Truman Chats With Reporters While Baking In Florida Sun

KEY WEST, Fla., March 16 (UP)—President Truman kept his country guessing today about his plans for 1952.

But he left no doubt where he stands on his administration's integrity or his hope for its place in history.

And Mr. Truman gave the back of his hand to public opinion polls which report that his popularity is at an "all-time low" since he entered the White House almost six years ago.

On all but his 1952 plans, Mr. Truman broke his silence yesterday in a 34-minute news conference on the palm-fringed lawn of the Little White House.

To criticism suggesting that the men around him are lacking in moral and ethical standards, he said that's not true—point blank and categorically that's not true.

His people are honorable—of them. He wouldn't have them around if they weren't. He said, his house is always clean.

This was the president's answer to the stinging shafts that have been hurled at his administration as a result of the HRC investigation of a "web of influence" reaching into the White House. Mr. Truman was calm, but firm, in defending the honor of his administration.

But he was mellow and philosophical in seeking to assess history's verdict of his administration:

"I hope it will be remembered for its sincere effort for world peace, and if we accomplish that, if we get through this era without a third world war, I think that probably is what it will be remembered for."

He permitted direct quotations on that, just as he did on his own stewardship in office.

"All a president of the United States can do," he said, "is to endeavor to make the government—the executive branch—run in the public interest. I have striven very hard to accomplish that purpose. The administration of no president can be correctly evaluated during his term, or within 25 or 30 years after that term. . . . It takes an objective survey of what has happened and what was trying to be accomplished to decide whether the president has been a success or not."

All he is working for, he said, is the welfare of the United States. He thinks all other government employees are trying to do the same thing. But, Mr. Truman noted, character assassination is a terrible thing.

Will he run again in 1952? Mr. Truman teased. He said he will leave the answer to that up in the air so reporters will have something to speculate about.

Later, when he was asked to review his first six years in office, he said he hoped the second six years wouldn't be quite as hard. But he cautioned reporters not to imply that this means he will run again.

"Love Burglar" Awaits Fate

DALLAS, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Fred Felix Adair, Jr., Dallas "Love Burglar," learns today whether he will die as scheduled in the electric chair March 29 for rapping a Vickery housewife.

Final arguments in Adair's sanity hearing—considered his last chance to escape execution—ended late yesterday and Judge Henry King sent the Criminal District Court Jury upstairs to debate a verdict.

However, the jurors were locked up for the night after they announced at 10:10 p. m. they could not reach a verdict before today.

Some 30 witnesses gave sharply conflicting testimony during the three-day sanity trial, aimed at determining whether the condemned rapist now knows right from wrong.

State witnesses, including Adair's ex-boss and two of his rape victims, testified yesterday that the young ex-payroll clerk was sane.

A medical doctor and two osteopathic physicians had testified they considered Adair insane, but two other medical doctors—including one psychiatrist—had said they thought he knew right from wrong.

Analysis Ordered Of School Food

BEAUMONT, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Seventy-five pupils and three teachers at Fletcher Elementary School were recovering today from a mass attack of illness.

Dr. Frank Hart, school physician, suspected food poisoning. He ordered an analysis of food served Wednesday in the Fletcher cafeteria.

FCC Investigation Order Of KTXC Big Springs Station

WASHINGTON, March 16 (UP)—Investigation to determine whether there has been misrepresentation of ownership of Radio Station KTXC, Big Springs, has been ordered by the Federal Communications Commission.

The inquiry was based on a letter received from Leonard R. Lyon, a stockholder, in which he made charges about the registered stockholders, V. T. and E. W. Anderson.

The order said the investigation was designed to determine whether Lyon, the president, and Clyde E. and George T. Thomas had concealed information regarding ownership and operation.

Meanwhile, the FCC ordered revocation of a construction permit granted to the Fort Stockton Broadcasting Company.

The Commission held in the Ft. Stockton order that it appeared Lyon, Anderson and Thomas, equal partners in the station, had participated in the illegal transfer of control of the Big Spring station.

One Never Knows

STAMFORD, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Mrs. Mose Jones looked forward today to her 101st birthday party Sunday, wondering if it would be anything like last year.

Then, friends and relatives—430 in all—attended from six states.

