WELL KNOWN ATTORNEY DEAD
FOSTER ROSE OF GALVESTON VICTIM IN NEW YORK

Rallied From An Operation and Developed Typhoid Fever—Body Will Be Brought to Texas

New York, Aug. 22.—Foster Rose of Galveston, Texas, is dead at a hospital here. Mr. Rose, who was one of the leading lawyers in the southwest came north six weeks ago with his wife and child. A few days later he became ill and an operation was performed for appendicitis. He rallied from the shock, but typhoid fever developed and on Wednesday he was taken to a hospital.

Mrs. Rose will take her husband's body to Galveston.

VENEZUELA SITUATION

Minister Bowen Cables That He Can Spare Two War Vessels
Washington, Aug. 22.—The state department has received a cablegram from Minister Bowen at Caracas saying he could spare two of the war vessels now in Venezuelan waters. This information is taken to mean that the situation in Venezuela is improved so far that but little danger now threatens American interests there.

ROOFS NOW BEING PLACED

PART OF THE ROOFING WILL BE COMPLETED THIS WEEK—BEGIN ON REFRIGERATOR MONDAY

Contractors Well Along on Second Row of Buildings—Blasting Rock Out of Basement of New Exchange—More Office Rooms Rented

Good progress is being made on the Armour plant. The roofers are actively at work and will have the roof cooler covered this week and be ready to begin on the freezer building on Monday. These are the first roofs to be laid on the new buildings now going up. The first row of Armour & Co.'s buildings will be roofed by the end of next week.

Work is progressing rapidly also on the second row of Armour's buildings. Foundations are being put in for the fertilizer building, and construction has begun on the drives for cattle, hogs and sheep.

Concrete foundations are now being laid for the new exchange building. In excavating for the basement a ledge of solid rock has been struck which is delaying the work some. Blasting is in progress and the reverberations of the charges show the industry expended.

Swift & Co. received six cars of lumber and fire of sawdust this morning. Rooms Nos. 201 and 202 in the new exchange building were rented yesterday to the Drum-Plato Commission company of St. Louis. This makes 13 of the 25 rooms reserved for commission company offices that have been contracted for.

UNDER FIRE ALL NIGHT

Washery Men Walked Out This Morning After Being Besieged Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 22.—The Butler washery and the Dodge colliery, in which operations had recently been resumed, were closed today by striking miners. At Butler the washery men marched out in a body. It is asserted by the men that all through the night last night strikers hid in ambush kept up a continuous fire on the washery and the shed in which they slept.

SUPPLIES FOR CANAL

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE ESTIMATES AMOUNT AT $10,000,000.

LUMBER FROM OREGON

LARGE AMOUNT OF CEMENT, GRANITE AND MACHINERY IS ALSO NECESSARY

SHIPPING IS A PROBLEM

Communications Reach Washington With View of Confining Transportation to American Crafts—Six Mile Zone in Central District

New York, Aug. 22.—Referring to the fact that the construction of the Panama canal will necessitate the transportation of hundreds of cargoes of construction material, food, supplies for workmen, etc., the Journal of Commerce adds:

"Panama and Colon are foreign ports, and there is nothing, therefore, to prevent foreign ship owners from competing at low rates for carrying material. It is said by a representative of the Panama canal interests that the material required in the construction of the canal will certainly exceed $10,000,000 in addition to food supplies. This material will consist very largely of cement, granite, lumber and machinery. The lumber will undoubtedly come largely from Oregon and that section of the country and will not be a matter of much concern to ship owners on the Atlantic ocean, but in the case of cement, stone and machinery the items will be of great importance and communications have already been sent to the government at Washington with a view to seeing if some way cannot be decided upon whereby this enormous carrying movement may be confined to American ships.

"It is proposed that a construction of the coastwise law could be made declaring the six-mile zone on either side of the canal to be American territory, and this would convert Panama and Colon into domestic ports. This zone, under the treaty with Colombia, is merely leased to the United States as Colombia does not relinquish her sovereignty, and some doubt is expressed whether the government could, therefore, assume the ports of Panama and Colon without incurring international complications. Under the bill as passed by congress no restriction of the carrying trade to American vessels can be made, and American ship owners claim that they will not be able to meet the competition of foreign vessels in this trade for the reason that a large number of fruit vessels are available for the service—largely Norwegian vessels, which bring fruit north and have virtually no southbound cargo. These vessels would naturally be able to carry southbound cargo at much lower rates than could American vessels which must make their entire expenses on such southbound cargo and return north practically in ballast."

"Panama and Colon are foreign ports, and there is nothing, therefore, to prevent foreign ship owners from competing at low rates for carrying material. It is said by a representative of the Panama canal interests that the material required in the construction of the canal will certainly exceed $10,000,000 in addition to food supplies. FORT WORTH STOCK YARDS

DOWNWARD TENDENCY OF CATTLE THE PAST FEW DAYS CHECKED—HOGS HIGHER

Receipts Fairly Good—Cattle en Route to Indian Territory Pastures—Ready Sale for Good Quality Hogs

The receipts at the Fort Worth stock yards were about as usual this morning. The market was steady on cattle, the downward trend of the past few days being checked. The hog market was strong and 10c higher. Offerings were of fair quality and brought good prices, finding ready sales.

The northern markets are stronger and some higher today. One car load of fancy hogs brought $7.60; tops are quoted at $7.50.

At the Fort Worth yards last night were 22 cars of cattle in over the Frisco from San Angelo consigned to the Valverde Land and Cattle company at "Sliding No. 30," in the Indian Territory where they will be put on pasture.

J. Manley of Abilene had 50 head of cattle shipped in from Belleville. L. English of Lufkin, English Saterwhite of Ridgeway, R. E. Crocker & Son of Prospect and H. P. Hendricks of Rogers, also had cattle and hogs shipped to this market this morning.

Farmer & Co., A. D. Logan, R. T. Rose and M. B. Allen had driven-in cattle on today's market.

Four hogs were marketed today from the poor farm averaging 238 pounds.

H. E. Alken, W. G. Miller, T. M. Judge, J. H. Stokes, H. G. Hendricks, R. E. Crowder, E. H. Farrell and B. Allen sold wagon hogs on the market this morning.

A patent just issued to Peder Oluf Pederson of Copenhagen covers a method of using the telegraphone in such a way as to record a number of messages on a single steel strip and to reproduce each message without interference from the others.

The telegraphone is the invention of a Danish electrical engineer, Valdemar Poulsen, and is, as the name implies, a combination of the telegraph, telephone and the graphophone or phonograph. By the use of this device a telephone or telegraph conversation can be recorded on a steel wire or tape and reproduced at any time and as often as desired without the record deteriorating.

In this apparatus a steel wire or a steel band is moved by any suitable means with considerable velocity between the poles of a small electro magnet. On speaking into a telephone transmitter joined on the circuit the undulatory currents set up in the transmitter react upon the electro magnet and cause a continuous variation in the direction and in the degree of magnetism at the poles of the electro magnet.

These variations are permanently recorded on the steel wire as it rushes by, and when the message is complete the steel wire retains a definite record of what has taken place in the shape of continuous series of transverse magnetized lines, varying throughout in their polarity and in their strength. On connecting a telephone receiver to the electro magnet and again starting the wire on its course, says the Telegraph Age, this magnetized wire generates electric currents in the coils of the superimposed magnet as it passes between its poles, and these electric currents, which are the exact counterparts of those generated by the original voice, caused the telephone to repeat what was said in an almost absolutely perfect manner.

Mrs. William Smith of New Market Computes Jewels Worth $100,000, Which Are to Be Divided Among the Children

New York, Aug. 22.—When shown a copy of the San Francisco dispatch and the details of Mrs. Charles L. Fair's will, Mrs. William Smith of Newmarket, a sister-in-law of the dead woman, verified the report, and declared that a duplicate of the alleged will was in the possession of Mrs. Hannah Nelson, the mother, at the time she left for the west, but that she had secreted it from the public.

In an interview Mrs. Smith said: "The report of the will is not complete. All my sister-in-law's jewels were left to her mother, and they are worth $100,000. No, those jewels are not given to her absolutely. They are left with an understanding that she is to divide them among the children, but I would not have any use for diamonds, and I don't think any of the rest of them would."

EXPLODING LAMP STARTS FIERCE FIRE

Families Made Homeless by Blaze Which Threatened to Consume the Neighborhood

The explosion of a lamp at the home of S. M. Mayton, a railroad man, at 1011 East Bluff street, started a fire which destroyed the house, one occupied by J. M. Thomas and family, and for a time threatened a conflagration which would wipe out the neighborhood. Charles T. Prewett owned the burned houses on which there was $500 insurance. There was no insurance on the household goods.

Alone in the house with her sick child, Mrs. Mayton had risen at about 10 o'clock to get some medicine. While preparing it the lamp exploded, the flames bursting in all directions. Rushing to the room where the child lay, she carried it out of the house in time to save it. After a hard run the fire department reached the place to find not only the Mayton home, but those of J. M. Thomas and R. L. Rogers, a half block away, and one to the rear of the Mayton home, all on fire. The last three houses were saved as were the household goods of J. M. Thomas.

Everything in the Mayton home was destroyed, including $25 in greenbacks which represented the savings. Any one desiring to contribute either clothing or money to relieve Mrs. Mayton and child, the same will be received at Rodgers' grocery store on East Belknap street. Mr. Mayton is in railroad service and away from home.

