FILIPINOS STORM OUTPOSTS OF TWENTY-SEVENTH

RETALIATION MEASURES WILL FOLLOW FOR OBJECT LESSON

INJURED ARE BURIED ALIVE

Awful Facts Disclosed in the Investigation Into Ambushing and Killing Near Cebu of Four American School Teachers

Manila, Aug. 13.—A small party of Moros surprised and stormed the outpost of the 27th Infantry at Camp Vicos yesterday.

Sergeant Foley and Private Caray were killed and Private Van Dorn is severely wounded.

The Moros were armed with spears and swords. They were all from Bakid.

The occurrence will probably result in a big movement against that town which has a strong fort and other defenses.

Inspector Mortally Wounded

Manila, Aug. 13.—Constabulary Inspector William Schermerhorn of Seattle, Wash., was mortally wounded in the recent fight with the Ladroneas at Iligan Mindanao.

Buried Alive

Manila, Aug. 13.—An investigation made by the constabulary to clear up the facts of the killing of the Cebu coaching party of four American school teachers shows that the party was ambushed and shot 12 miles from Cebu.

It is believed that the only slightly wounded were buried alive. The police killed the leader of the band of murderers and captured eight other alleged participants in the crime. One man escaped.

Anniversary of the Capture

Manila, Aug. 13.—The fourth anniversary of the capture of the city of Manila which was surrendered to the American forces on August 13, 1898, was observed as a general holiday.

BIDS FOR GALVESTON GUARD

Contractors Offer Figures on Cost of Building Sea Wall (Special to the Telegram)

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 13.—Seven bids ranging from $1,067,000 to $1,400,000 for construction of a sea wall, were opened here yesterday in the county commissioners' court. The exact total of each bid was not given out because prices were given in items and the total had not been computed. The lowest bid was made by Isaac Heffron, the only local bidder. The court's engineer, Mr. Boschke, claims that the wall cannot be built for the amount quoted in the lowest bid, $1,067,000.

RICH STRIKE IN SULPHIDE ORE

It Comes From a Deep Vein and Carries Silver and Copper

Cripple Creek, Colo., Aug. 13.—A strike of sulphide ore, carrying 4,000 ounces of silver and a large percentage of copper, has been made on Bull Hill, the very center of the Cripple Creek district, at a depth of 1,365 feet. This bears out the theory of many experts who have predicted that deep mining would change the character of the districts output.

TO LOOK UP COLORADO LINE

Surveyors to Mark Again the Southern Boundary

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 13.—Arthur Kidder of this city, who has been doing special work for the government land office in ascertaining boundary lines, will go to Colorado this week and with a corps of engineers ascertain and mark the southern boundary line of Colorado.

The line is plain enough on the maps but along its 500 miles many of the landmarks are gone and there are people who do not know whether they are inhabitants of New Mexico or Colorado. The first survey was made fifty years ago and today there is a vagueness about the line.

The Kidder party will start at the southwest corner of the state and work east.

REBUILDING TELEGRAPH LINES

Western Union Getting Ready to Vocate for the Postal

New York, Aug. 13.—In anticipation of an early surrender to the Postal Telegraph Co. of the telegraph office and wires along the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad the Western Union telegraph company has many construction and repair gangs at work in the territory affected. They are building new lines, repairing old ones and endeavoring to establish new connections as far west as Buffalo.

There are twenty-five wires between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and sixty-five wires between Philadelphia and New York which will have to be taken down before December and replaced by an equal number of new wires along the new routes.

POSTAL CLERKS IN OPPOSITION

Chicago Mail Throwers Will Fight Affiliation With A. F. of L.

Chicago, Ills., Aug. 13.—The postal clerks of Chicago by a majority vote, have instructed their delegates to vote against the proposition to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor when it is brought before the National Association of Postal Clerks at the convention to be held at Kansas City the first week in September.

THE CINCINNATI SAILS TO THE SOUTHERN SEAT OF TROUBLE

NO NEWS OF PILLAGE

STATE NOR NAVY DEPARTMENTS HEAR ANYTHING OF THE RUMOR

SITUATION IS VERY CRITICAL

Uncle Sam Will Have Three Fighting Ships Along the Central American Coast and May Have to do Some Shooting

Washington, Aug. 13.—The navy department today received word that the Cincinnati had sailed yesterday from Porto Cabello for Barcelona.

It is probable the Cincinnati has already arrived at Barcelona.

Neither the state nor navy department has received confirmation of the press dispatches that the American, Italian and Dutch consulates at Barcelona had been pillaged.

We now have three ships at three critical points. The Cincinnati is at Barcelona, the Topka at Port Cabello, where the Germans already have landed a force and the Marietta at the mouth of the Orinoco which was declared blockaded by the Castro government.

SAYS CUBA SHOULD BE ANNEXED AT ONCE

G. CASTELLANOS THINKS NOW IS TIME FOR UNCLE SAM TO ACT

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—"Unless Cuba is annexed to the United States within a year, it never will be," said O. G. Castellanos, of Havana, who was at Selbach's hotel. "If the United States wants the island now is the time for them to get it. The people are poor and there is no demand for the sugar and tobacco, the principal products. The failure of Congress to adopt the reciprocity resolution was a great blow to the island, but we think we will find a demand for our sugar in Europe. When this is done our people will become prosperous, and all will oppose annexation. But now with hard times staring them in the face, a great many Cubans favor annexation. This is especially true with the wealthy classes. They want to sell their products and realize the benefits they would derive personally by having an open market.

"It will take several years to bring order out of chaos and establish prosperity. But when this is done, the people will be satisfied, and will oppose any effort toward annexation."

IT IS $17.00 TO CHICAGO

PASSENGER LINES ARE AT WAR OVER RATES

FOR ONE DAY ONLY

Reduced Tariff Is $9.40 Less Than Regular One Way Fare—No Reason Is Assigned in Local Circles for Action

A passenger rate war is on between Texas-Chicago lines for business expected to move Saturday next, and the result is the round trip rate on that day from Fort Worth will be $17 with a limit of August 31, for return.

This rate is $9.40 less than one fare and $13.95 less than the summer round trip rate. No cause is assigned in local passenger circles for the reduction. It is charged that several days ago the Frisco made a low rate from Paris to St. Louis and Chicago, which the other lines met and began extending until the cut has now reached all the Texas centers. Monday it was announced that the Fort Worth-Chicago round trip rate would be $17.85 and yesterday the Rock Island made it $17.20. At the opening of business this morning other North and South routes met the reduction, which they say, was only the result of close figuring. At 1 o'clock p. m. today the Texas and Pacific made it even $17 for one day only.

"It is not known what forced the reduction," said a passenger man this afternoon. "All the advice we have is the rate which is far below the one way tariff will be applied on August 16."

With the cut on Chicago a reduction is made on St. Louis business also for Saturday. The one way rate to St. Louis is $19.40, but on the date named the round trip rate will be $14.85. At this time no other rates are effected.

NEW CONTRACT IS LET FOR THE ROSEN HOTEL

RAMSEY & SON SUCCESSFULLY BID FOR WORK OF CONSTRUCTION

L. B. Ramsey & Son were the successful bidders for the contract on constructing the new Rosen Inn on Main street in North Fort Worth. Bids were opened yesterday afternoon in the office of L. B. Weinman, the architect, who prepared the plans and were as follows: Ramsey & Son, $23,840; Matt Chalk, $24,000; W. A. Cassidy, $24,900; A. O. Harvey, $25,445; T. M. Davis, $26,000; H. Abbott, $26,745; H. Whitel, $27,900; Rich & Roe, $28,745.

