Her Blushes.
Her eyes were deep and tender, & brilliant, soulful blue. Her lips were just as tempting as some other lips I knew; but one thing really shocked me, it was so out of place; She'd got it almost in her ear—the rouge upon her face.

But, then, we knew each other well; a week or so, perhaps. Had quite sufficed to make us friends. We didn't care two raps what other people thought, and so, I grew a great deal bolder; She started with it on her face, but left it on my shoulder.

Mrs. J. T. Brooks and daughter, Miss Lucille left this morning to spend a few days at the Dallas Fair.

Mrs. Will Beard of Burkburnett, is spending the day with her aunt, Mrs. T. W. Roberts, 1500 Burnett avenue.

Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan left Wednesday on a pleasure trip to New York, Virginia and Washington, D. C.

F. Ellis Robertson entertained a few of his friends with a very pleasant birthday supper at his home yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. King and little daughter who have been visiting with Mrs. W. H. Davis returned to their home in Archer City Thursday.

The ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. W. Y. McCune, Monday at 3 o'clock p. m.

A pleasant afternoon was spent at Lake Wichita Wednesday afternoon by a small party of picnickers from the city. Those composing the party were Mesdames Boyds, Wilson Staton, McQueen, King, Davis and Misses Kate Jodie and Emma Haynes.

On Thursday evening Miss Lucille Brooks entertained Mesdames Torbett, Gibson, Avis and Gibson; Messrs. Huff, Gibson, Hug, W. F. Weeks and Wm. N. Bonner. A number of new musical pieces were rendered, after which the party retired to the dining room, where a most delightful oyster supper was served.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church was delightfully entertained at the home of the president, Mrs. F. A. Carlson, 1434 Austin avenue on Friday afternoon. Refreshments of nut salad, stuffed cherries, chocolate and cake were served and those present reported an enjoyable time.

In Honor of Mrs. Conn.
Mrs. T. B. Noble entertained delightfully at Forty-two on last Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Conn of Ada, Oklahoma, who spent several days in the city the guest of Mesdames Noble and Huff. There were five tables of guests and a very enjoyable and informal evening was spent. At the close of the games a salad course was served.

Floral Club Entertains.
Mrs. Vonderlippe was hostess of the Floral club at its regular meeting this week, also a few guests were present. Each member answered roll call with some current event.

The program consisted of several interesting paper and delightful music rendered by Miss Stonclipher. During refreshments it was announced that the club would meet with Mrs. Little, 806 Eighth street next week.

Birthday Party.
Mrs. J. M. Bland entertained a number of little people from 4 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in honor of the fourth birthday of her little son, Rhea. The following little guests were present: Virginia Miller, Robert and Mary Bonner, Campbell, Georgia Seibert, Carl Everly and Dorothy McCloud, Maurine Smith, Lorena and Leonora Thompson, Richard Wills, Richard Pifer, Ruby Lee Morrow, Clarke and Dudley Skeen, Celia Mae Wilson.

Wednesday evening a number of young people met at the home of Mrs. E. H. Ingram, at 100 Travis street, those present being Mesdames Gibson, Torbett, Porter, Gibson and Ingram; Messrs. Mytinger, King Thomas, W. F. Weeks and Wm. N. Bonner. Music was enjoyed throughout the evening, and delightful refreshments served. Misses Robinson, Avis, Kemp, Skinner, Coffield, Brooks, Anderson, Borsline and Torbett; Messrs. Long, Winn, Felder, Hendricks, Gibson, Huff, A. H. Britain, W. F. Weeks, Wm. N. Bonner were present.

Mrs. Mary Friberg Remembered.
Last Saturday, October 9, marked the reaching of the seventy-fifth milestone by Mrs. Mary Friberg and the occasion was not forgotten by her children and grandchildren, who arranged a surprise party and made the day a most happy one for 'Grandma' Friberg. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Friberg, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Friberg, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Friberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Byman, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Byman, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Geyer, and Mrs. Levi Cary.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society gave a tea at the home of Mrs. T. M. Smyre last Monday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and ferns. A program consisting of piano and violin solos and duets was skillfully rendered; and much merriment was caused by the reading of original poems descriptive of the manner in which individuals had earned their free-will offering. Thanks are due the visiting ladies for their generous offering. A delicious luncheon was served, and at a late hour quite a large number of ladies bade the hostess adieu hoping for an early repetition of her hospitality.

For Miss Torbett.

