of Agricultural and Truck Farming land in the entire state, commencing about 36 miles south of San Antonio and about two miles south of Pleasanton (the county seat of Atascosa County), and extending through Atascosa and a part of McMullen Counties, to within 17 miles of my 60,000-acre Live Oak County Ranch, which I in four months last year, sold to 4,000 Home Seekers, on liberal terms, without interest on deferred payments, which gives the poor man, from his savings, a chance to secure a good farm and town lot for his home in town. I will donate and turn over to three bonded Trustees, $250,000 from the proceeds of the sale of this property to the purchasers, as a bonus to the first railroad built through this property on the line which I shall designate.

This property is located on that middle plain between East Texas, where it rains too much, and the arid section of West Texas, where it does not rain enough.

Its close proximity to San Antonio, the largest city in the State, with a claimed population of over 100,000, enhances its value as a market for Agricultural and Truck farm products far beyond the value of similar land not so favorably located.

Topography.
Level to slightly rolling. Large, broad, rich valleys, encircled by elevations suitable for homes; 90 per cent. fine farming land, balance pasture land.

Forestry.
Ash, Elm, Gum, Hackberry, Live Oak, Mesquite, Pecan, abundant for shade, fencing and wood.

Soil.
About 60 per cent. rich, dark, sandy loam, balance chocolate or red sandy loam, usually preferred by local farmers, and each with soil averaging from 2 to 4 feet deep, with clay subsoil, which holds water.

Climate.
Mild, balmy, healthy, practically free from malaria, few frosts, no snow, no hard freezes; continuous sea breeze moderates extremes of heat and cold, producing warm winters and cool summers. Average temperature about 62 degrees.

Rainfall.
From the Government record, it is safe to assume that the rainfall on this property has been fully 35 inches per year, which is more than some of the old States have had, and is plentiful for ordinary crops properly cultivated, and for Grass Growing.

Improvements and Water.
This property is fenced and cross-fenced in many large and small pastures, with four barbed wires, with posts about 12 feet apart. Also a number of fine shallow wells.

Also a number of fine Lakes and Tanks.

Also, a number of fine flowing Artesian Wells, whose crystal streams flow for miles and miles down those creeks, whose broad, rich valleys, irrigable from those continuously flowing streams, make it the ideal place for the Marketing Gardener who desires to raise from two to three crops of marketable produce on the same ground every year.

Farming and Truck Farming.
Seasons never end.

This land is adapted to profitable culture of Beans, Cabbage, Celery, Cucumbers, Lettuce, Tomatoes, Beets, Carrots, Onions, Radish, Squash, Strawberries, Cauliflower, Okra, Oyster Plant, Peas, Raspberries, Turnips, Apricots, Cantaloupes, Grapes, Irish Potatoes, Olives, Sweet Potatoes, Bananas, Dates, English Walnuts, Figs, Melons, Peanuts, Barley, Blackberries, Broom Corn, Lenons, Plums, Tobacco, Alfalfa, Rye, Oranges, Peaches, Pecans, Corn, Cotton, Oats, Wheat, Apples, Peas.

Page 63 of the book entitled "Beautiful San Antonio," officially issued by the Business Men's Club of San Antonio, dated May, 1906, says:

"It is readily conceded by all those who know anything about Texas that the most prolific agricultural section is that which recognizes San Antonio as its logical center, particularly that portion directly south of San Antonio, with the Gulf of Mexico bordering on the southeast and the Rio Grande bordering on the south and west.

"Within the last four or five years, in the territory named, special attention has been given to growing vegetables, they maturing at a time when they secure the maximum prices on Northern markets, which markets they virtually invade without a competitor. The profit in growing vegetables in this territory will be seen by an examination of the following figures, secured from reliable sources, showing

Net Earnings Per Acre:
"Watermelons from $75.00 to $200.00.
"Cantaloupes from $40.00 to $75.00.
"Cabbage from $125.00 to $225.00.
"Cauliflower from $75.00 to $225.00.
"Beans and Peas from $100.00 to $125.00.
"Tomatoes from $125.00 to $400.00.

"Potatoes from $60.00 to $150.00.
"Onions from $150.00 to $300.00.
"Tabasco Peppers from $500.00 to $900.00 per acre.

"The Chicago Record-Herald publishing the following individual experiences in South Texas:

"Men who came here with $500 and $600 a few years ago are now independently rich.

"A young man who came to this country for his health, bought 18 acres and in one year cleared over $6,000 from it, which was $333.33 per acre.

"Another man, 65 years old, from 79 acres, sold $5,000 worth of produce, from which he realized $63.29 per acre and then raised a Cotton crop on part of it, which made him $35 per acre, which made the same land net him $98.29 per acre for that year.

