Dr. Mott Wires of Peace Rumors

Even in Event of Peace, Money Will Be Needed for Returning Soldiers.

Dr. John Mott, Director General of the United War Work Campaign, has wired L. A. Coulter, State Campaign Director, the following:

"Our whole National Organization is united in conviction that the War Work Activities of the seven organizations must continue to be pressed with full and increasing vigor, and that whenever peace comes it will be followed by long period of demobilization." Military authorities say it will take fifteen months to bring the Canadian Army home and eighteen months for the Australian Army. All Military authorities with whom I have consulted insist it will require over 12 months after peace is declared to bring the American Army home. This demobilization period will present greatest need for our work and by far our greatest opportunity, therefore let there be no hesitation or change in any of our campaign plans except to secure, if possible, fifty per cent over subscription."

Service Under Fire

An American doughboy, was asked to tell what, during the fighting at Chateau Thierry in which he participated, impressed him most, said:

"I was flabbergasted of course by the rain of Hun machine gun bullets, and was surprised when I turned over what I supposed was a dead Hun and found he was only playing possum, and I was a wee bit excited when I tumbled into a pit on top of two dead German snipers, but the climax to my Chateau Thierry fight experience came just as we had finished mopping up the town from which we drove the Huns.

"I was faint from hunger, and thirst and was wondering how long it would be before I could find the "makins" of a smoke, when who should come a long but a Knights of Columbus truck with hot chocolate, coffee and best of all-cigarets! "My first hot bite, hot drink and a real smoke at Chateau Thierry—I will never forget 'em."

The 40,000 drafted men who arrived at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas, from Oklahoma early last month have learned the meaning of the term "melting pot" as applied to the army. These men, who included a number of Indians from various tribes, were kept in detention camp for three weeks and since their release have been distributed among the various units of the 15th division which is being organized here with prospects of going over seas early next year. The new 80th infantry is composed largely of Oklahoma men but the Oklahomans have been used to fill quotas in the cooking school, hospital corps, military police, sanitary and hospital trains and the various other units in the camp. If the 15th division ever gets into the fighting in France the people of Oklahoma will have a chance to claim it as their division because of the great number of her sons who compose it.

Negro Asks For Face Powder Strange things, considering the surroundings, are asked for by our soldiers in France or the women running the Y. M. C. A. canteens. Elcise Robinson in a description of a typical morning at the "Y" tells the following.

A South Carolina negro steps up to the counter, asking: "Yo' all got some complexion cream—this mo'nin, Ma'am?"

"Two kinds" they are placed before him. He carefully reads the labels and selects the larger jar.

"Anything Else?"

"Yassam. Some face power, please Ma'am."

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati authority tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezeone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezeone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

Foyers are Popular With the Americans

War Relief Organizations Greatly Stabilize Fighting Men's Morale

A big contribution which the United States had to our fighting allies is the war service among the troops of the nations affiliated with America. None of the war service organizations was known in France or Italy until we came into the war. Before the war ends they will be as familiar there as they are here.

When the Y. M. C. A., K. of C., Jewish Welfare and Salvation Army huts were established in France the native population was mildly interested but little curious. They thought the huts were canteens for American soldiers, a sort of an off-shoot of the Red Cross, with which they were already acquainted. But soon the American soldiers began to fraternize with the French poilu and the latter, after visiting the huts spread the tale of the many and varied conventions and necessities provided for the American Moving pictures and entertainments, books, writing materials, banking facilities, athletic and games, education—a long list.

The K of C and the Jewish Welfare Board care for all allied soldiers in the same huts maintained for American fighters. The Y. M. C. A. has established a special service for the poilus with the approval of the French government which has military supervision over them. Foyers des Soldats they call them, literally, homes for soldiers. They need homes these brave, tired, unconquerable French poilue. After four years of terrible fighting they are dogtired and need diversion. Between bouts with the invading Huns they love to drop into their foyers for a cup of hot chocolate a smoke and a comradely talk. Their slender pay, a franc, 20 cents, aday, does not permit them the extravagance which marks the American soldier. But chocolate, coffee, bouillon, cakes, pencils post cards and the like they buy. Ten centimes, two cents, is the maximum price charged for these articles.