The pretty home of Mrs. R. E. Huff was on last Tuesday evening the rendezvous of a gay party of young people, who were invited out to spend the evening with her guest, Miss Gladys Torbett of Ada, Oklahoma. The amusements was Forty-two. There were six tables and the congenial party had a royal good time together. Those enjoying Mrs. Huff's hospitality were Misses Mary Anderson, Lucille Brooks, Evelyn Coffield, Katie Lou Avis, Lucille Wilson, Esther Gorsline, Fan Earl Robertson, Bonnie Skinner, Susie and Adell Gibson, Sybil Kemp, and Gladys Torbett, Messrs Bonner, Smith, Weekes, Hines, Britton, Felder, Murphy, Hendricks, Jones, William and Arthur Huff.

Unity Club Meets.

The Unity Club met yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Darnell at 1509 Austin. An instructive program was carried out, followed by dainty refreshments and the meeting was a thoroughly pleasing one. The following is the program:

'I love every inch of her prairie land,
every stone of her mountain side;
I love every drop of her waters clear,
that flows in her rivers wide;
I love every tree, every blade of grass

'42 and 500' Party.
The beautiful fall morning of Tuesday was spent most delightfully at the home of Mrs. Eugene Sherrod by a number of her friends at a '42' party. About twelve guests were assembled and no more beautiful day or more pleasant hour could have been selected. The sweetness of the arly morning hour, the delightful welcome accorded each guest by the hostess, who is noted among her friends for her charming hospitality, fitted each one for a morning of more than ordinary enjoyment. '42' was enjoyed until the noon hour when a dainty salad course was served. Those present were Mesdames Conn, Huff, Heath, Harrington, Foster, Robertson, Howard, Noble, Carrigan, and Misses Torbett, Shackelford and Sherrod.

In the afternoon from 3 to 5 Mrs. Sherrod very charmingly entertained at '500'. The afternoon was delightfully spent at this pretty home playing the entertaining game.

As the afternoon was drawing to a close a delicious salad course was served, and the guests left having spent a charming time with Mrs. Sherrod. Those present were Mesdames Conn, Roberts, Richolt, Kemp, Burnside, McGregor, Stuck, Hughes, Gorsline, Walsh, Miller, Waller, Scovell, Darnell, Montgomery, Misses Torbett, Chamberlain, Shackelford, Sherrod, Cora and Dora Coons.

The Parent-Teacher and Mothers Club held its regular meeting at the Alamo School building on October 15, at 3:30 p. m.

A very interesting and instructive program was rendered.

AS VIEWED BY AN ANTI PAPER.

There's no use trying to cloak the fact nor to shindy around to avoid the issue—the Texas election next year will be pro and anti. The usual pretense will be made by democrats, republican and all the rest; but all through and underlying and overlapping will be that one question. It seems a great pity and a shame to us as a people, that we do things hypocritically and indirectly by a custom that has made indirection seem honest—both a pity and a disgrace to us that we cannot for the coming once lay aside the shams of belief and of "make-believe" of character and vote squarely on the issue. In 1910 Texas should make the contest with an American or Liberty party and a party whose declared doctrine is the application of force for the regulation of any remaining free moral agency. If the civic institutions of government are to be vicarious only, if we are to have it of, for and by the black coat and white tie, let us go at that openly and above board.—Henrietta Review.

In an address at Dalhart one day this week State Senator John W. Veale of Amarillo announced his candidacy for congress against John H. Stephens in this the 13th district, and the race will be a lively one. Mr. Stephens is very popular with his constituents and about all that can be said against him is that he has enjoyed the honor about long enough and should be willing to take a rest for a term or so. But it is safe to say he will not voluntarily drop out.

The New York World, during the recent celebration in New York, said: "Visitors are respectfully requested not to mistake the horse cars for relics of Falton's time and carry them off as souvenirs." It is a relief to know that something escaped the souvenir-hunter.

The Abilene Reporter continues to reach the exchange table minus its editorial page and we hasten to inform its editor that while we enjoy the salad he serves, we would like to have some of his mayonnaise dressing along with it.

Eighteen New England cotton mills paid an average dividend of twenty-one per cent each. How much longer are the people of the south to make such things possible by the prices they pay for northern-made "all-wool" goods?

The announcement that the electric fan is agent for the spread of bacteria comes too late to worry us now and we will have forgotten it by the time hot weather arrives again.

