BURNS FATAL TO EASTLAND MAN SATURDAY

Trapped in the cab of his truck which collided with an automobile and concrete bridge east of Eastland, Ed Hayslip, 44, Eastland trucking contractor and oil pump dealer, burned to death early Saturday morning.

A party which had attempted to dig him to warn of an accident involving two automobiles on the bridge stood by, helpless to aid, after an explosion of gasoline which immediately set the truck afire.

Loaded with over 2,000 feet of French tubing which was a result of the impact was forced toward the cab, the truck was telegraphed.

Officers from Sweetwater who investigated the accident could not discern the truck license plates, so badly was the destruction of the vehicle which was crumpled into a mass of metal by the flames.

From the license plate on the cab it was possible for officials to contact Eastland officials and County Tax Assessor-Collector C. O'Brien, who checked the number with plates issued Hayslip last year.

Hayslip left Eastland at 8:30 Friday night with the load which was to be taken to Royalty.

The truckman had been a resident of Eastland three and a half years. Formerly he resided at Estbrook, where he was in the storage business 12 years.

Funeral arrangements for Hayslip, whose body was returned late Saturday by Hamner Undertaking company of Eastland, were tentatively fixed for Sunday afternoon from the First Methodist church at Eastland. Relatives included Rev. F. W. Walker, pastor of the church, would probably conduct the services.

Survivors are his wife; his mother, Mrs. Fannie Hayslip, who made her home with him and a daughter in Dallas, Mrs. W. L. Hays; three children, Marie, 16, Allen, 18, and Hollie, 13, Eastland; and a brother, Walter Hayslip, Mabel, Oklahoma.

Hayslip was a member of the First Methodist church.

LEGISLATURE'S POSITION WILL GET A TEST

AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—Next week promises a showdown of administration strength in the Texas legislature.

Rep. Ross Hardin of Grand Prairie said he would put the issue on record Monday on his committee-approved resolution urging Gov. Alfred new taxes cannot be expected until old age assistance is liberalized.

Administration leaders said the resolution can be made effective only by two thirds vote. Hardin said a majority vote is enough. If a majority favors the plan they will defeat any measure placed before the house before old age pensions are increased.

The first slap at the governor's recommendation was the house rejection of his plan to abolish the state department of agriculture.

Against its house setback, administration leaders can check up on the bill to abolish the state liquor board, which the governor wants to see retained.

The national administration's soil conservation plan, including a crop control through a land use scheme, is also due for a test in the legislature during the week. Whether the appeal to states for passage will swing the Texas legislature for a preference for soil erosion bills, was doubtful.

Kids Sit Down When Movie Film Fails to Show Up

MEXIA, Feb. 27.—The latest episode in sit down strikes was that of 700 children attending a sporting performance at a motion picture theatre.

The children held their seats almost an hour after the performance ended, complaining loudly. The theatre manager explained that the feature film, which had been advertised, had been delayed and did not reach the theatre in time for the showing.

SOUTHERN FARMERS VISIT ROOSEVELT

STRIKES TAKE NEW TWISTS IN SOME SECTORS

READING, Pa., Feb. 27.—Hosiery manufacturers were given 48 hours today to accede to union demands for recognition and avert a strike of 12,000 workers in 19 mills.

Emil Rieve, national president of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, said first plans for a general strike Monday were being made and would be half-hearted until manufacturers express a willingness to negotiate with his union.

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 27.—L. A. Johnson, vice president of the million-dollar National Motor factory closed today to forestall what he said was a threat of a sit-down strike.

Two-year prison terms for leaders of the sit-down strikes in the Douglas Aircraft Corporation's plant at Los Angeles were threatened today by the district attorney.

Court action was prepared by the Fansteel Corporation at Waukegan, Ill., against the Committee for Industrial Organization and the sit-down strikers who held their plants since Feb. 17.

The United Automobile Workers union was reported ready to drop its demand for a 30-hour week in General Motors plants, while union and corporation officials watched the progress of a shut-down which threw 2,700 out of work in two General Motors subsidiaries in Janesville, Wis.

Cold Weather Due In East Texas

Flurries of snow in the Panhandle and sleet, rain and cold gave winter an encore in Texas Saturday.

The moisture settled dust on the plains and seasoned the ground for spring planting elsewhere and was expected to prevent serious damage to early blooming fruit trees.

Shippers were warned to guard Saturday night against a minimum temperature of 8 to 15 degrees within a 300-mile radius northward from Dallas.

$2.07 Judgment Is Awarded Mrs. Neill

Mrs. Eva Neill was awarded judgment of $2.07 and court costs Saturday by 88th district court in a suit against Postal Telegraph Cable company.

Judge B. W. Patterson had the case under advisement since Feb. 8th.

Eldridge Returns From N.E.A. Meet

County Superintendent C. S. Eldridge returned Friday afternoon from the annual meeting of the National Education Association conducted Feb. 21-25 at New Orleans.

Asserting it was his "greatest experience" in educational work, Supt. Eldridge said the greatest address and outstanding feature of the meeting was an address on world peace by U. S. Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma.

Superintendents, principals and educational workers of the United States composed the attendance.

Eldridge was one of a group of five who made the trip by train from Fort Worth. Others were E. J. Woodard, Brownwood superintendent; H. E. Robinson, deputy state superintendent, Brownwood; Perry Travis, DeWitt school superintendent, and N. O. Wright, superintendent at Farmersville, in Collin county.

