

GAME LAWS OF TEXAS IN BRIEF

GAME THAT YOU MAY KILL AND THAT YOU MAY NOT KILL.

Hunting Season Opened Tuesday of This Week.—Closed Season for Prairie Chickens.

Tuesday, November 1st, the hunting season opened in Texas. A few kinds of game may not lawfully be taken until later in the winter, and the five years' closed season on prairie chickens and antelopes still obtains. Below is given a comprehensive synopsis of the game laws:

You may kill 25 quail or doves in any one day only from November 1 to February 1 of each year.

You may kill three buck deer only from November 1 to January 1.

You may kill three wild turkeys only from December 1 to April 1.

You may kill in all seasons of the year ducks, geese, robins, wild pigeons, snipe, curlews, Mexican pheasants or chachalacas, bag limit 25 in any one day.

You may kill rabbits, squirrel, fox, opossums, raccoons and bear in any number in all seasons.

You may ship or transport to your home such game as you have lawfully killed by making proper affidavit. Export of game is prohibited.

You must not kill, buy or sell any wild game, or kill, catch or destroy the eggs, or have in possession, living or dead, any wild game or song bird, except hawks, crows, buzzards, owls, English sparrows, rice birds and blackbirds.

You must not hunt for any game at night with a lantern with a lantern, hunting lamp or any other light.

Ghost Party.

A crowd of spooks surprised Miss Druella Knight Monday evening. The surprise complete therefore the fun was all the better. After they arrived and scared the hostess to their hearts content, they dispersed and stood before us once more in the likeness of men. Games and candy pulling were the most important features of the evening.

At a late hour they departed with their masks on again, to see what other mischief was waiting to be done by the merry makers on Hallowe'en.

The merry crowd was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burrow, with Mrs. W. F. Heller as hostess. A Spook.

Building Two Houses.

Keiser Bros. & Phillips are building two new houses on their ranch 1 mile west of town. The large ranch will be divided, giving a half section to the two new places. One of the houses will be a mile west while the other will be one and one-half miles from town. Excavation for the buildings is being made at the present time.

J. C. Doud will live on one of the places, while a man from Iowa has rented the other place.

Schrader Building House.

Henry Schrader is building a five room cottage on his farm five miles southeast of town. Mr. Schrader is living in the west end of town at the present time.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY MONDAY EVE.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Turk Scene of Ghosts and Witches until a Late Hour.

Monday night a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party was given at the T. H. Turk home in the west end. The guests were instructed to meet at the Roy Cullum home and march in a ghost parade to the Turk home. Every guest had provided a unique costume of ghostly appearance and in all it was a very spookie looking crowd that marched up the street.

At the door of the Turk home they were met by Mrs. Cannon who instructed each one to right about face and march backwards through the rooms, encountering at every door apples which were suspended by strings and which gently tapped each passer on the head. After passing through the lower rooms of the house, the procession was directed to the stairway where another backward march was begun. On the second floor a ghostly room had been prepared to receive the ghosts, containing all devices to honor such an occasion.

The rooms of the Turk home were tastily decorated in autumnal colors and products together with a goodly number of ghostly effects. In one corner was the witch with her boiling caldron, while on the lawn was the fortune teller (Tom L. Miller.)

During the evening Mrs. Travis Shaw favored the company with two excellent readings. Delicious chocolate and wafers were served as refreshments. The guests departed for their homes at a late hour feeling that they had enjoyed one of the finest social gatherings ever held in Canyon.

NORMAL COLLEGE NOTES.

Prof. and Mrs. Hill entertained the Junior class of the Normal Monday night at a Hallowe'en party.

The Girls Literary Society which has been known as O. N., meet Saturday to choose another name.

The Senior class will meet Saturday to organize.

The steam heating plant at the Normal will be in working order Friday.

Hon. John L. Wortham of Dallas visited the Normal Wednesday.

The Even Number of the Girls Literary Societies met Friday and selected Sesame for their name.

The Normal was held at the Court house on Friday and Saturday on account of the heating plant at the Normal building not being in working order.

Normal vs. Amarillo High, Saturday afternoon, at 2:30.

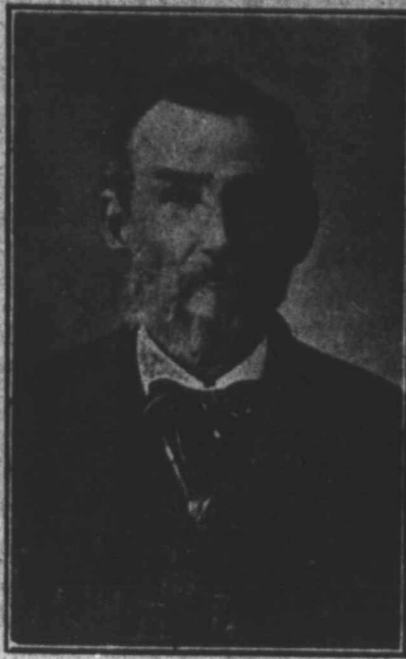

Rev. Kilbourn Here Sunday.

Rev. C. Kilbourn, the new pastor of the local Presbyterian church, had charge of the services Sunday morning and at that time preached his first sermon. Rev. Kilbourn is not a stranger here and needs no introduction to Canyon people. He is a very excellent speaker and always has some great truth to present to his congregation.

Box Social Friday Night.

Last Friday night a box social was held at the Blockschool house three miles east of town. Two wagon loads and a few buggies went out to enjoy the festivities of the occasion. The sales amounted to $29.15, due in a large part to the efficiency of Roy Cullum as an auctioneer. The large crowd report a very delightful evening.

FOOT BALL SEASON OPENS.

Normal College Team Meets Amarillo High School upon Normal Grid-Iron Tomorrow.

The first game of the foot ball season and also the first real match game ever played in Canyon, will be pulled off between the West Texas State Normal team and the Amarillo High School team tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 on the Normal campus. Local enthusiasts have been looking forward to this first game expecting the Normal squad to show up in fine form. The local boys have been practicing hard the past two weeks, running signals and learning all the fine points of the present day open game, in preparation to beating our neighboring team even worse than the Hereford College did—28 to 0.

From reports Amarillo has not had a very successful season and although they have had more experience than the local team, the Normal boys are expecting an extra hard game. Last year the high school put forth a strong swift eleven, but this year's team has only two or three of the old men playing, the others having gone to other schools.