Still Going Strong

VIRGONA, Wis., March 16 (UP)—Mrs. Frank Schoville and her 21st child in 25 years of marriage were reported in good condition at Vernon Memorial hospital today.

THE WEATHER

By United Press

A typical March wind graded across Texas today from the south but its stay in the state was expected to be abbreviated.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Dallas said the winds were kicked up by a low pressure area centered in Canada which was moving eastward across the continent. The South winds were expected to be replaced by scattered showers and cool air from the west Saturday.

At mid-morning wind was clocked at 32 miles per hour at Abilene, 27 miles per hour at Midland, 25 miles per hour at Big Spring, 20 miles per hour at Dallas and 16 at Wink. The Weather Bureau expected the wind to hit 30 miles in most sections of the state.

Temperatures today were expected to reach into the upper 70's and low 80's over most of the state, following a comparatively warm night that saw only three stations reporting freezing temperatures.

The lowest was 30 degrees at Amarillo with Lubbock and Childress both reporting 32 degrees. The highest minimum was 64 at Brownsville.

Mid-morning temperatures included Amarillo 36, El Paso 27, Abilene 57, Fort Worth 58, Dallas 60, Waco and San Antonio 62 and Austin 63.

Resolution Urges Removal Of Ayres

AUSTIN, Tex., March 16 (UP)—A House Resolution urging removal of a University of Texas Economics Professor for "spreading socialistic ideas" may be considered at a meeting of the school's board of regents today.

The lower chamber, in a brief session before week-end adjournment, approved a resolution condemning Dr. Clarence E. Ayres, veteran professor whose talks have been covered extensively by the Daily Texan, university student newspaper.

The resolution called upon the chancellor, president and board of regents of the university to look into the charges and report within 10 days whether they intend to continue Ayres' contract.

Ayres denied he was a socialist, and said some of the statements attributed to him were "misleading."

Chancellor James P. Hart and Dr. T. S. Painter, university president, withheld comment.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio, sponsor of the resolution, quoted from Daily Texan stories which said Ayres described the national debt as "only a debt of marks on paper which has no effect on the total wealth of the country."

"That burns me up," said Bell. The legislator also said Ayres appeared before a House Committee two years ago in opposition to a bill requiring all state employees to swear they did not belong to Communist or subversive organizations.

Bell claimed Ayres "advocates destruction of the free enterprise system." His resolution was adopted on a vote of 180 to 1.

Rep. John Barnhart of Beeville, the only member voting against the resolution, protested that "this was a star chamber session and an inquiry where we were called on to judge Ayres without giving him the right of hearing."

Ayres said he had been mistakenly quoted in a speech Monday night as saying "free enterprise is decadent."

"I don't remember the word, 'decadent,'" he said. "I'm sure that anyone who heard that talk would judge that sentence to be misleading."

Woman Is Killed As Car Hits Train

AMARILLO, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Mrs. Bessie Zentz, 65, of Eikhart, Ind., died last night of injuries received in a grade crossing accident.

Her husband, Hugh Zentz, was critically injured when their automobile crashed into the side of a Rock Island Freight Train Wednesday. Zentz was driving the car.

Tyler Child Killed While Crossing Street

TYLER, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Smith County's 1951 traffic toll stood at four today with the death of three-year-old Della Jo Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert L. Thompson.

The blond child was crossing a rural road near her parents' home when struck yesterday by an automobile driven by Emie Eugene Cleaver, 32, a negro school teacher. Cleaver was absolved of blame in the accident.

Missing: One Orchard

AUSTIN, Tex., March 16 (UP)—Missing: one orchard. Junior grade, Bruno Schoen reported to city police the loss from his yard of four young peach trees and one each of cherry, plum, pear, apple and English walnut trees.

DOUGHBOYS FACE SHELLS MADE IN AMERICAN FACTORIES

By Earnest Hoberecht

TOKYO, Saturday, March 17 (UP)—Reinforced Chinese Communists opened up with a massive artillery barrage of white phosphorous shells on the Central Korean front Friday and slowed the four-day-old American advance to a walk. There was speculation that the enemy had decided to stand and fight.

The central front erupted into a thundering artillery duel as American guns replied to the Chinese artillery and mortars. The Americans threw 50 shells for every one the Reds shot.

