NEW MEXICO CLASSED AS A DAIRYING STATE

An Interesting Article Contributed by Mr. Werner, a Representative of Wichita Creamery Co.

SHOWING VALUE OF DAIRYING INDUSTRY TO FARMERS

A Factory Here Would Mean Greatest Step to Progress for Portales Valley and Surroundings

By request of Capt. Molinari of Portales and for the benefit of the farmers in whom the merchants are all deeply interested, I shall try to enlighten the farmers on one branch of work which allies itself very closely to the farm. Not only does it bring a cash market upon each delivery, but it puts something back into the soil.

This branch of work is dairying not as a side line, nor in a haphazard way, but in the full sense of the word dairying and all that it implies.

The writer has observed very closely the conditions which surround the farmers of this community in both the shallow water belt and the deep water belt and from Amarillo Texas, to Carlsbad New Mexico, having spent two days in and around Roswell which has the greatest agricultural developments in the Pecos valley and yet the farmers there are not as a whole successful because the crops mostly raised are raised for the world's market with a big gamble or chance taken wholly by the farmer. I refer especially to the fruit crop in this particular locality, yet there are some farmers in and around Roswell who are dairying rather extensively on that high priced land and doing very well at it. Now the land in and around Portales I believe is not as high priced as the point above mentioned but the community in and around Portales can be made as wealthy through dairying.

While in dairying you can utilize your entire 14 section which nearly every farmer owns or controls by lease.

Because you can raise such crops as kafir corn, milo maize, cow peas and spanish peanuts, thus you have a number of drouth sustaining crops with which you can diversify your farming, as each of the above named crops are a boon to both the hog and chickens as well, dairying would be like robbing Paul to pay Peter, for the skimmed milk must be utilized in raising the calf and the surplus after the calf should by all means be fed to the hog, which does remarkably well, as I have noticed, running at will over the pastures.

Kafir corn, milo maize and cow peas make a very desirable ensilage especially the kafir and maize for when matured and properly handled into a silo whether the silo be a hole in the ground well cemented, or a first class wood, steel or concrete, it will make the best balanced ensilage known to date. The spanish peanuts should yield abundantly in this sandy loam soil and is a grand food for hogs. You can always finish your hog for market on kafir and maize. A word for the despised skim milk calf which the stocker steered away from until the last few years, and that is this; never allow the calf to suckle the cow as it not only makes the calf harder to wean but it spoils the cow for dairying. Feed the milk as soon as possible after each separation while it still contains the animal heat to the calf adding a little oil cake with each feed.

The oil cake puts back into the milk the fattening qualities, which you by separating the cream from the milk have taken away. Oil cake is worth about $30.00 per ton while butter fat in the cream is worth at the present price, which is below the average paid for the year, about $460.00. Note particular comparison. It is true the calf must be fed but not long until it is out roving the pastures and doing fine and if fed this oil cake you will be proud of this calf.

Having dwelt at length upon the land available, the crops, hog and calf and having mentioned the silo and ensilage, I will briefly say, knowing the general financial condition of the farmer in this community, that the deep water man has one advantage over the shallow water man and that is this; you can dig a hole 30 feet deep and 10 feet in diameter; plaster this with a good 2 inch cement and sand mixture and have an under ground silo at very little expense. Five or six farmers can join in and buy a cutter jointly at a very nominal cost to each, then help each other fill the silo. Ensilage can be used and fed to sheep, cattle, hogs and horses and is not solely for the milch cow.

Taking the average cow in this locality as a whole I find very few good dairy cows and yet a number of farmers are getting nice cash receipts each week with this ordinary cow.

Knowing what I do of the cow and her goodness, and were I you Mr. Farmer, I would make individual tests of each cow's milk and butter fat production and weed out the boarders and breed only those cows which I found to be productive, to a dairy sire and start building up my herd.

This is the cheapest as well as one of the most profitable ways known to get into the dairy business on good paying basis. Remember there is no dual purpose cow; this you will readily learn when you make your individual test of the cows, as a beef cow is no dairy cow, no more than a mule is a horse, yet the mule answers every purpose of the horse no matter where you hitch him but still he is not a horse.