After bids were opened for the hotel according to the old plans, which provided for a building with a 350-foot front and having 139 guest rooms. Mr. Rosen decided to build on modified plans which were prepared by Architect Weinman. The new plans provide for a hotel and store building with a 250-foot front, containing 11 store rooms, and 101 guest rooms. The building will be three stories high in the center and two stories high at either end. The general appearance will be the same as the one formerly planned.

Ramsey & Son's bid is for construction and the other costs connected with the building, including plumbing, etc., will probably bring the total cost of the building to about $30,000. The building material will be brick and it is expected that work will begin next week.

PYTHIAN AND PACKER

MAY WORK TOGETHER IN MAKING FORT WORTH'S STREET FAIR A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Owing to the absence of some of the members of the committee, plans for the big street fair under the auspices of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, which will be held here this fall, could not be completed this morning, and another meeting has been called for tomorrow morning at the office of J. J. Langever, chairman. Other members of the committee are: T. T. McDonald, R. R. Darrah and J. C. Smith. The work of the committee at tomorrow's meeting will be the appointment of committees of railroads, printing, finance, etc. This committee with committees from the Knights of Pythias lodges and the Uniform Rank committee will constitute the committee of the whole.

The general plan is to hold a street fair in Fort Worth some time late in October or early in November, or about the time of the opening of the new packing houses and the two interests can work together for bringing to Fort Worth the largest crowd of visitors in its history.

It is expected that the city council will grant to the committee the use of Eleventh street from Main to the Federal building, for the street fair. Prominent attractions throughout the country are in sight, and some correspondence has been entered into. The members of the K. of P. lodges ask the merchants' support in the way of decorations and other help, and they expect that the fair will not only be a money maker for them, but a big advertisement for the city. The desire of the local lodges is to raise sufficient money to defray the expenses of holding the meeting of the grand lodge and uniform rank in Fort Worth in April, 1903. If plans succeed hundreds of Pythians will visit the city at that time and two big meetings instead of one will be the result of the street fair plans.

SOME FACTS ABOUT SWIFT & CO.'S PLANT

THE magnitude of the packing plants building in North Fort Worth appeals to every one who pays the locality a visit, but little or nothing is known of the amount of material being, and to be used, in their construction.

Both companies assert that ninety-five per cent of the material is Texas produced and Texas purchased. Swift & Co. have issued a detailed statement of the material being used on their plant. It will have required 700 cars to transport the brick when the buildings are finished, 600 cars to haul the lumber, 120 cars of cast iron, 45 cars of cement, 40 cars of miscellaneous machinery and 25 cars to handle the structural iron.

When things are in working shape the various Swift plants will be using nine miles of iron piping, two miles of main and branch sewers. To do the work 500 men will have been employed for the period of eight months, and during the time of construction there is a weekly distribution of $6,000 in the pay roll.

After completion, the statement shows the various plants will handle each week 90 cars of hogs, 75 cars of sheep, 150 cars of cattle. The consumption will amount to 36 cars of coal, 12 cars of fuel oil, 12 cars of miscellaneous supplies, 4 cars of salt, 4 cars of box lumber and 3 cars of cooperage. Leaving the main plant each week there will be 180 cars loaded with the products, and the weekly distribution for labor will be $13,500. Pythian committees

The committees from the several Knights of Pythias lodges in Fort Worth to arrange for the annual gathering of the Knights next spring, will meet with Alexander lodge in the Temple, corner of Main and Third Sts., Wednesday night.

The committee will be divided and the work apportioned among its members. They have in contemplation several forms of entertainment, and will announce plans some time next week.

SWIFT & CO. WANT BRICK

NEED 2,000,000 ADDITIONAL TO FINISH BUILDINGS

First Order Was for 6,000,000, but Now Plants Are Assuming Shape Shortage of Material Is Apparent

Alex Cobden, purchasing agent for Swift & Co., was a passenger to Dallas this morning. Swift & Co. are in the markets for 2,000,000 more brick which will be necessary to complete its work in North Fort Worth.

At the beginning of the buildings a contract was given the Texas and Pacific Coal company of Thurber, for 6,000,000 brick which at that time was believed to be enough, but now that the plants are assuming shape a large shortage of the material has become apparent.

The order placed with the Thurber company required 600 cars to handle it. It will require 200 cars to transport the additional order.

CITY ATTORNEY ADVISES COUNCIL

ACTION MAY BE TAKEN BY THAT BODY ON JENNINGS AVENUE VIADUCT CASE AT FRIDAY EVENING'S SESSION

In response to a request from the city council, City Attorney Williams has prepared a written opinion of the Jennings avenue viaduct case, which will be presented at the meeting of the council Friday evening.

In brief the opinion is advice to suspend the further payment on estimates submitted by Contractor Leveredge until a satisfactory agreement be made between the council, Mr. Leveredge and his sureties. The case is complicated and peculiar and while the city attorney attaches no blame to Mr. Leveredge, yet the conditions are such that there are prospects of damage suits against the city by parties who consider themselves damaged by the standstill at which work on the viaduct now remains.

On the other hand were the city to take the contract out of Mr. Leveredge's hands and either give it to some other contractor, or attempt to do the work in some other way, Mr. Williams thinks that the work would cost more than $20,000 above Mr. Leveredge's contract price. It is also Mr. Williams' opinion that the damage to the city by the delay is not excessive and he therefore hopes that the steel may arrive in time to prevent the necessity of the action he is compelled to advise the city council to take.

Preserving Time.

Daisy's gown so very simple In a gingham trimmed with tulle That each dimple seems the whimple Of a raindrop in the pool, And her bared arms show the trimmer Her bewitching elbows' curves As she stirs the frit-a-simmer When she's putting up preserves.

As to oak tree clings the lichen Cling my eyes unto the spot When sweet Daisy queens the kitchen And the kettle's steaming hot, Spicy odors sweetly steal on Sensitive olfactory nerves Like a seaward breeze from Ceylon When she's putting up preserves.

Sweet as any songster's chirrup, Sweet as flowers brown bees loot; Yes, she's sweet as 'e'en the sirup She is pouring o'er the fruit! And a veering heart she's captured From past love's erratic swerves Since she lets me look enraptured When she's putting up preserves. —Roy Farroll Greene in Puck.

REPORT UPON COUNTY'S CASH

TREASURER BALL SHOWS AN EXCESS IN DISBURSEMENTS

Official's Report Submitted to Commissioners This Morning—Jury Fees and Other Claims Were Heavy During the Quarter

Treasurer Ball this morning submitted his quarterly report to the county commissioners now in session. A recapitulation of the report shows an excess of disbursements over the income for the quarter, reducing the cash balance on hand to the credit of the county, something like $15,000.

Jury fees and other claims during the quarter were heavy and the receipts exceptionally light. At the commencement of the quarter the balance on hand was $95,754.93. The receipts for the quarter were $17,309.14. The amount paid out was $82,873.89. The figures representing the balance are $80,190.18.

Recent advices report the completion of the deep well at Cambria, Wyo., which has been in progress for several years for the local water supply at that place. This well was started as an experiment at the suggestion of the United States geological survey, as water bearing strata were not definitely known to exist in the region.

