ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Oct. 16, (UP) — President Truman today ordered the military defense establishment "without delay" to organize and train all reserve units required for the national security. The president issued an executive order which said: "Whereas it is the traditional national security policy of the United States to place great reliance in organized citizens forces supporting regular armed forces of the minimum size consistent with national defense; "And whereas the national security requires that reserve components of an appropriate strength and maximum effectiveness exist throughout the nation; "And whereas it is essential that the trained citizens who have completed a period of service in the armed forces continue to be available to the nation; "Now, therefore by virtue of the authority vested in me by the constitution and statutes, and as president of

RJC PLANT APPRAISED AT $250,908

A plant valued at $250,908 for an actual expenditure of $31,713.12 is just what Ranger has in Ranger Junior College, according to an appraisal made this week by W. M. Bourdeau, R. S. Balch and C. E. May, Sr.

The appraisal was made at the request of the school board and officials and was estimated after the three men had actually measured the footage in the buildings and appraised the materials in them.

The figure released does not include equipment but the actual cost of the plant does include equipment which is valued at $18,000. The estimate of the value of the property includes buildings on Pine and Cypress streets as well as all buildings on the college campus.

Dr. G. C. Boswell who released the figures stated that the college owes $4,500 on the building but that this was included in the cost figures and that the debt is being reduced rapidly by monthly payments.

Dr. Boswell also stated that he has another building purchased at Camp Bowie which will be brought in and rebuilt for a manual training shop.

In connection with the announcement Dr. Boswell stated that enrollment this year has hit a high of 209 students. He said that so far as he knows that is the peak enrollment for the college in its 22 years.

SEC. MARSHALL ON WAY TO STUDY GREEK SITUATION

BY EDGAR CLARK United Press Staff Correspondent ATHENS, Oct. 16, (UP) — Secretary of State George Marshall was flying to Athens today to look into the situation in Greece, where Communist guerrilla forces were reported greater now than when the United States first extended aid to this country.

Marshall was due here late today. He expected to return to Paris Monday.

The U. S. Embassy said Marshall would confer with Ambassador Henry Grady, King Paul, Premier Themistocles Sofoulis and other Greek and American officials.

Grady said this morning that there had been too much optimism in the United States and Greece over the campaigning against the guerrillas led by Gen. Markos Vafilas.

"I don't believe the situation is acutely worse," he added. But Grady said that "more effective cooperation is needed" from the Greek government.

In reply to a series of written questions submitted to him, Grady

Baptist Taking Part In Drive For Relief Needs

The Baptist World Alliance Relief Committee has recommended to the Relief Committee of Southern Baptists and other constituent bodies that in view of the continuing need, a major, concentrated drive for clothing, bedding, shoes, etc., be conducted through October, 1948, to assure a supply of clothes for winter months.

The First Baptist Church is cooperating in this effort and makes an appeal to the people of Ranger and especially to members of the First Baptist Church to help alleviate the suffering of those less fortunate. "Grave needs for relief continue to exist both in Europe and in Asia. Go through your clothes closets and dresser drawers and spare what you can spare. Used clothing (summer or winter) of all kinds, including underwear, socks, shoes, felt hats—even clean rags are welcome. Feed and flour sacks can be made into excellent clothing overseas. Sheets, pillow cases, blankets, quilts, layettes and senoiu needed, as well as such household items as bar soap, thread, needles, candles, dish towels, pots, pans, knives and forks, all are needed it was said.

It is better to contribute cash rather than the actual food so purchases may be made at the point of shipment, this saving large sums of money. For persons who prefer to contribute food, the latest list of acceptable items, includes, canned meats, lard or fats of any kind, dried milk, sugar, bulk quantities of beans, rice, etc. Do not send: canned vegetables, especially those with high water content, or anything in glass jars as they are likely to break in handling. Money is also needed to purchase vitamins, dehydrated foods, medicines, seeds, etc. $4.00 will purchase and ship enough seeds to grow five tons of vegetables. $10.00 will provide 5 undernourished children in an orphanage with a glass of milk once a day for a period of 12 weeks. Dry powdered milk purchased in bulk is one of the worlds best relief buys.

If money is sent, make your checks to the Relief Committee, Foreign Mission Board, Richmond, Virginia, and designate what it is for. All relief supplies sent to Europe and Asia are distributed by Baptist consignees on a basis of need, but without discrimination as to race or creed.

