

JOKER FOUND IN NEW ORDRANCE

Seats May Be Required For All Passengers

WHITES CANNOT SMOKE

Users of Tobacco Fare Hard Under Strict Enforcement of New Law

A "joker" requiring a seat for every passenger on city street cars, is thought to be contained in the "Jim Crow" ordinance passed by the council and effective today.

The section referring to this matter is: "That every street railway company, lessee, manager, receiver or owner thereof operating street cars in the city of Fort Worth as carriers of passengers for hire, shall provide and require that all white passengers boarding their cars for transportation or passage shall take seats in the forward or front end of the car filling the car from the front end, and that all negro passengers boarding their cars for transportation or passage shall take seats in the back or rear end of the car, filling the car from the back or rear end."

A reference to standing in cars is made in another section as follows: "The conductors on all street cars in the city of Fort Worth, shall have authority to refuse any passenger or person the right to sit or stand in any street car in the city of Fort Worth unless passenger or person shall comply with the provisions of this ordinance, and such conductors shall have the right also to remove from any street car any passenger who does not comply with the provisions of this ordinance."

Whites Cannot Smoke This section has also raised the question of smoking on cars, which has heretofore been permitted on the rear platform in winter and on the two rear seats in summer cars.

With white passengers made to stay in the front of the car and the regulation of the Traction Company that no one shall stand on the front platform, it is urged that white persons will be unable to smoke on the cars at all.

The smoking question has already become a practical one. An official of one of the street car companies said: "In coming down town this morning I boarded a street car and stood smoking on the rear platform, there being no negroes on the platform. The conductor politely informed me that the ordinance prohibited my riding on the rear platform. Being connected with the office of a street car company and having my own views on the subject, I stated to the conductor that, in my opinion, the ordinance could not apply to either platform of the car, inasmuch as any street car company is justified in refusing to allow passengers to ride on either platform at any time they may decide to do so. The conductor told me that he had started the matter as he understood his orders, but that he did not propose to act as an officer of the law, having informed me of the orders as given him by the company management today."

But Little Trouble Only one case of serious trouble in enforcing the ordinance is reported. About 8 o'clock this morning an elderly white man standing on the rear platform of a City Belt car, as it reached the federal building, was requested by the conductor to go to the front end of the car. The man refused to do so, the car was stopped and summons sent for an officer. Before the arrival of the policeman the man had changed his mind in the matter and agreed to get off the car. The car was filled at the time and it is reported that the man was smoking.

Outside of the one incident stated, where a person exhibited a desire to overstep the ordinance, no trouble has been reported up to the noon hour and no arrests have been made. The street car companies are enforcing the law to the best of their several abilities in this city and in North Fort Worth.

No trouble so far as can be learned has been had with negroes refusing to comply with the ordinance. A large number of them were seen riding on the cars and invariably in the places assigned them.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF MOUNTAIN MURDERER

California Authorities Think They Are Near Solution of Bessie Bouton's Mysterious Death

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 16.—A man known as William Brush or Curtis, who with a woman companion is wanted for the robbery and attack upon W. A. Ellis, the Australian sporting man, in this city on Wednesday last, has been identified by the police as Milton Franklin Andrews, wanted for the alleged murder of Bessie Bouton on Mount Cutler, Col., on Oct. 5, 1904. The detectives say that the identification is so positive as to admit of no doubt.

Andrews traveled under the aliases of George Bennett and Morton Franklin and it now appears that he has added the names of Brush and Curtis to his list. Bessie Bouton's body was found hacked to pieces and acid had been used to render the work of identification more difficult. No clue to the whereabouts of Brush and his female companion has yet been found.

Land Commissioner Decides Against Cleveland Prospectors

GUTHRIE, Okla., Oct. 15.—The local government land office received from the general land commissioner a decision that the United States mineral entry laws are now in force as to Oklahoma school lands and holding such lands in the Cleveland oil gas field not open to prospectors under the mineral act.

Recently a band of armed prospectors took possession of school land near Cleveland and staked off mineral claims. The decision just received involves school lands valued at several million dollars.

PORTLAND'S FAIR PAID

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 16.—Saturday at the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition was the last of the exposition period. The work of wrecking the immense exhibit palaces and state buildings has commenced and in a few months all that will remain of the exposition will be the memory of its success, a success as expositions go, for the President has made public the announcement that the stockholders will receive a dividend of from 30 to 50 cents on the stock, a record said to exceed any exhibition of like character ever held in the world.

FRANK GOTCH'S RING AMBITION SHATTERED

Clever Wrestler Who Wanted to Whip Jeffries, Beaten by Practically Unknown Fighter

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 15.—By his ignominious defeat in the ring at Seattle by "Bomber" Weeks, the Spokane giant fighter, a comparatively unknown fighter, the pugilistic ambitions of Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler of the world, were completely shattered and incidentally the result demonstrated that a professional wrestler is a failure when he tries to crown himself with honors in the roped arena.

A wrestler may show himself the possessor of wonderful endurance and marvelous strength on the mats. A successful boxer should have the same qualifications, but the strength and staying power of the pugilist are vastly different than those possessed by a wrestler.

Eugene Sandow, one of the strongest men the world has ever seen, endeavored to use his prowess in the ring. With one blow of a his fist Sandow could smash a huge rock to smithereens. He could lift the combined weight of twenty persons, and with a rope around his chest could outpull ten horses. With such qualifications, it was argued no pugilist could withstand his onslaught. Sandow was wise, however. Unlike Gotch, he did not make the assertion that he could whip any man in the world, nor did he seek a contest. He arranged for a "try out" with Fitzsimmons, and it did not take long for Sandow to convince himself that his muscle-bound physique incapacitated him as a fighter.

PALACES ON WHEELS ARE NEW AUTOMOBILES

Latest Playthings for Millionaires Cost $12,500 Apiece, Few Yet Sold

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The latest plaything for millionaires is a wonderful motor car costing $12,500, which is nothing less than a small hotel on wheels. Within this marvel of modern enterprise four people can travel from one end of the continent to the other, and be absolutely independent of their fellow creatures except for the purchase of food. Only three or four of these traveling hotels, which are built by the De Dietrich Company of Lunville, France, have been sold. All have been brought abroad. One of the owners is M. Menier, the French chocolate king.

From beds to kitchen apparatus the cars have every requisite necessary for a prolonged tour. The body which is about twelve feet long by five or six feet wide, is divided into two parts, between which there is communication through the front part is fitted with four luxurious arm chairs, two of which are fixed and two movable.

The beds are formed by letting down the backs of the two front seats, which, with the seats behind, form two comfortable couches. Two mattresses are folded away behind the back seats, and these laid on the couches form as comfortable a bed as can be got in the best hotels.

In the front division of the car chevrons are provided with cases for revolvers, playing cards and other small articles. There is also a writing chest and a well-filled medicine chest in case of illness or accident. Persons inside the car are at all times able to communicate with the chauffeur by means of voice tubes and an indicator board.

By pressing buttons on this board the owner of the car can instruct his chauffeur whether to go fast or slow or turn to the right or to the left or to go ahead or stop altogether.

The most novel features of the car, however, are to be found in the back portion. On the right side is a washstand with fittings to bring water from the water tanks carefully concealed from the roof. There is also a dressing table which closes like an American roll top desk, a cupboard with basin for ladies' toilet, a cupboard for photographic accessories, and a cooking apparatus with all of the necessary cooking utensils. Two drawers are provided with table linen and a chest for food, cutlery, china and glass.

The door at the rear of the car is fitted with three kinds of windows—one transparent, one frosted and a third red so that the back compartment can be used if desired for developing photographs.

The traveling hotel is driven by petrol and the engines develop from forty to fifty horse power.

