Movie Industry Back By Flynn

WASHINGTON — John Flynn, labor and columnist, told a congressional investigating committee today that the U. S. movie industry has turned into a giant propaganda machine to inflame the public toward war. Flynn said that eight major companies are in control, he said the industry has suppressed one side of the national war on peace de-

THE WEATHER

Best Texas: Considerable business this afternoon, tonight and Friday. Occasional rain in south and central portion.

New Compromise In Bond Battle

Austin — House members today are studying a proposal to re-enact the Road Bond Assumption Act and later settle the question of how to dispose of the $2,500,000 surplus that has accumulated during operation of the Act the past two years.

The Act, since it is an appropriation measure, must be re-passed each biennium. The regular legislative session closed early last summer without re-enacting the Act because it deadlocked over the question of what to do with the surplus.

Some legislators wanted to give to the highway department; others want to prorrate it to counties as had been the custom.

The Act pledges one cent of the state's four-cent gasoline tax to retire county bonds that have been spent for construction of state-designated highways.

2 Flying Clubs Get Along Fine

The financial pattern for Dalhart's two flying clubs still works like a charm, an interview with officials shows.

Both use the same set-up. The Rita Blanca Flying club, formed ten months ago, is headed by Mayor Herbert Peoples, President; Burton Hanbury, vice president; Francis McCleskey, secretary-treasurer.

The two-month-old Dalhart Flying club is headed by Raymond Holmlund. It has no vice president. Harris Payne is secretary-treasurer.

Both are ten-member clubs and the following financial pattern is set up on that basis.

Each member pays an entry fee of $64.50. That makes the down payment on the trainer plane. Each pays $12.56 monthly for 12 months. That completes the plane's purchase.

Each member pays $1.50 per hour for use of the craft. That covers fuel, maintenance, hangar, rent, insurance, etc. Instruction cost, necessary for the first eight to 12 lessons, is $3 per hour additional.

If some member wants to take the club's plane on a weekend trip he pays a $5 fee for the privilege, plus $1.50 for every hour he's in the air, plus all fuel he buys while away from the Dalhart airport.

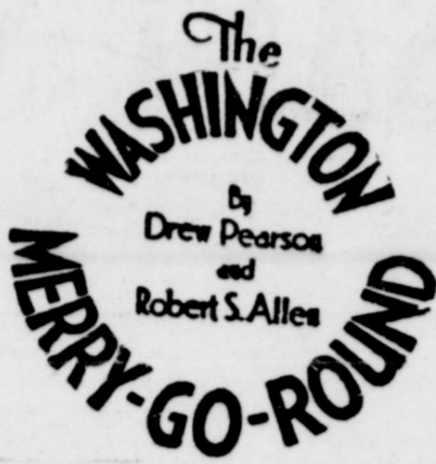

"We never had any trouble about arranging time for flying," Peoples said. "When several members arrive at the airport at once, the rule is that the man with the least hours gets the plane first."

Children's Week On Rotary Slate

Texas Children's Week will occupy a part of the program at the regular weekly meeting of the Dalhart Rotary club tomorrow noon. Program Chairman Bob Martin has announced.

The week, proclaimed by Gov. Stevenson, opened last Sunday and will run through Saturday. It is based on the Children's Charter of Rights, drawn up by the White House conference of 1940.

The Week emphasizes a program designed to develop four square boys and girls.

WASHINGTON — No matter what surprise the President will spring in his long awaited radio broadcast tonight one thing is certain, the Navy's censorship has boomeranged badly and is a serious obstacle to complete credence of the Greer incident.

The tragedy is that the Navy has hushed up other similar incidents. As a result the public doesn't know which one to believe; also it doesn't see why one incident should be hushed up and another blazoned to the press.

Last May, for instance, the Navy vigorously denied that a U. S. warship had dropped bombs on a suspected Nazi submarine. But after all the Navy's denials, Secretary of the Navy Knox was summoned before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee and admitted under oath that the incident had occurred.

Then last July while American marines were enroute to Iceland, one transport carrying troops detected the sound of submarine motors. It signalled for the submarine to come to the surface. There was no answer. U. S. destroyers immediately rushed in with depth bombs. A smudge of oil came to the surface, and no more was heard of the submarine.

