PANTHER OUT

A Young Animal From Mexico Escapes in New York

SCARED THE CHILDREN

RUNAWAY FRIGHTENED A PARTY OF PICKNICKERS BY JUMPING OVER THEIR HEADS

THEN TOOK TO THE BRUSH

Six Keepers, Armed With Guns and Nets Are Searching for Their Truant—Some Farmer Will Probably Kill Him

New York, July 28.—After gnawing its way out of a wooden box in the zoological gardens in Bronx park a young panther, just arrived from Mexico, walked up to a picnic party of women and children, and, astonished by their panic, jumped over their heads into a tree and has since led keepers and other hunters a weary chase through Bronx park jungle.

The panther is a fine specimen, 18 inches high at the shoulders, five feet long and weighs 45 pounds. He was shipped from Mexico in a pine box, with slats. To render the possibility of its escape more difficult, the panther was chained to the inside, a heavy collar being fastened about his neck to which the end of the chain was tied.

When the crate arrived at Zoological park, it was deposited near the reptile house pending the establishment of its occupancy in regular quarters. The keeper having removed one of the slats, and unfastened the collar left the crate unguarded for a time. The panther lost no time in attacking with teeth and claws the soft slats which stood between him and liberty. The park was well filled with sightseers when the animal escaped. Cunningly avoiding the open walks, by keeping close to the brushwood, which in places is very dense, he succeeded in escaping from the zoological reservation and passed into a densely wooded portion of the park. Then the escape was discovered. Six keepers with shovels and nets started out to capture the fugitive, with directions to shoot only if it appeared necessary. Through the heavy brush the little posse made its way northward, but four hours passed before any trace was found.

About a mile north of the museum a party of 30 children out picnicking saw the panther emerge from a thicket. It ran toward them and they fled.

On one occasion he wandered up to a table cloth upon which a luncheon had been spread and quickly devoured the meal.

Sightseers made their way from the park but only fleeting glimpses of the animal were obtained, although the hunt was kept up until night.

The park authorities say the panther is not vicious and that it probably will be shot by some one living near the scene.

JUST THINK.

You Can Think When the Food Makes Your Brain Work

The mind does not work properly unless the right kind of food is furnished. A young man studying telegraphy said that his progress was very slow. It seemed impossible for him to pick up the art and understand it.

He suffered continually with stomach trouble and could not digest his food properly, and he finally got so he could do but little work and was tempted to give up his studies altogether.

About that time some one told him about the brain food Grape-Nuts and he went in for it. In a short time a very remarkable change took place. His stomach recovered and he became free from headaches. His hand was no longer nervous and trembling when he used the key, and the whole mystery of telegraphy untangled itself, for, as he says, "I had the mental power to master it, and the understanding came easy when the mind was in poise and strong."

He is now holding a responsible position as an operator.

This is but one of the many illustrations of the advantage of using food purposely manufactured for rebuilding the broken down gray matter in the brain and nerve centers throughout the body. The facts are there and can be proven to anyone making the trial.

POUNDED INTO INSENSIBILITY

When Mr. Nixon Regains His Faculties He will Probably Think of Some Other Plan to Win a Woman's Confidence

Seattle, Wash., July 28.—William Nixon tried to win a woman's confidence in the guise of Outlaw Tracey and is nearly dead as a result of his act.

He told an actress in a music hall that he was none other than the desperado, and threatened her life if she told.

Later when he re-entered the theater he was attacked by a policeman and the proprietor, Joe Williams, a brother of Deputy Sheriff Jack Williams, who was wounded in a battle with Tracey at Bothell, July 3.

He was pounded into insensibility and has not fully regained his faculties yet.

The mistake was discovered when the man's features were compared with a photograph at police headquarters. It is almost a miracle that the policeman did not shoot first and investigate afterwards, as he was told positively that the man was Tracey and a reward of nearly $5000 is offered for the desperado, dead or alive.

ARE AFRAID TO TRY THE DEFORMED GIRL

The Massachusetts State Authorities Know a Jury Would Acquit Nina Danforth on the Charge of Killing A. J. Emery

New York, July 28.—The state authorities are puzzled as to a satisfactory disposition of the case of Nina Danforth, the deformed girl, who killed A. J. Emery and is now in the Cambridge house of correction awaiting trial, says a Boston special to the Press.

Attorney General Parker feels that because of the pitiable circumstances a jury would acquit her. Yet by her own admission and by the testimony of eye witnesses she killed Emery as he stood in the doorway of his home in South Framingham. It is the fear of having a verdict of not guilty which causes the attorney general so much trouble. He is afraid the traditions of Massachusetts will be violated by the return of a verdict in direct opposition to the evidence.

