PROS AND ANTIS CLASH AT AUSTIN

PROPOSAL TO RAISE AMOUNT FOR CONTINGENT EXPENSES IS BONE OF CONTENTION.

NIGGER IN WOODPILE

Is Discovered By Antis Who See Purpose to Open Investigation of Election.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Aug. 2.—The first clash between the pros and antis came in both the House and Senate today. In the House it was over a proposal to raise the appropriation for contingent expenses by five thousand dollars and in the Senate to raise the same fund by fifteen thousand dollars. The antis claimed the increase was for the purpose of an election investigation. The Senate adopted the increase, but a two-thirds vote being lacking it must lie over until tomorrow.

Favorable Report.

The Senate committee on Commerce and Manufacturing this morning reported favorably the joint resolution for drastic regulation of saloons. Hume, Murray and Kauffman submitted adverse minority reports.

The Senate today passed bills for mileage, per diem and members contingent expenses. The House decided to allow each member three newspapers to be paid for by the State.

The House passed resolutions inviting the National Advertising Clubs to Dallas, and supporting California's Panama exposition.

The saloon resolution requests permission to legislate upon measures to provide against illegal payment of poll taxes and to superimpose further safeguards upon the ballot; to prohibit the liquor traffic and those identified with it from contributing to campaign funds, and also to prohibit persons from disbursing such funds; to close saloons from 7 o'clock at night till 6 in the morning; to prohibit the sale of liquor except in unbroken packages and in quarts or more, and to prohibit the drinking of the same on the premises where purchased; to prohibit the sale of intoxicants within ten miles of any educational institution, including the University of Texas, that has appropriations from the general revenue; to increase the license tax on retailers and wholesalers of intoxicating liquors.

MONOPOLY CHARGED AGAINST LAND CO.

W. M. Davis Asks for Damages to the Amount of $500.

District court is today engaged in the trial of the case of W. M. Davis vs. the Wichita Sand and Gravel Co., the McCullough Construction Company, and J. W. Willett for damages in the sum of $500, alleging that the defendants maintained a monopoly on the gravel business at this place to the injury of his business.

The jury in the case was being selected at the time of going to press and it is expected that a part of the evidence will be taken this afternoon and the case concluded at tomorrow's session of the court.

Wilson Coming to Fair.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 1.—As the result of telegrams interchanged today between New Jersey friends of Gov. Woodrow Wilson, George D. Armistead, a San Antonio newspaper man, and Ed J. Kiest, president of the State Fair at Dallas, it has been settled that Gov. Wilson will speak at the State Fair on Oct. 28.

Will Furnish Wheat Only Where Soil is Properly Prepared

In connection with the plan of the Chamber of Commerce to assist the farmers of this section in procuring seed wheat for another crop it may be stated that a condition upon which the wheat will be apportioned will be that of a proper preparation of the soil for planting. This action will be taken both as a protection and for the purpose of encouraging better farming methods. The Chamber of Jules Verdrine, the famous French aviator, winner of the Paris-Madrid flight, and second in the race around Great Britain, who has announced his intention of competing for the $50,000 prize offered to the aviator who is first to fly across the American continent. Verdrine declared he plans to come to America between October 1 and 15, bringing with him three Marauder-Borel monoplanes. His great rival, Lieutenant Conneau (Andre Beaumont), winner of the around-England, Paris-Rome and European Circuit races has declared that he also may come to America and compete against Verdrine. The conditions of the contest are that the aviator must cover the ground between Boston or New York and San Francisco or Los Angeles, starting at either end of the course.

PROS. SPENT $119.90 IN WICHITA COUNTY

Statement Has Been Filed with County Clerk by Pro Chairman—No Statement from Antis.

Dr. J. M. Bell, chairman of the Wichita county statewide prohibition organization filed a statement with the county clerk yesterday showing the expenses of the prohibition campaign in this county to be $119.90. The receipts were $139, leaving a balance of $19.10 on hand.

No statement has yet been filed by the anti-prohibitionists in this county.

Judge J. H. Barwise, who is engaged in the lumber business at Hartley, is enjoying a short visit with his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, and other relatives and friends, and of course appreciates the opportunity of being in Wichita Falls and enjoying the company of his many friends. The Judge reports the Hartley country in fine shape as a result of the recent rains and he is very optimistic in his reference to conditions at that place.

ELECTION CONTEST BELIEVED UNLIKELY

PROHIBITION SUB-COMMITTEE AT AUSTIN ADJOURNED THIS MORNING.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

Committeemen Say They Will Await Action of the Legislature and Governor Colquitt.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Aug. 2.—The sub-committee of the prohibition executive committee left for their homes this morning and the opinion was expressed in legislative circles that the much talked of election contest is about to end. On leaving the committeemen said they would await the legislature's and the governor's action on saloon regulation and if the same was unfavorable to their side they would return en masse to assist in demanding a thorough airing of all phases of the late election.

In a statement issued last night by the sub-committee advised against a contest.

This statement in part follows: From the evidence before us, and considering the difficulties which surround a contest in the courts, our investigations thus far do not enable us to advise at this time a contest of that character, as we know the people of Texas would not desire to enter upon a contest until we had clear and sufficient evidence that would justify such action.

We have gone far enough into the matter to be absolutely sure that many changes in a great many counties in the state could be made in favor of the amendment by the throwing out of a large number of illegal ballots, and we have had under consideration facts that have convinced us to a moral certainty that the result, as returned, does not represent the verdict of a majority of the qualified voters of the state lawfully entitled to participate in the election.

"Widespread Conspiracy."

Evidence has been submitted to us which convincingly shows that at the very inception of this conflict and in preparation thereof the liquor interests entered into a widespread conspiracy to control the election by the use of a large number of poll tax receipts illegally issued, paid for and to be voted unlawfully by a class of white men, Mexicans and negroes, who could be reached by corrupt means.

We have reports and testimony before us, showing:

That where sworn officers, such as Tax Collectors, could be reached, poll tax receipts were procured directly from their offices and mailed to voters who had never applied for them or made the necessary affidavits, although such receipts showed upon their face that all the requisites of the law had been complied with.

Alleged Poll Tax Irregularities.

In a number of counties it was the practice to have deputies, in some instances negroes to go out and solicit the payment of poll taxes, their services being paid for by the liquor interests, which also paid for poll tax receipts.

In one county and in one box in one section of the state about one hundred poll tax receipts were shown to have been paid for by a local agent of the breweries.

