TWELVE THINGS TO DO

There are certain duties which all of us intend to do sometimes, but too often keep putting off; and it often happens that a man lives out his life intending to do these things and yet "just never gets to them."

Below we print a list of twelve such jobs, and we should like for each reader to check over the list, and see how many he has already accomplished, and then fix a definite date for getting to work on the others. For the writer in his own experience has found—and we suspect others have also—that the only job that gets done is the job you have fixed a definite time for doing—never the one you just "intend to do sometime."

Let's look over this list, therefore, check the items that have already had attention, and hold a family council to decide on the definite dates for doing the others.

1. Let's get a will made—and remember the community when making it.

2. Let's take out some life insurance so that the wife and children may be protected in case the breadwinner of the family should die—considering also whether it may not be well to have the insurance money paid at least in part, in monthly installments.

3. If not now taking out life insurance, let's have a physical examination now and once a year hereafter—so that any disease may be detected and cured in the outset rather than allowed to run on until it is too late.

4. Let's take the short course at the agricultural college—something no farmer is too old to do.

5. Let's have a dentist put the teeth of the whole family in order and have a competent physician examine each child for eye, ear, nose and throat defects—because a great measure of rural ill health is due to neglect of these points.

6. Let's start a bank account—because it means safety, thrift, and a new sense of dignity.

7. Let's take out some fire insurance—because the average farmer is not able to rebuild a burned home without financially cramping himself for years, and insurance is just and equitable cooperation, while getting subscriptions from neighbors is not.

8. Let's provide enough rain-coats, overshoes, cloaks, and boots or leggings for every member of the family—because they cost less than doctor bills and coffins.

9. Get some purebred poultry now and resolve that every animal born on the farm henceforth shall have a purebred sire—because this increases pride and profit.

10. Build a good implement shed and provide sanitary and convenient privies—because absence of these advertises the farmer as careless of cash, health and civilization.

11. Let's make friends with any neighbors with whom we have been at outs—submitting to arbitration rather than a law suit any matters about which we cannot agree.—The Progressive Farmer.

12. See that your subscription to a good county paper is paid in advance, selecting one that best covers the field of county affairs.

BOY SCOUTS

SCOUTS HELP POLICE CITY

When the patrolmen of Cincinnati went on strike, the city was left in a very serious situation.

The city officials called upon a number of civic organizations for assistance, including the Boy Scouts of America. The following editorial from a local paper indicates how well they did their work and how much it was appreciated:

"Saturday morning boy scouts were on duty as traffic officers at street intersections in downtown Cincinnati. The boys went at the work with the energy and enthusiasm which were to be expected of them. As these lines are written, one of the youngsters is bossing the traffic at the corner of Sixth and Walnut in a way that brings smiles of approval and encouragement from passers-by.

"Regulation of traffic is a necessity in Cincinnati. Law-abiding people will obey the orders of the boy scouts on traffic duty and try to help them in their work. If there are any small enough in mind to impose upon the boys, it is more than probable that they will find the undertaking both unsuccessful and costly."

SCOUTS GROWING RAPIDLY.

In spite of the fact that the scoutmasters and other scout officials a large percentage volunteered for active service immediately following the declaration of the war, and another large percentage was called to the colors by the first draft law, the records show that today the Boy Scouts of America has 43 per cent more scout officials than it had on the day war was declared and 66 per cent more scouts than it had on the day war was declared.

For every man who will go, each community will have at least five or more men who have the same qualities of leadership for carrying on the work. It is not necessary for them to know scouting from the technical point of view in order to efficiently serve as scoutmasters. They can secure experience by following the same course as their predecessors. The war has proven not only in England, but here in America, that between 50 and 60 there are scoutmasters even better than younger men.

Today there are 440,890 men and boys as compared with 272,031 on April 6, 1917. What will the records be in one year? There will be at least 714,000 men and boys if this percentage of increase is maintained.

THE READY BOY SCOUT.