Gifts may be left at the First Baptist Church where it will be prepared for shipment at any time during the day from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. If you are unable to bring your gift, call the church office No. 179 and someone will call for it.

New Well May Bring New Play To Desdemona

Three Houston oil men are completing a well which gives strong hope of bringing a new oil play to Desdemona, old-time boom town in the southeastern corner of Eastland County.

The well is the No. 1 M. E. Jordan, in the Guadalupe College survey, and is two and half miles northwest of Desdemona, which in 1918 was transformed, almost overnight, from a village to a city of 16,000 and then, as the oil activity declined, shrank until today it is but little larger than it was 30 years ago.

S. J. Lujan, LaVerne Decker and J. E. Weatherford are the owners of the well which has encountered two highly encouraging shows, at 2070' and 3170-3200'. Fifteen feet of the upper formation are regarded as particularly good.

Opinion is divided as to the identity of the formations, some believing them to be the Desdemona and the Marble Falls, others believing the formations to be the Caddo and the Ranger. As the pays show a good deal of sand, most believe that they are the Caddo and Ranger, which would be new levels for the Desdemona area.

TRUST

By Elswyth Thane

THE STORY: Hilary Shenstone, British secret agent, is stranded in the Indian desert beside a crashed plane. He thinks of a dangerous mission. He thinks of Nana Furthing, his home in the English countryside, and feels a desperate need to get back there. He doesn't know that the house has been let and that dreamy, 17-year-old Sabina, whom he has never met, has taken over. Hilary returns to London in what seems a dream, decides to enjoy himself even so and heads for his club. Meanwhile, at the club Hilary's brother George has just left his old job and is looking for a new one. George is sharp, and Hilary's old friend, father of Hilary's Alice.

Home Office entered the room, glanced round quickly, and made for Tutleigh on the hearthrug. Hilary arrived on the threshold just behind him and paused there, watching Denby cross the room.

THE feeling that he must wake up any moment now had been growing stronger as he approached the club, while the reality of London wavered and receded. Then things began to go askew, as they always do in even the most vivid dreams—discrepancies—omissions—and a looming sense of something dreadfully wrong. First, he discovered he couldn't remember anything about the voyage home. And then it was a new commissionaire at the club door, in place of old Simpson, who must have died at last. The new man naturally hadn't recognized him, and the two members who had passed through the swing door just ahead of him were strangers to Hilary. It was not quite the entrance he had counted on. The commissionaire greeted the other two and turned away to find a telephone message. None of them took any notice of Hilary, so he passed his hat onto a peg and started towards the lounge.

Denby was crossing the hall from the writing-room a few yards away, and Hilary cried his name with relief. But Denby went on, not hearing into the lounge. Hilary followed, with an idea of moving very carefully now, so as not to jar himself awake. He paused on the threshold. Old Calthorpe was there, and Alice's father. . .

"I give up—you can't run other people's lives for them—" They saw Denby there, and welcomed him. None of them glanced towards the door where Hilary stood. He drew a few steps nearer, cautiously. He must hear, before he woke. . .

"You look as though you'd had a bit of a jolt," said Calthorpe to Denby.

"WE'RE full of jolts at the Home Office," replied Denby, and Hilary saw that he looked old and tired. "But this one pretty well floors me."

"Had news from somewhere?" Tutleigh sounded sympathetic.

"From India—as usual, Hilary Shenstone is dead. One job too many up beyond Peshawar. Nobody's fault, I suppose—"

Poor old Denby, Hilary was thinking. This has hit him hard. Poor old—WHAT? DEAD. WHO? But his brother George was sitting here just now—

"He doesn't know yet. The family will be notified tomorrow. One or two things have to be dealt with first. I shouldn't have mentioned it, but—I loved his father."

The family will be notified. . . A familiar Home Office phrase, as Hilary well knew. This wouldn't do, he was ready to wake up now, this was nightmare. They were talking about him. . . On, yes, most decidedly, it was time to wake up now. . .

"It's always the wrong one," Denby was saying. "All through the War, it seemed to be always the wrong one, the best one, first. Maybe there's some reason in it. I don't know— But I'm going to blame Pearson for this, at least till I know differently. He should have sent more men, instead of Bill Dalton alone. He should have sent sooner—"

Pearson. Yes, of course. . . There was a job to do for Pearson. . . You'll have to write my family, Bill. . . He'd said that himself. . . after the crash. . .