The care of milk or cream on the farm is of great importance. Cleanliness in milking and separating, and the thorough cooling of the milk or cream immediately after milking or separating the cream are very es-

Darnell-Dameron

Mr. John Rob Darnell and Mrs. Cora Dameron were united in marriage at the home of the bride at Nobe on Monday morning, August the eleventh, L. E. Forbes J.P. of Nobe officiating.

Mrs. Dameron has lived at Nobe and Elida for the past five years, having come to this country from Oklahoma. She is an accomplished lady and has many friends who wish for her a happy married life. The groom is perhaps one of the best known of the citizens of Roosevelt county having been one of our earliest settlers. He came to Elida when there was only one house, and that only in process of construction. While at Elida he was engaged in various occupations, principally however in the newspaper business, he having been one of the founders of the Elida News. For some three years he was United States Commissioner at that place. Some two and one-half years ago Mr. Darnell purchased a half interest in the Herald, later acquiring the entire ownership, and again parting with a half interest. He is now a citizen of Portales and the business manager of the Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Darnell will be at home to their friends after the twentieth. They will reside on the five acre tract in the eastern part of town which Mr. Darnell purchased some time ago. The editor wishes them much happiness.

With the air full of dust, dirt and germs the milk or cream should be put away with the animal heat therein.

Most everyone on the farm especially in and around Portales have a windmill and can build a milk trough allowing the water to pass through this trough before going to the stock. This is inexpensive and keeps a very uniform temperature of about 60 F to 65 F degrees. Do not cover the milk or cream up tight but put a double thickness of cheese cloth over it, allowing circulation of air at all times. When covered tightly the gases that form quickly develops obnoxious flavors which are seldom ever removed in the manufacture of butter thus lowering the quality of the butter which in turn governs the price paid the farmer for the butter fat in the cream.

The writer has great faith in New Mexico as a dairy state, for the cream I have inspected, and shipped, while here has gone far past my expectations both in quality and flavor. This I attribute mostly to the climatic conditions and the food consumed by the cows which I know are still roaming the pastures and with the proper care of the cream on the part of the farmer New Mexico should equal Iowa, Wisconsin or Michigan as a dairy state.

Trusting this article is good food for thought and that your thoughts of this article which I have written enlighten you, if not talk with your merchants who are representing the company which I represent or write Wichita Creamery company of Wichita, Kansas, any question you desire and we will at all times gladly assist you in the dairy business.

A Jolly Party

Saturday evening after the cares of the week had been effectually disposed of a merry party of the older young people proceeded, by wagons, automobiles or any other old way to get there, to a beautiful spot some three miles west of Portales for a short outing. Ed Mundy was chauffeur and used as his steering wheel a pair of lines. Some thought that he was an experienced driver while some of the ladies in the crowd, who were riding in the wagon, had an inkling that he was either very reckless or else that he was an expert hand at finding the rough places in the road. However, the ladies managed to keep from falling out, but not so with Judge Nixon, who either became over balanced or else was shoved at the psychological moment by D. Hardy—at any rate the wagon had to stop. It isn't fair to tell too much, neither would it be right to speak too highly of the ability of the camp cooks, suffice to say that shortly after the camp fire had been built there was an abundance of delicious eatables ready, all of which had been prepared by the ladies—assisted or retarded, as the case may be, by the advice of the gentlemen present, and of this advise there was no end. After luncheon had been served cards were indulged in until about midnight when the merry party returned to their respective homes.

Those composing this party were Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Coe Howard, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mundy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Connally and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hall.

Interesting Recital

The recital given last Saturday night at Floyd by Mrs. Dorothy Hatcher's class in elocution was well attended and greatly enjoyed by those present. The school house was nicely decorated in green, red and white. Those belonging to the class were Myrtle Walker, Dolly Jones Ora Pearl Nash, Lizzie and Eula Price, Hazel Nichols, Foy Jones, Willie and Hollie Price. All show marked improvement since the last recital and several display unusual talent. Recitations were given by most of the class and a number of interesting sketches and dialogues were also given. Mrs. Hatcher has not confined her attention to elocution alone, but has also given the children some training in singing. Several choruses well given by the class.