A hall to the lad who always does his bit! When there is work, he hustles into it with the zest of a batter who is swinging for a hit—The ready and the steady and the heady Boy Scout.

He's often small, and he's never very big; He's always square, and he cannot be a prude; And when there is digging you ought to see him dig—The ready and the steady and the heady Boy Scout.

The woodland lore is a bit of what he knows; He loves the flag and follows where it goes; He's a man in the making, the very best that grows—The ready and the steady and the heady Boy Scout. —John Clair Minot in Youth's Companion.

BOY SCOUTS RUN A CITY.

On a Saturday the mayor, the city officials and all members of the Sioux City commission turned over the city government to eight boy scouts for one-half hour.

The boy scouts held a regular session of council and discussed an ordinance for creating a city planning commission for Sioux City. At the end of the half-hour session the boys passed the ordinance creating such a commission, and then surrendered the reins of government to the city commissioners.

SCOUTS RUN FIRE ALARM.

The scouts of Roselle Park, N. J., have been placed in charge of the entire electric fire alarm system of the borough, including bells, house alarms, gangs, wire, alarm boxes, storage batteries and other equipment.

The appointment carries a salary of $50 per annum which will be added to the troop treasury. For two years the troop has had the care of 42 fire hydrants and three flags.

Troop No. 1 of Mullan, Idaho, built a tourist camp at Pottsville, four miles east of Mullan on the famous Yellowstone trail. Food for the workers was donated by the Shoshone County Good Roads association and the equipment by the United States government.

Troop No. 1 of Kellogg built another tourist camp four miles west of Kellogg on the trail. They cut out the underbrush and dead trees, leveled the ground, built tables and seats, made a bridge and fixed the spring.

EL PASO WOMAN'S FRIENDS SURPRISED

Mrs. Johnson Declares That Her Rapid Recovery Astonishes Everyone—Had Suffered for Eight Years.

"My recovery and improvement since I started taking Tanlac has astonished all my friends," said Mrs. P. A. Johnson, 202 East Third Street, El Paso, Texas.

"I had suffered terribly for eight years with rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness," she continued, "My whole body ached so badly that it was torture to me to get about the house and even then I had to walk with crutches. My stomach was in such a condition that I had to live on a liquid diet and even that would sour and form gas that swelled up around my heart until I could hardly breathe at times. My head ached all the time and my nerves were so torn up that I could hardly ever get more than two hours sleep any one night.

"One of my friends who had taken Tanlac got me to try it, and I was just getting up from an operation that seemed to do me no good, so I started on Tanlac. My rheumatism has all gone now I can eat just anything I want and my nerves are as steady as a clock. I am now feeling better than I have before in eight years and have gained sixteen pounds besides and everyone is talking about my wonderful recovery."

Word has been received here of the death of J. A. Scott on December 1, 1918, in the Hillsboro County hospital at Tampa, Florida. Mr. Scott, affectionately known here as "Daddy Scott," resided on his ranch south of town for a number of years.

W. B. Jones and family moved back home yesterday. They went to Portales last fall with the intention of staying until spring but couldn't stay away any longer. We, like their many friends, are glad to see them home again.

There will be a Valentine party given at the home of Mrs. Minnie Kimmons next Friday night, Feb. 14. Everybody invited.

Word was received from John A. Stobb, Monday, that he is in Charleston, S. C., and expects to be home soon. John left France January 2 and arrived in Charleston January 27.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Eastwood have moved from the E. L. McBride ranch to the W. W. Bracken place at the Valley View store.

Woman Walks 2 1/4 Miles

While Getting Supper

A woman who prepared supper for six persons, as a part of her work in home economics at the University of Kansas, walked two miles in preparing and serving the meal and then walked a quarter of a mile in clearing up the table, washing dishes and tidying up the kitchen. She wore a speedometer and the distance covered was accurately measured. It is considered fairly representative of the distance the average housewife walks in a like task. The meal was by no means elaborate as the student was limited to ninety cents total cost for the entire meal for six persons. She got under the limit with a total cost of 14 cents and 8 mills for each of the six persons. The quantity was satisfying and this is what they ate:

- Potatoes on half shell.
- Cheese Souffle.
- Hot biscuits.
- Head lettuce and French dressing.
- Baked apples.