PRES. PALMA ORDERS HORSES IN AMERICA

Head of Island Republic Sends to United States for Heavy Harness Coaches

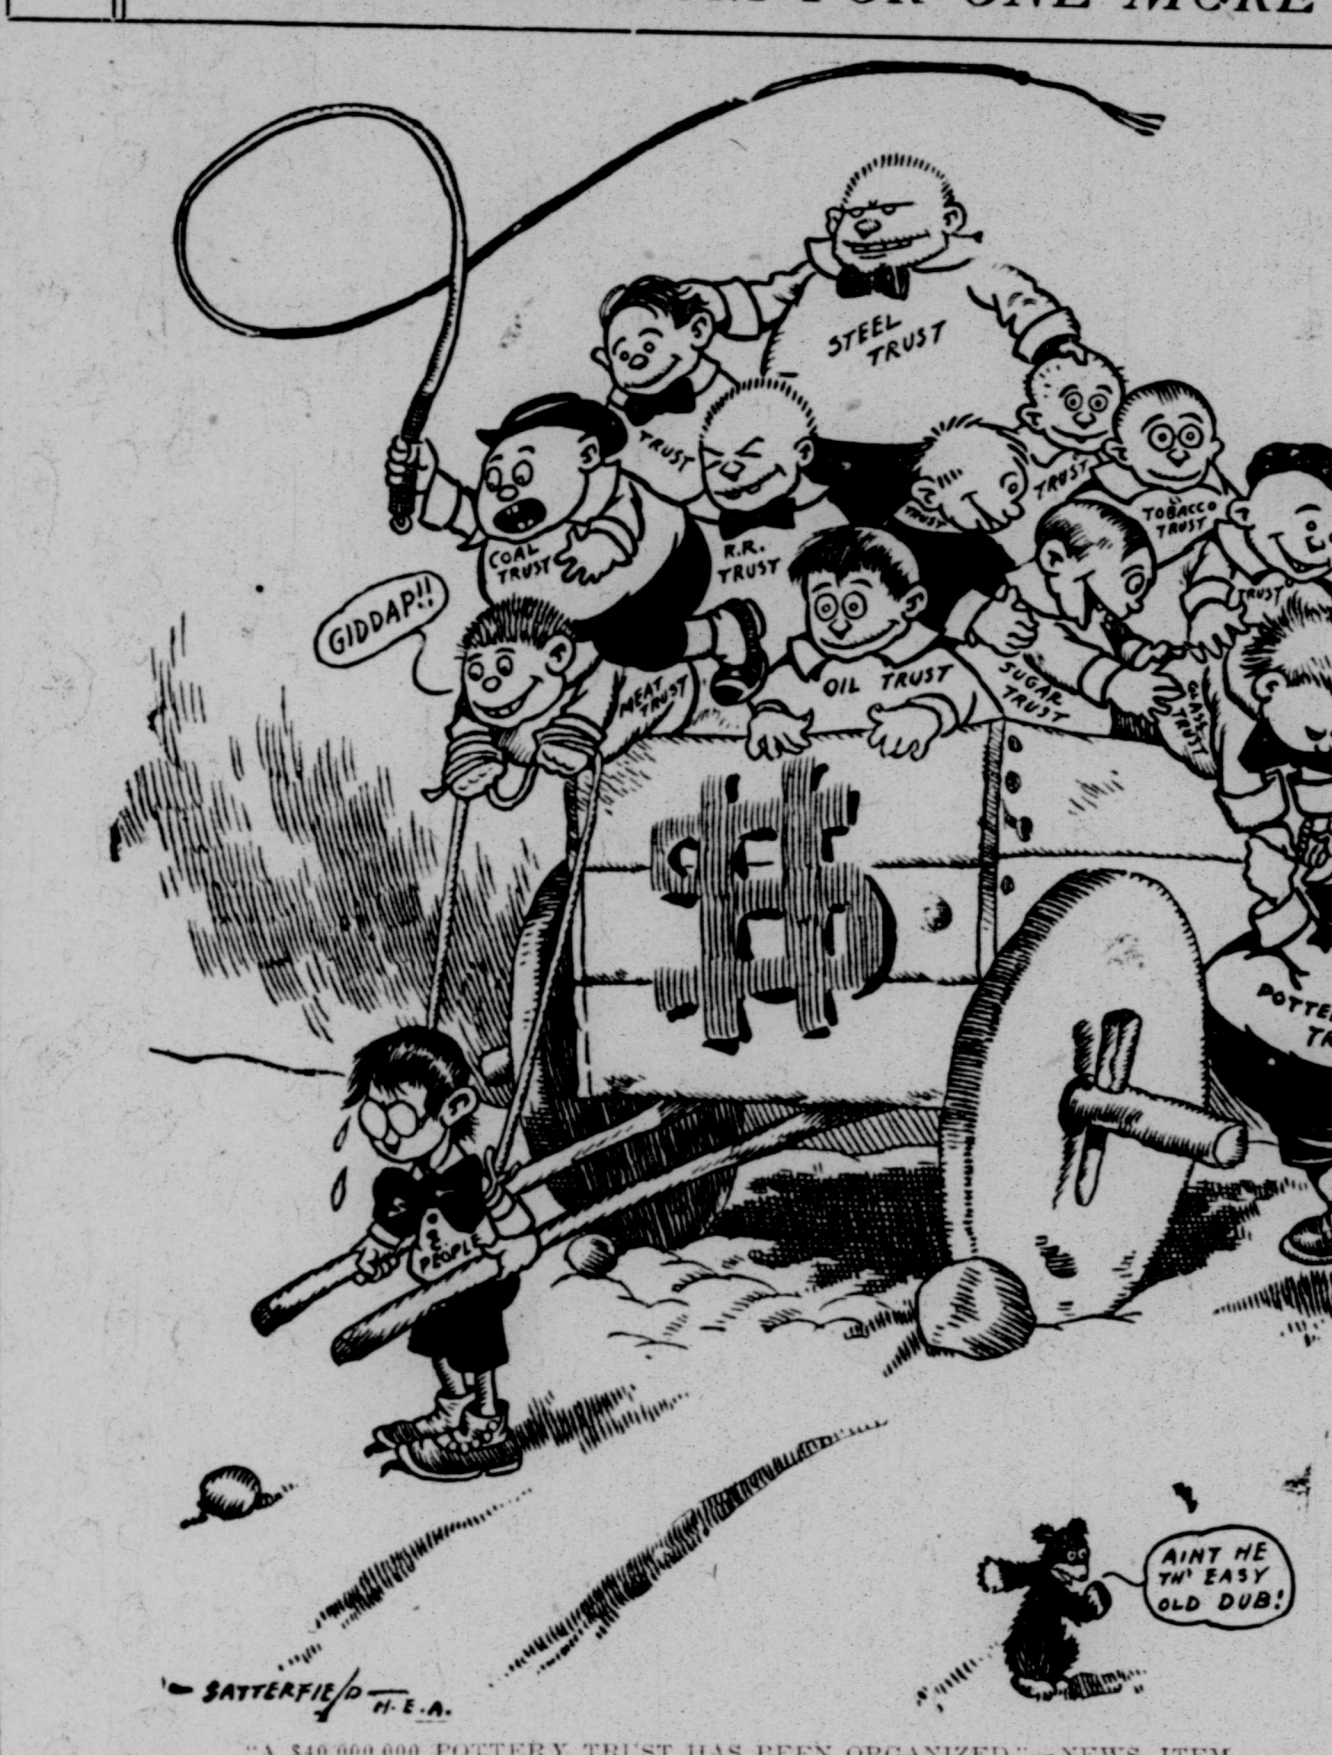

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Estrada Palma, the president of the republic of Cuba, has just paid a high tribute to the trotting bred carriage horse of America and incidentally a merited compliment to one of the foremost American dealers in such horses by ordering from J. F. Gibson of this city four high class heavy steppers to draw the state coach of Cuba. The other three have already been ordered. Mr. Gibson has been selling carriage horses to the wealthy Cuban planters and it is not uncommon for him to send horses to the best families of Cuba. The other day, however, he was pleased to receive an order from the Cuban government telling him that four of the best coach horses available were wanted for the president. To fill it the dealer selected four bays, the pick of more than 150 head in his stables, and shipped them to Havana this week.

Every horse in the quartet was sixteen hands high and of the typical heavy harness stamp combining quality, conformation, speed and action in a degree found only among the trotting bred horses of the United States and Canada.

SECRETARY METCALF MAY FLY THE COOP

Head of Commerce and Labor Department Thinks Roosevelt Too Previous

Staff Special to the Telegram. WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Is Victor H. Metcalf to leave President Roosevelt's cabinet? That question is the subject of considerable gossip in Washington just now and there are plenty who think that there will be a new secretary of commerce and labor before many weeks.

Chinese exclusion is one of the causes of friction between Roosevelt and Metcalf. The "executive order" which went out this summer for a modification of the requirements governing Chinese exclusion are said to have occasioned some resentment on the part of Secretary Metcalf, who felt that he had been ignored as well as overruled.

Since the president's return to Washington the secretary of commerce and labor has not attended all the cabinet sessions, and at one, at which illness prevented his attendance, the subject of foreign immigration was taken up, discussed and a policy was determined upon. Mr. Metcalf felt again that the matter might have waited until he could give it his attention, since it was under his department.

Recently a movement was begun to secure an assistant for Father Torney, which suggestion he has opposed zealously. A committee was sent to Washington to consult with the Rt. Rev. D. Falcom, the American apostolic delegate from the pope, who took this matter under advisement. It is understood that the congregation intends to continue the Sunday church excursions until it is granted another preacher for its church at home.

Father Torney has been here twenty-seven years, and has done much to build up the church here.

Angheria Bandits Left Lawyer Alone New Yorker and Wife Made Journey Through Perilous Region Without Difficulties

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In spite of formal warnings by the American and Moorish authorities, John Larkin, a New York lawyer, and his wife were resolved to face the dangers of an overland trip from Teton to Tangier through the Angheria mountains, says a cable to the Herald from Tangier.

After a troublesome journey the travelers arrived here safely Saturday morning, accompanied by the well known Sheriff Wazzan.

The party met several bands of armed men who offered no resistance to their advance through the Angheria territory, the roads of which were in the most deplorable condition. Mr. Larkin was disguised in Moorish dress while Mrs. Larkin was taken for a native woman.

This is the first time foreigners have undertaken a journey through the Angheria region since the beginning of the revolt last year.

SHIP WEATHERED STORM Caledonia From Glasgow Had Terrifying Voyage

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Battered during the nearly whole voyage from Glasgow, by terrific seas, the Caledonia arrived yesterday and the passengers told of hurricane weather and constant vigil on the part of Captain Baxter and his officers. In the same great storm that brought death to the passengers on the Cunard liner Cameronia, the Caledonia plunged on Wednesday. For 24 hours the liner struggled against the engulfing seas, while behind the steel doors of the deck house the passengers were imprisoned as the brush of waters swept the ship's deck. They were terrorstricken and the crashing of table crockery as the ship plunged into the great hollows under the heaven. Many of the women knelt and prayed throughout the night.

So far as learned there were no serious accidents to passengers.

JOHN HENRY NOT GUILTY Second Case Tried Results in Favor of the Defendant

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 15.—The taking of testimony in the John Henry case was closed at noon Saturday and the afternoon was taken up by arguments of attorneys in the case. Henry was on trial for assault to murder, growing out of the killing of one man and the wounding of another while they were making an effort to put out a fire in the town of Livingston, on the night of Dec. 8, 1902. At the last term of court Henry was tried for murder and attempted murder and was acquitted. The argument in the Henry case was completed last night and the jury charged. A verdict of not guilty was rendered.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—Rev. George Forris, pastor of Cavalry Baptist church, prefaced his sermon yesterday with the statement that he felt it his duty to justify to the members of the Baptist church to the coming convention of the church federation in Philadelphia on account of its refusal to admit delegates from the Unitarian church.

Mr. Forris declared the action un-Christian and unreasonable.

NEW FEVER CASES SHOW MATERIAL DECREASE

Only Eight in Past 24 Hours at New Orleans—Authorities Expect End Soon

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 15.—Unless the Federal authorities are to be greatly disappointed, the week beginning today will mark practically the end of the yellow fever visitation. The remarkable showing of only eight new cases in the past twenty-four hours is regarded as confirming Dr. White's prediction that the fever ultimately will die out with considerable suddenness. Last week there was a total of only 129 cases, against 176 the week before, and eighteen deaths, against twenty-two in the preceding week. From Aug. 12 each week shows a decline. There are now only 143 cases under treatment and this number soon will fall within a hundred. In the emergency hospital there are now only twenty-two cases.

The third ward, the largest in the city, now has not a single case of fever. Wholesale reductions of the working forces continue. Inspectors to the number of 115 were dropped from the rolls yesterday at the end of their work and more will be let go today. There will then be 400 men at work, against 1,276 a short time ago.

Dr. Rosenau, bacteriologist of the marine hospital service, who was sent here by Surgeon General Wyman to make investigations at the emergency hospital, has returned to Washington. In the work here he co-operated with Dr. Goldberger. Dr. Rosenau took with him numerous plates containing photographs of blood, etc., but before he left could not be quoted as to any discoveries.

General improvement in the state conditions continues. Only one death occurred in the state outside of New Orleans in the preceding twenty-four hours. Many of the quarantines is already bringing country people into New Orleans and enabling other country people who have been staying here and elsewhere to return to their homes.