The authorities are said to have at last reached the conclusion that the best ending of the case will be an arrangement which the state could accept without establishing a bad precedent and which would let the girl out of the house of correction under restraint or watch which would not be so close as to threaten her already weak condition of mind. This may be accomplished by a verdict of manslaughter with a light sentence from which will be taken the time already spent by the prisoner in the house of correction.

Texas and Pacific Train Back to Within Two Miles of the Town—People on Flat Cars Were Shoved by Human Strength to Dry Land

The Texas and Pacific brought its first train since the storm from Big Springs this morning, and with it came about 50 passengers who had been cooped up in the depot hotel there since Wednesday last. Among them was State Revenue Agent Cunningham who left Fort Worth last Monday night for El Paso, arriving at Big Springs the passengers were notified that no train could be taken through owing to the high water west, and before they could be gotten away, the flood from the northwest came cutting off rail communication with the East.

Mr. Cunningham says at the end of the first day the hotel's guests were driven to the second story, and the next day, and until yesterday, had their meals served in their hands. Four feet of water covered the hotel's office floor, and some places in the town the back water was fifteen feet deep.

Yesterday morning a train was backed out from Colarado City to a point about two miles east of Big Springs. Those passengers going east were taken in a boat from the hotel to flat cars some yards away and, once loaded, were shoved by the company's yard men to the waiting passenger train. There has not been a "live" engine in Big Springs since Wednesday. The train arrived in Fort Worth this morning, being 12 hours late.

Regular Travel Again Tomorrow

The Texas and Pacific officials say communication will be established regularly between Fort Worth and Big Springs tomorrow night or Wednesday morning, but it will be impossible to deliver passengers and freight through to El Paso for four or five days. Yesterday an additional train set in about Big Springs, but was not heavy enough to occasion more damage. The water reports this morning said, is receding rapidly, yet a good amount is still coming from the old river bed.

Several eastbound passengers who had been held up at Toyah on account of the high water were returned to El Paso and taken by the Southern Pacific to San Antonio, there delivered to the International and Great Northern and brought to Fort Worth over the Santa Fe today. Westbound passengers are being provided for via the Denver Road, Dalhart and the Rock Island, which line has not been troubled.

The Missouri, Kansas and Texas, which lost bridges near Hillsboro, is reported open again, and this morning accepted passengers for South Texas points.

Passengers from Sweetwater this morning said the dampening there had been equal to a modern deluge. The rain fell without intermission for six days and nights.

R. E. L. Saner, attorney for the public lands of the State university, was here from Dallas today and said reports from the sections he represented were that heavy rains had fallen generally, and grass growth much encouraged.

AN EASTER DISCORD

By GRACE G. KINCAID

Copyright, 1901, by T. C. McClure

The coolness between Mrs. Wentworth and Mrs. Drewelowe was beginning to occasion remark. They met frequently, for Mrs. Drewelowe was the gracious mistress of a beautiful Euclid avenue home, while just around the corner, upon a short and unpretentious side street, stood the smaller house rented by Professor and Mrs. Wentworth.

Years ago they had been girls together in the little village of Mayville, when she of the stately mansion had been only Maria Duzenbury, daughter of the most shiftless man in the village.

In those days Mrs. Wentworth had lived on no side street, but in the stately white pillared mansion which crowned the highest hill in Mayville and which was pointed to with pride as the home of Judge Titus. Fate plays strange tricks! After the death of the judge, when the lawyers were quite through, somehow there was little or nothing left for the daughter, although one of the lawyers took his entire family abroad within the year and the other built himself a new house.

The trouble began at the Culture club. Mrs. Wentworth had felt sure she had detected a most peculiar smile upon Mrs. Drewelowe's face at the precise moment when she stood up to read her paper on "Egyptian Architecture." Then, later in the afternoon, Mrs. Roberts, also of Euclid avenue, had leaned over and said laughingly: "Mrs. Wentworth, Mrs. Drewelowe says she doesn't believe you ever wrote that paper. It was so good she thinks your husband must have written it."

Any clubwoman knows this is a most grievous insult.

Mrs. Wentworth gave charming little teas in a modest, side street fashion, and the bitterness rankled in her heart to such an extent that she left Mrs. Drewelowe off her list the next week.

Then there was an elaborate social function at the Euclid avenue mansion, and Mrs. Wentworth did not receive cards.

But the climax was reserved for Easter morning in the vestibule of the Euclid avenue church.

Mrs. Drewelowe and Mrs. Wentworth met, and, remembering the sacred threshold, bowed less coldly than usual, then gasped and stood transfixed. Taking in every flower and knot of lace, they realized that their beautiful new Easter bonnets were exactly alike.

Their husbands, balancing their hats carefully in one hand and with the other holding each a vestibule door, were courteously awaiting them, for it ill became dignified men to notice women's small quarrels.

Mrs. Drewelowe was first to recover. "A beautiful morning," she said in her sweet, even tones, and a bar of purple and yellow flashed from the window across the violets in her bonnet as she turned and swept after her husband.