The most celebrated of the foyers, the Foyer du President Wilson, is an underground cavern at Mont Doumont, northwest of Immortal Ardum. Other foyers in the area over which the fighting has been most fierce have been lost to the Germans, but of these forty seven have already been replaced and the others will be for the French Government sees in them great possibilities for education of the soldiers.

This brings us to the other newly established American institute, the public library. The Library War Service of the American Library Association has established in "Y" huts, Knights of Columbus huts, Red Cross houses, Y. M. C. A. hostess houses and other stations overseas, circulating branch libraries with a constant supply of books and magazines. These are not entirely fiction libraries, although of course, good fiction is included. The American fighting men reads to improve his status as a fighter, to help him in his special line of work and to get him a better job after the war. The Library War Service provides him with technical and text books and with every kind of trade and professional work form law to agriculture.

The French government has viewed this service with admiration. A commission recently was formed, with President Poincare as chairman, to study the American public library system and to establish it throughout France. Already the system has been established in the Foyers des Soldats. The Library War Service sends libraries of fifty to one hundred books to each foyer, and the department will soon be enlarged as the French government has requested that agricultural and other works be added. The war department has asked for moving pictures illustrating scientific farming, forestry, manual training, machinery, playgrounds and recreation centers.

American institutions, American secretaries like these are spreading from France southward into Italy. The Knights of Columbus has ordered 100 secretaries to Italy where 10 huts are being constructed. At almost 400 points the Y. M. C. A. has established its work. Soon Italy will have its homes for soldiers. Wherever the American flag goes to help in the war for liberty, there also will go the war service agencies, the helping hand.

Seven of these agencies have been authorized to work abroad and at home for the soldiers, sailor and marine. These are the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the National Catholic War Council and Knights of Columbus, the War Camp Community Service, the Jewish Welfare Board, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army. To maintain their efficiency a great deal of money is necessary, and the week of November 11-18 has been set apart to collect the sum of $170, 500,000 to be divided among the seven.

Who contributes to the sum helps our men in every camp, cantonment, aviation camp, naval station, war ship and transport in this country and in Europe. He helps the French and the Italian soldier. He helps to maintain the fighting morale of the allied armies. He helps to beat the unspeakable Hindenburg, the bloody handed Von Tirpitz, the mad manic of Potsdam. Every dollar given to that fund helps to win the war quickly and to bring the men for whom millions of hearts yearn.

Soldiers Safer Over There than at Home

Influenza Cause of More Deaths Here Than German Guns Over There

Within three short weeks Spanish Influenza has developed and spread so widely and rapidly that American's death roll here at home is greater than that of all her huge armies in Europe. Moreover, the number of prostrations from this disease from day to day in America is probably greater than the combined casualty lists of all of the fighting forces engaged in this great World War. The number of cases in New York City alone has increased from a total of 47 cases and no deaths reported to and including September 20th, 1918, to 4,293 new cases and 393 deaths in a single day. Moreover, the statement is said to have been made by a prominent physician—Dr. Goldwater—that the actual number of cases in New York is about half a million.

This is not intended as an alarmist statement but is simply a brief summary of facts currently reported in the daily press. While there is still no reason for panic there is every reason for swift action in the erection of effective barriers against the spread of this malady. Only yesterday the writer when about to attempt to enter an ever-crowded street car, balked, upon hearing someone in the car execute an utterly unexpressed sneeze, and decided to walk; and as he walked he pondered over New York's frightful congestion in surface, subway and elevated cars; on wharves and ships; in stores, factories, sweatshops, hotels, restaurants, and even in the many thousands of other places, sometimes improperly called homes, where people never really live but merely exist, and where thousands of them are now being deprived, by death, of even that questionable privilege; and as he pondered he wondered whether, when the 'big death roll of this epidemic is finally counted people will still think that New York—with its huge waste of mechanical force, man power and even human life itself, due to its monstrous congestion of humanity at a point where there is economic justification for only a small city—is really worth while.

Of course the disease is spreading elsewhere, but only where there are overcrowded conditions equivalent to little New York's are its ravages of deadly nature.