YOUTHFUL TAGGART HAS WILL OF HIS OWN Is Given into Custody of Father by Court Decree, But Refuses to Go

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Wooster, Ohio, says: "Although the decree of Judge Eason places the Taggart children under the guardianship of their father, Major Taggart may find it difficult to get Culver into his possession without actually going to Mrs. Taggart's house and tearing the boy away from his mother. Mrs. Taggart will prepare Culver to accompany his father, but to force him to leave her is an act she is not equal to. Culver seems determined to resist the major's authority. Major Taggart's attorney, Wertz, said last night that if Mrs. Taggart chose to co-operate with Major Taggart in managing the children she eventually would have them almost entirely with her."

MANGANESE ORE FOUND Fourteen-Foot Vein of Manganese Discovered in Dickens County

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 15.—A fourteen-foot vein of black manganese ore has been found on the Matador ranch in Dickens county, and an expert mineralogist from Pittsburg, Pa., recently has examined the find, samples of which have been sent to Colorado for assay. It is stated that the ore body has been tracked a distance of nearly three miles. Childress, the nearest shipping point, is sixty-five miles away, and should the manganese deposit be of sufficient extent to warrant working, a railroad will have to be built to the Matador to afford shipping facilities.

DOCTOR, MINUS CLOTHES FOUND ON TOP OF TRAIN

Rode from New York to Yonkers Before Being Discovered. Can't Explain Plight

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Temporarily bereft of his reason following a severe mental strain, Dr. Arthur Sinclair Knudsen, a well known physician and club man, disrobed in the New York Central freight yards in this city early yesterday morning and climbing upon a freight train, rode as far as Yonkers before his plight was discovered by the trainmen.

He suffered greatly from exposure, but will recover. When he had received medical attention, Dr. Knudsen said: "I started away from the club Saturday night. I am afraid I don't know why. I walked up the avenue and then I ran. That was not fast enough, so I took a cab for the High Bridge. I got out of the cab and started to run again. My clothes were too heavy, so I took them off. I remember climbing upon a freight train, I think. I don't remember anything more."

Dr. Knudsen is a native Honolulu, a member of an old pioneer family there and a well traveled. He was graduated from Harvard in 1896 and took his medical degree in 1900. He has been traveling over the world since his graduation.

POLICE CAN'T TELL WHO KILLED TOSCANO Father and Two Son's Fired, but One Evidently Shot in Self-Defense

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 15.—After he had been stabbed by Joseph Toscano, while engaged in a fight last night, Vito Foglio, 50 years old, drew a revolver and fired at Toscano. As he fell in the street Foglio's two sons, Peter, 20 years of age, and Anthony, 14 years of age, who witnessed the fight, both drew revolvers and fired several shots at the body. Toscano was suffering from two large scalp wounds in the face. The sons escaped. The cause of the quarrel between the elder Foglio and Toscano is a mystery. Toscano lived in La Porte, Ind.

GRADED CATTLE BRING GOOD PRICE

Steve Trigg, Near Amarillo, Sells Entire Herd at Thirty-Seven Dollars Around

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 15.—Steve Trigg, a son of D. C. Trigg of Fort Worth and a well-known young ranchman with interests in Carson county, was in Amarillo Saturday and announces the sale of his entire herd of graded cattle to H. Kirby of Gray county for a consideration of $37 around.

This is probably the highest price for cattle in the pasture paid by Panhandle ranchers this season and is a good showing for Panhandle breeders.

Mr. Trigg, in connection with his cattle interests, has a bunch of horses and mules on his Carson county property and will shortly return to the ranch, where he will look after these interests during the winter.

J. A. Rodgers, a well-known Hereford breeder of the Miami and Pampa country, was a visitor among the local cowmen two days this week. Mr. Rodgers was returning home from a week's trip to Fort Worth and other Central Texas points, where he went in the interest of furthering his Hereford cattle interests. He says that conditions for mild weather around Miami are good, that everybody has sufficient amount of feed and very few ranchmen anticipate any serious results from the cold winter months.

J. R. Law, a well-known Potter county stockman, residing eleven miles west of Amarillo, has sold his ranching interests and will shortly, with his family, remove to Oklahoma, where he has made land investments.

OFFER FOR BIG RANCH Swenson Bros. Reported to Contemplate $2,000,000 Deal

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 15.—Local live stock circles were given a surprise last week by the announcement which came from New York, that Swenson Bros., ranchers, bank owners and railway magnates, have offered $3 per acre cash for the well known Espuela ranch, comprising 700,000 acres, located south of Amarillo. As it will be seen, this deal involves a cash consideration of $2,100,000.

A confirmation of this announcement cannot be obtained here, as the manager, Henry Johnson, of the Espuela, is away looking after other ranching interests. This announcement from New York, however, recalls the fact that Mr. Johnson has spent much of his time recently away from his headquarters, and his visits from his ranch to this city have been followed by hurried trips on lines leading north from Amarillo.

The Swenson Bros. are heavy property holders in Texas, controlling a large ranch near Stamford, and owners of the Texas Central railroad from Waco to Stamford.

CRISIS OF GIRLHOOD
A TIME OF PAIN AND PERIL

Miss Emma Cole Says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Saved Her Life and Made Her Well

How many lives of beautiful young girls have been sacrificed just as they were ripening into womanhood! How many irregularities or displacements have been developed at this important period, resulting in years of suffering!

Miss Emma Cole

Girls' modesty and oversensitiveness often puzzle their mothers and baffles physicians, because they withhold their confidence at this critical period.

A mother should come to her child's aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Miss Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "I want to tell you that I am enjoying better health than I have for years, and I owe it to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"When fourteen years of age I suffered almost constant pain, and for two or three years I had soreness and pain in my sides, headaches and was dazed and nervous, and doctors all failed to help me."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking it my health began to improve rapidly, and I think it saved my life. I sincerely hope my experience will be a help to other girls who are passing from girlhood to womanhood. I know your Compound will do as much for them."

"If you know any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice ask her to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will receive free advice which will put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood."

The design is extremely simple and easy to reproduce and is equally suitable to serge or challis. It is a model which will retain its good style indefinitely and of which one will never become weary. As shown the dress may be made low neck and with short puff sleeves if desired. For a medium size, 3 yards of 36-inch material are needed. 3036 is in 5 sizes, 2 to 10 years.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN. CATTLE RAISING INDUSTRY. The cattle raising business as we know it today is a strictly modern development. The countless millions of people who consumed cattle during all the past centuries, except the last one, were contented to take the cattle they could get. If they were tough, they chewed them the longer. The cattle raising industry was slow in development. In the early days of this country sheep, hogs and poultry were more generally consumed than were cattle. The cows were kept for milk production till they were aged, while the bulls were "steered" and trained into oxen. The hard aloft Atlantic coast first settled was admirably adapted for this kind of a development.

The early cattle markets did not ask for what we term "finished cattle." They took what came handy, and that generally meant "grasses." Corn was used for human food more than for feeding cattle, and the domestic consumers had not expected any other kind of beef. We have a like situation at face today in western Canada, where the only cattle on the local markets are "grasses."

During the past 100 years the systems of feeding cattle have been undergoing constant change. The opening up of the great plains of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with their at first poor transportation facilities, made it possible to put on the market a high-class beef product. This was due to the fact that these plains was raised a large amount of corn that had little value except for stock feeding, and also to the fact that in that region the horse had taken the place of the ox and the steers were made into beef rather than developed for labor. The cheap pasturage helped greatly in the development of the beef animal of that period.

The extension of the corn belt to the west extended the area for the producing of high-class beef, which was at the same time cheap, as soon as the railroads were thrown into this region it became possible for this beef to be shipped to Europe and the foreign trade began. The foreign market demanded a beef that had been finished on grain, and this was the kind of beef the American farmer began to send abroad. The Canadian beef raiser could not compete with the Yankee beef raiser, because he had no corn on which to finish his cattle.

The opening of the western ranges did not at first greatly affect the foreign market, or even the best of the home market, because the western range beef was a scrub animal with long legs and long horns. He had a great deal of shank but a relatively small proportion of high-priced cuts. Within this generation, however, all has been changed. The ranchmen have bought bulls of the improved breeds and have changed the character of their herds, till even the European market will take them if they are properly finished.

LOOKING FOR FEEDERS. W. O. Woodley, a solicitor for the Kansas City stock yards, is here for the purpose of buying a string of yearlings, two and three-year-old steers to rough through the winter at the Creek Nation. He expects to remain on this market for two or three months, picking up such of the above class of cattle as look worth the money. Mr. Woodley has been in touch with the live stock industry of the country for years and has a few ideas of his own about the probable effect of the present and recent heavy marketing at the big market centers on future cattle values.

"The man who says the big runs of cattle are creating a shortage which will be shown in the prospect later on, in I believe, likely to find out that he has been mistaken. There would doubtless be good reason for that belief, but for the fact that the bulk of the grass steers being marketed are going back to the country instead of to the killing floors of the big packeries. I will venture the assertion that nine-tenths of the grass steers that have been received in Kansas City during the past month have gone to corn belt farmers as stockers or feeders, and that as large a proportion of the grass steers marketed during that month and extending to next market will find the same outlet. That there will be no scarcity of fat cattle the coming winter and next spring seems as sure as anything can be. Feeder steers are being bought at lower prices than have been for two or three years. Corn belt feeders have the corn to feed, and conditions indicate that they are going to feed it. Corn will not be bought in the corn belt for 25c, for the farmers say they will raise it for that on their high-priced land, but it is not going to be so high as to keep cattle feeders from feeding. With feeders selling low and corn around 25 or 30 cents it is highly probable that a large share of the corn crop will be marketed on the hoof. Good feeding steers are now selling on the Kansas City market at $2.65 to $3.25, a kind that were bringing 40c to 50c for feed. These prices naturally look attractive to the man with a full corn crib, and though an immense number of cattle will be fed, the low price of feeders and the moderate price of corn make it more profitable for the corn belt man. These very conditions, however, make the situation look gloomy for the Texas feeder of meat and hogs. The Texas feeder cannot get his feed supply much cheaper than the man in the corn belt, the fattening of the cattle will cost him considerably more at the present price of meal and hogs, and he won't have the beef after he has put a long feed bill into them that the northern man has.

"It looks as if there would be plenty of grass cattle moving until snow flies, and that the feeder buyers would have plenty of opportunity to get their feed supplies as cheaply as at present, unless there is an upheaval of scramble for cattle to feed. While the Otago and Creek Nations are well shipped out, the Panhandle might have just fairly started. Montana and the Dakotas will continue to ship heavily until December 1 or later, Colorado and New Mexico will be heavy contributors to the markets for six or eight weeks longer. The grass and warmed-up cattle in the corn belt will help keep supplies up to liberal proportions."—Live Stock Reporter.