Peggy Garcia Plans For Annulment

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Peggy Garcia, whose $500,000 breach of promise suit against violinist David Rubinoff, resulted in an indictment for bigamy, decided in her jail cell today to sue for annulment of her second marriage.

"As soon as I get out of this," But when that would be Peggy had no idea.

The blonde hat check girl said she hoped the café owner who hired her at $400 a week for four weeks would put up the bond.

She put in most of her time producing "vile coffee" and prohibiting women inmates to use makeup.

"I must look a fright," she lamented.

Jury Can't Find Motive In Death Of Movie Writer

BANNING, Calif., Feb. 27.—A coroner's jury failed to solve the mysterious shooting of Humphrey Pearson, Hollywood writer, and returned a verdict that he was killed "under circumstances which the jurors were unable to determine from the evidence."

The hysterical scene at the Pearson home last Wednesday night was described at the inquest by Alfred Blackman, negro butler. He said when a doctor arrived Mrs. Pearson lay on a bed, clutching her husband's lifeless body so tightly both of them rolled off the bed to the floor. He required the efforts of both the doctor and a butler to pull the woman away from the body, the butler said.

ARGENTINA IS SHOCKED OVER KIDNAP CASE

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 27.—Two-year-old Eugenio Pereyra Iracola, heir to a great cattle fortune, was kidnaped Wednesday and was found dead today in a corn field near his father's famous ranch.

The boy's body was nude and there was a wound on one leg similar to the bite of an animal and another wound on the skull.

A former foreman of the ranch, who left a short time before the child disappeared, was detained for questioning. He had gone to a nearby town where he shaved off his beard, police said.

Discovery of the body ended the biggest search in the country's history as thousands of ranchers, society folk, police and cowboys hunted for clues in Argentina's "Lindbergh case."

Verification of the child's death stirred police in the search for Antonio Caprioli, gangster with a long police record.

CALVIN BROWN ENTERS AS A CANDIDATE IN THE CITY ELECTION IN APRIL

Calvin Brown, local manager for Higginbotham Lumber Company, Saturday announced his candidacy for the position of street commissioner of Ranger in the city election to be held early in April.

Brown has been a resident of Ranger for nine years, coming here as manager for Pickering Lumber Sales Company, and being retained as manager when the local lumber yard was sold.

Before coming to Ranger Brown was for a number of years in Rankin, later living in Eastland for a short time before moving to Ranger. While here he has been a member of the Lions Club, active as a former director in the Chamber of Commerce and interested in all civic affairs.

His announcement and platform reads as follows:

Special Edition To Welcome The Teachers March 12

Work is to begin Monday on a special edition of the Ranger Times, welcoming between 2,000 and 2,500 teachers of the Oil Belt Educational Association to Ranger on March 12 and 13.

A copy of the paper, which is to be printed on Sunday, March 7, will be mailed to each of the members of the association, carrying Ranger's greetings. This will be the largest convention held in Ranger in many years as every one of the 2,500 members who can possibly do so is expected to attend.

GAUGED FOR 3,000,000 FEET OF GAS, FOX WELL MAY BE DRILLED DEEPER

After gauging for 3,000,000 feet of gas, Thompson & Price No. 1 W. U. Fox, six and a half miles southeast of Eastland, and the same distance southwest of Ranger, was shut down as the owners considered Saturday the feasibility of drilling deeper for oil.

Thompson said the owners had the alternative of completing the well, now capped, as a gasser from 1084 to 1092 feet, or to drill to 1200 feet, where oil production is expected. The well was drilled with a spuddler.

Hickok No. 2 City of Cisco, north of Cisco, section 84, H. & T. C. survey, block 4, was to plug back from 4,030 feet to shoot a showing near the top of the Ellenburger at 3,970 feet. A showing had been encountered previously between 3,984 and 3,987 feet.

After losing the hole on a fishing job at 1,195 feet, Gallagher & Lawson No. 1 Hearn, section 8, H. & T. C. survey, block 2, 225 feet east from north and east southeast quarter of the southeast quarter, was skidded 40 feet to the east and was drilling at 120 feet. It is three and a half miles northeast of Carbon.

Cox No. 1 O'Rear, four and a half miles east of Rising Star, J. W. Clifton survey, was drilling at 2,820 feet after a report of a good showing of oil with some gas in the lime at 2,800 feet.

J. T. Anderson No. 1 Crist, block 36, Lamar county school lands, eight miles north of Rising Star, was spudded and shut down temporarily.

A machine had been placed on location for Hoffmann & Page No. 1 J. S. Dodd, William Vax Norman subdivision 11 of the Brownson subdivision, five miles south of Ranger.

One and a half miles northwest of Staff, W. R. Seet et al No. 1 Wright was underrunning 6 1/2 inch casing at 1,401 feet. It is in the southeast corner, block 48, McLennan county school lands, leagues 3 & 4. Diagonally a discovery well for over 100 barrels of oil and some gas was obtained by Ray T. Hoff.

States Oil Corporation No. 1 H. S. Schmick, one and a half miles northeast of Eastland, was drilling at 220 feet in section 1, H. & T. C. survey, block 4.

Site for the Cisco townsite well on the R. L. Poe lots in South Cisco was being cleared for the No. 1 J. A. Bearman et al. Objective for the test to be drilled around 3,500 feet is the Lake sand. Failures to get production there, operators may take the test to 3,800 feet.