Keep the body healthy at this season by using PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. It is a necessary condition to successfully resist malarial germs.

Charged With Robbery
Lake Charles, La., Aug. 21.—Kid Humphreys was arrested at Beaumont and lodged in jail here, charged with participating in the robbery of the safe at the Southern Pacific freight depot here a month ago. The safe was blown to pieces and $200 secured.

GRAND BALLOON ASCENSION TONIGHT

AT THE STOCK YARDS INN BY MOONLIGHT

Prof. Haley's Thirty-Eight Footer to Ascend—Parachute Drop—Dancing and Concert Follows

Six or seven years have passed since the citizens of Fort Worth have witnessed a balloon ascension and never has a like spectacle been called off by moonlight.

The management of the Stock Yards Inn has secured Prof. Haley's 38-foot balloon and under his supervision tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock will launch this monster from which at a height of 5000 feet the Professor will leap from basket to the ground in his parachute.

A display of fire works will accompany the balloon in its ascension. Preceding this spectacle a veranda musical concert will entertain the visitors on the hotel veranda pending the flight of the balloon, after which the pavilion will be opened for dancing, continuing until the last car leaves at 1:30 a. m.

The management anticipates an attendance of several thousand and suggests to those seeking comfort in the ride out, that they take the stock yards cars early to avoid the rush and crowd between 8 and 9 o'clock. Entrance free. All cordially invited.

New York, Aug. 22.—When shown a copy of the San Francisco dispatch and the details of Mrs. Charles L. Fair's will, Mrs. William Smith of Newmarket, a sister-in-law of the dead woman, verified the report, and declared that a duplicate of the alleged will was in the possession of Mrs. Hannah Nelson, the mother, at the time she left for the west, but that she had secreted it from the public.

In an interview Mrs. Smith said: "The report of the will is not complete. All my sister-in-law's jewels were left to her mother, and they are worth $100,000. No, those jewels are not given to her absolutely. They are left with an understanding that she is to divide them among the children, but I would not have any use for diamonds, and I don't think any of the rest of them would."

EXPLODING LAMP STARTS FIERCE FIRE

Families Made Homeless by Blaze Which Threatened to Consume the Neighborhood

The explosion of a lamp at the home of S. M. Mayton, a railroad man, at 1011 East Bluff street, started a fire which destroyed the house, one occupied by J. M. Thomas and family, and for a time threatened a conflagration which would wipe out the neighborhood. Charles T. Prewett owned the burned houses on which there was $500 insurance. There was no insurance on the household goods.

Alone in the house with her sick child, Mrs. Mayton had risen at about 10 o'clock to get some medicine. While preparing it the lamp exploded, the flames bursting in all directions. Rushing to the room where the child lay, she carried it out of the house in time to save it. After a hard run the fire department reached the place to find not only the Mayton home, but those of J. M. Thomas and R. L. Rogers, a half block away, and one to the rear of the Mayton home, all on fire. The last three houses were saved as were the household goods of J. M. Thomas.

Everything in the Mayton home was destroyed, including $25 in greenbacks which represented the savings. Any one desiring to contribute either clothing or money to relieve Mrs. Mayton and child, the same will be received at Rodgers' grocery store on East Belknap street. Mr. Mayton is in railroad service and away from home.

AT THE STOCK YARDS INN BY MOONLIGHT

Prof. Haley's Thirty-Eight Footer to Ascend—Parachute Drop—Dancing and Concert Follows

Six or seven years have passed since the citizens of Fort Worth have witnessed a balloon ascension and never has a like spectacle been called off by moonlight.

The management of the Stock Yards Inn has secured Prof. Haley's 38-foot balloon and under his supervision tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock will launch this monster from which at a height of 5000 feet the Professor will leap from basket to the ground in his parachute.

A display of fire works will accompany the balloon in its ascension. Preceding this spectacle a veranda musical concert will entertain the visitors on the hotel veranda pending the flight of the balloon, after which the pavilion will be opened for dancing, continuing until the last car leaves at 1:30 a. m.

The management anticipates an attendance of several thousand and suggests to those seeking comfort in the ride out, that they take the stock yards cars early to avoid the rush and crowd between 8 and 9 o'clock. Entrance free. All cordially invited.

Literary Fame and the Folly of Striving For It

By BOOTH TARKINGTON, Novelist

HAT IS COMMONLY KNOWN AS FAME IS NOT FAME AT ALL, BUT DANGEROUSLY NEAR NOTORIETY. THE CONSOLATION IS THAT IT DOES NOT LAST LONG.

Only three or four writers living are actually famous. Politicians and soldiers are really famous. I fancy it is rather a burden to them.

After all, fame is not very much fun. How could it be unless the famed one were a very great egoist? Most poets must have been beautiful egoists. They were always crying up the love of fame. There could be no more vulgar desire for in the last analysis it is merely the love of conspicuousness. No really sane person cares to be conspicuous or is even willing to be conspicuous.

MUCH OF THAT WHICH IS CALLED LITERARY FAME IS PURELY EPHEMERAL. A NOVEL IS TALKED ABOUT BY SOME PEOPLE—NOT A GREAT MANY, EVEN IF THE BOOK IS POPULAR—FOR A LITTLE WHILE, PERHAPS THREE MONTHS. The author is talked about with his novel. Then, if he writes other books, he may be talked about a little again, unless his book is one of the three or four of a century that are really worth while.

Why America and Japan Should Co-operate

By Dr. M. ICHIHARA, Manager of the Yokohama Branch of the First Bank of Japan

WE HEAR A GREAT DEAL ABOUT THE AMERICAN INVASION OF EUROPE. I WOULD LIKE TO HEAR MORE ABOUT THE AMERICAN INVASION OF THE ORIENT.

Unusual opportunity exists for American and Japanese financiers to join in such an undertaking, for we have knowledge of the eastern mind and you possess the requisite push and capital to insure success. Given such a union of forces and nothing could hinder our progress. The ties of mutual regard between the two nations are very strong and offer an excellent basis for that co-operation which is essential to such an undertaking. A vast field lies before us. Think of what we could do. The opportunities in China alone are very great, and the resources of Korea are well known. Japan, too, offers boundless opportunities for the safe employment of American capital, and working together, the Americans and Japanese could reap large profits in the far east.

AFTER ALL, WE ARE NOT SO VERY FAR APART FROM ONE ANOTHER AND HAVE MANY COMMON INTERESTS THAT COULD BE SUBSERVED BY A UNION OF COMMERCIAL FORCES IN THE INTERESTS OF DEVELOPING A VERY RICH PORTION OF THE WORLD. AND THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN ARE THE NATIONS TO DO IT.

TRUSTS ARE A MENACE

RUSSELL SAGE SAYS WILL EVENTUALLY RESULT IN RUIN

He Predicts the American People Will Revolt Against Them and That Financial Troubles Will Soon Follow in the Wake

New York, Aug. 22.—Russell Sage in an interview here referred to a published statement quoting J. P. Morgan as saying that the era of trust has just begun and that more gigantic corporations are stored in the near future, some of which may overshadow the steel trust.

Whether Mr. Morgan said that or not, combinations of all industries are a menace to true government. Not only so, but they are the oppressors of the people.

In such an event the American people will revolt against them and there will be financial ruin the like of which this country or any other has never seen.

It was suggested to Mr. Sage that there was a general opinion that the combinations at certain times were good things for the country.

"Yes," Mr. Sage replied, "when several are starting out in business it is well for individuals to combine for mutual protection until the business is firmly established. When the business is so established the combination should be dissolved and conducted on individual lines. Then if one individual became embarrassed it would not mean the wrecking of the whole industry. I believe it is best to have several industries divided among several individuals than combined into one great combination the embarrassment of which would mean the ruin of all."

Chambers Lands Purchased.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 22.—F. D. Folk and associates of this city have closed a deal for 23,240 acres of cypress land on the Peecos river in Peecos county. It is said that some eastern capitalists are interested in the deal and it is probable that extensive plans will be matured soon for the development of these lands. The consideration in the transaction has not been made public.

Held for the Murders.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The coroner's jury at the inquest over the body of Mrs. Anna Bartholin brought in a verdict recommending that her son, William Bartholin, be arrested and held principal for her murder and that Oscar Thompson and Edward Counselman, who are under arrest accused of complicity in the murder of Minnie Mitchell, be held to the grand jury as accessories to the crime.

SEATTLE WON.

The Next Transmississippi Congress Will Be Held There.

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—Seattle has been selected as the city in which will be held the next session of the Transmississippi congress in 1903. New Orleans was the only other candidate for the honor of entertaining the congress.

The feature of Thursday's session was the animated discussion of the resolution introduced by William Henry Eustis of Minneapolis, demanding that the address of F. B. Thurber of New York, which Mr. Eustis' resolution declared was a specious plea in behalf of the so-called beef trust, be eliminated from the records of the congress. Mr. Eustis argued that the printed proceedings of the congress should not be made the vehicle for disseminating literature of this class, which he asserted did not represent the views of the majority of the delegates. A number of other delegates warmly opposed him. Those opposed took the ground that Mr. Thurber, having been invited to address the congress was entitled as a matter of courtesy to have his remarks embodied in the printed proceedings. After much discussion, which at times became personal, Mr. Eustis withdrew the resolution.