Forty Five Years of Success The astonishing Record of PERUNA

Not a cure-all, but a rational remedy for catarrh and all inflammation and congestion of the mucous membranes.

Catarrh attacks the mucous linings, in any organ, in any part of the body. It is not, as some imagine, confined to the nose and throat, although nasal catarrh is the most common form and afflicts many people.

Unchecked catarrh soon breaks down the tissue and destroys the organs or part. Evidence of the ravages of catarrh are all around us. Without desire to frighten anyone, we say: "Guard yourself against catarrh as you would against the direst plague. Fortify your system. Take Peruna."

INSPIRING WORDS FOR THE SICK FROM THOSE WHO KNOW.

A Good Medicine in the Family. I had a bad case of LaGrippe and could get no relief. Peruna cured me. It is a fine medicine. We often use it in the family and find it good.

East Lake Station, Birmingham, Alabama. MRS. GENTRY GATES, 3225 First Avenue.

FEELS LIKE A DIFFERENT PERSON. Peruna has cured my stomach and I feel like a different person. I only took twelve bottles of Peruna and can eat anything without distress, something I have not done for fifteen years. I recommend Peruna to everybody suffering with catarrh of the stomach.

1079 16th St. Columbus, Georgia. J. J. THOMPSON.

FOR ALL FORMS OF CATARRH.

Peruna is indicated for all forms of catarrh or catarrhal inflammation and congestion of the mucous linings in any part or organ, such as nose, throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, etc. It is fine for coughs, colds and effects of the grip and an excellent preventive remedy.

If you want health, insist upon having Dr. Hartman's World Famous Peruna Tonic.

Mounted Police
 (From the Albuquerque Herald.)
 The mounted police system in New Mexico has been proposed in Senate bill No. 39, introduced by Senator H. L. Kerr, Democrat, of Grant, Luna, Sierra and Socorro counties. The bill is the first step in a war that is almost certain to be waged on the mounted police during the present session of the legislature.
 The system was called into being by the need of an organization which would assist cattlemen in protecting their herds from thieves. It was abolished in 1912 when the legislature failed to make an appropriation for its support. At that time, it was charged that the policemen had been mixing too freely in party politics.
 Owing to the depredations of cattle thieves, the need was deeply felt for such an organization in the years following, and in 1918 it was revived. The cattle sanitary board, the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers association and the state council of defense each contributed $15,000 to finance the work since there was no legislative appropriation available. Some cattlemen believe there is an injustice in continuing this plan since they would be paying their own funds for general police protection, which the state should afford.
 The result of the Kerr bill is problematical. It will be supported by some stockmen who feel that the work could be handled in a more efficient manner through mounted inspectors appointed by the cattle sanitary board. It will be backed by certain democratic assemblymen who do not wish to see the mounted police organization named by a republican governor. There is also opposition to the mounted police from some sheriffs and peace officers, who feel that the body reduces their work and fees. The mounted police, however, will be vigorously defended by many who view the increased activity of cattle thieves with alarm and desire this form of protection. It is not improbable that both the mounted police and mounted inspectors of the cattle board may be continued. Well informed stockmen say both organizations would be kept busy by the recent epidemic of stock stealing which has developed in several sections of the range country.

"AFTER THE WAR" LETTER

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Duke of Rogers some time ago, from their son Private Ben Duke, written at La Baurhaule, France, November 26, 1918, and gives more information than letters sent before the armistice was signed:

Dear Father and Mother:
 I will write again; am leaving here tonight to return to the company. Whether I will find them on the German border I know not, but there is a rumor out that we will meet them on the coast at Bordeaux, ready to sail homeward bound.