In the old Curry pool, southwest of Breckenridge, Snowden & McSweeney No. 12 G. P. Jones, seeking the Ellenburg at 4,200 feet, 960 feet from the south and west of the northwest quarter, section 33, T. & P. R. R. survey, block 4, was drilling at 1,650 feet.

C. of C. Directors Will Meet Earlier This Monday Night

Announcement was made Saturday by J. J. Kelly, president of the Chamber of Commerce, that the regular meeting Monday night March 1, would be held at 6:30 because of the senior class play, which is to be staged that night.

Mrs. Laird's Rites Held at Eastland

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Clifton Laird, who died Friday at the home of a son, J. P. Laird, of near Cisco, were conducted Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church in Eastland. Rev. J. I. Cartledge, pastor of the church, officiated.

States Are Urged To Join Fight to Conserve the Soil

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt in a personal appeal to all 48 governors, asked every state today to join the federal fight to guard land resources from ruin by dust storms and floods.

"The nation that destroys itself destroys itself," Mr. Roosevelt warned in requesting that each governor sponsor adoption of local soil conservation bills similar to a department of agriculture model bill.

Center of Madrid Target for Rebels

MADRID, Feb. 27.—The central part of the capital was under heavy rebel shellfire late today, with many casualties.

As in previous bombardments, the telephone building, Madrid's only skyscraper, was the principal target. Sixty-eight six-inch shells were fired into the city. Five were reported dead and 20 wounded.

Children were playing among the fallen stones of a wrecked building 15 minutes after the bombardment ended.

Range Program Told At Eastland Meeting

Forty men Saturday afternoon at the county courthouse heard an explanation of the government range conservation program. County Agent Elmo V. Cook was the speaker.

The meeting was the third and final of a series of the explanation of the program to ranchers and farmers of Eastland county. Other sessions were at Rising Star, Cisco and Ranger.

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, also attended.

Car Registration Big Month Starts

Automobile registration will tax the personnel of the tax-assessor-collector office during the month beginning Monday.

License plates must be obtained by April 1.

Although license issuance began Feb. 1, plates are not allowed to be placed on cars until Monday.

C. H. O'Brien, assessor-collector, stated Saturday 115 citizens had registered vehicles and estimated 5,000 passenger autos and 1,000 trucks will be registered in the next 31 days.

Funeral For Old Time Resident of County Is Planned

Funeral services for Alfred A. Ames, 75, who died at his home three miles from Ranger at 9:30 Saturday morning, are to be conducted at the Merriman church at 2:30 this afternoon, with Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ranger, in charge of the services.

The decedent was born in Kilgore, Texas, June 4, 1862, and had been a resident of Eastland county for 40 years. Survivors include two sons, Lee Ames of Ranger and J. C. Ames of Knox City.

Active pall bearers will be Carl Clemmer, John Richardson, John Burnes, Frank Keener, Jack Blackwell and Owen Hinman.

Newest Star on Broadway

Virtually an unknown—she had played in several little noticed plays—Katherine Locke (above) was catapulted to fame as the star of the widely acclaimed comedy, "Having a Wonderful Time," which Marc Connelly has just brought to Broadway.

Ranger and Cisco Women Swindled By a "Salesman"

CISCO, Feb. 27.—Police report that two ladies got scared after it is too late to save their $8.50 cash paid to a stranger who offered them the opportunity of earning $90.00 for a little work during the next 60 days, regardless of whether they made sales or not, and reported to the police while those officers were looking for that very man whom Eastland officers were also seeking.

The plan, it seems, is to go to a variety store and secure names of young women who are working extra. This assures them of prospects who are seeking employment.

Then they contact these parties and offer them employment which will pay them salaries at the end of a 60-day trial. Eastland officers came to Cisco seeking the man and while officers were looking for him, two Cisco ladies becoming uneasy about the money they had paid out, telephoned to police about the matter. But the man had gone.

The moral to which is: "Never pay out cash to strangers unless you are sure you already have value received." And to make sure, police say, keep your money at home among those you know are reliable. But they also add, that we will never learn.

The same character of salesman visited Ranger Thursday afternoon and hooked two Ranger women for $8.50 each. One, being cautious, obtained the license number of the salesman's car, which was a Kentucky license, No. 264-823. The man said that he was from Graves, Ky., but had headquarters at Austin.

The "racket," as reported here, was to call upon women who are thought to be in the market for cosmetics. The names of the women are mailed in and after 30 to 40 days of work they are to receive pay at the rate of $1.50 a day.

The man is gone, and so is the money of those who contributed to his scheme.

Funeral For Old Time Resident of County Is Planned

Funeral services for Alfred A. Ames, 75, who died at his home three miles from Ranger at 9:30 Saturday morning, are to be conducted at the Merriman church at 2:30 this afternoon, with Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ranger, in charge of the services.

Defendant's Motion For New Trial Gets Overruling by Court

Motion of the defendant for a new trial in the suit of George Walls against Safety Casualty Co., was overruled Friday by Judge E. W. Patterson in 88th district court. Judgment for approximately $3,600 was rendered recently for Walls.

Walls, claiming injury while in the employ of Magnolia Pipe Line Co., was denied an award by the Industrial Accident Board of Texas and appealed to district court. The Safety Casualty Co. was insurance carrier for the Magnolia company.