"Another man from 80 acres in 1904 realized as follows: From Onions, $2,226.91; from Cotton, $1,800; 200 bushels Corn; 12 tons Hay; 5,000 pounds Sweet Potatoes.

"Another made $3,200 from five acres of early Cabbage, which was $640 per acre, and grew a second crop of Corn and Peas on the same ground that year.

"Another realized $27,000 from 90 car loads of Cabbage, averaging $300 per car, which was $207.69 from each of the 130 acres he had planted.

"Another netted, above all expenses, $60 per acre on Potatoes, and planted the same ground in Cotton that year from which he realized $35 per acre, which made that ground yield him $95 per acre.

"Another realized $32,966 from 230 acres in Melons, which was $143.33 per acre.

"Another netted $21,000 from 35 acres in Onions, which was $600 per acre.

"Another netted $17,445, or $79.25 per acre from nine cuttings of 220 acres in Alfalfa, which yielded in one year 2,475 tons and sold at $11 per ton.

"Another received $900 from one acre in Cauliflower; sown in July, transplanted in August, and marketed in December."

The same authority quotes the following statement from the Hon. Joseph Dally, of Chillicothe, Ill., who owns thousands of acres in the Illinois Corn Belt. He says:

"I am one of the heaviest taxpayers on farm lands in Mason and Tazewell Counties, Illinois, and I have been familiar with the conditions around San Antonio for 12 years. Any thrifty farmer can get rich, and make more money off of this cheap land, acre for acre, than any land in the State of Illinois, that sells from $150 to $225 per acre."

LOOKING FOR FREE ADVICE.

People of Both Sexes Seek to Evade Payment of Doctors' Bills.

Every doctor has had unpleasant experiences of the economical minded person who takes advantage of a casual meeting at the dinner table or elsewhere to importune him for counsel as to his ailments. It is not always easy to get rid of these pests. Abernethy was, as we know, equal to the occasion when a wealthy alderman whom he met at a friend's house recited his catalogue of woes, ending up with the question: "What should I take?" The reply was: "Take advice." A French doctor recently rid himself in an equally ingenious manner of a patient who sought to impose on his good nature. He was accosted one afternoon on a crowded boulevard by a lady notorious for this practice. She at once began to tell of her afflictions, making particular complaint of pain in her hypogastric region. To which the doctor gravely replied: "My dear madam, I must examine you. Be good enough to take off your things!"

Excludes Draughts.

Fresh-air cranks, who believe in having an abundance of fresh air during the sleeping hours, will find the ventilating canopy of interest. The problem of properly ventilating a room to allow the admission of all the fresh air possible is often hard to solve, as it is invariably impossible to prevent draughts, which naturally must be avoided. By the use of the ventilating canopy, the sleeper is perfectly safe from draughts, it being even possible to place the bed in front of the open window. The framework of the canopy is secured firmly to the head of the bed, the covering being placed over all portions but the front. The head and upper portion of the body are thus protected from all draughts, the fresh air, nevertheless, having full egress in front.

$350,000 in Coats of Arms.

There are sufficient people in England and Scotland paying the annual tax imposed by the inland revenue upon the use of armorial bearings to produce a sum of $350,000 each year. The great bulk of this sum is paid by people who care not an atom either about their family or their arms, but pay the tax regularly simply because they have carriages or plate heraldically decorated. The really old families of the realm, however, use armorial emblems for decorative purposes to an extent almost incredible in the eyes of those familiar with them only on note paper, table silver and carriage panels.

Aesop Revised.

The hare and tortoise were about to start on their celebrated race. "Come on, Mr. Owl," said Bookmaker Fox, "and place a bet on your favorite." "Not on your fur overcoat, Brother Fox," laughed Mr. Owl from his perch on the grand stand. "What? Not going to bet? Why, I thought the owl family had the reputation of being wise." "Just so, old chap; the truly wise never bet on races of any kind." Later on when the race was over the backers of the hare thought of Mr. Owl and sighed.

The Art of Walking.

To walk gracefully is an art, one which is seldom the accomplishment of the American woman. The head should be kept well back, and the whole weight of the body should rest on each foot in turn. Set the foot down squarely, striking the ball of the foot first. Keep the chin drawn back well horizontally, which will cause the chest to be lifted, and thus insure deep breathing. Practice walking indoors with a book on the head and the instructions will be easily understood.

PIG RATIONS AND RESULTS.

What Has Been Determined by Experiments in Connecticut.

The Storrs agricultural experiment station of Connecticut gives in bulletin 43 the following conclusions on pig feeding rations:

The pig among farm animals is noted for his great capacity for assimilation. But with the animal the economy of gain is greatly affected by the character of the ration.