I have certainly had a nice time here spending my furlough; the French railroad gave us free transportation and our board and rooms here are free in the finest and best hotels in La Baurhaule. Mineral water flows from the mountains. I have more liberty to write things now than I ever had before. Will begin by telling about crossing the Atlantic in a big Liverpool ship; two days before arriving at Liverpool, England, several battleships and submarine destroyers came to meet us and protect us through the danger zone. Stayed one week in Liverpool; from there to Southampton where we crossed the English Channel to La Havre, France, staying there a few days traveled three days on a train up near the fighting line, where we finished training.

In August we moved in auto trucks to the Toule sector in a town named Mandres; that was supposed to be a quiet and peaceful sector at that time, but after we spent a short time preparing it was no longer quiet. While our company was waiting for their term to go up to the trenches the first time they were bringing the dead to Mandres for burial from the place we were going; among them was one from Jenkins that I left there with.

I went in the trenches in the night, Friday, August the 16th, and spent several days there. My first time over the top was September 12 on the St. Mebcill drive; on the night of the 11th we put over a barrage; our machine guns were peppering away and the whole country was light from our artillery fire and skyrockets and flares. The Huns sent shells back at us. At day-break the infantry and all machine guns climbed out of the trenches and started over. Our artillery shells were buzzing over our heads all day. It happened that our artillery brought down one of our planes, accidentally, and it fell a few steps from me. We captured prisoners all day and I saw lots of dead ones.

The Huns were hard to find in the woods and some would put up a desperate fight, but when we got them overpowered they sure would hold their hands as high as they could and say "Kamerade!" We advanced two days and took several towns; among them one was "Benny." We was so overloaded with other equipment we left our blankets and coats behind, and never did get them. For two weeks had but very little sleep or rest, for we were holding the lines.

In October we moved in auto trucks to the Verdun front, about 200 miles. Every day for two weeks a few of us would slip over into No-Man's land and dig emplacements for our guns; and on Hallowe'en night we moved up to our emplacements and at 3 a. m. the next morning the fireworks began—one of the biggest and best drives in the war. At 8 a. m. November 1 we started over and from then to the finish we was in open warfare.

There were times I would feel awful uneasy and weary when others fell so near my side. On the night of November 10 in foggy and misty weather we crossed the Meuse river in a canoe; the Huns had destroyed all bridges and they wondered afterwards how we crossed. At day-light we advanced; captured prisoners every little ways, and on entering another town about 10 o'clock the enemy began firing bullets at us. Still foggy weather; they could not hit us directly, but was awful close. We fired back with pistol and machine guns until a few minutes before 11 when a runner brought an order to cease at 11 sharp and not shoot any more. We moved back a mile to some German trenches.

Really, we could not realize it was over. I was so worn out and so overjoyed—was a feeling I cannot describe with pen and ink. A few days before it ended, on the battlefield was searching for souvenirs and found a wounded German; had been there three days. On my approach to him he said, "Kamerade, vatter." He was starving for water; he was in a big shell hole and three dead Huns lay almost in reach of him.

I hope this finds both wells; hoping to see you soon,
 Your son,
BEN DUKE.

SCOUTS GUARD FLYING FIELD

Eight boy scouts of Dayton, O., are in war service for sure. Taking the place of men, they are employed as guards at McCook aviation field. They are a mighty proud lot, for they are being treated just like enlisted men.

The scouts spend the nights at Camp Pershing, and an army truck hauls them to the field. McCook is something more than a flying field. It is a laboratory of aviation where new appliances and devices for airplanes are tested. Practically everything within the high-board walls which surround the field must be closely guarded as a secret. Identification of every employee as he passes the gates is thorough.

A scout accompanies every other person, and sees to it that he goes straight to the place where his business carries him and that he leaves the field immediately after his task is finished. The scout is on a sharp lookout for cameras and reports any incident out of the ordinary routine.

The military commander of the post at McCook field reports as excellent the conduct and behavior of the scouts on duty there. The authorities have now asked for two patrols of boy scouts as messengers to be used at the field.