The congress adopted resolutions favoring the admission as states of Arizona, Oklahoma and Indian Territory; favoring a nine-foot channel in the Mississippi from the Missouri river to the mouth of the Ohio; declaring for an improved merchant marine, whereby American products may be carried in American ships; endorsing the good roads movement; favoring the establishment of a department of commerce, whose head shall be a member of the president's cabinet, and demanding an improvement in the foreign consular service.

CORN SHORTS SQUEEZED.

Holders Refuse to Sell and September Contracts Cannot Be Filled.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Shorts in the corn pit were squeezed badly Thursday and raised a tumult that closely resembled the recent scrimmages when John W. Gates and his clique of bulls had July corn cornered. The action in the pit was largely the result of earlier manipulations. When the Gates crowd was pushing prices skyward the farmer took a hand in the business by sweeping his bins clean of corn and flooding the market with millions of bushels. As a result the corner collapsed and prices fell heading until September corn recently sold at 50c. From rampant bulls the crowd had turned bears to a man and sold short many bushels. Now the corn to fill September contracts is not in sight. The bad weather has retarded the maturing of corn crops until there has been talk that crops may not be harvested until hurt by frosts. Under such conditions shorts want to cover their contracts, but holders of the grain are loth to sell.

CASE WILL BE DROPPED.

Change of Venue in Hargis Murder Case to Be Abandoned.

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 22.—Special Judge Ira Julian, after hearing evidence for two days, decided to grant a change of venue in the case of Tom Cockrill, charged with the murder of Ben Hargis in Breathitt county. The case will be transferred to Compton, Wolfe county. In rendering his decision Judge Julian denounced assassination in the strongest terms, but stated that he believed from the evidence submitted, that conditions had been exaggerated in Breathitt county. County Judge Hargis strongly objected to the action of the court, and asked the commonwealth's attorney to dismiss the case, declaring that he and his friends would not prosecute it in Wolfe county; that they would have to go there armed, and that such action would be additional cause for a feud in that county.

DALLAS TAKES YESTERDAY'S GAME IN SCORE OF 8 TO 12

Corsicana Gets Vicious Revenge From Paris for the Drubbing It Was Given Day Before

And another!

Dallas succeeded in showing the Panthers how to play base ball again yesterday, the contest being theirs in a score of 8 to 2. Clark, the Dallas pitcher, who had been suspended, was restored to standing yesterday and handled the ball well for his team. The pair of runs Fort Worth succeeded in getting were earned in the sixth inning. Score and summary: Dallas.....1 0 1 1 1 3 1 0 x-8 Ft. Worth.....0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0-2 Earned runs, Dallas 2, Fort Worth 2; two base hits, Berry, Flaherty, Wolfe; stolen bases, France, 2, Coyne and Berry; sacrifice hits, Curtis, Nickell and Cartwright; double plays, Spencer to Schalzler, Cartwright to White to O'Donnell; bases on balls, off Clark 3, off Jarvis 2, off Wolfe 1; hit by pitched balls, Curtis, Flaherty, O'Donnell; struck out, by Clark 3, by Jarvis 2; first base on errors, Dallas 2; left on bases, Dallas 5, Fort Worth 7; passed balls, O'Donnell; wild pitches, Jarvis. Corsicana Took Revenge

Revenge seemed to have been the watchword of Corsicana in its game with Paris yesterday and the loss of the day before was well retrieved. The champions didn't give Paris a score, but took the game at 3 to 0.

Fort Worth Is Home

Fort Worth came home from Dallas last night, and will be here for three games with Corsicana. For the Sunday game the Houston and Texas Central will bring an excursion from the visitors' town.

Counterfeit $5.00 Bills

The secret service has discovered that some one is raising $1 bills to $5 by a clever method of changing the figures, and unless they are closely examined will pass unnoticed. It has also been discovered that many unscrupulous dealers are refilling the bottles of the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and offering them to the public as the genuine. These imitations have no merit and are so dangerous to your health that in order to protect the public, the proprietors of this famous medicine have adopted a Private Stamp which is placed over the neck of each bottle. Please observe that the stamp is unbroken when purchasing. The bitters is a specific remedy for such ailments as flatulency, indigestion, belching, nervousness, dyspepsia and liver and kidney troubles. Try it.

Mayor's Proclamation

Whereas, by law of congress and the legislature of the state of Texas, the first day of September of each and every year is set apart as a legal holiday, in recognition of the dignity, worth and respect due the laboring classes of our great country, and, whereas, labor is one of the most important factors of the wealth, progress and civilization of this country, it is befitting that our city should duly acknowledge our respect to these people, as we can show to the world more monuments of progress due to their zeal and energy than any other city in Texas. Therefore, I, T. J. Powell, mayor of the city of Fort Worth, Texas, do hereby call upon our citizens to close their places of business on the first day of September, 1902, first out of respect due the laboring people, second in order that all our people may partake of the festivities and pleasures of that day.

Given under my hand and seal of office this 20th day of August, 1902.

MISSISSIPPI SHOOTING.

One White Man and a Negro Wounded Near Tupelo.

Tupelo, Miss., Aug. 22.—A telegram was received here Thursday by Sheriff Long from Deputy Sheriff San Young from Shannon, asking that the sheriff come immediately to that place. A report was current here that three negroes had been killed and that James Randolph, one of the best citizens of the county who had assisted in the arrest of the negroes, had been shot through the head and shoulder.

The origin of the difficulty grew out of the stealing of some corn out of the field of the Eubanks, three miles west of Shannon, by a negro named Davenport, who was caught in the act and made to pour the corn out of his sack. The following night the Eubanks went to the field to look out for thieves and on returning they were fired upon by a squad of negroes who were lined up alongside the road. None of the shots took effect. Then Randolph, Rogers and Barnett were deputized to arrested those implicated in the shooting and followed three negroes into Chickasaw county. The negroes barricaded themselves in a barn armed with shot guns. When they refused to open the door or come out, the door was broken in and Randolph struck a match when the negroes immediately opened fire on him hitting him in the head and shoulder. The negroes ran out and one of them was struck by shots fired at them in the darkness.

It is reported from the vicinity that three negroes have been killed, but reports are so conflicting and it is impossible to ascertain the facts. Deputies brought to Tupelo jail Thursday night eight negroes who were arrested at Shannon and reports everything quiet there.

HORRIBLE DEED.

A Demented Indian Chops the Head Off Another Choctaw.

Paris, Tex., Aug. 22.—Last week a Choctaw Indian from Blue county, who was out hunting a missing horse, rode up to the hut of another Choctaw in Cedar county, on Little river, and made inquiry about the missing animal. The Indian addressed, who was sitting in front of the house, arose and went out to the fence. He seized an ax and made an assault on the visitor, chopping him off his pony. After he fell to the ground the assailant continued the assault and covered the head from the body. The other members of the family, who were spectators of the horrible deed, fled from the scene. Returning half an hour later, they found the murderer sitting down by the headless corpse, fanning the flies off and keeping the chickens and hogs away. When he saw them coming he ran away. They went in search of him and found a portion of his clothing, of which he had divested himself. Following the trail down to a creek, they found his dead body in two feet of water, where he had drowned himself.

Both of the Indians were fullbloods, and their names were not learned. The one who committed the murder and suicide was struck on the head about three years ago while playing ball. He had never been in his right mind since, and had occasional fits, but was never considered dangerous before.

AN OUTDOOR ROOM.

How a Comfortable Hot Weather Apartment May Be Made.

A summer room is a great comfort during August and September. It may be erected in the midst of a splendid garden or in a city back yard—it makes no difference.

In the first place, four poles or pieces of scantling are fixed in the ground where the room corners are to be. The tops of these are connected by four other pieces of wood, which should be screwed in position so at the end of the summer the structure may be taken to pieces. This is all the woodwork required. Indian or Chinese matting is used to cover the frame. This is lined on the inner side with plain colored cambric, preferably green. The matting is secured to the framework by tapes, so that if desired the sides may be raised or lowered. A pole is placed in the center of the room in order to raise the roof that the rain may run off easily. The wall matting at its lower edge is tied to pegs driven into the ground.

Now, as to the furnishing, the entrance may be hidden by a drapery on a bamboo rod. Folds of cheap figured cretonne will hide the inner framework. The floor should be the natural grass. Two or three lounging chairs and a table are all the furniture necessary. Those are of bamboo or wicker. A hammock is a great comfort, but as it is not safe to swing it from the room posts it should be secured to a portable support consisting of two A shaped pieces joined together by two crosspieces one above the other. The highest crosspiece is secured to the apex of the two A's, and the lower has its ends secured to the centers of the crossbars of the A shaped pieces.

COOKING FOR THE SICK.

How to Tempt the Capricious Appetites of Convalescents. Cooking for the sick ought to be taught as a special art, for much depends upon it. The slightest thing will "set" a sick person against food, to say nothing of the injury done to the delicate stomach by food hastily and crudely prepared.

In the first place, let me give a word of advice: Don't place too much food at one time before a person who is ill. Serve in grudging quantities and in the daintiest manner in order that the appetite may be aroused. More than one convalescence has been retarded through the patient being swamped with food which she had not the courage even to attempt to eat.

Only the freshest and best of every thing should be used—the purest filtered water, the reddest, soundest beef, the most perfectly ripe fruit.