"Hilary was dead of a gunshot wound when the rescue plane arrived," Denby was saying. "Nothing could have saved him, once he was hit, but—I blame Pearson."

Dead. He remembered now. . . Dalton sitting beside him, under the wing of the useless plane. . . His side was hurting. . . and he must get back to England. . . why? . . . something he had to do. . . what was the date? . . . But this wasn't England. . . it was Eternity. . .

Dewey To Rest In Old Hometown

OWOSSO, Mich., Oct. 16 (UP)—Gov. Thomas Dewey comes to his old hometown for a rest tonight but he could not find time here just looking at himself.

The town dressed up with flags and bunting for its most famous son. Included are 6,000 new pictures of the Republican presidential nominee.

The photographs and sketches came in size from small placards in homes to huge double-size prints in store windows and walls of downtown buildings. And that doesn't include the old pictures and signs which brightened the town of 18,000 on a previous visit.

Church services which Dewey is scheduled to attend promised such a crowd that tickets were passed out to assure seats for the regular congregation.

The best part of the rest was expected to be the "quiet" Sunday dinner at home where his mother, Mrs. Annie Dewey, said there would be "surprises for Tom" on the menu.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Where Dewey Stands on Issues Will Require Fuller Explanation

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Careful reading of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign speeches thus far leaves many things to be explained. It is still impossible to tell just where the Republican candidate stands on most domestic issues, what policies he will pursue when he becomes President.

This thought is apparently bothering a number of people. The serious literature analyzing Mr. Dewey's mind is becoming voluminous and important.

Oren Root, Jr., in Harper's magazine identifies Dewey with the progressive wing of the Republican Party and prays that he will stay that way. Root was one of Wendell Wilkie's original backers. Elmer Davis in the same publication has discovered that Dewey is a real leader, but fears that the reactionary congressmen will cause him trouble.

Robert T. Elson in the current Fortune magazine goes beyond these two analyses by trying to forecast Dewey's policies. Material for this study of the Dewey mind comes not so much from the candidate himself as from his braintrust.

THIS Dewey "team," as it's called, is rapidly assuming proportions to make Franklin D. Roosevelt's braintrust of Howe, Hopkins, Tugwell, Moley and Lintyre look like a bunch of rank amateurs. The FDR five was thrown together after Roosevelt's nomination. Dewey's team has been with him five years or more. The line-up: John Foster Dulles on foreign policy, Elliott V. Bell on finance, John E. Burton on budget, Charles D. Breitler on law, Paul Lockwood and James C. Hagerly as personal aides.

The difference between the FDR braintrust and Dewey's seems to be this: Roosevelt's braintrust did a lot of original thinking and independent acting. Dewey wants his team merely to bring him facts. As for what the present Dewey policies are, the Fortune report plus Dewey's own vague campaign statements add up like this:

Labor—No basic retreat from the Taft-Hartley Act. This does not preclude some amendments, later on. What they might be is not stated. In his Message, Monday, speech, Dewey promised to tell where he stood on labor, later in the campaign.

Farm Policy—Continue price-supports, crop loans and federal subsidies for soil conservation. More aid for co-operatives.

High Prices and Inflation—Dewey has made two speeches on this subject, at Albuquerque and San Francisco. His program is: 1—Bring able and honest men and women to Washington. 2—Cut government spending. 3—Pay off the national debt. 4—Stop grain speculation by government employees. 5—Bring to Washington men and women of integrity. 6—Start supporting vigorously the American system of free opportunity.

FORTUNE says Dewey favors postponing all public works spending—except, of course, for reclamation projects necessary to win the West. In case of recession, public works projects would be brought out to stimulate business. Dewey's 1944 statement that, "Whether we like it or not, government is committed to some degree of economic direction," is still said to stand.

Fiscal—Dewey is for balancing the budget and reducing the national debt. He is for continuing curbs on consumer credit. He wants to keep the federal interest rate low and stabilize government securities. These last two policies will come as a severe blow to bankers who want interest rates up, bond prices down.

Taxes—Fortune says: "Obviously, no one in Mr. Dewey's camp is going out on a limb for high taxes before election day. It is equally obvious that substantial reductions in corporate and income taxes should not be anticipated."