PRESIDENT TO URGE SUPPORT FOR HIS PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The administration prepared today for a vigorous campaign, the second week in March, to rally support for the supreme court reorganization program. Pres. Roosevelt is expected to take personal leadership of the drive.

Mr. Roosevelt already has scheduled one of his famous "fireside chats" the night before the senate judiciary committee opens hearings on the plan.

There was an unconfirmed report he was considering "stumping" the nation, if necessary to win public support for it.

White house officials denied again today the reports that the president might stump the country. They claimed the suggestion originated from hostile sources.

Congressmen asserted meanwhile they had traced the source of thousands of protest slips against enlargement of the supreme court to Rev. Gerald Winrod of Wichita, Kas.

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 27.—The Rev. Gerald Winrod, whose printed petitions against President Roosevelt's court plan has aroused talk of an investigation by congress, is preparing to broadcast in his fight on the presidential proposal, it was learned today.

Rev. Winrod, publisher of "The Defender" a religious monthly, circulated the slips on his own initiative, according to his secretary. The minister is now in Brownsville, Texas, preparing data for broadcast in opposition to the court program.

Mrs. L. M. Stewart Funeral Is Slated Monday at Olden

M. B. Askew, minister of the Church of Christ at Eastland, will officiate Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the funeral of Mrs. Anna Belle Stewart, 67, at the family residence in Olden, where she died after two years of illness Friday afternoon. Burial will be in Eastland cemetery.

The wife of L. M. Stewart, they had lived in Olden five years. Two years before they resided in Ranger, where they moved from Kimble county.

Mrs. Stewart, born June 18, 1869, was a member of the Church of Christ denomination.

Six children survive. They are A. C. Stewart of Pauls Valley, Okla.; V. A. Stewart of Olden; R. F. Stewart of Breckenridge; W. P. Stewart of Stamford; Mrs. Carl Meroney of Douglas, Ariz.; and Mrs. J. L. Banta of Compton, California.

Arrangements were by Hamner Undertaking company, Eastland.

Capital's Sitting Down These Days, Too

A quiet but effective little sitdown strike seems to be going on these days, with the United States Navy Department on the receiving end and some of the country's richest aggregations of capital doing the sitting.

Because of the sitdown, the navy is unable to go ahead with construction of six new destroyers and three submarines, called for in the current building program. It can't build them because it can't get the steel; and it can't get the steel because the steel men are sitting down.

It all goes back to the recently passed Walsh-Healey law, which requires holders of government contracts to conform to specified wage and hour standards.

The nine warships involved are to be built in government navy yards. On December 4, last, the navy advertised for bids for 6,000,000 pounds of steel for the submarines; a fortnight later, it called for bids for 19,000,000 pounds of steel for the destroyers.

Now, under the Walsh-Healey law, a steel company that would submit a bid for this business must produce the steel under the above-mentioned wage and hour standards—among which, for example, is the 40-hour week. And it looks very much as if the steel companies of the nation would rather go without the business than meet the Walsh-Healey act's requirements.

For to date the navy has received bids for only 7,000,000 pounds of steel. It thus is impossible to allot sufficient material to any navy yard to begin construction, and the building of the six destroyers and three submarines has been indefinitely postponed.

Offhand, one would think that this government business would be worth getting. Orders for 18,000,000 pounds of steel don't grow on every bush. And, in a further off-hand comment, one would imagine that the needs of the country's defense program might be expected to have a little weight.

Those warships aren't built just for fun; the Navy Department, which ought to know what it is talking about, says they are needed to make the nation secure at sea.

But the Walsh-Healey bill does not please the steel masters. So we get the odd spectacle of orders for 9000 tons of steel going begging—of the navy being unable to buy the steel it needs in the greatest steel-producing country on earth.

It is evident that the supreme court is not the only body that passes on the validity of our laws. Just as a group of auto workers recently decided that the Michigan laws against trespass were inoperative, so now a group of steel masters has suspended an act of Congress.

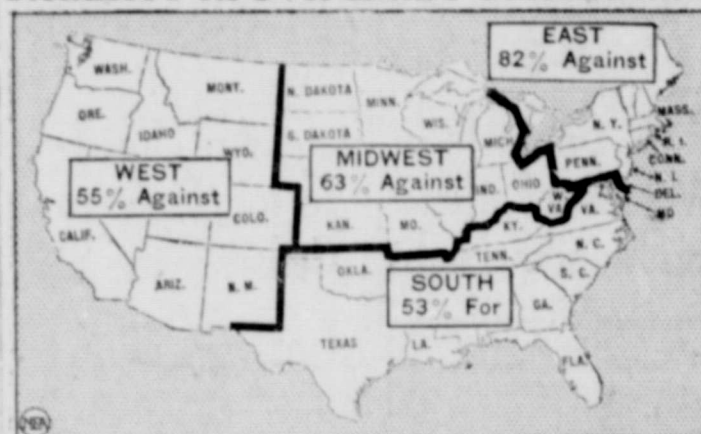

It might be something that Congress would be interested in looking into.

Still, Joe Louis may be a better man for having given so much of his time to a Pastor.

COURT CALENDAR

South Has Small Margin in Favor Of Judiciary Plan In A Newspaper Readers Poll Over Entire United States

How four sections of the United States are voting for and against President Roosevelt's supreme court proposal in the NEA national poll is indicated in the above map.

