"BOOST OR MOVE."

"AT IT AGAIN"

Under the above caption, the Fort Worth Star Telegram in a column editorial details the dilemma of Texas' governor in the matter of the recent at tempted land-grabbing under the famous (or in famous) "river-bed" decision.

Most Texans are familiar with the heroic fight of Senator Clint Small of Wellington against these steals, and recall how he and his intrepid colleague succeeded in passing over the governor's veto a bill that would assure to every purchaser of state land, title to every acre purchased in good faith.

But at the wind-up of this legislation there was a small matter that must needs be regulated, and at this end there was passed through the legislature what was known as the "withdrawal" bill. It is this measure which is causing Gov. Moody sleepless nights and anxious days. He proposes to discover technical imperfections in the bill as passed and intimates that there is a "movement" on foot to induce him to veto the bill.

But read what the Star-Telegram has to say on this point:

Common sense as well as justice demanded that the State confirm the purchasers of land in these "riverbeds" in the titles which the State had granted upon surveys which its official surveyors had made. Accordingly, Senator Small's riverbed bill was introduced, and passed by overwhelming majorities, in both Houses. It was vetoed by Mr. Moody. Then it was re-passed with increased majorities, amounting to unanimity, over the veto. This the Legislature emphasized its view that the State should not take advantage of a technicality to profit at the expense of its citizens.

Then the question arose of "vacancies" which might occur as a result of recasting survey lines on account of the riverbed law, and of vacancies which might occur generally through the re-running of lines. Surveys, it has been found, are not always accurate. Nearly every time a line is re-run, its location is altered. The present situation along the Eastern Panhandle boundary is a case in point. Re-running of a meridian here has thrown some 28,500 acres of land, formerly regarded as being in Oklahoma, into Texas, where technically it would become "vacant" public land and subject to filing by the first man who got into the Land Office at Austin with the necessary papers.

There are many instances of survey errors all over the State, each of them creating "vacancies" running from a few square feet of land to several hundred acres. The hunting out of such "vacancies" and claiming them through filing has been a profitable sideline for a number of individuals.

The Small public lands withdrawal bill would stop this industry by an omnibus declaration that no more vacancy filings would be permitted. Since all the public lands available have already been filed on, there is no longer any need for continuing the filing law. The only chance for a filing now is a survey error which establishes a technical vacancy on land already granted by the State to a private purchaser and kept by that purchaser for many years in complete confidence that it belonged to him legally as well as morally. The Small withdrawal bill is admittedly a temporary measure, designed to prevent a sort of piracy upon the lands of private owners until more detailed laws providing for confirming of titles or for development as state school or university lands can be enacted.

Now Mr. Moody brings up the point of technical imperfections in the withdrawal bill, suggesting that in some instances it might result in prohibiting leasing of some oil lands which the State might otherwise profitably open to development, making this statement in connection with a revelation that there is a "movement" on foot to induce him to veto the bill. The Governor failed to reveal the source and forwarders of this "movement," but it may reasonably be assumed that they may be found chiefly among those who might have expectations of advantage from the raising of the ban which the bill places on "vacancy" filings in Austin. It may be that the State might suffer somewhat by inability to lease land in actual riverbeds adjacent to which oil has been discovered. The State owns the riverbeds, and the oil from these might be drawn out by wells nearby. But the prospect of such damage is remote, especially since the withdrawal bill contemplates further legislation which certainly could prevent such a catastrophe. The withdrawal bill does not seek the injury of the State, but the welfare of good-faith purchasers of land from the State. It is not designed to prevent the development of state-owned riverbeds for oil purposes, but for prevention of invasion of private property on the technical ground that dry washes are riverbeds within the meaning of the constitutional provision concerning navigable streams. The Legislature is fully cognizant of the difference between the dry washes of the Panhandle and West Texas and the real streams of South Texas. Consequently Mr. Moody's concern in the matter is completely gratuitous. The Legislature will, in plenty of time, make the legislative distinction which will enable the State school and university funds to profit from oil discoveries near land really owned by them, while at the same time protecting owners of land where there are no real streams from injury. Accordingly, it may be suspected that the interest of only the majority of those who are furthering the "movement" to have Moody veto the withdrawal bill may be motivated not so much by fear that the State may lose something along the San Marcos and Trinity Rivers, in the Gulf region, but by a lively expectation of advantage from filings at the Land Office on "vacancies" technically existing along technical rivers in West Texas and the Panhandle where oil also has been discovered.