Storm Lashes Thru 3 States

HELENA, MONT., March 16 (UP)—A storm that blacked out cities and towns in three states for varying periods swept across Montana early today, leaving behind a trail of minor destruction as it headed for the plains states.

The storm appeared to be losing force as it raged eastward at a 40-mile-an-hour clip. It started with a windstorm in the Puget Sound area yesterday, gathering speed until winds reached velocities as high as 75 miles an hour at Lewiston, Ida.

The near-hurricane winds caused one death at Spokane, Wash. A roof tore loose from a building struck an crushed Vivian Medley, 35, in a street.

The weather bureau predicted the storm should hit the plains state Saturday night or Sunday with the center probably moving east along the Canadian border.

Many communities in Washington, Idaho and Montana were without power for varying periods yesterday and last night. Helena itself was completely blacked out for three hours when lightning struck a power pole outside the city.

Earlier, lightning struck a power pole at Burke, Idaho, causing minor blackouts in some western Montana towns.

As the storm lashed the Pacific Northwest, wind uprooted trees and telephone poles, smashed windows and damaged several homes under construction at Moses Lake, Wash.

Several eastern Washington towns were cut off from power and some radio stations were forced off the air.

Carter Completes Navy Boot Camp

Jerry Carwyn Carter, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carter, Box 514, 117 Mesquite St., Ranger, 226 recently completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., and is now available for assignment to a Fleet unit or to one of the Navy's schools for specialized training.

During this period of training, he underwent intensive drill in such subjects as signaling, navigation, basic ordnance and seamanship. He also was indoctrinated into the ways of the Navy and learned the customs of the service.

Priest Charges Former Senator Tried To Get Him Out Of Town Because Of Battle Against Crime

NEW YORK, March 16 (UP)—A Louisiana priest charged before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that Harvey J. Peltiere, Sr., a former Louisiana State Senator, tried to get him out of town because he was leading a fight against crime.

The Rev. Jerome Drolet, of the St. Charles Church in Thibodaux, La. Fourche Parish, Louisiana, told the committee that his life had even been threatened.

Father Drolet said he was an official of a citizens committee to fight crime and local officials had failed to do anything.

"There are slot machines all over the place except in churches and schools," he said. "Widespread prostitution and white slavery" existed.

He charged that "several of the leading racketeers in the parish are very close to such gentlemen as Mr. Costello . . . and the Chicago Capone group of gangsters."

He said he had been trying since November, 1948, to get the sheriff and district attorney "to cooperate with us."

Allied warplanes joined the battle, blasting enemy-held ridges north of recaptured Hongchong

from dawn until dark with rockets and flaming jelled gasoline. The Chinese Communist stand was made in the mountains between Hongchong and the 38th Parallel, 21 miles north. American troops inched ahead against the rain of phosphorous shells and took some high ground.

The Chinese resistance interrupted the American drive on Chunchon, only 7 1/2 miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Front dispatches said the phosphorous shells were of American manufacture, either captured by the Reds in previous engagements or taken from the Chinese Nationalists during the war in China.

Elements of two new Chinese Army Corps, the 39th and 40th, were identified in action on the central front for the first time since the battle of Chipyong in far North Korea in November.

Chinese Nationalist reports from Formosa that the Reds have thrown from 12 to 18 new army corps—320,000 to 540,000 men—into Korea from China.

These reports, published by the Chinese Nationalist Military Information Service, said the Reds were preparing for a summer offensive during the rainy season which starts two weeks from now.

Until then, the Nationalist said, the Communists will concentrate on holding a line near the 38th Parallel.

Although the Reds fought back on the central front, they continued their withdrawal in the mountains to the east. American troops moved ahead without resistance, occupying an important mountain pass northwest of Soksan. They also took high ground overlooking the highway center of Pungam, 20 miles south of the 38th Parallel.

In recaptured Seoul, civilian police joined UN troops in routing out Communist stragglers and agents while armored spearheads fanned out to the northwest, north and northeast.

DAUL TWING tore down Broadway like a drunken man. He bumped into people, not seeming to realize it, dodged in front of moving cars deaf to the squealing brakes, the cursing drivers. He just kept going.

