

Third Week Chest Drive Opens - $2,935 Needed

Chesters Hope To End Drive For $6,800 Soon

Volunteer workers rolled up their sleeves early Monday and vigorously dove into the third week of Ranger's Community Chest campaign.

With the drive now $425 past the halfway mark of the $6,800 quota, Chest leaders, headed by President W. C. Whittle, hoped that activity this week might bring the fund-raising drive to a successful end "within a few days."

Miss Marjorie Maddocks, secretary of the organization which is purely local and voluntary in leadership, reported early Monday that a total of $3,955 had been collected during the initial two weeks of the fund-raising effort. Of this total, $3,145 is in cash and $817 is in pledges.

"Many people in Ranger and the surrounding territory haven't been contacted as yet," Miss Maddocks said later Monday. "We have not received reports from a number of volunteer workers and we understand that some of them have not been able to make their contacts."

All team captains and their solicitors were urged to get into action this week to wind up the current drive as quickly as possible.

Proceeds from the fund-raising campaign will be split among 15 very worthy charity and civic groups—the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, U.S.O., Ranger Child Welfare Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Teen Canteen and the Community Public Library.

"The Community Chest way is the easy and the simple and the convenient way to give," President Whittle said early today. "By giving once for all the necessity of eight drives is obviated. We make one generous and liberal contribution—and we give to all."

"Also," the Chest president went on, "we have devised a convenient method of pledging and paying—through installments tailored to fit any budget—which makes it possible for every family to participate and thereby to assure our worthy organizations of the finances which are necessary for their operation during 1955."

President Whittle urges every family to give the equivalent of a day's pay.

"I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work," cried the irate employer.

"It's okay, boss," said Heavy. "I'm not working."

Well, the big ballot battle is underway today and in a few short hours from now it'll all be over.

Then there'll be the usual suspense tonight through the early a.m. hours as the votes in the county, in the state are tabulated and the outcome is known.

It won't be long until we'll all know the answer to that $64 question—the name of the next President of the United States.

And, frankly, speaking on behalf of our reading constituents, we believe it's going to be quite a pleasure to settle back to a calm and normal routine.

We hope you'll be satisfied with the outcome.

We think we will, because we're easily pleased. The land of the free and the home of the brave is a mighty nation—and right now mighty are its problems.

But be it President Eisenhower or President Stevenson (what is one man but of a population of 160,000,000 souls) this country will move forward under the dictates of the will of the majority. And that's real democracy—democracy in action!

You people who gossip—It isn't hard to make a mountain out of a molehill. All you have to do is add a little dirt.

GORMAN MAN, HURT IN CRASH AFTER RACE WITH PURSUING LAW, IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Ray Burns of Gorman was in critical condition in a Fort Worth hospital today as a result of an accident which climaxed his attempted get-away from a State Highway Patrol car on the Desdemona Highway around midnight Saturday.

Burns overturned his 1950 Mercury, loaded with half a dozen cases of whiskey, on a sharp curve about 13 miles from the junction of State Highway 16 and U. S. Highway 80. The Highway Patrol pursuing vehicle, occupied by State Highway Patrolman Ray Hatten and Sheriff Frank Tucker of Eastland, was a short distance behind the Burns car which was traveling at an excessive speed.

Hatten and Sheriff Tucker spotted the speeding vehicle as it turned off Highway 80 onto State Highway 16 and gave chase. At the pavement's end clouds of blinding dust from Burns' automobile hampered officers' efforts to catch the Gorman man who was accompanied by a boy, Jerry Yates, 11, who also suffered injuries when the Mercury skidded and overturned on the sharp curve.

A wrecker and two ambulances from Ranger were rushed to the scene. It was necessary for Burns to be extricated from the wreckage. He was in a semi-conscious state, suffered a crushed chest, severe head injuries, and a compound fracture of the left leg. He received emergency treatment in a Ranger hospital and was then rushed to Fort Worth.

The boy, who received head and knee injuries in the crash, is still confined in a Ranger hospital and will not be released for several days, doctors said.

Sheriff Tucker reports that much of the Mercury's cargo—an estimated six cases of whiskey—was broken in the crash. Sixty-five pints were unbroken and salvageable, however.

Ranger Firms To Close Nov. 11th

Ranger business firms will be closed all day next Tuesday, Nov. 11, in usual observance of Armistice Day.

That announcement was issued this morning by Mae Belle Oyler, secretary of the Ranger Retail Merchants Assn., who reported that a majority of merchants had voted to close during the holiday which officially marked the close of World War I back in 1918.

Three individuals were arrested for disturbing the peace, one for burglary, two D.W.I. charges, with a third defendant leaving his car reduced to drunkenness. Three car thefts were reported and arrests made.