In one county in another section it appears that the Tax Collector turned over his books containing the poll tax receipts to a saloonkeeper, who in turn issued some 700 such receipts, signing the name of the Tax Collector thereto, one of the saloonkeepers being a negro.

Offer to Deliver Votes.

In an other county in a different section some 400 poll tax receipts were issued and kept in a convenient safe to be used at the time of election, and in the same county they were so handy that one negro handed in three poll tax receipts as authority to vote.

One negro killed by a train just before the election in a certain county was shown to have thirty-four poll tax receipts on his person, with blank for name of voter unfilled, but signed by the Tax Collector.

In another county a Mexican leader approached the pro manager and showed that he was in control of twenty poll tax receipts and offered to deliver that number of Mexican voters for $5 per head, which offer was, of course, declined, and the leader arrested.

In one county deputies were sent

Paul Geidel, the seventeen-year-old bellboy, who killed William Henry Jackson, the aged New York broker, in the latter's apartments in the fashionable Iroquois Hotel, New York, and who has been indicted for murder in the first degree, following his confession of the crime. The youth committed the deed for the purpose of robbery, but secured only $24.75 after strangling the aged victim. His only regret expressed to the police, was that he didn't get more money. "I wish I had the job to do over again," he said "I'd do it differently."

PASSENGER COACH ON LOCAL FREIGHT

VICE PRESIDENT OF FORT WORTH AND DENVER ANNOUNCES NEW SERVICE TO ELECTRA.

OIL MEN ARE PLEASED

Can Leave Here in the Morning Spend Day in Field and Return at Night.

Effective tomorrow morning the local freight train leaving here northbound at about seven o'clock will carry a passenger coach for the accommodation of the oil men having interests in the Electra field.

In the evening the southbound local will carry the coach back to Wichita Falls.

Secretary Day of the Chamber of Commerce received a message from D. B. Keeler, vice president of the Fort Worth & Denver this afternoon announcing that the service would be inaugurated as outlined above.

Oil men to whom the news was told are very much pleased and speak high praise of the enterprise of the Chamber of Commerce and the consideration of Mr. Keeler.

The local generally leaves Wichita Falls at about seven o'clock. On the return trip it usually arrives at Electra at about 5 p. m., and the agent there will be able to give information in advance as to the probable time of arrival.

One who issued large numbers of poll tax receipts, receiving in return therefor a paper token, which was cashed by the liquor dealers so that the money therefore could be returned to the state and city Tax Collectors.

In a number of counties evidence was submitted that negroes in possession of poll tax receipts had admitted that they were given to them or had been sent to them, for which they had not paid, and for the issuance of which they had given no orders.

WITNESS TELLS HOW JACKPOT WAS SPLIT

FORMER ILLINOIS LEGISLATOR REITERATES EVIDENCE IN LORIMER HEARING.

HE REPEATS CONFESSION

Ex-Street Car Conductor Says It's Great to Be Lawmaker, With Passes and Franks.

(Dallas News)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—In great detail, Charles A. White, former Illinois legislator today repeated his confession to having accepted a bribe of $1,000 for his vote for William Lorimer for Senator.

He said the money was handed him personally by Lee O'Neil Brown Democratic leader of the lower house of the legislature in two installments. He testified that he received $100 in Springfield and the other $900 in eighteen crisp $50 bills was passed over to him in the Briggs House in Chicago.

Division of Jackpot.

He also retold the story of the division of the legislative jackpot in the bathroom of Representative Robert E. Wilson's room in the Southern Hotel in St. Louis. In this distribution of "spoils" White said he received $900.

Besides Representative Wilson and himself there were four others in the gathering at the Southern July 15, 1909, the day the jackpot was split. They were, according to White, Representatives Link, Shepard, Luke and Clark. Singly, at Wilson's invitation, he said the men entered their host's bathroom, and received from his hand the money due them for "work" done at Springfield. Shepard went in first and White followed.

"That is all of it," explained Wilson according to White, "as he handed White the $900. 'I am glad to be relieved of the burden.'"

Disatisfied with Division.

There was a disposition among some of the men to kick at $900. White said. They thought they should have more than that amount.

"Charley," the witness reported Representative Link as saying, "you fellows down the State got a dirty deal, didn't you?" to which White said he replied that he had had the same thought.

In his exposure of the system at Springfield, White appeared to have no desire to hold anything back. His answers seemed straightforward and frank. At the outset he attempted to make the members of the State committee believe it was not venial purpose that caused him to accept either the Lorimer money or his share of the jackpot.

Great to Be Legislator.

For six years before he went to the legislature, White was a street car conductor. Even after his election he still continued to ring up fares until the legislature convened. In Springfield he immediately got into the swim. It was fine to be a legislator he thought. In his testimony today he told of a few of the benefits that came to him. He had his salary of $2,000 for the session, with allowances for mileage and stationery; he had passes on all the railroads in the State, including Pullman sleeping car passes, which members received in bunches and wrote in such names of destination as they liked; he had Western Union telegraph franks, and in addition all this he had "patronage."

Passes Were Pleasant.

"They had 137 janitors at $2 a day each," said White, "and the one I got appointed never did an hour's work all session. The others worked about as hard."

He explained that the members used to "exchange railroad annuals; those in the north part of the State traded with those in the south, each crowd cornering the transportation on the roads in their own section. They gave away the extra passes to their friends, he said, a custom which has been in vogue in Illinois for many years.

The many friends of John Fooseber, formerly a resident of this city but lately located at Claremore, Okla., will be glad to know that the family are to again reside in Wichita Falls, they having already returned to this city.

COTTON CONDITION ABOVE NORMAL

ON JULY 25 CONDITION OF THE CROP WAS 89.1 PER CENT COMPARED WITH 88.2 PER CENT LAST YEAR.

COTTON AT TEN CENTS

Is Prediction of Boston News Bureau. Crop Estimated at 15,000,000 Bales.

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—The cotton conditions on July 25th was 89.1 per cent of normal compared with 88.2 per cent on June 25th of last year 79.4 average for the past ten years.

The condition of the crop in Texas on July 25 was 86 per cent compared with 79 per cent—the ten years average. In Oklahoma the condition was 86 per cent compared with the ten years average of 81 per cent. In Louisiana 84 per cent compared with 78 per cent; in Arkansas 94 per cent compared with 79 per cent.