By WILLIS THORNTON
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent
 Balloting approached the 300,000 mark in the NEA Service supreme court poll as tabulations poured in from 203 cities in 40 states.

Exact totals at last compilation are: For the proposal to reorganize the U. S. Supreme Court, 102,124; against the plan, 190,580—a grand total of 292,704 ballots.

Sixteen states had a majority for the plan while 24 were voting against it. A regional tabulation showed that the only section of the country polling a majority for the plan was the south, with 53 per cent of the votes favorable, while the east was a tower of strength against the plan with 82 per cent of the votes unfavorable. The west was showing a small majority against the plan, about 55 per cent, and the midwest somewhat stronger against it with 63 per cent so minded.

A high-water mark in the number of votes cast was reached by the St. Louis Star-Times, through which 17,633 people cast 13,584 votes for the plan and 4049 votes against it, thus reversing by better than three to one the country-wide trend.

Los Angeles through the Evening News also polled a heavy vote and ran even more strongly in favor of the plan, better than six to one. But none approached the tremendous 59-1 majority against the plan piled up through the Boston Transcript, with only 97 votes for and 5,721 votes against the plan. Three Rivers, Mich., has now gone through five days of balloting without adding a single affirmative vote to an early total of 11.

Tabulators were striving to keep abreast of the flood of ballots, as comparatively few papers had as yet made their final returns.

A bleaching chemical was poured into Cincinnati mains during the flood, which made it an unusual type of catastrophe. Instead of turning men's hair gray, it turned women's blond.

Questions About Church Answered

BY REV. S. E. BYRNE

Question: How do you account for the fact that the idea of an invisible church seems so acceptable to so many people in our day?

Answer: Society is synonymous with authority. It demands submission and obedience; it puts certain limitations on liberty. All this is irksome to the heart of man. If there is no religious society, there is no religious authority and man is free in the domain of religion. The intellect may follow its own bent and reject whatever does not appeal to it. The will acknowledges only those laws of conduct that it makes for itself. In the matter of worship, man may select those forms that best suit his taste. Ministers have no authority except that conferred upon them by those whom they serve. Without real religious authority there is no binding rule of faith, no dogma, no creed. Make authority subject to the individual and man at once becomes a law unto himself; he may set up his own standards, he may create his own gods. Herein lies the secret of all opposition to a divinely religious society. Men reject the church because they will have no authority in matters of faith and morals. This is a point of view of the typical rationalist.

Those who hesitate to go all the way with the rationalist and yet wish to be spared the inconvenience of real authority in matters of religion set up the claim that the Church of Christ is invisible. This is a mere subterfuge; it gives man a semblance of religious order without the consequences that flow necessary from real authority. It is rationalism in disguise, rationalism decked out in the garments of religion. An invisible church can exercise no real authority. Self-will and individualism will meet with no restraint. An invisible government is no government; an invisible church is no church. What chaos and confusion would result did men seek to apply these same principles in the realm of secular matters. Would we, could we, have a United States of America without real authority, functioning through a visible form of government?

It is precisely this denial of a visible church that has brought about the sad spectacle of a divided Christendom today. Unity cannot be maintained without visible authority. Wearied of the religious anarchy of our time, men are striving on all hands to effect a reunion of the forces of Christendom. Praiseworthy as all efforts at the restoration of a united Christianity may be, there is only one way in which this desirable result may be accomplished and that is by the wholehearted acceptance of a divinely instituted religious authority functioning in a visible church. That Christian unity is a chimera if it be not a unity centering around Peter and his successors and embodied in the plain and patent to every one who has observed the futile efforts at unity put forth by those outside the church during the past few years. Nor could we expect otherwise. In the words of St. Cyprian, written in the year 250, "God is one, and Christ one; one the church and one the chair founded by our Lord upon Peter. Whosoever gathers elsewhere, scatters."

This map represents business conditions in every state of the Union as shown in February, 1937, issue of "Nation's Business" official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce

BUSINESS CONDITIONS AS OF FEBRUARY 1

January was an active month despite strikes and the flooding of the Ohio Valley. Although the shipping strike on the Pacific Coast practically ended with the month, labor troubles in plate and safety glass manufacturing and the sit-down strike in the automobile industries, resulted in a country-wide closing of General Motors plants.

Weather conditions were adverse in other sections. California reported much damage to citrus fruit crops from cold; while sleet storms in the Middle West rendered country roads impassable.

Commodity prices continued strong although tending to level off from recent peak points. Petroleum prices rose as stocks dwindled to the lowest in 15 years. In wholesale markets, a feature was the reported sale of $60,000,000 worth of goods at the American Furniture Market.

Winter wheat planting was placed at 57,000,000 acres, the largest on record. Foreign trade during 1936 showed the smallest export trade balance since 1895. Business failures in January were 27 per cent below last year; bank clearings, seven per cent higher.

The Map
 Shading of the map in the eastern half of the country, due to floods and strikes, is partially balanced by the much needed moisture in the West.

The Barometer
 The more than seasonal decline in the January barometer reflects the interruptions caused by labor difficulties and floods in industrial areas.

Mission Program
One of the most interesting of a series of mission lessons was given at a Friday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Bob Hodges, West Main street.

