FACTS ABOUT MAKING TEA.

Japanese Way is Best, Explains an Expert in the Trade.

Remarks made recently by a man who has acquired some prominence in the tea trade and who passed some years in Japan may be of interest to some to whom they come as hitherto unknown facts.

"There are two ways to make tea," said the dealer in that commodity, crossing his legs and squinting his left eye reflectively—"the Japanese way and the other way." Whether or not tea is harmful may depend entirely on which of these entirely different methods is employed.

"A small platter or bowl is an indispensable part of every Japanese tea set. In this the water to be used in the process is heated, not to the boiling point, but to a point as near it as may be without actually reaching it. The native expert will bend over the little sizzling fire, testing the degree of heat imparted to the water in the bowl by delicately fingering the outside of this receptacle from time to time, even while carelessly talking. When he becomes at last satisfied that the desired end has been attained he pours the warm water on to his tea leaves and lets it stand for from three to five minutes. He then pours off the liquid into his teapot, and the result is the mild-aromatic stimulant much prized as being genuine Japanese tea.

"The 'other way' is very well known in this country. It consists in pouring boiling water over the leaves and letting the mixture steep for an indefinite period. By this means the tannin which is contained in the tea is brought out and a dark amber colored liquid is produced. It is the tannin which is responsible for the long crusade against indulgence in the beverage. This is the 'injurious principle.' Chemically there is no difference between this tannin and that which is used in preparing leather for the market. No wonder the 'inner man' rebels.

"The average American, however, cannot wait and watch throughout the time required in the preparation of the Japanese drink, and a practical substitute must be suggested if he is to enjoy its harmlessness and flavor. My experience has been that if boiling water be used and allowed to stand only a minute and is then poured off a decoction is obtained which is very similar to the oriental in every way. Such a drink is mild at best, but it has the value of being physically undetrimental. Should there be any one, however, who in opinion resembles the old woman who stated that she didn't like her tea strong and never let it steep more than fifteen minutes it is to be feared that no substitutes will be accepted."

Use of Both Hands.

We should form the habit of using each of our hands in turn in our one handed activities. In a few months we might attain to fair ambidexterity, in a few years to the full use of each hand. For this object the best exercise is writing with the neglected hand. If a man learned to write well with either hand almost all the other unimanual graces would be added unto him. There are many other unimanual activities in which, by changing the hand employed in them, we might cultivate ambidexterity, as in carrying a stick or umbrella, in fencing with a foil, in counting money, in changing our watch pocket from side to side, in changing the parting of our hair, in the use of a spoon in taking soup, in domestic carpentry and in many other usual activities.—Sir James Sawyer.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

about the TON-KO-NO MEDICINE CO., of Sherman, of which Dr. W. F. Blair is proprietor.

Dr. Blair and his remedies are well known throughout the state of Texas. He spent a life of twenty odd years in trying to perfect a line of medicines that would be, and is appreciated by the public. The doctor and his company come well recommended by the press for responsibility and the good he has done with his medicine for suffering humanity. Dr. Blair has with him a staff of physicians to give special treatment to those chronic cases that his medicine will not reach. He has with him Dr. Cobb, of Louisville, Ky., and D. W. Morehead, of Kansas City, Mo., who have had years of experience in treating chronic diseases, such as cancer, eczema, scrofula, stomach and nervous diseases in all their forms and special diseases of men.

The office is equipped with large X-Ray and all electrical appliances and instruments to treat all diseases peculiar to humanity. The doctors will tell you your trouble, you need not tell them. Believing that you will agree with us that unless a doctor is able to tell your defects he is not competent to treat you.

Remember, consultation is free to all, both private and confidential. A golden opportunity that the citizens ought to take advantage of while it is free to all. Go and consult these men. Office in private car. Office hours from 8 A. M. to 12 M., & from 2 P. M. to 6 P. M., unless by special appointment at night.

Another Attempt at Hold Up

We learn there is another attempt to hold up the people of the south plains, promising a railroad extension in consideration of a big cash and land bonus. When will the people wake up and put an end to such graft. Why will they pay a stranger $10,000 to $500,000 to "promote a railroad" when any of their leading citizens who will devote some of their time and hustle can accomplish more a great deal quicker, and cut out the steal.—Amarillo Herald.