U. S. Marine Corps officials admitted the above events happened, but the Navy was silent.

So now those in the know are wondering why the sudden change in publicity policy, why the Navy rushed into print regarding the Greer.

The Navy's censorship also tends to cast doubt on other incidents inside the Navy.

When the Bismark was sunk, the fact that an American observer was in the plane which caught the battleship was carefully hushed up — until Knox published it in a magazine article for which he is reported to have received a thousand dollars.

Secretary Knox's hush policy has not been aided by the naive honesty of the British Embassy. Remarkable one British naval attache the other day:

"You know I think it's awfully sporting of you newspaper fellows not to publish anything about our ships being in your navy yards. Of course we have no objections, but it's fine to see you cooperating with the President. I suppose it would be quite embarrassing to him in the Middle West if all those isolationists knew about it."

JOHN L. LEWIS AND THE KOMMIES

Ever since the invasion of Russia, one labor world has been trying to fathom John L. Lewis's relations with American communists.

Before Russia was invaded, there was, of course, no doubt about where he stood. John L. had the Kommies' backing 100 per cent. But since Hitler sent his armies crashing into Russia, the Kommies have been enthusiastic shouters for Roosevelt's foreign policy while John L. Lewis joined Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon and GOP bigshots in denouncing aid to Russia.

However, the recent defeat of James E. Carey for reelection as president of the CIO Electrical, (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

COLD FACTS WILL BE GIVEN BY F.D.R.

President Roosevelt will address the nation and world tonight at 8:00 (Dalhart time) and will give them the "cold hard facts of the international situation," White House Secretary Stephen Early said at noon today.

The speech will mean what it says, Early continued. It will be in plain English that everyone can understand, and it will leave no question unanswered.

The President conferred this morning with leaders of both the House and Senate. He also met the Russian ambassador and Secretary of State Hull, and probably will confer with other cabinet advisors before he goes on the air with his 3,000-word address.

Early said the President's speech would be so complete in answering questions now before the world that he has cancelled his regular Friday morning press conference.

The President sometime tomorrow, perhaps in the morning, will confer with the U. S. mission that soon will go to Moscow to discuss how this nation can best aid the anti-Axis Allies.

A Senate oil investigating committee today said there is no actual oil shortage on the Atlantic seaboard, only "the lack of a desired surplus." It also said there is no shortage of transportation facilities to move petroleum to the seaboard. However, this was a preliminary and not the final report.

Senator Gerald Nye, staunch isolationist, today by resolution called on the Naval Affairs committee to make a thorough probe of the Greer incident off Iceland.

The U. S. destroyer Greer, according to the U. S. Navy, was attacked several times by a submarine, since admitted to be German, and answered with depth charges. President Roosevelt subsequently revealed that the Navy was hunting the sub to "eliminate" it.

Germans claimed the destroyer attacked the sub, and that the sub, in order to protect itself, had to fire before it could determine the ship's nationality.

Nye wants the officers and crew questioned, and an inspection made of its orders and its log for two days prior to the incident. Senator Bennett Clark is making similar demands.

Berlin today threatened Leningrad with the fate of Warsaw if it continues to resist. Reds revealed that the city will fight to the death, and implied that its defenses still stand. Soviets also said they were shoving steadily ahead on the central front. They claimed they had repulsed a new Nazi thrust at Kiev during which the Germans suffered 30,000 casualties.

Huge British bombers rode the air currents 800 miles last night to rain hundreds of tons of bombs on war factories, munitions dumps and other vital objectives in Turin, Genoa and Milan. RAF pilots said many of the bombs took effect, and huge fires were started.

Prime Minister Churchill revealed in London that hundreds of British fighter planes have arrived in Russia or are en route. He said the Nazis apparently are forming a new push toward Murmansk in an effort to choke off British aid to the Soviets.

Tension between Japan and the Anglo-American bloc seems to be subsiding. Premier Konoye apparently is gaining favor with his policies of modernization. Emperor Hirohito assertedly has personally squelched radical militarist elements.

Anti-Nazi activities continue rampant in Norway and France and are on the increase in Greece, according to usually well-informed sources. Norwegian labor continues to strike against its German masters though the Nazis have declared a ban on strikes and have executed two alleged Communist labor leaders. Observers predict that Germany will extend its Norwegian martial law which was clamped on Oslo early this week.