Denies Shortage Of Labor In West Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 16, (PP) — An official of the Texas Employment commission denied today a shortage of farm labor existed in West Texas and predicted the entire area cotton crop "can be harvested . . . with our present labor force."

Henry Leblanc, chief of the TEC's farm placement division, said that some 70,000 farm workers are now in West Texas harvesting cotton.

He said that "turnover now amounts to approximately 10 per cent per day and provides 7,000 workers each day to meet new demands." A current demand of 15,000 can be met in two and one-half days when orderly migration is possible, Leblanc said.

He added that "farmers in some communities may be temporarily delayed in their cotton harvest, however, we still feel West Texas cotton crop can be harvested without unreasonable inconvenience, either from a time or money standpoint, with our present labor force."

Parties Silent On Hull's Attack

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UP) — Republican and Democratic headquarters alike were silent today on elder statesman Cordell Hull's "plague on both your houses" criticism for making foreign policy a campaign issue.

From his hospital room, the former Democratic secretary of state last night assailed Candidate Thomas E. Dewey by name and his own party by implication for their "extravagant claims" to credit for America's foreign policy achievements.

"If these competitive claims continue," Hull warned, "they will inject partisanship into the conduct of our foreign affairs quite as effectively as though the debate were directed toward the substance of our policies."

Hull, who has been called "the father of the United Nations," said America's present foreign policy is "the fruit of joint and patriotic effort by members of both political parties."

Republican campaign headquarters here may reply to Hull's criticism of Dewey later in the day. It was said. Democratic sources said, however, they probably would not offer any rebuttal to the ailing elder statesman who severed his party in Congress and in the cabinet for more than two decades until his retirement in November, 1944.

Stevenson On Air For Porter

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 16 (UP) — Former Gov. Coke Stevenson, who has announced his support of Jack Porter, Republican senatorial nominee, will speak Monday night in behalf of the GOP candidate, it was announced today.

Nationalists Win In China

NANKING, Oct. 16 (UP)—Fu Tso-Yi, top Nationalist commander in North China, today announced a government victory at Chanar on the Hopei border.

Fu said that about six Communist divisions were "totally routed" and one brigade completely wiped out.

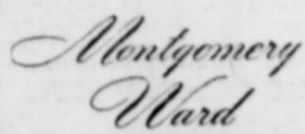

Meanwhile, some high Nationalist figures were reportedly suggesting a wholesale evacuation of Manchuria now.

Well-informed sources said it was probably the result of the Nationalist defeat at Chinchow. The step, believed to be dictated by strategic considerations, would bring about the most drastic change in China's "industrial powerhouse," called by some the "key to control of China," in complete Communist control.

READ THE CLASSIFIED ADS

An announcement from Dewey-Warren headquarters said that Stevenson's talk will originate from Station KNOW At Austin and will be heard over a state network of 23 stations from 6:30 to 6:45 P. M.

The speech, a headquarters spokesman said, is one of a series called "Why Texas Democrats are Supporting Porter."

Only 4 Tickets To Anyone For Cotton Bowl

The Executive Committee of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association has set up the following regulations to govern the ticket sale for the January 1, 1949 Cotton Bowl game:

1. No application will be accepted for more than FOUR tickets from anyone.
2. Applications will be accepted by mail ONLY between November 1st and November 4th, inclusive.
3. When all applications received on the above mentioned dates have been opened and filed, a drawing will be held to determine the order in which applications will be filled. This order of filling will be followed until the supply of tickets has been exhausted. When this time arrives, all unfilled applications will be returned to applicants.
4. Checks must accompany all applications. All tickets are reserved. The price is $4.00 each. A 25c mailing fee must be added to check with each application.
5. Applications should be mailed, at the proper date, to the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, Adelphi Hotel, Dallas, Texas.

The Cotton Bowl Stadium has been rebuilt during the past year and now has a seating capacity of 67,435 as compared to 45,507 in previous years. The Stadium enlargement was financed by a State Fair Bond issue, and the bondholders have options on part of the new seats. The ticket distribution for the New Year's game will be as follows: 12,000 seats to Bandholders, 30,000 seats to the competing schools and the remaining 25,435 to the public under the plan outlined above.