HEREFORDS AVERAGE WELL. KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15.—The average prices realized by the Hereford sale at the American Royal was $216. The top price on a bull was $1,400, at which figure Funkhouser's Onward 1814 went into the possession of E. R. Morgan of Blue Rapids, Kan. The top price on a cow was $305, Carlill & MacMillan of LaCrosse, Wis., securing Dulcinea 12th.

THE AMERICAN ROYAL. KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15.—The largest crowd that ever gathered in a single day at the American Royal live stock show surged into the grounds Wednesday afternoon. The gate keeper reports 7,500 were admitted. The day was cold and overcast, but a necessity, yet the vast crowd enjoyed itself.

J. Edwin Armour, head of the great Armour interests, was present and expressed surprise at the magnificent exhibition, "it is so great," he said, "that I will be in it myself next year with the best string of horses I can get together."

At the Hereford sale yesterday afternoon there were thirty-seven animals averaging $216.25; fifty females averaging $142.40 and two calves selling for a total of $292.57. The top sale of the day was for Funkhouser's great two-year-old bull Onward 1814, that has had a record of triumphs through the entire season and stands a show of taking sweetstakes this afternoon. He was bought by E. R. Morgan, Blue Rapids, Kan.

The annual meeting of the American Hereford Breeders' Association was held last night and Charles Gudgeon of Independence, Mo., was elected president to succeed William George of Aurora, Ill. The election of the associates was flattering, showing that during the past year 294 new breeders had joined the association. The year's business was the largest in the history of the association.

The expected that during the year a larger number of plain bulls had been put on the market than heretofore. Colin Campbell, of Cameron, Ariz., was elected vice president. The three new directors who were chosen by election are: Karl B. Stowe of Hamburg, Iowa; C. N. Comstock of Albany, Mo., and Thos. Clark of Beecher, Ill.

The directors recommended that the sum of $20,000 be appropriated to directors to promote the interest of the Hereford breeders the coming year. Some of this money will be expended south of the equator line in the form of a pretty general desire on the part of southern members to have their sum concentrated in one big show, preferably at Fort Worth.

WILL BE DISEASED CATTLE. MONTEREY, Mexico, Oct. 15.—Information was received here yesterday that no diseased cattle shall be brought out to the state of Chihuahua. These are the orders issued by Governor Creel to the Jefes Politicos of the districts of Bravos and Galeana, along the border. The reason for these orders are that the governor has been informed the cattle from the quarantined portions of Texas were to be imported into this state. The officials of the two districts named are to inspect thoroughly all cattle to be imported through Juarez and other border points. Chihuahua has a thorough sanitary code and articles 17 to 23 inclusive provide for such cases as the importation of live stock into the state. AN AWFUL INHERITANCE. While it is true that Scrofula may be acquired under certain conditions, it is usually inherited. Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or family blood taint of any character, are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, poor digestion, weak eyes, Catarrh, emaciated bodies and general weak constitutions are the principal ways in which the disease is manifested. The blood has been diseased from birth, and being in this condition cannot properly nourish the body and Scrofula is the result. A hereditary disease like this can only be reached, by a constitutional remedy and nothing equals S. S. S. as a cure for it. It cleanses and strengthens the weakened blood, drives out all scrofulous and tubercular deposits, and there is a gradual but sure return to health. S. S. S. supplies to the anemic, lifeless blood the properties necessary to build back to strong, robust health, and does this gently and so thoroughly that no signs of the disease are ever seen in after life. Being purely vegetable S. S. S. is the best remedy for Scrofula; its harmless but healing ingredients enter into the circulation and replace wax-like, bloodless faces with vigorous strength glowing with health. ROCKEFELLER'S HOME IS QUEERLY FURNISHED

Old and New Fashioned Furniture Side by Side—Steel Engravings and Paintings

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—A few days ago a delegation of big bug citizens of Cleveland went out to John D. Rockefeller's summer home at Forest Hill, just outside of town. The visit was partly, as advertised, to tell John D. what a good fellow he is, but mostly for purposes of rubbering. There was plenty to rubber at even after they had fed fat their eyes on John and his wig. It's a big house, this warm weather manor of the oil king's up in the woods, and as belted jolliers of money greatness, as well as the reporters who went along to print jollies of the jolliers, were given the run of the house. "See there! Look! Look!" gasped a banker in a hoarse whisper. "I don't see anything but a handsome Tiffany clock," growled his companion. "Nothing strange about it except that it must have cost a thousand or so." "You're dense," the first speaker said. "What do you think of the richest man in the world keeping sun time?" The man addressed hastily compared the clock with his watch. His watch told him that it was 5 p. m. by the generally accepted railroad time, and John D.'s clock announced that it was 33 minutes past 5.

A number of old-fashioned notions abound in the Rockefeller house. The pictures on the wall are a conglomeration. There are oil paintings, steel engravings, photographs and pictures of every kind. The weather-beaten old steel engravings which may be found in farm houses through the length and breadth of the land. "The First Reading of the Emancipation Proclamation, showing Lincoln and his cabinet, occupies a conspicuous place on the walls of the oil king's reception hall. The furniture in the house is a queer combination of the old and the new, the antique and the modern. Some of the pieces have the appearance of having done service in the Rockefeller home for many years. There are hundreds of dining room tables in Cleveland homes on modest side streets more elaborate than the Rockefeller table. The white damask cloth is inclined to be "skippy."

All through the house pretentious Chippendale turns up its aristocratic nose and rubs elbows with more modest pieces. The curtain over the dining room entrance is hung with the most mathematical precision, even the wrinkles showing as though they had been molded in wax. The conservatory is one of the most beautiful spots in the house. It contains graceful palms, easy chairs and Turkish rugs, and through its heavy glass a view of the lake can be obtained over the tops of the giant oaks and elms.

The telephone room is interesting. Search as hard as you please you will not find the name of John D. Rockefeller in either of the telephone books. He doesn't wish to be bothered with calls. But a little side room near the kitchen contains plenty of phones. There is the Bell and the independent with books hanging on each. Then there is one phone which connects only with the lodge at the entrance of Forest Hill, another over which the Standard Oil king can hold instant communication with 26 Broadway, New York, and one more which is an exchange over which any room in the house can be called up. Number so and so is the room of Mrs. Rockefeller, another Miss Spelman's room. The guest chambers are connected and can be communicated with instantly.

SPORTING SALAD

Speaking of the lightweight champion title, Parson Davies said: "There is no question that Gans should be accepted as the champion. Should the colored man refuse to battle with Nelson, or refuse to make the weight, the title might be passed over his head. As it is, the colored man has the right to claim the title, he won from Frank Erne as long as he is willing to scrap for it and until he loses the decision." Davies adds that he thinks Nelson the best fighter in the world at his weight.

The talk about Yale's lack of weight in the center of the line was usual expedient early-season sadness. Andrus, Boggs and Paige total the scales for 429 pounds. Another find for the line is Forbes, Wesleyan's former captain.

Something of a one-armed wonder is Roy McCardell, who has been elected captain of St. John's College at Annapolis. BOB FITZSIMMONS TO BACK WIFE'S SHOW

Says He's Going to Be An "Angel," but Is Still Ready to Fight Marvin Hart

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 15.—"I'm going to be an angel," said Bob Fitzsimmons as he donned his trunk to go four rounds at the Empire Theater, and in the next breath he said he was ready to meet Hart at any time and that he would rather fight than eat.

The statement of Fitzsimmons to the effect that he was going to be an angel does not mean that he has joined the Salvation Army or that he is training unusually hard in religious quarters. Fitz will retire from the stage, according to the statement, but the angelic part of his career refers to the fact that an opera is being written for his wife and that he will become the backer. Therefore he styles his future role as that of an angel, inasmuch as he is to be the financial backer of the company.

Regarding his willingness to fight Hart he says the stakes must be all receipts and a side bet of $5,000. Incidentally, he says there must be but one set of articles, not two, as in the Britt fight, when there was a set of articles for the newspapers and a side agreement between the two fights. He says he is sure on that score of fighting and that he will show a fair fight if Hart will meet him. Bob says he wants to carry the middleweight belt to his grave unless he sees fit to turn it over to someone who can protect it.

OUR INSULAR POSSESSIONS
General Luke Wright, the democratic governor general of the Philippines, has tendered his resignation and will soon return to his home in Tennessee, where it is said he will enter state politics. General Wright's action in the premises was a great surprise to the country, as it was inferred from his public utterances during the last national campaign that he was so enamored of Roosevelt and so pleased with his official position under a republican administration that he might eventually find his way into the republican party. General Wright, it is said, has lately become dissatisfied with some of his environments, and is not in perfect accord with some of the plans proposed for the benefit of the islands. It is believed the record-breaking trip of Secretary Taft was connected with the crisis that was developing in the situation, as the announcement of Wright's retirement was made immediately upon his return from the islands. The real cause of the friction has not yet been made public, and will not be until the dissatisfied governor general has arrived at home and is entirely relieved from any connection with the government. It is believed, however, that the situation was quite acute or General Wright would not have taken such summary action. Conditions in the Philippines are little understood in this country, where as a general thing only the most favorable reports are permitted to circulate. The congressional party which accompanied Secretary Taft upon his recent junket are beginning to talk, however, and they are disclosing some unwholesome facts. Congressman Sherry of Kentucky, who was one of the three southern congressmen in the party, says:

My trip to the Philippines has strengthened my previous opinion that the existing position of the islands is a mistake, and that the day is far distant when it ever arrives, when, in the slang of the day, the Philippines "will pay." I have realized, however, that whether our acquisition was fortunate or not, it will doubtless hold the islands indefinitely, and both because of the practical difficulties surrounding their relinquishment and the racial reluctance of Anglo-Saxons to surrender them. Their possession gives to the United States the opportunity of setting a new standard for the world in colonial government. The unbroken record of such government has been the enormous advance in world morality, the sincerity of the American people in this regard is doubted by almost all Europeans in the Orient, and, unfortunately, there are many Americans in the islands who do not hesitate to declare that the Philippines is unworthy of its country and incapable of development, and insist that the islands should be opened to American investment and capital by large concessions of lands and privileges and that Chinese immigration be not only permitted, but encouraged in order that the material wealth of the islands may be developed, and thus give color to the opinions of our critics. The expense of maintaining this increasing difficulty of our problem becomes more and more apparent. To prevent them from controlling the policy of the islands will be not the least of our troubles, as the attempt will always be made under the guise of a development of natural resources. Many years will have to pass before any marked improvement in the people takes place, and the expense of improvement is likely to continue without any abatement. How long the American people, with their slight knowledge of the Philippines and growing indifference as to conditions there, will they be able to continue this altruistic endeavor, can only be told by events themselves.