The Herald may refer to the McKinney via Hale Center to Roswell project; the railway said to be heading this way by Big Springs to Amarillo; or, perhaps, the line from Texico to Brownwood, and again it may be Plainview to Lubbock. These are all the "sure things" that occur to The News at this moment, but whether any of these or some other line, 'tis a hold up all the same and as the Herald aptly says, "when will the people wake up and put an end to such graft."

Wedding To Be.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Rufus G. Arnold to Miss Mary Yarnell, at the home of the parents of the bride, Stockport, Iowa, on May 10th.

Mr. Arnold is a purchaser of a portion of the Thomas section at Umbarger upon which he now resides, and to which he will bring his bride about May 17.

The News, in advance, extends congratulations to Mr. Arnold and wishes for him and his future wife all the happiness that mortals may acquire in this life.

Croup Quickly Cured.

A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy bring surprising results when a child shows symptoms of croup. There is no cause for alarm when this medicine is in the house as it rarely takes more than three or four doses to bring about a complete cure. FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Election May 5th.

W. C. BAIRD
G. C. LONG
J. C. PIPKIN

The News proposes this ticket—returning the outgoing trustees—chiefly because the present school seems to be giving general satisfaction.

No town can flourish these days without a good school, and having one it is always the part of wisdom to retain it. Such is the condition of the Canyon City school and so long as things move along this way it is prudent to hold on to the present board of trustees—hence our ticket.

No man has dictated this ticket; it is proposed by The News without the knowledge and consent of any person other than the writer. The gentlemen composing it have consented to serve another term if elected and The News is candidly of the opinion that the interests of the town require it. Others, no doubt, might do fully as well, but who wants to swap off a good, well broke team for an uncertainty?

The present board of trustees has given faithful service; it has done well; the parts composing it pull well together, and so long as they do this, what's the use of shifting the harness?

Aside from allowing accounts, the principal business of the Commissioners' court this week was the examination and approval of the Collector's annual report; the formation of the two town sections, 34 & 35, into a health district with Drs. Parsons, Stewart and Sheriff Slover as a sanitary committee and last, but not least, the appointment of S. V. Wirt as constable.

The Dallas Commercial Club special stopped here yesterday evening for about twenty minutes. It was met by citizens and those of the excursionists who desired to look around the town were taken about in vehicles.

The attention of News readers is directed to the condensed statement of the condition of our First National Bank, published on the first page of this issue. No institution of the same character in the Panhandle can make a better showing.

On other side of this paper the statement is made that T. F. Wilson was in Galveston attending the grand lodge Knights of Pythias. It should have been F. P. Wilson. No doubt Tom Frank would have liked to go but he didn't.

It is to these winds perhaps, more than anything else for which this, as well as other elevated parts of the globe, owe their extreme healthfulness. As in the famed climate of glorious Colorado, so here, the variety and purity of the air with its health giving oxygen is largely due to the almost constant motion of the winds. Where the winds prevail disease is usually absent.

To accommodate the guests two rooms of the second-story were, in addition to the lower rooms, converted into parlors, all being amply supplied with tables at which games of various kinds were played. Miss Wilson, the charming hostess, dispensed good cheer and animation to the hearts of her guests making this one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. RAISING COLTS BY HAND.

How to Prepare Cow's Milk For the Youngster—Feed Frequently.

In answer to the query, "What is the best substitute to feed a colt for the mare's milk when the youngster must be raised by hand?" Breeder's Gazette says:

Milk, of course, is the only thing on which very young animals have much of a chance to live, and the commonest article is that of the cow. Therefore cow's milk should be fed to the orphan colt, but in small quantities. The milk of the mare is much sweeter than that of the cow and therefore a tablespoonful of good white granulated sugar should be added to each quart of the cow's milk. Do not add any water to the milk. Take enough hot water to dissolve the sugar nicely and add to the milk; then let the colt drink it at the temperature of blood heat or just as he would get it from his mother had she lived.

The rearing of a foal by hand is a tedious job at the best. In the first place it is well known that a foal gets only a very little at a time, but sucks many times a day; therefore if he is allowed when hungry to fill his little stomach up with a great ration of cow's milk he will quickly get to scouring, and then trouble looms on every side.