SEATTLE — Unconfirmed reports at noon said a missing U. S. bomber had been found in a mountainous, heavily wooded area near Seattle. No details were given.

AMARILLO — The proposed $10,000,000 U. S. Army Air Corps heavy bomber base at Amarillo will be three miles west of the city limits, press dispatches state.

Tentative arrangements for the 25,000-acre bombing range places it on the 130,000-acre Bivins ranch, 12 miles southwest of Channing.

The Army, it was said, probably will lease the range for three years at 40 cents per acre—the normal grass rental. Then at the end of three years it may have opportunity to buy the tract at one to three dollars below the then market value.

Farmers Marketing Association Talked

If a Dallam and Hartley county farmers purchasing and marketing association can be organized it will mean substantial advantages for both farmers and business men, declares W. H. Fowler, FSA supervisor for the two counties.

The FSA is sponsoring organization of these associations on a national basis and has called a meeting of all farmers in these two counties in the Dalhart courthouse at 2:00 Saturday afternoon. A No. 1 aim is to help every farmer find a market for his product, regardless of what it is.

Grains Surge Up Strongly Today

Chicago grains, after a slight one-day recession yesterday, resumed a vigorous upward trend today.

Soybeans, receded slightly yesterday, after advancing 8 cents—the limit for one day—both Monday and Tuesday. They climbed six and three-quarters to seven cents today. New October deliveries were quoted at $1.90 1-2.

Wheat was up one and half to two cents: Sept. $1.19 5-8. Corn advanced one and quarter to one and three-quarters: Sept. 80 7-8 cents. Oats were up one to one and a fourth: Sept. 52 5-8 cents.

Industrials in the Dow-Jones list at the end of the fourth hour were up 61 cents on the New York stock market. Rails climbed 34 cents, utilities advanced 9. The entire list was up 27 cents. Fourth hour volume was 500,000 shares.

Cotton in New York was 25 to 27 points higher, and in New Orleans hiked 21 to 26 points.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

You can well imagine how surprised and pleased we were to receive notice from our factory that:

THE McCORMICK-DEERING BINDERS ORDERED BY OUR CUSTOMERS HAVE BEEN SHIPPED.

We wanted to throw our hat into the air and give a big western cowboy yell when the good news arrived and we know it will be equally as pleasing to our good customers who have waited anxiously for these binders.

And in addition to this good news we were notified that

WE WERE SUCCESSFUL IN GETTING A FEW EXTRA McCORMICK-DEERING BINDERS IN THIS SHIPMENT.

This means that we will be able to supply that binder that you have been figuring on for sometime and wondering if you could get if you decided on a McCormick-Deering.

These binders were shipped from Chicago on Wednesday. That would indicate that they will arrive in Dalhart within a few days, and this is to advise those customers who had them ordered to come in soon and get your new McCormick-Deering binders, and those of you who did not have one ordered but are interested in a new binder that we will be glad to have you come in and discuss the matter with us.

For the past several months we have been cautious about making promises of delivery of any farm equipment; we have been equally as cautious about insisting on our customers buying now to avoid the rush or increase in prices, etc. We frankly admitted that we didn't know what the situation was or what it was going to be. So, you can imagine how pleased we are that now we are going to be able to supply the demand of our friends and customers as we had hoped to do.

Yes, sir, it was and is a pleasant surprise.

A BAD ONE DOES TURN UP ONCE IN A WHILE!

Good weather and a bumper crop! Even then one finds a poor stalk once in a while.

The retailing of beer is something like that. Most beer retailers operate respectable law-abiding establishments. Occasionally one finds an exception—a man who tries to beat the law or who permits anti-social conditions.

The beer industry wants this type of undesirable retailer stamped out. Your cooperation will help us in our clean-up efforts.

The beer industry brings important benefits to the community. Here in Texas, beer provides employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in state taxes.

Texas, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for materials, equipment, and services—from over 100 other industries.

You can help us protect these benefits in two ways. First—patronize only the reputable places where beer is sold. Second—report to the proper authorities any law violation you may observe.

MERRY-GO-ROUND—

 Radio and Machine Workers now clears up the mystery.