In reference to the condition of the Normal eleven, Captain T. Stalacker says: "The boys are showing up extra well in their daily practice and most all of them have played foot ball recently under the new rules. We are anticipating a hard fought game and under any circumstances, we will put forth the best there is in us."

Junior League Superintendent.

Rev. M. E. Hawkins has been the superintendent of the Junior Epworth League for the past year, but as he is soon to leave for the conference, Mrs. Tom Miller and Mrs. R. W. Thacker were appointed. The members regret for Bro. Hawkins to leave as he proved to be a teacher of ability, but we are sure our new ones will soon fill his place.

Secretary.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM REPAIRED TUESDAY

VERY FAST WORK DONE AFTER FIRE ON THURSDAY.

Canyon Well Pleased with the Services Offered by the Manager. New Location Fine.

The telephone system, which was disturbed last Thursday morning by fire in the central building, has been repaired and commenced work on Tuesday. As soon as word reached General Manager Gooch at Amarillo, he came here and with a large force of men worked almost day and night to get the central moved over the Thompson building where they now have splendid rooms. The company is to be complimented on the rapidity of the work.

Dr. J. E. Dunn, the owner of the system, was down from Amarillo yesterday and in the News office affirmed the report that a new brick building would be built where the old central now stands. The building cannot be put up for some months on account of the lease made for the present quarters, but Mr. Dunn thought the building would be started before spring.

Will Serve Dinner.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve dinner on Election day, Nov. 8, in the old Cafe building opposite the post office. The public is cordially invited. Dinner served for 50 cents.

Stamp Photos.

For a short you can get two dozen photos for 25 cents for everyone except babies. Special price for babies. Your money back if you wish.

THE LUSBY STUDIO.

MONEY STOLEN SUNDAY NIGHT.

During Surmon Sunday Night Thieves Enter Rev. Groves Home and take Money.

Some sneaking thieves entered the Rev. Groves home Sunday night during the last sermon he was to preach as pastor and stole over $5 and a gold pen. The door was unlocked and the light burning, but this did not frighten the boys, for evidently it was boys who took the money. A loyal citizen of Canyon passed a subscription list among the business men Monday and presented Rev. Groves with over $30 to repay the loss and to show the respect in which this grand old man is held.

Presiding Elder Here.

Rev. J. T. Miller, the presiding elder of the Methodist church in the Clarendon district was here last Saturday and Sunday for the last quarterly conference of the year. He preached at the Sunday morning services of the church. Rev. Miller has been presiding elder of this district for four years, this being the last year he can hold. He has been an earnest and faithful worker and has a host of friends in the district and especially in Canyon who are sorry to lose him, but who wish him well in his new work.

Cases in County Court.

In the case of The J. C. Lyle Milling Co. vs. E. F. Brown et al, the plaintiff was given a judgment of $626.13 and interest.

In the case, Jim Vetesk vs. W. L. McMillian, the plaintiff was given judgment for $273.92 and interest.

The case, D. B. Hitchcock vs. G. M. Brock, was dismissed at the request of the plaintiff and at his cost.

The case, Thompson Hardware Co. vs. John Hutson, was called Monday and it was announced by the attorneys that it had been settled and the costs paid.

REV. J. S. GROVES GIVES UP CHARGE

RETIRES AFTER CONTINUED SERVICE OF 39 YEARS.

Preaches Last Sermon Sunday Night. He is Much Loved by the Church and Whole Town.

Rev. J. S. Groves preached his last sermon Sunday night as pastor of the local Presbyterian church. Rev. Groves has been in the ministry nearly forty years and it was only when ill health had overtaken him that he was willing to give up his work. In speaking of his retirement he said: "I know it is necessary. - If any man loves his profession more than another I believe it is the minister."

In his sermon Sunday night Rev. Groves reviewed the theories which he had preached during his ministry. Among the theories were: If a man is destroyed, he is self-destructed; No man is able to save himself; The sufferings of Christ were necessary for man's salvation; The doctrines of conviction, repentance, regeneration; The need of faithful service; and, Heaven for the faithful, punishment for the wicked.

During the ministry of Rev. Groves 96 members have been added to the church. His influence has not stopped there. The respect and love that he has had for men has reached beyond the church to every man who ever knew Brother Groves. Everyone in Canyon is glad that he is to remain with us in here.

Manager Thomas announces for Wednesday, Nov. 9th, one of the most successful Southern plays of the season entitled "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie." The play is a simple love story of the sunny South presenting an accurate picture of home life among the most lovable of our people—the Southerners. The company presenting this popular success is said to above the ordinary merit and will doubtless be welcomed by a large audience when they make their appearance in Canyon.

Watch the kidney secretions. See that they have the amber one of health; the discharges not excessive or infrequent; contain no "brick-dust like" sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you. They watch the kidneys and cure them when they are sick.

W. Y. Feeley, Cottage Hotel, Maple St., Altus, Okla., says: "My kidney trouble back to several years ago when I resided in Beaumont, Tex. At that time I had this complaint in a severe form. The kidney secretions were scanty and passed with a burning sensation. I was nervous, could not get any rest and felt all out of sorts. I at length had the good fortune to learn of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply, though I had previously taken several other remedies without deriving any benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills however, soon put me on the road to recovery and today there is nothing too strong for me to say in their favor. I am continually recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends and acquaintances and shall always do so."

THE GREAT Majestic Range

THE WORLD'S BEST.

It is made from the very best malleable and charcoal irons. It will stand the very severest test that can be made or that has ever been made by any range dealer, it matters not when, where or how. THE MAJESTIC will stand them all.

The Majestic will consume less fuel and last longer than any other range. It is lined throughout with Genuine Asbestos and not with imitation asbestos which has to be placed between two pieces of steel to make it stay in place. The lining is guaranteed not to fall down or give away.

This Range can be equipped with a 15 gallon solid copper, nickle plated, reservoir which can be attached instantly at will. It can be attached with water front or water back with boiler at any time.

The Majestic is fully guaranteed in every way, it matters not how, that any range has ever been guaranteed and we are here with you to make good what we claim for the Majestic, giving you the best range for a reasonable price. We don't ask you to give us a signed order which is collectable by some unknown party whether or not your Range comes up to what was claimed for it.

Come and see THE MAJESTIC RANGE for yourself and let us show and tell you what we claim for it and then judge for yourself before you are persuaded to buy some other range which is claimed to be better by some unknown and irresponsible party.

Woman's World

Miss Sargent Only Woman
in Sonder Trial Races.

MISS ALICE SARGENT AND HER BOAT, WOLF.