The Filipino is now totally unfit for self-government, and in my judgment will be for several generations. Public opinion as we know it in this country does not exist, and what passes as such is simply the view of a very limited number of Filipinos in the towns and cities, and comes overnight. Eighty per cent of the people have no real conception of government in any particular. Those who are educated to some appreciation of governmental functions are possessed of half-truths only, and if they are given control and could maintain it would by virtue of this half-knowledge speedily bankrupt the country. And, more unfortunate than the lack of real knowledge, is the frequent issuance of public utterances in the prosperous and best educated. With rare exceptions the rich and educated class are not full-blooded Filipinos, but have a large admixture of Spanish or Chinese blood, sometimes of both, and largely constitute the agitators for immediate independence, and if put into power would use the functions of government to enrich themselves and their immediate families. Judging from these expressions, it is evident that our tenure in the Philippines is very indefinite. According to those who have investigated into the conditions existing in that unhappy country, the natives are utterly incapable of self-government, as much as they are pining and howling for its coveted blessings, and there is nothing this government can do but proceed with the work in which it is now engaged of fitting them if possible for the future responsibilities that must rest upon them. It will be a long time before it will be conceded that the Filipinos are capable of administering their own affairs. That fact will be urged just as long as people in the United States favor the retention of the islands, and there is little in the situation to encourage our dusky friends. There seems nothing for them to do but acquiesce with the plans of this government and accept the liberties that are to be given them gradually and according to their developed ability to appreciate and apply them. In the Philippine islands we clearly have a large-sized elephant on our hands.

ANOTHER PEBBLE ON THE BEACH
Harris county passed Dallas this year. It has been in and tuck for several years. In 1904 Dallas county led. Next year its tax assessor should be able to place Harris far in the rear on a showing of assessed values. The other day the Times-Herald remarked, "Harris rivalry is all right, but the Texas cities are making marvelous strides. The response of the Houston Post is reproduced: "Right you are. While Houston's ambition to be the first city of the state is not a noble one, it is a noble one. The Houston Post says: "The assessed values for Harris county are $43,322,954, an increase over 1904 of $2,238,830. Dallas county can go another year next year. Not in it this time." The Dallas paper responds: "Go up ahead. The Humble oil district did the work. Poor old Texas county." The Telegram has not interfered with the argument of its estimable contemporaries by calling them down on their little arrangement, on account of awaiting the Tarrant county official figures. These have now come to hand, and Tarrant county proceeds to take her rightful position at the very head of the procession. Tarrant county's increase in taxable values for the past year amounts to $3,500,000. These figures represent an increase of $1,100,000 over Dallas county, and $350,150 over Harris county.

The Telegram should be pardoned for crowing lustily. The showing made by Tarrant county justifies its "exuberance of joy." Texas is jumping out of sight in population and wealth and Texas cities are more than keeping pace with the growth of the state—rather the rural sections. By the way, the Telegram is not hidebound. It is a progressive newspaper and a progressive newspaper could not be a hidebound newspaper, even if it tried. Speaking of the state fair, our neighbor, the big enterprise the following editorial boost: "The Dallas Fair promises to be a great institution this year and should be liberally patronized. It belongs to all Texas and should not be regarded in the light of a Dallas enterprise. While it is worth much to Dallas, it is worth more to Texas, and should receive recognition at the hands of all progressive Texas people." Stand up for Texas!—Dallas Times-Herald.

The Telegram always stands up for Texas, and is a friend to every legitimate Texas institution. There is no shriveling localism about the Telegram. It is actuated at all times by the same broadness that is characteristic of Fort Worth and all that pertains to Fort Worth. The Telegram has contended for the past year that Fort Worth was growing faster than any other Texas city, and the contention was received with incredulity by some Texas newspapers. But when the tax rolls for the present year were completed it disclosed the fact that Tarrant county leads the entire state. That is glory enough for the Telegram, and accounts for that exuberance of joy with which it has insisted that Tarrant county be accorded its rightful position at the very head of the procession.

Great is Tarrant county, but greater still is the proud and progressive city of Fort Worth—the Queen City of the entire southwest. A Texas has made the remarkable discovery that Theodore Roosevelt is to be a candidate for the presidency again on a Bryan and Roosevelt platform. It will be remembered the President admitted while in Fort Worth that he was a middle-aged good democrat.

The Sunday Telegram always prints all the news that is fit to print, and for that reason never discriminates its friends and patrons. When you get the Sunday Telegram you can always depend upon it that you have the very best there is going. The Jackson county grand jury has adjourned without finding an indictment against the negro, Monk Gibson. That fact would seem to indicate there is some doubt concerning his guilt, after all. There should be no abatement of the determination to call out and elect the best legislative material in every district in the state. This is a duty the people owe to themselves. It is believed the special session of the state legislature so earnestly desired by Judge Terrell and others will be convened about the first of January. Better late than never. The largest increase in taxable values of any county in the state—that is Tarrant county, and Fort Worth is the biggest thing in Tarrant county. The Wise Ones have discovered that tea drinkers talk gossip while they drink, but that the smoker gossips about no one and is at peace with the world. However, no one will see women acquire the habit of smoking. "Our office boy dropped into poetry yesterday. He says that 'The litter-birdy' after kicked him into the waste basket."—Cleveland Leader.

Independence, and if put into power would use the functions of government to enrich themselves and their immediate families. Judging from these expressions, it is evident that our tenure in the Philippines is very indefinite. According to those who have investigated into the conditions existing in that unhappy country, the natives are utterly incapable of self-government, as much as they are pining and howling for its coveted blessings, and there is nothing this government can do but proceed with the work in which it is now engaged of fitting them if possible for the future responsibilities that must rest upon them. THE TRAGEDY OF BETRAYAL

BY I. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

I nodded. "My uncle," I said, "gave me a holiday and a sovereign to spend. He told me that a great piece of good fortune had happened to me."
Colonel Ray smiled grimly. "That was like old Stephen Ducaigne," he remarked. "He died himself a few years afterwards."
"Three years."
"He left you ten thousand pounds. What have you done with it?"
"Mr. Heathcote, of Heathcote, Sons & Vase, was my trustee. The firm failed for a quarter of a million. Mr. Heathcote shot himself."
Colonel Ray smoked on in silence. "Backward for you," he remarked at last.
I laughed a little bitterly. "I sold my things at Magdalen, and paid my debts. I was promised two pupa if I would take a house somewhere on this coast. I took one and got ready for them with my last few pounds. Their father died suddenly—and they did not come. I got rid of the house, a sacrifice, and came to this cottage."
Ray was silent again, and I regarded him for a few minutes without speaking. He was a man whose fame was in everyone's mouth—soldier, traveler and diplomatist. For many years he had been living hand and glove with life and death. There were many who spoke well of him, and many ill—many to whom he was a hero, many to whom his very name was like poison. In my little cottage he seemed like a giant, six-foot-two, broad, and swart, with the burning fire of tropical suns. He seemed to fill the place, to dominate me and my paltry surroundings.

"You have asked me," I said at last, "many questions. I am emboldened to ask you one. You have spoken of my father."
The look he threw upon me was little short of terrible. "As," he answered, "I have spoken of him. Let me tell you this young man. If I believed that you were a creature of his breed, if I believed that a drop of his blood ran in your veins, I could take you by the neck now and throw you into the sea. The creek where the water was deep enough to drown."
I rose to my feet, trembling.

"If those are your feelings, sir," I declared, "I have no wish to claim your kindness."
"Sit down, boy," he answered coldly. "I have no fear of you. Nature does not play us so evil a trick as to send us two such as he in successive generations."
He rose and looked out of the window. Black clouds were driven furiously across the sky, torrents of rain and spray beat upon the roof. "It is an awful night," I said. "I cannot offer you a bed unless you will take mine, but I can bring rugs and a pillow to the fire if you will lie there."
"I thank you," he said. "The walk is nothing, and you will expect me to Rochester. Write down what I tell you—Colonel Mowbray Ray, 17 Sussex square. You have that? Good! It is my address. Presently I think you will get tired of your life here. Come then to me."

He took up the lantern. To my surprise, he did not offer to shake hands. Without another word he passed out into the darkness. In my dreams that night I fancied that a strange cry came ringing in my ears from the marshes—a long-drawn-out cry of terror, ending in a sob. I was weary, and I turned on my side again and slept.

CHAPTER III The Cry in the Night

"You'd be having company last night, sir?" Mrs. Hollings remarked inquisitively.
Mrs. Hollings was an elderly widow who devoted two hours of her morning to cleaning my rooms and preparing my breakfast.
"Some friends did call," I answered pouring out the coffee.
"Friends! Good Samaritans I should call 'em," Mrs. Hollings declared, "if so be as they left all the things I found here this morning. Why, there's a whole chicken, to say nothing of tongue and biscuits, and butter, and relishes, and savories, the names of which isn't often heard in this part of the world. There's wine, too, with gold paper round the top, champagne wine, do believe."
"Would you mind seeing to my room now, Mrs. Hollings?" I asked. "I am going out early this morning."
I finished my breakfast in haste and catching up my hat escaped out of doors.

The sky was blue and cloudless. The whole land, saturated still with the fast receding sea, seemed to gleam and glitter with a strange iridescence. There was salt in the very atmosphere. About 200 yards past my cottage the road took a sharp turn inland, leaving the coast abruptly on account of the greater stretch of marshland beyond. It was toward this bend that I walked, and, curiously enough, with every step I took some inexplicable sense of nervous excitement grew stronger and stronger within me. The fresh morning air and the sunlight seemed powerless to dissipate for a moment the haunting terror of last night. It was a real face which I had seen pressed against the window, and where had Ray been when he returned with sand-clogged boots and the telltale seaweed upon his trousers? And later on, had I dreamed it, or had there really been a cry? It came back to me with horrible distinctness. It was a real cry, the cry of a man in terror for his life. I stopped short in the road and wiped my damp forehead. What a fool I was! The night was over. Here in the garish day there was surely nothing to fear! Nevertheless, I, who had startnameless but loathsome fascination drew me from my seat, drew me with uneven and reluctant footsteps out of the gate and down the narrow straight road. There was still not a soul in sight. I drew nearer and nearer to the spot. Once more I essayed to move him. It was utterly in vain. Such nerve as I possessed had left me wholly and altogether. A sense of repulsion, nauseating, insupportable, made me shudder. I stood up and looked around wildly. Then for the first time I saw what my right foot had trodden into the sand.