COOKING TESTS THE SCOUT.

The way to a man's heart is through his stomach. The path to an early grave lies along the same route. A scout who cannot cook can hardly claim to be a scout at all.

As the chief sea scout says: "One fairly good cook is worth more than four sick carpenters."

To many a boy the first experience in cooking comes through his preparation for the second-class cooking test. He may have roasted corn on a stick or steamed a few clams in a bucket or burned a few spuds in an open fire. But the scout cooking test, if properly emphasized, will help him to see that cooking is vitally related to human life and essential to human happiness and efficiency.

Even in so simple a meal as the quarter of a pound of meat and two potatoes of the scout test many mistakes may be made, and the scout should know how to avoid all of them.

Many a professional cook fails utterly when asked to prepare a meal in the open without the kitchen equipment to which he has become accustomed. The scout must be ready to meet all emergencies.

A GOOD SCOUT TROOP GONE.

It is not often that there is pleasure in the preparation of an obituary notice. In the case of one troop which has just become defunct there is, however, a peculiar satisfaction in noting its timely end. The story is contained in the following letter from Field Scout Executive Stephen M. Major of Chicago, Ill.:

"Troop No. 812 of Chicago will not be registered this year. Every one of the boys but one are in the service. This was a troop of older boys, and when they come back they will all be scoutmasters or assistant scoutmasters.

"The one who is not in the service is not quite old enough to get his parents' consent, but is going to technical school, so that the minute his birthday arrives he will be ready."

SCOUT REWARD 'THANK YOU.'

A typical story of the spirit of the boy scouts was told by a Memphis man.

One night when it stormed he was driving home in his car at high speed, and his hat blew off. The hat was rescued and handed to the man by a boy.

Hastily the hat owner dropped some coins in the boy's hand and started his car. He was stopped by the boy, who returned the money and said: "Thank you just the same, sir, but I'm a boy scout."

Why Swift & Company Handle Poultry, Eggs, Butter and Cheese

Swift & Company went into the produce business because they saw a crying need for the kind of service they were equipped to perform.

The produce business was in chaos. Collecting, transportation, preparation and distribution was hit or miss, with delay, deterioration and loss on every hand.

The farmer was at the mercy of an uncertain, localized market. He had no way of reaching through to the people who needed what he was raising for them.

The consumer had to accept produce that, as a rule, had no known responsible name behind it. He had no way of knowing how long the eggs or the butter he was buying had been lying around in miscellaneous lots in the back room of a country store.

Swift & Company's initiative brought system to this chaos. Their organization, equipment, and experience in handling perishable food products were already adjusted to the task.

Now the farmer has a daily cash market in touch with the nation's needs with better prices. Standardization makes better produce more profitable.

Nothing suffers from this save inefficiency, which has no claim upon public support.

CENTS AND SENSE

There is a difference between cents and sense. It is possible for a man to possess cents without sense but it is impossible for a man with sense not to possess cents. The sensible man is the one who saves, no matter how small his earnings may be.

Carolyn of the Corners - BY RUTH BELMORE ENDICOTT

"Is it? Well, no, they didn't tell me that," admitted the visitor, "or I'd not started so late. You see, I came up on a schooner. This here lake boatin' ain't in my line. I'm deep-water, I am."

"So I should s'pose," said Mr. Parlow. "How'd you git up here, anyway?" "The war," said the visitor. "The war done it. Couldn't git a good berth in any deep-water bottom. So I thought I'd try fresh-water sailin'."

"You'd better not encourage him to talk any more, father," interposed Miss Amanda, coming into the room again. "The best thing he can do for himself is to sleep for a while."

"Thank ye, ma'am," said the sailor humbly. "I'll try." Darkness came on apace. The sky had become overcast, and there was promise of a stormy night—more snow, perhaps. But Miss Amanda would not allow Carolyn May and Prince to start for home at once.

CHAPTER X. A Salt-Sea Flavor.