Miss Alice Sargent, the richest woman skipper in American waters, if not in the world, asked and expected no quarter from male competitors when she sailed her sonder boat Wolf in the regatta off Marblehead. She entered the elimination trials this year for the right to race against the Spanish sonder boats which came over to America, representing the Royal Spanish Yacht club, to race for the Taft cup.

Miss Sargent has won several prizes in yachting regattas and is no fair weather yachtswoman, but is as daring as a man, driving her boat out in rough wind and water and pitching in a stiff breeze. She scorns the peaceful monotony of an open harbor so long as her boat can stick outside in open water. Miss Sargent, with her parents, Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of Holm Lea, Brookline, Mass., is spending the summer at Marblehead Neck, where she is convenient to the yacht clubs.

In addition to being a skilled yachting sailor, Miss Sargent is an expert golfer, tennis player and horsewoman and has a considerable reputation as a pedestrian. Her favorite methods of exercise outdoors, besides yachting, are walking and horseback riding.

"The real secret of health, strength and beauty of form and face," she says, "lies in restriction of the diet to simple fare and in the consistent following of such recreative exercises as walking, running, playing tennis, golf or other forms of sport which bring into play both the physical and mental activities of a person." Miss Sargent practices what she preaches and follows outdoor life and sports almost to the entire exclusion of social functions and indoor life commonly entailed upon society women and women of wealth. She advocates all manner of simple outdoor sports for the recuperation of health; but, in addition, she decries that the simple food regime must likewise be put into effect if one would be ultimately successful in gaining perfect health.

"When one is searching for health," she says, "there are many things to be considered. Constitutionally we are many of us quite unlike. I think each woman should study herself and experiment with different recreations before going ahead with systematic programs of exercise. It is sometimes not the things we like to do best that are the best for us. In my own case I feel that I have won and kept my own good health by consistent and constant recreative walking.

"Each morning I take a brisk walk of some length, perhaps several miles. There is no lagging on the way, and I make it a practice not to have all the distance covered lie over level walks, but rather up some of our steep hills and, if possible, along the rougher streets of the outlying districts."

Impressions of Pelaire.

Mlle. Poiraire, the French actress celebrated for being the "ugliest woman in the world," has recently returned to Paris, and this is what she says about American women: "American women are charming, but they certainly have a sense of modesty that is purely their own. Would you believe, they even pulled up my skirts to see my legs! I like the American man immensely. He is always well groomed, smart and elegant. Everything about him suggests that he has a daily bath. In dealing with women he may not have the Frenchman's esprit, charm and delicate little ways, but he is 'all right.'"

In answer to a question as to what she thought of the appearance of the American woman she replied:

"She is too slack in her appearance. She does not make as good an impression as the American man. She dresses horribly. She copies the Parisienne, but does it badly. She sticks an immense hat on her head without knowing whether it will suit her or not. It is a fine hat, she thinks, so long as it is adorned with immense feathers. They are mad for feathers over there. If they were not afraid of stepping on them they would have them sweeping to their feet."

"I am speaking of the American woman now solely as a woman. As audiences with men and women in America are charming. They have great taste for the theater. They know music well and are quick to recognize and appreciate the efforts of an artist to please them. In a word, they love art."

Act of Respect.

The Local Chapter of the Daughters of Confederacy did a beautiful act at the funeral of Mr. Rusk who died last Wednesday. The official wreath of the Daughters is a wreath of evergreen with two small Confederate flags crossed at the top and tied with the Confederate colors.

Mr. Rusk was an old Federal soldier and Mrs. Rusk, a member of the Daughters of Confederacy, so wishing to honor them both, the Daughters sent a beautiful evergreen wreath with two small United States flags crossed at the top and tied with red, white and blue. Such graceful acts as this, help us to remember that the war is over, and that we are citizens of one common country.

Fine Herd of Cattle

Judge Word has been having a herd of 1536 one and two year old cattle moved the past week from his ranch 20 miles south of town to the one 40 miles north. A number of Canyon citizens went out the first of the week to see them as they came close to town. The herd is very even in size and are well bred. They are in very excellent condition, many who saw them thinking they had certainly been fed, but they have only been on grass all summer. They were taken to the north ranch where they will be wintered.

Shall Women Vote?

If they did, millions would vote Dr. King's New Life Pills the true remedy for women. For banishing dull, fagged feelings; backache or headache, constipation, dispelling colds, imparting appetite and toning up the system, they're unequalled. Easy, safe, sure. 25c at all druggists.

DO YOU LOVE YOUR COUNTRY?

On Tuesday, the 8th inst., there will be held throughout the U. S. state elections in almost every state in the Union.

In great big Texas there will be held an election for governor on down to the smallest office. The coming election in Texas is one of the most important that has ever been held in the state. First, because we know more, are worth more, have more children and a greater population than we ever had before. Are you not proud you are a citizen of Texas? If you are not, then Texas is not proud of you. But we started out to say that every voter in Randall county ought to take a few hours off next Tuesday and go to the polls and vote. Now, why should you do this? We could give you many reasons but a few will suffice.

In the first place, the greatest vote we can poll will aid us in showing the increase in population and voting strength so that under all the rules of gain will increase the value of your lands and other property. Second, it will give us more power in any commercial relations that we may bear to the balance of Texas and more representation in commercial, political and agricultural conventions to be held in the future, for our representations in such bodies are based on the vote in the general election, last held usually. It takes now 28 counties to make one representative district in the state legislature and 49 counties to make one senatorial district and the senatorial district will be based upon the voting strength of the Panhandle country in redistricting the state.

Then again, one of our citizens of Randall county, Texas, is a candidate for representative of this the 106 representative district, who made such a splendid race for the nomination in the July primaries. In several of the counties he got as many votes almost as all the other three competitors, and in this county came very near getting all of them.

Judge Hunt, for he is the man we want to vote for next Tuesday and the one nominated for representative, was also elected to fill out the unexpired term of Representative Bowman, resigned, and was in Austin during part of the special sessions and was placed as a member of the most important committees in the whole legislature, to-wit: Judiciary Committee No. One. He was also assigned as a member of another very important committee, that is, on Common Carriers and on the committee of Commerce and Labor.

There are four candidates for speaker of the next house and recently Judge Hunt received a letter from a fellow member of the Judiciary committee asking him to submit his name for the speakership of the next house. This he will not do as he feels like that the scramble for this honored position will be sufficiently mixed up with what candidates there are already. It will be remembered that the members of the legislature on assembling the first Tuesday in January will elect one of their number speaker of the house.