The writer has fed a motherless foal as often as twelve times a day or more from an old teapot with the thumb of a kid glove pierced full of holes over the spout, and then after a few days gradually reduced the feedings to six, then to four. Later warm skim milk was substituted for part of the new, the sugar discontinued and finally the colt got to drinking what he wanted the same as a bull calf that was in the same lot, three times a day, all he wanted. At the same time get the colt to eating ground grain as soon as he will. Pet him, coddle him and give him some sort of a companion, if it is only a runt calf, and be sure that he is not banished far from human beings or he will not be fed often enough.

Pasture For Hogs.

For early pasture for hogs sow barley or a combination of barley and oats. A little later sow rape—in fact, rape may be sown almost as early as barley on a well prepared seed-bed, and by having two fields of rape the hogs may be supplied with pasture the whole season as soon as the rape reaches a sufficient growth to pasture it. This is accomplished by turning from one pasture to the other, allowing the rape to grow in one field while it is being pastured off in the other. For late summer or fall cowpeas make an excellent pasture for hogs. The same land which is sown to barley early in the spring may be planted to cowpeas after the first of June, and this will furnish pasture in August and September.—A. M. Ten Eyck in Farmers Advocate.

Make a lice killer by shaving one-fourth pound of bar soap and boiling for ten minutes or until the soap is all dissolved in a half gallon of soft water, then pouring the boiling suds into a gallon of kero and stirring briskly until a creamy mass is formed. When wanted for use stir a pint of it in a gallon of warm water and spray them. If the pigs are not affected give the sows a teaspoonful of sublimed sulphur once per day, also all the charcoal they desire to eat.—National Stockman.

Sheep Scab and Ticks.

Ticks and carelessness are synonymous. Systematically dip your sheep, and you will have no ticks. There is no mystery about exterminating ticks and lice, or scab either, for that matter. Doing good work at the proper time is the secret.—American Sheep Breeder.

THE VETERINARY

For "foot rot" of sheep one of the simplest and most effective cures is the following, says American Cultivator: One-half pound bluestone, one-half pound common salt, one quart water. Boil in an old saucepan for ten minutes. The bluestone will then be all dissolved. The above can be used as a lotion-dressing, or made in larger proportion can be placed in troughs to run sheep through after being pared. The bluestone attacks the fungous growth, while the salt cleanses and hardens the foot. In dressing for foot rot care should be taken to remove all loose hoof and decayed parts without injuring the foot, cutting toe veins, etc., and preserving as much as possible its natural shape. In dealing with very hard hoofs a hot iron will be found very useful for burning the hoof, thus rendering it soft and easily pared away.

Cocklebur Poisoning Pigs.

Dr. Mayo of the Kansas-Agricultural college states that he has received the present spring quite a number of reports of what seem to be clear cases of young pigs and other animals dying as a result of eating young cockleburs. He says that the young burs are very poisonous at certain periods of growth, mostly when they are in the two leaved stage, causing inflammation of the stomach and intestines, but he cannot throw any light on the nature of the poison. He does not hold out much hope of successful treatment after the poison has once entered the system, but suggests that perhaps raw linseed oil might be helpful.

To Remove Splint.

Remove hair from part and blister with a mixture of one dram of biniodide of mercury in one ounce of lard. Repeat in one month if necessary.—Breeder's Gazette.

To Relieve Heaves.

Wet all food. Feed green grass in preference to hay. Do not work soon after a meal. Give half ounce Fowler's solution of arsenic twice daily, says Breeder's Gazette. Disease is incurable, but may be relieved by this treatment.

Worms in Swine.

To secure the best results affected hogs should receive individual treatment. Twenty-four hours before administering treatment very little feed should be given them. Then give the following medicine, first recommended by the veterinary department of the Kansas state experimental station, as a drench to each hundred pound hog (larger or smaller hogs should receive a dose in proportion): Oil of turpentine four drams; liquor ferri-dialysatus, one half dram; raw linseed oil, six ounces. If necessary repeat the dose in four days.

Little Shiners.

"Mary," Mrs. Baily said as she passed through the hallway, where the morning work was in progress, "I don't see why it is my stair rail always seems dusty. I was in at Mrs. Johns' a few minutes ago, and I couldn't but notice that hers was as clean and smooth as glass."