Early in 1900 a depth of 1,810 feet was reached without finding water, but recently an excellent supply, with a pumping capacity of 200 gallons per minute, has been developed at 2,115 feet, a distance of almost half a mile from the surface.

Cambria is a coal mining community on the western slopes of the Black Hills. The coal measures in which it is located are estimated to cover an area of ten square miles and to have a productive capacity of 30,000,000 tons. The experiment is therefore extremely important, as it not only throws needed light on the underground water conditions in all the older formations on the western side of the Black Hills, but also indicates that water supplies may be obtained in wells over a wide area of surrounding country. The prospects and depths of these waters will be shown on maps soon to be published.

CONDITION OF THE CROPS

WEATHER BUREAU CONSIDERS OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

SOME RAIN IS NEEDED

Corn as a Whole Is O. K., and Wheat and Oat Crop About Harvested—Boll Worm Doing Damage to Cotton

Washington, Aug. 13.—The following is the weather bureau weekly summary of crop conditions:

Portions of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, North Alabama, southeastern Missouri and lower Ohio valley continue to need rain and drouth conditions have developed to some extent in portions of Nebraska, South Dakota and northern Wisconsin. The principal agricultural district elsewhere east of the Rocky mountains have experienced very favorable conditions with respect to moisture.

The corn crop has experienced another very favorable week and the general outlook in the principal corn states continues promising. In portions of southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois, the crop, however, is suffering severely from drouth and rain would prove beneficial in South Dakota and in a few southern counties in Nebraska. Late corn in Oklahoma and Kansas sustained some injury from excessive heat in the early part of the week.

Spring wheat harvest is nearing completion. Oats harvest is now practically finished, except over limited areas in extreme northern districts.

With a general absence of rain in Texas and scattered showers over the central portions of the middle and eastern district the progress of the cotton crop as a whole has been favorable. Complaints of rust and shedding, however, are quite generally indicated and some premature opening is reported from portions of Georgia and South Carolina. Early cotton is opening rapidly and picking is progressing in Texas and the eastern district under favorable conditions.

Uninterrupted sunshine and high temperatures have checked the ravages of boll worms and weevil in Texas, but these pests continue to cause considerable damage and inundated section in that state the crop has been severely damaged and in many sections ruined.

Hill says he was shooting at a mark with a young man named William Trager and that he fired the fatal shot.

ELKS AT SALT LAKE.

The Election of Grand Officers the Principal Business of the Day.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 13.—Utah and Salt Lake City extended a royal welcome to the hosts of visiting Elks at the Mormon tabernacle Tuesday. Elks were present from practically every state in the union and even the Hawaiian islands were represented. Probably 12,000 visiting Elks are in Salt Lake.

The meeting of the grand lodge was held in assembly hall in the afternoon and after the annual report of Grand Exalted Ruler Pickett had been delivered and other reports presented the election of grand officers for the ensuing year was taken up. This resulted as follows:

Grand exalted ruler—George P. Cronk, Omaha.

Grand leading knight—W. B. Brock, Lexington, Ky.

Grand loyal knight—Judge A. H. Pickens, Denver.

Grand lecturing knight—Jos. E. Henning, Anderson, Ind.

Grand secretary—Geo. Reynolds, Saganaw, Mich.

Grand treasurer—E. S. Orris, Meadville, Pa.

Grand tyler—Charles Kauffman, Hoboken, N. J.

Grand trustee—J. D. O'Shea, Boston.

Grand Exalted Ruler Pickett took strong grounds against the growing practice of holding street carnivals and fairs. This enterprise, he said, were more productive of harm than good to the order and he recommended that they be either regulated or even altogether prohibited.

The report of the secretary showed the order to be in an exceedingly prosperous condition. An increase in membership of about 26,000 during the past year was showing, bringing the total up to about 125,000.

The treasurer's report showed the organization to be sound financially.

To My Friends

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. SILVER IN A BIG SLUMP

DEPRECIATION OF WHITE METAL CAUSES TROUBLE IN MEXICO

MUCH WORK STOPPED

Large Contract Held Back and Business Men Are Looking to Time When Country Will go on a Gold Basis

City of Mexico, Aug. 13.—Owing to the depreciation of silver and the high gold premium, various large contracts are held back and some have been suspended. It is said that the steel work for the new National theater will not be finally ordered till it is seen how silver is going. Many houses which had contracted for machinery or other articles at an exchange 25 points lower than the present rate will lose money in complying. Business men feel that it is only a question of time when the country will go on a gold basis. No importer can make calculations regarding future prices, and this uncertainty prevents the fullest measure of business activity here, and it is marvelous that with such a handicap Mexican business is so good and the country so prosperous as a whole. Foreign capital is making demand for a gold standard.

Your Liver and Kidneys are the Sieves that drain the Blood

No other organs in the body have such direct effect on the general health. See that you keep them in good repair. Every drop of blood is strained by them. If they fail in their work, it will result in the accumulation of poisons that cause rheumatism, urinary troubles and many worse disorders often ending in dreaded Bright's disease.

WATCH YOUR LIVER AND KIDNEYS and at the first sign of inactivity and inability to perform their natural functions, take a remedy which will gently force them to renewed vigor.

McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM

stimulates these organs to immediate healthy action, reduces acute pain, purifies the blood, and so removes the cause of disease. Better buy a bottle to-day and be prepared. It may save you years of suffering.

FORT WORTH, TEX., AUG. 13, 1902.

General Smith says that his orders in regard to the Samar campaign were issued because the people are savages.

With your atlas open at the map of the Central American states it becomes a dead easy job to shut your eyes and poke your finger at the spot where the latest revolution has broken out.

An Indiana husband recently sold his wife for 30 cents. If that is the standard price for Hoosier women there is no reason why bachelors there should continue to do their own cooking.

An exchange says: "If there were no drug stores, how many homely women there would be. If there were no drug stores, in many a place, what a great number of thirty men there would be."

Russell Sage has passed his 86th milestone and enjoys the best of health. This shows that a man who makes a business of drawing interest at the expense of debtors can reach a ripe old age.

General Smith, he of "howling wilderness" fame, is being turned into a hero. This is a mighty funny country. Today we jump hard on a fellow because we don't like the way he has acted. Tomorrow we forget and kiss the same fellow's hand. Ah, well! 'Tis human to err and to forgive is divine.

The famous Chicago river is being sold by the bucketful to soapmakers. That classic stream, the passing of whose water by the city of St. Louis moved the state of Missouri to go to law with the state of Illinois for not keeping its nuisance at home, affords a lucrative employment to a number of men. In the south branch above the drainage canal they are kept busy the day long scooping the top layer of the stream off with buckets and putting it in barrels, in which form it is sold to packers at the stock yards to be transformed into soap. This takes place in "Bubby Creek," which is the name applied to that part of the river into which the waste from the stock yards empties through sewers.

SUCCESS DUE TO ADVERTISING. The Philadelphia Record tells an interesting story about the success of the largest general store in Tacoma, Wash. The proprietors began business in a small way, lived economically and saved every dollar to buy space in the newspaper. Now their advertising contracts call for an aggregate space of 107 pages a year. The manager of the concern says they would as soon think of going out of business as of reducing their advertising space. The experiment of that firm is the common experience of all extensive advertisers. A man might as well take down his business signs as to stop advertising, as might a firm.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE. An employer of labor in an up-north paper inserts the following unique advertisement in one of the local papers: WANTED—Two first-class stone masons at St. Paul church. Wages, 40c per hour. Rules to be observed on this job. Workmen must agree to recognize the boss, not to interfere with the operation of the fast mail on the C. B. & Q. and of the street cars on Fourth street; to permit the free use of the Mississippi by licensed steam-boats, and if it should happen to rain during the progress of the work don't try to monkey with the elements, but come in out of the rain. Never lose sight of the fact that you are working for the man who pays you and not for the trades assembly or the walking delegate.