Swiftly Joseph Stagg trudged toward home, dragging Carolyn May behind him. "Oh, dear me!" exclaimed the little girl with exultation, "we're all so excited, Uncle Joe!"

Swiftly Joseph Stagg Trudged Towards Home, Dragging Carolyn May Behind Him.

to tell of her discovery in the snow and about the old sailor now lying asleep on the Parlow couch. Of course, when Carolyn May arrived at home, the story had to be told all over again to Aunt Rose Kennedy.

Save on the Sunday when Prince had killed the blacksnake, Miss Amanda had not spoken directly to the hardware merchant in all these hungry years. It rather shocked Joseph Stagg now that she should do so.

"And do tell me how my sailor man is, Miss Mandy. He got such a bump on his head!" "Yes; the man's wound is really serious. I'm keeping him in bed. But you can go up to see him. He's talked a lot about you, Carolyn May."

"You don't say so, little miss!" exclaimed the old fellow. "Aye, aye, that's too bad." Miss Amanda had disappeared, busy about some household matter, and the little girl and the sailor were alone together.

"Yes, little miss. And the poor passengers! Pursor had twenty or more in his boat. Women mostly. But there was a sick man, too. Why, I helped lower his wife and him into the boat 'fore I was called to go with the first officer in his boat. We was the last to cast off. The pursor had just as good a chance as we did."

"That was dreadful!" sighed the little girl. "Yes, little miss. And the poor passengers! Pursor had twenty or more in his boat. Women mostly. But there was a sick man, too. Why, I helped lower his wife and him into the boat 'fore I was called to go with the first officer in his boat. We was the last to cast off. The pursor had just as good a chance as we did."

"We Nigh Bumped Into Each Other After the Dunraven Sunk."

that Benjamin was on the steamer with them, I thought you should know. I have warned him to be careful how he speaks before Carolyn May. You may wish to hear the story at first hand."

"Thank you," choked Joseph Stagg. He wanted to say more, but could not. Benjamin Hardy's watery eyes blinked, and he blew his nose.

"Well, it's a long time ago, now," said the hardware dealer. "Surely, if they had been picked up or had reached the coast of Africa, we would have heard about it."

"You never know what may happen at sea, mister, till it happens," Benjamin Hardy declared. "What became of that boat?"

He seemed to stick to that idea. But the possibility of the small boat's having escaped seemed utterly preposterous to Mr. Stagg. He arose to depart. Miss Amanda followed the hardware dealer to the outer door.

At Camp Dodge one night a Swede was on guard duty. Being new to the business, time dragged slowly, but finally the officer with relief came along. The Swede said: "Halt. They halted, and next he said: 'Who was dat?' The officer replied: 'Officer with relief.' The sentry, after waiting several minutes in a vain attempt to recall to mind what he should say, brought forth this startling command: 'Dismiss yourselfs and be reconciled.'"

Acid-Stomach Ruins Health of Millions

Besides those painful attacks of indigestion; that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and, downright stomach misery that you who have experienced it know so well; besides disgusting belching, food-repeating, sour stomach and distressing heartburn—besides all this, ACID-STOMACH undermines the health and saps the strength of millions.

If you don't get rid of those stomach miseries there is no telling where your stomach troubles will end, for it is a well known scientific fact that many serious ailments have their start in an acid-stomach. Start now—this very day—to get rid of your stomach miseries. Take EATONIC—the wonderful remedy that absorbs the excess acid from the stomach and brings INSTANT relief. You simply have no idea how much better, stronger and brighter you feel at once. It drives out all the gas and bloating, puts an immediate stop to belching and heartburn, ends stomach suffering and makes it cool, sweet, comfortable and strong.

Do You Want to Know Both Sides?

Swift & Company's 1919 Year Book, just out, tells you

- What Swift & Company's profits were in 1918,
- The truth about the Federal Trade Commission's investigation,
- Why the prices of butter and eggs are so high,
- And many other vital facts.

Whether or not you agree with us after reading this Year Book, you will at least know both sides.

You will find it interesting; Americans like to hear about big things done in a big way.