"Yes'm," replied the maid significantly, "she's three little boys—there's nothin' like slidin' for polishin' handrails. But there ain't anybody here as I knows on as 'd care to take the job o' that from mornin' to night!"

In Memoriam.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sliver has grown strangely silent, for baby Paralee, the sunshine of the home, has suddenly passed into another world. The outstretched arms for Papa's home coming, the merry-joyful laugh of baby is sadly missed, and the sweet low lullaby with which mother was wont to rock her darling to rest, weaving the while threads of beauty all radiant with joy and hope for the future of the precious jewel committed to her keeping, is hushed. But God can look away into the future and, through love, she was translated to a home where no shadow, night, sorrow, pain nor heartache will ever reach your darling. But when life's work is done, and you reach the open gate, Baby's outstretched hands will be the first to greet you and mother's lullaby will be sung with new hope and exultant joy.

Many lives touched by their loss are offering united sympathy to the bereaved family and yet,

She is not dead!

'Twas only a transition—
A strangely forgetting to resume the breath.

She is not dead!
'Twas a solemn stillness

A fleeing from pain to eternal rest,
A closing of the eyes in gentle slumber—
And she is blest!

A FRIEND.

Croup Quickly Cured.

A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy bring surprising results when a child shows symptoms of croup. There is no cause for alarm when this medicine is in the house as it rarely takes more than three or four doses to bring about a complete cure. It has never failed even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no home where there are small children can afford to be without it. For sale by S. V. Wirt, Druggist.

It is stated in connection with the stock sales at the recent Stockmen's convention at Amarillo that more fine stock would have changed hands were it not for the fact that many Panhandle cattlemen were on the eve of selling out or thought they were.

For Sale—A team of match black horses 6 years old, and an almost new McCormick Mower 5 foot cut.

The game for next Monday to be played here will be between Canyon City's first nine and Hereford. There will be no charge and the boys invite everybody to come out and witness this "Double-Header."

Threat of Packers.

Referring to the suits recently filed by the Attorney General of Texas against the big packers for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws of this State, the Chicago Chronicle says:

"Prosecution of the suit against the Armour and Swift interests in Texas for the purpose of securing a $12,000,000 penalty for violation of the anti-trust laws may result in the closing of all packing plants in Texas and the withdrawal of the Chicago packing concerns from that State.

"This was the announcement made last night by officials of the Swift and Armour companies in discussing the effects of suits brought yesterday by the Attorney General of Texas. The officials declared last night that the packing business in Texas was just being put on a proper basis and that it was still in an experiment stage.

"They declare the question of withdrawing from business in Texas has been considered several times when the Chicago companies were being harassed by a multiplicity of suits and that the litigation for $12,000,000 if pushed, will be followed by the withdrawal of the plants in contemplation.

"The withdrawal of Chicago plants from Texas would mean the loss of work to 5,000 employes and the removal of an investment of $7,000,000."

So! The people of Texas in this instance are sorely up against it. Either the laws of the State must be suspended when in conflict with the will of Swift and Armour of these gentlemen will leave us, "meaning the loss of work to 5,000 employes and the removal of an investment of $7,000,000."

Like the Standard Oil magnates, these kings of embalmed meat will do as they please regardless of law, or they will leave the State. "The King can do no wrong" says the Blackstone code and this old time rule must be resurrected and so amended as to include these big packers or they will go hence.

The cheek and gall of these packing kings is monumental; it is superb and ought by all means to be rewarded. And then picture Fort Worth with vacancy all about the big stock yards, and the run of preserved meats out West cut off. Ah, 'tis

A Paint Problem

Paint either spreads well, looks well and wears well, or it don't. Wear is what determines real paint value. Any practical painter will tell you that a paint will live only as long as the oil that's in it lives. The oil is the life of paint. "Dead Oil, Dead Paint."

HAMMAR CONDENSED PAINT

It is not a "ready-mixed" paint. It comes to you in condensed form; the driers, everything necessary in it, except the oil. You buy pure, raw linseed oil and do your own mixing. Sure of pure oil that way—not otherwise. One gallon of pure raw linseed oil and one gallon of Hammar Condensed Paint will cover more area, wear longer, and give better results than any other paint made. That's strong talk, but "Hammar" is strong paint. One gallon of Hammar Paint and one gallon of linseed oil will cover 600 square feet of surface with two coats and it won't come off. Guaranteed to stick for five years or money back.