Special mention should be made of the panomime, "There Little Girl Don't Cry," given by Ora Pearl Nash, Lizzie and Eula Price and Dolly Jones. "Lady Teazel and Sir Peter," given by Fern and Dwayne Foster. As Lady Teazel and Sir Peter, Fern and Dwayne were splendid and they deserve special praise.

Mrs. Hatcher, herself, added to the success of the program by giving a beautiful vocal solo. By request, Miss Mary Steddom swung Indian clubs to music, something that is a little out of the ordinary and therefore quite interesting to our people.

Mrs. Chas. Greathouse was organist for the evening. Throughout the entire program, Mrs. Hatcher's ability as a teacher was shown and parents and children alike appreciate the efforts in their behalf.—Contributed.

THE CANTALOUPE OF THE PORTALES VALLEY

The First Car Lot Shipment of the Season Was Made on Last Saturday—Many Express Shipments

THIS FAMOUS MELON IS NOW BRINGING THE TOP PRICES

The Portales Valley a Most Productive Cantaloupe Soil and an Ideal Climate for Truck Farming

In the Portales Valley there are today about 250 acres of bearing cantaloupes, producing the most delicious melon that can be found on the eastern market at any time. This is one of the greatest industries in our county. We have in Portales two associations of the cantaloupe growers, each of which has contracted its entire output to responsible commission men and distributors at Kansas City and Chicago. These commission men have their representatives on the ground to supervise the packing and shipping which insures that everything is done systematically and to the best advantage, and a liberal advance is made upon every crate at the time it is inspected and accepted.

Last Saturday the first car of the season was shipped to Chicago by the Portales Produce and Cantaloupe Association, and since which time there have been daily car lot shipments from this place, and from now on during the entire season there will be from one to three cars shipped each day. Cantaloupes from these shipments are now bringing the highest market of the season—they reach the market at the very time when the people are crying for melons, because at this time all the cantaloupes that can be had are from New Mexico. Hundreds of crates of melons are shipped from Portales to points in Colorado and other states and these express shipments are daily.

This is the second year that we have been in the cantaloupe business. Last year was indeed a successful one notwithstanding that the farmers were all inexperienced in this line of work. This year will be the most successful because of the experience gained last year. It is seldom that so great an industrial proposition can be developed in any country within such a short time as has been spent in developing our cantaloupe business. However, this is largely due to the fact that the eastern markets at this time of year can hardly be supplied at all, which insures the very best prices, and that our soil and climate are eminently adapted to the growing of this melon. Were it not for these facts such eminent success could not have been achieved in so short a time. The Gem and Yucca brand of cantaloupes are becoming famous, and are incidentally advertising the Portales Valley abroad.

The Public School

The public school is the nation's safeguard and society's only means of reform, the place where characters are built and real men and women grow, for if the spirit is not vitalized for nobler, greater things in the youthful days, in very few cases will it be.

The public school is the greatest unifying force in our social fabric, for it brings together all classes on the same footing, giving the poor man's boy equal opportunities with the millionaire's son. All have one common interest and work under the same conditions. In society we find social and class distinctions; in business and politics, the clans and cliques; in private schools and colleges, pets and favorites. Not so with the public school—all classes work together there.

How few mothers and fathers realize the great value of the public school, and the importance of giving their support to the teachers in matters of school work and discipline. We must all work together in the great fight for right and the making of men and women of the boys and girls. Let's remember that a handful of good life is worth a bushel of learning—not that we would depreciate learning but intellectual development without heart culture is dangerous.

Mother, father, let us work together to create within the hearts of our boys and girls ambitions for the responsibilities of citizenship; for finer, sweeter sympathies of life; and a spirit of deepest reverence for the right; to touch their youthful lives with a love that shall go with them through pleasant pathways unto the fairest fields of life and conduct; to put to growing in the hearts of these young people flowers of fragrance and grace and glory that they may blossom therein to gladden and sweeten the world and bless us for our efforts.—Very cordially, J. S. Long.