Mrs. Wentworth bowed in silence, biting her lips in vexation, and raised a delicately gloved hand up to see if her bonnet, that had cost her so many economies, was really upon her head or upon that of rich Maria Drewelowe. She felt that now, as ever since they had lived in the city, Mrs. Drewelowe had the best of her.

A little path had opened through the garden of spring millinery across the congregation, and through it she saw Mrs. Drewelowe turn and stare directly back at her, smile in a superior way, then whisper something to Mrs. Roberts in the pew just behind, whereupon Mrs. Roberts laughed most immoderately, considering the time and place.

The hot blood rushed to Mrs. Wentworth's face in such force as to make her quite dizzy. She knew what Mrs. Drewelowe had said as well as though she had heard every word.

"Annie Wentworth, never content with running after me, has managed in some way to copy my bonnet, and don't you think, Mrs. Roberts, it is an outrage?"

Alas! Annie Wentworth, daughter of Judge Titus, to be thus openly flouted by a Duzenbury!

It was bad enough to be reduced to living on a side street, to watching her in the lead of the most exclusive set in the city, but to be accused of copying her clothes—that was the last straw. Move! Indeed they'd move the 1st of May! She would resign from the Culture club! They would go where she might never meet this regal, queenly daughter of aimless, shiftless old Duzenbury or her husband, who had made his fortune in kerosene.

The minister soared away in magnificent flights of oratory, but Mrs. Wentworth's mind constantly returned to the problems of how the bonnets came to be alike and what Mrs. Drewelowe had whispered to Mrs. Roberts. At last she solved the first question. Mrs. Drewelowe had discovered her treasure, the little milliner who made it possible for her, the wife of Professor Wentworth, to appear for $10 in bonnets which looked as though they had cost $30, the poor little relic of better days who lived in the old tumble down brick building behind the cathedral and who had a wonderful knack for copying expensive bonnets. To place her oldest customer in such a humiliating position! Mrs. Wentworth turned cold all over with the remembrance of the whisper. Oh, the letter she would send with the bonnet straight back to that traitress!

She was quite hysterical by the time the last amen was pronounced and hurried the dazed professor home at a rapid pace. Patiently he listened to the time worn complaints—the wreck of her father's estate, the bitterness of seeing Maria Drewelowe in her beautiful home while she must live in an obscure corner.

Tenderly he soothed her and bathed her throbbing temples. Years of wedded life had taught him the futility of argument when his wife's mind was made up. He remembered, too, that for love of him she had refused Henry Drewelowe back in the old sunny days at Mayville.

Unable to be up the next morning, nevertheless she managed to indite a bitterly accusing note to the little milliner and dispatch it with the bonnet by a messenger boy. Several days elapsed, and no answer came. Finally in desperation she gathered her strength and, boarding a downtown car, was soon mounting the steps of the old brick building behind the cathedral.

There was no answer to her first knock, so she rapped again. A faint moan came through the open transom. Then she turned the knob and entered. The room was in disorder; most of the little furniture it had contained had mysteriously disappeared. Only a bed, a chair and a table remained. Upon the table lay two opened letters, and beside them sat a bonnet box securely tied. Upon the bed lay the frail figure of the milliner, her face hot with fever. At this sight Mrs. Wentworth's wrath vanished, and she stood by the bedside only a sweet, helpful woman, her heart wrung with pity.

There was a rustle of silk lined garments outside in the hall, then an imperious knock, and when Mrs. Wentworth opened the door she beheld a second Nemesis in the form of Mrs. Drewelowe. The latter bestowed a curt nod upon Mrs. Wentworth, and that softened and already repentant woman stepped aside and allowed her to advance to the bedside. Mrs. Drewelowe heard her own name and Mrs. Wentworth's mingled, falling incoherently from the parched lips. After a moment she turned and faced Mrs. Wentworth.

"Annie Wentworth, this is our work. I wrote her a very harsh note Monday morning, accusing her of copying my new bonnet, which I bought in New York three weeks ago. She was in the house doing some work, and I felt sure she must have seen it through the treachery of the maids."

"And I," sobbed Mrs. Wentworth, "sent back my bonnet Monday morning with a scandalous note—perfectly scandalous!"

Then they sought the landlady and demanded an explanation of her neglect. She surveyed the two ladies with rising anger.

"Sure, ma'ams," she said, "an' I'm a lorn widder myself with five childer to support, an' she's back on her rent three months. It's all along of her havin' to go on to Noo York an' git her bad brother out of jail, an' she's sold her furniture an' clothes an' gone without fire an' enough to eat to make up. Then, on top of that, two women—foine ladies in sassiety—writ her two of the meanest letters you ever see in your life, an' then she went clean outen her head. They was all about a bonnet she see when she was in Noo York an' copied fer one of 'em, an' she said the other one must have been on an' bought the identical bonnet, fer it had jest come over from Parree, an' nobody'd had a chance at it."