We do not doubt the honesty of the Governor's attitude, but he should not suffer himself to be deceived or misled.

IS HE AS SIMPLE AS HE SOUNDS?

Senator Tom Love solemnly announces that he will make the race for Governor of Texas on an anti-Tammany ticket. Tom's announcement must prove a shock to the average Texan. Little had we dreamed that Texas stood in such deadly peril. When a warrior of Tom's prowess ignores all the burning issues confronting Texas and centers his wrath upon a local organization of a distant commonwealth, the danger must be deep seated and insidious. We had thought the democracy of Texas (whether rightly or wrongly) had, so far as Texas is concerned, effectually disposed of Tammany when it helped defeat Ed Smith. But it seems we were mistaken.

Just what does Tom fear? Tom should tell us plainly just what danger threatens. If it is physical invasion we should know it, that we may oil up our old six-guns and supple up our lass-ropes to repel the invaders.

Still with it all, Tommie may not be as simple as he sounds. Every country boy has seen the bird with the broken wing, fluttering along the ground ahead of him until it has led him far from its nest. Now where might Tommie's nest be, and what might be in that nest? But Tommie will never tell.

It is said that every member of the new farm board was born and reared on a farm. Well, that's something.

August is the time of year when the editor wishes he didn't have any more to do than a snow shovel.

Judging from a recent magazine article, Mr. Coolidge writes so simply one can understand him.

(The Southwest Panman.)

We hope that all of our farmer readers will "inwardly digest" the viewpoint of the Federal Farm Board as presented by Chairman Legge before the recent meeting of the Institute of Cooperation at Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The unqualified endorsement which he gives the cooperative movement should certainly arouse those farmers who have been antagonistic or indifferent to this source of self-help, to the realization that they are standing in their own light. The official approbation of cooperation by such a body cannot fail to be helpful to associations since it will mean adequate financing as well as moral support. Farmers who have been looking for some sort of a miracle to help them out of their difficulties should take note that Chairman Legge neither promises nor expects the board to bring about any spectacular relief. Doubtless, it will be a great disappointment to many to know that the amount and degree of "relief" obtained will still be largely determined by the farmers, themselves. Mr. Legge and his board are agreed that they can render the greatest service to agriculture and the nation by helping the farmer help himself and they will not force any specified program upon the producers. Cooperative organizations are the farmers' own weapons for combating the marketing ills with which he is beset and undoubtedly would, in the course of time become sufficiently strong to force recognition and consideration as important factors. Their growth has been hampered both by the marketing agencies already in existence and by the farmers themselves. It is evident that no "stabilization corporations" will be formed unless and until it is proved that the cooperatives, strengthened and enlarged as they will be under the supervision of the board, are not able to cope with the situation. Those who feared expansion of the surplus production as a result of "price fixing" have had their fears set at rest for that is another matter that will be left up to the cooperatives to control. On the whole, the policy of the board as announced by Chairman Legge, seems to be a sane and sensible one well calculated to bring about improvement in agricultural conditions through fundamental changes which will make for permanence. The rapidity with which "relief" comes will be up to the farmers. They are being given the chance to "make good"—the same sort of a chance that industry was given—and if they give their organizations the same sort of support, it will not be long until they will be strong enough to compel attention to their demands. Now if the guys who are monkeying with the tariff will only evidence a little cooperation, the farmers will be all set to show the world a thing or two.

Dimmitt.

(Castro County News.)

A trip over the city of Dimmitt and Castro county within a radius of ten miles in every direction, shows a rapid growth in that there is much building going on.

A tent meeting will begin Friday night of this week, to continue for two weeks, by the Church of the Nazarene. The services will be conducted by Rev. George A. Nicholson, evangelist, of Hamlin.

The committee in charge of arrangements reports that plans for the thirty-eighth annual Old Settlers' Picnic to be held in Dimmitt on Wednesday, August 14, are going along nicely, and it will probably be the largest celebration of its kind ever held in this section.

Rev. J. R. Bright, pastor of the Methodist church, started a two weeks' meeting in the Jumbo community, and reports that attendance is good at the services.