Another Fire

Tuesday morning about three o'clock the slumbering citizens of our town were awakened by the fire alarm to learn that the frame building on the north side of the square, just between Ed J. Neer's furniture establishment and Frank Warnica's saloon, was enveloped in flames. The building together with all contents was soon totally destroyed. The heroic work of the volunteer fire department is all that saved the Warnica and the Neer buildings, both of which are brick. The city plant produced a splendid pressure and two streams of water were playing upon the flames in the endeavor to confine them to the frame building, but despite this the fronts of these buildings were badly damaged.

The devastated building was owned by Mr. J. J. Wilsford, of Nachadoches, Texas, and was occupied by the City Market, the Saylor restaurant and Fred Crosby's barber shop, the front being seventy five feet. The loss of Mr. Saylor was approximately $500, with insurance in the sum of $100, while that of Mr. Crosby was about $600 and his insurance being only for $200. The City Market had insurance in the sum of $900, with a loss of considerably more than this amount. The fire is supposed to have originated in the market, perhaps from the careless handling of matches. The building was probably insured though we do not know in what amount but the loss on this will amount to something like $1500. It is not yet known whether or not Mr. Wilsford will rebuild.

The Herald would especially call the attention of its readers to the excellent article on the cream business which appears in this issue. It is written by one who really knows what he is talking about. There will be other articles to follow this which will be equally as interesting.

Our exchange table is brightened this week by the appearance of the Santa Fe Trail Magazine, a beautifully illustrated monthly magazine published at Santa Fe. This magazine is largely devoted to New Mexico and should receive a liberal patronage. It furnishes excellent reading matter to those interested in historic New Mexico, of which no citizen can become conversant, and also supplies the demands of those interested in first class fiction. The Herald welcomes the Santa Fe Trail Magazine and we hope that the patronage will be so liberal that it will easily become the permanent fixture for which it is intended.

The majority in the New York legislative assembly claim that they now have a sufficient force to put through the resolution of impeachment against Governor William Sulzer. The charge is that he used campaign contributions and gambled with them on the stock exchange for his own private gain. Mrs. Sulzer, wife of the governor, comes out in a statement to the press that she did the gambling on the stock exchange, and that the governor had no knowledge that such contribution had been received, and that she did this while her husband was engaged in the campaign for the high office which he now occupies. If this be true Governor Sulzer can well feel that he has been delivered into the hands of his enemies by the hand of woman. The minority claims, and seemingly with some foundation, that the Governor's undoing is sought by political pirates to whose will he had refused to become subservient.

There is an amusing touch to the Washington situation in the way President Wilson keeps in control of the situation.

It has been his profession for years to be boss and probably he would not feel at home in any other position, but be that as it may, he certainly has the Washington contingent under his control and the boys do not seem to think of such a thing as disobeying teacher.

When Mr. Wilson says, "Whoa," there is no hesitation, the boys just whoa, and when he says "Back Up" they back up.

There has not been anything quite like it in a good many years, if ever. Even the spirited and determined Roosevelt never had as easy driving as Wilson has.

The Tariff is Wilson's bill though it is to go out under the name of Underwood. The President shaped it to his own liking and forced the senate to take it as he handed it to them.

The same is true of the currency bill. The chairman of the committee of the house and the senate are in consultation with the higher power constantly and he is actually dictating the measure.

The same is the case in the Mexican matter. The president decides.

This is not objectionable, as every party has its leader and there are a good many people in this country who feel more safe with Wilson leading than they would with any others who might be named.

A president is less likely to be influenced by the thought of an elector two years hence which is the bugbear of a good many politicians—New Mexican.