A Boston Estimate.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—The Boston News Bureau last night says that 10 cent cotton is practically assured unless great disaster befalls the incoming crop. Its reports from all over the South are of the most optimistic sort.

Big Crop for Georgia.

Georgia will raise the largest crop in its history. Four million bales are freely predicted for Texas, and Oklahoma is good for not far from one million bales.

Some experts say the prediction has been greatly underestimated by the Government, and that it is possible to harvest fifteen million bales. Anything like this would mean cotton below 10 cents.

Further Curtailment Probable

On the other hand, it is the general opinion in cotton mill circles that a further curtailment of mill operations will be necessary through August and well into September.

The recent break in raw cotton has not helped the goods situation, as buyers have become cautious and there is an abnormally tight demand for goods.

CORSICANA COMPANY FILES MORE LEASES

More leases were filed for record by the Corsicana Petroleum Company which had already recorded leases for several thousand acres in the Friberg neighborhood.

The indications are that the Corsicana Company will immediately sink several wells in that vicinity.

Leases filed for record today by this company were as follows:

- Wm. Friberg, et al, 379 acres, 7 miles northeast.

- S. A. Waits, 200 acres out of B. B. & C. Ry. Co., survey.

F. J. Schaefer to Mrs. Bettie Baugh, lot 11, block 151, $6000.

Mrs. S. T. McGowen and her husband, the Premier of New South Wales, the Australian state where equal suffrage has proved a tremendous success. Both the premier and his mild-mannered little wife, the parents of eight children, are strong advocates of women's suffrage. "Let women have the vote," said the Premier during an interview in New York, where he is visiting after having seen the Coronation in London. "Women have made a model state out of New South Wales and the American women will solve the problems of government for you if you will let them; they made admirable citizens, as ten years of the ballot has proved to us of New South Wales.

STATEWIDERS SPENT $1,423.82 IN BEXAR

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 2.—The expenses of the pros in Bexar county were $1,423.82, according to a statement filed by Chairman T. H. Ridgeway. The antis have not filed any statement.

The saloon men here have refused to discontinue free lunches as requested by the restaurant keepers. The saloonkeepers claim that without free lunches they might as well go out of business.

EXPRESS COMPANIES PETITION DENIED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—All express companies were denied their petitions for relief and new rates under the long and short-haul law of the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Another Local Option Election.

San Angelo, Aug. 1.—The commissioners' court late this afternoon ordered a county local option election for Aug. 29, following the failure of pros and antis to reach an agreement regarding the closing of saloons at the end of a year.

The Wichita State Bank

Wichita Falls, Texas

This Bank and Your Business

There are many banks in the country larger than The Wichita State Bank. They may have more capital and perhaps do a greater volume of business. But for the smaller business man, farmer or manufacturer, had it occurred to you that the small bank is the best place for the beginner to go?

The big bank is often cold-blooded and independent. Your business in the big bank is but an incidental detail, and your interests are scarcely noticed.

The small bank, however, can give your business more time and attention, for it is interested in your success.

This bank while small in comparison to some of the large banks, has ample means and facilities to properly care for your business. Its officers have time to consider your interest and welfare. Your business will be welcome and will receive their best attention.

ARRANGING FOR NAZARENE CONFERENCE

Committee Appointed to Select Accommodations for Three Hundred Delegates.

A meeting of the members of the Church of Nazarene was held Tuesday night to discuss plans with reference to the district convention to be held in this city for one week beginning September 20th, for the entertainment of which the Chamber of Commerce has appropriated $100. Committees were appointed to solicit homes for the delegates and these began a canvass of the city today. It is estimated that there will be at least three hundred in attendance at the meeting and it is the desire of the committee to secure accommodations for even a greater number, as it is possible that the attendance may exceed the expectations of the officers of the convention. At the convention held last year at Hamlin the attendance reached five hundred and it is possible that this number may attend the session at Wichita Falls this fall.

Rev. Fisher, in charge of the work in the district, has been in the city for the past few days looking after the preliminary arrangements for the convention, with reference to which the members of the church at this place are very enthusiastic and propose to do their part toward making the occasion a successful one. In this respect they should have the hearty cooperation of the public.

The committee will have a meeting Thursday to canvas the situation and ascertain the success made in securing homes, as well as outline a plan for further providing for the entertainment of the assembly.

DISCUSS DISPOSAL OF AVIATION TROUBLE

Messrs. J. B. Marlow and J. C. Tandy of the committee from the Chamber of Commerce in connection with the aviation meet and to which committee was referred the adjustment of the matter following a failure of the company to put on the exhibition, held a meeting at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce this morning and it was agreed and Secretary Day was authorized to pay the outstanding bills incurred in advertising and otherwise promoting the occasion the remainder of the money taken in to be held in trust pending a further adjustment of the matter.

The committee has not as yet decided as to the action that will be taken under consideration. One proposition provides for the refunding of the money to those who paid to see the exhibition, but this is thought impracticable in view of the fact that there is no record of those who paid admission, many having given up or thrown away the tickets and wind checks. Another plan is to donate the money after the expenses are paid to some charitable institution, while a third proposal is to keep the fund in trust to be used at some future date in promoting a successful aviation meet.

Just what action the committee will take will probably be determined within the next day or two and announcement made for the information of the public.

Toronto's Aviation Meet.

Toronto, Ont., August 2.—With an aeroplane race from Hamilton to Toronto as the introductory feature, to be followed by an entire week of prize contests for speed, duration, altitude, etc., the aviation meet which is to have its opening here tomorrow promises to be one of the most notable and successful affairs of its kind yet pulled off in America. The aviation field, located within easy access of the city, consists of a tract two miles in extent, without obstructions of any kind. Half a dozen aviators of international reputation are to participate in the meet, among them being Charles F. Willard, J. A. D. McCurdy, J. J. Ward and Ladis Lewkowicz, the last-named being a young Russian aviator and the first one of his nationality to fly in America.

Baptist Young People of Texas.

Palacios, Texas, August 2.—If a good attendance and attractive program make for success the twenty-first annual encampment of the Baptist Young People's Union of Texas which opened here today will be one of the most profitable summer assemblies ever held in this section. The program covers two weeks and provides for lectures and addresses by a number of religious workers of wide prominence. Among them are Dr. S. J. Reid of Belfast Ireland, President Brooks of Baylor University, Rev. B. H. Carroll, D. D., president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, and Rev. William J. Williamson, D. D., of St. Louis, president of the Baptist Young People's Union of America.