Now let us all go to the polls and vote Tuesday the 8th inst. Do not forget it and lets make our county show up as great as we can. The next legislature will redistrict the state again this coming session and we want the proper redistricting division in the Panhandle this year. The more votes we get the better representation we will get in the redistricting.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

Monday was the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Service and a few friends and relatives were invited to their beautiful new home in the east end for a bountiful supper. Mr. and Mrs. Service were married in Amarillo ten years ago. The only person present at the supper Monday night who had also witnessed the wedding was Mrs. Oscar Hunt. Mr. and Mrs. Service are among the most prominent and well known citizens of Canyon and have a host of friends who will wish them many continued years of wedded happiness.

Bank Inspector Here.

W. L. McFall, inspector of state banks, came to Canyon Monday to inspect the First State bank. These inspectors make frequent unannounced visits to the state banks for the purpose of finding out the conditions. Mr. McFall complimented the local bank on the excellent condition in which he found affairs.

A DEADLY REPTILE

The Fer-de-lance the Most Venomous of All Serpents.

ITS STING A DEATH WARRANT

Little Chance For a Victim of the Fangs of This Terror of the Island of Martinique—The Cat and the Mongoose Its Most Formidable Enemies.

Every one is perfectly well aware that there exists a large number of venomous serpents—we have many of them right here in the United States; the rattler, for example—but probably no other spot in the known world has such a death dealing reptile as has the French island of Martinique, nesting in the limpid blue waters of the Caribbean sea. It is the fer-de-lance, scientifically known as Trigonoccephalus lanceolatus, that can beyond the shadow of a doubt lay claim to being the most deadly serpent of the earth. Its sting means almost certain death.

There are eight distinct varieties, the most common being a dark gray and black speckled, which coloring enables it to conceal itself easily among roots and stumps of trees. Another variety is a clear, bright yellow, and when hidden in the freshly-cut cane it can hardly be distinguished from the stalks. It may also be a dark yellow or coal black with a yellow belly.

It is not a large snake, rarely exceeding five feet in length and in circumference approximately the size of a child's arm. To repeat, the sting means almost certain death, and should not the service of a physician, or "panseur," as the natives call him, be obtained within a very short time the venom does its deadly work—the flesh softens, becomes pulpy, changes in color, quickly begins to spot, and a great chilliness creeps through the blood. This lasts only a few minutes—possibly half an hour—then death.

If the victim is fortunate enough to get a physician upon the scene post-haste and no artery or vein has been pierced there is hope—just a faint hope—but even if life is saved the danger is not entirely removed, for in many cases necrosis of the tissues follows. The flesh corrupts and falls from the bones, and the body molds as does a tree.

There is, however, a heroic method of treatment often brought into use by the Martiniquans. It is the immediate amputation of the leg or arm if the sting happens to be in either. Even this has to be done at once and before the venom circulates through the system. There are to be seen today upon the island many natives with limbs missing, and in the majority of cases it is the result of having the machete, or cane knife, applied after an experience with a fer-de-lance.

The fer-de-lance is a fighter—and no mistake about it—aggressive and pugnacious, and domestic animals, with the cat as the one exception, stand a very poor show in a battle. Puss, in about nine cases out of ten, will come out of the scrap with colors flying because of the fact that it is apparently quite as quick in movement and at the same time uses what may be termed ring generalship.

There is but one animal other than the cat that successfully wages war upon the fer-de-lance. It is the mongoose (Ichneumon), imported from India a number of years ago for the sole purpose of getting rid of the snakes.

Of the weasel family and looking very much like it, this little animal is absolutely fearless so far as snakes are concerned and will just as readily tackle one five feet in length as one a foot long. From the mongoose the fer-de-lance will flee, but if cornered will put up a great fight, using every trick at its command—a useless sort of contest, however, for within a short time it will be stretched out lifeless.

A battle between these two natural enemies is well worth witnessing. It is never a "limited" fight, but to a finish always, and probably the snakes by this time have come to understand that when they enter such a combat it is with the odds greatly against them.

The mongoose is quite as clever a ring general as the cat and uses that gift to advantage. Strategy more than strength is its asset.