As announced in last week's News, the Chamber of Commerce of Castro county will give a prize of $5.00 in gold to the person submitting the most acceptable slogan for the county, to be used in all publicity of the organization, and to be recommended as a slogan for all citizens and institutions in the county to adopt also.

The drilling of the well for the city waterworks was started last week, and up to Thursday noon of this week, the drill had gone to a depth of 160 feet, and it is expected that only about fifty feet more will be necessary to strike a heavy flow of water that is soon to supply the entire city of Dimmitt.

Morton

(Cochran County News.)

Definite word has been received from a banker in Texas, whose name will not be made public at present, respecting his wishes, that all arrangements are being made to open a bank in Morton, October first.

A splendid rain fell all over this section of country yesterday and reaching into New Mexico. It came at an opportune time for crops were beginning to need moisture badly, though none of it was burning up.

A Mr. Shipman of Lampasas has purchase the stock of the Morrow Garage and Filling Station, from Croce, and is now negotiating for the purchase of the building and lot.

W. M. Ashworth, who purchased the building occupied by the Morrow Mercantile Co., also the Morrow stock, took possession yesterday.

One of the features that will attract and interest people attending the Cochran County Fair, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th, will be the terrapin races. Men, women, children, old maids, bachelors, saints, sinners, preachers, deacons and lay members, always crowd the wires in a terrapin race same as a derby race at a state fair. Big prizes will be given to first, second and third winners.

Rev. W. C. Wages, who held revival services here all last week, closed Sunday evening. That Rev. Wages handles the gospel seriously, was manifest by the large crowds that attended all his meetings.

Morton has been full of land lookers from Oklahoma and Texas all the week.

Littlefield

(Lamb County Leader.)

The Woolaroc, piloted by Col. Arthur Goebel, winner of the California-to-Hawaii flight, flying on its 12 day trip, arrived in Littlefield last Friday morning, and was greeted by fully 1,000 people anxious for a sight of the famous plane and its intrepid pilot.

Parking space on all the principal business streets in Littlefield was at a premium last Monday when fully 3,000 out of town people were guests of the city on its regular first Monday Trades Day event, many of them coming from distances of 50 and 75 miles and even farther.

The P. W. Walker Seed & Grain Co., having finished the pit for a new elevator to be located on their property adjoining the Santa Fe railroad, are this week rearing the superstructure for a 12,000 bushel capacity container.

Information has been received at the local postoffice in the form of directions from the First Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, to the effect that Rural Route No. 2 out of Littlefield will be given an extension, beginning August 16.

A meeting is slated to be held at the tabernacle, just south of Walters drug store on Main street, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to lay plans for a poultry show to be held in Littlefield some time this fall.

A road committee representing the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce visited the Portales Chamber of Commerce Tuesday to discuss the building of a road through Portales east to the state line to connect up with a road being planned from that point to join the Lubbock-Clovis road at Littlefield.

Elder Chas. W. Watkins, who is holding a meeting for the members of the Church of Christ, in a tabernacle on South Main street, is being greeted daily by large audiences, the interested members often packing the tabernacle to overflowing.

Levelland

(Hockley County Herald.)

Designation of a highway from Lubbock to Elida, N. M., was practically assured Monday afternoon with the meeting of representatives from some thirteen cities and towns of Texas and New Mexico at Portales, N. M., at which time definite agreement was reached.

The county singing convention at Pettit last Sunday was the scene of a reunion of the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Leavelle of Slaton, Texas, their three sons, five daughters and six grandchildren all being present. This was the first time the entire family have been together in seven years.

A series of revival meetings is in progress at the Presbyterian church, services being held in the morning at 10 o'clock and in the evening at 8:30. The preaching is being done by Rev. Newton of Waskum.

The board of trustees of the Levelland Independent School District at its meeting Monday evening awarded the contract for the construction of the new school building, authorized by a bond election held a few weeks ago, to the Sampson Construction Company of Lubbock, who are scheduled to begin the excavation during the present week.

General rains have fallen during the past few days almost over the entire South Plains country. In Hockley county the precipitation varies from light showers in localities to a downpour of from one to two inches in others. Each evening rain has fallen and the excessive heat of a few days ago seems to have abated.

Last Sunday was a great day for all of the singers and the Pettit community. The convention was a grand success. Pettit knows how to entertain a convention and the good women there and all over the county spread the best dinner Hockley county ever had.