For his defeat disclosed that there is a definite working arrangement between Lewis and the Kommies under which they have a free hand on the foreign issue and in return John L. has their backing in running the CIO. That includes aiding Lewis to recapture the CIO presidency.

This understanding was clinched last month at a secret meeting of Red leaders in New York. They agreed both to oppose Lewis's isolationism, and to support him to the hilt within the CIO against the Communist-hating forces led by Sidney Hillman.

This deal was kept secret until the Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' convention, when it was revealed to insiders.

It worked with machine-like precision. First the Kommies lined up with the anti-Lewisites in putting through a resolution blasting isolationism and calling for all-out aid to Hitler's foes. Then, having had their say on the foreign issue, the Kommies turned around and did their stuff for Lewis by putting the boot to Carey, who is one of Hillman's most active OPM aides and strongly opposed to Lewis as CIO president.

How smoothly the alliance worked is shown by the fact that the night before the ERM election, Lewis passed out the word in Washington that Carey's goose was cooked.

NOTE—Carey, a former radio worker who made the ERM one of the most powerful units in the CIO, could have saved himself by playing politics. But he refused to build a personal machine, while the Kommies did. The result was that, regardless of his outstanding record, they were able to axe him when Lewis gave the signal.

AMBASSADOR FROM ICELAND

Whether you know it or not, our relations with Iceland depend on the Marines and cod liver oil. Viljalmur Thor of the Iceland Commission to the United States, is now in Washington urging that one extra dose of cod liver oil will bring both health to American children and prosperity to Iceland.

Cod liver oil heads the list of Iceland's exports to the United States. Children do not always cry for it, but in the opinion of Mr. Thor, they should have another tablespoonful, close their eyes and gulp it down.

Thor speaks with an accent that sounds German, but he wants no confusion on that score. "Everybody in Iceland," he says, "is pro-British and pro-American. We have broken our last ties with Denmark when the Germans invaded. And now we have new ties with United States."

"You mean cod liver oil?"

"No, the Marines. They came to our country and behave like perfect gentlemen. In Iceland, our people thought you were gangsters—from the movies. But the Marines, they have a fine manner, and now Iceland knows you are not gangsters."

"They have been real ambassadors for the United States."

Thor heads a delegation discussing a trade agreement with the United States—the first official delegation ever to come from Iceland. The distance from New York to Reykjavik, capital of Iceland, is 2600 miles, almost as far as from New York to Liverpool.

"I hope—I feel sure," he says, "your forces will be able to keep sea lanes open and safe between our two countries."

Mrs. Retta Rickles, Amarillo, was in Dalhart today. Her husband, the late Bill Rickles, was manager of the Matador Land and Cattle Co. ranch, eight miles southeast of Channing, until his death a few months ago. Johnny Stevens, assistant manager, succeeded him.

Mrs. M. H. Blea was called to Denver last night by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Lucretia Trijillo. Mr. and Mrs. Benny Vargas will leave tonight for her bedside.

H. C. Raimier of Conroe, Texas, is reported as much improved today at Loretto hospital. He has a severe spine injury and was placed in a cast yesterday. Mr. Raimier fell from a pile driver on the U. S. Highway 54 bridge construction job Tuesday.

Juliette Francis, who was in a critical condition for several days as the result of a highway accident continues to show gradual improvement at the hospital.

"Let's make it a rule that the first one who mentions a man pays the check."

NEW DINNER DRESSES ARE CHARMINGLY FEMININE

Men of the service, home on leave, like their girl friends to look alluringly feminine, so the new frocks stress that quality. Above at left is Sonja Henie who has chosen an ideal frock for dining or dancing in black crepe and stiffened black lace over flesh pink. The lace-edged bolero can be removed to show a more formal décolletage. Cobina Wright, Jr., models a Travis Banton dress of rustling metal cloth in stripes of iridescent blue-green and silver material. The molded bodice, with elongated waist and ruffle peplum, is an example of the new line. A double-stranded necklace made of large wooden beads covered with metal fabric, completes the picture. At right Alice Faye is wearing a sapphire blue triple sheer frock with pin-cushioned embroidery of tiny silver sequins and crystals.