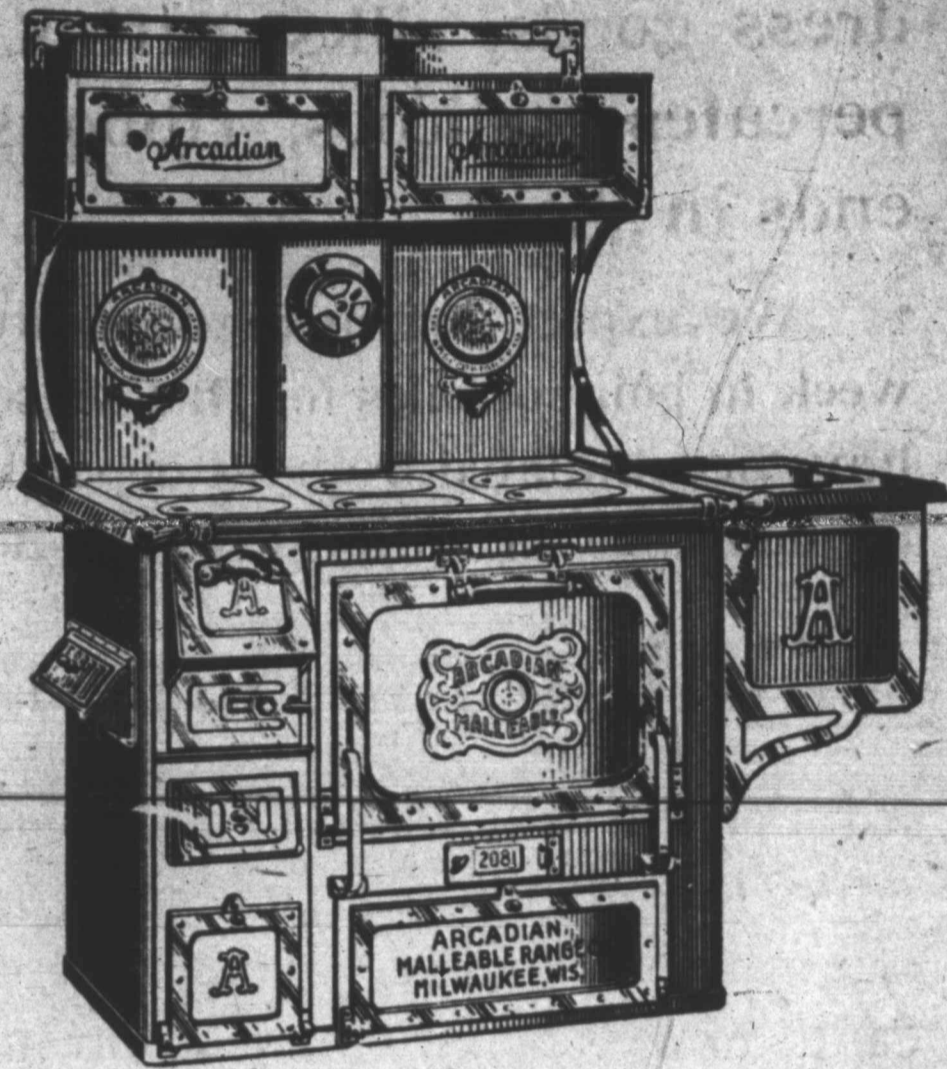

When they meet, and if the snake sees no avenue of escape, it prepares for battle, as does the mongoose, but in a more leisurely manner. It takes about one minute for them to get fully prepared. There is no shaking hands, so to speak, as by prizefighters.

The mongoose circles about the reptile, always at a safe distance and "drawing fire," inviting it by moving closer and closer to dart out its head and then quickly jumping out of harm's way. It torments in every possible manner, causing the snake to change position time and time again, stinging it by forcing a strike again and again without ever reaching the objective point. At last, seeing its opponent at some particular disadvantage, the mongoose springs forward quick as a bolt of lightning, catches it firmly with the teeth behind the triangular head—a snake, possibly two, no more—and in less time than it takes to tell it the fer-de-lance is dead, its vertebrae severed.—New York Times.

The gods have attached almost as many misfortunes to liberty as to servitude.—Montesquieu.

Pride of my Household

The accompanying cut represents the Celebrated Arcadian Malleable Non-Breakable Charcoal Range, a supply of which we are in receipt of and are now exhibiting on our floor for the critical examination of all lovers of GOOD STOVES.

We have these stoves with or without reservoirs, with or without water connections for boilers.

We are never too busy to explain to you thoroughly the merits of this stove and extend to you a hearty invitation to call and give us a look whether you intend buying or not.

Reasons Why You Should Buy an Arcadian Range.

They are made of Malleable, Non-Breakable Charcoal Iron, therefore rendering it capable of withstanding the hardest of service, burning the most rejecting fuels.

They are AIR TIGHT, causing them to obey the slightest demand of the operator in responding promptly, heating quickly and cooling off rapidly, as desired. It also means a saving of fuel, and at the same time rendering it an even baker. It is constructed without putty or bolts, all parts being riveted solidly—metal to metal.

THE ARCADIAN RANGE is asbestos lined, therefore preserving the life of the stove and at the same time acts as an agent in distributing the heat over the oven, which is very essential. THE ARCADIAN RANGE is made like a locomotive boiler—every part having been tested before going to the customer. It has the largest copper reservoir of any stove on the market.

These are only a few of the many good features of this stove that will merit your careful consideration when buying a range, and we especially invite you to call and let us go into the details, explaining to you why you cannot afford to buy any other.

OLD FISH TRAP DESTROYED

Missouri Contrivance That Dates Away Back From Time of the Indians.

Emmett C. Higgins and Otto Witt, game wardens, destroyed with dynamite the fish trap on the Chariton river. It had been in use for many years and was netting its owner from $2,500 to $3,500 a year. Ben Clark, the owner of the place, protested that he had purchased the trap along with the farm and that the fishing rights had been handed down for years to the owners of the farm.

He declared that he could not be deprived of them by law. There were many farmers waiting around the trap for a supply of fish, for which they paid four cents a pound. The fish usually caught in the trap were buffalo, cat, carp and croppie, weighing from one to fifty pounds. Catfish weighing 100 pounds have frequently been caught in the old trap.

The trap was a curious invention, consisting of heavy timbers placed midway of the stone dam. Fish coming down stream would float into it. The catch for a day would frequently fill an ordinary farm wagon. It is said that the dam and trap were originally built by the Indians. The owners have cleared more money from the sale of fish than from the produce of the farms. Frequent complaints have been made of this method of catching fish, but until a few days ago no action was taken.—Kansas City Times.

WOMAN IN MAINE COURTS.

For the first time in the annals of the United States circuit court of the Maine district has a woman been admitted to practise before the federal courts. Upon the motion of Arthur Chapman, assistant United States district attorney, Miss Eva E. Bean of Old Orchard has been admitted to practise in the United States circuit court by Judge Hale, and thus she has the distinction of being the first woman to be so honored in the state. She has been reading law for some years in the office of J. O. Bradbury, Saco. Somewhat over a year ago she was admitted to the bar and practised after passing a successful examination. Others have been granted such honors, but up to the present she is the only woman in Maine granted the privilege of appearing in the federal courts.

Cookery

Points

After using a gas stove for baking leave the oven open for a little while to allow the gas to escape. This will prevent sweating and rusting.

If chops and small steaks are placed in tin plates and set on top of the broiling grate they can be well cooked, and the tin plates will be much easier cleaned than the broiler grate would be.

Keep the range black by wringing out a sponge kept for the purpose in warm water and rubbing well with soap. Wash the stove while it is not warm. It can thus be kept black and free from grease spots.

Use the oven lighter for articles needing long, slow cooking—as, for example, tapioca and Indian puddings, bread, pies, etc. It will give a slow, even heat when used alone and burn much less gas.

Gas may be saved by remembering that matches are cheap and turning off the gas the moment you no longer need it—by turning off the gas a little before the cooking is done and finishing by the heat already generated.

When anything you have been cooking has been heated to the boiling point turn the blaze low enough to keep the heat just at that point.

Cream Dainty.

One cupful of milk, two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, a heaping tablespoonful of powered gelatin, a quarter pint of water, a teaspoonful lemon juice, a cupful whipping cream, three yolks of eggs, three ounces of preserved ginger, two tablespoonfuls of ginger sirup. Put the gelatin into a saucepan with the water. Set in a warm place until dissolved. Beat up the yolks, add to them the sugar and milk, boiling; pour this back into a pitcher, stand the pitcher in boiling water and stir the custard until it coats the spoon; add to it the gelatin, lemon juice and ginger sirup. Whip up the cream until stiff, then add to it the custard. Allow this to stand until it is almost set. Then stir in the ginger cut in small pieces. Pour into a wet mold and put in a cool place until firm. Turn out and decorate with cut pieces of ginger.