HERE'S REAL OPPORTUNITY FOR SUDAN WOMEN

$1250 Offered For Best Jar of Canned Food in National Canning Contest.

Just how good at Canning are Sudan women and girls? This question suggested itself to us from an announcement in Chicago of a National Canning Contest to find the best jar of canned fruit, vegetables or meat in the country. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars ($1250) in cold cash awaits the woman or girl in the United States whose entry is selected as the best jar of canned food entered in the contest.

The contest, which is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, seeks to acquaint more housewives with the economy and healthfulness of home canned foods. Two hundred and twenty-two cash prizes, totaling $5,825, will be disbursed to the winners in the contest, which has three major divisions: fruit, vegetables and meat. The best entry in each division will be awarded $250, and one of these will also receive the thousand dollar sweepstakes prize, thus bringing the total cash prize for the best jar of canned food in the contest to $1,250. Second prize in each of the three divisions will be $200, third prize $100, and fourth prize, $50. There will also be five prizes of $25 each, ten prizes of $10 each and fifty prizes of $5 each. In addition, a thousand dollars in cash will be awarded to the home demonstration agent whose county sends in the greatest number of entries, $500 to the agent whose county has the next largest number, and $100 to the agent whose county sends in the third largest number of entries. A number of lesser merchandise prizes are also offered.

Contest Closes October 15
According to the rules, the contest is open to every woman and girl in the United States. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent; any fruit, vegetable or meat, whether home grown or purchased, is acceptable. Contestants may enter one, two or all three divisions. Entries, regardless of when canned, must not be sent in prior to August 15 nor later than October 1, which is the closing date of the contest. No entries will be returned, but instead will be sent, with the name and address of the contestant, to an orphanage, hospital, infirmary or other charitable institution to be selected by the Foundation. Specimens of canned fruits and vegetables in the contest will be judged on the basis of clearness, color, pack, neatness, flavor and texture. Meat specimens will be judged in their relation to pack, neatness, texture and flavor. There will be three judges, to be selected by the Foundation from a list of outstanding authorities on home economics, domestic science, and canned food. Their decision will be made known just as soon as possible after October 1.

Gives Hints on Canning.
"Any method of canning may be used for this contest," announces Anne Williams, director of the contest. "The use of a steam pressure cooker, however, is highly recommended by canning experts and by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, especially in canning meats."

That the judging may be thoroughly impartial and the display of canned samples absolutely uniform, contestants are required to submit their entries in standard glass jars of the quart size. All contestants will be furnished with one Ball Mason jar and carton for sending in a canned article, but those making entries in more than one division are expected to supply their own jars and shipping cartons. The sample and prize entry labels for use in submitting entries may be secured without cost by communicating with the headquarters of the National Canning Contest, 925 S. Homan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

FARM NOTES

D. A. ADAM, County Agent

A caponizing demonstration was held on the Harry Phelps farm last Tuesday, which was attended by five who learned the art of caponizing cockerels for early spring market. Mr. Phelps is caponizing about 40 cockerels.

During the past week the County Agent made a tour of the circle bulls in this county, and all are getting along nicely, and are surely growing out to be nice bulls. Several of these will be shown at the Plainview Dairy Show next spring, as well as at local fairs.

The County Agent is now in the process of organizing a 4-H Club Baby Beef club. About 25 boys will be in this club and will feed out two Hereford calves apiece during the winter to demonstrate the value of feeding home grown feeds, rather than selling these feeds on the market. Calves are being furnished these boys by the Halsell Cattle Company, and are to be fed this winter under the direction of the County Agent.

Feeds at the present are in the boot or just out, and the County Agent has been inspecting during the week the pure seed feed crops of the 4-H Club boys. It is found that these boys all have excellent stands, with a very uniform crop. The 4-H boys will feed their crops this winter to heaves, dairy cattle, hogs, and chickens, instead of selling it on the open market. Rogueing is practiced by all the club boys who are growing feed crops. Some eight or ten of the boys' crops were visited by the County Agent.