You will also discover that we are merely human beings like yourself, doing in the best possible way a necessary service.

Legislation is pending in Washington; as a good American citizen you want to know both sides of this question. It concerns you, as well as one of the most important industries in the country.

Do not hesitate to send for a copy of this booklet. Your name and address are all we need.

WELL-FILLED ICEHOUSE MEANS SUMMER SAFETY

Sour Milk and a Bitter Man—He Tried to Run a Dairy Without Ice.

LAST CALL FOR ICE HARVESTING

Fairly Safe Storage May Be Secured in Cellar, or Some Other Convenient Nook.

LIBERAL USE OF SAWDUST

Many Other Advantages Besides Keeping Milk Cool During Heated Term—There Appears to Be No Justification for Neglect.

Probably the greatest advantage from having a farm ice house properly filled is that the milk may always be kept cool. But there are a score of other advantages not to be ignored. Some of them pertain to things that may be classed as—summer luxuries?—no, summer necessities. Ice cream, iced tea, lemonade, buttermilk, iced watermelons, iced cantaloupes, iced fruits—every one of them an item in the summer diet that can be regarded as contributions to the health, happiness and prosperity of the family. Unless there is natural ice in the farm ice house, they are rarely to be had. Even if the head of the family is perfectly willing to bear the expense of buying artificial ice, the time is sure to come—in most cases, it comes frequently—when there is not time to get the ice out from town, times when everybody is busy in the harvest or hay field and when the familiar but disheartening plea of "let it wait till tomorrow" is heard and must be heeded.

Ice Relieves Suffering.

Indeed, it can be heeded with some degree of patience when the ice would mean only a more palatable dessert for dinner. But, on one of those hot harvest days, one of the men is brought in overheated from the field, or one of the children becomes suddenly ill of something that an ice pack would go a long way toward relieving. Such things seem to occur just at those times when the icebox is empty—and the need is so urgent that there is no time for going to town for ice. Unnecessary suffering is the inevitable result—inevitable except when there is on the farm an ice house filled from the pond or stream during the winter.

The harvesting of ice is so simple a matter that there appears no justification for its neglect by those who live in natural ice regions. Yet, the fact remains that many such do neglect it. Even for those who have not a regularly constructed ice house, there are possibilities. Ice may be stored and kept with a fair degree of success in the cellar, a corner of the woodshed, in any one of a score of nooks, to be found about every farmstead. Such storage places cannot be recommended for permanent use. They entail a much heavier loss by melting than do properly constructed houses. But, with the proper use of sawdust, planing-mill shavings or other cheap insulator, they can be made to keep ice through the summer. The United States department of agriculture goes so far as to say that, where ice is abundant and the cost of gathering it low, storage in makeshift places may be more economical than the building of scientifically constructed houses, and does not hesitate to recommend it as an expedient to serve until there is time for the construction of the right sort of house.

Thick Cakes Not Essential.

Of course, if the ice is to be available for next summer, there is no time for constructing houses now. This is nearly the last call for filling the houses already built—and for making use of such expedients as are possible on farms where there is no ice house. The mild character of the early part of the winter, of course, has made the potential supply of ice less than usual, but the actual supply—much greater than will be gathered—is adequate for all needs. It is not necessary that ice be of any particular thickness. Six-inch ice is desirable, but it is not essential. Four-inch or even three-inch ice will serve every purpose that thicker ice could be made to serve. And it does not require weather very cold and long-continued to put a three or four-inch coat over the pond. The department of agriculture recommends neighborly co-operation in ice harvesting. Two, three, or more families joining forces and using the same pond or stream, if convenient, can do the work much more easily and expeditiously than the working force of one farm alone ordinarily can do it. Also, when done by two or more families jointly, ice harvesting partakes of the nature of a picnic and the work is done without anybody thinking of it as a disagreeable task.