In the interest of national efficiency and safety the Federal Government has recently extended its ownership and control in a manner scarcely dreamed of by even the most radical. Perhaps this matter of Government control has gone too far in some directions; but there is obviously one direction in which it has fallen far short of the goal which it should reach in the interest of the general welfare, and that is in the matter of providing for the security of the public health. The fact that the happiness, strength, and even the very existence of the nation depends absolutely upon the maintenance of the public health and the prevention of all conditions which menace it, is by this epidemic being demonstrated more clearly than ever before; and, terrible as it is the death-roll of this plague, if it awakens the American people to a realization of the fact that the preservation of the public health by a perpetual warfare against disease is as clearly and absolutely a function of the general government as is the control of the army and navy in the great war for the preservation of democracy, the results will fully justify such cost.

Fire Creates Excitement

Some excitement was caused Monday by a telephone message stating that J. M. Bell's residence ten miles southwest of town, was burning. Some parties hurried out in autos, but found that it was only a buggy shed that was burning. A buggy and several other articles were destroyed. It is thought that rats or mice started the fire.—Pampa News.

"After The War"

According to the reconstruction resolutions before Congress, it appears that no plans have yet been seriously considered for the demobilization of our army and Navy after the war. The problem as to what is to be done with these men must be solved.

Secretary Lane of the Interior Department, appears to be the only Cabinet officer who has come forward to announce a plan of betterment for our soldiers when they return from the battle fronts. Nevertheless it is a fact that practically every Department and Bureau of the Government has been developing ways and means toward reconstruction, and they will all be put forward. Secretary Lane, in a letter to the President, recalls that following the civil War the soldiers went upon the homestead land which was thrown open to entry. Congress is asked to get busy on a plan that has been outlined by him to prepare government lands, to supply drainage and other important and extensive improvements that will be necessary before land in great quantities can be made available. At the close of the Civil War this was an agricultural rather than a manufacturing nation, and it is impossible to forecast the percentage of soldiers who will go upon farm lands. It will be necessary to provide employment for five million men and to transfer millions of war workers into employment in civil life.

There is in process of completion war orders amounting to billions of dollars, and when a declaration of peace comes most of these will necessarily be cancelled immediately. Congress is beginning to pay attention to these problems which will entail great losses to manufacturers—running into amounts aggregating billions of dollars, and the adjustment of which will create a situation of uncertainty that will exist for years to come. "Intimately connected with the question of labor is the one relating to social welfare," declared one of the Senators, who added that the European countries have taken steps, nationally, relating to welfare questions; for example, the provision for old age pensions, life insurance and other similar matters.

New Questions Ahead

The Senate proceedings bring out the fact that at the end of the war we are likely to have a merchant fleet larger than any other country in the world—a different relative position than the one we held at the beginning of the war. This fleet will be very largely owned by the Government, and it is a problem that must be under Government ownership. Government ownership crops up in every industrial problem.

Another immense problem confronting the Government and the country, affects the manufacturing plants and other establishments created for war purposes, the machinery for which may or may not be available for after war production. It is likewise considered a subject for the immediate present to decide what we are going to do with the millions of war workers now so busily employed who will find themselves out of employment when peace has been declared. It appears imperative that the Government must take some action to protect its war workers. The Government has an endless number of buildings now being used for exclusive war purposes, and it must be determined what is going to be done with these buildings. What also is to be done with the houses the Government has provided for its war workers? Surely all this vast equipment must not deteriorate or go in the scrap heap. At the return to bear its burdens, for it is very clear that cooperate industry will not solve the problem and a wise modern philosopher gives this reason: "Because inevitably the few must always lead and the many must follow, which renders just cooperation impossible of realization until human nature itself is changed."

The War Camp Community Service serves the soldiers in cities adjacent to cantonments by erecting buildings where he can have suitable sleeping and lounging quarters.

We Ought To Go To Prayer

The person who can stand in the midst of life with its tremendous problems, with its suffering, with its heartache and does not feel the need of religion is either profoundly stupid or almost hopelessly frivolous. Most of us are conscious of our need of God but neglect it until some tragedy or great sorrow drives us in-went to this elemental fact. We are at a great crisis in the world's history. After a great struggle into which has been poured Europe's choicest treasure and many of the noblest young men of our own loved America we are apparently nearing a military victory. Europe has had her Calvary and Europe for the most part will Convert her suffering into character. She has reached the great realities in life. Europe's face is turned toward God. America has not entered her soul as it has that of Europe thru the tragedies of the war. It has not done so yet. But if we lose the religious significance of life, if we forget that God is in this world, if we neglect to seek his guidance in these awful times we may lose the richest fruits of a military victory. It we have not learned our need of God thru the war would it be a thing to be wondered at if thru some other widespread suffering. He should bring us to a realization of that fact?