While the North Pole discovery is still foremost in the public minds, will somebody please state what, O what, has become of Walter Wellman?

A VICTORY FOR FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

The discharge of the publishers of the Indianapolis News by Judge Anderson was a great triumph for the freedom of the press. These gentlemen were indicted for criminal libel in the District of Columbia at the instance of former President Roosevelt, and it was sought to drag them from their homes to the District of Columbia for trial under circumstances that might have made a fair and impartial trial impossible. After hearing the case, Judge Anderson denied the application for the removal order and discharged the men from custody.

The action against these publishers was atrocious to begin with and utterly subversive of the freedom of the press as well as obstructive of its highest public duty. The Indianapolis News as well as other newspapers had criticised the transactions leading up to the acquiring of the rights and property of the French Panama Canal Company, together with the circumstances by which Colombia was, through the connivance of the United States authorities, despoiled of a portion of her territory. As these transactions had to do with the United States government and the building of a canal at public expense, it was both the right and duty of the press to discuss the subject and to denounce any corruption which may have taken place.

There is scarcely a well-informed person in the country who does not believe that these Panama Canal transactions were attended by shameful incidents, and the belief is based upon evidence that is well nigh positive in character. And it was the duty of the press to do what it could to expose whatever wrongdoing that may have occurred and to denounce those who were responsible for it.

Many demands have been made upon William Nelson Cromwell to tell what he knew of these transactions, but he has remained silent. The senate committee on interoceanic canals attempted to obtain the information, but he refused to answer.

With all the appearance of crookedness with which the various Panama deals were invested, why was it not right for the press to do what it could to expose the rascality? And when newspapers perform this duty, why should the publishers be dragged from their homes to the District of Columbia to be tried for libel? If criticism of public matters and public men must subject publishers to that kind of tyranny, how long would civil liberty last?

The attempt of Theodore Roosevelt to punish the publishers of the Indianapolis News and New York World for criticising some of the transactions of his administration was a shameful abuse of power and an unwarranted invasion of their constitutional rights. Judge Anderson's reasons for dismissing Mr. Smith and Mr. Williams are sound and the American people will endorse them.—Houston Post.

Mrs. Belmont is planning to establish a chain of hospitals twenty miles apart in New York. Wonder if that has any connection with the suffragette movement she is going to start.

The saddest hurricane news we have yet heard comes from stricken Key West. Thousands of dollars worth of tobacco was destroyed when the storm struck that city.

We may be dense, but we cannot quite figure out just what connection there is between the climbing of Mount McKinley and the discovery of the North Pole.

THE LOAFER.

Tom Browne, the English Artist, and One of His Models.
Tom Browne, the English black and white artist, told the following story of one of his models: I used to have as a model a long, thin youth who was a golf caddie on Blackheath. I made a water color study of him and put in a street corner background. Before sending it to the frame maker's I wrote on the back in pencil a suggestion for a possible future title, "A Loafer." The frame maker after framing the sketch put it in his window until such time as he could send it up to me, with a card on the picture bearing the title, "A Loafer—By Tom Browne."

One morning the caddie came to the side door and asked to speak to me. "There's a picture of me in a shop window darn in Greenwich."
"Really?"
"Yes, an' all me pals 'ave seen it." (With a sudden fury.) "I ain't no loafer, I ain't. I'm a respectable caddie, I ha'n, and you've got to take it hout of the window."

I assured him that I knew nothing of the matter and was very sorry. "That be blowed for a tile," he retorted. "I'll mike yer pye damerges for this. I've been to my solicitor, and 'a sez' 'e can mike yer."

In the end I fixed it up by a little tip, an old coat and a drop of something. Of course I had the picture taken out of the window. The caddie has not sat for me since.

THE NARCISSUS.

Old Legends About This Beautiful and Ancient Flower.

The beautiful narcissus is a very ancient flower, and poets of all times have sung about it. It bloomed even as long ago as when gods and goddesses were supposed to live on the earth. The old Grecian legends say it was the flower the maiden Proserpine was gathering when Pluto took her away to his dark home under the ground.

Another legend tells about a beautiful youth named Narcissus. His father was a river god named Cephalus and his mother a nymph called Liriope. The wonderful beauty of the youth caused many to love him, but he was cold and indifferent to all.

A poor little nymph called Echo loved him so dearly that she pined away and died because he would not care for her.

At last Nemesis, the goddess of retribution, decided to punish him for his hard heart.