We have the exclusive agency for Hammar Paint in this place: come in some day before you paint and let us tell you why "Hammar" is the best paint, and show you how you can save at least 25% on your next paint bill.

too sad a thing to dwell upon, we cannot let them go. Better, far better so—amend the anti-trust laws of the State—and all other laws for that matter, so as to exempt the Swifts and Armours from any and all observance of them.

Yes, by rat sausage, let us give in—give all they ask—and hold on to the Swift and Armour flesh pots.

Hereford Breeders' Association.

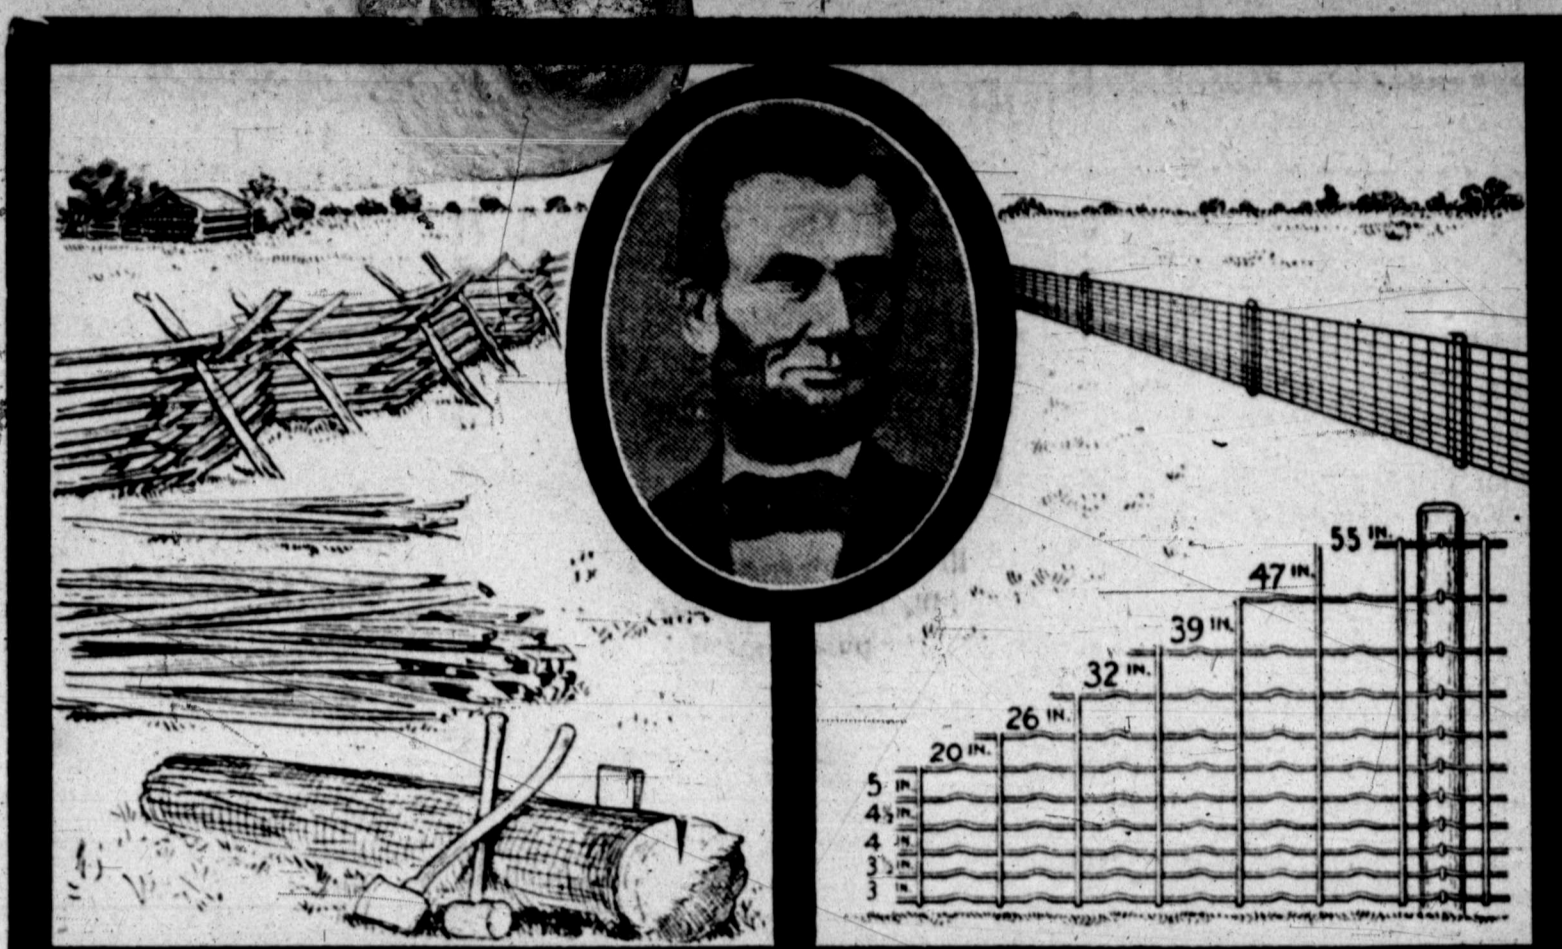

Last Thursday night prominent Panhandle breeders of Hereford cattle met in the offices of the Western Stock Yards Company and perfected plans for the permanent organization of the Panhandle Hereford Breeders Association.

Col. R. E. Edmondson was elected president, Judge O. H. Nelson, 1st vice-president, C. T. DeGraffenreid, 2nd vice-president, John Hutson, 3rd vice-president, William Frass, 4th vice-president, J. W. Johnson, 5th vice-president, and W. A. Ward secretary and treasurer.

Represented at this meeting were some of the most prominent breeders of Herefords north of the quarantine line and much enthusiasm was manifested by those present. It was agreed that regular meetings would be held annually.

A second meeting will be held within a month and the final arrangements for organization completed. It was decided that all breeders of Hereford cattle in the Panhandle of Texas or territory adjacent north of the quarantine line should be eligible to membership in the association and a committee was appointed to correspond with breeders in this district with the object of having them become members of the association. Besides breeders in this district the association will accept as members owners of herds in this territory who live elsewhere.—Amarillo Herald of last week.

It generally happens that the person who is situated at the butt end of a joke can't see the point of it.

THE MODERN "PITTSBURGH PERFECT" WIRE FENCE, WELDED BY ELECTRICITY.

What a Marvel it would have been to Abraham Lincoln, splitter of rails.

Mr. Farmer: Your progressiveness is keeping you in close touch with improvements in farm machinery, in dairy methods, and with all the scientific facts that bring about the greatest possible agricultural production.