One lot of three pigs required 2,739 pounds of skim milk containing 230 digestible nutrients for 100 pounds of gain. Eight lots, of 28 pigs required 1,086 pounds of skim milk and 253 of shorts, containing 258 pounds of digestible nutrients, for 100 pounds of gain. And one lot of three pigs required 294 pounds of digestible nutrients for 100 pounds of gain.

Milk is an easily digestible food. When fed alone in the above trials, 100 pounds of gain were made from the least amount (230 pounds) of digestible nutrients. When shorts were substituted for a portion of skim milk, more nutrients (258 pounds) were required for 100 pounds gain in weight. When shorts were fed alone the most nutrients (294 pounds) were required for the same gain.

The reader should bear in mind that the financial problem is not here considered. It is admitted that while skim milk is easily digested, it is too bulky in character. The capacity of the pig to digest and assimilate is greater than its capacity to consume this watery fluid. At ordinary market prices, a pound of digestible nutrients would cost twice as much in skim milk as in shorts. Experience shows that from a financial standpoint, the most economical gains are made when skim milk and grain are fed in the proportion of three-fourths to one. But the trials show, from a physiological standpoint, that less nutrients are required for a given gain when the ration consists of easily digested foods. The conclusion seems warranted that the food requirements for maintenance and for production (milk or growth) depends not only upon the composition and digestibility of a ration but also upon the facility with which it is digested and assimilated.

BOX FOR RINGING HOGS.

Device Which Will Hold Them Securely Down During Operation.

Herewith I submit a sketch of a hog ringing box which I have found to be very successful. Writes a correspondent of Prairie Farmer. ACA represents

The Box Complete.

(The end of the box, four feet long, 28 inches wide and 36 inches high with the boards nailed on the inside. Two-by-fours make the frame, being bolted together, EE are pieces 1x8 bolted to B, which has several holes so that EE can be changed to suit the size of the hog when necessary. F is a rod 18 inches long and attached by a bolt to the upper end of D and E.G. is a rod bolted to each side of the lower end of D and the upper portion of E. H is a piece of iron eight inches long, made to work in the notches at I which are protected by properly made iron attached to the right end of CC and K are two pieces with a space between for EE to work in as illustrated in the cut. L is a brace to hold the upper works firm to the box.

The cut shows the box ready for the hog to enter from the rear and be held by EE. As soon as the rings have been inserted the clamp may be released and the hog allowed to go. The operator is then ready for the next one. This box should have guide fences at the rear, so the hogs can be driven in with as little excitement as possible.

Don't Crowd the Sheep.

Those who keep sheep, and especially beginners, should be careful not to house them too closely. The chief protection that the mature sheep wants is from winds and falling storms. Give them such protection and a dry bed and from choice they will usually prefer to lie in the yard, unless they have been accustomed to lie within by shutting them in at night.

Nothing I Ate Agreed With Me.

MRS. LENORA BODENHAMER.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1 Box 99, Kernersville, N. C., writes: "I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me. I was very nervous and experienced a continuous feeling of uneasiness and fear. I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good."

"I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach. I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did."

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

The above is only one of hundreds who have written similar letters to Dr. Hartman. Just one such case as this entitles Peruna to the candid consideration of every one similarly afflicted. It is this true of the testimony of one person what ought to be the testimony of hundreds, yes thousands, of honest, sincere people. We have in our files a great many other testimonials.

Medical Education

The changes of the past 25 years in medical education have been nothing short of a revolution, and yet at a conference of medical educators in Chicago it was stated by one delegate that three-fourths of the graduates were unfit to practice medicine. The condition of medical education in this country 40 years ago was almost beyond belief. There were medical colleges in Chicago that graduated two classes a year. In a single town in northern Illinois nine men were practicing medicine, of whom two had diplomas and the rest were druggists, hospital stewards from the army and men who had taken one course of lectures. The immediate result of the enactment of the medical practice act was the departure of 1,400 practitioners from the state, some of whom completed their medical studies, but most of them practiced where there was not so much law. At a conference in Chicago the other day, says the Philadelphia Record, Dr. Means, chairman of the judicial council of the Association of American Medical Colleges, said that the average man admitted to practice was deficient in knowledge of bacteriology, chemistry, physiology and anatomy. Fifty-eight per cent. of the men in 25 states who fail at their final examination pass a few weeks later. "In the few days intervening where do they get their knowledge? They don't get it." They simply learn the answers to the questions, and the same questions are asked them at the re-examination. Evidently the reform of medical education, although much has been done, is not yet complete.