Not that he felt that he was being pursued—he was blindly, dazedly pursuing. He wanted to find May Jenkins and little Judy. He wanted them desperately. He had to find them tonight! This was their last chance—their only chance—this last night.

The very impossibility of finding someone in the vastness of New York spurred him on faster and faster because he didn't want to admit to himself that he was chasing a phantom—that there was neither rhyme nor reason to his fantastic dash down the crowded streets of the world's most populous city.

He didn't want to face the fact that the Dolphin would sail in the morning without them. By the time he had gone ten blocks the accumulation of worry, disappointment, the prodigious amount of walking he had done through the long day, and the fact that he had eaten nothing since early morning began to tell on him.

He paused at 96th Street, panting, perspiring, dragged down by a sudden overpowering weariness. When Paul's legs stopped, his mind started to function on saner, sounder planes. He could conceive of no reason why May had failed to keep their rendezvous other than arrest. There was a newsstand at the opposite corner. He went to it and scanned the headlines—without buying a paper. He knew that if what he decided were true, the front pages would be shouting the news.

Nothing. Then he wondered if it had been too recent to have made the final edition. He forgot his weariness and hurried over to Amsterdam Avenue.

He knew from many previous stays in New York that there would find an endless succession of bar-and-grill establishments. Many of them kept a radio going all the time.

DAUL went from one to another, just opening the door and thrusting his head in until he found one with a radio. He went in this one and slumped down at the first table. The place was crowded and busy.

No one paid any attention to him. He saw an empty spot at the bar so he pulled himself up and shouldered his way into the vacant place. The bartender poured the straight whisky he called for. The hot glow of the liquor in his empty stomach revived him, steadied his jumping nerves.

A comedy team was performing on the radio and it was apparently a favorite of the patrons. Crowded as the place was, most of them were listening with quiet grinning attention. From time to time there was a chorus of hearty laughter. The laughter irritated Paul.

He looked at his watch. At 7— in 15 minutes—there should be a news program. He signaled to the bartender and ordered another drink.

The broadcast started off with international news. Paul couldn't pay attention to it. The man at his right turned to him and voiced his views on how the State Department should handle Russia. Paul nodded without knowing what the man had said.

Then it came, involuntarily. Paul held up his hand for the man at his side to be quiet.

"The latest development in the

The man next to him turned and said "If you ask me . . ."

"SHUT UP!" Paul exploded.

"ATTENTION has been focused here since early this morning," the radio voice continued, "when the child, Judy Twing, accompanied by a woman, was recognized in a southbound subway. This evening Federal Agents uncovered the luggage and the car of the woman and child at a rooming house on West 81st Street.

"Mrs. Kate Barron, proprietor of the rooming house, had read the account of what had taken place in the subway. The description of the woman and the child, who is reported dressed as a boy, caused her to suspect a Mrs. May Jenkins of Wheeling, W. Va., who had come to her establishment last night, accompanied by a small boy.

"Mrs. Barron called the police this afternoon. Two detectives, from a special squad detailed to run down the many leads that have been pouring in all day, answered the summons.

"They saw and spoke to Mrs. Jenkins in her room and they saw the child, but did not press the investigation when they noted that the boy with her had brown eyes. Judy Twing's eyes are blue.

"Later in the day Mrs. Barron learned that the boy the detectives had seen was the son of another roomer in her house, not the one Mrs. Jenkins claimed to be her son. Agents of the FBI responded to Mrs. Barron's second call.

"The woman and child were gone. Fingerprints in the room and in the car, which was left in front of the building, talked with those of Judy Twing. Inquiries concerning May Jenkins and the car which bears West Virginia plates, are being made.

"In the meantime, the authorities in charge of the case predict that an arrest will be made within a few hours."

Co-eds Prove They Have Brains Instead Of Being Sex-Conscious

By JAMES A. GRANT
United Press Staff Correspondent
OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Co-eds from fashionable Mills College, noted for their informal classroom garb, are disproving a cherished theory held by many males, that women go to college to get husbands rather than an education.

Far from the Imaginary, "sweet thing" who exists only for weekend parties and dances, the Mills College co-ed is taking an active and quizzical interest in what makes the world tick.