Time of going to work: Any time between now and the day of judgment. If you see fit to comply with these regulations apply to Bernard Mackin, the man who will boss this job.

The intelligent and honest mechanic will have no difficulty in complying with the rules laid down, and the man who accepts a place under such conditions will find more contentment, better comforts in life and more of the satisfaction that is afforded by knowing that he has done by others as he would like others to do unto him.

The man who is not satisfied without debating the question whether he or the boss are working for the other is the advance agent for Trouble, Dissatisfaction and Decreased Earning Capacity, a combination that never ought to be in business.

There may be many who will have no sympathy with this advertisement. There are many who will. The Telegram reprints it first for its oddity and secondly because there is in it some good chunks of wisdom. It contains in a few words what should be the relation of employer and employe. The advertisement contains food for some good, hard, healthy reflection.

Thumb Nail Sketches. In view of recent successes—"What are you going to do with that boy of yours?" inquired the intimate friend. "I don't exactly know," answered the puzzled parent. Lord Roberts once found himself the center of a circle of new friends in a London club. There was a very tall gentleman present, who, evidently believing himself to shine as a wit, seized every opportunity to raise a laugh at the other people's expense. On being introduced to Lord Roberts the wit bent down patronizingly to his lordship and remarked: "I have often heard of you, but shading his eyes with one hand, as though the famous general, being so small, could be seen only with difficulty—"I have never seen you."

At last Saturday's local conference of Democratic leaders of the city and state, John S. "The judge was right," replied Creasy. "What!" exclaimed Rilling. "Why?" "Quay's a-living," was Creasy's laconic answer.

Senators Quay, Penrose and Vest had waited what seemed a very long time on a Washington street corner for a car when Penrose, glancing down the track called out: "Here she comes!" "A street car is it," Penrose—not a 'she.' Say: 'Here it comes!'" "You, too, are wrong, Senator," interjected Vest, as the car drew nearer. "Here she comes!" is proper; for it's a mail car."

Jonas, the elder of two frugal, hard-working, and stolid "Pennsylvania Dutch" brothers known generally throughout Lancaster county, recently died. A Lancaster acquaintance met Elias, the younger, in the streets of that city the day for which the funeral was scheduled. "Why, Elias, I heard Jonas was dead!" he exclaimed, in surprise. "Yah—he be dead since Sunday last," said Elias. "Well—well," stammered the acquaintance—"that is, I heard the funeral was to be today—and—and how it is you're here in town?" "Veil," explained the mourning relative, "tings had been dull and still since Jonas died. I hafs a chance for some pizness here in Lancaster today; and you know it is always pizness before pleasure mit me."

At a rancorous political meeting Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, who had been elected once on the Democratic side and the next time on the Republican ticket for the same district, was fiercely reproached for changing his politics, says Every Day. "You people who stick to the tenet of 16 to 1"—replied Sibley when it came his turn to speak—"remind me of a man I once saw in a lunatic asylum. He was capering through the hall astride of a broomstick. 'Ah, ha, ha,' I said to him, thinking to be pleasant 'I see you are having a fine ride on your horse.' 'This isn't a horse,' he replied. 'Isn't a horse?' said I. 'Then what is it?' 'It's a hobby,' he replied. 'If it was a horse I could get off.'"

CASE By... Emile Gaboriau

Synopsis. The discovery that 300,000 francs, ($70,000), has been stolen from the vaults of the bank of Andre Fauvel, throws suspicion on the cashier, Prosper Bertomy, who alone with M. Fauvel knows the secret word of the combination lock which opens the safe. While the commissary of police with M. Fauvel, examines the latter's private office, the morning after the robbery, a detective, M. Fanferlot, oversees a passionate scene between Bertomy, and Madeline, niece of M. Fauvel, and suspecting that Bertomy loves her against Fauvel's wishes, has been made the victim of a plot by the latter, who robs the safe himself and throws the blame on his cashier. After the investigation, while the cashier and detective are waiting in a room of the bank, Bertomy writes a note and tosses it to his friend, Cavallion. The detective finds a deep scratch on the safe door. When Prosper is taken to jail, the detective Fanferlot, secures the note from Cavallion and reads.

Dear Nina—On the receipt of this note take everything you have in the house, absolutely everything, and establish yourself somewhere at the other end of Paris. Do not appear in public, but conceal yourself as much as possible. My life may depend on your obedience. I am accused of an immense robbery and am about to be arrested. You will find 500 francs in the secretary. Leave your address with Cavallion, who will explain what I cannot say. Be hopeful, whatever happens. Goodbye.

Had Cavallion been less bewildered he would have seen blank disappointment depicted on the detective's face after the perusal of the note. Fanferlot had cherished the hope that he was about to possess a very important document, and who knows but that it would clearly prove the guilt or innocence of Prosper. Whereas he had only seized a love letter written by a man who was evidently more anxious about the welfare of the woman he loved than about his own. Vainly did he puzzle over the letter, hoping to discover some hidden meaning. It proved nothing for or against the writer. The two words "absolutely everything" were underscored, it is true, but they could be interpreted in so many ways. Fanferlot folded up the note and slipped it into his pocket.

"A thousand thanks, monsieur, for the information, and in return, if you please, I will relieve you of the trouble of executing your commission. I will myself take this note to Mme. Nina Gipsy. I will also give you a piece of advice. If I were in your place, I would return quietly to business and have nothing more to do with this affair."

The poor fellow obeyed. Slowly and with swelling heart he returned to Notre Dame street. He asked himself how he could serve Prosper, warn Mme. Gipsy and, above all, be revenged upon this odious detective who had just made him suffer such cruel humiliation. He had no sooner turned the corner of the street than Fanferlot went into the house, gave his name to the porter as Prosper Bertomy, went up stairs and knocked at the first door he came to.

A young servant dressed in the most fanciful livery opened the door. "Is Mme. Gipsy at home?" "The little groom hesitated. Seeing this, Fanferlot showed his note. "M. Prosper charged me to hand this note to madame and wait for an answer."

"Come in, and I will let madame know you are here." The name of Prosper produced its effect. Fanferlot was ushered into a little room furnished in blue and gold silk damask. But he had no time to pursue his inventory. One of the door curtains was pushed aside, and Mme. Nina Gipsy appeared. Mme. Gipsy is, or, to speak more correctly, was, quite young, small and graceful, with a brown, or, rather, gold colored quadron, complexion and the hands and feet of a child. She eyed her visitor with the most disdainful surprise.

"What do you want?" she said. "I am charged, my dear madame," he answered in his humblest and softest tone, "by M. Bertomy to give you this note."

Fanferlot slowly drew Prosper's note from his pocket and with a bow presented it to Mme. Gipsy. "Read," he said. At a glance she read its contents. She turned very red, then very pale. She trembled from head to foot. Her limbs seemed to give way, and she tottered so that Fanferlot, thinking she was about to fall, extended his arms to catch her. Useless precaution! Mme. Gipsy was one of those women whose inert listlessness conceals indomitable energy—fragile looking creatures whose powers of endurance and resistance are unlimited, catlike in their soft grace and delicacy, especially in their nerves and muscles of steel.