Antiquities have to give way to the needs of the present. The Egyptian council of ministers has approved the plan for raising the Assuan dam across the Nile, a change that will increase by two and a half times the amount of water that can be stored in the irrigation reservoir. The raising of the dam will result in the submerging of the island of Philae and the flooding of the ruins of the temples. The island itself is a small granite rock about a thousand feet long and 400 feet wide. It was the scene of the worship of the goddess Isis. Many pilgrims from various parts of the ancient world visited the shrine when the religion of Isis was most widely spread. The worshippers of other gods built temples near that of Isis, so that there appeared on the small island a splendid collection of examples of the best architecture of the various periods in which they were erected. The enlarged dam will make possible an annual increase of the cotton crop of Egypt amounting to between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000 in value.

Encourage the Young Poet.

Every man, woman and child should write poetry. It is like bolts, it prevents worse sickness. If there were more poets there would be fewer criminals. Poetry is in every man's blood. If he doesn't write it at some time or another during his life watch out for him. His wild oats are unsworn; they will rot in his system and sour his nature. Write poetry, therefore, so long as there is a fingle in your soul, exclaims the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette. The man who would advise corking up poetry unwritten in a human heart would soon have all the world full of brain storms and the devil to pay. It's a great business, this poetry business. And the man who hasn't had his fling with love and dove and spring and wing and skies and eyes and true and you and girl and pearl and lips and sips and honey drips (inspected and guaranteed absolutely pure) is like the man who died aged 72 years without being hungry—he missed a lot of fun filling up.

A number of years back a burly western Kansas man gave his nephew, a lad of 15 years, an unmerited chastising. The boy promised his assailant a like compliment when he became a man, and he did not forget the words uttered in the heat of passion. The uncle was about his duties on the farm one day last winter when a husky six-footer came up and gave him a glorious thumping. It was the 15-year-old nephew, only he was six years older. Then the uncle sued for $1,000 for personal injuries inflicted. An unsympathetic jury couldn't see it that way and he took the case to the supreme court. Last week that august body handed down a decision affirming the lower court's decision.

Not So Long.

There was so much ceremony connected with a church cornerstone laying in New York city a few weeks ago that the moving picture machine man felt warranted to take a couple of miles of photographs.

These pictures proved to be very good, and large crowds were delighted with the exact reproduction of the dedicatory exercises.

"I like the moving pictures better than I did the original service," confessed a prominent member of the congregation.

"You do," gasped a devout elder. "I'm surely pained to hear you say so. Why should you prefer the pictures?" "Because the picture man," answered the prominent member, pleasantly, "cut out all the sermons."

BABY ITCHED TERRIBLY.

Face and Neck Covered with Inflamed Skin—Doctors No Avail—Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

"My baby's face and neck were covered with itching skin similar to eczema, and she suffered terribly for over a year. I took her to a number of doctors, and also to different colleges, to no avail. Then Cuticura Remedies were recommended to me by Mrs. G—, I did not use it at first, as I had tried so many other remedies without any favorable results. At last I tried Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and to my surprise noticed an improvement. After using three boxes of the Cuticura Ointment, together with the Soap and Pills, I am pleased to say she is altogether a different child and the picture of health. Mrs. A. C. Brestlin, 171 N. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 10 and 20, 1906."

Her Answer.

"Now, children," said the kindergarten teacher, "I have explained to you how many trees give us food, in the way of fruit, and in other ways. You remember that I said man taps the maple trees to get maple sirup. Where does the tapoca come from, then?" "I guess," said Olive, after a pause, "that you tap the oaks, don't you?"—Judge.

WOMEN SUFFER

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have immediate assistance.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? These cases may be easily traced to some feminine derangement which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, dragging sensations, flatulency, nervousness, and sleeplessness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded, a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result. The best remedy for all these symptoms is made from native roots and herbs. No other medicine in the country has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female ills.

Miss J. F. Walsh, of 328 W. 36th St., New York City, writes:—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been of inestimable value in restoring my health. I suffered from female illness which caused dreadful headaches, dizziness, and dull pains in my back, but your medicine soon brought about a change in my general condition, built me up and made me perfectly well."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints, such as Backache, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and organic diseases. It is invaluable in preparing for child-birth and during the Change of Life. It cures Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, and invigorates the whole system.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

Everyone to their own way of thinking of course, but these covers and aprons will last about two weeks, they are then thrown away, and the money spent on them was sent out of town in the first place. The same amount of money spent in advertising in the local papers would have remained here. It would have encouraged the editors to send out sample copies around the country which would have helped bring people here, who would have built houses and this lumber company would have sold these new covers a share of building material, thereby deriving a direct benefit, which will not be the case with the blanket advertising. Try the other way next time brothers.