Warren B. Woodson, who has succeeded Frank Kimbrough as head coach of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys at Abilene, will open an 11-game schedule against Texas Wesleyan of the conference September 20. The battle will be in Fort Worth. Baylor athlete, Woodson has been at Arkansas State college, way, the past five years, during which time his teams won 13 championships in three sports. Earlier, as coach at Texarkana, his teams won junior college titles.

The American Ship of State will help build them by making sure they never be sunk if we have enough habit of buying Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Opposition Is Likely in Sorghum Loan Rate

Considerable Southwestern opposition to the low grain sorghum rate announced this midweek by the Commodity Credit Corporation is likely.

Dallam County AAA committee and the Dallam County Development Council, both headed by Murdock, wheat farmer of the county, have announced they will oppose the rate.

The rate is 38 cents per 56-lb. bushel, however, really amounts to 31 cents, Murdock said, because there is a 7-cent a bushel charge.

Opposition in the grain sorghum belt comprising mostly Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Mexico—asked for a loan rate of 45 cents per bushel or $1.00 per bushel, Murdock said. He pointed out that such a rate would be in line with the 85 per cent of the loan rate on No. 1 wheat amounts to 91 cents on a bushel in Dalhart; and to a rate of 78 cents on a 56-lb. bushel of corn.

National defense demands a high rate, Murdock said. Under the rate many farmers may not be able to afford to harvest the crop. The sorghum crop will be the finest in the history. Rainfall has been normal all year. The sorghum, Murdock emphasized, need not be stored in trench silos or other reserves against lean years against sharp and unexpected demands due to the world and national defense.

There are many other reasons for the rate, he added. Grain sorghum is better than any other crops against High Plains wind because of their tough fibrous roots. Any program that tends to discourage their cultivation might once more lay this region open to the devastating blizzards of the middle 1930's.

Widely Urged

The further AAA acreage reductions this year, may result in high profits to farmers, because it emphasizes the necessity of bettering the necessity of bettering many High Plains extensionists and agriculture leaders at way.

W. E. (Bill) Baker of City is perhaps typical. "I am convinced," he says, "that each year thousands of dollars are lost because of poor seed. It's been mixed with rye, barley or something else; or it has smut. Treatment will eliminate the smut, but not the mixtures."

The AAA trimmed the 1942 Cimarron county wheat acreage 27,000—from 196,000 acres for the 1941 crop to 169,000. "Yet," said Baker, "use of good seed could bring Cimarron county farmers much higher net profits than they realized this year."

He is urging farmers to get at least some certified seed, costing only slightly more, and plant it on land that bore no small grain crops this summer. That will insure a 1942 wheat production with no mixture. If the farmer then joins the Oklahoma Seed Wheat Improvement Association and has this acreage inspected, the seed can be certified. Thus, Baker said, certified seed can soon be available to everyone.

IN THE ARMY NOW!

WHY AND HOW

By S. T. Williams

A year ago our army was one-sixth its present size. Today two field armies stand poised to take part in the biggest peacetime maneuvers ever held in the Western Hemisphere. No matter how many head-shakings there are because these 400,000 men are not fully equipped, because they are incompletely trained and because it is believed their morale might be a whole lot better, the fact remains that this showing, after some eight months of training, is an impressive one.

Appropriately enough this showing takes place around the twenty-third anniversary of a big date in our military history. Twenty-three years ago tomorrow morning a half million Americans at St. Mihiel clambered out of trenches which were seething mud. Not since 1865 and the grand review of the Union Army in Washington had so many American fighting men been gathered in one place. Two days later they had reduced a salient which for four years had been thrust like a dagger in the Allied line, and at a cost of less than half that number in American casualties, 16,000 German prisoners were in their hands. In no other major operation in which our troops participated was victory won at such a proportionately small cost.

"I was dissatisfied with myself," wrote Ludenorff. How dissatisfied the German leader was with the outcome at St. Mihiel is described by Major Nieman of the German high command who reported to Ludenorff the night of September 12 and "found him so overcome by the events of the day as to be unable to carry on a clear and comprehensive discussion. I was convinced this day that the nerves of this tireless worker had been stretched beyond the breaking point."