I picked it up. It was a man's signet ring, thin and worn smooth with age. It was quaintly shaped, and in the center was set a small jet-black stone. The device was a bird, and underneath the motto—"Vince!"
I slipped the ring into my waistcoat pocket and moved back to the white railings. Taking a pipe and tobacco from my pocket, I began to smoke.
Strangely enough, I had now recovered my nerve. I was able to think and reason calmly. The woman at the lodge had taken it for granted that this man's body had been thrown up by the sea. Was that a possible conclusion? There was a line all down the sands where the tide had reached, a straggling uneven line marked with huge masses of wet seaweeds, fragments of timber, the floats and jetsam of the sea. The creek where the man's body was lying was forty yards above this. Yet on such a night you could say where those great breakers, driven by the wind as well as by their own mighty force, might not have cast their prey? Within a few yards of him was a jagged mass of timber. The cause of those wounds would be obvious enough. I felt the ring in my waistcoat pocket—it was there, safely enough hidden, and I looked toward the lodge. As yet there were no signs of John or the cart.
But behind me, coming from the village, I heard the sound of light and rapid footsteps. I turned my head. It was Blanche Mowbray, short-skirted, a stick in her hand, a feather stuck through her Tam O'Shanter.

"Good morning," she cried out heartily. "I've been to call at your cottage. Very kind of you," I answered, hesitatingly.
"Miss Mowbray was good-hearted, but a little overbearing—and in certain moods she reminded me of her father."
"Oh, I had an errand," she explained, laughing. "Father said if I saw you I was to say that he has to call on the duke this afternoon, and, if you liked, he would explain about your lecture last night, and try and get the village hall for you for nothing. The duke is very good-natured, and if he knows that he spoils your evening, father thinks he might let you have it for nothing."
"It is very kind of your father," I answered. "I do not think that I shall ever give that lecture again."
"Why not?" she protested. "I am sure I thought it a beautiful lecture, and I'm not keen on churches and ruins myself," she added, with a laugh. "What are you doing here?"
"Watching the dead," I answered grimly.

She looked at me for an explanation. I pointed to the dark object by the side of the creek. She screamed and caught hold of my arm.
"Mr. Ducaigne!" she cried. "What is it?"
"A dead man!" I answered.
"Oh, how horrible!" she exclaimed. "I don't know whether I want to look or not. I've never seen any one dead."
"I should advise you," I said, "to go away."
It was apparently the last thing she desired to do.
"You are sure he is dead?" she asked.
"Quite," I answered.
"Was he drowned, then?"
"I think," I replied, "that he has been washed up by the tide. There has probably been a shipwreck."
"Gracious!" she exclaimed, "it is just a sailor, then?"
"I have not looked at his face," I answered, "and I should not advise you to. He has been tossed about and injured. His clothes, though, are not a seaman's."
She passed through a gap in the railings.

She advanced to within a couple of yards of him, then stopped short. A little exclamation escaped her lips.
"Why, Mr. Ducaigne," she cried out, "this is the very man who stopped me last night outside our house, and asked the way to your cottage."
(To be continued.)

THOSE GOO-GOO EYES
Out in Texas you must never
Wink at ladies or endeavor
To inspire admiration with a sentimental eye.
If you steal a glance at Sadie,
Mabel, Maude, Estelle or Madie,
They will fine you promptly and a Texas fine comes high.

Refrain
Just because he made those goo-goo eyes,
The copper pinches a clap about his size;
In defense he said a cinder
Made him wink his wardward winder,
But the girl he winked at called it goo-goo eyes.

Old Broadway's as gay as ever
And the chappies just as clever
As they stroll the big White Roadway
With an ever-rolling eye;
Ocular devours to beauty;
Still they deem their daily duty,
And they coyly lift an eyelid at My Lady passing by.

Refrain
Just because they make those goo-goo eyes,
Western women stare in mild surprise;
Texas law may call it vile,
But New Yorkers only smile—
And they keep right on a-making goo-goo eyes.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR
It is generally unlucky to propose to a girl who is sure to accept you.
Before a woman marries a man she wants him to write poetry for her; afterward checks will do.
A woman's idea of having a good time is going off somewhere with all the family, a man's without any of them.
When a thin woman puts on her winter clothes she brags herself to death about the extra pound she has gained.
There is hardly a nightdream a man can have worse than to dream that he has started to stoke the furnace a month ahead of time.—New York Press.

A maiden on the seashore sate, a man was with her paired; he longed for her to know his fate, but to ask it he'er had dared. And she, ah, she liked not a bit that he each time had stopped and, on the point of popping it, the question had not popped. So when again he took her hand, she said, "Oh, you're a peach. If what she you is lack of sand, please get some from the beach."

In "Fantana" the valet speaks of his romance thusly: "I used to be in love with a girl named Agnes. I think it was love; I know it was Agnes. I met her at the house of my employer. She tended the door, while I washed the windows, so from the first we had the same outlook."
He called the new girl "Birdie."

LAND CASE APPEALED
Supreme Court Will Decide Case of Oklahoma Origin
GUTHRIE, Okla., Oct. 15.—The case of Sam Lee and George P. Endicott vs. Herbert B. Ellis is a land contest case from Kay county, has been appealed to the United States supreme court from the Oklahoma supreme court. This case involves the homesteading of lands in the Cherokee strip, when persons made the run from the Chilocco reservation. Lee and Endicott claim that Ellis made the run from the reservation and is therefore a "sooner." The general land department held Ellis a legal homesteader and gave him a deed.

GREATEST IN THE WORLD

Is the Gaskill Carnival Company, Which Furnishes the Amusements for the Eagles' Carnival

The above-named company, which appears in Fort Worth, Oct. 22, for one week, has just closed its first tour through Colorado, where in five cities, viz: Denver, Cripple Creek, Leadville, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, nearly a quarter of a million people paid admission on the main attraction, the big Midway. The company has returned in three of those towns.

This is saying much when no other carnival company in the country ever did a paying business in any of the above named towns.

This company must not be confounded with the general run of so-called carnivals shows touring the country, but is absolutely the best and cleanest aggregation of a like character in existence. The Gaskill shows have for four years past furnished the amusement for Louisville, Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Three successive seasons in Detroit, Dayton, Toledo, Indianapolis and Memphis, and two successive seasons in cities too numerous to mention and but for their western tour could have covered the same territory this season. The company does not carry a single show which would offend the most fastidious. On the contrary every attraction is clean, moral and instructive and to this fact alone is due its unprecedented success.

STOCKMEN PROTEST AGAINST THE CHARGE

Wyoming Cattlemen Say Fee for Use of Forest Reserve Is Unjust

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 15.—The protest which Wyoming stockmen, who have been in the habit of ranging their live stock on government forest reserves, will make to the new policy of charging for grazing permits on the reserves has been formulated, as follows:

"To the Honorable Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.:

"Sir—We, the undersigned, bona fide resident ranchmen and stockmen in that part of Wyoming adjoining the Yellowstone and other forest reserves, do most respectfully and earnestly petition your honor to withhold the contemplated grazing tax on our cattle, our one and only marketable commodity. We desire, sir, your personal consideration of our peculiar situation, together with the following reasons which impel us to make this petition:

"We are from seventy-five to 100 miles from the railroad. Our homes are high up in the mountains, far distant from the more settled parts of the state and, of necessity, we have to drive our stock to make live weight. The cattle raising industry differs from that of sheep raising, in that it requires a residence on and improvement of the immediate portion of the country utilized.

"Pioneers in the Desert

"We have wrested our ranches from a barren desert, and made of them blooming meadows, valuable only in connection with an outside free and open range; we have added thousands of dollars to the taxable property of our state, and our country, being new and sparsely settled, our taxes are extremely high and fall heavily on our ranch property. In addition to our state and county tax, we have to protect our cattle against predatory wild animals, and a local tax on this, another drain on our meager incomes, while the profits on cattle are small and require large outlays of money, which is not always our own, for the maintenance of ranches and cattle.

"We feel that it is unjust to require that the few stockmen who live in the vicinity of the reserves be asked to bear the burden of supporting the forest reserves, when so many settlers fifty to 100 miles below reap a direct benefit from stock waters for irrigation; and further, while the people who live in the vicinity of the coast, and who derive much of their support from traffic and fishing in the waters around the coast, are asked to pay for harbor improvements and other improvements made necessary for their protection.

"The fact that there has been a free range here was the cause of our coming out lot with the country and striving by every possible means to build it up and make existence here possible. We have spent much time, labor and money in the upbuilding and improvement of our ranches. We have already paid the government much money for lands in the remote regions, and have more to pay.

"This because we felt that with a free and unrestricted range there

CONDUCTOR DIES ON HIS OWN TRAIN

L. H. Marshall Found Dead in Berth of Train He Managed

L. H. Marshall of this city, conductor on the Denver road, died Sunday night in a Pullman berth upon the train that had been under his charge for some time.

Mr. Marshall, who resided with his wife at 1601 Belmont street, this city, died shortly before the passenger train left Childress for the run to this city. Death was due to heart failure, following asthma, from which he had been suffering for some time.

Peeling ill at the time he was called to bring the passenger train into Fort Worth, Mr. Marshall asked that another conductor be assigned to the train, which was done. He went into the sleeping car and retired, but before the train left Childress he was found dead.

Mr. Marshall, who was 58 years of age, is survived by his wife. The body will be taken to Wood River, Neb., for interment.

One of the oldest conductors in the service of the Denver road, Mr. Marshall had the reputation of being an exemplary employe, having the esteem of his superiors in the service. "He was the best man in the service," was the statement made at general offices of the company today.

The membership of this body is peculiar in that it is sometimes found in independent Holiness churches but more often the members are also members of the other churches. The association maintains excellent rescue homes throughout the state, the most prominent being at Arlington and Pilot Point.

MANY CASES OF DIPHTHERIA FOUND

Total for September as Shown by City Physicians Report Was Forty-Two

Forty-two cases of diphtheria were reported to the city physician during the month of September, as shown by the monthly health report submitted for city council tonight.

One case of scarlet fever and four of typhoid fever are the only other contagious diseases reported.

Twenty-seven deaths occurred from causes among whites and fifteen among negroes, thirty-five being resident and seven non-resident.

Forty-four children were born to whites and four to negroes.

Thirty-two hospital cases were treated, total pauper and hospital bill including medicines being $391.50.