This, together with their regular routine business kept the force busy its two, reports Sheriff Frank Tucker.

NEGROES ROB RANGER FIRM SATURDAY

A pair of Negro men, believed to have been transients, cleverly robbed Bell's Young Moderns Shop, 203-A Main Street, Ranger, of between $60 and $70 late Saturday afternoon and thus far have successfully eluded the law.

Mrs. Aaron Bell, proprietor of the firm, gave a description of the pair to city police.

No firearms or weapons were involved in the smooth hi-jacking operation. The Negroes simply flicked the money out of the cash register while visiting the store on the pretense of making a purchase of baby clothing.

Loss of the money was discovered a short time later—about 5:20 p.m.—and City Patrolman J. L. Shook visited the store and checked on the robbery after having been summoned by Mrs. Bell.

Several other merchants in the Main Street area also reported that a pair of Negro men of identical description visited their stores about the same time Saturday afternoon and acted suspiciously. However, no other losses were reported.

Duck Proves Ideal As Baby Sitter

LINCOLN, Neb.—Mrs. H. R. Pierce has an inexpensive baby sitter—a duck.

She said the duck not only keeps watch on her one-year-old child but won't let anyone near the infant but the mother.

"The duck," Mrs. Pierce said, "has an imaginary boundary which it holds as the baby's confine."

If the child tries to wander beyond the boundary, the duck jumps in front of him and quacks loudly until baby turns the other way.

The duck, named Deacon, won't even let the baby near the front porch steps since the one-year-old toddled off them.

Miss Lila B. Green of Ranger is receiving treatment in a Ranger hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident near Comanche early Sunday morning.

Miss Green, it was reported, was brought to the hospital Sunday morning at 6 a.m. and is suffering with a number of bruises, cuts and lacerations. She resides on Brockridge Road, Eastland Hill.

It May Rain!

For the first time in more than a month there was hope for rain in the parched Eastland County area.

Early this morning the weatherman surveyed cloudy skies and said there was a "possibility" of showers for this section before tonight.

Traces of moisture were recorded in some sections of Texas yesterday, and no general, earth-soaking downpours were seen for today. Just light, intermittent showers.

Area residents, however, even welcomed that prospect. Because Eastland County has been bone-dry since late September.

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies today with the highest temperature predicted for the mid-60s. Tonight's low will likely be in the middle 40s.

RANGER COPS PLENTY BUSY OVER WEEKEND

After a lull of two weeks, business really picked up at the Ranger Police Department over the weekend.

Late Saturday afternoon city officers picked up an inebriated passenger of a Greyhound bus at the Parkment. The man, C. D. Walters, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was jailed Saturday night and released early Sunday morning upon payment of the usual $15.00 fine for drunkenness. Police Chief W. G. Pounds reported.

An habitual woman drinker, a Ranger resident about 35 years of age, was jailed on the same charge about 9 p.m.

Early Sunday morning, city officers went to Weatherford to pick up three Fort Worth youths held there for car theft.

The trio—Charles V. Fredell, 17, Floyd Kelley, 16, and Prentice McDowell, 16—were arrested by Weatherford officers at the request of the Ranger police after they had abandoned a late model gray Ford stolen from a Ranger resident. The youths, who had wired around the ignition of the vehicle, deserted the car in an alley near the Ranger Transfer & Storage Company and fled in an old model auto.

Officer Ed Freeman discovered the stolen car and notified the Parker County officers.

The youths were transferred to the Eastland County jail at Eastland Sunday morning.

A 25-year-old Ciescan, who either jumped or fell or was pushed from a speeding vehicle on Highway 80 near Ranger was picked up in a desert state by a pair of motorists from Big Spring Sunday morning about 2:30 a.m. He was badly scratched and bruised. He was taken to the Ranger police headquarters and held a very short time for investigation, and later released. He had been drinking heavily, officers said.

Record Vote Is Due Today

7,500 Citizens May Ballot In Eastland County

Bright and early this morning, scores of Eastland Countians joined other citizens over the state and nation in trekking to the polls to begin the vote in what may be the biggest presidential balloting avalanche in the history of the United States.

By the time the polls close tonight at 7 o'clock, it is very possible that between 7,000 and 7,500 ballots will have been cast in the county's 25 precincts, county officials predicted at mid-morning.

The county's anticipated record vote coincides with reports that a record number of Texans—as many as 1,800,000—may vote today in one of the most important presidential elections in the history of the Lone Star domain.

There was more than a remote possibility that the usually solid Democratic Texas might go Republican when ballots are tabulated tonight.

Texas has voted Republican only one other time in presidential election history—and that was back in 1928 when Texans gave Republican Herbert Hoover a majority over the Democratic candidate, Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Despite the fact that the state went Republican in 1928, however, Eastland County did not. Voters of the county's precincts, in a close count, gave Smith a majority.