An interesting experiment was carried out by H. H. Weimhold of Sudan this spring in the artificial brooding of turkeys. Twenty-five young poults were first put into the hatchery brooders, and at the age of one week were transferred to a box with a hail screen bottom, with an electric light furnishing the source of heat. These poults were fed and brooded in this way for about eight weeks, and at the end of this time, 23 were living, one having died of a burn from the electric light, and another from natural causes. As a result, these 23 poults are now out on a farm in the Sudan community, very healthy, and are by far the largest young turkeys on the place. It has often been said that turkeys could not be brooded artificially, but this and other experiments have shown that they can, and with great success. The idea here is to keep young poults away from the ground, which is the source of all disease, until they are large enough to combat these physically. Worms, blackhead, and other turkey diseases are picked up from the filth on the ground around which turkeys are brooded in the first few months of their lives. This method of brooding keeps them away from droppings and ground until they are large enough to be strong physically. Twenty-three out of 25 living is a mighty good example of what artificial brooding can do.

The Lamb county exhibit is going to be shown at the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, and the South Plains Fair at Lubbock this fall. Some of the things necessary are now being put up with the assistance of the County Agent. Many more farm products will be needed in order to fill the score card, such as maize, kaffir, hegaria, sudan grass, sweet clover, alfalfa, garden crops, fruit, and any number of such things that can be used in this exhibit. Those farmers in the county that have any of these that will be mature by September 15, please notify the County Agent at his office, or F. G. Sadler, at the Sadler Drug in Littlefield. Those wanting to bring in some stuff can leave it at the Sadler Drug.

SECOND CUTTING OF ALFALFA MAKES MORE THAN TON ACRE

J. I. Lawler, on the F. P. Warren & Co. farm northeast of Muleshoe, finished putting up the second cutting of alfalfa Monday of this week. This is a first year crop and only 10 acres were put in. The average yield per acre for each cutting has been slightly over one ton, and two more cuttings are assured.

With a low estimate of four tons for the season, the crop will run over $100 per acre at the present market prices for alfalfa hay. A close account of all expense is being kept by A. P. Stone, agent for the Warren interests here, and this ten acres is expected to net $50 per acre above the value of dry land crops.—Muleshoe Journal.

MYRICK POULTRY FARM
A CREDIT TO PANHANDLE

On Monday of last week the publishers of the News paid a visit to the Myrick poultry farms in Lubbock county, and there witnessed the splendid fruition of a young man's dream of success. Myrick farms are situated some four miles southwest of Shallow-water in Lubbock county. Mr. Myrick is owner of several sections of land, 160 acres of which is reserved for poultry. This reservation has been developed until a veritable town has grown up, to all intents and purposes sufficient unto itself. It has its own electric light and power, and all modern conveniences.

On the farm are 20 modern poultry houses, wherein were to be seen 20,000 Single Comb White Leghorns, 2,000 Mammoth Bronze Turkeys, a fine flock Toulouse Geese, besides other valuable birds.

The Myrick farm hatches its own eggs, having installed three large incubators, a Buckeye-Pierce brooder and two Browers brooders. The output from equipment is something to marvel at. Taken in its entirety, the Myrick Poultry Farm is one of the largest and most complete of the entire Plains country.

The farm is under the direct management of Mr. Joe Love, who is an artist in his line, and a courteous and accommodating gentleman. The publishers were given an opportunity to view the entire premises, and the day was profitably spent.

Mr. Myrick is to be congratulated on the splendid fruition of his hopes and dreams, and the Plains section is fortunate in possessing such a citizen.

NOTHING WRONG WITH THIS SYSTEM OF FARMING

Yes, it is a hackneyed subject--the one crop farmer--verses the diversified farmer--still it is the greatest subject connected with agriculture today.

The editor was inspired to this remark by a visit to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. West, two miles north of Sudan.

Mr. and Mrs. West have discovered the real secret of successful farming--diversification.

Besides the regular crops, which are as fine as can be found in the community, the Wests are enthusiastic fruit growers and gardeners. They have canned this season already 200 cans of fruit from their splendid orchard, and as many cans of vegetables from their garden. They have also some 300 fine chickens and a flock of turkeys. They milk six fine dairy cows, deriving a neat income from them.

Mr. and Mrs. West are planning a trip to Colorado shortly which, after their season's accomplishment, will be a well-deserved indulgence.

AN UNBEATABLE COMBINATION

Everybody's Cash Store, "M" System, and Stuart's Furniture Hardware and Grocery make Remarkable Offer.