"Explain yourself! What does all this mean? Do you know anything about the contents of this letter? Prosper is to be arrested, accused of being a thief?" "Yes, madame; he is accused of taking 350,000 francs from the bank safe."

"It is false, infamous, absurd!" she cried. "Prosper steal! It is absurd! Why should he steal? Is he not rich?" "M. Bertomy is not rich. He has nothing but his salary."

This answer seemed to confound Mme. Gipsy. "But," she insisted, "I have always seen him have plenty of money. Not rich—then?" She dared not finish. But her eye met Fanferlot's, and they understood each other. "No," she cried, "I regret to say that Prosper would never have stolen one cent for me! One can understand a man who is trusted robbing a bank for a woman he loves, but Prosper does not love me. He never has loved me. But I love him, and it is for me to save him! I will see his chief, the miserable wretch who dares to accuse him. I will prove that he is innocent. Come, monsieur, let us go, and I promise you that before sunset he shall be free, or I shall be in prison with him."

Mme. Gipsy's project was certainly laudable and prompted by the noblest sentiments. Unfortunately it was impracticable. Besides, it would be going counter to the plans of the detective. "What will you gain by acting thus, my dear madame?" asked Fanferlot. "Nothing. I can assure you that you have not the least chance of success. You will compromise Prosper. Who knows if you will not be suspected as his accomplice? M. Bertomy expressly forbade such a course in his letter."

Mme. Gipsy remained thoughtful for a moment, then a ray of light seemed to cross her mind, and she cried: "Oh, I understand now! Fool that I was for not seeing it before! But where am I to go?" "Did not M. Bertomy say, my dear lady, to the other end of Paris—to a boarding house or hotel?" "But I don't know where to find any."

Fanferlot seemed to be reflecting, but he had great difficulty in concealing his delight at a sudden idea that flashed upon him. His little black eyes fairly danced with joy. "I know of a hotel," he said at last, "but it might not suit you."

dropped upon his flushed cheek. In an instant he had recovered his calmness and stood up motionless, with his arms raised in the air so that the rough creatures about him could more conveniently search him from head to foot to assure themselves that he had no suspicious object hid under his clothes.

The investigation would have, perhaps, been carried to the most ignominious lengths but for the intervention of a middle aged man of distinguished appearance, who wore a white cravat and gold spectacles and was sitting by the fire. At sight of Prosper he started with surprise and seemed much agitated. He stepped forward and seemed about to speak to him, then suddenly changed his mind and sat down again. In spite of his own troubles, the cashier could not help seeing that this man kept his eyes fastened upon him. Did he know him? Vainly did he try to recollect having met him before. This man, treated with all the deference due to a chief, was no less a personage than a celebrated member of the detective corps, M. Lecoq. When the men who were searching Prosper were about to take off his boots, saying that a knife might be concealed in them, M. Lecoq waved them aside, saying, "That is sufficient."

He was obeyed. All the formalities being ended, the unfortunate cashier was taken to a narrow cell. The heavily barred door was swung to and locked upon him. He breathed freely. At last he was alone. Yes, he believed himself to be alone. He was ignorant that a prison is made of glass; that the accused is like a miserable insect under the microscope of an entomologist. He did not know that the walls have stretched ears and eyes always watchful. He was so sure of being alone that he at once gave vent to his suppressed feeling and, dropping his mask of impassibility, burst into a flood of tears. His wrath, long pent up, now flashed out like a smoldering fire. In a paroxysm of rage he uttered imprecations and curses. He dashed himself against the prison walls like a wild beast in a cage.

NAME STATE TICKET HEADED BY J. M. MALLETT

Adjournment Is Taken at an Early Hour This Morning After a Long Wrangle Over a Party Name and Resolutions

Governor—J. M. Mallett of Johnson. Lieutenant Governor—J. H. L. Bonner of Smith.

Treasurer—Buck Barry of Bosque. Controller—J. M. Ferdue of Upshur.

Land Commissioner—M. C. Granbury of Travis.

Superintendent of Instruction—Prof. Collier of Callahan.

Railroad Commissioner—E. P. Alsbury of Harris.

Chairman State Committee—Milton Park of Dallas.

The first and only simon pure Populistic demonstration of yesterday's convention was late last night when "Stump" Ashby opposed the convention endorsing any other ticket save one that was Populist from top to bottom.

The mention of Jerome Kerby's name got a ripple, but the allegiance of the Tarrant county man to the principles of his party brought the first and only demonstration of the gathering.

It was after midnight when the convention took final adjournment. A state ticket was nominated without trouble, and no endorsement was given any other party's candidates for state offices.

The only tilt was over the adoption of a platform, and a name for the new party. The platform committee wrangled for five hours over the name, the several planks and the resolutions.

It was agreed a short time before the committee adjourned that the name should be "The Allied Party of Texas." Upon this Jo A. Parker of Louisville, Ky., gave notice he would make a minority report, and when the committee assembled after supper the naming of the committee was rescinded, and "The Allied People's Party of Texas" adopted in its stead.

"Stump" Ashby then gave notice he would bring in a minority report. This action was also rescinded and the matter referred to the convention to do the christening.

Still the People's Party. It took the convention about ten minutes to determine between the words "Reform" and "People's" in giving a name to the party. A Waco man wanted to call it "The New Allied People's Reform Party of Texas."

A Grayson county man wanted plain "People's Party," while Ashby pleaded for the word "Reform." "The Allied People's Party of Texas" was the one adopted.

The Platform. The platform and resolutions adopted endorse and reaffirm the national platforms of the party from Cincinnati to Louisville, and call particular attention to one article of faith—the initiative and referendum, or the majority rule—as the only way in which the people can express themselves fully and freely upon all political questions, and providing the open door through which all other reforms may be brought about.

The construction of a system of state railroads as fast as the idle labor of the state can be utilized is favored, to be operated by the state in the interest of the people, to the end that the transportation monopoly which handicaps the agricultural, mechanical and industrial development of Texas may be overcome.

The change of the scholastic age of public school pupils from the present limit of from 8 to 17 years to 7 to 21 years is favored.

If given power, the platform pledges clear cut legislation in the interest of labor, including the following specific enactments: To prevent the use of child labor in any manufacturing industry until the child employed shall have reached the age of 15 years, and not then without having completed the rudiments of a common school education; eight-hour law for workmen on all public works and in occupations injurious to the health of the workman; a law against the use of double header trains; a right law to prevent blacklisting of employees by corporations and with the pledge to the strict enforcement of such legislation; a law providing for equitable arbitration of labor disputes; a law to prohibit the use of convict labor in competition with the free labor, and that the convicts be employed on the state farm; or kept within the walls of the penitentiary.

Says Dead Were Voted. Jo A. Parker of Louisville, Ky., presented the resolution against the adoption of the poll tax amendment to be voted upon at the November election. Ashby of Tarrant was in favor of it, and declared that had such an amendment to the constitution been in force when Jerome Kerby and himself headed the ticket for governor and lieutenant governor, they would have been elected.

"I think yet that Jerome Kerby and myself were elected," said he, while the delegates applauded loudly, "and since we were declared beaten, it was nothing but the wet Mexicans who crossed the Rio Grande and the people who paid no poll tax that did it."