Political fervor, believed highest in the annals of U. S. history, was at a sizzling pitch today all over the nation as citizens trekked to the polls to decide between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican, or Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Democrat, as the next President of the United States.

In Austin, Gov. Allan Shivers who is supporting Gen. Eisenhower's candidacy and who has been at odds with the national Democratic party on the party loyalty and citizenship issues, urged each qualified Texas voter to "vote his honest convictions" during today's balloting.

"November 4 is a day of decision—a day on which we decide the destiny of our country, and in a large sense the world, for the next four years," Shivers observed.

"The character and ability of public officials mean much more than glamour of gibbons of tongue. The people must exercise their best judgment in making their choice."

"No one should complain against bad government unless he has participated in the elections that determine the kind of government under which he lives. Nothing to some may appear a little thing. But it is the bedrock upon which the foundations of our nation rest."

"Let us all be sure that an election day we do not weaken this foundation by indifference and neglect."

ARLINGTON AND TARLETON STATE POWERHOUSES LEADING PIONEER LOOP TITLE DERBY

Democrat Raps Eisenhower In County Blasts

A fervent plea on behalf of the candidacy of Democrat Gov. Adlai Stevenson for President of the United States was voiced in Ranger and Cisco Saturday afternoon during addresses delivered by Grover Lee, Dallas attorney and Democratic leader.

In Ranger where a crowd of about 1,000 turned out to hear the Dallas speaker, was introduced by Hall Walker.

The Ranger speech was delivered shortly after the weekly drawing was held downtown at 5 p.m.

Two hours later—at 5 p.m.—Lee spoke to a "fair crowd" in Cisco. In Cisco the Dallas Democrat was introduced by Odell Hipp, first vice-president of Union 478, Oil Workers International Union, CIO.

Mr. Lee declared "How a man can vote against his wife and children is more than I can understand. To vote Republican means a return to want, misery and poverty. A vote for the Democratic party means prosperity and progress."

The Dallas attorney launched a vicious attack on the Republican nominee, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and charged that the General "is not qualified by experience or training to hold the high position of the nation's presidency, and that if elected he will have to depend upon others not responsible to the people." Lee also asserted that "a man must be trained for his job. The General had to be trained for his job, but his military skill does not fit him for duty in the affairs of state."

Neither the Rebs nor the Ploewboys can breathe easily in their favored roles this week since the cold facts show that all leagues games this season have been as close as a Scotchman's tip.

ASC's margin over Schreiner and Stan Angelo has been six and seven points respectively, and Tarleton's edge over Ranger and Schreiner has been one and three points.

Tarleton has the disadvantage of having to play away from home this weekend. But if the Ploewboys can preserve their record, they will have the homefield advantage over ASC in the final game of the season on November 22.

Thus this appears to be the crucial week for the surprising Ploewboys and their fine coach, H. A. "Sandy" Sandford. Tarleton has rolled over six opponents including such stalwarts as Kilgore and Little Rock by sheer apl- it as well

Labor Asks Protection Against The So-Called 'Fair Trade Law'

A warning to be on constant guard against the danger of a so-called "Fair Trade Law" which is nothing but a "consumer-gouging" law, was issued today by the Texas State Federation of Labor.

The Federation's weekly newsletter pointed out that Texas is one of the three states which presently do not allow price-fixing by national distributors under a Fair Trade Law.

"But there is always the danger that the legislature will adopt one—maybe even in the next session—unless the people are on guard," the publication declared.

The article branded Fair Trade Laws as "un-American as any legislation ever burdened on the consumer."

"The fight upon the part of big business to make so-called fair trade legislation the law of the land is an outstanding example of the monopolistic control which industry seeks to establish over our American economy," the article said.

The name "Fair Trade" is an example of a "high-sounding and whitewashing expression used to describe price-fixing of the worst kind," the Federation declared.

"Under Fair Trade Laws a manufacturer can determine the price at which all retailers must sell his product. If anyone attempts to sell for less, the federal or state government will take harsh action and lay a stiff penalty against the retailer," the article continued.

"In other words, the fellow who buys the stuff can never get a break. He must pay and pay through the nose to the exact tune of what the maker arbitrarily decides to ask for his product. The price is immovably fixed with high profits guaranteed by law. Contrast this to the loud howls of indignation on the part of business when labor has dared to suggest that it should be allowed to set the price for its services. Outside of the inadequate wage and hour law, the average worker is guaranteed absolutely nothing. He will and shall receive as little as his employer can beat him down to accept. Meanwhile, however, that same employer wants to, by law, peg the price of his product at the highest possible level, and then require the federal and state governments to police his price ring for him."