Nothing should be used after it has been left standing any length of time, and no food should ever be left in the sickroom. Always keep food and drink for the sick in china, never in metal, not even in silver. A napkin over a saucer makes an air tight cover.

Milk used instead of water for poaching an egg for an invalid will impart a delicate flavor.

Wine when makes an excellent dish. Take three ounces of sherry wine and half a cup of milk. Skild the milk, add the wine and remove quickly from the fire. Put on ice until cold and sweeten to taste.

LIGHT IN DARK AFRICA.

Electrical Plant Will Be Erected on the Zambezi.

BOHEME OF PROF. GEORGE FORBES

Cape to Cairo Railroad to Be Illuminated and Electrified by Force Furnished by the Great Cataract in the African River—Part Played by Americans.

Over in London the Africa trust and the Chartered company have joined forces and are about to invest $5,000,000 in installing their plant beside the waters of the Zambezi, where hitherto the inhabitants of the jungle have held undisputed sway, says the Chicago Evening Post. Wild Africa of the explorer will soon be a thing of the past. The sinuous Cape to Cairo railroad, the dream of Cecil Rhodes, is surely making both ends meet, and when this is accomplished darkest Africa will be no more. A commission of electrical engineers, taking the report of Sir Charles Metcalf, who as one of the most reliable engineers of the times gave a favorable opinion on the feasibility of "harnessing" the stupendous volume of water that flows over Victoria falls, is getting ready to leave England. As soon as machinery arrives on the coast it will be transported to the falls and the work will begin. This, however, cannot be done until the Cape to Cairo railway is built to the cataract. The line is now laid forty miles north of Bulawayo, but the falls lie 275 miles farther on, and probably that distance will not be covered much before another twelve months have passed.

The men who are to build the power plant at the Victoria falls probably will have as many close calls from wild beasts as those who have been working on the Cape to Cairo railroad and telegraph line have had, but they are not likely to have any trouble with the natives.

Two or three American engineers are interested in the project and have connected themselves with the party now making ready in London. The year before the machinery may arrive is not too long in which to take preliminary steps. The jungle has many obstructions peculiar to itself, and the fore-runners of working gangs will have their hands full spying out the land and discussing whys and wherefores and ways and means. The native tribes inhabiting the adjacent territory look upon the mighty cataract as a god. They pray to it and offer up burnt sacrifices for its propitiation. These devotees must be conciliated, living quarters and hospital accommodations built and a vast amount of detail gone into for feeding and caring for the workmen, as well as technical

A New Hat Trunk.

A separate hat trunk is considered a necessity if three or more dainty hats are required. These hat trunks in their latest form are about the size of a big hat box in which the milliner sends a hat home, says the New York Evening Journal. The floor, lid and each of the four sides are fitted with a detachable frame, to which the hat is adjusted by a hatpin in the same manner as when put on the head. These frames may be removed from the trunk and the empty trunk used as an ordinary packing trunk for a visit for a few days.

Up to Date Umbrellas.

Umbrellas to match the gown are in great demand, and manufacturers are producing many blue, brown and green umbrellas as well as the ever popular blacks, says the Philadelphia Press. The handles receive much attention. Some natural woods are seen, but silver, gold, gun metal, ivory and pearl are combined in the more elaborate designs. Silver and pearl handles have about the first claim on feminine fancy and are very dainty.

A Woman at the Feet of Jesus

"For She Loved Much" A DAILY CHAPTER FROM THE BIBLE.

ND, behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment.

And stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him; for she is a sinner.

And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty.

And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him more?

Simon answered and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most, and he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet; but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my head with ointment.

Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven. And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace. —Luke 7; 37-50.

"Where did you come from?" asked the gatekeeper. "From New Jersey," replied the man.

"The story is probably correct," replied Mr. Wakelee blandly. "That was before the Republicans got control of New Jersey."

As Yale had met with a disastrous defeat, the subject might be called unpleasant. Without hesitation President Hadley said:

"There was a boy living in a village whose uncle died. The next day a man driving along the road was surprised to find the boy working in a field. Thinking this did not show proper respect to the dead uncle, he called the lad to him and said: 'Johnny, didn't you know your uncle was dead?'"

MID-SUMMER NUMBER OF "THE BOHEMIAN"

A Magazine That Reflects Credit Upon a Fort Worth Woman, Its Publisher and Manager, Mrs. Henri C. L. Gorman

The mid-summer number of "The Bohemian" has just merged from the press, and its bustling publisher and manager, Mrs. Henri C. L. Gorman is bestirring herself in getting the edition before the public.

A delay occasioned by efforts to secure cuts and illustrations has caused her much concern, but this delay has not militated against the superior quality of the contents.

Volume 3 No. 4 of "The Bohemian" excels all previous efforts in every particular, which suggestion is not intended to detract from former issues.

The mid-summer number teems with excellent contributions, a selection of which would do credit to the older established magazines, including jottings, a portrait gallery, historical gleanings, pages with the poets, facts and fiction, past and present of Texas, music, ancient and modern, fraternity, temperance and Bible stories, international society, in the dining room, club women's work in Texas, etchings, essays, our boys and girls treasury, book table, by-ways of Bohemia.

The illustrations are particularly noteworthy, and the typography throughout is excellent.

"The Little Woman with the Big Hat" is to be congratulated for the mid-summer number, as also are the members of the "Literary Club in Bohemia."

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED. At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Carter, prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour.

Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by N. E. Grammer, Druggist.

Notice to Taxpayers. The City Assessor's books are now ready and the Board of Equalization will convene on Monday, June 23rd, in the City Assessor's office in the City Hall and continue in session every day thereafter, excepting Sunday, from 10 to 12 o'clock in the forenoon and from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All owners of real estate are requested to bring descriptions of their property with them when coming to inquire values.

It is very important that all owners of real estate should appear before the Board of Equalization as a great many changes in values have been made since last year. Many improvements have been made since Jan. 1st, last, that may possibly appear on the tax rolls for this year and all mistakes of this or any other character will be corrected by the Board of Equalization on application of the owners.

Be sure and bring descriptions of your real estate with you. G. H. DAY, City Tax Assessor and Collector.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum. "Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, and telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by N. E. Grammer, Druggist.

CASE By... Emile Gaboriau

Synopsis of Case No. 113

The morning of February 28, a man introducing himself as Count Louis De Clameran, an iron maker of Oloron, entered the bank of M. Fauvel and announced that he has come to draw 300,000 francs ($70,000) deposited in the bank by his late brother.

A few minutes later the cashier, Prosper Bertomy, arrives and going in to open the safe returns a few minutes later to announce that the safe has been robbed of 350,000 francs which he put there the afternoon before, expecting that Count De Clameran would call for it early in the morning, before banking hours.

The president, M. Fauvel, argues, and M. Bertomy accuses each other of the robbery. M. Lecocq and his assistant, Fanferlot, take up the case.

After falling in his attempt to solve the case alone Fanferlot goes to his chief and the two consult over a scratch which Fanferlot had noticed on the door of the Fauvel safe. They decide that two persons were at the door when the robbery was committed, one of whom tried to prevent the deed.

Lecocq orders Fanferlot to hire himself to Count Louis De Clameran as coachman and valet. For lack of evidence Prosper is released from jail with the cloud of disgrace hanging over his name.

Arriving at his lodgings, Prosper finds a stranger (M. Lecocq), who introduces himself as M. Verduret, a friend of Bertomy's father, and offers his help in finding the true robbers in order to clear Prosper of the disgrace.

Verduret induces Prosper to go with him to call on M. Fauvel. Before going, a porter brings a letter to Prosper which is composed of printed words cut from a paper or book. The letter entreats him to leave the country and encloses bank notes to the sum of 10,000 francs. Verduret studies the letter to find traces of the writer.

"Then, as this package did not come from the thief, it is plain that it can only come from the other person who was near the safe at the time of the robbery, but could not prevent it, and now feels remorse. The probability of two persons assisting at the robbery, a probability suggested by the scratch, is now changed into undeniable certainty. Therefore I was right."

Prosper, listening attentively, tried hard to comprehend this monologue, which he dared not interrupt.

"Let us seek," went on the big man, "this second person whose conscience pricks him and yet who dares not reveal anything."

He read the letter over several times, scanning the sentences and weighing the words.

"Evidently this letter was composed by a woman. Never would one man doing another man a service and sending him money use the word 'succor.' A man would have said loan, money or some other equivalent, but succor—never. No one but a woman ignorant of masculine susceptibilities would have naturally made use of this word to express the idea it represents. As to the sentence 'There is one heart,' and so on, it could only have been written by a woman. Now let us see if we can discover whence the printed words were taken to compose these sentences."

He approached the window and began to study the pasted words with all the scrupulous attention which an antiquarian would devote to an old, half effaced manuscript.

"Small type," he said, "very slender and clear, well printed. The paper is thin and glossy. These words have not been cut from a newspaper or a periodical. I have seen type like this. I recognize it at once. Didot often uses it. So does Mme. de Tours."

He stopped with his mouth open and eyes fixed, making a strong appeal to his memory.

Suddenly he struck his forehead. "Now I have it!" he cried. "Now I have it! Why did I not see it at once? These words had all been cut from a prayer book. We will look at least, and then we shall be certain."