Marshmallow Cream.

One-fourth box gelatin, one-half cup cold water, one-half cup boiling water, whites of four eggs, one cup granulated sugar, one teaspoonful vanilla, one teaspoonful lemon extract. Soak gelatin in the cold water five minutes, add the boiling water and place over a teakettle until thoroughly dissolved. Cool, but do not chill. Stir the sugar in the dissolved gelatin, beat the white of the eggs very light and to the eggs add the gelatin and sugar, a few spoonfuls at a time, beating constantly. Divide in two parts and to one part add pink coloring and flavor with vanilla. To the white part add the lemon extract. Mold in layers, adding pecan nuts to the pink part and marshmallow cherries to the white part. May be served with or without whipped cream.

Coffee Blancmange.

One cupful of milk, one cupful of strong, clear coffee, two ounces of cornstarch, two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, one heaping tablespoonful of butter. Put the coffee and half of the milk in a saucepan to heat. Mix the cornstarch smoothly with the remainder of the milk and add to it the hot liquid in the saucepan. Stir over the fire till boiling and boil slowly for eight minutes, stirring all the time. Add the sugar, butter, vanilla and mix well. Pour into a wet mold and turn out when cold.

Particularly Good French Dressing.

Mix a half teaspoonful salt and the same amount of sugar in a bowl; add gradually, stirring all the time, one cupful olive oil. When salt and sugar are dissolved beat in half a gill of vinegar. Add four red chills, eight green chills and half an onion, all chopped very fine. Beat all together and add a tablespoonful minced parsley. Beat again and pour into a can. Let stand an hour before serving. When ready to serve shake in the jar or whip with an egg beater.

When Frying Bacon.

In so many households bacon and eggs is the most popular breakfast dish that more than one housewife may be glad of a tip concerning the bacon's preparation.

If the bacon is too salt (and it is, indeed, sometimes) place a little water in the pan in which you intend frying it. Let the water come to a boil, then pour the water off and cook the bacon in the usual manner.

Not only does this method do away with the saltiness, but it renders the bacon more tender as well.

Deodorized Cabbage.

A piece of stale bread, a small lump of soda or a piece of charcoal placed in the pot will lessen the disagreeable odor that arises when cooking cauliflower or cabbage.

An appetizing lettuce salad is made by arranging the leaves in a salad bowl, sprinkling with stuffed olives cut in slices and just before serving adding a mayonnaise dressing.

The Pardon Paperweight.

Under the headline "A Queer Municipal Gift" a Vienna paper tells this story: "In the year 1890 a private soldier stationed at Sals killed an officer of his regiment and was condemned to be shot. Comrades who knew the extenuating circumstances, friends, priests, relatives—all pleaded in vain for mercy, the colonel in whose hands the matter rested insisting on the death penalty. The day came and the man was taken to the place of execution. Six members of his regiment, armed with rifles, one of which contained a blank cartridge, took their places as executioners. The man's eyes were bandaged and with arms securely pinioned he stood ready for the volley, shouting 'Comrades, aim well' when a mounted courier dashed into the crowd waving a white flag, crying 'Pardon!' He was Lieutenant Baron du Mont, with the colonel's pardon, which would have been useless had it arrived one minute later. The municipality secured the five bullets from the firing squad, had them silvered and mounted in the form of a tiny pyramid on a silver plate, and this, suitably inscribed, is known as the 'pardon paperweight,' the only one of its kind."

The Useful Crocodile Fish.

In the rivers and lakes of the Mexican state of Tabasco there swims a fish known as the "crocodile fish" which is most useful to man. The skin of the crocodile fish, if properly cured, may be utilized for any of the purposes for which the lighter weights of leather are employed. The oil of the crocodile fish is a perfect lubricant and also used for softening leather. In addition to its qualities as a lubricant and emollient, the oil possesses medicinal qualities for which a superiority to the finest of Norwegian cod liver is claimed. The flesh of the crocodile fish is extensively used by the natives as food and highly relished by them as one of the delicacies of the country. Crocodile fish range in length from ten inches to four feet, and when dried assume an ashen hue, with lighter shadings of a bluish tint.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Poor Human Nature.

The woman who had succeeded in that rather difficult task—making a boarding house pay—was confiding to a friend some of the tricks of the trade.

"While you must never allow your boarders to get too far behind in their payments, it is also true that you will profit considerably by allowing them a little leeway. So long as you are sure of your money it pays a landlady to have her boarders a week or two behind in their board."

"I don't see that," interrupted her friend.

"Well, I'll tell you," continued the landlady. "When a man owes back board you have him at a certain disadvantage. Not one in a hundred under such circumstances has the nerve at meal-times to ask for a second helping.—New York Times.

The Human Lobster.

The lobster has always appealed to the Englishman as affording a nickname for his fellow Englishman. "Lobster" was a favorite term of abuse among the Elizabethans, though it is only conjectured that an allusion to red faces was conveyed. As signifying a soldier, "lobster" originated in the civil war, being applied to the Roundhead cuirassiers, as Clarendon explains, "because of the bright iron shells with which they were covered." Afterward the allusion was transferred to the soldier's red uniform. But that was the "boiled lobster." The "raw lobster" was naturally the man in blue, the policeman. In earlier days we find Grose explaining that "to boil one's lobster" meant for a clergyman to become a soldier.—London Chronicle.

The Man With the Iron Mask.

The Man With the Iron Mask was a mysterious French prisoner of state, whose identity has never been satisfactorily established. He was closely confined under the charge of M. de St. Mars at Pignerol in 1679, at Exilles in 1681, at Sainte-Marguerite in 1687 and finally was transferred to the Bastille in 1698, where he died on Nov. 19, 1703, and was buried the following day in the cemetery of St. Paul under the name of Marchiall. Dumas made him a twin brother of Louis XIV.

Apologies only account for the evil which they cannot alter.—Cayler.

Not Sorry For Blunder.

"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption, I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping-cough or weak lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

PROBLEM OF THE AIRSHIP

Legislators of the World Must Decide How to Deal With the Aerial Law-Breaker.