"Them letters done it. Mighty mean women, if they are sassiety women, as would let loose an' abuse!"

"There! You have explained sufficiently," jellily interrupted Mrs. Drewelowe, her face quite crimson. "We will pay the rent due you and take charge of your roomer at once." And she drew out her purse.

When the little milliner had been safely tucked in the white hospital bed and Mrs. Wentworth was seated in the Drewelowe carriage rolling home, she suddenly exclaimed, "Maria, what did you say?"

"When? What do you mean?" queried that astonished lady.

"Why, Sunday in church, when you leaned back and whispered to Mrs. Roberts?"

Mrs. Drewelowe was lost in thought for some time and then said:

"Oh, I know. I told her that, after all her instructions, the night before I had forgotten to make the mustard plaster for Henry's chest as she advised, and the poor man was blistered so dreadfully that if it hadn't been Easter morning he would not have tried to come to church."

It was a fashionable hour, everybody was abroad, and the dignified Drewelowe coachman felt quite humiliated by the peals of merry laughter which rippled from the aristocratic Drewelowe equipage.

An Unofficial Order.

Thomas, tenth earl of Dundonald, at his death vice admiral in the English navy, tells in his "Autobiography of a Seaman" of an incident on board the Hind, on which he served as midshipman. The pet of the ship was a parrot, the aversion of the boatswain, whose whistle the bird learned to imitate exactly.

"One day a party of ladies paid us a visit aboard. By the usual means of a 'whip' on the yardarm several had been hoisted on deck. The chain had descended for another. Scarcely had its fair freight been lifted out of the boat alongside when the parrot piped, 'Let go!'"

"The order was instantly obeyed, and the unfortunate lady, instead of being comfortably seated on deck, was soured to the sea."

"Luckily for her, the men were on the watch and quickly pulled her out, and luckily for the parrot the boatswain was on shore, or this unseasonable assumption of the boatswain's functions might have ended tragically for the bird."

VETERANS' AND SONS' CAMPS

ALL GOING IN A BODY TO THE BIG STATE REUNION OF CONFEDERATES IN DALLAS

GO OVER INTERURBAN

Two Days' Session, July 30 and 31. Decisive Action Taken Yesterday By Both Organizations—Sons' Delegates

Both the Confederate camps held enthusiastic meetings yesterday at their respective camp headquarters. At these meetings final arrangements were perfected to attend the state reunion at Dallas Wednesday and Thursday, and the indications are favorable for quite a large attendance. The Sons completed its list of delegates, and Commander Gillespie and State Commander Adams urged that every delegate named attend and induce as many more to attend as could possibly do so.

In the veteran camp there was a distinguished visitor in the person of Major Oliver Steele, adjutant of Sterling Price camp, Dallas. He was called on and made an interesting talk, in which he, too, urged a large attendance from the camps here, assuring them that every arrangement had been perfected for their reception, entertainment and comfort.

Commander Taylor presided, and Assistant Adjutant McNeeley recorded the proceedings. It was reported that Adjutant McConnell was indisposed.

Mrs. Mary Modley, Mrs. Annie Modley and Miss Anne Yeager were voted upon favorably as honorary members.

Judge C. C. Cummings, historian for the camp, reported upon his visit to the Eastland reunion. He made two addresses there, and said there was a large attendance. The Eastland camp was the parent organization of the state, being two years older than the Mexia camp.

J. H. Morris, chairman on the committee having in charge the Old Fiddlers' contest, reported that $3 had been collected since the last meeting, making the total amount net to the camp to date, $300.95. Comrade Morris stated that some 35 or 40 tickets are yet to be accounted for, and urged that persons having them in possession or the money they represented turn the same over to him at once, as the committee is anxious to close the matter up, finally.

State Commander Adams of the Sons' organization was sent for to report upon transportation arrangements perfected for attending the reunion. He came in and addressed the veterans, saying, among other things, that a $1 round trip rate over the Interurban had been secured, or a $1.25 round trip rate over the Texas and Pacific. The former route was adopted.

The sponsor for the camp, Miss May Robinson, announced that the maid of honor was Miss Lee Young. Both were present. Col. Harris was authorized to procure badges for each of them to wear at the Dallas state reunion.

Capt. Sam Evans was present and was urged to address the comrades, and did so, his address being well received and much appreciated.

The camp decided to go over in a body, as many as could, on the 8 o'clock Interurban cars on Wednesday morning.

The program for the first day's proceedings of the State Confederate reunion, as reported to the camp by the Dallas arrangement committee, is as follows:

All Sterling Price camp has been appointed as a reception committee, with Charles L. Martin as chairman. This committee will be divided into sub-committees to meet each train.

