Catholic Sisters Come To Ranger

For the first time since 1951, Catholic sisters will be living in Ranger, according to Rev. Robert W. Wilson, pastor of St. Rita's Church. Four sisters, members of the Missionary Catechists of the Poor Congregation, will be in Ranger during January to conduct a Spanish language mission. During the week of Jan. 2 through 6 they are visiting the homes of people who may be interested in the mission. It will commence Sunday, Jan. 7 and will end Sunday, Jan. 28. A mission is a series of re-ligious talks and spiritual ex-ercises designed to give intruction and deepen Christian commitment. It might be compared to a revival service conducted by a visiting prea-cher. Starting Jan. 7 the mission will begin at 7 p. m., and will be held each evening at that time through Jan. 28 All people who understand the Spanish language are invited to attend. During their stay in Ranger. the sisters will be guests in the home of Miss Mary Frances Higginbotham. They will also conduct missions in Eastland and Cisco.

For the first time since 1951, Catholic sisters will be living in Ranger, according to Rev. Robert W. Wilson, pastor of St. Rita's Church. Four sisters, members of the Missionary Catechists of the Poor Congregation, will be in Ranger during January to conduct a Spanish language mission. During the week of Jan. 2 through 6 they are visiting the homes of people who may be interested in the mission. It will commence Sunday, Jan. 7 and will end Sunday, Jan. 28.

A mission is a series of religious talks and spiritual exercises designed to give intruction and deepen Christian commitment. It might be compared to a revival service conducted by a visiting prea-cher. Starting Jan. 7 the mission will begin at 7 p. m., and will be held each evening at that time through Jan. 28 All people who understand the Spanish language are invited to attend.

During their stay in Ranger. the sisters will be guests in the home of Miss Mary Frances Higginbothsm. They will also conduct missions in Eastland and Cisco.

The Eastland County Farm Bureau board of directors met Tuesday night, Jan. 2, at the office. The meeting was con-ducted by president, Jack Co-zart. There were 12 directors present. Routine business was transacted