It was the beginning of the end for the man who had gambled on the belief that a great democracy could not rouse itself. A year before, most of the 500,000 men who rubbed out the St. Mihiel salient were green civilians—just as a year ago today were most of the 400,000 now engaged in the Louisiana and Arkansas maneuvers.

Now for the mail.
G. I. B. Chicago, Ill. What is the reason why today more men are rejected for military service because of dental defects than in the World War draft?

Dental requirements are more stringent today than they were in World-War days. It may be argued that despite more widespread attention given in our schools to care of the teeth that the depression was one cause for the large number of current rejections for dental reasons. Yet it is a fact that men are turned down today who would have been accepted in 1917-18; and one reason given by medical men is that comparatively small numbers of dentists have been called for Army service.

Special Show For School Teachers

Public school teachers of Dallas and Hartley counties will be the guests at the La Rita theatre tonight at 8:00, Manager J. C. Baker reminds.

The new Irene Dunn picture "Unfinished Business," will be screened.

The B&B cafe will serve refreshments to the group after the show. Cecil Johnson, manager, has announced.

SYNOPSIS

Aboard a ferry, enroute to visit his fiancee, Jane Rider, David Farland prevents an attractive young woman from jumping overboard. The hysterical girl entrusts him with an envelope, requesting that he deliver it to the socially prominent Richard Garrison, if she does not call for it within a week. Noticing a couple watching them, the girl's eyes dilate with fear. "I knew he wouldn't play fair!" she exclaims and dashes away, dropping a compact initialed "C.B." and a pamphlet entitled, "Americans, Warning!" On the train, David discovers the envelope is missing from his pocket.

CHAPTER TWO

Jane Rider wakened slowly this Saturday morning. She lay relaxed, listening to the bark of dogs up the road. In the stillness of the country, they sounded wild and free of spirit. She envied them. Suddenly she remembered, and sat bolt upright, her chestnut hair spreading over her shoulders. David was coming for the week-end. And, last night, Kurt Helm had been quite horrible.

But it was David who mattered—dear impatient David, who had said, "You're my girl," the first time he met her. Perhaps it wasn't fair to have kept him waiting for so long, because she feared her shyness, her inexperience might hamper a New York boy. Now she was decided. It would be yes to him, tonight. She wondered how she could ever get through the long day in the local library where she worked.

Her thoughts danced about David. There had only been that one glorious summer in New York, after high school, when she took special courses at Columbia—and met David at the house of a friend.

She didn't want to think of Kurt Helm. She thought of him; a man ages older—he must be at least thirty-three—who had turned up four months ago, to live in the old log cabin across the road. He was a writer, he said. At first he had fascinated her. His face stood out now as she had seen it last night; narrow, blond, his thin lips cruel, his eyes green in the firelight of the living-room. That was when, after supper, her mother left them alone. Kurt's long features, his expression, his voice, had changed so shockingly.

"I shouldn't have come to this place," he said harshly. "Lean people living on fat lands, thinking of nothing while the world blows up around them. You don't know me, Jane, but you will. Do you think I'll let you marry that young megaphone who comes up here; that boy who works in a sport shop? You belong with me, in my work, I'll teach you. I'll train you. I'll love you." He caught her in his arms. "I never forget. And I get what I want. I want you. You will see—"

She was sorry now that she and her mother had ever been kind to him. Her mother was that way; warm hearted, generous, never seeing evil. She liked Helm. "Poor lad, living all by himself in that old log cabin!" she often said.

Jane moved away from her bed to the window. She wouldn't let this week-end with David be spoiled by anyone. She breathed in the damp September air. Fog drained the maples of their brilliance. The mountains, High Tor and Trap Rock, shouldered up from a purple haze.

She loved this country. Her grandfather had tended his fields and orchards here. Her father, before his death, was forced to sell the rich acres to city people. But the old brownstone house was hers and her mother's. Wherever she went with David, she would know that this was her inheritance. Kurt Helm didn't belong here, she thought passionately. He must go.

The log cabin where Kurt lived was gloomy. Hidden by oaks and underbrush, it crouched in shade, a chopping wood, had heard Jane's voice.

The 5:56 panted into the blurred lights of Haverstraw.

Jane hurried toward the platform. Her cheeks glowed in the drifting mist. Her eyes were bright under the slant of her green Robin Hood hat with the long quill.