A COLLECTION OF FREAK ACCIDENTS

Laughing, Yawning and Even Sleeping Have Brought About Serious Injuries.

When a mild-eyed, yet militant suffragette doubles up her little fist and swats a London bobby in his optic, the injury is called "franch-eyes" by the facetious ambulance surgeons. It's a new kind of accident and requires a distinctive name. There are lots of queer accidents, however, which have regular old-fashioned names. Men have dislocated their shoulders raising the convivial glass. Not so long ago a quick lunch patron fell off a high stool, dislocated his wrist and nearly swallowed a silver spoon. A soldier dislocated his ankle on the double quick. In all the cases out of joint that have been recorded at the hospital recently were to be confined in one ward the beds might, appropriately be marked laughing, yawning, curling irons, dancing, hobble skirt, etc.

One of the oldest sounding accidents was that to a well-known New York newspaper man named Frank Jones, who telephoned the office that he could not come to work, as he had cut his foot while shaving. Investigation proved that he had dropped his razor and stepping backward, had trodden on it.

Chester Turner of Hanover, Mass., awoke on the morning of December 10, and found he could not move. He had dislocated his hip while asleep.

Patrolman Edward T. Gardner of traffic squad C, New York, dismounted from his horse at the Broadway Forty-second street crossing, slapped his cold hands together to stimulate circulation and dislocated his shoulder.

The experience of Chester Turner and Patrolman Gardner illustrate the fact that it does not take a great deal to unsettle a joint. All that is necessary is just the right sort of a little twist at the right place and given in just the right way.

Thousands of women are daily curling their back hair without meeting accident, and yet not long ago a woman dislocated her shoulder doing that very thing. And, again, a Miss Edith, Bodman of Springfield, Mass., had her shoulder dislocated and her right arm broken by tripping on the train of her gown and falling to the floor.

Instances of people yawning their jaws out of joint are numerous. Louis H. Hurley of Ashbury Park, an insurance agent, yawned the other evening until he experienced a double dislocation of the jaw, and a doctor had a good job setting it again.

John Deakin of Brooklyn, had a little different experience, however; he yawned until he dislocated his shoulder, and Miss Alys Cushing of Denver, awaking one morning stretched and yawned until she unjoined her neck, and it took an osteopath to get it back into place.

Emil Williams of No. 19, West

Eighteenth street, New York, yawned and yawned until there was a click and a hitch and he couldn't shut his mouth again. He ran into the street and began making such queer signs that a passerby called a policeman, who was finally made to understand that the man was suffering from a dislocation of the jaw, and an ambulance was sent for. Before the arrival of the ambulance the policeman thought he would try an experiment on the sufferer, and taking his nightstick, hit Williams a short, sharp rap on the jaw, and immediately the great or maxillary snapped back into place and when the surgeon came he examined the joint and found it all right.

The hobble skirt claimed several victims. Not long ago Miss Winifred Lawrence of Milwaukee in trying to take a long step in order to clear a small mudpuddle, was tripped by her hobble skirt, thrown violently to the pavement and received a badly sprained ankle. But an even more recent case is that of Miss Jane Cumming of New York, who was tripped by the hobble skirt while descending a flight of stairs and fell, breaking her hip and receiving internal injuries of a serious character.

John J. Jordan of Sioux City, Iowa, broke his finger by exerting too much force in taking off a sock. It seems his garter caught and when he gave it a good yank, his finger snapped.

Edmond L. Koedler, of the art firm of Koedler & Co., New York, who is a golf enthusiast, broke a leg and dislocated an ankle in making a hard swing for a long drive on the Dinwoodie club links.

Mrs. Sarah Fisher of Port Washington, L. I., attended the theatre in New York one evening and toward the end of the performance took a violent fit of sneezing and had to be taken to the ladies' room, where a physician found that she had broken two ribs.

David Watson of West Orange, N. J., had an experience with a celluloid collar that he will remember for many a day. Watson was wearing the collar and at the same time pouring gasoline from one can into another, when suddenly the gasoline exploded and set the celluloid collar afire, immediately flames shot up in a circle about his head and the next minute Watson was on his way to a nearby fire house. When he arrived one of the firemen turned a stream from a chemical extinguisher upon the burning collar and put out the flames, but Watson was so badly burned that he had to be taken to the hospital.

Dislike for a fashion cost Mrs. Abye Harrison of Union Township, N. J., one of her thumbs. Mrs. Harrison bought a pair of high-heeled shoes, but when she got home she decided that she didn't like the high heels and was trying to cut them down with an ax when that implement slipped and cut off a thumb.

A very little, every-day sort of an accident cost Abel B. Gaston of Plainfield, N. J., his life. Gaston was walking with a young woman in a hall in Plainfield one evening when in trying to avoid bumping into another couple he swayed to one side and struck his elbow on the sharp corner of a post. The pain of the accident caused him to leave the floor and go to the cloakroom where he was found unconscious a little while later. A physician was immediately called and the unconscious man was taken home. The next morning he died. The doctors diagnosed the case as meningitis.

If they don't make good as a ball team, now that they have signed a couple of Cubans and an Indian, the Cincinnati Reds can join the "Bill Show" as a congress of ball players of the world.

Detroit seems to have it on all the American League teams with the exception of New York. The Yankees have won nine of the 11 games played with the Tigers.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS PROSPER

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 2.—Delegates from every section of the country, and representing a membership of two millions and total assets of about $800,000,000, were present at the opening here today of the nineteenth annual convention of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations. The opening session this morning, following the welcoming addresses and responses, was devoted to committee appointments and the annual reports of the several officers. These reports showed that the local building and loan associations have, during the past year, shared the general prosperity of the country, and have done the largest business in their history. At the subsequent sessions, which will continue over tomorrow, the league will discuss numerous questions relating to the protection and promotion of building association interests.

Heading the list of speakers is Dr. Charles Parnod of Paris, head of the Bureau of Assurance and Social Providence of the French Government, who will be heard on the subject of "Co-operation as Applied to Home Purposes in Europe." Among the other scheduled speakers are F. N. Penniston of Hancock, Mich., Arthur H. Murdock of Omaha, John C. Butterfield of Jersey City, C. A. Royle of Terre Haute, E. L. Kessler of Charlotte, Clay W. Holmes of Elmire, Charles Werno of Chicago and R. L. Prohibit of Monroe, La. Addison B. Burk of Philadelphia is slated for election to the presidency of the league.