Charlton Heston Says Hollywood Has Few Professional Actresses

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Charlton Heston has a few ideas about movie actresses that aren't calculated to boost his stock with the glamour-and-curve set.

To put it bluntly, Heston said Tuesday, he doesn't think there are many "professional" actresses in Hollywood.

Heston dodges the labels "good actress" or "bad actress" and categorizes leading ladies simply as "professionals" and "non-professionals," the professionals being those who can contribute something beside a full bosom to a picture.

"Acting is not as requisite in films as it is on the stage," the tall, husky actor philosophized between takes of his current movie, "The Ten Commandments" at 20th Century-Fox.

Cast For Other Reasons
"A good director can get an adequate, good or even very good performance from non-professionals."

"Consequently, actresses are often cast for—well, other reasons. And we both know that a person is seldom endowed exceptionally with more than one talent," he said. "Opera singers, for example, are usually lousy actors."

Heston believes there are plenty of "non-professional" male actors in Hollywood, too, but the label applies particularly to women, he said, because there are many more good acting parts for men than for the ladies.

"Many people in films are successful and often good without being professional," he said, "because motion pictures are primarily a director's medium."

Says Gregory Peck Best
"You might expect most movie stars to be professional, but the fact that they're not doesn't harm them in films."

Heston picked Gregory Peck as the outstanding American actor in movies and Laurence Olivier as the top man in the business.

Save Human Life By Obeying Law

"The only way to avoid the needless loss of life due to traffic accidents is to prevent the accident," reads a warning issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer of Austin.

"It is not a question of who is right and who is wrong after the accident has occurred," he said, "and automobile accidents never happen merely because of 'bad luck'—there is a definite cause for everyone of them, although it is not possible to determine the precise origin of every mishap."

"Leaders of the safety movement agree that the most fundamental approach to the solution of our national accident problem lies in the education and training of the individual. Safety education to avoid accidents to themselves and to prevent accidents to others. It involves the acquisition of a certain fund of information, the ability to apply this information to concrete situations, and the building up of habits which will make the application of knowledge to situation automatic."

"The dangerous curves and intersections on the highways of this state are distinctly marked, and automobile drivers can assist greatly in the reduction of deaths from automobile accidents by carefully observing these warning signs."

"Many accidents could be avoided if motorists would drive below the legal speed limits when tired, sleepy, in rainy weather, or when ice conditions exist. One should adhere closely to the law regarding the dimming of lights for approaching cars. It is an old saying, but true, that those who drink should not drive."

"The consequences of an automobile accident are so disastrous, that only when we have done everything in our power to avoid such accidents, can we consider ourselves, or expect others to consider us, blameless in the case of an accident."

"When each individual does all that he is able to do toward avoiding an accident of any kind, then, and then only, will our traffic accidents be reduced."

Save Human Life By Obeying Law

Upon proper proof being presented to the court, a judgment for the damages inflicted by the minor may be secured in behalf of the injured party. In cases where a minor is thus sued for his negligent acts, it is necessary that the judge appoint a special guardian for the minor, known as a Guardian Ad Litem. The duty of this person is to see that the minor's rights are properly protected; and that he is adequately represented on the trial of the case.

A judgment secured in such cases against the minor is a valid and binding judgment which may be satisfied by levying execution upon any property which the minor may own which is legally subject to execution.

Should the minor have no property upon which execution can be levied, and satisfaction made, then steps should be taken to keep the judgment alive. There are means of keeping such judgments alive for many years. By doing this, and by keeping track of the minor, it is possible to make the judgment follow him until he eventually does acquire property subject to execution.

Of course, there are practical considerations in a lawsuit against a minor. The most frequent stumbling block is naturally the situation of a minor having absolutely no property to satisfy any judgment which may be secured.

However, this lack of property in no way affects the right of the injured party to his judgment, which, as mentioned above, may eventually pay off after the minor reaches majority and accumulates enough property to satisfy the judgment.

Now, however uncertain this means of gaining redress for injuries may seem, in many cases it may prove to be the only method of collecting damages. For when the chips are down, your chances of forcing repayment from the parents are usually very slim. From a legal standpoint there is nothing in the parent-child relationship which automatically renders parents liable for the negligent acts of their children.

In order to personally liable, the parent must himself be implicated in some way. The rules which apply here are similar to those regulating the liability of an employer for the negligent acts of his employee.

Thus, although the law takes an extremely protective attitude toward minors and their contractual liabilities, allow them many privileges not accorded mature persons, no substantial distinction is made with regard to liability for negligence.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Taylor listed four other requirements for curing inflation: A balanced federal budget, restrictions on credit, adequate production and increased individual saving.

He claimed that controls are keeping food prices high because cafe and grocery store owners are reluctant to reduce their margins for fear of affecting their base prices.