At 8 a. m. Wednesday, all Confederates in Dallas will meet at the fair grounds and as fast as others arrive on morning trains the visitors will repair to that point.

They will form in double ranks, open order, facing inward, to receive Maj. Gen. K. M. Van Zandt at 9:30 o'clock. Gen. Van Zandt will march through the ranks, which will close behind him as he passes on and escort him to the auditorium.

At 10 o'clock the convention will be called to order by Brig. Gen. Charles L. Martin of the Fourth brigade, who will open the convention with prayer. Gen. Martin will then introduce the following gentlemen in the order named: Mayor Ben E. Cabell, who will welcome the veterans on behalf of the city; Col. J. P. C. Whitehead, who will deliver an address of welcome on behalf of Sterling Price camp, and R. Lee Cano, who will welcome the visitors on behalf of the Sons of Confederate veterans.

Gen. Martin will then turn the convention over to Gen. Van Zandt, who will respond to the address of welcome, after which Gen. Van Zandt, as presiding officer, takes charge of the convention, which will proceed with regular business.

Between the addresses the band will play appropriate Southern war music. At 4:30 o'clock, lasting until 6:30 o'clock, the visitors will be given a trolley ride over the city, which will be preceded by a watermelon feast.

SONS HELD BIG MEETING

A Good Attendance, and Much Enthusiasm Manifested Over Reunion. Commander Oscar Gillespie presided at the Sons' meeting, Assistant Adjutant Porter Key looking after the proceedings. State Commander Adams was present.

Routine business was quickly dispatched, after which the state reunion was discussed. Interest was manifested to an extent assuring a good attendance at both day's sessions.

State Commander Adams made a similar report to that made to the veteran camp concerning route and rates, and the Interurban route was adopted, $1 round trip. It was urged that as many as could go over on the 7 o'clock car, but anyhow not later than 8 o'clock. The run consumes one hour and 30 minutes, and the sessions open at 10. Cars will be in waiting at the Dallas court house to convey the visitors to the fair grounds. The program for the two days is given in the above report read the veteran camps.

Talks were made by Commander Gillespie, State Commander Adams, Lieutenant Commander Clark, Judge W. R. Booth, Comrade W. B. Paddock, Adjutant General McAdams, Comrade W. N. Tolbert and others on the importance of every member of the camp attending one or both days. It was cited that much business of importance would come up for consideration, and one feature of especial note would be the attendance of National Commander Thomas P. Stone and staff. No Texas State reunion had ever been thus honored before, as this was the first time Texas had ever been favored the selection of one of her sons as national commander. Another feature was the candidacy of Present State Commander John M. Adams of Fort Worth for reelection. So far no opposition had developed, but Fort Worth must make a good showing to back up her candidate. Fort Worth is entitled to 105 votes, the same as in the national reunion, and is the largest vote by nearly 40 of any organization in the state, and the largest by far of any in the entire confederation. Dallas is second in the confederation, and Memphis is third.

General orders Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of State Commander Adams were read by the adjutant, and received enthusiastic applause. The orders were printed in full in last Saturday's Mail Telegram.

The committee appointed to select a delegation reported 100 names, and all were urged to attend the reunion, and to urge as many others to go as possible.

Comrade W. B. Paddock was selected as escort for the Sons' sponsor and maid of honor—Misses Maggie Littlejohn and Maggie McLean, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tolbert as chaperones. They will go over in company with the veteran camp's sponsor and maid of honor—Misses Robinson and Young and their chaperones.

This list of delegates was read. It follows, the Mail-Telegram being especially requested to give publicity to it, and to urge that every member of the delegation attend, and, if possible, go over on the 7 and 8 o'clock cars. The Interurban management announced that a sufficient number of cars would be furnished.

ANTHRACITE COAL PRICES ARE SOARING

It Is Predicted That the Black Diamonds Will Command $10 Per Ton in New York in 48 Hours

New York, July 28.—Predictions that anthracite coal will be $10 a ton within 48 hours are made by one of the largest wholesale dealers in this city. The statement was made after reports were received showing that the local market is absolutely barren of coal of both domestic and steam sizes.

An indication of the extent of the coal famine comes from Plainfield, N. J., in a dispatch which says there is less than 100,000 tons of anthracite in the yards there and that for the first time in the history of the yards soft coal has been stored in them and that one-half of the total amount in store is bituminous. There are now in Port Morris, N. J., 300 gondolas of coal, about 7500 tons, but there may be 7500 tons more in today.

WELSH ANTHRACITE COMING

A Shipment for the Manhattan Railway Company en Route

New York, July 28.—A shipment of Welsh anthracite is reported to be on its way here from Cardiff for use on the engines of the Manhattan railway company. A small quantity of Welsh anthracite was brought here a week or two ago as an experiment but the size was unsuitable. The second shipment is of the size known as broken anthracite, the size generally used in the elevated road's engines.