"I know it to be a fact that dead men and fictitious characters were voted in Harris county during that election. Roscoe Conklin, James G. Blaine, George Washington, Andrew Jackson and a score of others I might name were alleged to have marched to the polls and voted the Democratic ticket."

The resolution was adopted after the experiences of the law's working in other states was heard.

It was now 11 o'clock p. m. and a motion to adjourn was declared out of

The resolution was adopted after the experiences of the law's working in other states was heard.

It was now 11 o'clock p. m. and a motion to adjourn was declared out of order and the nominations for state offices were called for.

Dr. Malcom of Henderson county said the People's party in Texas was leading a forlorn hope, and he believed the best thing to do was to give endorsement to another ticket.

"I would willingly give the nomination to Jerome Kerby of Dallas," he said, amid cheers, "but he would not accept, so I believe it a good idea to endorse Carroll, the Prohibition nominee."

Mallett of Johnson Named. "I want nothing but a Populist ticket from top to bottom," said Stump Ashby, giving the keynote for the only demonstration of the gathering, "and don't favor fusing with anybody or any party. I nominate J. M. Mallett of Johnson county for governor."

The nomination went through without opposition. "I am up against it," said Mr. Mallett, who presided as chairman, "but if I had $10,000 I would want nothing better than to get after Sam Lanham. I am not like Sam Lanham; I do not think I am qualified to be governor of Texas."

J. H. L. Bonner of Smith county was nominated for lieutenant governor. T. J. McMinn of Bexar was named for attorney general. Col. "Buck" Barry of Bosque was placed on the ticket for treasurer.

Wouldn't Have Places. A. M. Colwick of Hunt was proposed for comptroller. He said it could not be handed to him on a platter, "Stump" Ashby then mentioned the name of Newton Gresham of Rains county, and he also declined. A. Collins of Denton said he did not have money enough, hence could not make a race. J. M. Purdie of Upshur was not in the hall so the nomination was given him.

Morris C. Granbury of Travis was nominated for land commissioner of the general land office, and Prof. John Collier of Callahan, was put up for superintendent of public instruction.

E. P. Alsbury of Harris received the nomination for railroad commissioner. Thomas S. DeArmond of Hamilton, "Stump" Ashby of Tarrant and C. C. Bearden of Wise, were named as the National committee. Milton Park of Dallas, was re-elected State chairman.

Visiting the Packing Houses. Upon invitation from the Fort Worth Stock Yards company, members of the convention who were here this morning paid the yards and packing house sites a visit at 9 o'clock a. m.

AMENDED KENTUCKY'S SEAL. Allied Peoples' Party Stamp Was on Convention Ribbons

The ribbon badges of the Populist convention have the official seal of the state of Kentucky with a few amendments, which makes it the official stamp of the Allied Peoples' Party. The center of the seal is supposed to represent a capitalist and a workingman, clasping hands, above them being the words: "United we stand, divided we fall," and beneath them the words: "Wealth belongs to him who creates it." The seal was adopted during the Louisville meeting in April last.

STUMP ASHBY AND HIS PIPE. Combination Affair Did not Comport With Speech Mannerisms

Stump Ashby's friends are having a great deal of amusement over his pipe and his up-to-date pronunciation, and some have gone so far as to accuse him of using the former to stave off any suspicion that he is becoming effete.

When Barnett Gibbs was running for governor it was common talk that he kept a bale of hay in his Dallas office so that when an emissary of the plain people came around there was evidence galore of his loyalty to the movement indicating reform.

Ashby's pipe consists of a briar bowl with a cob stem shoved in the end, and in it is smoked a popular brand of "stuff." This went well enough yesterday until during one of the orator's speeches he was heard to use the word "neyther," and soon after that "ey-ther." The delegates looked at one another in utter amazement. It is told by a Johnson county man that Ashby realized his break, and immediately, upon finishing, pulled from his pocket his combination pipe and took a smoke.

HE DIDN'T LIKE WAR RECORDS. Melvin Wade of Dallas, Only Colored Delegate Here

Jerome Kerby of Dallas, the man who polled 239,000 votes as the Populist's candidate for governor in 1896, was expected here for the convention's opening. He was one of the Dallas delegation.

A. F. Slater, Dallas county chairman was a late arrival. Melvin Wade, colored, who has been one of the Populist's members in Dallas county for several years, was the only negro wearing a red ribbon badge. In the Dallas convention which nominated Nugent for governor, Wade was with those who opposed the nomination of Henry E. McCullough of Bastrop, for governor. McCullough was presented as a Southerner with a war record.

"I told the convention," said Wade, yesterday, "that if the Populists wanted the nigger vote, they had better not talk too much about war records."

Rheumatism

The liniment bottle and flannel strip are familiar objects in nearly every household. They are the weapons that have been used for generations to fight old Rheumatism, and are about as effective in the battle with this giant disease as the blunderbuss of our forefathers would be in modern warfare.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acrid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils nor nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieve temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system are infected. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which dissolves and washes out all foreign materials, and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing pains.

S. S. S. contains no potash or other mineral, but is a perfect vegetable blood purifier and most exhilarating tonic. Our physicians will advise, without charge, all who write about their case, and we will send free our special book on Rheumatism and its treatment.

THE CONFEDERATE'S RETURN TO HIS HOME

Two pictures rest on easels in the Main street windows of the Columbia and they were eagerly gazed at by passing crowds yesterday afternoon and today.

"The Confederate's Return" is the title of one of the paintings in which appears a Confederate soldier arriving at home after the war. Standing by the crumbling gate posts, he sees the wreck of silent ruins which was once a happy home resounding with the voices of his loved ones. The old manor is partly burned and its occupants have been compelled to seek refuge elsewhere. In this picture the sentiments of the soldier are not only shown in the face, but the general bearing of the body conveys a feeling of sadness, an indescribable something we all may feel, but only the artist can sometimes in some way express. One could hang this picture in his study and gaze upon it in the twilight of our Southern days. What memories it would bring to the mind and in these one might fall asleep to dream of the days of '61 and awake to find the salt tears flowing down one's cheeks. The picture, indescribably pathetic, is the work of a slender, delicate-featured girl, a daughter of a late captain in Cobb's Georgia regiment, who can feel as only a daughter of the South could feel, the significance of her subject.

contrast. The picture of a sturdy St. Bernard dog, with firm brush work that brings out the individuality of the subject perfectly. Yet even there is a feeling treatment of the subject. It is the sort of a dog one would like for a companion.

Miss Louisa A. Williams, painter of both pictures, comes to Fort Worth with a view to opening a studio here. With introductory letters from Governor Candler of Georgia, Gen. John B. Gordon, General "Joe" Wheeler, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee and other distinguished officers, she comes from her home in Augusta, Ga., to endeavor to support her widowed mother and younger sister. She has studied at the Metropolitan Art school, New York, and under William Ordray Partridge, and everywhere her work has won graceful tributes.

Not only a painter, Miss Williams is also a sculptor, and while she had her studio in New Orleans no less distinguished personage than Cardinal Gibbons sat for his bust, which was afterwards exhibited at the Charleston exposition. The work was so faithful, that a bronze cast of the bust was purchased by the cardinal's family for their New Orleans home.

Miss Williams will remain in the city only a few days, unless she decides to locate here. With her sister, Miss Bessie, she is a guest at the home of Mrs. Adams, 310 Taylor street.