Truman Heads For Washington

En Route With President Truman, Oct. 16 (UP)—President Truman swung his midwestern campaign tour toward Washington today, greatly encouraged by the big crowds that have turned out for his speeches.

Mr. Truman is convinced that he will win if he can only get the vote in big enough numbers on Nov. 2. That, in effect, was what he told a crowd of 1,000 party workers in Indianapolis last night.

The President's special campaign train was headed eastward today and was expected to reach Washington about 4 P. M. EST.

In his talk with party workers at Indianapolis, Mr. Truman said the big crowd along his route from Chicago during the day demonstrated the intense public interest in the campaign.

He praised the Indiana Democratic party for tight organization down in the precinct level where the job of getting the vote is done.

The President left no doubt of his belief that when an aroused and interested electorate gets to the polls, the Democrats are bound to win.

And he told a mass rally on the War Memorial Plaza that there is great reason for the people to be aroused and interested in the issues of this campaign.

Then he resumed his running attack on the 80th Congress and his argument that Gov. Thomas E.

Dewey must stand on the record of the last Congress.

He charged that the Republicans played "political checkers" when they should have been fighting the "fire of inflation."

"For two long years we have been turning in fire alarms," he said. "And for two long years the Republican firemen have been too busy playing a game of political checkers to put out the blaze."

"They figured that maybe the fire of inflation would burn itself out, or that it was un-American to put water on the flames."

Barkley Says GOP Can't Help

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UP)—Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Democratic vice presidential nominee, charged last night that a Republican administration "would neither protect the gains of the last 16 years, nor provide adequate growth of the future."

"The farmer always bears the brunt of economic repression," Barkley said in a radio speech here. "He is the first to feel the effects of recession and the last."

He promised a greater effort by Democrats to bolster the farmers' cause.

Earlier, at Kansas City, Barkley accused Republican campaigner of "scattering music and sweet honey" while avoiding definite stands on pertinent public issues.

He spoke in Kansas City less than 24 hours after Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's whirlwind visit.

Barkley said the 1948 election would determine "whether the laws that condition the status of workers are to be made and administered by those in sympathy with their legitimate aspirations or by those who seek to suppress them."

He accused the 80th Congress of "restoring many of the abuses suffered by workers in the dismal 20's through passage of the Taft-Hartley act. Barkley also charged that Congress crippled the Democratic social security program, minimum wage extension efforts, and stripped the labor department of "many of its most important functions."

Barkley said the Democratic labor program was "positive and liberal," and added that "we intended to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act."

Cold Snap To Hit All Texas

By United Press
A cold snap is moving out of the Rocky Mountain states toward Texas today, on the heels of one of the warmest days in recent weeks.

Sub-freezing temperatures are expected in part of the Panhandle by Sunday morning, and the United States weather bureau says all of Texas is in for a cool week-end.

The Friday high in the state was 96 degrees at Presidio, Guadalupe Pass, with an 83, had the low maximum of the afternoon.

This morning's low was 46 at Amarillo. There were several other spots with temperatures in the upper 40's and low 50 readings. At Laredo, the temperature stayed high—never dropping under the 76 mark.

Light rain fell in the northwest this morning around Wichita Falls and the weather bureau says thundershowers will scatter out across other sections as the cooler air moves over the state down from the mountain region.

Christian Science Services

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 17, 1948.

The Golden Text is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Mark 10:45).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him: rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving" (Colossians 2:6,7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ hath rolled away the stone from the door of human hope and faith, and through the revelation and demonstration of life in God,

DUBLIN DOWNS RANGER BY 19 TO 0 SCORE

In a game that turned out to be all that it was feared it might, the Ranger Bulldogs took a beating at the hand of Dublin at Dublin Friday night when they scored 19 points to Ranger's 0.

Finding the going tough from

T. J. Adams and one has a free ticket at the Tower Theatre
Box Office To See THAT HAGEN GIRL

the outset the Bulldogs fumbled in the first quarter to give Dublin a break and a drive for a touchdown. Recovering the fumble Dublin needed but one completed pass to score the first six points of the game.

The game was a nip and tuck drive on the part of both teams until the fourth quarter when Dublin intercepted a Ranger pass drove over for a touchdown and passed for the extra point making the score 13 to 0.

Again in the fourth quarter Ranger received a roughing penalty, placing Dublin within scoring distance of the goal line and over they went again for the other six points of the game.