The complaint against the laxity of our criminal law finds another example in a case in New York. The Brooklyn Eagle says that all that the advocates of reform have claimed was proved by this case. A professional pickpocket was on trial. The court did not allow the prosecuting attorney to bring out in the evidence before the jury anything about the previous convictions of the prisoner for the same offense. The jury was out an hour and brought in a verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation for mercy, provided that the prisoner had not been convicted before. Then the Judge told the jury that the man had been convicted seven times before of the same offense. "Why didn't you tell us that?" exclaimed the foreman. "It would have saved us an hour of wrangling," Judge Swann replied. "It is the law. I share your opinion that there is no sense in it, and so do the most learned commentators on British law, who say: 'The laws of evidence are framed to keep the facts from the jury.' When shall we begin to reform this most lawless condition of the law?" As the Eagle says criminal laws were originally framed to prevent the abuse of power by the courts. Jeffers and his fellows showed how king made Judges could abuse the powers of the court and serve their royal masters. And many of our laws are made to prevent the exercise of influence over the courts. But the reason for this disappeared with us many years ago. The laws remain, and criminal lawyers take advantage of them to shield professional criminals and raid the safety and protection of society in their behalf. We fail to reflect that, instead of courts made by Kings, our courts are made by the people, and in most cases directly by popular vote, the result of which is to weaken the independence of the Judge to begin with. We have, furthermore, brought him within the operation of "practical politics" and assess him for campaign expenses. Thus hampered in advance, we still lay on him the old laws which were meant for Judges chosen by the Kings. Thus we work ourselves a double injury and go on setting criminals free after trials which our own good lawyers pronounce a farce.—Indianapolis News.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

CROSSING THE RED SEA
Exodus 14:19-31—Aug. 17.
"Before they call, I will answer."—Isaiah 65:24.

THE Bible story of Israel's miraculous crossing of the Red Sea has long been questioned by agnostics, who also questioned the large number ascribed to Israel—800,000 men, implying a total of 2,000,000 or more. However, the Bible finally is triumphing. Mistranslations and failures properly to interpret figures of speech were the basis of our misunderstandings.

Professor Flinders Petrie calls attention to the fact that the Hebrew word alaf is used in the Scriptures sometimes to mean a thousand and at other times to signify group, families, or tents, very much as we use the word regiment to signify a group of a thousand men, yet often far less in number, especially after a battle.

Thus understood, the record, "Judah 74,600," would read, Judah, seventy-four families, or tents, with six hundred men in all; "so they set forward, every one after their families, according to the house of their fathers."—Numbers 2:34.

Thus reckoned, the entire host of Israel might be estimated at about 30,000. Even this was a goodly host to be the descendants of Jacob in but little more than two centuries. That the Israelites were very prolific was evidenced by the Egyptian decree which sought to destroy their children, fearful that eventually they would outnumber the Egyptians.

Necessity of the Miracles.
A miracle is not necessarily a violation of a law of Nature. An unusual occurrence, indicating an interposition of Divine Power in human affairs, would be a miracle, even though it conformed to natural laws. God rarely works miracles except in necessity.

Three roads led out of Egypt in the direction of Palestine; but as a military wall extended from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea to protect against invading armies, these roads had access into Egypt only through strong iron gates.

One of these roads led through the country of the Philistines, to pass through which so large a body of people would have been prohibited. The second road led through a sandy desert, furnishing neither provender nor water. The third road was the one which the Israelites took, leading through the wild mountain regions of Sinai, where they found pasture.

Several days elapsed before the Israelites reached the Red Sea. Meantime, Pharaoh perceived that the Israelites had wandered about as though undecided which road to take, and concluded that it would be easy to bring them back. The gates of the wall were closed, and several hundred chariots and footmen sent to pursue.

Meantime, the Israelites had passed through two mountain ranges, up against the northern arm of the Red Sea the Gulf of Suez. Apparently they had gone into a pen, from which there was no escape. Divine providence arranged that a heavy pillar of cloud, or fog, hovered over the Egyptian camp, while there was a bright light in the Israelites' camp. Thus the Egyptians were delayed, and the Israelites moved on until they came to the Sea and beheld that they were hemmed in. Then they cried to the Lord and to Moses, requesting to be permitted to return to Egyptian bondage.