I believe in the Providence and leadership of God and so believing that we ought to seek him afresh—seek him in repentance and forth seek him in intercession. What could have a greater religious value than for America regularly and honestly to implore God to guide us in the battle for righteousness, to give light and leading to our statesmen, and to our armies, and above all to keep the American people true to the highest ideals of religion. Many communities are stopping every day at a stated hour while for a moment the heart is uplifted in prayer to God. Some have objected that this is like the Angelus and that smacks of Catholicism. Personally I do not feel that this should deter us in the slightest. Historic flavor need not affect our personal communion with God.

We ought to pray as a community. We have added reasons for prayer in the midst of a nationwide epidemic that is taking its toll in thousands. In our own community the shadows have fallen in a number of homes. We cannot say what is before us either as a local community or as a nation. We would be the gainers in every high sense I do not doubt if we would recommit our Mayor to set apart a time for prayer in every day. As pastor of the Methodist people here I want to take the liberty to suggest, since we have no services Sunday, that we all go to prayer at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning, presenting as a united petition at the throne our prayer for God's leadership in our conduct of the world war and for Him to stay the epidemic that is sweeping its thousands into eternity. And do not forget the stricken homes in our midst. The same experience will come to your home and mine somewhere. My friends we ought to pray and pray thru God.

Our Next Job

Now that the Fourth Liberty Loan is out of the way there is just one more big task for the American people—to provide the comforts for our boys through the United War Work Campaign.

John R. Mott, director general of the campaign, announces the total amount sought is at least $170,500,000 and that the quotas specified for the six states of the Southern military department are as follows:

Texas, $3,239,500; Arizona, $306,900; New Mexico, $204,600; Oklahoma, $1,019,800; Arkansas, $569,600; Louisiana, $1,483,400. Total for Southern Department, $7,723,800—Southwest Plainsman.

A Mother's Happiness Made Perfect

Of Utmost Importance That She Have Every Care.

The expectant mother's physical comfort should be our first thought, and all about her should see to it that her preparation for baby's coming be complete. There is a most splendid remedy to prepare women for the greatest time in their lives, known as Mother's Friend. It is applied to the muscles of the abdomen, gently rubbed in, and at once penetrates to relieve strain on nerves, cords and ligaments. It makes the muscles supple so that they expand easily when baby arrives; the hours at the time are fewer, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally avoided. Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided discomfort and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided. Every nerve, muscle and tendon is thoroughly lubricated. Discomfort during the period is counteracted, and the skin, after the crisis, is left smooth and natural. Write to the Bradford Regulator Company, Dept. B, Lumber Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Mother's Friend Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the drug store today without fail.

It's Time to Prepare for Winter Comfort

The long, hot summer days are over and October is here with its cool evenings and that refreshing "tang" in the air which sends one indoors to the warmth of the bright fire. HUN PROPOSALS WILL BE LAID BEFORE ALLIES

(Continued from Page One) Associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce the details of the peace to which the German government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from the military point of view.

"Should such terms of armistice be suggested their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace from which the whole action proceeds."

The president would deem himself lacking candor did he not point out the frankest possible terms the reason that extraordinary safeguards must be demanded. Significant and important as the constitutional changes seem to be which are spoken of by the German foreign secretary in his note of the 20th of October, it does not appear that the principles of a government responsible to the German people has yet been fully worked out, or that any guarantees either exist or are in contemplation that the alternations of practice and principle now partially agreed upon will be permanent. Moreover, it does not appear that the heart the present difficulty has been reached. It may be that future wars have been brought under the control of the German people, but the present war has not been; and it is with the present war that we are dealing.

"It is evident that the German people have no means of commanding the acquiescence of the military authorities of the empire in the popular will; that the power of the king of Prussia to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired; that the determining initiative still remains with those who have hitherto been the masters of Germany. Feeling that the whole peace of the world depends now on plain speaking and straightforward action, the president deems it his duty to say, without an attempt to soften what may seem harsh words that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of Germany policy, and to point out once more that in concluding peace and attempting to undo the infinite injuries and injustices of this war, the government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as real rulers of Germany. If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchial autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to the international obligations of the German empire, it must demand not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid.

"Accept sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration. (Signed) ROBERT LANSING."