She sighted David, leaping out of the train. Then a woman in a light coat, collided with Jane and veered off in the direction of the taxi line. Behind this woman, whose white face and terrified gray eyes seemed to stream by, David Farland raced.

"I get what I want . . . I want you. You will see," said Kurt.

shallow brook tinkling by the back door. In winter, it stood out among stark branches and snowdrifts. Even when no one lived in it, Jane had always disliked that eerie spot across the road.

"Breakfast's ready, dear," her mother called up.

"Coming." Jane vigorously brushed her hair, parting its crisp waves, drawing them loosely back. The curly ends rolled outward. She slipped into the green costume David liked; short, tailored coat, silk knitted sweater and skirt. Her skin bloomed; her brown eyes sparkled. Her mouth was beautiful.

The kitchen was bright and gay, with plants on the window sills, and rows of shining pots. Mrs. Rider glanced up, smiling, her white hair soft around her pink cheeks, her figure crisp in a belted apron.

While Jane ate her breakfast, her mother hovered close. "I'll have a nice supper for David," she said cheerfully.

It was time to start for the library. Jane impulsively hugged her mother. "We do have fun, don't we, darling?"

"Of course, dear."

"Don't worry if we're late," Jane sang out from her old coupe.

The muffled ring of an axe went mute across the road. Kurt Helm,

He waved and shouted incoherently at Jane as he passed.

A taxicab door slammed. Jane was vaguely conscious of a stiff-shouldered man and a rather dowdy woman hurrying past her. She went back to her parked car, climbed in, her hand limp on the wheel.

David rushed back, breathless. "Missed her!" he exclaimed, as if Jane knew all about it.

Jane said, "Did you?"

Her mild sarcasm was lost on him. His blue eyes were already telling her that there was only one girl in the world for him. But he didn't waste words. He tossed his bag in the rumble seat, slammed the top down without locking it, and slid in front beside her. He drew her to him. "Love me, hon?"

His lips smothered her answer. Then he sat back, his red hair spotting the dark. "Gosh, have I had a time! I save a woman from going overboard on the ferry. She gives me a sealed envelope—mystery stuff! But it was no joke, hon. These things do happen, you know—"

"To you," Jane answered drily. She steered the car out of the station, heading for South Mountain Road.

Elaine L. Berg

Orson Welles, one of the world's most dramatic personalities, wrote, produced, directed and took the title role in "Citizen Kane" which prevues at the Mission theater Saturday midnight, continues Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Welles, in the film, ages from 25 to 75, presents an amazing character study. Welles started work on the picture in August, 1940. The theme is that no man can buy happiness.

U. S. Air Fighters Shown In Film At Mission Tomorrow

America is meeting the challenge of Germany's air infantry with a new and fearless group of air fighters.

Their story is dramatically told in "Parachute Battalion" which shows at the Mission theater tomorrow and Saturday at the regular 10 and 15 cent rates.

The movie industry has produced no more timely, thrilling or romantic story in recent months.

Uncle Sam's new parachute corps, based at Fort Benning, Ga. are photographed for the first time in this picture, and form its novel and exciting background.

The story, authentic to the last detail, was prepared by John Twist and Captain John H. Fite of the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Stars are Robert Preston, Nancy Kelly, Edmond O'Brien and Harry Carey. The supporting cast includes Buddy Ebsen, Paul Kelly, Richard Cromwell and Robert Barrat.

The film depicts recruiting of young men from various walks of life to serve in the nation's new spectacular arm of defense — the air fighters.

It shows their preparation for tactics requiring more than the average amount of courage; and highlights that fateful moment when each man must step out of a roaring plane with two parachutes strapped to him.

The picture is unusual from every angle.

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Reno, the "wide-open," the "ultra sophisticated," the "open gambling paradise," the "wise to everything" came a cropper. The "Big Circus" came to town, bringing with it the hoary shell and pea game and reaped a veritable harvest.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. Criticized For Farm, Labor Policies

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 11. People in the East are being criticized for taking automobiles out on Sunday and for driving evenings unless necessary. Secretary Ickes says "they are trying to live as usual and do business as usual notwithstanding the great conflict going on in the world today." This is also said of the manufacturers of various household and other appliances which use metal.