The Cuban Republic

Conditions in Cuba have been much improved since the Americans took control of affairs, and since they are now free to manage their own affairs the question arises as to their ability to maintain self-government. The experiment will be watched with much interest. In this case it is a worthy experiment, but if you are sickly it is not advisable to experiment with any of the many so-called health restorers that have no merit. The only way to recover your health is to perfect the digestion, keep the bowels open and the blood pure. For this purpose you cannot find a better or more reliable medicine than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Try it for heartburn, belching, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness or malaria, fever and ague. It never fails to cure.

Mrs. Mackay is a little better now. She has been able to see one or two of her very intimate friends, but she is in great grief. # THE "EARLY DAY" BUNCH

JUDGE JOE C. TERRELL PRESIDED AT SESSION SATURDAY AT CLUB ROOMS

The Mail-Telegram's Early Day Articles and His Recent Trip to Weatherford Suggest Interesting Theme

"Lull'd in the countless chambers of the brain, Our thoughts are link'd by many a hidden chain; Awake but one, and lo! what myriads rise! Each stamps its image as the other flies."

Judge Joe C. Terrell was in a reminiscent mood Saturday when a Mail-Telegram reporter chanced to drop in on him at the commercial club rooms. It was raining and the judge was willing away an hour entertaining a group of friends relating some early day history of Fort Worth, Tarrant county, Texas, suggested by the recent brief articles appearing in the Mail-Telegram under this head.

Judge Terrell attended the first session of the recent Twelfth district congressional convention at Weatherford, and, speaking of his trip over there he said to those about him:

"A few days ago, accompanied by two 'dark horses' and a number of friends interested in the congressional convention, I found myself in the court house at Weatherford, Texas, more liberal to Parker county than to other counties, gave her, at her organization in 1856-7, a tract of land on which Weatherford is built, and with the proceeds of the sale of lots the county erected quite a handsome brick court house in the center of the public square, where the present more pretentious building stands. Our recent delegation sat in the center of the court room, and thus was brought 'the light of other days around me.'"

"In the fall of 1859, within a few feet of this spot in Weatherford, there was suspended from the ceiling several raw Indian scalps, with bows, spears, etc., while under and around, to the time of sweet music, we traced the light fantastic in many mazy sets. John R. Baylor and his brother, George, with others, had whipped the Indians; these scalps, etc., were the proof and cause of rejoicing, for Parker county was then often raided by Comanches. The civil war ensued when the frontier was never so well guarded. It was the least dangerous and most popular service in the Confederacy. Provisional Governor A. J. Hamilton appointed R. W. Scott of Johnson county, district judge. He held the first term of the district court for Parker county after the close of the war in the spring of 1866. H. H. Sneed was district attorney and David Yeary was foreman of the grand jury. The county officers were: W. Frank Carter, county judge; R. W. Duke, county clerk; Joseph W. Anderson, district clerk; D. B. Luckey, sheriff; Dr. E. Milliken, treasurer. The local attorneys were: A. J. Hood, Daniel O. Norton, H. S. Coleman, Simon Sugg, H. H. McLean, C. L. Jordan, J. Ball, Judge Roach and R. J. McKenzie. The visiting attorneys were: E. D. Soe of Cleburne, Joe Carroll, J. C. Easton, Joe Rushing, John J. Goodie, Joe Bledsoe, J. W. Farris of Waxahachie, H. G. Hendricks, Ed Hovenkamp and J. C. Terrell and M. Hawkins.