G. W. Thomas opened the program with a prayer offering a preface to the talk made by Mrs. Hodges on "Follow Me," a chapter from the Missionary's Handbook. The remainder of the lesson was given by Mrs. Otto G. M. Russell, "The People in Dark-ness," Mrs. R. H. Duncan; "Heavenly Education in Cuba," Mrs. Lee Mitchell; and Mrs. Walter Jackson, and closing by Mrs. H. M. Russell.

Club Program Postponed One Week Due to Senior Play

As a gracious courtesy, president of the Junior New Era club Mrs. Mamie Ruth Hamrick, announces the postponement of the meeting from Monday evening, March 1 to Monday evening March 8th, due to the Senior play which is slated to be given at the Ranger High School Monday evening under the splendid direction of Mrs. Anna Belle Neil.

The program given one week later is to be offered in the Colonial room of Gholson hotel.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 DAPHNE BRETT, good-looking, successful young New York advertising executive, decides to rent a beautiful Connecticut estate her father left her when he was killed in a hunting accident. She needs the money after five years of providing for the education of her younger sister, JENNIFER, who has just finished college.

Daphne, showing the estate to some unimpressive prospective tenants, is surprised when an attractive young fellow she has never seen before steps into the picture and offers $150 a month rent, to be paid in advance. She accepts and finds her new tenant is her cousin RICHIE, prominent architect. And at once she finds herself somewhat disturbed by his coming into her life. When he leaves she pictures herself in the same house as "Mrs. Smith."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IV
 THE girl at the corner table glanced anxiously at her watch and studied the menu. Then she spied the slim figure in brown tweeds she had been waiting for.

"Daphne Brett," she said severely, "you're half an hour late."
 "I know, Anne, but I've been over to the bank to deposit my tenant's check. He's staying on another two months until the end of November. Also, I've a very good reason for being late. Wait until you hear why!"

"Unless it's bad news, let's order before you tell me. I've got to get some layouts to Murray before two." Anne Cockerell was a successful young commercial artist and her friendship with Daphne had begun in the Johnstone Advertising Agency when Daphne was a lesser member of the copy staff.

"You order and I'll talk, Anne," Anne ordered their usual lunch. "Now talk!"

"I've been promoted! I'm a full-fledged copy writer now with two accounts of my own to handle exclusively, an office of my own with my name on the door and fifty more a month. Not bad?"

"Bad? It's colossal! From rags to riches, or, from stenographer to career woman in five short years. Tell me, did you always dream that some day you'd be a successful advertising writer?"

"On the contrary," Daphne denied. "Do you know, Anne, I once wanted to be an actress. People are always surprised when I tell them that. I used to be fair at dramatics when I was in college and I meant to go into the theater when I finished but—I sighed almost imperceptibly—"you know Jennifer had to be taken care of and Dad—"

Anne knew all about that; knew that at 19 Daphne had left college to come to New York to support herself. She had done it so that the small sum Tom Brett had left to his motherless daughters might be used to send the then 13-year-old Jennifer to a good school.

It had been five years since Tom Brett, hunting on his grounds in Connecticut, tripped over his gun and, dying, charged Daphne with the care of the flaxen-haired Jennifer. Daphne had done it well. Now Jennifer was finished at Miss Maidstone's.

From stenographer to career woman, Anne had said. Daphne thought of those first few months in the general office at Johnstone, then the transfer to a secretarial job where she had learned to write copy.

"Anne," she said, "if I can do this in five years, I've a wonderful future. I'm going to work hard and some day—"

"Some day you'll have a fat bank account and wake up being an old maid," Anne finished tartly. "I wouldn't let this career angle creep into conversations when you're talking to an attractive man. By the way, did you tell the mysterious Smith you were a business gal?"

"Mr. Smith? I told him I had a job, that was all. Why?"

"Oh, I just thought since you two had a cozy tea, you might have gone just a little way into the histories of your lives. Particularly since you seem to have found him interesting."

"Nonsense, Anne." Swift color flooded Daphne's smooth cheeks. "He's married and you know how I feel about married men."

Illustration by E. H. Gunder

It was Jennifer. Not the Jennifer of the pigtail! This was a young sophisticate with golden hair. Jennifer with every point of beauty heightened by skillful makeup.

"He's married and you know how I feel about married men."

"What's his wife like?" Anne asked casually.

"I don't know, I've never seen her. I haven't seen him either since the day he engaged the place. He sends his check the first of every month. Anne, at first he used to write little amusing notes about the place, but I didn't answer them because of his wife. Now he doesn't."

"Maybe he's got a twin," Anne proffered genially.

"If he hasn't, it will be all the same to me. Why are you always trying to find a romance for me? Don't you know that I can't afford any such luxury while I have to see Jennifer through? This year, I want her to specialize in some course to prepare her for work. Did I tell you she's coming to me Saturday?"

Anne toyed with her fork for a moment and said, "Daph, if I were you I'd drop the mother complex and consider myself for a while."

Daphne pushed back her chair and rose. "I'm late, darling. I've got a lot of work to do because tomorrow I'm taking the day off to rearrange the apartment. Come by late in the afternoon and I'll give you tea."

WHEN the doorbell buzzed at three the next afternoon, Daphne removed a tack from her mouth and, from her perilous perch on a table top, called over her shoulder, "No matter who it is, Maggie, I'm not at home to anybody."

She gave a last incoherent blow at the defenseless tack, bent it, and hung her print with complete disregard for its safety.