Oregon to Celebrate.

Astoria, Ore., Aug. 2.—One week hence there will be inaugurated here the Astoria Centennial Carnival, for which preparations on an elaborate scale have been going forward for more than a year and are now practically completed. The carnival festivities will extend over an entire month and will embrace a wide variety of attractions. The management is in receipt of advices indicating the attendance of thousands of visitors from all of the Pacific States and from Canada and the East as well.

The celebration is to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the arrival on the Pacific coast of the expedition sent from New York by John Jacob Astor. The expedition resulted in the settlement of Astoria, which gave the United States its strongest claim to the Oregon country, and also marked a chapter of American heroism and suffering that has first place in the daring annals of exploration. The little group of husk erected by the fur traders and explorers was named Astoria in honor of the promoter of the expedition and formed the first permanent settlement in this part of the country. Though the British took possession of Astoria FOFI in the war of 1812 and renamed the place Fort George, the place was restored to America after the treaty of peace with America.

To Harvest the Western Crop.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—The Canadian Pacific today started the first of its harvesters' excursions to the West where the farmers are reported to be in need of 50,000 harvest hands to assist in caring for the great wheat crop estimated at 20,000,000 bushels. The largest number of men hitherto sent West for harvesting was two years ago, when 28,000 made the journey. The big increase this year is due to the fact that the crop in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan promises exceptionally well, both on land and that which has been in cultivation for years, and on the big additional acreage that has been broken up during the past two years. The railroads expect to recruit thousands of harvesters in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. It is probable that a number will also be brought out from England.

Reunion of Alden Descendants.

Duxbury, Mass., Aug. 2.—Several hundred descendants of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins, of Pilgrim fame gathered here today for the eleventh annual reunion of the Alden Kindred of America. The exercises were held on the old John Alden homestead property. This Is My 33rd Birthday.

Princess Ingeborg.

Princess Ingeborg, one of the most popular members of the Swedish royal family, was born August 2, 1878. She is the wife of Prince Carl, a younger brother of the present king of Sweden. Before her marriage she was a Danish princess, being the daughter of the Crown Prince (now King Frederick) of Denmark. The marriage of Prince Carl and Princess Ingeborg took place in 1897. Their union has been blessed with two daughters, Princess Margaret, the elder, being now in her twelfth year and Princess Maratha, a year younger. Prince Carl and his wife lead a most democratic life, which can be said also of the other members of the Swedish royal family. In winter they live in Stockholm, and in summer they take their children to a little villa called Parkudden, situated on the Djurgard, not a great distance from the capital.

Political Immorality.

The bald truth, in view of the evidence on all hands, is that the politicians, as a class, are a thoroughly bad lot. It would seem that men who attain public office carry a high percentage of low-grade morals, which fructify under the warmth of balm sunshine that filters through the glass houses in which they live.

Politics makes cowards of us all—says the politicians. They are the unfortunates. Only we who elect them know the meaning of fear. These night-riders step into the saddle from the necks of the voters, upon whose backs they apply the lash as they ride away.

However, there have been some sharp scrimages of late, and many a booted baron has been flung from the pommel, court-martialed by the soldiers of the common good, stripped of his epaulettes, and disgraced. The tramp of staidier feet is heard on the highway, and an army recruited from the inexhaustible ranks of the ninety-five millions is marching under the tricolor of conscience, duty and service.

Were it not for the unflagging powers of rehabilitation common to the insurgent American citizen, the profession of politics, as it has been practiced for the last thirty years in this our native land, would indeed be unattractive to our young men—Munsey's Magazine.

TEXAS WOMEN HAVE GREATEST INDEPENDENCE

Special to The Times.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 2.—In no part of the country do women have greater independence and ways of their own than in Texas. The Texas girl is the very impersonation of all that is essential in the real womanly woman. In addition to all those qualities which are so important to womanly grace and dignity, she is capable of taking care of herself. Those pictures which some years ago showed the Texas girl as a rowdy tom-boy astride a broncho in a wild dash through the cactus did the women of Texas a very grave injustice. It is true that the Texas girl can ride a horse—just like a man—but there is nothing about her that suggests the undignified when she does so. She is at home on a horse just as she is at home in the most refined social circles. The fact is she is doing her part in the world's work in that modest and womanly way that makes her a most pleasing and attractive to somebody. Recently John Y. Kline of Springfield, Mass., spent two months in Texas, and this is the way he describes the Texas girl, who is doing things in a most emphatic manner. He says: "I was out on a ranch, arn't there about four o'clock p. m. Shortly after I arrived a young woman rode up on a broncho and dismounted. As she swung down from the saddle more gracefully than a man could have done; her father said to me: 'That is my daughter.' She graduated from the Texas University this year and is spending this summer in the saddle as a kind of constitutional. She has just returned from assisting in moving three thousand head of cattle across the river to better pasture." An hour later I was invited into the dining room for supper and found this young woman sitting at the head of the table where she presided with all the dignity of a woman who had devoted all her life to such duty. After the supper was over the father invited me into the parlor to listen to this same young woman play the piano, and her performance compels me to say that in all my life I have heard but few women who could play a piano better than this young woman did. She appeared to be a master of the instrument and went through a number of difficult numbers with the real skill of an artist. In my two months stay in Texas I found many young women with all the polish of higher education, who could turn their splendid accomplishments to the rough work of the ranch and at the same time not lose that indescribable charm that inherently belongs to woman."

WANT ADS

Placed under this head will bring satisfactory results. One cent the word for an insertion; Half Cent the word each following insertion.

Probably a Lot of Your Troubles Wouldn't Trouble a Want Advertiser at All!

Want advertisers and answers of want advertisements ACCOMPLISH THINGS that other people simply "worry about," and hope that they "will work out somehow, sometime."

With want advertising, the property owner finds either buyers or tenants, while the non-advertiser WANTS for someone to "come along" and search for him and for his property.

With want advertising, the worker finds work—the employers finds workers—and the machinery of daily life does not slip a cog.

With want advertising, the used articles are sold to advantage—the business plan finds a "backer"—the buyer and seller discovers each other without any "blind searches," and people come to manage their affairs with the smallest possible amount of vexation, worry or delays.

There's not much nourishment for the "trouble-germ" in any of your affairs if you utilize want advertising to the fullest possible extent.