He moistened one of the words pasted on the paper with his tongue, and when it was sufficiently softened he detached it with a pin. On the other side was printed a Latin word—Deus.

"Ah, ha!" he said, with a little laugh of satisfaction. "I knew it. Father Taberet, if he were here, would be pleased to see this. But what has become of the mutilated prayer book? Can it have been burned? No, because a heavy bound book is not easily burned. It is thrown in some corner."

M. Verduret was interrupted by the porter, who returned with the messenger from Pignale street.

"Ah, here you are," said the big man encouragingly. Then he showed the envelope of the letter.

"Do you remember bringing this letter here this morning?"

"Perfectly, monsieur. I took particular notice of the address. We don't often see anything like it."

"Who told you to bring it, a man or a woman?"

"Neither, monsieur; it was a porter." This reply made the porter laugh very much, but M. Verduret did not even smile.

"A porter? Well, do you know this colleague of yours?"

"I never even saw him before."

"How does he look?"

"It appears to me," continued M. Verduret, "that Prosper's determination is a wise one. I merely wished him before leaving Paris to come and pay his respects to his former chief." The banker smiled bitterly. "M. Bertomy," he replied, "might have spared us both this painful meeting. I have nothing to say to him, and of course he can have nothing to say to me."

This was a formal dismissal, and M. Verduret, understanding it thus, bowed to M. Fauvel, accompanied by Prosper, who had not spoken a word.

When they reached the street, Prosper recovered the use of his tongue. "I hope you are satisfied, monsieur," he said in a gloomy tone. "You exact ed this painful step, and I could only acquiesce. Have I gained anything by adding this humiliation to the others?"

"I have," replied M. Verduret. "I could find no way of gaining access to M. Fauvel save through you, and now I have found out what I wanted to know. I am convinced that M. Fauvel had nothing to do with the robbery."

"Oh, monsieur," objected Prosper, "innocence can be feigned."

"Certainly, but not to this extent. And this is not all. I wished to find out if M. Fauvel would be accessible to certain suspicions. Now I can say 'Yes.'"

Prosper and his companion had stepped to talk more at their ease near the corner of Laftite street, in the middle of a large space which had lately been cleared by pulling down an old house. M. Verduret seemed to be anxious and was constantly looking around as if he expected some one. He soon uttered an exclamation of satisfaction. At the other end of the vacant space he saw Cavallion, who was running bare-headed and so excited that he did not even stop to shake hands with Prosper, but said to M. Verduret:

"They have gone, monsieur." "How long since?"

"About a quarter of an hour ago." "The deceit they did! Then we have not a minute to lose."

He handed Cavallion the note he had written some hours before at Prosper's house.

"Here, send him this and then return at once to your desk. You might be missed. It was very imprudent in you to come out without your hat."

Little Cavallion ran off as quickly as he had come. Prosper was stupefied. "What!" said he. "You know Cavallion?"

"So it seems," answered M. Verduret, with a smile. "But we have no time to talk. Make haste."

M. Verduret suddenly stopped before a door bearing the number 61. He led the way up the steps and stopped on the second floor before a door covered with a large sign—"Dressmaker." A handsome bell-ringer hung on the wall, but M. Verduret did not touch it. He tapped with the ends of his fingers in a peculiar way, and the door instantly opened as if some one had been watching for his signal on the other side—a woman of about forty. She quietly ushered M. Verduret and Prosper into a neat dining room with several doors opening into it.

"Well?" he said by a look. She bowed affirmatively. "Yes."

BOARD OF TRADE DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY CONTINUE PRESIDENT WAPLES

Vigorous and Genteel Scoring Given Members by the President—Apology Made for Hasty and Discourteous Action—Fat Stock Show Committee Appointed

The directors of the Board of Trade met yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. There were present President Paul Waples, W. G. Turner, John C. Harrison, J. W. Spencer, W. G. Newby, W. A. Maddox and John C. Phelan.

After other business had been taken up and considered President Waples asked Mr. Newby, who was acting as secretary of the meeting, to again read that portion of the minutes of the last meeting referring to the reported change of residence of the president and suggesting his resignation.

Mr. Waples then in terse, vigorous terms reproached the board with having blundered thoughtlessly into taking a step that reflected seriously upon him as a man.

"I was aghast," he said, "when I saw that resolution spread broadcast by the press of the land. It placed me in a confusing position. It looks like a personal fling unworthy of the Board of Trade, made while I was away from home working for the interests of the city at my own expense."

He then briefly reviewed what caused his trip to Washington as a member of the Texas committee to invite President Roosevelt to visit the state. He represented Fort Worth, being unable to secure any other citizen who could leave his business for that purpose.

"This was pretty drastic treatment," he continued. "A letter or telegram of inquiry made at the place my apartments are located would have settled the report I had changed my residence. I never moved my residence outside of Fort Worth for one day. If there had been one thoughtful member present at that meeting this would have been stopped. I wish to remind you that this office was thrust upon me over my protest, and you promised me that I might resign it after a few months. I have served nearly the year out. I therefore ask you to now relieve me from the duties of this office, and do so at once without injecting any personal discussion. I had thought of resigning my directorship also, but that I shall not do now, but shall hold it back until the membership at the next annual meeting."

Mr. Turner, who had been referred to as one of those whom Mr. Waples had tried to have go to Washington stated that he did not get the message until late at night, too late for him to get ready.

Mr. Starling, as the one who seconded the motion made at the previous meeting, asked permission to say a few words. He protested that there was no thought on the part of any director who voted on it to cast any indignity or personal insult upon the president; that they had acted hastily and in error in accepting the prevalent reports of Mr. Waples' change of residence without verifying its truth. It was known that Mr. Waples had established a business home in Dallas and was devoting his time to its management and it was natural to suppose he was making his home there.

Mr. Turner moved that the resignation of the president be not accepted. The motion was seconded by Mr. Starling and Mr. Maddox.

Mr. Spencer said that it was owing to Mr. Waples that the directors do more than simply decline to receive his resignation, and amended the motion, adding that a vote of thanks be extended him for his faithful work in the interest of Fort Worth, and also adding an apology for their thoughtless and discourteous action in his absence.

Mr. Waples protested that this would be placing him in the position of being a suppliant for a refulcratory apology, and that he only stood on the original promise that he be relieved from office on request.

Mr. Turner then put the motion which was carried by a unanimous rising vote.

RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED

BOARD OF TRADE DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY CONTINUE PRESIDENT WAPLES

Vigorous and Genteel Scoring Given Members by the President—Apology Made for Hasty and Discourteous Action—Fat Stock Show Committee Appointed

The directors of the Board of Trade met yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. There were present President Paul Waples, W. G. Turner, John C. Harrison, J. W. Spencer, W. G. Newby, W. A. Maddox and John C. Phelan.

After other business had been taken up and considered President Waples asked Mr. Newby, who was acting as secretary of the meeting, to again read that portion of the minutes of the last meeting referring to the reported change of residence of the president and suggesting his resignation.

Mr. Waples then in terse, vigorous terms reproached the board with having blundered thoughtlessly into taking a step that reflected seriously upon him as a man.

"I was aghast," he said, "when I saw that resolution spread broadcast by the press of the land. It placed me in a confusing position. It looks like a personal fling unworthy of the Board of Trade, made while I was away from home working for the interests of the city at my own expense."

He then briefly reviewed what caused his trip to Washington as a member of the Texas committee to invite President Roosevelt to visit the state. He represented Fort Worth, being unable to secure any other citizen who could leave his business for that purpose.

"This was pretty drastic treatment," he continued. "A letter or telegram of inquiry made at the place my apartments are located would have settled the report I had changed my residence. I never moved my residence outside of Fort Worth for one day. If there had been one thoughtful member present at that meeting this would have been stopped. I wish to remind you that this office was thrust upon me over my protest, and you promised me that I might resign it after a few months. I have served nearly the year out. I therefore ask you to now relieve me from the duties of this office, and do so at once without injecting any personal discussion. I had thought of resigning my directorship also, but that I shall not do now, but shall hold it back until the membership at the next annual meeting."

Mr. Turner, who had been referred to as one of those whom Mr. Waples had tried to have go to Washington stated that he did not get the message until late at night, too late for him to get ready.

Mr. Starling, as the one who seconded the motion made at the previous meeting, asked permission to say a few words. He protested that there was no thought on the part of any director who voted on it to cast any indignity or personal insult upon the president; that they had acted hastily and in error in accepting the prevalent reports of Mr. Waples' change of residence without verifying its truth. It was known that Mr. Waples had established a business home in Dallas and was devoting his time to its management and it was natural to suppose he was making his home there.

Mr. Turner moved that the resignation of the president be not accepted. The motion was seconded by Mr. Starling and Mr. Maddox.

Mr. Spencer said that it was owing to Mr. Waples that the directors do more than simply decline to receive his resignation, and amended the motion, adding that a vote of thanks be extended him for his faithful work in the interest of Fort Worth, and also adding an apology for their thoughtless and discourteous action in his absence.

Mr. Waples protested that this would be placing him in the position of being a suppliant for a refulcratory apology, and that he only stood on the original promise that he be relieved from office on request.

Mr. Turner then put the motion which was carried by a unanimous rising vote.