On September 21, through the combined firms of Everybody's Cash Store, "M" System, and Stuart's Furniture, Hardware and Grocery, there will be given absolutely free to the holder of the lucky ticket a valuable bed room suite. This suite is now on display in the show window of Everybody's Cash store, and is a prize to excite the envy of the most indifferent.

These three firms are leaders in their respective lines in this community, and beside the splendid prize offered, the public is assured of courteous treatment and a square deal by each firm.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Wednesday, Aug. 7, at Clovis, N. M., in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. McCarty, G. L. Vinson, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. West, Grandma Huntley, Dudley West and wife, Roy Vinson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil West and family, Bernice Vinson and Opal Till, Delma Ire McCarty and Opal West, and Dema Gann and Vedrie Vinson were united in marriage. One ceremony uniting both couples. Afterwards a dinner spread old fashioned on the ground, was enjoyed by all present.

Delma Ire has a position with the Hi-Way Motor Co., while Delma is a promising young farmer. Both have been residents of Sudan for some time. The brides were formerly of Hollis, Oklahoma, where they have many friends and relatives.

They have many friends in and around Sudan who wish them happiness and success.

WHY NOT BREED TURKEYS FOR EGGS

H. H. Weimhold has a turkey hen that by actual count this season has laid 49 eggs, and is still furnishing an egg regularly every second day. The hen is of the Bronze breed, weighing about 14 lbs. and this is her first laying season.

There are records of turkey hens which have exceeded this performance, but this is at least out of the ordinary, and causes one to wonder if turkeys could not be bred for egg production the same as chickens are bred.

W. A. Locker, an old time friend of the publisher of the News, now of the Bula community was in town and made this office an appreciated visit Saturday. Mr. Locker owns two good farms at Bula and says that his crops are the best that he has grown in this territory. He and his family moved here from Duke, Oklahoma five years ago.

Mrs. D. H. Criswell was called to Ralls, Friday, on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Schoolcraft, who is reported to be suffering from blood poison.

THEIR VACATION RAINED OUT

Prof. and Mrs. W. I. Wilkins left Tuesday of last week for an auto trip to the mountains of New Mexico. They visited Taos and Las Vegas and other points intermediate. It had been the intention to make it a camping trip and to be away several days longer, but Prof. Wilkins reports they encountered so much rainy weather that the trip was abandoned, as camping grounds were too wet for comfort, and they returned to Sudan Thursday.

The professor especially regrets the failure of their trip as he states it was the first occasion on which they had ever been able to give the family the slip and get away for a vacation by their lonesome.

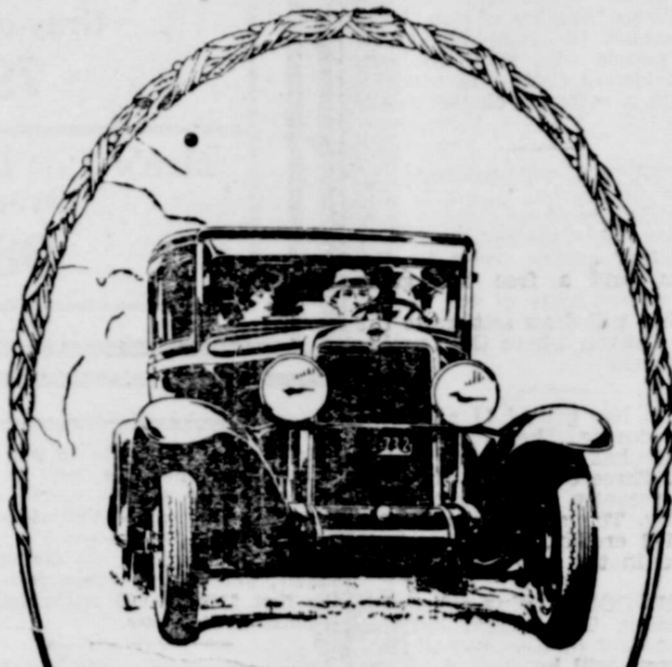

C. W. Buley, living 10 miles south of Sudan, is a new subscriber to the News. Mr. Buley and his family settled in Lamb county two years ago, and in addition to his general farming operations, is devoting considerable attention to poultry. He has developed this season a fine flock of Buff Orpington chickens and a nice flock of Bronze turkeys, and will pay special attention to these lines.

At any rate, they report their appetite for fish has been temporarily appeased.
