DAYLIGHT RAID ON NORTHWEST EUROPE KEEPS UP CAMPAIGN

Waves of Allied medium bombers and fighters swept across the Channel into northwestern Europe again today, keeping alive the almost ceaseless campaign to smash Germany's defenses.

On the Russian front the Red army hammered ahead towards Rumania through the broken German defense line in the Ukraine, spreading panic ahead of it across the border.

The Russian drive and the aerial assault in the west had Germany reeling between two great offensives taking heavy punishment on both sides.

British heavy and medium bombers were out in force over France and northwestern Germany during the night in the wake of yesterday's great daylight attack on Berlin by some 1,700 American bombers and fighters.

In the American attack on Berlin, 176 Nazi fighters were shot down, estimated to be about half of a months productive capacity in view of the crippling attacks on German aircraft plants in the last two weeks.

On the other side of the ledger, the American forces lost 68 bombers and 10 fighters, carrying 600 trained airmen, their heaviest casualties in a single action of the war.

On the Russian front, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's forces were striking a blow which held possibilities of disaster to the enemy's in southern Russia. The Russians plunged through a 29-mile gap in the Odessa Warsaw railway to within 60 miles of Rumania.

As a result, approximately 800,000 Germans in the southern Ukraine and within the Dnieper Bend were deprived of their main line of supply and retreat.

Inside WASHINGTON

By HELEN ESSAY Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—I do believe that after I have stopped this business of being opinionated in public, I shall be able to get a good tax exempt job in a side show.

Because I am the best eater of my own words in anybody's hemisphere. Daily, I choke on double-barreled consonants, enclitications and hard-shielded vowels, cooked up according to my own recipe.

For instance, I am remembering today a column I did several months ago about Clare Luce. I thought it was rather a cute idea at the time. I wrote Clare an open letter and told her she simply couldn't take Washington by storm.

Well, yesterday I felt the first spasm of remorse over this unsolicited outbreak when I tried to get one opinion, only one single little opinion, from any one of the three newest members of the United States Senate. Not one of the gentlemen—Weeks of Massachusetts, Jackson of Indiana, and Walsh of New Jersey—would express himself on any big or little theme.

That Washington is a wonderful place and the Senate is one big, friendly club. That winning the war is important. That presiding in the Senate was a mighty great honor (this from Senator Jackson, the vice president had given him the checkered tie pin).

Mass Behavior Is Affected By Rising Prices

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP)—The public's behavior is definitely affected by rising prices, according to Dr. M. E. John, professor of rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State College. In some ways, the chances are good and in other ways they are bad. Divorces increase when prices rise, he pointed out, while suicides and deaths from alcoholism decline. When the price level rose sharply from 1914 to 1920, the divorce rate increased from 110 to 160 per 100,000 people. In contrast, divorces declined from 168 to 128 per 100,000 when prices dropped in 1929. In creased prices from 1932 to 1935 pushed the figures up again from 128 to 171.

"There are two explanations," Dr. John said. "In depressions, many people who want a divorce can't afford it, and hard times often bring a husband and wife into closer harmony."

Deaths from alcoholism declined during the price rise of World War I, from 5.5 per 100,000 in 1914, to one per 100,000 in 1920. Deaths from alcoholism increased greatly during the depression.

"Evidently, excessive drinking is not caused by having more money," Dr. John explained. "It's more likely that some people resort to excessive use of alcohol as a way to forget everything."

Suicides also declined with the prices of world war I he added, but the low prices of the 1920's were accompanied by an increase in the number of suicides from 10 to over 12 per 100,000. During the days of the stock market crash and the depression, the suicide rate jumped from 14 to 17 per 100,000 population.

"The redeeming feature of our democratic government is that when congressmen try every thing else, they finally give up and do the sensible thing," says a well known writer.

NOT WORTH THE TROUBLE
AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Crime doesn't pay.

A burglar, removed a window pane from a service station, climbed through, searched diligently found 50 pennies and fled.

If Tojo doesn't know what to do with the admiral and field marshal just relieved of their posts, we have a very good suggestion.

Stop! Don't throw away ammunition!

DON'T scrape those precious scraps of fat into the garbage pail! They can save the lives of our fighting men! Every drop of that congealed grease on plates and platters, all those bits of trimmed-off fat are urgently needed for ammunition and medicines.

Too little to bother with? One tablespoon alone makes 3 machine-gun bullets! Or enough sulfadiazine treatment to treat 35 wounded men!

So save them all in a small bowl, and once a week melt them down and add them to the fat can. When the can is full, take it to your butcher and get 2 free red points on every pound. Get busy. Start today!