A new, far-from-the-usual course in "training for responsible citizenship" has drawn such a response from the 600-women student body that Dr. Laurence Sears, the course's originator, has been forced to move from a classroom to the campus concert hall.

No Examinations
Dr. Sears' new type of core in world affairs will be without textbooks and examinations. The co-eds listen to, and question leaders in the fields of business, government, education and foreign affairs in weekly sessions which will extend over a four-month period.

Walter A. Gordon, chairman of the adult authority of the California Department of Corrections, started the course by explaining how California handles, and attempts to rehabilitate, its convicted criminals. When he finished, he was subjected to a barrage of questions from all corners of the hall.

Some of the men who will speak on later dates are:
Warren Olney, III, director of the California crime commission, will talk about crime in California.
Paul C. Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle.
Carl Spaeth, dean of Stanford University's law school and a former state department official who attended the recent Lucknow conference.

Old Records Show Passing Of 'Iron Men'

NEW YORK, March 15 (UP)—Blame it on the jackrabbit ball, the inferior modern grade of tobacco chews or the machine age but there is proof at hand today that baseball's "iron man" pitcher is as dead as knickers and the flying wedge.

Jim Konstanty of the Phillies was regarded as quite some pumpkins last season when he appeared in a record 74 games and pitched a total of 152 innings.

Yet, the minor leagues, preparing to observe their golden anniversary, have dug up some old records which tend to prove that Jim was merely a baseball commuter who spent most of his energy walking from the bullpen to the pitching mound. Now for real pitching:

Back in 1902, a gent named Baxter Sparks in one week won three straight games for Yazoo City against Brookhaven. Then after taking one day off, Baxter trotted out to throw a shutout against Jackson.

Another of the "iron men" was Rudy Schenk of Saginaw in the Southern Michigan League. In one four-day stretch in 1913, Rudy pitched four complete games—and finished another. That was 36 innings, and he struck out 33 men.

One of the best was Bill Whittaker of Keokuk, Ia., in the Central Association. Compared with the modern flingers, who pitch once every fourth day, the tireless Whittaker pitched a complete shutout doubleheader against Waterloo, Ia., 1-0 and 2-0. And that was a one-day effort of 21 innings as the second game went 12 frames.

Equally impressive was the 1913 doubleheader which Harry Hedgepeth tossed for Petersburg in the Virginia League. Harry shut out Richmond, 1-0 and 10-0—and allowed only one hit in the two games.

Texans Register 3,180,000 Motor Vehicles In '50

COLLEGE STATION, March 15 (SpI)—E. J. Amey, director of the motor vehicle division, Texas Highway Department, said Thursday that some 3,180,000 motor vehicles have been registered in Texas during the last year.

Speaking at the highway engineering short course at Texas A. and M. College, he compared this with approximately 1,500,000 vehicles registered for 1945.

Folks Must Feel Good To Do Job

To do a good day's work you must feel your best. James Keelan, Jr., 5566 Labadie Ave., St. Louis, Mo., is a machine operator. This is a hard and exacting work and a man has to be on his toes to get the job done. There was a time when Mr. Keelan did not feel up to his work—was troubled with digestive disturbances. But Mr. Keelan heard about how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

James Keelan, Jr.

Mr. Keelan says: "In recent years, I had been troubled with heartburn and indigestion. But, since taking HADACOL, I no longer suffer heartburn. Now, I can eat anything without ever suffering after-meal distress. I have recommended HADACOL to a number of my fellow workers.

"HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today."

... he may earnestly believe that just any kind of an abstract will do, but it makes a lot of difference to the buyer as to the kind of an abstract he gets. There is as much difference in the quality of title information as there is in people and personalities. Most attorneys try to protect their clients against the hazards of irresponsible and sub-standard abstracts, and they should. Waiting for the best, where waiting is required, will pay big dividends in the long run.

This Last Night

By Ferd Nauheim

Copyright 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.

XIX
PAUL TWING tore down Broadway like a drunken man. He bumped into people, not seeming to realize it, dodged in front of moving cars deaf to the squealing brakes, the cursing drivers. He just kept going.

Not that he felt that he was being pursued—he was blindly, dazedly pursuing. He wanted to find May Jenkins and little Judy. He wanted them desperately. He had to find them tonight! This was their last chance—their only chance—this last night.