Also, with the coming of the airship, a very pretty problem will be presented to the legislators of the world for solution—namely, how to deal with the aerial lawbreaker, to whom neither walls nor fences, mountains nor rivers, nor even the broad ocean, will be insurmountable barriers. Are these airships to be allowed to traverse frontiers freely, regardless of passports? Is the upper air to become a smugglers' paradise? Are these aerial wanderers to be independent of customs duties, defiant of bans of exile and laws of immigration? Are they to remain at liberty to hover over our fortifications, arsenals and dock yards, or to land on our lawns and flower beds? And how shall we guard against the aerial burglar? Most houses are badly protected on top, and the burglar who had a friendly airship in waiting for him need have little fear of the police. It is perhaps too fantastic to predict an aerial police force, but with the arrival of the cheap and popular airship the authorities will have to adopt special precautions to regulate the traffic of the skies. Aircraft will inevitably be used to smuggle diamonds across the frontier.—Columbian Magazine.

Will Promote Beauty.

Women desiring beauty get wonderful help from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It banishes pimples, skin eruptions, sores and boils. It makes the skin soft and velvety. It glorifies the face. Cures sore eyes, cold sores, cracked lips, chapped hands. Best for burns, scalds, fever sores, cuts, bruises and piles. 25c at all druggists.

MAIDS FOR THE DOGS.

There were 220 entries at the Pekin palace dog show in the Royal Botanical gardens in London recently. Most of the pets had maids who took care of them, combing the hair and amusing them. Most of the dogs had toys with them, one proudly displaying his Teddy bear. Lady Algeron Gordon-Lennox was one of the judges and Pierpont Morgan was one of the exhibitors.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the past 36 years, but is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by City Pharmacy.

SOMETHING TO SHOW.

Dane—You didn't do it, did you?
Kilby (gloomily)—No, but I wish I had now.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry-cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them. Sold by City Pharmacy.

Just a Little Conundrum

Why are burglars like our lumber?
Because they always go into the best of homes.

Not only do we sell the majority of lumber for the best homes all around here, but we get most of the bills for barns, granaries, and for all buildings where good, sound, dry material is required. People have learned that there is a lot of difference in the quality of lumber, and as we make quality our "long suit," particular buyers take no chances but buy what they need from us.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.
The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never dissappoints. Only 50c at all druggists.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect, and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by City Pharmacy.

For the Children

A Young Cowboy
In Full Panoply.

The young cowboy in the picture was one of many who helped to welcome Colonel Roosevelt on his recent visit to Cheyenne. There were many cowboys from all parts of the cattle country, and they gave the former president a great time. There were roping of steers and riding wild horses, and all the amusements common at such meetings. There was quite a company of little cowboys present, and they took great pains to give the true cowboy yell. Like the picture shows above, they were fully equipped with sombrero, crop, rope and pistol, and they made a brave show.

Stag Tag.

For this merry romp two short dowel rods or sticks are decorated with "shoo-shoo" of shredded tissue paper. The player who becomes "it" takes one wand in each hand and thus armed sallies forth to capture other players. This is done by tagging them lightly with one or the other of the wands. As soon as any player has been tagged he joins hands with the person tagging him and takes one of the shoo-shoo in the unoccupied hand. A third person tagged by either of these two joins hands in the same way, and so the fun continues until a long unwieldy line is working its way around the room in pursuit of one nimble player bent on giving his pursuers a merry dance for it.

Bread and Butter.

Select a small article, as a thimble, that can be easily hidden. All players except one close their eyes and hide their faces in their hands. The person holding the article then hides it in some convenient spot in the room. After it is secreted he calls, "Bread and butter, please, my lady, come to supper." At this all eyes are opened and the search begins. A clue is given by announcing that the supper is warm, cold or hot, according to the proximity of the searcher to the spot where the article is hidden. Once found, the person who has been successful in the search is allowed to hide it again, and so the game continues.

Character Games.

One of the company leaves the room a name which contains as many letters as there are persons in the room is chosen, and to each one a letter of the name is assigned. Each person is then expected to choose a character whose name begins with that letter. The players all sit in a semicircle in the order of the letters, of course. The one outside is called in and told where the name begins and ends. He may be allowed either a certain time or a certain number of questions to find out each letter and in this manner spell out the name.

No More Drums.

In the battle of Waterloo the English forces had over ninety drummer boys killed, and the French lost nearly 200. From that date on the armies of the world began to dispense with drummers in war, and now no army has them. Bugles are used instead of drums, and most buglers are at least twenty years old.

A Wise Conclusion.

Home's the nicest, after all
Once I went a long, long way—
Took a car and traveled far—
On the train a night and day,
Many funny things I saw—
Rivers, cities, mountains tall—
But I begged for leaving time,
"Home's the nicest, after all!"
Once the shepherd dog and I
Thought we'd journey through the woods—
Took enough of bread and stuff—
Played that I was Robin Hood.
Oh, how very lost we got!
How I had to cry and call!
Till you home looked mighty good.
It's the safest, after all.
Sometimes, when I read the tale
Of a great man's wanderings,
When I see swift bird or bee
And begin to wish for wings,
Long to have a big balloon,
Fret because I stay so small,
I remember certain things—
Home's the best place, after all!
—Youth's Companion

Literary Firsts and Seconds.
The youthful newspaper reporter who has visions of being a famous author is still wondering over the epigram made by a successful confederate when the latter noted his disappointment over the return of a manuscript. "I thought sure," said the reporter, with a sigh, "that that confounded story would sell. It's good stuff, if I did write it, and I am certainly surprised that it came back."
The successful writer grinned and then placed his hand on the other man's shoulder.
"My dear boy," he said, somewhat grimly, "there are only two stages in the life of a writer. One is when he is surprised at getting his stories back and the second when he is surprised at not getting them back. You're in the first; I'm in the second. And there you are."
But the reporter is still wondering. Philadelphia Times.

Escorted Her Anyway.
While Robert Browning and his son Barrett were living alone in Florence the son gave one afternoon an exhibition of his new paintings in the family drawing room. To Mr. Browning was assigned the task of meeting the guests. Late in the afternoon, when the room was well filled, there appeared at the drawing room door a woman whose face was familiar. Yet Mr. Browning could not recall her name, and he judged from her appearance that she was not an invited guest.
There was embarrassment on both sides for a moment, and then the woman said eagerly: "Oh, please, Mr. Browning, I'm the cook. Mr. Barrett said as I was to come and see his pretty picture."

Whereupon Mr. Browning, offering his arm, showed her about the room with all the attention that he could have bestowed upon a reigning queen.