NEW USE FOR THE OLD GEMS

MODERN ORNAMENTS MADE OF ANTIQUE JEWELRY

How a New Era of Jewelry Was Inaugurated by a Debutante With More Sentiment Than Vanity Idea Is Adopted Abroad

Because a Washington girl whose ancestors were of gentle birth was prouder of blood than vain of beauty, a new era has been opened in the world of jewels, says the Washington Post. And now the leading jewelers of New York, London, and even initiative Paris are sending out elaborate circulars announcing that special attention is devoted to the reconstruction of antique jewelry. She is not a faddist, this Washington maid who first conceived the idea which has awakened such a new and remarkable work in the horological world. She was inspired by two motives in working out her idea—the dread of being twin in costume or ornament to her neighbor in the F street car, and an abnormal development of sentiment. A long lineage of colonial ancestors, and back of them old English and French sires had accumulated a casket of jewels from the vintage of the first twin wedding ring and long chains, which were looped with jewel studded, flexible tassels, down to the last generation, when our mothers clasped their severe throat bands with a plain, heavy bar brooch.

When the time arrived for this Washington girl's debut, the jewel case was taken from the safety vault where it had rested for many years, for the fair possessor is the last of the gentle sex of her name. The treasures were taken to one of the most reliable jewelers in town, carefully listed and receipted for, and then began the preparation for the reconstruction of these ancient gems. Studying closely some of the superb workmanship of a century ago, the artist who was to draw designs for the up to date setting of the stones, and who was a connoisseur on this subject, became enthusiastic in his admiration of the works of art. "Why, that piece must be nearly 200 years old," remarked the jeweler, as he handled a ruby bar with the intended setting of the seventeenth century. "Do you know to whom this belonged?"

"No," answered the Washington girl; "but you need not unset any of those gems until I return."

The following day she returned to the jeweler, accompanied by her father, who traced the origin of many of the heirlooms from legends he had heard in his boyhood. Ancestry is a religion with that girl, and she declared that to demolish the trinkets and prizes of her forefathers would be little less than sacrilege. She carefully planned out the work herself and, to the wonder of the jewel setter, converted antique gems into modern use without in any way marring their original beauty. The grotesque earrings which our grandmothers and their mothers for generations before them wore were made into exquisite La Vallieres.

One of the most beautiful creations which the worker turned out was a necklace, of which the wearer is prouder than she would be of a dog collar of Egyptian pearls or a string of diamonds. The foundation of this necklace was an old chain formerly owned by one of the ladies in waiting to Empress Josephine. The links were square surfaced, hollow ovals, alternated with tiny imitations of coiled serpents made of a greenish gold. The clasp represented a superb piece of workmanship—two snakes coiled on a bed of roses, the flowers being exquisitely cut from coral. Pendant from this were slender golden branches made exceedingly flexible, and dropping from the end of each was a coral rosebud. In the same wealth of jewels was an ancient coral set, earrings and breastpin, also of the rose design, although they came from a fashion of nearly half a century later. There were three roses in each ring and six in the pin. These the girl with sentiment and ideas has made into twelve pendants, which were suspended from the oval links. From an old fashioned snuffbox fourteen diamonds were taken, and these were set at the drop of each pendant, thus making one of the most historic as well as most beautiful necklaces worn in Washington last winter.

The same girl converted the broken top of a continental sword—plated metal though it was—into one of the most unique lace pins, and a pair of colonial knee buckles were made to serve for the double buckles worn with a green and white gown, the emeralds showing to great advantage. A ruby studded snuffbox, with the ivory miniature of a great-grandmother upon it and opening like a purse, was transformed into a prized cardcase. A ring was attached to either end, and a small chain suspended it from a chain which two years ago would have been condemned as gaudy, but today when Dame Fashion tolerates the stringing of glass beads and metal chains around the whole corsage of a woman it attracted no comment except for its rare beauty. The chain represented one continued wreath of flowers and foliage, being secretly linked so as to be flexible. In the heart of each flower was set a jewel, violets being the favorite flower; amethysts were the prevailing stones. According to the old custom which clasped all chains over the breast, a bowknot and streamer ends with tassels bound the wreath half way to the waist line. With this exquisite ornament was worn in olden times a fan and a "scent bottle." Both of these having been almost demolished, the Washington girl utilized her heirloom both as a L'Algon purse and an empire fan chain.

Not the least remarkable of the jewels of this young society girl were her rings and bracelets. These ornaments, which she owned in quantities, but rarely wore to excess, all bore the mark of ancient setting. A large heart shaped opal, deep set and with a ruby sunk into the larger set, was perhaps the most wonderful piece of work in the collection. It was the engagement ring of the great-grandmother of its present possessor.

Pride in her family jewels was the incentive which prompted this Washington girl to preserve her ancestral relics, but she has unconsciously established the reconstruction of antique jewelry. Fortunate indeed is the ultra fashionable woman of 1902 if she possesses some treasures of the past generations.

Up to date jewelers are paying enormous prices for antique ornaments, especially those whose beauty consists chiefly in remarkable workmanship rather than the weight of the gems with which they are set. The woman who relies chiefly upon the creations of some other woman of ideas and originality is, if she had not the wealthy ancestors to bequeath them to her, seeking old fashioned ornaments in secondhand stores and pawnshops. The most exclusive and high priced jewelers in the large cities are sending out agents to procure for them the former treasures of bankrupt aristocrats. It is said that several New York and Boston firms have sent such agents to New Orleans, which promises a rich harvest of old gems.

This innovation has also brought forward the reproduction of prehistoric ornaments. A few old Egyptian pieces, too, are being copied. In one of the Washington stores is a duplicate of a famous old Egyptian bracelet. All of this work is done by hand and is of hammered gold. It is linked with jewels, and the medallions are in a relief of the sphinx, the snake and a woman's head. The work is so fine that placed beneath a microscope and enlarged ten times it is still perfect. The price for the trinket is $400. Another Egyptian eirelet is a band of emeralds and diamonds half an inch wide. This is intended to be worn high up on the arm and is meant to fit snugly. The heavy band of the Greek slave is also another fad started by a Washington girl, a student at the Corcoran gallery. It is massive looking and is made either of burnished gold or black onyx. This fad has been adopted quite extensively by the fad leaders in England. Mrs. George Cornwallis West has ordered a Greek slave bracelet to be made of blackened ivory studded with diamonds, which, it is said, will cost $3,000.

A Paris manufacturer of jewelry has admitted that for originality and ingenuity the American woman has no equal. It must now be admitted that the Washington girl has no peer.

A WORM KILLER.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Puxico, Wayne Co., Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls, who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them, the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine. White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness, 25c at H. T. Pangburn & Co.'s."

STANDS FOR RE-ELECTION

SECRETARY J. C. LOVING AND THE CATTLE RAISERS' ASSOCIATION

Improved Health Conditions and Earnest Solicitation of Members Causes Him to Reconsider a Former Announcement—Some Sample Letters

When James C. Loving, at the last meeting of the Cattle Raisers' association of Texas, announced his determination to not be a candidate for re-election as secretary at the El Paso meeting to be held next spring, the announcement was not received with expressions of sincere regret. Even then there were many to say that Mr. Loving would be appealed to to reconsider his declaration, and that prophesy has come true, as letters mailed out to the membership last Saturday will verify. Mr. Loving addressed each member of the association as follows:

"Dear Sir—At the annual meeting of the Cattle Raisers' association of Texas, in March last, I made the announcement to the members that this would be the last year I would serve the association as secretary. Since then I have been solicited by many of the members to continue with the association, rendering the same service that I have rendered for more than 25 years. Appreciating their wishes in regard to continuing my services with the association, and the further fact that my health has been fully restored and is now as good as at any time during my life, I have decided to continue my services with the association as secretary, provided the members wish me to do so. Having made the announcement, and for the reason given above changed my mind, I deem it proper to notify you by this letter.