VARDAMAN'S ELECTION IS NOW CONCEDED

By Associated Press. Jackson, Miss., Aug. 2.—Vardaman's election as United States Senator yesterday is conceded by his opponents.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 1.—If the more remote country districts, regarded as his strongholds, maintain the ratio shown in the returns received up to 1:30 this morning former Governor James K. Vardaman will be declared the Democratic nominee for United States senator from Mississippi without the necessity of a second primary.

At that hour Mr. Vardaman was leading his two opponents, United States Senator Leroy Percy and C. H. Alexander, by a small majority which the friends of the former governor assert will be increased as the results are received from the precincts less accessible to the telegraph and telephone. So far the returns have been had principally from the cities and towns and complete returns will probably not be available for another twenty-four hours.

For Lieutenant Governor, Theo. G. Bilbo, state senator, is running well ahead of his two opponents, Wiley N. Nash of Starkville and T. O. Yewell of Carroll county. His vote is but little short of that polled by Vardaman and his nomination on the first primary is not improbable. Nash is his closest follower.

Besides the candidate for state offices complete lists of county officials were balloted for in each county and the count is necessarily progressing slowly.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 1.—"It's a landslide for Vardaman," declared Major Vardaman this morning. "We will carry the state by a sweeping majority and I expect to be elected on the first count. The vote up to this time does not give an idea of the total vote which has been cast for me in the country districts."

The Percy campaign managers decided to make a statement other than to say that their candidate was running ahead of Alexander and close to Vardaman.

VERNON BLEW UP IN NINTH INNING

AMATEURS PROVE BETTER AVIATORS THAN THE "FLYING DUTCHMAN."

FINAL SCORE 13 TO 0

Jones Made Good Showing Against Lads, But His Support Was Very Poor.

Special to The Times. Vernon, Texas, Aug. 2.—The Irish Lads ran away with things in the ninth inning here yesterday, when the locals blew up, ten runs being made in this round by the leaguers.

Until the ninth both teams put up a pretty game, the score standing 3 to 0 in favor of the Lads.

Jones, the local pitcher made a good showing against the visitors, striking out ten of the opposing batsmen, and if his support could have stood the test at the critical times the hits and runs would have been less one-sided.

The Lads play here today and then go to Frederick, Okla., for a series of games.

Lunsford began in the box for Bonham, but was wild and was replaced by Halslip who yielded but three hits. Hiett was touched for thirteen hits. The locals won after two were out in the ninth, when Stillman singled. Halslip scored him with a three-bagger to right field and Baker delivered the pinch hit that brought in the winning run.

Durant 9, Ardmore 0. Durant, Okla., Aug. 2.—With the score 4 to 0 in Durant's favor in the first half of the fifth Capt. McAvoy called the Ardmore players off the field yesterday and Umpire Chappell declared the game forfeited to Durant 9 to 0. In the four innings played Durant got six singles and a double and executed two double and one single steal. In the last double steal Brownlow scored and Burge took second.

BALLET DANCERS.

Long Training and a Ceaseless Grind of Hard Work Are Theirs. The modern imperial ballet schools of St. Petersburg and Moscow are under government control, forming, with the theaters and dramatic schools, a department of the ministry of the court.

The dancer's life is a ceaseless round of hard work. All, even great artists, when at home take regular daily lessons in addition to the daily rehearsals for the next performance which are demanded, however old and well known the ballet.

Trained artists are kept to design in every detail of period and subject, the dresses, scenery and accessories—a task obviously requiring much imagination and much knowledge—and often as many as 150 personages appear on the stage at the same time.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

To Catch a Glimpse of It Just Get Delirium Tremens.

The majority of us are like brutes. We believe but in the reality of things. Science, more hospitable, acknowledges the fourth dimension and with it the constant parade before our eyes of things and events ordinarily unseen.

Thinkers as sober as Jerons and Babbage go a bit further. They will, if you let them, tell you that whatever occurs in the privacy of a room remains photographed in it. A mere extension of this enables oculists to say that nothing has ever occurred anywhere which is not also photographed; that in the ether above us is the great picture gallery of the world.

Opened His Eyes to the Future. "Diddle, I'm awfully sorry you use tobacco. I don't like it, and mamma simply loathes it. Will you stop when we are married?"

"Isn't that asking a lot, dearie?" asked Dick. "I wouldn't care for myself," answered the girl, "but you know it makes mamma deathly sick."

"Well, then," he promised cheerfully, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll never smoke when your mamma is with us. She threw her arms around him. "Darling," she murmured, "that's so good of you! I was afraid you'd insist on smoking once in awhile after we were married!"—New York Globe.

The Iron Cross. The Iron Cross, an order of knighthood, was established by Frederick William III. of Prussia in March, 1813. The order was founded in order to honor patriotic bravery in the war against France. It was revived by Emperor William I. during the Franco-Prussian war and awarded by him to his son for his great victory at Wissembourg on Aug. 4, 1870. Later on the order was bestowed most generously, some 40,000 persons being decorated between 1870 and 1872.

Expert Advice. The prison turnkey found the two cellmates deeply engrossed. One pored over the market reports of a newspaper and figured on the margin with a pencil. His cellmate sat expectant. WALL STREET.

The Human Side of New York's "Wall Street."

To the man who looks from without upon Wall street it seems a place of deep and dangerous mystery, a region of dens and caves and labyrinthine full of perils which threaten loss and perhaps ruin to him who enters there.

Wall street may be said to be the most democratic street in the world, for all its vast wealth. There is no street where a crowd will gather more quickly than there, even upon the smallest pretext. It may be a street taker selling some newfangled toy or a man gliding the ball on a肥皂 500 feet up in the air.

This sort of thing usually takes place during the noon hour, and at that time all work is suspended at the first sound of a band in the distance. Everybody flies to the curb. Business can wait in this busiest of streets for most anything before 2 o'clock, when the chimes of Trinity sound the afternoon session and "the street" settles down to its serious business of making financial history.

Such is the everyday "outside" little crooked street, "with the river at one end and a cemetery at the other," which has sent scores upon scores to one or the other—the street with a destiny.—Strand Magazine.

Ghosts Without Heads.