Business As Usual?

It is very important for all of us that the war should be as short as possible. The only way to shorten it is to intensify our production. This means that we must not follow the "business as usual" policy, but must make sacrifices where necessary. But this also should mean an end of "labor as usual" and "farming as usual." The attitude of the Government in not applying the same rule to all groups is unjust to consumers.

This "priority" which our farmers and laborers seem to enjoy is the chief reason for the division among our people. Employers cheerfully accept burdening taxation, control over instalment credits, disheartening priorities, and the thousands of regulations which they receive from Washington and Ottawa. But to see the farm and labor groups get anything they want both in the United States and Canada, irrespective of the good of the nations, seems very unfair.

Cost of Living

When 500 farm representatives demand "more representation in government and less interference with farm prices", while food prices are increasing every week, things are going too far. This is especially true when the Government "interference", both in the case of wage-workers and farmers, has been to raise both wages and farm prices above what they would naturally be if allowed to seek their own level.

The cost of living is less today than in 1929. Living costs have increased less than 5 per cent even during the past year. This increase, moreover, has been wholly due to union wages and pegged food prices,—both of which have been artificially raised. I would not complain that foods are at their highest prices in 12 years if they were natural prices.

Wage Workers vs. Farmers

Wage workers should keep in mind that higher wages mean higher prices; farmers should remember that as they raise prices, they must pay more for all they buy. "It's too bad that it's so; but it is so." As long as farmers prefer to buy gasoline instead of to raise oats, there can be no parity of prices.

It is wrong for the labor leaders to fool the workman—and wrong for the politicians to fool the farmer as they are now doing. Passing laws will not make two plus two equal five; nor make water run uphill. The correct solution for our economic troubles lies with greater production, increased demand and lower prices.

Government Interference

The Government is guilty of raising food prices in at least three ways; (1) It has been buying food and shipping it out of the country at the rate of $2,000,000 per day,—covering 70 different products—thus increasing demand. (2) It has pegged the price of nine food products at relatively high levels by announcing that it will buy all of them offered. (3) It jacked up wheat and corn prices by the policy, forced on the Administration by the farm bloc, of accepting these crops as collateral for loans at prices equal to 85 per cent of "parity."

"Parity prices" for farm crops which will enable the farmer to buy "as much of the same things" as he did in 1909-14 is perfectly feasible. But remember that in those years farmers bought no radios, no electric refrigerators, and had only one car or truck. The trouble today is that no farmer is satisfied with true parity. The whole parity program is "cockeyed" when feed grain and hay supplies for 1941-42 will be far above average. True, there will be more hogs, cattle, and poultry mouths to feed, but feed available per mouth will top the 1928-32 average.

No maximum prices for food have as yet been set, except on imported products such as pepper, coffee, raw sugar, salmon and certain canned goods. The Government, however, has established,—an unheard of and crazy thing—minimum wholesale prices for Hogs, Dairy Products, Chickens, Eggs, Tomatoes, Peas, Apricots, Raisins, and Prunes. In addition, the Government itself has bought, through the Surplus Marketing Administration, over 205 million pounds of pork products, 175 million pounds of lard, 55 million pounds of cheese, 4 million cases of tomatoes, 9 million pounds of soybeans, 9 million pounds of vitamin concentrates, 1 million cases of grapefruit, 2,500,000 bushels of corn, and 64 million pounds of dried and frozen eggs.

What of The Future?

Those of us who have worked on a farm want the farmers to be better off. Farmers deserve better conditions, but they should realize that the politicians are now "taking them for a ride", yes, and a ride toward a real precipice. Some day these artificial farm aids, crop loans, price pegging, etc. must come to an end. This could result in a terrific collapse of farm prices. Far better for the farmers to let foods now sell at their natural price levels. Until this time comes certainly consumers should not stock up on foods,—except possibly certain imported canned goods and other commodities.

Labor leaders who use the war to force higher wages are no real friends of labor. They are not only increasing living costs but are forcing employers to install more labor-saving machinery which can result in great unemployment after World War II is over. The Government can best serve the nation by letting prices and wages alone, but by spending more money on more research, lowering the cost of distribution, reducing the crime bill, and developing the character of our people.