The very impossibility of finding someone in the vastness of New York spurred him on faster and faster because he didn't want to admit to himself that he was chasing a phantom—that there was neither rhyme nor reason to his fantastic dash down the crowded streets of the world's most populous city.

He didn't want to face the fact that the Dolphin would sail in the morning without them. By the time he had gone ten blocks the accumulation of worry, disappointment, the prodigious amount of walking he had done through the long day, and the fact that he had eaten nothing since early morning began to tell on him.

He paused at 96th Street, panting, perspiring, ragged down by a sudden overpowering weariness. When Paul's legs stopped, his mind started to function on safer, sounder planes. He could conceive of no reason why May had failed to keep their rendezvous other than arrest. There was a newsstand at the opposite corner.

He went to it and scanned the headlines—without buying a paper. He knew that if what he desired were true, the front pages would be shouting the news.

Nothing. Then he wondered if it had been too recent to have made the final edition. He forgot his weariness and hurried over to Amsterdam Avenue.

He knew from many previous stays in New York that there he would find an endless succession of bar-and-grill establishments. Many of them kept a radio going all the time.

DAUL went from one to another. Just opening the door and thrusting his head in until he found one with a radio. He went in this one and slumped down at the first table. The place was crowded and busy.

No one paid any attention to him. He saw an empty spot at the bar so he pulled himself up and shouldered his way into the vacant place. The bartender poured the straight whisky he called for. The hot glow of the liquor in his empty stomach revived him, steadied his jumping nerves.

A comedy team was performing on the radio and it was apparently a favorite of the patrons. Crowded as the place was, most of them were listening with quiet grinning attention. From time to time there was a chorus of hearty laughter. The laughter irritated Paul.

He looked at his watch. At 7— in 15 minutes—there should be a news program. He signaled to the bartender and ordered another drink.

The broadcast started off with international news. Paul couldn't pay attention to it. The man at his right turned to him and voiced his views on how the State Department should handle Russia. Paul nodded without knowing what the man had said.

Then it came, involuntarily. Paul held up his hand for the man at his side to be quiet.

"The latest development in the Twing case," the metallic voice intoned, "took place less than one hour ago here in New York City." Paul sucked in his breath and grinned the edge of the bar. The man next to him turned and said "If you ask me . . ."

"SHUT UP!" Paul exploded.

"ATTENTION" has been focused here since early this morning," the radio voice continued. "When the child, Judy Twing, accompanied by a woman, was recognized in a southbound subway. This evening Federal Agents uncovered the luggage and the car of the woman and child at a rooming house on West 81st Street.

"Mrs. Kate Barron, proprietor of the rooming house, had read the account of what had taken place in the subway. The description of the woman and the child, who is reported dressed as a boy, caused her to suspect a boy, Mrs. Jenkins of Wheeling, W. Va., who had come to her establishment last night, accompanied by a small boy.

"Mrs. Barron called the police this afternoon. Two detectives, from a special squad detailed to run down the many leads that have been pouring in all day, answered the summons.

"They saw and spoke to Mrs. Jenkins in her room and they saw the child, but did not press the investigation when they noted that the boy with her had brown eyes. Judy Twing's eyes are blue.

"Later in the day Mrs. Barron learned that the boy the detectives had seen was the son of another roomer in her house, not the one Mrs. Jenkins claimed to be her son. Agents of the FBI responded to Mrs. Barron's second call.

"The woman and child were gone. Fingernprints in the room and in the car, which was left in front of the building, linked with those of Judy Twing. Inquiries concerning May Jenkins and the car which bears West Virginia plates, are being made.

"In the meantime, the authorities in charge of the case predict that an arrest will be made within a few hours."

Co-eds Prove They Have Brains Instead Of Being Sex-Conscious

By JAMES A. GRANT
United Press Staff Correspondent
OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Co-eds from fashionable Mills College, noted for their informal classroom garb, are disproving a cherished theory held by many males, that women go to college to get husbands rather than an education.

Far from the Imaginary "sweet thing" who exists only for weekend parties and dances, the Mills College co-ed is taking an active and quizzical interest in what makes the world tick.