"I am proud of the honor the members have conferred upon me from year to year by selecting me secretary of the association, and will promise that in the future as in the past I will serve them to the very best of my ability, and will appreciate beyond my power to express the honor they will confer upon me by electing me secretary at the annual meeting in March, 1903, at El Paso, Tex., at which place our next annual meeting will be held. Hoping to hear from you, I am yours very truly, J. C. LOVING."

Speaking to a Telegram reporter today of his decision Mr. Loving said for some months prior to and to the last meeting his health had been very poor, and he attributed it to the close office work to which he had been subjected, and made the announcement over the protests of those to whom he had confided his intention. Following the announcement there were many who came to him and declared that they would not "stand for" his resignation. However, he determined to quit the position as an act of justice to his health and to his family and dear ones. Soon after the convention his health began to improve, and he has stood the summer so far with remarkable satisfaction to himself, and feels as good as at any time during the past several years. This fact, with the continued appeals from the membership to continue in the office, caused him to change his mind and influenced the above letter.

Since mailing out the letters last Saturday he has received no less than 75 responses, all expressing gratification at his determination to stand for re-election. Many of them read after this fashion: "I am for you against the field." "I would be for you, even though my brother were in the race." "I would go all the way to El Paso if for no other purpose than to vote for you for secretary." "I would have voted for you whether you ran or not." "Count me for Jim Loving above all others," and many other similar expressions.

Mr. Loving has been secretary constantly since the formation of the organization 26 years ago, and his decision to continue in the service meets the approval of all.

H. M. Gray in County Jail to Answer Indictment on Serious Charge, That of Bigamy

Chief Deputy Brock from Sheriff Clark's office returned this morning from Wichita, Kas., having in charge H. M. Gray, arrested in Wichita and wanted here on a bigamy charge. Gray, it appears, has more than two living wives, one of whom he wedded in Fort Worth some months ago, and for which he stands indicted in the district court.

The information is given out from the county attorney's office that Gray admits his wrong doing and says he is ready to enter a plea of guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court. He will no doubt have an opportunity to do so at the September term. He was locked up pending further investigation.

The Fort Worth wife is now in Kansas City. The police officers here were responsible for Gray's apprehension. Chief Rea having some weeks ago received a letter from a wife of Gray, who was at that time at Little Rock, and later at Hume, Mo.

FORT WORTH THE VICTOR

A DEFEAT FOR CORSICANA IN HILLSBORO

Paris Takes the Game from Dallas, But the Town Furnishes no Audience—Series Transferred to Dallas

The Fort Worth league team defeated the combination from Corsicana in Hillsboro yesterday afternoon. The score being Fort Worth 15 and Corsicana 6.

The occasion for the game in Hillsboro was the log rolling of the Woodmen of the World. Jarvis who pitched for the Panthers seemed to be in excellent form, and for a period during the game could not be touched. Fort Worth's players, however, found the Corsicana pitcher at will.

In the league game between Paris and Dallas in Paris yesterday, the former were successful, in a score of 6 to 3. On account of the light attendance the remainder of the series has been transferred from Paris to Dallas.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE

BAPTISTS BEGIN SERIES OF REVIVAL MEETINGS WHICH WILL LAST SIX WEEKS

A series of evangelistic meetings to last six weeks, closing with revival services conducted by a prominent evangelist of the South is the purpose of the members of the Baptist church. The church has three missions and the plan is to hold evening services for two weeks at each of these missions, ending at the Baptist church.

Services were begun Monday evening by the Rev. Luther Little and the Rev. R. B. Morgan at Trinity Mission, about four blocks south of the old water works. The services will continue there two weeks and will then be transferred to one of the other missions. The meetings at Trinity are being held in a tent and are very interesting. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The board of deacons of the Baptist church has authorized the pastor, Rev. Mr. Little, to perfect the plans for the campaign and invite the man who will do the closing work. The people of the church are in entire sympathy with the movement and they expect to make it the most important in the history of the church. The services begin each night at 8:15 o'clock and are made attractive by good music.

STATE MILLERS DISCUSS RATES
Differential on Flour the Topic of their Meeting Here Yesterday

At a special meeting of the Miller's association of the state, held here yesterday, the principal topic of discussion was the request of Kansas and Missouri millers for the removal of the differential of 5c per 100 on flour. They want the same rate on flour as on wheat, by the removal of the 5c differential in favor of the latter. The interstate commerce commission has twice refused this request and the members of the Miller's association are of the opinion that to grant it, would be unfair to Texas millers.

TREE PLANTING
It is too early to plant trees now, but a good time to decide upon what to plant. We grow our own trees and can deliver them and plant them a few hours after being dug. These are far superior to trees shipped from a distance which have been out of the ground several days or weeks. Call at our nursery at Riverside and pick out the trees or leave word at our store, 415 Houston street, and we will call and make estimate on the job. If our trees do not grow you know where to find us. BAKER BROS.

PLEASANT FOOD
The Kind That Brings Health to Old Age

When people have ruined health by the use of improper food, and then change to the right kind and get well, they feel like shouting it from the house tops.

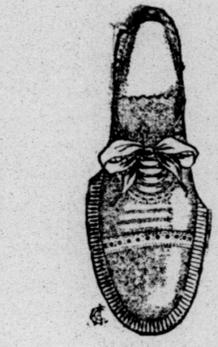

"I wish I had power to tell every fellow being who is suffering, the story of my deliverance and persuade them to avail themselves of the same means that I used," says a lady of North Cuba, N. Y. "I am 61 years old. From earliest girlhood it has seemed imperative during the waking hours for me to be constantly at work. In the getting up of my meals, the paramount consideration was pleasing the appetite rather than the preservation of health.

"As was to be expected, years of toil and careless living resulted in the gradual 'break down' of my whole system; I did not realize it until three years ago, when I was such a wreck, mentally and physically, that life was a burden. I had frequent attacks of severe headaches, accompanied by nausea terrible to endure, sluggish liver and kidneys, circulation weak, appetite gone, digestion seriously impaired; I was on the verge of total nervous prostration, and my condition seemed hopeless.

"A friend, who had suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion, told me of the great benefits she had received from Grape-Nuts, and I decided to try the food, and I am thankful for the impulse that led me to do it. I began by using three teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts softened in milk three times a day. In a week, I was conscious of renewed vigor. My aches and pains lessened; the nervousness disappeared; the fog that had enveloped my brain and obscured my memory was lifted and in place of restless wakefulness, came refreshing sleep.

"I continued to improve until at the end of three weeks, I could add to my breakfast and supper a baked potato or a dish of some kind of fruit, and ate more hearty food at the mid-day meal. I have had no relapse; my recovery of health is of constant surprise and unbounded thankfulness to me and mine. I have not found the fountain of eternal youth, but I have found something that so nourishes and strengthens my vitality, that I can endure as great an amount of fatiguing labor, and accomplish as much as any woman of my age can reasonably expect."