"Pardon me, lady. Would you be interested in some homemade fudge or old spare tires? I'm selling these and also—"

"...also charm," she finished for him as she descended gingerly to the floor. "How'd you get past my faithful hound, Tuck? I told her I wasn't home to anyone."

"I'm not anyone, Beautiful. The name is Ainsley, don't you remember?"

"How could I forget when you've been under my feet for the past three years?"

"At your feet," he corrected, noticing his usual impeccable turnout. Then she slid forward comfortably in the chair that outlined her luscious figure and a pretty smile dawned at the corner of her mouth. It was a sweet mouth.

He studied her smile doubtfully and said he suspected it would be a grin if another girl did it.

"It is," she said cheerfully, "because you're going to work for a change. You're going to help us move furniture. Jennifer arrives tomorrow and there's work to be done."

"A.H. Jennifer, the baby!" Tuck's eyes found the photograph on Daphne's desk, the photograph of a young girl with the face of an angel framed by blond hair ending in a pigtail swung over her shoulder.

"Does she still look like that?" he asked.

"I guess she does," Daphne answered and appealed to him, "but, Tuck, you know she's only 18 and she's not your type. Remember that, please. You crowd—my crowd—is pretty sophisticated and I don't want Jennifer running around with them."

"What brought this on?" he inquired lazily. "You're the girl I'm interested in. I don't want any girl but you."

"Daphne and two complete Zeigfeld Folies choruses," she replied and added, when the buzzer sounded again, "That will be Anne."

It wasn't; it was Jennifer. Not the Jennifer of the pigtail! This was a young sophisticate with golden hair. Jennifer with every point of beauty heightened by skillful makeup. Jennifer who cried, "Dearest! I had to come a day early because I'm going to a party tonight and I had to get in time to dig up a man. Also, I forgot to pay the taximan."

"I'll do it," said Daphne to Tuck after she had introduced them, and went to pay Jennifer's driver.

When she came back, she found Jennifer stretched out gracefully on her lounge.

"Can we have a cocktail right away, Daph? I'm dying of thirst but my troubles are over for tonight. Mr. Ainsley is going to the party with me. I think he's sweet. I'll get us some tea," Daphne said shortly.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What State produces most of the polo ponies of America?
 A. Texas produces 90 per cent of all American polo ponies and they are marketed in every country where polo is played.

Q. For what crimes was death assessed under the laws of the Republic of Texas?
 A. Under the first criminal code, death could be imposed for treason, malicious murder, arson, rape, burglary, grand larceny, slave stealing, counterfeiting, and forgery. Accessories to any of these could be fined $1,000 or receive 39 lashes at discretion of the court.

Q. What offenders could be branded with a red hot iron?
 A. Those who "killed" without malice could be branded with a red hot "M" applied to such part of the body as the court might direct. Theft of livestock, defacing brands, stealing property over $20 in value were punishable by branding with a letter "T" and with a fine of $1,000 and not over 39 lashes added, at option of the court. For thefts under $20.00, not over 39 lashes were applied.

Q. In vetoing the locating of the Capital of the Republic near La Grange, what did Pres. Houston mean by the statement that any "intervening Congress might change the location?"
 A. The Second Congress, in providing for locating the capital permanently, also specified that it was not to be removed from Houston before 840, which would have given time for a succeeding Congress to select another location.

Q. Where and when was "Big Foot" Wallace born, where did he die and when, and where was he buried?
 A. He was born in Lexington, Va., April 3, 1817, died near Big Foot postoffice, Prio County, Texas, January 7, 1899; was buried at Devine and his body later was placed in the State Cemetery at Austin. His name was William Alexander Anderson Wallace, and the village near which he died was named for him.

Medicos Urge Men To Watch Waists

By United Press
 MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — That "aldermanic paunch" isn't always a sign of blissful contentment.

Take it from Drs. William J. Kerr and John B. Lagen, of the University of California, an "extending stomach, especially as one grows older," not only may make breathing difficult, but also may affect the nerves.

These physicians, in an issue of Modern Medicine, described a condition called "the postural syndrome," which arises from obesity and leads to effects on the lungs, heart and spine.

They pointed out that when a patient has developed a paunch this great "counterweight of fat" changes his posture materially, and puts an extra curve and strain on his back-bone. The strain, they said, causes a deformity of the spine and irritates the spinal nerves.

The weight of fat also interferes with breathing, making it hard for the person to get enough air into the lungs, and the blood does not get sufficient oxygen. This lack of oxygen may result in diseases of the heart or the blood vessels.

The doctors advised proper exercise and diet to "modify or delay" postural syndrome, which "visits itself upon individuals not given to bodily exercise and discipline."

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS By Bloss

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, N.Y. (Special Correspondent) — Among the large field of entries in current speculation as to the six men Roosevelt would choose for the supreme court if Congress gave him power to replace or supplement those on the court over 70 years old, the following may be considered the best bets at this time:

Dr. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school, Assistant U. S. Attorney General H. Jackson of Jamestown, N. Y., U. S. Solicitor General Stanley Reed, of Maysville, Ky., Donald R. Riechberg of Chicago, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., of Houston, Tex., member of the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Except for Jackson, all these men are in their fifties. The sixth man would be, like Hutcheson, a judge from one of the circuit courts of appeal, probably from the far west. That is practically certain. So are the appointments of Frankfurter, Riechberg and Hutcheson — if Roosevelt gets the chance.