Fertilizer Helps Farmer
The Kiamichi field station at Idabel, Okla., has demonstrated what proper fertilizers and cultivation methods can do in the way of increasing watermelon yields.

The Agricultural station harvested 1,313 black diamond melons weighing 42,646 pounds from a 1.5 acre tract this year.

Average melon yield for Oklahoma the past season was 190 melons.

Here are a few facts and figures on how the station's farm experts did it.

Controlled Fertilizing
They applied 200 pounds per acre of 6-12-6 fertilizer before planting. After the vines began to run, they applied a sidedressing of the same fertilizer at 400 pounds per acre.

Rows were set 12 feet apart and hills 10 feet apart in the row. There were 363 hills to the acre with a one-way disc, throwing the soil to the right.

When the vines were a few feet long, they went over the patch with a one-way disc, throwing the soil to the row and hilling it slightly. The vines were then pulled up on the row.

All other cultivation was done with a disc harrow.

Repair Lakes, Tanks During Present Drouth

The Assistant Chief Aquatic Biologist of the Game and Fish Commission suggested that Texans utilize the drought to improve tanks, ponds or lakes that have dried up.

He said that the tanks and ponds could be deepened and enlarged and silt removed from the bottom since, contrary to popular belief, silt is harmful rather than beneficial to water bodies.

The Assistant Chief also pointed out that the enlargement will increase the surface and thus benefit fish life since most fish bodies are produced in the upper one foot of water.

Future food facilities also may be improved, he said, by planting legumes in the dried-up bottom area.

Farmers and ranchers also were advised to capitalize on the opportunity by planning to restock their tanks and ponds with desirable species and thus keep down the rough fish which prey on the game fish.

And now we'll hand off the editorial ball to one of our type-writer jockeying mates, the honorable and estimable Ray B. McOrbie, editor of our neighboring Eastland Daily Telegram, from whose daily col'm "Around The Square" we filched these paragraphs about a highly popular topic—rain: . . .

Right now we need rain as badly as we need a president—maybe more so. The drought has reached serious proportions, and each day it grows worse and worse. We wonder if there is anything we can do about it? To that we answer—"yes," but add that we are afraid we do not have the necessary qualifications. Droughts are not new, but have been ravaging the world as far back as history goes. . . .

Droughts are as common (maybe more so) than boils, fumes and fiery serpents, but the Creator has always supplied a cure. We have a cure for droughts, and we take it from God's own word. In 1st Kings 8:35-36 we read these words: "When heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin. . . . there is given a promise. But the question is not settled for we have not, as a nation confessed His name or turned from sin. Until we do this we are in no position to pray, with that blessed assurance that our prayers will be answered. . . .

Far in II Chron. 7:14, we learn the requirements, "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." Now the question comes—have we done these things? We fear not, and if this is true our first job will be to find one who is qualified to pray. In a general way, we are lukewarm Christians, but can we meet this test: Whatsoever you ask believing, I will give you! . . .

We need rain, and the Lord knows we need rain, but if our prayers are answered we must get ourselves right with God. At least there must be at least one prayerful soul close enough to God to speak to Him. We must be able to pray, believing. Who among us can qualify? . . .

At times it appears that we are to surmount all difficulties. We reach that point where we are in view of that celestial throne, and for the moment are tempted to speak. Then that yellow streak we inherited from Jonah pops up and we fail. . . .

God has told us that the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man will do—he didn't say men, but man. And when we find we are going to ask him to help increase our faith, or at least the faith of some of us, and then we may consider praying for rain. In the meantime we shall be content to accept the past portion of Matt. 5:45—"sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust." And we know for sure which group we are in. . . .

By J. FRED EIDER

With the coming of fall and a new hunting season thousands of landowners are looking up fresh "no hunting" signs and voicing a familiar fall complaint: against vandals with dog and gun that attempt to hide their vandalism under the title of "sportsman."

These so-called "sportsmen" often shoot up and take home live stock. They tear down or deliberately cut fences, they throw beer cans and trash around the farmers' property and toss lighted cigarettes into his dry fields.

Then they proceed to help themselves to wild game that he has been feeding and taking care of all year. They take such games with the attitude that it belongs to them and the farmer has no right to stop them from hunting just because he is a landowner.

Few hunters bother to introduce themselves, when actually the farmers is a host who has no equal. That same so-called sportsman thinks nothing of paying several dollars for entertainment in the city, yet he considers the farmer under obligation to let him hunt because the quarry happens to be wild game.

The problem of breaking down a long standing and growing feud between farmer and sportsman is serious and this minority group of hoodlum hunters each year makes the task more difficult.

Most sportsmen respect the farmers' rights and are banding together in various organizations or clubs to combat hoodlum hunters.