Dublin's superb punting kept the Bulldogs with their backs to the wall most of the game and injuries to the Bulldogs handicapped their push. Marvin Wilson and Keith Munneryn both received injuries with both going back into the game. Munneryn had to be taken from the game, after going back in.

Irving Man Held In Crash Death

DALLAS, Tex. Oct. 16 (UP)—Police held a 21-year-old Irving man today as the driver of a car which last night plowed into a group of people on a street, killing a young woman and injuring three persons seriously.

The victim was Mrs. Mildred Worthington, 20, injured were identified as Miss Shirley Houston, 14, Billy McWhorter, 23, and Roy E. Turner, 22.

Mrs. Worthington had been a passenger in an automobile involved in a minor accident. She and the others were standing at the scene discussing the incident when a speeding automobile crashed into the group.

Police said the driver, taken to headquarters, failed to pass a sobriety test.

The California Automobile Association advises that electricity in the ignition system of a car will leak away if spark plugs are improperly gapped or have cracked insulators.

Southworth's All-Out Game, With Flag Won, Cost Heath

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

BOSTON—(NEA)—Billy Southworth's all-out baseball with the pennant won cost the Braves the services of Jeff Heath in the World Series, but it was highly commendable.

Billy the Kid once more demonstrated why he is the most respected of managers.

How many times have you seen a club with the flag in the bag take it easy? Starting pitchers throw three innings, or something like that, just enough to keep loosened up. You see second-stringers and young fellows brought up from the farms for a fall look. But not when Mr. Southworth is running the works.

"We're still playing to win," he told the Boston Nationals, when they shaded the Giants to take it all. "That's the only way we know." Southworth tells you the Beantowners wanted it that way.

"Sain thrives on work, and Spahn and Bickford insisted on their regular turns," he explains.

"And always remember that the other fellows were in competition, the Dodgers, Pirates and Cardinals fighting for second place, and the greater amount of World Series money that goes with it. It would have been unfair to the Pirates and Cardinals had we let up on the Brooks, and what is more important, unjust to the fans."

EXPERIENCE taught Southworth that bearing down right down to the last step of the championship campaign is the most potent prescription for a World Series entrant. It keeps the athletes sharp.

"When I had the Cardinals," says Southworth, "we kept right on firing in 1942 and '44, and won the World Series. We let down a bit in '43, and lost."

So, on the eve of the World Series, Southworth's only concession to the Dodgers was trying Eddie Stanky's repaired ankle at second base, and that was hardly doing the Bums a favor.

He sent Warren Spahn and then Johnny Sain against the Brooklyn club, and the Braves scored three in the eighth of the initial engagement to tie, and went to the 13th before being beaten by Jackie Robinson's home run. Sain gave the Superbas only two hits until the seventh, winning his 23d, 4-3.

But not until outfielder Heath, half of the Braves' left-hand power, fractured his ankle sliding into the plate in an attempt to score from second on Bill Salkeld's long single. Heath's spikes caught, but he couldn't make up his mind about hitting the dirt, which is the way these things usually happen. Heath should not have been waved in, especially in view of the fact that the Braves had a three-run lead.

Under the circumstances, Billy Southworth might not have sent Jeff Heath in. But that wouldn't have meant that the Braves weren't giving the Brooks all they had.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Casey Stengel, new manager of the New York Yankees, always has been regarded as one of baseball's top thespians but old Case is worried about television.

"We didn't have much of it on the west coast," Stengel said, "and my face don't fit it very well cuz it's hard on the screen. I'll just have to be a better actor, I guess."

Stengel is only kidding. There is going to be little clowning for the guy with the iron gray hair from now on. His philosophy after a long stretch in the minors is that you have to fight to stay there to the top—and fight to stay there to coast during the past season aren't going to find Casey very humorous.

The Harvard-Army football series being renewed at West Point today once again caused the abandonment of the sport at the Academy. In the 1909 game, Cadet Eugene Byrne, Army tackle, died of a broken neck, and the game was called early in the second half with Harvard a 9 to 0 winner. Army cancelled the rest of its schedule and it was only after long consideration that football was resumed the next autumn.

There are some schools now which wish the cadets never had resumed.

Predicts No War Nor Slump in '49

WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 16 (UP)—Roger W. Babson, who accurately forecast the 1929 stock market crash, predicted today there will be neither war nor depression in 1949.