The report also shows that 1,385 premises were inspected, 430 notices given, 145 nuisances abated, 1,230 closets nuisances abated and ten gallons of oil used.

Another matter to come before the council is the petition of the Benevolent Home asking $150, the amount of the monthly contribution of $50 by council for the months of July, August and September.

Concerning the bids for machinery for the new water works plant, which were opened by the water works committee Saturday afternoon, Alderman John E. Lehane said today:

"The water works committee will have no recommendation to make to city council at its regular meeting tonight for the reason that we were unable to decide intelligently in the matter of awarding the contract to furnish the necessary machinery as advertised. The city engineer was unable to attend the committee meeting and, as we did not consider ourselves proper judges in the matter, adjournment was taken until such time as may be convenient for the members of the committee."

It is also possible the provisions of the "Jim Crow" ordinance may again be brought before council being under discussion this morning.

KEELER REPORTED TO HEAD DENVER

Denver Report Says He Will Have Entire Charge of Line Succeeding Herbert

Nothing definite has been learned regarding the report that Vice President of the Rocky Mountain Division of the Denver Road, is to be placed in entire charge of this property, to succeed J. M. Herbert, who is vice president of the Fort Worth and Denver City as well as the Colorado and Southern.

Mr. Keeler is out of the city and will not be at his office before Tuesday morning. Other officials of the Denver Road are expected to be in the city by Tuesday morning, according to statements made today by Denver Road officials.

Friday's list of Denver papers, Friday's list are conflicting in detailing rumors to the effect that there are strained relations between Mr. Trumbull and Mr. Herbert. One paper says that because of this condition the resignation of the latter has been asked for by the head of the system. This story was printed in an afternoon paper at Denver. The following morning the Rocky Mountain News published a story referring to the rumored differences between Mr. Trumbull and Mr. Herbert, but no reference was made to the probabilities of Mr. Keeler's succeeding Mr. Herbert. The matter will not be known here until Mr. Keeler's return Tuesday.

CLOUDY WEATHER YIELDS NO RAIN

Same Condition With Higher Temperatures Predicted for Tonight and Tuesday

Temperature at Fort Worth as reported by the local station of the weather bureau for the 24 hours ending at 8 to 74 degrees. The wind had a velocity of eleven miles an hour, against ten miles at Abilene, the same at Amarillo and four miles an hour at Galveston. The weather continues cloudy in this vicinity and slightly warmer temperatures are looked for this afternoon and tonight.

A low area of barometer extending from the western edge of the Rocky mountains from Salt Lake City through Durango, Colo., is indicated as moving Texasward.

Rain is of little consequence. A light cold rain occurred at St. Paul, Bismarck reports a maximum temperature of 29 degrees, the highest point reached at that point being but 44 degrees.

The temperature at New Orleans ranged from 70 to 82 degrees, the wind having a velocity of 10 miles an hour and slight traces of precipitation being noted.

Original statement of weather conditions at reported are as follows:

"An area of high barometer is central over the Ohio valley, influencing conditions in general east of the Missouri, causing light frost in Illinois, Western Missouri and killing frost in Minnesota.

"A barometric depression dominates the upper lake regions, causing snow-fall in the upper lakes and over South Dakota.

"The southwest quarter of the country is under low pressure, but no foul weather conditions have developed.

"The cotton belt is under cloudy to cloudy, temperatures are about normal, and little rain of importance is noted.

Partly cloudy weather, and warmer conditions, may be expected in Fort Worth and vicinity during the next 24 hours, due to the barometric depression incoming from the west."

Forecast for Fort Worth and vicinity, issued at New Orleans, is:

"East Texas—Tonight and Tuesday, partly cloudy weather; warmer tonight in north portion."

WASTING AWAY

It's the small but constant loss of flesh that indicates physical waste—the gradual slipping away of healthy flesh, pound by pound, which no ordinary food seems to restore. Scott's Emulsion will restore it. This Emulsion is the greatest flesh builder obtainable. First stops the wasting—that's one gain. Then when it supplies new flesh and takes one back to normal strength and weight, that's another gain and a big one.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Early London cables were irregular on American stocks. The local market opened fractionally lower and met with rather heavy selling pressure during the initial trading. Among the rails Canadian Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Southern and Southern Pacific were probably the most active, while all the industrials showed weakness. However, there were no declines of any particular importance and trading was rather light and confined to professionals. Sales to night 182,200 shares. Money on call at 6 per cent.

The market recovered slightly during the afternoon. There were no features of interest and the close was firm, but showed a general loss on the day, with Canadian Pacific the heaviest loser at 1.1-1/2 points below the close of Saturday.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Wheat ruled rather quiet today. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1-1/4 off. The local opening was 1-5/8 lower. Aside from the first half hour, the undertone was firm, trading was light, but reports of a large demand from continental sources held prices up and the market closed at the high point at an advance of 3-8 on the day. Local receipts, 51 cars; Minneapolis and Duluth received 576 cars; primary receipts, 1,323,460 bushels; shipments, 344,373 bushels against 718,719 bushels last year.

Corn was steady, closing unchanged to 1-5/8 higher. Local receipts 275 cars. Primary movement, 288,580 bushels. Shipments, 398,375 against 409,468 bushels last year.

Oats were quiet and steady, the close showing a net advance of 1-8 to 1-4-1/2. Receipts, 922 cars.

Provisions were dull and inactive. January options are unchanged.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 19 cars; corn, 284 cars; oats, 477 cars.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Cotton is dominated at present almost entirely by the weather map. The favorable reports from this source and the weaker tone of the foreign market, connected with lack of support by the local crowd, brought on another decline today. The market opened 9 to 10 points lower and ruled steady until noon, but weakened during the last hour of trading and closed within a few cents of the low of the day, at a loss of 10 to 18 points for near positions.

Spots are off 15 points, with middling at 9.50. Sales amounted to 100 bales and 1,100 bales were delivered on contract.

STORY THAT ENGLAND PROPOSED ALLIANCE WITH FRANCE IS REITERATED

(Special Cable to The Telegram—Copyright, 1915, by Hearst News Service.)

BY MALCOLM CLARK.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—A great sensation has been caused here by the fact that the French socialist leader, Jaures, has issued a statement that, from his own personal knowledge, knows that the revolutionaries in France are in contact with the French minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, in Le Martin are true. He says that even before the downfall of the minister he knew that he was incurring a great risk by his foreign policy announced that a war with Germany was unavoidable. After such a statement there can be no doubt that England promised to send an army of 100,000 men to Schieweg-Houston and to block the Kaiser's Wilhelms canal with English men-of-war. The German press, and especially the Kolnische Zeitung, insists that the German government cannot any longer afford to treat the revolutionaries lightly and is making an explanation from England. At the foreign department it was told this morning that so far no official correspondence has taken place between the department and the French minister of foreign affairs, but it is thought that the French government is not thinking that the affair will cause any mysterious complications.

TRADE NOTES

Never wash a horse with cold water when he is heated.

Feed the horses regularly three times daily, but do not overfeed.

A thrifty animal, full of robust health, vigorous strength, is more capable of resisting the poison of contagious diseases successfully than the unthrifty animal.

If there are any sick or unthrifty sheep in the flock, separate them and if possible, market them in some way. It will not pay to winter them.

Get in line now to supply pedigree cattle, as the prices advance and high grades for the market.

Don't fasten the sow up in a small pen from which she is expelled all air and light, as sunshine and fresh air are two of the best disinfectants known in the world.

As the value of a horse is regulated by the cost of keep, this matter is worth considering when contemplating a purchase.

From the time a colt is foaled each day should see some substantial gain made in its development.

LAMAR COUNTY POSSES HUNTING FOR NEGRO OPERATION FOR GOVERNOR J. S. HOGG

Entered Home of Constable and Attempted to Kill Litter's Wife

Step Will Likely Be Taken Here Late Today—Condition Unchanged

Dr. F. D. Thompson, attending Governor J. S. Hogg, this afternoon reports that the governor's condition is practically the same, although he has rested well since Sunday morning.

"I believe that he will do as well in Fort Worth as elsewhere," said Dr. Thompson, "as he will have good attention in this city." This statement was made in response to the query as to whether Governor Hogg will be taken to Mineral Wells. It was said this morning that he would likely be taken there this afternoon, but no definite decision has been reached. It is barely probable that he may remain in Fort Worth for a time at least.

Dr. Thompson said this afternoon that an operation on the governor will probably be made late today.

PARIS, Texas, Oct. 16.

A negro entered the home of Constable Ralph Payne in the county this morning and attempted to kill the latter's wife. The negro exclaimed "I have killed thirteen women already." The woman's screams attracted the neighbors, and the negro escaped, but the entire section is searching for him.

STUDENTS ARE ALARMED PRESIDENT ANGEIL PUTS QUIETUS ON PRACTICE OF HAZING

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 16.—Students of the University of Michigan are alarmed at the drastic action President Angeil and the university senate have taken in expelling the eleven students for hazing.

The particular act of brutality which caused the expulsion of eleven men was the hazing of Professor Butterfield and another member of the faculty, whom in the dark they had mistaken for freshmen.

The instructors, together with several freshmen, were compelled to climb trees, and afterward they were brought down and compelled to kneel on the ground before coeds in a proposing attitude. While they knelt the sophomores poured eggs and milk over their heads. Then they were made to walk a picket fence and finally ducked in the botanical ponds.

OFFICER INJURED

T. J. Maben Thrown From Horse This Morning

Officer T. J. Maben of the Fort Worth police department had a narrow escape about 8:30 o'clock this morning when he was thrown from his horse in a collision with a car on the corner of Twelfth and Houston streets, when, seeing that he was likely to be entangled in a block of traffic, he was thrown from his horse to the part of several drivers at the corner, he started to turn down Twelfth to Throckmorton street.

A newspaper blowing up in front of his horse, she jumped and fell with the officer. "Uncle Tom's Horse" Maben is affectionately known at city hall, sustained a severe sprain of the wrist, sprains in the back and was injured in the face, but fairly bruised in various places. Arriving at headquarters he insisted upon remaining on duty, although hardly able to get about. The injuries, while painful, are hardly considered serious.

DEMAND FOR GOATS IN SOUTHWEST GROWING

Kansas City Declared Greatest Market for Brush-Cleaning Butters

"Kansas City is the great goat market in the world," said W. T. McIntire, a great goat dealer at the stock yards yesterday afternoon.

"Nowhere else do they meet with a greater demand for goats. It is my opinion that it is only a matter of a short time before goats will sell higher than sheep. Before are just as useful to the realization of the manifold uses of the goat and the great value of its flesh.