She caused him to fall in love with his own image as he looked into a stream, and as he could never reach this beautiful reflection he gradually perished with hopeless love.

His body was changed into the beautiful flowers which have ever since borne his name.—Pearson's Weekly.

Laughing Disclosures.

Concerning the laughter of the Frenchman, it should be noted that our neighbors have worked out a system of character reading by the vowel in which one laughs. Laugh in A (our English "Hr, ha!"), and, according to Larousse, you reveal yourself as frank, inconstant and fond of noise and movement. Laughter in E ("Heh, heh") would be the English rendering is for phlegmatic and melancholy. Children and simple persons laugh in a French I ("He, he"), showing themselves devoted, but timid and irresolute, and it is observed that blonds laugh "He, he!" "Ho, ho, ho!" is not the laugh of an ogre, but of one who is generous in sentiment and bold in action, though of a woman who laughs like that one should beware. But both men and women who laugh in U should be shunned like the plague, since they have given fair warnings that they are misers, hypocrites or misanthropes.—London Chronicle.

To Rule a Husband.

To rule your husband, my dear lady, do exactly as you please, but always pretend that you do as he pleases. That is where your ability comes in. Men are ruled, as children are, by the prospect of a reward. The reward of your husband is your amiability, your sweetness, your devotion and your beauty, of which you should take a constant care. Love has to be fed constantly. Always let him suppose that it is for him that you wish to remain beautiful. The woman who believes that she is asserting her independence every time she puts on a hat particularly displeasing to her husband is as clever and as intelligent as the Irishman who buys a return ticket at a railroad office and on entering the car remarks to the passengers: "I have played a good joke on the company. I have bought a return ticket, but I don't mean to come back."—Max O'Rell in "Her Royal Highness, Woman."

Otherwise Sane.

Examining Physician—Have there ever been any indications of insanity in your family? Applicant For Life Insurance (with visible reluctance)—Yes, sir; one. My father was the victim of a hallucination that I was born to be a great musician.—Chicago Tribune.

Had Him Fast.

Cynicus—It is impossible for a woman to keep a secret. Henpecke—I don't know about that. My wife and I were engaged for several weeks before she said anything to me about it.—Philadelphia Record.

Not Merely Fractured.

"Does your new baby break your rest much?"
"Break it! He pulverizes it!"—Exchange.

Opium is used as a medium of exchange in some parts of China.

Benjamin Clothes

You'd be surprised if we'd tell you the number of men in this city who come to us, quite worried because of the fear that they can not obtain a suit of exceptional attractiveness, and one not having that flippant "air" which characterizes so many makes of clothes. We quiet their fears in a moment and do it very easily, too. In our long experience we have found that freakishness is not style, nor are the clamorous patterns. Acting upon our real knowledge of a gentleman's needs we are always prepared to exhibit rare styles and fascinating patterns; BUT NOT boisterous clothes. The Seabright Sack, made by Alfred Benjamin & Co., in New York, is a remarkable style, which is so "up-to-the-minute" that it fairly sparkles. The fabrics are soft and rich; the tailoring is of the kind which only expert workers can give. It is a clean, good, "Made in New York" style which men of taste desire.

Boudoir Hints.

Care of Complexion.—If a girl gives a little attention to the cleaning and care of her face at night before retiring she need not worry about it much at other times. If dust or grime accumulates upon it during the day it should be taken off with either cold water or cold cream, though the latter should not be used when going out, as dust will then lodge on the face, work into the pores, and finally cause that bane of existence—blackheads. These are easier to keep away than remedy.

Learn Defects.—If you want to make the best of yourself, be honest with yourself, look facts squarely in the face. Recognize your defects, but do not let them depress you; set to work sensibly to discover what you can do to remedy them.

And as a first step to this make a friend of your mirror. One reason why the French woman is always so tastefully dressed is because she carefully studies the effect of each article she puts on in her looking glass.

Consult the Mirror.—Do not be afraid to consult your mirror. Sit down in front of it and say to yourself, "In what way can I improve my appearance so as to more nearly approach the perfect woman?" This is not vanity—it is merely common sense.

Does not Thackeray say that "A good face, a good address, a good dress are all so many points in the game of life of which every man of sense will avail himself." If this be true of man, how much more of a woman?

Notice To Stockholders.

As to Alfalfa Growing.