The 73-year-old statistician made his latest forecasts at the third annual conference of businessmen and educators at his Babson Institute.

He said his confidence in continued peace stemmed from talks with a "top government official" who recently conferred with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the United States military commander in Germany.

"If Stalin were starting a war, he would give up maple sugar—he wouldn't be irritating us," explained Babson.

As for business, he predicted conditions next year would be similar to those in 1948, with any change for the better.

DUBLIN DOWNS RANGER BY 19 TO 0 SCORE

In a game that turned out to be all that it was feared it might, the Ranger Bulldogs took a beating at the hand of Dublin at Dublin Friday night when they scored 19 points to Ranger's 0.

Finding the going tough from

T. J. Adams and one has a free ticket at the Tower Theatre
Box Office To See THAT HAGEN GIRL

the outset the Bulldogs fumbled in the first quarter to give Dublin a break and a drive for a touchdown. Recovering the fumble Dublin scored but one completed pass to secure the first six points of the game.

The game was a nip and tuck drive on the part of both teams until the fourth quarter when Dublin intercepted a Ranger pass drove over for a touchdown and passed for the extra point making the score 12 to 0.

Again in the fourth quarter Ranger received a roughing penalty, placing Dublin within scoring distance of the goal line and over they went again for the other six points of the game.

Dublin's superb punting kept the Bulldogs with their backs to the wall most of the game and injuries to the Bulldogs handicapped their push. Marvin Wilson and Keith Munnerlyn both received injuries with both going back into the game. Munnerlyn had to be taken from the game, after going back in.

DUBLIN DOWNS RANGER BY 19 TO 0 SCORE

In a game that turned out to be all that it was feared it might, the Ranger Bulldogs took a beating at the hand of Dublin at Dublin Friday night when they scored 19 points to Ranger's 0.

Finding the going tough from

T. J. Adams and one has a free ticket at the Tower Theatre
Box Office To See THAT HAGEN GIRL

the outset the Bulldogs fumbled in the first quarter to give Dublin a break and a drive for a touchdown. Recovering the fumble Dublin needed but one completed pass to score the first six points of the game.

The game was a nip and tuck drive on the part of both teams until the fourth quarter when Dublin intercepted a Ranger pass drove over for a touchdown and passed for the extra point making the score 13 to 0.

Again in the fourth quarter Ranger received a roughing penalty, placing Dublin within scoring distance of the goal line and over they went again for the other six points of the game.

Dublin's superb punting kept the Bulldogs with their backs to the wall most of the game and injuries to the Bulldogs handicapped their push. Marvin Wilson and Keith Munnerlyn both received injuries with both going back into the game. Munnerlyn had to be taken from the game, after going back in.

★ THE SCOREBOARD ★ Southworth's All-Out Game, With Flag Won, Cost Heath

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

BOSTON—(NEA)—Billy Southworth's all-out baseball with the pennant won cost the Braves the services of Jeff Heath in the World Series, but it was highly commendable.

Billy the Kid once more demonstrated why he is the most respected of managers.

How many times have you seen a club with the flag in the bag take it easy? Starting pitchers throw three innings, or something like that, just enough to keep loosened up. You see second-stringers and young fellows brought up from the farms for a fall look. But not when Mr. Southworth is running the works.

"We're still playing to win," he told the Boston Nationals, when he had the Giants to take it all. "That's the only way we know."

Southworth tells you the Braves owners wanted it that way. "Sain thrives on work, and Spahn and Bickford insisted on their regular turns," he explains.

"And always remember that the other fellows were in competition, the Dodgers, Pirates and Cardinals fighting for second place, and the greater amount of World Series money that goes with it. It would have been unfair to the Pirates and Cardinals had we let up on the Brooks, and what is more important, unjust to the fans."

EXPERIENCE taught Southworth that bearing down right down to the last step of the championship campaign is the most potent prescription for a World Series entrant. It keeps the athletes sharp. "When I had the Cardinals," says Southworth, "we kept right on firing in 1942 and '44, and won the World Series. We let down a bit in '43, and lost."

So, on the eve of the World Series, Southworth's only concession to the Dodgers was trying Eddie Stanky's repaired ankle at second base, and that was hardly doing the Bums a favor.