The sooner we realize that the day of becoming friendly with Mr. Farmer in the fall during hunting season only is over, the quicker farmer-sportsman relations will improve.

A true sportsman will cultivate the farmers' friendship and establish the acquaintance on a year around basis.

No longer can we expect to drive out on opening day, slap the farmer on the back, stick a cigar in his mouth and then expect to hunt all we like. Such tactics only tend to make a bad situation worse.

Single courtesies and genuine year around friendship, coupled with good sportsmanship and an earnest desire to do the right thing, can and will break down the growing barrier between farmer and sportsman.

Your correspondent has for years encouraged year around friendship and cooperation with the farmer.

No matter how sincere a group of sportsmen are, the farmer will know there will always be some hoodlum along to damage property or kill his livestock and leave him holding the bag.

We might as well face this fact for the quicker we realize that we definitely must provide protection for the farmer against such hoodlums, or we cannot expect to continue to enjoy the sports of hunting and fishing.

The Wayne county sportsmans club of Michigan has come up with one of the most effective and novel plans ever devised to improve farmer-sportsman relations and at the same time give the farmer adequate protection against the careless or hoodlum hunter.

This progressive sportsman club has for its slogan "ask the farmers first," and the club's pan hinges on a card of introduction issued to each member that guarantees protection to you a member . . . dedicated to the cause of conservation and sportsmanship.

"We ask you to allow him to hunt . . . with the understanding that he will observe all laws and conduct himself as a gentleman and a sportsman."

"If after he has finished hunting you find that he has injured your property or livestock in any way, upon proper showing of proof you will be compensated for the damage done . . . not to exceed $100."

"As a member of the WCSC he has the good name of his fellow sportsmen in his hands and we do not contemplate that he will dishonor it."

The effectiveness of this plan is emphasized by the fact that the club has handed out over 30,000 cards, the plan is in its seventh season and not one farmer has ever lodged a damage claim.

Here truly is a remarkable plan that can perpetuate the sports of hunting and fishing by cultivating a spirit of friendliness and cooperation between farmer and sportsman resulting in conversation and game management that actually staggers the imagination when one stops to think of the possibilities under this plan.

SPARE PART FOR HEARTS—Nurse La Reine Spain, of the Georgetown University Medical Center, in Washington, D. C., displays a plastic valve of a type which has been successfully used in heart surgery. The valve was placed in the aorta of the heart, to perform the duties of a defective exhaust valve leading from the chamber. The device stops any back-flow of blood, and relieves the heart of most of the strain of a leaking valve.

Turner, Susan Hayward, Ava Gardner and Elizabeth Taylor. He also thinks that Katharine Hepburn and Joan Crawford "have the rare kind of beauty that hits a painter where he lives."

Greta Garbo Was Top.

But the "most beautiful woman who ever graced the screen was Greta Garbo" according to Fairchild.

"There was a woman who could take a man away from any of the supposed beauties of today," he claims.

Fairchild allowed that painting the stars, though lucrative, is a very tough business.

"You just don't know whether to paint them as they look or as the public likes to see them," he explained. "Then, too, their studios may have objections to a painting and I get limitless suggestions from the personalities themselves."

Want Bosom Raised.

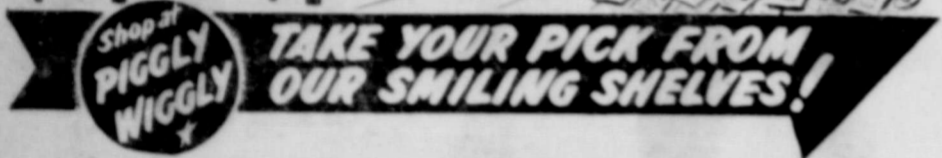

"The younger ones always want to look more mature, and the more mature ones have pretty definite ideas about how they should look."

On top of that, he said, a painter must be everything from a plastic surgeon to a hair dresser with his brush.

"They'll say, 'Don't you think bosom should be raised a little' or 'Don't you think I should look a little slimmer?' So you do it

As a matter of fact Fairchild doesn't have many compliments for any of today's crop of film-land beauties.

Summer Dream

By Irene Erhardt

THE STORY LAURIE FLECHER, engaged to be married in October, is spending the summer in Indiana with her father, a young school teacher, Steve Wynona, who takes her to a dance and later tells Laurie she came to Indiana to run away. He kisses Laurie, who returns the kiss.

Laurie stirred her coffee and didn't look at Steve. "Blame the kiss on the moon," he went on. "Besides, you looked lovely last night. But it won't happen again."

Another moment Laurie said, "Didn't you like to kiss me?" "Good heavens, Laurie, that's a silly thing to ask. Of course I did. He rose from the table abruptly and put the coffee pot back on the stove. He returned. "But you just don't go around kissing girls who are engaged to somebody else."