"Why is the intrinsic value of a goat more than that of a sheep? It is not greater than that of a sheep, but under present conditions much more so. It should not, for the meat of the kid or goat under middle age is much more palatable than lamb or sheep meat.

The goat industry in Switzerland In Switzerland the making of cheese from goat milk is a great industry. The wool and hide of a goat are of much value and have been since the earliest recorded history of the world.

"The growth of the Kansas City market as a goat market has been gradual. It began when a goat was almost a curiosity here. Seven years ago I bought them as cheap as seventy-five cents a head. Now common goats will bring all the way from $2.00 to $4.00 a head, while Angoras sell from $1 to $35.

"The goat market is unlike any other market, in that it undergoes little fluctuation. Best prices are paid in the spring. I know of no time when packers wouldn't buy goats at all. They became salable as soon as packers found that the meat could be sold under the representation of 'lamb.' Because kid meat is superior to lamb it has enhanced the value of lamb.

"Five years ago the craze for Angora goats was in full flow. Any animal, whether cat, rabbit, or goat, that had Angora before it always brought a big price. I sold Angoras right in these yards as high as $200 each. Many a man lost a fortune in Angoras. Angoras are tender and are especially susceptible to pneumonia. For raising goats satisfactorily not more than fifty head should be kept together at one time and they should always be kept in a dry place. The hardest months in the year for goats are November, December and January. The healthiest time for them is the three months of spring."

AMUSEMENTS BLACK PATTI TROUBADOURS The Black Patti Troubadours, which is recognized as one of the most popular and successful stage troupes in the United States, presenting a varied style of entertainment, will be seen at Greenwall's Opera House tonight, last performance.

erburg, London and other music centers, and enjoys the distinction of having sung by command for the present king of Great Britain. Her success in the United States with the Troubadours covers a period of ten years. During that time she has appeared before the largest audiences ever assembled to pay homage to a diva.

"At the Madison Square Garden, New York City, she attracted an audience numbering over sixteen thousand, and the great Pittsburgh exposition 23,000 people assembled to hear her sing.

"She has been a stellar attraction of the Troubadours for ten consecutive seasons and the unprejudiced success of this company is in a large measure, to the remarkable vocal accomplishments of this distinguished artist. There are two secure other singers, dancers, comedians, vaudeville specialists, cake walkers and even shouters, who appear in stage show that is as varied as it is entertaining.

"The most popular of the 'coon song' and 'cake walk' is due to the Black Patti Troubadours. The most popular darkey melodies of the day are the creations of these merry singers. They were the first to voice 'Under the Bamboo Tree,' 'Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight,' 'All Coons Look Alike to Me,' 'Smokin' and many other popular tunes that have become popular the world over.

"AN ARISTOCRATIC TRAMP" There are a dozen so-called 'tramp' shows on the road. The one that comes to Greenwall's Opera House Tuesday matinee and night, Oct. 17, is 'An Aristocratic Tramp' while having a 'Wandering Willie' he is not of that nauseating tin-can caliber. The piece is thoroughly high class, teaches a moral and tells at the same time a story. Kilroy and Britton, two of the very cleverest vaudeville stars, head one of the very best acting companies ever seen on a local stage.

"UNCLE JOSH PERKINS" "Uncle Josh Perkins" will undoubtedly attract large audiences at Greenwall's Opera House when it is produced there matinee and Saturday night. As the piece has proven one of the most popular of all rural comedies that have been produced in recent years, while "Uncle Josh Perkins" has a masterly casting plan, the lines are well written, the characters well drawn and the action natural and not forced.

NEW ACTS FROM ABROAD The announcement of the Great Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' United Shows, coming to Fort Worth on Thursday, Oct. 20, indicates that the best of the best is to be the very best of home talent, but thoroughly ransacked all foreign fields in search of genuine and original thrills and tickles. From abroad come for the first time the great Wolsky troupe, who dance, acrobatic feats and tribal melodies are described as both intensely thrilling and strangely interesting.

THE MOST NOTED RANCH IN THE WORLD

The 101 ranch is the noted Oklahoma Territory place where President Roosevelt hunted for a week this summer, and where the national editorial association was treated to a buffalo barbecue. In order to realize the immensity of the ranch, one needs to go a little into comparative figures.

Every day there are enough visitors at the ranch house to fill a small hotel. Nobody seems to mind it, though. The Chinese cook seems to have an inexhaustible supply of food in the kitchen, and there are always beds enough for the coming guests.

Along the road approaching the house came an Indian with his squaw dragging a cowhide. "That Indian," said Joe Miller, "is one of my landlords—I have 250 of them. His child died yesterday and he is going to have a celebration at his house to show how sorry he is. He bought a steer from me for the back of the neck, and a pony to give away. In former years an Indian strangled a horse on the grave of a dead relative, but the government stopped that. Now a bereaved Indian gives away the horse and everything else that he owns to show his sorrow."

"The 101 ranch owns about 10,000 acres, the rest is leased from the Indians, from whom we buy as they die. The Indian game and do not want to work their lands, and they are more ably supported on the money they obtain from their leases. We have to now without railroad facilities. It would pass through the counties of Webb, Zapata, Starr, Hidalgo and Cameron. From what is learned the road is almost certain of being built.

LABOR RETARDS LINE Scarcity of labor is delaying the construction of the Beaumont and Great Northern, the same trouble that is bothering several other lines under construction in Texas and Louisiana. The Beaumont and Great Northern has just received its first locomotive from Chicago. It is to be used in construction work, which is to be commenced today. The engine is of sixty tons capacity.

ORIENT EXTENSION The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad will, it is reported, build to Senora. A dispatch from that place to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat confirms this rumor, and says that the line is to start at San Angelo, Texas. The contract, the dispatch says, was signed by R. L. McCauley as president on behalf of the railroad company, and by about twenty prominent citizens of Senora. By the terms of the agreement the Orient binds itself to build to Senora within five years.

DEATH OF MRS. H. E. WOODS SHAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 16.—Mrs. H. E. Woods, a pioneer of this county, died here, aged 81 years.

He is content with it all and is getting fat on no salary. He exchanges classical quotations with a chap from Harvard who pursues the occupation of looking after the 500 suckling pigs on the place and together they lay dominion with a Princeton man, whose daily work is bossing a dozen Indians in roadmaking.

CONFEDERATES WON LAST TEXAS FIGHT

Historian Cummings Tells of Battle at Palmetto Ranch at Lee Camp

A new and interesting feature is to be added to the meetings of Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, following the motion of Adjutant McConnell at Sunday's session. The plan is to arrange for weekly programs to be carried out immediately after adjournment of the regular business of the camp.

It was decided that members of the Sons' camp be invited to participate in all our meetings after adjournment. The first program is to be arranged by Mrs. F. L. Jordan, A. B. Curtis, H. C. Cantrell, J. E. Gaskell, Dan Parker and Thomas.

Colonel R. M. Wynne reported that the joint committee of Daughters and Veterans met last week to prepare a program for an entertainment to be given as a benefit for indigent members of Lee camp by the year. He made an earnest appeal to all veterans present to aid the Daughters in making a success of the proposed entertainment. There was a ready response.

A. P. Jones and J. M. Skillman made application for membership in the camp. The applications were referred to the examining committee, which will be called at the next meeting.

Captain W. R. Daniel and wife of Dallas were visitors at the camp. Law Texas Fight C. C. Cummings, historian of the camp, read a letter from the late Winkler, the Texas regent at the Confederate museum at Richmond, Va., asking for a correct statement regarding the last battle in Texas. Speaking of the matter Judge Cummings said the last fight was on May 13, 1862, and took place at the Palmetto ranch near Brownwood, and that the last shot was fired by a Texas youth 17 years of age. The battle was a victory for the Confederacy.

A framed picture of Robert E. Lee was presented to the camp by T. P. Keith, who also donated clothing for needy members of the camp. Sons' Meeting The Sunday session of Sons of Confederate Veterans was largely attended. The program was largely addressed by C. C. Cummings, Adjutant W. M. McConnell and Colonel Quarles of Grapevine. William Evans, David Wans and Charles Quarles were admitted as members of the camp.

TEXAS ROADS CLEAR Labor Leader Denies Report of Alien Law Violations C. W. Woodman, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor and a prominent member of the Texas State Farmers' Union, declared this morning that there is no truth in the published report that Texas roads are violating the alien law and that prosecutions were to be brought against them on behalf of the farmers' organization.

CONFEDERATES WON LAST TEXAS FIGHT

Historian Cummings Tells of Battle at Palmetto Ranch at Lee Camp

A new and interesting feature is to be added to the meetings of Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, following the motion of Adjutant McConnell at Sunday's session. The plan is to arrange for weekly programs to be carried out immediately after adjournment of the regular business of the camp.

It was decided that members of the Sons' camp be invited to participate in all our meetings after adjournment. The first program is to be arranged by Mrs. F. L. Jordan, A. B. Curtis, H. C. Cantrell, J. E. Gaskell, Dan Parker and Thomas.

Colonel R. M. Wynne reported that the joint committee of Daughters and Veterans met last week to prepare a program for an entertainment to be given as a benefit for indigent members of Lee camp by the year. He made an earnest appeal to all veterans present to aid the Daughters in making a success of the proposed entertainment. There was a ready response.

A. P. Jones and J. M. Skillman made application for membership in the camp. The applications were referred to the examining committee, which will be called at the next meeting.

Captain W. R. Daniel and wife of Dallas were visitors at the camp. Law Texas Fight C. C. Cummings, historian of the camp, read a letter from the late Winkler, the Texas regent at the Confederate museum at Richmond, Va., asking for a correct statement regarding the last battle in Texas. Speaking of the matter Judge Cummings said the last fight was on May 13, 1862, and took place at the Palmetto ranch near Brownwood, and that the last shot was fired by a Texas youth 17 years of age. The battle was a victory for the Confederacy.

A framed picture of Robert E. Lee was presented to the camp by T. P. Keith, who also donated clothing for needy members of the camp. Sons' Meeting The Sunday session of Sons of Confederate Veterans was largely attended. The program was largely addressed by C. C. Cummings, Adjutant W. M. McConnell and Colonel Quarles of Grapevine. William Evans, David Wans and Charles Quarles were admitted as members of the camp.

TEXAS ROADS CLEAR Labor Leader Denies Report of Alien Law Violations C. W. Woodman, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor and a prominent member of the Texas State Farmers' Union, declared this morning that there is no truth in the published report that Texas roads are violating the alien law and that prosecutions were to be brought against them on behalf of the farmers' organization.