FAUROTE STILL CHAMPION

Fort Worth Man Won Houston Shooting Contest

In the shoot yesterday at the Houston Gun Club grounds at 100 blue rock targets for the state championship medal, held by F. M. Faurote of Fort Worth, the scores were as follows: F. M. Faurote 91, Cleveland 87, Bryan Heard 85.

The rules of the Texas State Sportsmen's association, which govern in contests for this medal, provide that those shooters who challenge the holder of this medal must deposit $50, which goes to the holder of the medal. In the present instance Mr. Faurote waived the $50, which action was appreciated by the local shooters. Mr. Faurote won out by a close margin of four.

MAKES SOLID PAINTS. Startling invention of a Well Known French Artist.

The invention of a new form of paint by the well known French artist, J. E. Raffaelli, has caused a great stir in art circles in Paris, as this is the first revolutionizing innovation made in art since the Dutch master, Van Eyck, introduced oil painting in the fourteenth century.

NEWS

From a lecture by M. Poincare before the Astronomical Society of France the following paragraphs relating to the pressure of light are taken: "Clark Maxwell, a generation ago demonstrated theoretically that light should exert a pressure in its passage through space—and the existence of such pressure, certain, though slight, has very lately been shown by experiment. The sun, then, repels all masses at the same time that it attracts them. The outward pressure of the solar light acts contrary to the inward impulse of gravitation. The sun's repulsion is proportional to the surface of the body, while its attraction is proportional to the mass. A small particle whose diameter is only a few thousandths of a millimeter may be repelled by the sun's light as much as or more than it is attracted by the sun's mass.

The shape of the tails of comets, formed as they are by minute spheres of cosmic dust, is due to the compounding of two forces of this sort. Space is filled with cosmic dust of the kind which moves in virtue of similar forces, and space likewise contains gases whose molecules are decomposed into ions.

Condensation takes place about the ions charged with negative electricity. As particles move in space they constantly bring to the earth and to the different planets charges of negative electricity, and it is for this reason that our globe is charged negatively as it is, and it is for this reason that the phenomena of atmospheric electricity are what they are.

An antiseptic cloth wiper for use in wiping the receiver and mouthpiece of public telephones before using has recently been put on the market in London. That the public telephone may readily become a menace to health is obvious enough, and an efficient and quick means of sterilizing it after each conversation is eminently desirable.

The use of a fluid lens is a very old idea, but when it became possible to make good glass lenses and the successful combination of crown and flint glass was made the fluid lens soon fell into disuse. At a recent meeting of the London Camera club Dr. E. F. Grun described a new fluid lens with which he has recently been experimenting.

His idea in using such a lens is to increase the rapidity of action of the camera. He has been so successful that he can produce very excellent photographs with short exposures and ordinary artificial illumination, his lens working at 1.4 F. and even 5 F.

He showed snapshots of theater scenes taken at night with only the ordinary theater illumination, no "flashlights" being used, which were remarkably sharp and clear and in which the great depth of focus of the lens was well shown, both the performers at the front of the stage and the scenery at the back being perfectly sharp and distinct.

He also showed some remarkable cinematograph pictures of stage performances, which indicated that with a little mere experimenting just as good night scene moving pictures can be obtained as are now secured by daylight. There seems little doubt that the new lens has great possibilities and that many scenes which photography has not hitherto been able to reproduce, owing to lack of sufficient illumination, will soon be brought within its reach.

Belong to that class of inflammatory and disfiguring skin eruptions that cause more genuine bodily discomfort and worry than all other known diseases. The impurities or sediments which collect in the system because of poor digestion, inactive kidneys and other organs of elimination are taken up by the blood, saturating the system with acid poisons and fluids that ooze out through the glands and pores of the skin, producing an indescribable itching and burning, and the yellow, watery discharge forms into crusts and sores or little brown and white scabs that drop off, leaving the skin tender and raw. The effect of the poison may cause the skin to crack and bleed, or give it a scaly, fishy appearance; again the eruptions may consist of innumerable blackheads and pimples or hard, red bumps upon the face. Purification of the blood is the only remedy for these vicious skin diseases. Washes and powders can only hide for a time the glaring blemishes. S. S. WIFE PRO TEM.

By E. W. SARGENT

Copyright, 1901, by E. W. Sargent

"My wife pro tem, I believe," said Crawford, as, hat in hand, he regarded seriously the young woman whose features were clearly the original of the photograph he held.

"I guess I must be, if your name is Crawford," she assented, with a nervous laugh. "Mine is Vanoceton—Eunice Vanoceton. Mr. Sholt told me you would be looking for me." And she gave him her hand shyly, yet trustingly, for Crawford had a face which inspired confidence, and even the strangeness of the situation did not blind her to that fact.

Three months before Eunice had graduated from the Wheatcroft Dramatic school, and her playing in the one act comedy which marked her contribution to the graduation exercises had attracted the attention of a famous stage manager and dramatist. The latter's praise had induced Joe Sholt to engage her for his San Francisco stock company.

"WOULD YOU MIND WEARING THIS?" HE ASKED.

"I will pay fares," he told her when the contract had been signed, "but from Chicago you will have to go west with Guy Crawford, my new leading man."

Eunice murmured some polite little speech about it being nice to have some one to look after her, thereby increasing the confusion which was already crimsoning Sholt's face.

"Well, you see," he began awkwardly, "Crawford is not the worst part of the job. He's a great boy, big hearted, tender as a woman and as decent as actors ever come, but it's this: Crawford has friends in the railroad offices in Chicago, and he's got passes clear through to the coast for himself and wife. Now, you can save me a lot of money if you will travel as his wife."

Sholt awkwardly lit his cigar to cover his embarrassment. By no means had he a reputation for bashfulness, but this novice might not understand the situation.

Eunice blushed more rosily than he had done, and there was a tremble in her voice as she spoke. "I suppose you mean all right, Mr. Sholt," she said, "but I'm already engaged, and you really can't expect me to break my word and marry another man for the sake of a few dollars. Why—why, I'd rather pay it myself!"

Sholt's laugh made the windows rattle, but seeing that his companion was on the verge of tears he suddenly sat up. "My dear child," he explained, "you don't have to actually get married. All you have to do is to act as though you had known Crawford for a few years; no honeymoon, you know—just pure business, and only the porter and the conductor will know you as Mrs. C. You are Mrs. Crawford from Chicago to Oakland. You enter Frisco as Miss Vanoceton."

So it had been arranged, and though her fiancé objected Eunice convinced him that it was no worse than being a man's wife on the stage, and Jack Hamilton was even disposed to joke about it as he saw her off in the Erie station. "Remember," he cried as he waved adieu, "it's only a wife pro tem."

Here in the Chicago and Northwestern station it was something of a shock to look up at the tall, handsome fellow and to realize that she would be Mrs. Crawford for the ensuing three days. But she followed the man to the train rather pleased that her companion should do such credit to her supposed taste.

It was late in the afternoon when the train pulled out. The Lake Shore train was late in getting in, and the western train was held. Finally the heavy laden cars swung slowly out of the station and, gathering speed, started on the three day run. Eunice was tired and immediately after supper had her berth made down, and she saw little of Guy until she stepped off the car at Omaha the next morning to take a short stroll on the platform. Guy was already out, and he hesitated to say, "Good morning, Eunice," was his greeting, and, noting her start, he continued: "I will have to call you Eunice and you must call me Guy to keep the conductors from taking up that pass. The C. and N. W. man came to me last night after you had retired and made me prove identity, because, for one thing, you had no ring on. He was a bit suspicious. I had letters that fixed me up all right, and I explained that actresses seldom wore their rings—that sort. At the same time, to save the pass, would you mind wearing this? It was my mother's." And he drew from his finger a plain gold band.

She slipped it on her hand, wondering what Jack would say, but the moment after she had forgotten young Hamilton in the charm of Crawford's conversation.

Like most actors of the better sort, Crawford was a capital talker, ever ready to amuse and careful to use the personal pronoun sparingly. The long, dusty trip, ordinarily so tedious, passed rapidly, and by the time Ogden was reached Hamilton was forgotten, and that night more than once Eunice caught herself looking at the wedding ring with more interest than she had a right to feel.

The next morning the spell was completed. They were in the snowsheds, and her first glimpses of the Sierras strongly moved this city bred girl. There was a grandeur in the scenery that the Catskills lacked, and when the sheds were passed she sat on the steps of a passenger coach with Crawford at her side to explain everything until her somewhat hysterical temperament was thrilled by a strange sense of exaltation, in which the Sierras and her companion were sadly jumbled.

Even when dusk closed in and Crawford led her back to their own car she was strangely silent and at dinner answered his laughing remarks in monosyllables.

How could he be so merry when it would all end in a few hours? she asked herself.

At last it did end. The train pulled on to the wharf at Oakland, late, as Southern Pacific trains usually are, and they boarded the ferry for San Francisco. It was a perfect California night, the blue sky studded with stars. From Alcatraz a few lights were reflected on the water, while to the west Mount Tamnaplais loomed above the foothills—a very night for romance, and as Eunice leaned over the rail she sighed softly. Guy looked down on her. "Well, it's over," he said gently, "but I shall always remember this trip. Usually it's so dull across the desert. Has it been tiresome to you?"

"No," she cried, "anything but that! At first I was afraid of my—my—'husband,' but you were so good that I soon forgot that part. It was almost real. I never supposed marriage was so happy."