But the word of the Lord through Moses was that soon they would see Jehovah God bring deliverance. Meantime, the north wind began to blow, and gradually the waters receded southward, uncovering a ledge and sand bar, upon which the Israelites crossed to the other side. The befogged Egyptians followed, possibly not realizing that they were on land usually covered by water.

As they progressed into the moist sand, the Egyptian chariot wheels became clogged, their horses went more slowly, then balked, wheels broke, etc., until the Egyptians concluded that, in the figurative language of that time, God had looked upon them with an evil eye out of the cloudy pillar. Possibly there was some manifestation, such as a lightning flash. Meantime, the wind had changed to the south. Before the Egyptians could extricate themselves the water was upon them, and they soon were overwhelmed.

There is nothing in this account to stagger faith. United States Government Reports show that the waters of Lake Erie have varied as much as fifteen feet at Toledo, by reason of change of wind, and without any special hurricane. What has staggered our faith in the past was the statement that the Sea constituted a wall on either side of the Israelites. But the word wall in its broadest sense signifies barricade. The United States has the Atlantic as a protective wall on one side and the Pacific on the other.

If the Bible is interpreted with a little common sense, it is entirely reasonable, rich in knowledge and wisdom from an High.

Have Your Laws Made Plain

The New Mexico laws are of practically no use unless they are completely annotated. There has been no revision or compilation of our laws since 1897 and positively will not be until 1917. The undersigned has heretofore prepared a full and complete list of all the amendments, modifications and repeals of the laws of New Mexico, commencing with the Compiled Laws of 1897, through and including the Session Laws of 1899, 1901, 1903, 1905, 1907 and 1909, and has now just completed a full and complete list of all amendments, modifications and repeals of the Session Laws of 1912 and 1913. The entire work consists of over two thousand annotations and includes all available references to the New Mexico Reports, the Pacific reporter and the United States Supreme Court reports. A great deal of time and labor has been spent on these annotations and no attorney or other person having occasion to use our laws, can afford to be without a set.

This work is printed on white gummed paper, in red ink, conveniently arranged for use.

PRICE:
Set commencing with Compiled Laws of New Mexico of 1897 down to and including laws of 1909, $5.00.

Additional annotations for laws of 1912 and 1913, $2.50.
Complete set, $7.50.

Destroyed by Fire

The lightning got mighty close to some of us Sunday night during the rain storm—at least that is the way it would appear to one suffering from a slight nervous indisposition. A very loud clap of thunder accompanied by severe lightning was evidently the cause of the fire which completely destroyed the two-room house in the north part of town recently vacated by Mr. George Rowells. Everyone noticed the lightning and it was but a few moments until the fire alarm was given, and quite a number of our citizens took a run of several blocks, not knowing the house was unoccupied, through the rain, mud and water, fearing that perhaps the occupants of the house had been struck. The house was completely destroyed, but since the house had been vacated there were no contents for the fire to destroy. So far as is learned there was no insurance whatever.

Jim Burton came up from Elida Friday on business.

Mrs Culberson Honored

Tuesday morning at the Institute Mrs. Culberson, Roosevelt County's popular and efficient school superintendent, and who is one of the most indefatigable workers for the cause of education that can be found anywhere, was very pleasantly surprised. The surprise was occasioned by the unexpected presentation of a beautiful silver mesh ladies purse presented by Superintendent Mersfelder of Curry county on behalf of the institute, in a few well-chosen and apt remarks Mrs. Culberson, although greatly surprised as she had not received the least intimation that she was going to be so honored, responded with her usual gentleness and appreciative manner.

To School Patrons

The Board of Education requests that all parties who intend to move to town for school purposes register with the board before September first, giving the number and ages of the children whom you expect to attend the school. This is absolutely necessary in order that proper arrangements for accommodations may be made, so please do not neglect this important matter.

The rain of Sunday night brightened things up some and will do a considerable amount of good to some suffering crops. However, rain just at this time does not exactly make the heart of the cantaloupe farmer glad since wet melons cannot be successfully shipped. This rain however was not sufficient to retard the work.

The sheep will be fed near Kansas City before they are thrown on the market.