"Oh, Steve," she whispered. "I liked it too." Steve gulped some coffee. After a moment he said, "Sure. You're lonesome and away from the man you love. It was really Fletcher Sturdevant you kissed last night. Not me."

He rose from the table abruptly, scraping his chair back. "I'm awfully sorry, Laurie, to have to hurry off, but I promised Evelyn last night that I'd give her and Johnny up to Capital City to the Clinic. Johnny's under treatment there, and the second Sunday in the month he goes into the hospital. Evelyn doesn't have a car of her own."

"You'll be gone all day?" She couldn't disguise her disappointment. "Probably be back around supper time."

"Could we go for a swim then? There'll still be a full moon."

"Maybe."

"Please." "If you'll excuse me now, I've got to shave." He glanced at his watch. "Go ahead and finish your breakfast." He

Steve pulled her to her feet. "What's the rush and why are you so mad about it? After all, I didn't mean to fall asleep."

"Suppose Mrs. Jenner should see me bringing you home at this time. She knew you were coming down here, I presume."

Laurie nodded as she stood up, still yawning. "Don't be mad at me, Steve," she whispered. She felt all warm and sleepy and quite reckless, and suddenly she reached out her arms and put them around his neck and lifted her lips to his.

Steve tried to push her away but then all at once he pulled her against him and kissed her. She was trembling when he let her go.

"Come along. I'll take you home." He was standing at the screen door, opening it. His voice was brusque and impersonal.

She almost had to run to keep up with him as he strode up the path.

He stopped and waited for her to catch up. "You little nit-wit," he said harshly, "you're a spoiled brat that's always had her own way about everything and thinks she can have just anything she takes a fancy to. Why don't you stop fooling around here and get back to New York and get married." At least go back to your own kind."

Laurie couldn't think of anything to say, so she followed him silently the rest of the way. There was a light in the library still and at Steve's knock her father came out to the door. "I've got your child here, Louis. She fell asleep on my davenport and I found her there when I got home just now."

"For goodness sake, Laurie," her father said, "I thought you were upstairs in your own bed asleep."

She went past him swiftly. "Good night, Dad."

In her own room she shut the door and stood there against it. Her eyes brimmed and spilled over. The salty tears stung her cheeks and one ran down her nose. Steve's words echoed in her mind confusedly.

Maybe she should go back and marry Fletcher. She felt miserably lost and confused.

Dr. Cox Warns Against Motor Accident Toll

"The only way to avoid the useless waste of life due to traffic accidents is to prevent the accident," reads a warning issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"It is not a question of who is right and who is wrong after the accident has occurred," he said, "and automobile accidents never happen merely because of bad luck—there is a definite cause for everyone of them, although it is not possible to determine the precise origin of every mishap."

"Leaders of the safety movement agree that the most fundamental approach to the solution of our national accident problem lies in the education and training of the individual. Safety education includes the training of individuals to avoid accidents to themselves, to prevent accidents to others. It involves the acquisition of a certain fund of information, the ability to apply this information to concrete situations, and the building up of habits which will make the application of knowledge to situation automatic.

"The dangerous curves and intersections on the highways of this State are distinctly marked, and automobile drivers can assist greatly in the reduction of deaths from automobile accidents by carefully observing these warning signs.

"Many accidents could be avoided if motorists would drive below the legal speed limits when tired, sleepy, in rainy weather, or when less conditions exist. One should adhere closely to the law regarding the dimming of lights for approaching cars. It is an old saying but true, that those who drink should not drive."

"The consequences of an automobile accident are so disastrous, that only when we have done everything in our power to avoid such accidents, can we consider ourselves, or expect others to consider us, blameless in the case of an accident.

as considerable smartness. Against the Rams, the Stephenville team will require all its finesse and every break it can get. The San Angelo offense is considerably less impressive than it was earlier in the season, but it's still something to reckon with and its defense is also potent. Playing ASC last week, the Ram forward wall stopped the finest Rebel back field in years several times within the ten-yard line. It was good enough to chill several touchdown threats and make 342 Reb offensive yards worth only 14 points.

The Rebels also will have a major hurdle to leap when they square off against Ranger. The West Texans have the finest defensive record in Texas Junior College football circles. They have allowed seven opponents a total of 39 points, and an average net gain from scrimmage of less than 150 yards per game.

The Rangers further have a bewildering offense featuring triple-threat Bud Hamrick, leading conference rusher, and an excellent passer and punter. They shift

WMU Of First Baptist Church Holds Meeting Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Lloyd Clem presided at the First Baptist WMU meeting when members met Monday afternoon for a business meeting and mission program. Mrs. W. A. Reuser led the invocation.