"It isn't," he replied harshly. "It's all right pro tem, but the quarrels will creep in. My wife and I always look in different companies because we always fuss when we're together, and at that we get along better than most."

"His wife?" Eunice laid her hand on the rail, and for a moment she forgot everything. Then the auto suggestion, the unconscious influence, of the man and the mountains passed away, and she was herself again.

"I thank you so much for your kindness, Mr. Crawford," she said in her ordinary tones. "I have had such a pleasant time, and I hope that when I am married to a man back east I will be as happy a real wife as I was when a wife pro tem. Here is your divorce!" And she handed him his mother's wedding ring.

The Boston hotel for women was opened somewhat ahead of the date fixed. It has all the conveniences of a first class hotel, and to permanent residents it gives room and board, use of library and reading room and a weekly concert ticket for from $3.50 to $6.50 a week. Its name is the Franklin Square House. It is managed by women, Mrs. Susan B. Bangs being superintendent and Mrs. Harriet A. Roberts stewardess.

Here is a good little story which proves that women take an interest in politics where they have the opportunity: The women in Topeka did not approve a certain candidate for nomination as city councilman. They resolved to defeat him. They organized a united, harmonious, secret movement against him and in favor of another man who suited them better. At the primary the women's candidate was surprised to find himself nominated, while the other, supposed to be the more popular, was nowhere.

The secret of getting your own way is to be silent and tactful. Gather your mental force inside of you and launch it in few words. Never waste it in storm and bluster or babyish sniveling and tears.

A leading company of model tenement house builders and owners has as its renting agent and collector a young lady, Miss Blanche Geary. She is so successful that out of a rent roll of $50,000 she loses through bad tenants scarcely more than $50 a year. One reason for her success is that her housekeeper instinct enables her to maintain without trouble a close watch on janitors and plumbers. Her most grievous trouble is with scrubwomen and engineers who furnish the heat and the hot water supply. These people seem not sufficiently mentally developed either to know their duty or to do it.

New Woman Words And Works

WHAT have women's clubs done that is worth while? Here is one thing at least. The women's clubs of Orange, N. J., secured the appointment of a sanitary inspector of their own sex. She is Miss Helen D. Thompson. Investigating unclean back streets and back yards and nosing into unpleasant tenements seem rather odd work for a Vassar graduate, yet this Miss Thompson is and does, and the result shows her to be the right woman in the right place. It has been proved that there are localities in which a woman sanitary inspector is more efficient than a man and that the interior of a tenement house is one of those. Part of the region known as "the Oranges" is noted for its eminently high tone and admirable sanitary condition. This is especially true of East Orange. But there are also the city of Orange itself and the township of West Orange, and all these are under the eye of Miss Thompson. Orange has a considerable population of Italians and Hungarians of the laboring class, and what they know of common sanitary cleanliness could be printed in large type upon a ten cent piece and leave room for an ornamental border. In one instance in Orange a large block of tenements was drained outright into a swamp at the back of them, and this menace to life and health remained year after year. Miss Thompson is working to have it removed. Her best results are obtained by house to house visitations. Sanitary reform, like charity, must be given at home, and the mothers of the poor and ignorant classes trust a woman where they would be offish to a man inspector and suspicious of him. Miss Thompson learned Italian enough to talk to the women. She has also a native tact and kindness that opened their hearts to her so that good results from her work appeared very soon.

The famous school of architecture in Paris has 1,200 American students, but had no American women students until now. The first one is a California girl, Miss Julia Morgan. Before entering the school she studied and worked with a noted Paris architect, M. Chaussemiche. Her tutor says she has special talent for invention and conception, which are the gifts particularly needed in our barren and incongruous American building schemes. Miss Morgan will practice her profession in San Francisco.

Deliver me from the whiner and slumper!

Miss Eleanor M. Thomas, a young society lady, formed an automobile party of friends and with her own hands steered her machine on a trip from New York to Boston and return. It is the fad among fashionable ladies to possess automobiles and guide them themselves. Well, they cannot smash up and run over people and things any more frequently or effectually than men motorists now do. That is one satisfaction.

Though the records of the incipient coal trade are scanty, they show that a traffic in coal first sprang up between London and the Newcastle-on-Tyne coalfields. A lane in a suburb of the metropolis where the burning of lime appears to have been carried on was already known as "Sea Coal Lane" in 1228. A particular notice also occurs of the arrival of shiploads of sea coal in London in 1257, and small purchases of it were made for forging iron at Westminster palace in 1258-59. It was usually sold by the quarter. At Billingsgate, in the time of Henry III., every two quarters of sea coal paid a duty of a farthing.

Sea coal was likewise bought at Berwick-on-Tweed in 1265, so that by the middle of the thirteenth century a small trade in coal was evidently being carried on along a large stretch of the eastern seaboard. The growth of the trade is reflected in the increasing revenue of Newcastle-on-Tyne, which, from being £100 a year in 1213, had risen to £200 in 1281 owing to the coal trade of the port.

From smiths and lime burners the use of coal extended to artisans who used furnaces in their trades. In Nottingham, situated on the confines of a great coalfield, this movement appears to have commenced very early. Queen Eleanor was unable to stay there in 1257 on account of the smoke of the sea coal.

The beautiful actress was playing in a melodrama, and in one of her scenes she was alone with the villain, who locked the door and then announced in the usual style: "Aha, proud dame, you are in my power," etc. She rushed at the door, beat upon it violently and was immediately precipitated out of sight of the audience, while a voice in the wings said loudly: "Bliss me, I forgot to warn the lady that that 'ere door opened the wrong way."

Where Robberies Occur. "I'll bet lots of people who closed up their houses and went away to the seashore have been robbed."

"That's right. These seashore hotel proprietors are becoming bolder every year."—Philadelphia Press

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

(Citation by Publication.) In the district court, September term, A. D. 1902.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Tarrant County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded, That, by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Tarrant, four weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon Rhoda Simms whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the district court, to be held in and for the County of Tarrant, at the Court House thereof, in the City of Fort Worth, on the second Monday in September, A. D. 1902, the same being the eighth day of said month, and there to answer the petition of Bob Simms, as plaintiff, filed in said court on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1902, against Rhoda Simms as defendant. Said suit being numbered 21855, the nature of which demand is as follows, to-wit: That plaintiff and defendant were duly and legally married on January 23, 1883, and on April 13, 1898, defendant voluntarily abandoned plaintiff without any cause or fault on his part and has never returned to live with him since; that it has now been more than three years since defendant abandoned plaintiff. Wherefore, plaintiff prays that said marriage be declared null and void and of no effect and for general relief. Herein fall not, but have you and them before said court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same. Witness, W. D. McVean, clerk of the district court of Tarrant county, Given under my hand and seal of said court, in Fort Worth, this 29th day of July, A. D. 1902.

(Seal) W. D. McVEAN, Clerk District Court, Tarrant Co., Tex. By J. C. BRANOM, Deputy. A. J. Baskin, Attorney.

"Waken, Lords and Ladies Gay,
On the Mountain Dawns the Day."—Scott.
The sleeping-car that leaves Fort Worth on our night train is ready to receive passengers at NINE o'clock, each evening, and this car is set out at Colorado Springs for guests to vacate at their leisure. The place where the car waits is only about six miles from the mountains, and a beautiful sight greets the wakers from that long, refreshing Colorado sleep—under blankets.
This night train also has a sleeper that goes into Denver, reaching there at a comfortable rising time.
Both of our daily THRU TRAINS have those sleepers with "Large, Ladies' Dressing rooms," also meals served in our own Cafe Dining cars, in a car service, 25c and up per individual. These special features of distinguishing excellence are among the characteristics that have, now for some time, made appropriate the "Only-One-Road" — and "You-Don't-Have-to-Apologize" verdict of persons who are capable of appreciating good service and making distinctions.

Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. BURKITT MAKES THE FIFTH Palestine Republican Would Take the State Championship (Special to the Telegram). Galveston, Aug. 22.—G. W. Burkitt of Palestine has entered the race for the Republican state chairmanship. He claims to be in hearty accord with the administration and to favor the re-election of President Roosevelt. His object in announcing is to create harmony in the ranks of the party in Texas, so he says, and he also states that he has been urged to do so by his friends. This makes five aspirants for the position, with a possibility of a sixth.

JUDGE HARRIS

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONER'S COURT

CALLS SPADE A SPADE

HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT FAKE INTERVIEWS AND THE PAPER THAT PUBLISHES THEM

CRITICISES CITY ATTORNEY

Explanation of the Alleged City and County Controversy Over Small Pox Cases and Who Are Responsible for the Care of the Patients

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 22, 1902. To the Telegram:—

I saw an article in the Sunday issue of the Register headed "County Declines," "Judge Harris discusses resolution adopted by the council Friday," etc. Just why the Register, or some one of its employees, should manufacture this false statement and publish it without the consent or knowledge of myself, but knowingly contrary to my wishes, I can not understand. If the management of the Register did not know that the pretended interview was false when it permitted the publication of it, it could have known it by any sort of diligence and if it was misinformed, the misinformation came from some of its own staff who knew when they turned the matter in that the statement was a fabrication.

One, or perhaps two, reporters said to me, or in my presence, "What about the resolution passed by the city council?" I replied that I had not read the resolution and knew nothing of its contents. I positively did not discuss the legal phase of the matter with any one, nor did I give any one an opinion about the resolution or any law pertaining to the respective liabilities of the county and city in taking charge of small pox or any other contagious disease.