A light top dressing of manure after sowing, or, in case of fall sowing, any time during the winter, helps to conserve moisture as well as to give the growing plants some nitrogenous food. Applying a top dressing of stable manure at least every second or third winter is certain to prove profitable. If it contains coarse straw or other litter, this should be raked and hauled off later, but before the alfalfa grows too high, especially if the hay is intended for the city market. Many successful growers in Kansas, who claim to cut from five to seven tons of alfalfa hay per acre in a season, apply a top dressing of manure every winter. The highest yields reported from eastern states are where this practice is followed. Some experiment station men believe that where this is not done the crop will after eight or ten years tend to impoverish the land instead of further improving it.—From Coburn's "The Book of Alfalfa."

Fashion Notes.

Lace coats are worn in the evening lined with white chiffon or cloth of silver.

New coats have platted backs instead of the smooth, scanty fit of last year.

The long sleeve with the turned back frill is one of the newest fancies.

The white lace veil is still a craze, though less modish than the colored.

Shimmering silk stuffs in two toned effects will be much seen the coming winter.

Green costumes and touches of green here and there mark many of the winter outfits.

Bronzed leather is still the fad, and is shown both in French kid and in the new calfskin.

The automobile bonnet of poke persuasion, borrowed from early Victorian styles, has been a leader all the last season and is going on its way with apparently unabated success.

There is a most distinct promise of the mannish coat sleeves with no fullness at all at the shoulder.

For collars, revers and cuffs heavy Ottoman silk is much used in combination with broadcloth.

The short coat had hardly come in to style when it was whisked away to make room for winter things.

The season promises to be a season of extra long, narrow coats over plain striped or checked gowns.

The various wine and maroon colors are to be good style; violet, plum and purple shades will be modish, but not to such an extent as heretofore.

Mousseline and gauze ruching is used to finish gowns at the ends of the sleeves, around the bottom of the skirt, and elsewhere.

A FAMOUS SENTENCE.

Steele's "To Love Her Was a Liberal Education."

The remark which Steele made in reference, as is generally supposed, to Lady Elizabeth Hastings has often been quoted and almost as often quoted incorrectly. Steele wrote, "Though her men carries much more invitation than command, to behold her is an immediate check to loose behavior; to love her was a liberal education." There are two curious misquotations of this bright and famous sentence, which Thackeray declared to be "the finest compliment to a woman that perhaps ever was offered." One is in the essay on Pope contained in James Russell Lowell's "My Study Windows." "Was it not in this age," says Mr. Lowell, "that loose Dick Steele paid to his wife the finest compliment ever paid to woman when he said 'that to know her was a liberal education?'" Here are two distinct errors committed by so careful a writer as Mr. Lowell. Yet he is not alone in this. Arthur Helps in his romance of "Real-mah" has this sentence: "Steele also did not ill describe, though briefly, the charm of being with a woman whom he greatly admired when he said 'that to be much with her was in itself a liberal education.'" We are also told that Leigh Hunt once in quoting the remark incorrectly ascribed it to Congreve. Here, then, are three distinct writers of high rank who have shown how in a moment of careless composition they were led astray by an inaccurate remembrance. They had no desire to misquote their author, and they gave the substance. But they grievously failed in the words themselves and one of them at least in their application.—Argonaut.

A LESSON IN LOGIC.

Lord Erskine's Way With a Ruffianly Horse Beater.

It is only within the memory of living man that legislation has undertaken to protect domestic animals from the cruelty of their owners. Ownership was held to be absolute by most, but there was one man in England a hundred years ago who could demonstrate the untenable nature of this theory. This man was Thomas Erskine, one of the greatest lawyers and advocates of his age. A tradition survives at Hampstead, the residence of Lord Erskine, which Charles G. Harper has put into his book, "Rural Nooks Round London," and which shows how this legal authority would have administered more recent laws.

It is related that the celebrated Lord Erskine, walking one day on Hampstead Heath, saw a ruffianly driver shamefully thrashing a miserably ill cared for horse.

My lord remonstrated with the driver on the cruelty of it, whereupon the fellow retorted: "It's my own. Mayn't I use it as I please?" Then he started whacking the wretched animal worse than ever.

Erskine, greatly annoyed, laid his walking stick over the shoulders of the offender, who, crouching and grumbling, asked my lord—this is the drawing room version, not a verbatim report, which would read rather differently—what business he had to touch him with the stick.

"Why," said Erskine, "the stick's my own. Mayn't I use it as I please?"

Clearing House Operations.