"Under the advice of that great and good man, General Sam Houston, peace and plenty reigned in Texas during the war. Not so in the divided border states. During the whole struggle criminal laws were unintermittedly administered; the laws of limitation were by legislative enactment suspended between January 26, 1861, and March 13, 1870. True, in some sections, vigilance committees composed as a rule, of the very best elderly men, existed. Having neither money, credit or manufacturing, the people were in a primitive condition. Health, courage and hope were left. Horses and cattle upon a thousand hills she had. These could walk to market. Then, too, she had free grass and no taxation. Soon better times dawned. The dream which said 'Arise Peter, slay and eat,' and which was to him a convenient dream, was to our people a glorious reality. Thousands of unbranded and unclaimed cattle abounded. Even boys ran branding irons with marvelous success. Soon there was a general desire to resume the reign of law and order. Judge Norton was appointed judge of the 16th judicial district, which embraced Parker county. He was an old editor, an intelligent, good man, but indifferent as a lawyer. He swore in 1844 that he would not shave his face until Henry Clay was elected president and kept his oath. He loved Texas, and was good to Confederate Texans in Ohio and this atoned for many sins. He made a good officer for the times, which were queer, peculiar, and without precedent. At Norton's first term in Weatherford a Federal lieutenant and a squad of men camped on the hill west of the Carson & Lewis hotel. The Indians gave some trouble then, and killed a man on the Clear Fork between Weatherford and Fort Worth; hence the attorneys went from Fort Worth in a body. I remember the following: H. S. Hawkins, Henry Sneed, Easton, Farris, Hendricks, Everetts and Hovenkamp. The officers then in Parker were Sam Milliken, who was both district and county clerk; Wes Hendricks, sheriff; Joe Wilbarger, county judge and H. H. Sneed, district attorney. The local attorneys were Charley Jordan of Lynchburg, Va., A. J. Ball of Kentucky, A. J. Hood, E. W. Hughes, Jo Wolfolk, Judge Roach and S. W. T. Lanham. I remember being one of a committee of attorneys who examined Sam Lanham (now our candidate for governor) in open court on his application for license, and then predicted that he would some day be governor of Texas. His moral character was so good, his manners so genial and his answers to questions so prompt and clear, caused us all to love him, who was then the 'kid of the bar.' "Uncle Jimmy Jones, God bless him! was presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and on the Sunday preceding court held forth in Ike McConnell's long dirt floor school house, located north of the square. Lanham, a devout member of the church, caused the visiting bar to attend Uncle Jimmy's meeting. We sat together. Uncle Jimmy took for his text 'Woe Unto You Lawyers, Hypocrites;' and instead of applying the text to the house of Levi—his own cloth—he applied it to us attorneys, himself having had a good time 'enduring of the war.' He wanted no courts, and was in favor of the statu quo. Note the effect of that sermon! The next day a number of young men, ex-Confederate soldiers, assembled with Enfield rifles on the hill north of town and bombarded the court house square, causing many to hug the south side of the house. Fortunately no one was hurt. There was little or no money in the country. I remember collecting a good fee in peltry, buffalo and other hides, which our merchants had no trouble in exchanging for money. "Weatherford has good water from the same sandstone formation that furnishes Fort Worth, but needs water works sadly; abounding in good church buildings, schools and residences, with enterprise her future is assured. She has given to Texas our Sam Lanham, and George Clark, now of Waco. May her new generation do as well."

Stone in the Bladder. My son has suffered with stone in the bladder eight years. I have taken him to several watering places, also to Cincinnati, New York, Chicago and Nashville, where he was put under eminent physicians, with no improvement; on the contrary, it was gradually getting larger, until I lost all hope of getting him cured, when I was told of Smith's Sure Kidney Cure. I had him to try it, and to my surprise he began to improve at once, and he was cured with two bottles. His general health has improved wonderfully.

HEAVY GALE CAUSES DEATH BY DROWNING

Two Fishermen Lost Their Lives in the Storm Tossed Waves of the Fraser River and Others are Supposed to Have Gone Down

Vancouver, B. C., July 28.—A heavy gale which has been blowing for the past 48 hours is responsible for two known deaths and there is every reason to believe that eight or ten other men have been drowned in the storm tossed waves. Last night two Indians found an upturned boat off the middle arm of the Fraser river and upon investigation found a man clinging to it and supporting himself in the water among the floats of his fishing net. The man did not live to reach the shore. When landed at the Fraser river cannery he was dead. The body has been identified as that of Fritz Fabian, known as the inventor of a navigable air ship. Entangled in the net among the floats on which Fabian was supporting himself was found a coat containing a number of letters addressed to Florian Schmalze. Schmalze and Fabian had been fishing together and it is believed that Schmalze was also drowned.

THE PERFECT LIVER MEDICINE. Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Notice to Taxpayers. The City Assessor's books are now ready and the Board of Equalization will convene on Monday, June 23d, in the City Assessor's office in the City Hall and continue in session every day thereafter, excepting Sunday, from 10 to 12 o'clock in the forenoon and from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. All owners of real estate are requested to bring descriptions of their property with them when coming to inquire values.

It is very important that all owners of real estate should appear before the Board of Equalization as a great many changes in values have been made since last year. Many improvements have been made since Jan. 1st, last, that may possibly appear on the tax rolls for this year and all mistakes of this or any other character will be corrected by the Board of Equalization on application of the owners.

Be sure and bring descriptions of your real estate with you.

G. H. DAY, City Tax Assessor and Collector.

ROCK ISLAND WANTS FRISCO

MOORE SYNDICATE IS SAID TO BE NEGOTIATING FOR LATTER PROPERTY HOLDING FOR PRICE Pierce People Not Anxious to Relinquish Lines Unless Figure Is Given. Over Four Thousand Miles Would Be Controlled by New Orleans

A story has been extensively circulated in railroad circles that the Moore syndicate which owns the Rock Island and allied lines has again been negotiating for the Frisco. A New York special to the Houston Post says: "There is a possibility that the Rock Island management may secure control of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad as a part of their scheme for a system of the first magnitude west of the Mississippi river. Negotiations are said to have been begun on the part of the Rock Island but so far as could be learned nothing has yet come of them."