Jackson, who is only 45 years old and something of an administration favorite to succeed Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, might or might not accept a seat on the high tribunal. Reed, upon whom has fallen the heaviest burden of arguing New Deal laws before the present supreme court, is a strong probability.

THERE are some good alternative bets. You may be sure that the appointments would be geographically distributed—probably one being drawn from the south, one from New England, one from New York, one from the border states, one from the middle west and one from the Pacific east-mountain states area. If labor should go to bat strongly against Riechberg he probably would lose out. And in that case you could turn your gaze toward Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, an able lawyer and a loyal administration man, toward Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, and toward Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan. Murphy, who has just been congratulated by the president for his work in settling the General Motors strike, is especially strong as a possibility because Roosevelt undoubtedly will feel compelled to appoint a Roman Catholic member to the court if there is any re-vamping. But Murphy is young and probably wouldn't accept. The only Catholic justice now sitting is Pierce Butler, who is over 70.

FRANKFURTER looms as a certainty because he is so utterly logical a successor to Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whose devoted disciple he is.

Senator Robert F. Wagner is most likely to be the next New Yorker appointed to the court in case Jackson, for one reason or another, doesn't go on. Wagner is practically a freak in national affairs, because he combines a sincere progressive social vision, and outstanding ability as a former judge turned legislator, with a close affiliation to Tammany Hall.

In case your correspondent is wrong in forecasting appointment of a far western circuit court judge, the next best bet will be Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington. He does not seek it. New Dealers incline to agree that Hutcheson is "the best federal judge in the south." The means that he is a liberal willing to uphold New Deal measures and a jurist of outstanding ability. Central Baptist Closes a Week of Study at Church

Forees of Central Baptist Sunday School met at the church each night last week to study "Building a Standard Sunday School," one of the books in the new Unified Study Course as outlined by the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board for Sunday Schools of the Convention.

A splendid attendance was had throughout the week and a good per cent of those attending took the test for an award in this book.

In checking up the record of Central Baptist Sunday School it was discovered that she is well on the road of being "A Standard School" as outlined by this high standard of achievement, several points lacking only a little work being done, to attain the Standard.

Plans were made whereby a continued study will be made in the Unified Study Course. Two classes will meet next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the church for study. A class in "Building a Standard Sunday School" will be taught for those who were unable to be in last week's study course. A new class will be organized for the study of "Outlines in Bible History." This class will be

4,000 Eligible To Vote During 1937

Exceeding by 800 most of the estimates, Eastland county's voting strength this year is approximately 4,000.

Records of the assessor-collector office Saturday showed that 3,936 citizens paid their poll taxes. Exemption figures are expected to increase the total to 4,000.

In the last "off" political year, in 1935, without state and national elections, approximately 3,200 held voting certificates.

In 1936, year of state, national, county, precinct and municipal elections, over 7,000 were eligible to vote.

TOWNSENDITES TO MEET

Announcement was made here Saturday that the regular meeting of the Townsend Club would be held Monday night, March 1, at 8 o'clock, in the hall in the Oil Belt Motor Company building. Matters of importance are to be brought up for discussion and all members have been urged to attend.

Plans Are Made For Meeting of Old People In Ranger

A meeting of much interest to the people of West Texas is to be held next Wednesday afternoon at the Recreation building in Ranger, beginning promptly at 2 o'clock. The meeting is in the interest of the old age assistance and all elderly people in Eastland and adjoining counties are expected to attend. Invitations have been extended to the old people and to the public at large.

A splendid program has been arranged and the capacity of the building is expected to be taxed. The program as outlined is as follows:

Congregational singing, led by Roy Moore.

Invocation—Rev. T. E. Bowman.

Our Old People—Rev. H. B. Johnson.

"Old Age Assistance"—Rev. H. H. Stephens.

"Why My Name Was Dropped"—Mrs. Lulu Kiddle.

"Have I Made A Good Citizen"—W. T. Walton.

Coffee and pie will be served by women and girls.

"What the Law Means"—Mr. Kelley of Eastland.

"Women of Yesterday"—Mrs. Fred Driehof.

"Woman of Today"—Mrs. M. H. Hagaman.

"Women of Tomorrow"—Mrs. Lee Galley.

A Sales Tax for Texas—E. A. Ringold.

"At the Top"—Rev. J. I. Cartledge, pastor, First Baptist church, Eastland.

"Way to a Happy and Peaceful Life"—Mrs. Hal Hunter.

"What We Did in Austin"—Cecil Lettief.

"What I Want My Life to Be"—Mrs. McEroy.

Benediction—Rev. H. H. Stephens.

Reception committee, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ratliff, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lyons, Mrs. Martha Davenport and D. L. Jameson.

The women and girls of Eastland and adjoining counties are asked to bring a pie in honor of their father and mother. This will

Mrs. Simpson May Get Back Jewels

CANNES, France, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Wallis Simpson informed sources reported today, may get back the British royal jewels which the Duke of Windsor gave her during their courtship, but which she returned to the royal family several months ago to avoid arguments.

The Duke, angered by his family's pressure on Mrs. Simpson, was said to have begun negotiations for restoration of the jewelry, which he contends was a personal gift to him from his grandmother, Alexandria, and his great-grandmother, Victoria.