A clearing house is an agency established by the banks of a city to which all checks drawn upon one city bank and deposited in another are sent for payment. Every morning there is a clearance, or settlement, of accounts, in which the checks deposited in each bank and the checks drawn upon each bank are separately summed up and compared. If there is more deposited in a bank than there is drawn upon it the bank receives the difference in cash. If the reverse is the case the bank pays the balance instead of receiving it. The term clearance means either the act of settlement or the sum of all the checks presented for payment. The amount of business done by the clearing house is a pretty sure index of the general condition of business.—New York American.

A Bavarian Apple Pie.

One of the most delicious ways to use apples in cookery is in a Bavarian pie: Line a deep dish with pastry. Fill it with breadcrumbs and bake it until the pastry is done. Then remove the crumbs and fill the cavity with chopped apples and nuts and some stoned raisins. Sweeten with sugar and flavor with nutmeg and cinnamon. Sprinkle with cake crumbs and bake till it is brown on top and the fruit within is thoroughly cooked. Spread over the top a lemon flavored meringue and let it become a light brown in the oven. Set the pie away to cool before serving.—New York Tribune.

Mr. Roosevelt's Account of Hunting the Wildebeest.

[From "African Game Trails" by Theodore Roosevelt in the October Scribner.]

Our hunt after wildebeest this afternoon was successful; but though by velvet law each animal was mine, because I bit it first, yet in reality the credit was communalistic, so to speak, and my share was properly less than that of others. I first tried to get up to a solitary old bull, and after a good deal of maneuvering, and by taking advantage of a second rail squall, I got a standing shot at him at four hundred yards and hit him, but too far back. Although keeping a good distance away, he tacked and veered so, as he ran that by much running myself I got various other shots at him, at very long range, but missed them all, and he finally galloped over a distant ridge, his tail switching, seemingly not much the worse. We followed on horseback; for I hate to let any wounded thing escape to suffer. But meantime he had run into view of Kermit; and Kermit—who is of an age and build which better fit him for successful breakneck galloping over unknown country dotted with holes and bits of rotten ground—took up the chase with enthusiasm. Yet it was sunset, and after a run of six or eight miles, that he finally ran into and killed the tough old bull, which had turned to bay snorting and tossing his horns.

Meantime I managed to get within three hundred and fifty yards of a herd; and picked out a large cow which was unaccompanied by a calf. Again my bullet wet too far back; and I could not hit the animal at that distance as it ran. But after going half a mile it lay down, and would have been secured without difficulty if a wretched dog had not run forward and put it up; my horse was a long way back, but Pease, who had been looking on at a distance, was mounted, and sped after it. By the time I had reached my horse Pease was out of sight; but riding hard for some miles I overtook him, just before the sun went down; standing by the cow which he had ridden down and slain. It was long after nightfall before we reached camp, ready for a hot bath and a good supper. As always thereafter with anything we shot, we used the meat for food and preserved the skins for the National Museum.

EXHILARATING SPORT.
Dog Driving Over the Ice and Snow of Labrador.

Winter driving with a team of a dozen dogs is declared by Dr. Grenfell of Labrador to be the most fascinating sport ever enjoyed by man. His description of it as quoted by James Johnstone in his book, "Grenfell of Labrador," is as follows:

Although there is no harder work when driving over a rough country, yet the bracing cold, the exhilarating brightness of the reflected light from the snow, the difficulty of getting badly hurt, however sharply one shoots a mountain side or even tumbles over a cliff, the absence of damp or moisture, the fact that one can travel anywhere in soft, light moccasins and in such clothing as is most conducive to agility, without any reference to conventionality, all help to vanquish any realization of labor on a long trip.

There is infinite scope for skill in choosing, tending and training your dogs, also for both pluck and physical strength in driving, and all the craft of the woodsman is called for in crossing miles of virgin country, where at any time any wrong turn will surely mean a night in the open and perhaps a temperature of 40 degrees of frost.

Dog driving also teaches one what boxing is said to teach, self control, for of all the trials of temper one can be called on to endure the worst is, given a glorious day for traveling and when one is in a hurry, to have one's dogs run wild, listening to nothing, not watching anything, but tangling with every stump and tree and biting at everything that comes in the way.

As one man told me when I asked him what kind of a team he had: "I's had to give 'em up, sir, though I loved the well enough. Good dogs be that wild it is too hard for to be a-handlin' of 'em and be a Christian, too, sir."