You are also informing yourself about fence. We know you are.

- First—there was the stone fence of medieval history.
- Second—pioneer America converted its timber into rails.
- Third—somebody found a way to weave wire and slats.
- Fourth—along came barb wire, with its marvelous sale.
- Fifth—machines were invented to twist or clamp one wire around another: the woven wire fence.

But, most important of all, electricity now welds the wires at the joint, making no longer necessary these wraps and clamps. Stay and strand, wizard-like, become one.

The greatest step forward in fence building is thus accomplished at a single, master stroke.

Of course, you are not using anything else. Surely you are familiarizing yourself with this remarkable improvement, to be found only in "Pittsburgh Perfect."

Beginning in Time.

Clarendon has recently appointed committees looking to the celebration of the Fourth of July. The Banner-Stockman notes a good attendance of the business men at the meeting and much interest and adds:

"It was the sense of the meeting that by beginning the work thus early the success of the entertainment will be more sure. Clarendon's annual celebrations have always been the talk of the Panhandle, and it is hoped that this year all former efforts will be eclipsed."

There is nothing like beginning in time, and for various reasons preparations for our annual Reunion should be set in motion early this year.

Consumption is a Germ Disease. How Can it Start With a Cold?

This is a reasonable question and one that must arise to the mind of almost everyone when the claim is made that consumption starts with a cold. The cold simply prepares the system for the reception and development of germs of that disease, that would not otherwise have found lodgement. It is the same with diphtheria, scarlet fever and measles. They are most likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. That is why a cold should never be neglected. The longer it hangs on the greater the danger. As a quick cure for colds Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be relied upon. Its remarkable cures have won for it a world wide reputation and an immense sale. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by S. V. Wirt, Druggist.