"It is believed that an offer for control of the Frisco was received but that the directors of the Pierce property are holding out for better terms than were proposed. Officially, the report of a deal received no confirmation. "Should the Rock Island gain control of the St. Louis and San Francisco it will have a property controlling 4372 miles of road and extending from Birmingham, Ala., to Oklahoma. Both lines would meet at Memphis, as the Rock Island now owns the Choctaw, entering that city."

WORKING FOR THE BUREAU

Chairman Pratt and General Passenger Agent Barker in Texas Charles M. Pratt, chairman of the Southwestern passenger bureau and James Barker, general passenger agent for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, are in Dallas today in regard to a re-organization of the bureau. Several months ago a number of Texas lines withdrew from the organization over the matter of paying fines and penalties, and since its functions have about been destroyed. Several meetings were held in St. Louis without result. It is said a meeting has been scheduled for Dallas today, but no notice has been given the lines having headquarters in Fort Worth.

COMMISSION REFUSES LEASE

Short Lines of Frisco System Must Remain Independent The railroad commission has again refused to approve the contemplated lease of the Paris and Great Northern and the St. Louis, San Francisco and Texas, short lines of the Frisco system in north Texas to the company having headquarters in St. Louis. The application was refused upon an opinion furnished by Attorney General Bell declaring such a transaction to be unconstitutional. The company will make application to the next legislature for authority to consolidate the several properties in Texas under one management and name.

AROUND THE COURTHOUSE

THE JUSTICES' COURTS HAVE A MONOPOLY IN THE TRIAL OF CASES FOR THE PRESENT

A HELPFUL SYSTEM

To Be Inaugurated in the Tax Assessor's Office—Damage and Other Suits Filed—Marriage Licenses and Real Estate Transfers

The attorneys for the defense in the Jeff Van murder case, having filed a statement of facts in their appeal to the criminal court of appeals, the attorneys for the prosecution today finished its inspection. It is the second longest document of the kind ever sent up from Tarrant county. It consists of 152 pages of typewritten evidence, pages of legal size. The only other document, statement of facts, larger than this going to the criminal court of appeals from this county was 290 pages submitted in the Woodard case four years ago. Woodard, it will be remembered, killed a man named Ragland at Mansfield.

Clerks are now at work preparing a transcript in this Van case, and it will be ready for submission at the Tyler term of the court of criminal appeals in October. At that time the statement of facts, transcript and oral argument will be submitted.

Block Map Plate System

At the afternoon session of the County Commissioners held Saturday, Messrs. Williams and Browning, who went to San Antonio to investigate the workings of what is known as the new block map and plate system in use by the assessor of Bexar county, made their report in writing. The commissioners authorized the entering into contract with the Texas Title company of this city for carrying into effect the system in this county. It is estimated that the work will in the aggregate cost something like $3,500, but it is said that the system will be a great improvement on the old way of keeping track of properties in the county.

Judge Green, county judge of Bexar county, stated to the Tarrant county committee that the block maps were of great value to the county, and that the board of equalization has found that it has made it practicable to more readily equalize the valuation of property and also to be prepared to meet the objections and complaints of various parties brought before the board; that it has materially increased the amount of taxes in getting property that was left off and also in finding the present owners of property, so that the taxes could be collected.

Messrs. Browning and Williams did not recommend the adoption of the system as a whole, but such parts of it as were found to be of material benefit, adding that they consider as improvements over said system. By the adoption of the system indicated, the new assessor who will go into office after November will find his work easier, more accurate and satisfactory for the Texas Title company will have the new books and blanks ready by that time. Large maps will also be provided, about 8 feet square, giving everything that is essential to facilitate the work, such as surveys, names, railroads, streams, etc.

District and County Courts Neither of the district courts, nor the county court being in session the justices' courts have a monopoly of the business in the trial proceedings about the Tarrant county halls of justice.

Suits Filed

Six new suits were filed with the district clerk today before noon. They are: East Fort Worth Town company vs. S. H. Soyster; action for trespass, or debt and foreclosure. F. P. Capera vs. the Northern Texas Traction company; action for $15,500 personal damages. Mr. Capera fell from a City Park car on west Weatherford street a few weeks since. East Fort Worth Town company vs. W. H. Cook et al.; action for trespass, or debt and foreclosure. Virginia Peden vs. the Northern Texas Traction company; action for $10,325 personal damages. Plaintiff was hurt in an accident in which a car struck a buggy in which she was riding.

Rast and Miss Lillian Burroughs, J. H. Englehart and Miss Claudia Alderatt. Licenses were also issued to J. B. Burkhalter and Miss Birdie Hudson, Fred Craddock and Miss Estelle Horton, Ollie E.