Speaking of ghosts, the London Chronicle says that "headless coaches" are fairly numerous in England. The most famous is the one that drives once a year, on the anniversary of Anne Boleyn's execution, up the avenue at Bickling, near Norfolk home. The coachman and the four horses have not a head between them, and Anne's own is not upon her shoulders, but she holds it in her lap as she sits in the coach all in white. At the hall door the whole apparition vanishes. Anne's father, Sir Thomas, also rides in a coach drawn by headless horses once a year, and his ride is much more exciting than his daughter's. He has to cross forty county bridges during the night and a company of yelling demons pursues the coach to keep the horses going. But how do the horses bear the noise if they have no ears?

A Shadow Fifty Miles Long.

The peak of Tenerife projects a huge shadow stretching upward of fifty miles across the deep and partly eclipsing the adjoining islands. Exaggerated shadows of immense size are commonly seen in many other places. On the Hara mountains the so called Specter of the Broken throws gigantic shadows of mountain climbers into the sky, repeating every movement made by them. The same occurs on the summit of Pambamarca, in Peru.

As to the Fireplace.

The sides of a fireplace should be well glazed or beveled in order to reflect the heat, says Arta and Decora. The back should lean forward at the top for the same purpose, and the fireplace should not be too deep. A projecting chimney produces an effect of pushing the guest away, whereas a receding one beckons him nearer to enjoy the hospitality of the open fire. For this reason the Inglenook—that is, the fireplace built into the wall of the room—is especially cozy and attractive.

A Bird Mystery.

After years of study devoted to the topic Professor Alfred Newton of Cambridge stated that without doubt bird migration is the greatest mystery in the entire animal kingdom. "A mystery," he added, "that can be no more explained by the modern man of science than by the simple minded savage of antiquity."

Inquisitiveness.

"One half the world doesn't know how the other half lives," quoted the wise guy. "That's right," agreed the simple mug. "Men are not so inquisitive as women."—Philadelphia Record.

One Want.

"What the world is waiting for," said a man whose garments glistened. "Is some sort of a simple, easily applied and inexpensive preparation that would give a dull finish to shiny coats."—New York Sun.

Olives are one of the few pickles that children can eat in any quantity they like and not hurt them any.

The pulp of the olive and the oil which it contains is of exceptional value to growing children and it also satisfies their taste for something sour.

There is quite a difference in Olive quality. Bismark Queens that we are selling at 50c per quart jar are very mild in flavor and of exceptionally fine quality in oil and pulp. They are jumbo queens the large size and are beauties.

It will pay you for the health of your family to have these olives on the table constantly and at the price quoted you can well afford it. Let us send you a jar at once.

THE POCKETKNIFE

Many Machines and Processes Used in Its Making.

ART IN FORGING THE BLADES.

To become an adept in the delicate work of tempering edge steel necessitates a long course of training and years of experience. The labor of making a pocketknife is as usual in every industry that is carried on by the aid of a great deal of machinery, much divided. Each blade must go through six separate processes—first, forging; second, laying on the "tang," that part which is inserted into the handle and through which the blade is riveted; third, marking or stamping with the name of the manufacturer; fourth, "chilling," or filing a depression in the neck of the blade between the sharp edge and the heavier part or "tang;" fifth, tempering; sixth, grinding.

All this applies to the two ordinary blades of a knife. Nail blades are subjected to still another process—namely, the cutting of the file, which is a department of work in itself. Should we inspect the material room of a knife manufacturer we should find heavy iron presses, which stamp out from sheets of brass or iron the metal scales and liners. The bright tips on the end of the knife, called "bolsters," are pressed out of German silver under another heavy weight, which does its work in one blow. Huge shears cut from sheets of steel, used only for this purpose, long strips that are afterward fashioned under a press into springs for the back of the knife.

The rod of steel from which the blades are made is taken from the material room to the forge. Here one end is put into a bed of hot coals, the bellows are pumped, and the end is soon red. The skilled forger then hammers the blade into shape upon his anvil, and so accurate is his eye and so exact his hand that the blade does not deviate a hair's breadth from the little brass pattern that is before him and to which each blade must correspond exactly.

The blade is next dipped in water and becomes as hard and brittle as glass. But the edges are rough. It is nearly uniform in thickness and is a light gray in color. Again the forger's skill is brought into play in the tempering. Laying the blades on a copper plate over the fire, he watches them as they change their hue with the degree of heat. First to straw color, then to darker straw and now to the dark purple which denotes that the proper degree of heat has been obtained. They are plunged into cold water as fast as they reach this point.

If the blades were allowed to remain longer over the fire the steel would change to a light blue and become so soft that the blades could be bent easily. This is perhaps the most important process in the manufacture. The blades are taken next to the grinding room. The grinder must also depend upon the accuracy of his eye and the training of his hand, for as he presses the blade on the rapidly revolving stone, turning it on both sides and grinding all its edges, he practically finishes it, though afterward, in the cutter's room, a higher finish is given it.

From the "wheel room" the blades go to the cutter's room, where they find the other parts of the knife and where all the parts are put together. Each workman here is at work upon a particular lot of knives, all of one pattern. Upon his work bench are the various parts of the knives, prepared by other hands—the center scales that separate the blades, the outer brass scales of bolting, with the German silver bolsters, which have been secured to the wood, ivory or pearl scales; the springs and the wire rivets.

Each brass lining, with its covering, is put in a vice, and holes are drilled in it for the rivets. A brass wire is thrust through the middle of the handle toward the back. This secures the spring, and it is then broken off with nippers and headed down with a hammer. This holds the scales and springs. Another rivet through the bolster secures one blade or two blades if the knife has more than one blade hung at each end.

The several parts are now put together. The next process is "hafting" or finishing the covers of the handle, which is done on a leather wheel coated with glue and emery. The rough edges are rounded and smoothed, and then the knives are carefully examined to see if the cutter has done his work properly.

If the spring works easily and the blades close without striking the scales, the knife is ready for the finishing. On a wooden wheel covered with fine leather the grinding blades are given a polish called a "glass finish." Finer grades of knives are given a "crocus finish"—a mirror-like surface—on a leather wheel which revolves very slowly, in order that the blades shall not become heated and lose their temper.

The knives are now taken to another room, where, on an oilstone, the keen cutting edges are "set." This done, the blades are closed, and the "buying wheel" gives the final polish to the outer side.—Philadelphia Record.

TREE TRUNK CANNON.

Wonderful Wooden Hide Wound Guns of the Antilles.