There was no matter of the kind brought before the commissioners' court, for to me, calling for an opinion, and, except from rumor, I never knew, nor do I now know, there was any small pox in the city at the time referred to.

There was a small bill for groceries presented to the commissioners' court for payment, said to have been furnished to the post house; there was no order for the goods by any one with authority to charge the county, and no one had called upon the county officials for such an order so far as had been reported to me by the city attorney, and, of course, the bill was not paid. If the commissioners' court was to pay bills of this kind, then any person might go and buy goods and charge them to the county on account of some supposed case of small pox, or other matter.

It is useless to say that the public, including the city council, the Register and Mr. Williams, the learned city attorney, is not aware of the fact, that the commissioners' court does not do business in that manner.

It is my duty, as well as the duty of each county commissioner, to see to it that no money is paid out of the county treasury except on demands properly made and claims duly verified, and only those we tried to do.

I am surprised to learn that the city council should go to resolving when there is absolutely no occasion for it, and more surprised, and somewhat pained, to see Mr. Williams, the city attorney, attempting to "bloody" a shirt and then flaunt it at the commissioners' court and the county judge. Mr. Williams' own opinion as to the law and the duty of the commissioners' court is a matter of public concern; he had heard from my own statements that the Register's report was not in accord with my opinion, and it would have been at least personal courtesy, to say nothing of official ethics, to have spoken to me, by phone if he could not have seen me personally, to know if the newspaper article was in any way indignant, for it could not have been his judgment, to pour out the pent-up wrath so unmercifully. But I can make some allowances for the apparent bad condition of Mr. Williams' stomach, on account of bad diet, hot weather, and possibly, irregular hours. That is calculated to make a fellow feel bad, and no doubt my friend imagined, under his immediately past circumstances, that was in imminent danger of contracting small pox, or something else, and needed the tender care of the county judge, county physician or somebody else. I trust he is better now. I have no comment to make on the law, except to restate that the commissioners' court has the same right and authority to give the whole county the same protection and to use its discretion as to when, where and under what circumstances quarantine shall be established, maintained, etc.

If there is likely to be contagious disease, they may, in their discretion, authorize action by the county physician, but it is discretionary, and there is no appeal from their decision. As to the county commissioners and the county judge being personally liable for rendering a judgment as to whether or not quarantine shall be established by the county physician, although said judgment may be erroneous, no well informed lawyer will contend that they are liable to suit for damages, except when said lawyer's stomach is in the condition Mr. Williams' appears to be. Neither is the county liable for damages to any one on account of small pox or other disease, and Mr. Williams knows that by this time he has recovered, and reasons with his head and not otherwise. He made some statements that the commissioners court discriminated against Fort Worth and in favor of Arlington and Mansfield. That is where he is off again. Mansfield has had no small pox since the county suspended the work under Dr. Chambers, referred to by Mr. Williams, therefore no discrimination has been possible as to that town. Arlington did have a few cases of small pox, but they took care of it at a cost of $291.67, and paid the bill all told, from their own city treasury. After it had been paid, and inasmuch as the county was paying part of the expense in Fort Worth, to which reference will be made presently, the county paid back to Arlington one-half the amount paid out by it. This bill appears of record, and Mr. Williams might have known it if he so desired.

He claims, as does the Register in its issue of the 20th inst., that the county has paid out nothing, or practically nothing, for caring for small pox since Dr. Chambers was county physician; but since Mr. Williams fails to inform himself before he prepares interviews, and since the Register, or its reporter, must make assertions without foundation, one may become accustomed to these errors, and only try to correct them, or pass them unnoticed. I usually do the latter, may be I should have done so this time. The records show that the county had an agreement with the city with reference to the relative duties of the city and the county in looking after the sanitary condition of our people. That contract is of public record and the county and city have lived up to it so far as any matter has reached the commissioners' court or myself, Mr. Williams, the city council, et al. to the contrary notwithstanding. I have heard there was some little controversy between the city and county physicians at one time over a transient patient. As to who was right I never knew, as there was never any official report of it made to the commissioners' court. But let us see if the county has paid nothing for the care of small pox since, Dr. Chambers was county physician.

The annual showing of the financial ledger of Tarrant county, ending February 1, 1902, shows that the county paid for small-pox expenses alone $5,322.05, and since said date, up to April 1, 1902, an additional sum of $969.95, a total for the last small pox year of $6,292.00. There was some small amount paid out since the last mentioned date which I have not taken the time to look for. Most of this whole amount was for care of city patients. What amount has the city paid? The city auditor, Mr. Nunnally, says $363.45. Not as much as the town of Arlington paid. Yet Mr. Williams says the county discriminated against Fort Worth and in favor of Arlington. Further comment is useless. These matters appear on the finance records of Tarrant county, any one can see them. Why did not Mr. Williams, the Register and others look, or did they know there was such a thing as a finance ledger kept by Tarrant county?

Since I have been chairman of the commissioners' court, there has been collected under their supervision hundreds of thousands of dollars, and every dollar of it accounted for by the public records, showing to whom it was paid, if paid at all and for what purpose, and this record of the amounts paid out, together with the balances shown in the hands of the county treasurer, balances to a cent with the total amount collected.

It does appear, as above mentioned, from rumor, and from rumor only, that there was recently a case of small pox and that the city assumed to care for without calling on the county for any assistance, and that some one without authority, under said contract, or otherwise, undertook to buy groceries and charge them to the county. This is the unauthorized and unverified bill that the commissioners' court refused. But never has the county refused to comply with the agreement with the city, and there is no controversy or disagreement between the commissioners' court and the city authorities, except the newspaper notoriety that some officials and some newspapers indulged in without cause or consideration.

The "Fort Worthite" that admits his inability to discuss the matter has had his say, and tried to dig up some old matter that is not pertinent, and in his effort to create a discord between the city and county, spins out on the effort of the tax collector and assistants trying to collect delinquent taxes.

If this "Fort Worthite" owes any back taxes he would do well to pay them, like other good citizens do, without having to be sued for an honest debt, and until he does so, it would be in order for him to sign his name as "Delinquent" instead of "Fort Worthite," for no one is a "Fort Worthite" to hurt who refuses to help support his city government and yet yesses about what is done with public money, none of which he has helped to contribute.

If he is not delinquent, and wishes to tell he is too ignorant to discuss issues, let him do like a man, and affix his signature to his confession. A man who wishes to shoot from the brush is not to be admired in any sort of civil contest.

I have refrained from the "skinning" game, but was inclined to do a little "skinning;" but there is something in the Good Book about "if thine enemy smite thee on one cheek turn to him the other," etc. I will let it go this time, but there is nothing said about when one may do after he has been smitten on both cheeks.

I desire to add that in my opinion more harm has been done and more discord created by would-be noticed people, either willfully or ignorantly agitating supposed or imaginary differences between county and city people than ever originated from real differences, and the good people of both city and county ought to relegate to oblivion any person who stirs up such strife because they have no better judgment, or for selfish motives. There has been some real hurtful feeling and difference between city and county people, and since I have been county judge I have invariably thrown myself into the breach and done what I could to reconcile these differences and have suffered by it because of false representations, made by uninformed persons, made to prejudice the unsuspecting and suspicious inclined people. But feeling that it is the duty of

AN EVENING SOCIALLY WITH THE DAUGHTERS

Music, Feasting and Dancing at the Home of Miss Mattie Melton. Preparing for State Meeting

WEATHER HAS BEEN WARM

Weekly Crop Bulletin Gives Summary of Conditions Last Week.

The government bulletin is not necessary to tell the public that the past week (ending Aug. 18) has been excessively warm. In nearly all parts of the state the departure was 2.4 in excess of the normal. The average for the state during the week was 84.7 degrees, which is the highest temperature for any week thus far this season.

The highest temperature observed was 105 degrees at Henrietta and Paris on the 15th and the lowest, 62 degrees at El Paso on the 13th.

The week was without rain except at scattered points. Sunshine was excessive and much moisture was evaporated. The condition of the cotton crop has deteriorated since July when the heavy rains fell. The plant has made heavy feed, but few correspondents have reported good fruiting at the present time. It appears, however, that a fair yield is assured in all parts of the state. Reports regarding sugar cane continue to be favorable. The late plantings of rice show a favorable improvement. The sweet potato crop is promising in nearly all parts of the state.

SUMMER COMPLAINT

Proper Food Will Prevent it

When the bowels go wrong in adults or children, quit all food but Grape-Nuts and a little cream or milk. The experience of one woman will be read with interest by many mothers who pass anxious days over little ones and become alarmed because the food does not agree with baby and he daily wastes away. Mrs. W. H. Mennens of Little Falls, Minn., writes, "I want to tell you the good Grape-Nuts Food has done for my baby boy. When he was 10 months old he was taken with summer complaint and I could not find any prepared food that agreed with him. I was giving him doctor's medicine all the time but he continued to lose in weight until he only weighed 75 pounds before he was taken sick. Finally the doctor told me that unless I could get some real nourishing food for him he could not live many days and he advised me to get Grape-Nuts Food which I did, and in five weeks he weighed just 20 pounds. If any mother reading this letter wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer and tell her the full particulars regarding baby's sickness and the good Grape-Nuts did for him."