Andrew Jackson.

A great many good things are told of Andrew Jackson. One was, that when he was about to fight the British troops at the battle of New Orleans, and a deputation of the city government went down to ask that he would not fight the battle, but retreat, because if he fought the battle the British troops would burn the city—he replied that "they need not concern themselves, for if he was obliged to retreat he should not leave anything in the city of New Orleans for the British to burn."

Another story of Jackson, still better, was when he was President, and a poor widow who kept a boarding house, finding it impossible to collect her board bill from a government official, went to the White House and told the President about it. Jackson said to her, "He'll give you a note for it, wont he?" She said "Yes" "Then," said Jackson, "Get his note and come back and see me again." She had no difficulty in getting the note, and carrying it to the White House the President took it, and wrote on its back, Andrew Jackson, then told her to put it in a bank for collection. When the government official was notified that his note was in the bank for collection he laughed at the idea, but when he was told that it was endorsed by Andrew Jackson he got the money mighty quick and paid it, and in a few days after was notified that his services were no longer wanted.—Geo. T. Angell in Our Dumb Animals.

THAT CONCERN OUR CITIZENS.

Going to Mexico.

Yesterday evening A. E. Brown, Fulton Brown, W. R. Farr and J. B. Thomas started on a pilgrimage to the land beyond the Rio Grande. They will visit Monterey and other cities of the highlands, including the capitol itself. From there they rather expect to take the coast route returning, stopping along at various places to pull oranges, limes, lemons, bananas, and such like and also take a view of the land where cotton never dies and corn in the same field can be seen in all shapes from just out of the ground to the full corn in the ear and half a bushel to the hill. They all expect much, especially our friend J. B., and they are going, no doubt, prepared to purchase a million acres of this reputed paradise (it can be secured at from 10 cents to $2.50 per acre) providing it pleases them and when they return, which will be within three months, J. B. promises to give away the whole thing.

They promise The News an account of the trip as they go along.

"The Plainview News" is the name of paper No. 2 for that town. Shuffler & Callaway are the proprietors and it is expected to be in running order by next week. They purchased an outfit from J. M. Shafer of the Herald, Shafer buying a new Babcock cylinder, new gasoline engine and new outfit generally for his paper. No doubt since the advent of the railroad the field is broad enough for both papers and if they will only work in harmony as they should do, maintaining just prices all round both to themselves and customers, each of them ought to and will succeed.

The machinery for making concrete blocks has arrived and by Monday it is slated to begin turning them out. John Begrin and R. W. O'Keefe, originally part owners, have sold out to Dr. Howell and so it is now Howell & Dunbar, horse and horse. There is no doubt but that the output will be all right and ere many days pass concrete buildings will be going up in Canyon City or somebody has woefully departed from the "straight and narrow way."

In recording the retirement of Geo. Seydler from business here The News might have stated that he was the only merchant in the town who ever made a time contract for advertising with the paper. Mr. Seydler was in the paper, through a display ad, from the time he opened his doors until he sold out.

The First National Bank has secured a lot of small cash deposit boxes for the use of children and will establish a child's saving department. It is quite unique in character, new for this country and is a great thing to encourage the saving habit among the little ones.

An incorporation that works well for the residents and will speak volumes for the whole town can be had for about fifty cents on the hundred dollars of the actual value of the territory included. Why not have it?

In all the several callings of life there is plenty of room on the front seats.

THURSDAY

Clear and nice. Wind in west.

FRIDAY

Forehanded Boys.

It is perhaps not true that in St. Louis when the noon whistle blew a carpenter nailing shingles on a roof left his hammer suspended in the air at the upper end of a stroke and went to lunch, but Search Light vouchers for the following, which is along the same line:

While the American Library association was in session a number of members went to inspect a cotton mill. They were in the card room when the whistle blew for noon and saw the card room boys put up their work as if by magic and disappear.

"Do all the boys drop their tools the instant the whistle blows?" asked one of the visitors.

"No, not all," replied the foreman. "The more orderly have their tools all put away before that time."

"Funny thing happened in my town last week," said the man from up the creek.

"What was that?" asked the man from down the way.

"And now?"

"And now Black and White are blue."