A new, far-from-the-usual course in "training for responsible citizenship" has drawn such a response from the 600-women student body that Dr. Laurence Sears, the course's originator, has been forced to move from a classroom to the campus concert hall.

No Examinations
Dr. Sears' new type of core in world affairs will be without textbooks and examinations. The co-eds listen to, and question leaders in the fields of business, government, education and foreign affairs in weekly sessions which will extend over a four-month period.

Walter A. Gordon, chairman of the adult authority of the California Department of Corrections, started the course by explaining how California handles, and attempts to rehabilitate, its convicted criminals. When he finished, he was subjected to a barrage of questions from all corners of the hall.

Some of the men who will speak on later date are:
Warren Olney, III, director of the California crime commission, will talk about crime in California.

Paul C. Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle.
Carl Spaeth, dean of Stanford University's law school and a former state department official who attended the recent Lucknow conference in India, will delve into Indian-American relations.

Robert Brady, professor of economics at the University of California, who has just returned from a year's study in England, will talk about Clement Attlee's socialist government.

Dr. Sears, who believes his course is the first of its kind ever offered by an American university or college, wants his students, who come from 39 states, 14 foreign countries and three territories, to "realize what is important and what is not important."

While the doctor won't ask for a formal examination when the course ends, he will expect each co-ed to do a "think" piece—a term professors like to use when an essay calls for mental work—explaining what the course has meant to her. Each student will get two credits.

Old Records Show Passing Of 'Iron Men'

NEW YORK, March 15 (UP)—Blame it on the jackrabbit ball, the inferior modern grade of tobacco chewers or the machine age but there is proof at hand today that baseball's "iron men" pitcher is as dead as knickers and the flying wedge.

Jim Konstanty of the Phillies was regarded as quite some pumpkins last season when he appeared in a record 74 games and pitched a total of 152 innings.

Yet, the minor leagues, preparing to observe their golden anniversary, have dug up some old records which tend to prove that Jim was merely a baseball commuter who spent most of his energy walking from the bullpen to the pitching mound. Now for real pitching:

Back in 1902, a gent named Baxter Sparks in one week won three straight games for Yazoo City against Brookhaven. Then after taking one day off, Baxter trotted out to throw a shutout against Jackson.

Another of the "iron men" was Rudy Schwenk of Saginaw in the Southern Michigan League. In one four-day stretch in 1913, Rudy pitched four complete games—and finished another. That was 36 innings, and he struck out 33 men.

One of the best was Bill Whittaker of Keokuk, Ia., in the Central Association. Compared with the modern flingers, who pitch once every fourth day, the tireless Whittaker pitched a complete shutout doubleheader against Waterloo, Ia., 1-0 and 2-0. And that was a one-day effort of 21 innings as the second game went 12 frames.

Equally impressive was the 1913 doubleheader which Harry Hedgepeth tossed for Petersburg in the Virginia League. Harry shut out Richmond, 1-0 and 10-0—and allowed only one hit in the two games.

No War, River Says
CHALEFONT ST. GILES, England (NU)—Villagers here think World War III is not imminent because the River Misbourne has begun to flow again. They said the river dried up during World War I, disappeared again just before World War II and had been dry until March 1.

More than 12,000,000 persons in the United States are more than 65 years old.

Texans Register 3,180,000 Motor Vehicles In '50

COLLEGE STATION, March 15 (Sp)—E. J. Amey, director of the motor vehicle division, Texas Highway Department, said Thursday that some 3,180,000 motor vehicles have been registered in Texas during the last year.

Speaking at the highway engineering short course at Texas A. and M. College, he compared this with approximately 1,500,000 vehicles registered for 1945.

Folks Must Feel Good To Do Job

To do a good day's work you must feel your best. James Keelan, Jr., 5546 Labadie Ave., St. Louis, Mo., is a machine operator. This is hard work and a man has to be on his toes to get the job done. There was a time when Mr. Keelan did not feel up to his work—was troubled with digestive disturbances. But Mr. Keelan heard about how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron.

Mr. Keelan says: "In recent years, I had been troubled with heartburn and indigestion. But, since taking HADACOL, I no longer suffer heartburn. Now, I can eat anything without ever suffering after-meal distress. I have recommended HADACOL to a number of my fellow workers."

"HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today."