The Rat and the Bulbs.
According to the French naturalist De Parville, a gardener planted one afternoon 250 tulip bulbs on a terrace, and next morning he noticed that the ground had been disturbed and that the bulbs had all been taken away. He was confident that rats had done the work, and, taking a spade, he began to dig in the hope of discovering their nest. Soon he unearthed a large female rat, which he killed, and after digging a few more minutes he discovered an underground chamber lined with hay and leaves and connected by a corridor with two holes, which were evidently used as storehouses, for in them he found the 250 tulip bulbs. This was remarkable, but more remarkable was the fact that they were neatly arranged in two rows and that not one of them had been gnawed or otherwise injured.

The Rhodum Sidus.
An amusing story told by Hood describes how a country nurseryman made a large sum out of sales of a simple little flower which he sold under the name of the Rhodum sidus. This charming name proved quite an attraction to the ladies, and the flower became the rage of the season. It was one of those freaks of fashion for which there is no accounting. At length a botanist who found that the plant was not an uncommon weed requested to know where the nurseryman got the name from. He elicited the following reply: "I found this flower in the road beside us, so christened it the Rhodum sidus."

The Purist Lost a Sale.
"I've just happened to remember that my wife told me to get a tin pan that will go under the icebox. Have you any?"
"No, sir, but we have some that can be shoved under the icebox. Won't that do just as well?"
"I think not, young man. My wife is a bit particular about my getting the exact thing that she tells me to get. I presume I can find it at some other store. Good day, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

Horse Sense.
During a heavy downpour of rain an Irish farmer sent his boy to a distant field to bring home a horse. Some time elapsed, and the messenger returned without the horse.
Father—Didn't Ol send ye for the horse, ye gamoch? Is your head in your brogues?
Little Boy (drenched to the skin)—Sure, he was standin' in shelter as dry as ye lolke. Bedad, he knows more than the two of us.

Too Empty.
Bonney (morning of the second day out)—Come, old boy, let's go out on deck. Breakfast won't be served for half an hour yet, and a brisk walk on an empty stomach will do you good.
Klabber (feebly trying to smile)—Take a walk on yours, if you like, chappie. Mine is—entirely too empty.—Chicago Tribune.

In Art Circles.
"That picture is by an old master," the owner stated proudly.
"Umph, umph," commented the critical visitor. "What was he master of?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Advice.
She (after the embraces)—Oh, how dare you! You have offended me. What shall I do?
He—Er—why not "turn the other cheek?"—London Tatler.

What Did It Mean?
A notice board in a Scottish kirk once bore, it is said, the following amazing sentence: "This church is licensed for the solemnization of marriages!"

Listen to others, but do not blindly depend on them.

Laid in a Stock.
When the late Pierre Lorillard was a boy, his mother, being annoyed by moths that destroyed the woolen clothing and other material of the household, agreed to pay him a cent apiece for every moth he would kill in the house and bring to her. The same bargain was made with his brothers, Jake, George and Louis. In course of time Mrs. Lorillard noticed that, while the other children collected from her at intervals from 10 to 25 cents, Pierre drew on her frequently for a $1 at a time, indorsing his drafts with 100 dead moths. Investigation revealed the bent of the future financier as well as his early adaptability to methods governing the acquirement of wealth. Having procured from a furrier some pieces of fur thrown away because they were infested with moths, Pierre secreted them in an old chest in an unused closet. There the quickly accumulating moths were banked, to be drawn upon whenever the inventor and perfecter of the enterprise required pocket money.

Knighthood Actors.
It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Bancroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell, and Sir John Hare, Fairs. As for Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "Tree" is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.
In the latter days of the English prize ring, innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Leman in 1800 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pickpockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

Original of Falstaff.
Sir John Fastolf was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a continual butt for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark. Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was yet some way off Fastolf had armed and fortified his house and garrisoned it with veterans of the French wars. On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels. Fastolf's matrimonial adventures seem also to have been another source of unpopularity, for, having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime.—London News.

"Great Expectations."
Charles Green, one of Dickens' illustrators, had two models, one of whom was a likable fellow, while the other, Gregory by name, was a greedy, self-seeking character, always thinking of himself and his perquisites.

When Green was on his deathbed Gregory was very officious, and one day Green, noticing this, said to him: "Oh, I haven't forgotten you, Gregory; got you down in my will."
At the funeral Gregory invested in a wreath and duly attended to hear the will read.
Green had kept his word, and the model was not forgotten.
"To my dear friend Gregory," ran the document, "I leave, for his kindness to me, an illustrated edition of 'Great Expectations.'"

Against His Principles.
"What was that man making such a fuss about?" asked the restaurant proprietor.
"He found a couple of hairs in the food, sir," replied the waiter.
"Oh, is that all?"
"You see, sir, he's a vegetarian, and you can't get him to eat anything but vegetables."—Yonkers Statesman.

Neatly Parried.
A mother of four daughters, one of whom had recently been married, cornered an eligible young man in the drawing room.
"And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"
"The married one," was the prompt reply.—Exchange.

Easier.
"I'm going to the dentist's to have this tooth out. Just mind the baby till I come back." Husband (with alacrity)—You mind the baby, Jessie. I'll go and get a tooth pulled out!

Her Bait.
"You have to have different bait for different fish, don't you, ma?"
"I guess so. I know I caught a lobster with mistletoe."—New York Press.

Still Another Asset

Has Been Added to the PANHANDLE!

IT HAS BEEN DEMONSTRATED that this country grows the finest quality of broom corn possible; notwithstanding this year was the dryest and most unfavorable in the history of the country, from one-fourth to one-third of a ton of first-class brush was grown; its quality is demonstrated by the fact that our crop here has commanded the highest market price, and has left a good margin of profit on the twenty to twenty-five dollar land on which it was grown.

Our grain crops show a good yield, where the land was cultivated. Notwithstanding that many parts of the apple growing country were an entire failure this year, there are in the Panhandle today many trees loaded with splendid fruit.

Keiser Bros. & Phillips have an established reputation second to none, for honesty and square dealing. Their guaranty is as strong as a government bond, either in horse or land matters, and they guarantee that if you come to the Panhandle they will show you splendid crops this worst of all years, in the districts in which they own land. We do not claim that the Panhandle is Heaven, but we do claim that it is as near it as any part of the Mississippi valley country, and a more desirable place to make a home.

Keiser Bros. & Phillips sell their own land; if you buy of them you save the middleman's profit and you are sure there will be no skin game worked on you. We have many testimonial letters in our files written by customers who have dealt with us, voicing their appreciation of our method of doing business.