The cutting of ice is a very simple operation. The method recommended by the department of agriculture is to mark off the pond in rectangular figures of convenient size, then to saw out a strip from shore to shore and force it under the ice, leaving an open channel to the bank. Pieces as large as can be handled are then sawed out on either side, pulled ashore by men with ice hooks or by a horse on the bank, then loaded on the wagon or sled.

The method of storing varies. If the ice is to be stored in a properly constructed ice house with commercial insulation, little packing is needed. If a house not equipped with commercial insulation, or some other makeshift storage space is used, the ground should be covered with 12 inches of sawdust or planing-mill shavings before the ice is put in. A 12-inch space should be left between the ice and the walls and should be tightly filled with sawdust or shavings, and a covering of 18 inches of sawdust or shavings should be placed over the ice.

Planing-mill shavings are preferable to sawdust, being more absorbent and not so much inclined to pack. Whether sawdust or shavings are used, care must be taken that the material is thoroughly dry.

ISN'T IT DISAGREEABLE TO HEAR—

Your best customer's patent complaint. "The milk was sour again yesterday."

The milk inspector's judicial declaration, "Your bacterial count is too high."

The factory manager's peremptory decision, "I can't make good butter out of this cream and I can't make good cheese out of this milk."

If they are disagreeable, don't listen to them. You don't have to.

The bacterial count is high, the milk is sour, the quality of butter and cheese is poor often because the milk or cream wasn't kept cool because there was no ice available, and there was no ice available because you let all of it melt where it froze instead of gathering it and putting it in your ice house.

Fill the ice house full of natural ice from the pond or stream. That will help to stop the disagreeable things that people say about your milk and cream.

Provide Farm Buildings.

It will be the part of good farming to provide the necessary buildings. As soon as labor can be had and building materials secured it will pay to shelter stock and save crops.

Keeps PERUNA In the House All the time

Breaks up a Cold. Good for Bronchial Inflammations.

Those who object to liquid medicines can secure Peruna Tablets

Mr. Robert McDougall, R. No. 6, Liberty, Indiana, writes:
"I wish to state that I always keep Peruna in the house. I think it is a good medicine to have on hand. If I commence taking a cold, I take Peruna and it breaks it up for me. It is also good for the Bronchial Tubes."
Peruna has cured the American people for more than forty years. Those who know its value always have it at hand. Why not you?

Millions of Children Need Liquid Shu Make

FOR OVER-ACTIVITY OF KIDNEYS AT NIGHT.

Mothers, if your child is bothered with his kidneys acting too often in the day time or during sleep at night, don't you think it should have relief from this trouble while it is young and before some incurable kidney disease develops?

For your child's sake, don't neglect it another day but get relief for it from its present burdensome condition and safeguard its future by giving about three doses Liquid Shu Make daily. This should bring the trouble under control in just a few days. Continue giving it along as the case requires and you will soon be among the host of mothers who are praising this wonderful new remedy for freeing their children of that annoying kidney disorder.

Liquid Shu Make is the recognized medicine for over-activity of the kidneys. It is prepared specially for children and grown people find it equally as effective by taking larger doses. Being free from any injurious drug, it can't harm even the most delicate child and seldom fails to give the most gratifying results in a few days.

Your druggist has Liquid Shu Make in thirty cent, sixty cent or dollar sizes—if not he will gladly get it from his wholesaler if you will ask him. So if you regard your child's welfare, don't delay giving it a trial.—Adv.

Few American Soldiers Blinded.
According to the Army and Navy Journal, the office of the surgeon general of the army is authority for the statement that probably less than fifty American soldiers have suffered total blindness from wounds received in action. This is considered a remarkable record considering the number of men engaged and the intensity of the fighting in the sectors where Americans were engaged.

Stuck Up for His Dad.
He was a loyal little shaver and he wouldn't let anything said against his parents go unchallenged. One rainy Sunday afternoon the boy next door was visiting, and said: "Listen to your father snoring in the library."
"Pa isn't snoring," was the indignant reply. "He's dreaming about a dog an' that's the dog growlin'."—Boston Transcript.