Mrs. Clem called attention to the Texas WMU yearbooks which had been distributed before the meeting. She asked that all members notice the Watchword, Hymn for the Year, and the Watchword for the Year and the class colors.

Mrs. Roy McCleskey was in charge of the mission program and Mrs. Ralph E. Perkins led the devotional taken from John 4:35 and Matthew 9:37. The highlight of the program was a playlet "I Want an Orchid," presented by Misses Earl Pittman, Roy McCleskey, Alvia Wood, and H. E. Brooks. The theme of the playlet was a woman's desire to own an orchid to be worn to a social event. She dropped off to sleep and dreamed of the many persons that suffered because she spent her money for luxuries rather than to help the missions. When she awoke, she realized that she really did not need an orchid and determined to spend her money in a more useful way.

Those attending the meeting were Misses Clem, Perkins, W. W. Mitchell, Lloyd Bruce, Walter Arterburn, Corvis Beck, McCleskey, Glen McCleskey, R. F. Webb, Bob Hodges, Keith Langford, Joe Tullios, Ethel Adams, W. A. Reuser, F. E. Langston, Alvis Wood, C. B. Fret, W. W. Smith, Ross Hodges, Lee Mitchell, Hugh Smith, Mary Wheat, L. D. Tankersley, Mamie Ruth Hamrick, Earle Pittman, A. A. Daniels, E. L. Hargraves, P. C. Long, Brooks, A. W. Warford, Bill Bullock and two young visitors, Misses Margaret and Suzanne Rhodes, granddaughters of Mrs. Hamrick. Ane-hor guest at the meeting was Bill Bullock.

An executive meeting was held immediately preceding the WMU meeting, and it was announced that the local yearbook committee would be composed of all the circle chairmen and Misses Perkins and Clem. A gift tea for orphans of Texas will be held November 20 for the purpose of sending Thanksgiving boxes for the orphans homes. All women of the church are invited to attend and bring new clothing or cash for the children.

Mrs. Perkins read a letter received from Mrs. R. L. Mathis, state president of the WMU who urged that members begin praying for the Lottie Moon Christmas offering to begin on December 1. Mrs. L. L. Bruce recommended that Mrs. Bruce Sweetwater be asked to speak at a joint meeting of the WMU and Brotherhood on December 1 at 7:30 p.m. At that time, she will show various slides on Hawaiian hospitals, churches and missions that were built by the Lottie Moon offering.

Officers were also reminded of the Leadership Clinic to be held at Carbon on Nov. 6, beginning at 10:00 a.m. Each officer is asked to bring a covered dish. On Nov. 16, a district WMU convention will be held in Breckenridge with Mrs. Mathis and other officials attending.

Those present were Misses Clem, Perkins, Pittman, McCleskey, Warford, Bruce, Bullock, Tankersley, Jimmy Jones, Smith and Webb.

Mrs. Baker Is Hostess To Intermediates

Members of the Intermediate Girls of the Second Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. J. B. Baker Monday for the regular monthly business meeting. The group voted to change the class name, colors, aim, motto and song. The new name is "Votavia," which is derived from the Latin language meaning "Devoted Life." The newly adopted colors are lavender and green and the motto is "God first, others second and self last," taken from James 2:17. The red sash was chosen as the flower and the aim is "to show our love by our life." The song is "Take My Life and Let It Be."

Members discussed painting the room and then decided to have the Thanksgiving banquet on November 22 at the church. They selected "The Christmas Story" as the program to be presented next month.

Those attending were Paula Angus, Mary Maddox, Yvonne Hennon, Gay Nell Lopez, Sherry Baker, Corene Sutton, Helen Arnold, Betty Miller, Dorothy Joyner, Dorothy and Sonja Stagner, Mrs. J. B. Baker and Mrs. Fern Gore.

'OPEN AIR GARAGE' IS NEWEST TREND

Porch Doubles as Carport

Two modern trends in home building, each combining economy and good design, are illustrated in the houses pictured above. One is the inclusion of an extended roof line at the porch that is also a carport, an arrangement that eliminates the cost of a garage and adds spaciousness to the house. The other is the use of asbestos-cement siding shingles as the exterior sidewall finish. Increasingly popular for new home construction, asbestos siding is economical in cost, attractive in appearance and completely fireproof and weathervault. Asbestos siding now is made in many harmonious new colors. In the house in the lower picture colored siding is combined with white for added distinction. The houses, built to sell for around $11,000, are two of 850 in a new Denver, Colo., development.

What's the Use of an Abstract—

... if it doesn't cure the title? Is another puzzling question to some abstractors, but we have never worried much about this one. Neither does the doctor's prescription cure human ills in all cases, but it may help. The abstract never was designed to cure anybody's title, but the better type of abstract will reveal the condition of the title and place it in position where it may be perfected, if necessary, by the examining attorney.