The mention of wooden guns suggests a company of boy soldiers commanded by a captain who wears a tin sword. The revolutionary soldiers of Cuba, Haiti and the Dominican Republic, however, had a more serious business. They used a tree trunk to make cannons from trees and applied them to practical purposes. In the Antilles there grows a peculiar tree with a winding grain so tenacious of fiber that to split it by ordinary means is almost an impossibility. When wanted for artillery purposes the tree is felled, a section some five feet in length and one foot in diameter is selected and cut, the bark is removed, and uneven places on the surface are dressed down.

The embryo cannon is then placed on rude trusses and a bore burned in it, a process that serves further still to harden the wood. While the bore is being burned green or hides are cut into long strips by beginning in the center and working toward the outer edge as one would peel an apple. When all is in readiness one end of this rawhide band, which is about three inches in width, is spiked to the wooden cannon near the breech. A lever or bar is attached to the butt. Two or three negroes grasp the arms of the bar and slowly turn the hollowed log on its supports. The band of green hide is kept under a strain, and in this way the core of the cannon is wound with one of the toughest materials, wire excepted, in the world. The first layer of hide is tightly wound to the muzzle of the growing gun and back toward the breech again until a number of layers have thus been wound on and the promising piece of artillery has grown several inches in diameter.

It is now placed in a draft of dry, hot air and allowed to harden. When the hardening and curing process is complete the persevering inhabitants have a really serviceable weapon. One of these homemade wood and rawhide cannons used during the last Cuban insurrection is said to have withstood 104 charges of powder before becoming useless. The projectiles for it were made of scrap iron, broken stone and fire-hardened clay balls.—St. Louis Republic.

REAL JAVA COFFEE.

You May Get a Cup Almost Any Place Except in Java.

It seems strange that in the far east, where tea and coffee come from, it is very difficult for the traveler in nearly all places in India, the Straits Settlements and elsewhere in the orient to procure a cup of really good java coffee. This, says Sir Frederic S. Isham, the novelist, although seemingly paradoxical, is only on a par with conditions in so many of our little American hamlets and villages where good butter, rich cream and good chickens for the residents are practically unobtainable, all of them having been "sent to town."

In Ceylon I heard an American in the best hotel there say to the waiter: "If this," indicating the contents of a cup before him, "is tea, bring me coffee. If it is coffee, bring me tea." And the waiter (an Eurasian, who had no sense of humor, took away the drink and phlegmatically brought something else—equally bad, no doubt. So after India, Burma and the Malay peninsula we waited with bated breath for the coffee of Java. "Java coffee" the excellence of it was a childhood tradition. The coffee "mother used to make" was compounded of real Java in Java surely we should find a nectar of the gods. What did we discover? An extract of coffee served in little "cups." It would have made the gods themselves another illusion gone.

Don't go to Java for real Java coffee. You may find it in Ypsallanti, Mich., or Paris, O., but you won't get it in Java—not for money. Too Much For Him. Voltaire could not speak much English. The reason why he refused to study the language is this: It was drilled into him that "plague" was pronounced "plag," which he thought very pretty and acceptable. But right on top of it he was introduced to "ague," which his teacher said must be called "a-rue." Finding it impossible to reconcile the difference, he went off into a philosophical tantrum and dropped the study.

BULLIED THE CLUB

A London Duelist Who Forced His Way Into Brooks'.

VEYED HIS OWN REJECTION.

After Having Been Bullied For and Unanimously Blackballed He Made Every Member Deny His Vote and Then Declared Himself Elected.

It was a witty bishop who once defined a club as a place "where women cease from troubling and the weary are at rest." Another amusing definition that was given by George Augustus Sala. "A club," said he, "is a weapon used by savages to keep the white woman at a distance." Nowadays, however, as Ralph Nevill remarks in his book, "London Clubs," things are different. "Within the last twenty-five years or so the spirit of London club life has entirely changed. The old-fashioned clubman, whose whole life was bound up with one or other of these institutions, is now practically extinct."

Perhaps the most striking story which Mr. Nevill tells regarding Brooks' club is that concerning the famous duelist, George Robert Fitzgerald, who was executed for murder in 1786. No first class London club would admit him. His name does not appear in the club list, though he must in a sort of way be regarded as having belonged to the club. He was, however, in it only once, though it was his boast that he had been unanimously chosen a member.

Owing to Fitzgerald's well known dueling propensities no first class London club would admit him. Nevertheless he got Admiral Keith Stewart, who knew that he must fight Fitzgerald or comply, to propose him for Brooks'.

Accordingly the duelist went with the admiral on the day of the election to the clubhouse and waited downstairs while the ballot was in progress. The result, a foregone conclusion, was unfavorable to the candidate, not even one white ball being among the black, the admiral having been among the first to deposit his. Mr. Brooks eventually went to tell Fitzgerald, who was waiting in the hall, that there was one black ball and that therefore his candidature had failed.

Turning aside Brooks, who protested that nonmembers might not enter the clubrooms, Fitzgerald saw upstairs and entered the room. Walking up to the fireplace, he thus addressed Admiral Stewart: "So, my dear admiral, Mr. Brooks informs me that I have been elected three times."

"You have been bullied for, Mr. Fitzgerald, but I am sorry to say you have not been chosen," said Stewart. "Well, then," replied the duelist, "did you blackball me?" "My good sir," answered the admiral, "how could you suppose such a thing?" "Oh, I supposed no such thing, my dear fellow. I only want to know who it was that dropped the black ball in by accident, as it were."

Fitzgerald now went up to each individual member and put the same question to all in turn. "Did you blackball me, sir?" until he made the round of the whole club, and in each case he received a reply similar to that of the admiral.

When he had finished his investigations he thus addressed the whole body: "You see, gentlemen, that as none of you have blackballed me I must be elected. It is Mr. Brooks who has made the mistake."
After this nothing more was said by the members, who determined to ignore the presence of their dangerous visitor, who drank three bottles of champagne in enforced silence, for no one would answer him when he spoke. When he had gone it was agreed "that half a dozen stout constables should be in waiting the next evening to bear him off to the watch house if he attempted again to intrude, but Mr. Fitzgerald, a ware probably of the reception he might get, never did."

Sauces.

"The impudence of that young brother of mine!" exclaimed Mrs. Nagger. "He just told me I was no chicken when I married you."
"Well," replied her unsympathetic husband, "that's true enough. You weren't a chicken, were you?"
"No; I was a goose."—Philadelphia Freeman.