He sent Warren Spahn and then Johnny Sain against the Brooklyn club, and the Braves scored three in the eighth of the initial engagement to tie, and went to the 13th before being beaten by Jackie Robinson's home run. Sain gave the Superbas only two hits until the seventh, winning his 23d, 4-3.

But not until outfielder Heath, half of the Braves' left-hand power, fractured his ankle sliding into the plate in an attempt to score from second on Bill Salkeld's long single. Heath's spikes caught, but he couldn't make up his mind about hitting the dirt, which is the way these things usually happen. Heath should not have been waved in, especially in view of the fact that the Braves had a three-run lead.

Under the circumstances, Billy Southworth might not have sent Jeff Heath in. But that wouldn't have meant that the Braves weren't giving the Brooks all they had.

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
By Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Casey Stengel, new manager of the New York Yankees, always has been regarded as one of baseball's top thespians but old Casey is worried about television.

"We didn't have much of it on the west coast," Stengel said, "and my face don't fit it very well cuz it's hard on the screen. I'll just have to be a better actor. I guess."

Stengel is only kidding. There is going to be little clowning for the guy with the iron gray hair from now on. His philosophy after a long stretch in the minors is that you have to fight your way to the top—and fight to stay there.

Those Yankee players who tried to coast during the past season aren't going to find Casey very humorous.

The Harvard-Army football series being renewed at West Point today once almost caused the abandonment of the sport at the Academy. In the 1909 game, Cadet Eugene Byrne, Army tackle, died of a broken neck, and the game was called early in the second half with Harvard a 9 to 0 winner.

Army cancelled the rest of its schedule and it was only after long consideration that football was resumed the next autumn. . . . there are some schools now which wish the cadets never had resumed.

Citation, the wonder horse which goes out today after the Empire International Gold Cup at Belmont Park, should feel happy enough to run away and hide from the rest of them. He just got through with his periodic visit to the dentist. One chopper came out.

Another in the line of "greatest since Man O' War," the horse of the year doesn't get any special consideration around his own barn, not even an occasional lump of sugar. Tebg "I don't like to give horses candy," said Jones "They get to expect it and the first thing you know they are stomping and fussing every time they see you." . . . poor little rich kid.

If you ever get to wondering why football stars begin to believe their importance consider the case of North Carolina's Choo Choo Charley Justice.

After a recent game, Charley and his party arrived at a Chapel Hill, N. C., Inn after the kitchen had been closed. The headwaiter rushed into the kitchen and told the chef that North Carolina's most important citizen wanted to eat.

"I wouldn't even open the kitchen for the governor," quoth the irate cook.

"But it's Charley Justice," he was told.

Choo Choo ate!

New Arthritis Cure Sought
CHICAGO, (UP)—Blood donations from pregnant women are being sought to aid in the cure of rheumatoid arthritis. Physicians caring for a Chicago youth say the blood is sought because the disease has disappeared from women during pregnancy and transfusions from pregnant women have produced improvement in at least one case of rheumatoid arthritis.

Pennsylvania's coke output is 81 per cent of the national total and tops that of either Great Britain or Russia.

Predicts No War Nor Slump in '49

WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 16 (UP)—Roger W. Babson, who accurately forecast the 1929 stock market crash, predicted today there will be neither war nor depression in 1949.

The 73-year-old statistician made his latest forecasts at the third annual conference of businessmen and educators at his Babson Institute.

He said his confidence in continued peace stemmed from talks with a "top government official" who recently conferred with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the United States military commander in Germany.

"If Stalin were starting a war, he would give up maple sugar—he wouldn't be irritating us," explained Babson.

As for business, he predicted conditions next year would be similar to those in 1948, with any change for the better.

Fierce Fighting On In Palestine

TEL AVIV, Oct. 16, (UP)—Fierce fighting between Israeli and Egyptian forces in the Arid Negev area of southern Palestine threatened today to spread throughout the Holy Land as the Israeli forces rejected a United Nations cease-fire order.

Heavy ground fighting marked by aerial dog-fights was reported to have been going on in the Negev for more than 18 hours, and a report to United Nations headquarters in Paris said there were renewed hostilities in the Jerusalem area.

Arab capitals were silent regarding the new hostilities, except for a brief Egyptian government announcement in Cairo that Israeli planes had attacked an Egyptian border town.
