

Hopes Brighten For Steel Settlement

Schwellenbach Is Optimistic After Talk With Truman, Murray

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman held a hurriedly-called conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and CIO President Philip Murray Monday in a renewed White House effort to end the steel strike deadlock.

Neither Schwellenbach nor Murray would comment as they emerged from the half-hour session, but the labor secretary said: "We came out smiling."

Murray, who also is head of the CIO United Steel Workers, said only to reporters: "The President asked me to come over to talk with him about the steel situation."

Administration sources appeared to be becoming more cheerful again about prospects for a break in the deadlock between Murray's union and the steel companies.

Immediately after the conference, White House aides announced that OPA Administrator Chester Bowles would see the President Monday afternoon.

Bowles has been holding out for a $2.50 a ton increase. The President is reported to be sticking by his proposal that the 750,000 striking steel workers be given an 18 1/2 cents an hour increase.

Current conferences apparently have to do with a decision on how much an increase should be granted manufacturers in the price of steel.

Schwellenbach said he did not know whether the President had any plans to summon Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, for a White House talk.

After the departure of the union leader and Schwellenbach, the President's Congressional leaders went in for a weekly conference with him.

After conferences with industry leaders, the White House is expected to bring forth a new steel price formula in a decisive effort to gain U. S. Steel Corporation acceptance and send 750,000 CIO United Steel Workers back to their jobs.

Justice Douglas delivered the high court's 8-0 decision. Justice Jackson took no part in the case.

Douglas said: "To withdraw the second class rate from this publication today because its contents seemed to one official not good for the public would sanction withdrawal of the second class rate tomorrow from another periodical whose social or economic views seemed harmful to another official."

Congress, Douglas added, "has left the postmaster general with no power to prescribe standards for the literature or the art which aailable periodical disseminates."

Douglas said an examination of the items in Esquire about which complaints had been made "makes plain, we think, that the controversy is not whether the magazine published information of a public character, but whether it is devoted to literature or to the arts."

"To uphold the order of revocation would, therefore, grant the postmaster general a power of censorship. Such a power is so abhorrent to our traditions that a purpose to grant it should not be easily inferred."

Stafford Reverses Testimony As To Public Records

WASHINGTON—(P)—Naval Capt. L. F. Stafford, reversing his previous Pearl Harbor testimony, said Monday "I have no suspicion against any individual" as to high command violation of laws against destroying public records.

Earlier in the day, Stafford had testified that "suspicion exists" in his mind that Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark had so broken the law.

Explosion Rips Apartment, Dog Catches On Fire

An explosion at a garage apartment at 110 South Big Spring Street in Midland Sunday night ripped off a wall and lifted the roof of the structure.

City firemen said the explosion resulted when gas ignited from a refrigerator motor.

Occupants of the apartment, a soldier and his wife, were not at home when the explosion happened. A dog was in the apartment and caught fire. It was not killed.

The residents had been to a movie in the city and were en route home when the explosion occurred.

Firemen found the dog on fire and huddled under a cabinet. Curtains of the apartment were burned by the explosion, but no fire followed it.

The complete west wall of the building was blown away. No windows were broken.

Advocate, to sound out public opinion on the matter. Opponents were unanimous in declaring that they were not fighting the United Nations Organization, and that they wholeheartedly endorsed the UNO principles.

Bevin Yells 'Lie' To Soviet Charge

LONDON—(P)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain cried "lie" Monday in the United Nations Security Council to a charge by Russian Foreign Vice-Commissar Andrei Vishinsky that British troops in Greece were protecting the rightist forces there.

In a hot and heavy argument over Russia's demand for the "immediate withdrawal" of the troops on the ground that they endangered international peace, Bevin asserted:

"Mr. Vishinsky says that our troops in Greece are protecting the right—I give the lie to that."

He spoke after Vishinsky, in a 90-minute statement, had challenged Bevin's friendliness toward Russia in telling the Security Council last Friday that the "real danger" to world peace was Moscow propaganda against the British.

He denied also, in response to a question by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) that he had ever suggested to cabinet members that the policy of "giving something for something" be followed in obtaining political donations.

Ikes testified before the committee last week that in conference with him Pauley, a California oil man, had indicated that "hundreds of thousands of dollars" could be raised from oil men if the government did not push its suit to claim potential producing areas on the ocean floor off shore.

I regret sincerely that any misunderstanding should have arisen in Secretary Ikes' mind as to my conversations with him," Pauley said in a prepared statement.

Pauley denied to the committee that the Petrol Oil Corporation, which he heads, had employed members of the California legislature for political purposes.

He characterized as a political enemy John C. Packard, a Los Angeles attorney, who made several charges against him in a letter read to the committee by Senator Tobey (R-N. Y.).

Packard said in the letter that Pauley's company had employed Rep. Cecil R. King (D-Calif.), then a member of the state legislature, and John W. Evans.

"I consider this a very corrupting influence that has corrupted the legislature of California and the Congress of the United States," Packard said in a letter in response to a telegram from Tobey asking for a report on Pauley's fitness.

Pauley told Tobey that as far as he could remember, no legislators had been employed by his company.

Early questioning of Pauley on his third appearance before the committee did not touch again on his relationship to a government suit to establish federal ownership of offshore ocean oil lands.

But he was always talking about how he would live in Texas. He told me all about it. I don't think it will be strange at all, because I've heard so much from him. He was terribly proud of being from Texas, and he said I would be, too."

Pauley Denies Attempting To Block Oil Firm Suit

WASHINGTON—(P)—Edwin W. Pauley testified Monday that Interior Secretary Harold Ikes "misunderstood" him if the cabinet member thought he was attempting to head off a Tidelands Oil suit by the promise of campaign contributions.

Pauley, nominated for under secretary of the Navy, presented to the Senate Naval Committee a statement in which he reiterated his denial that as Democratic National Committee treasurer he ever had solicited contingent contributions.

He denied also, in response to a question by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) that he had ever suggested to cabinet members that the policy of "giving something for something" be followed in obtaining political donations.

Ikes testified before the committee last week that in conference with him Pauley, a California oil man, had indicated that "hundreds of thousands of dollars" could be raised from oil men if the government did not push its suit to claim potential producing areas on the ocean floor off shore.

I regret sincerely that any misunderstanding should have arisen in Secretary Ikes' mind as to my conversations with him," Pauley said in a prepared statement.

Truman Expected To OK Modified Employment Bill

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky said Monday that President Truman seems to be "very well satisfied" with a substitute for his "full employment" bill now awaiting Congressional action.

The substitute measure, on which Senate and House conferees have agreed, merely declares it to be the "continuing policy and responsibility" of the federal government to "promote" maximum employment, production and purchasing power.

It does not include the phrase "full employment."

Barkley said he had no reason to expect the President would veto the compromise, which he said will be taken up in the House first, about the middle of the week.

Barkley made his comment to reporters after President Truman's weekly conference with his Congressional leaders. Other participants were Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), temporary president of the Senate; House Speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.).

The conference, which lasted an hour, did not touch on the steel strike, Barkley said, although in reply to reporters questions as to whether the President was optimistic about the labor situation, he asserted: "He seemed to be hopeful."

Tugboatmen Strike Ties Up N.Y. Harbor

NEW YORK—(P)—A strike by 3,500 tugboat workers, supported by 35,000 longshoremen, tied up shipping in the vast New York Harbor Monday and cut off a large portion of the city's food and fuel supplies.

The workmen, members of Local 333, United Marine Division of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, officially left their jobs at 12:01 a. m. (EST) as the result of a wage dispute with the tugboat operators, organized as the New York Tugboat Exchange.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the I.L.A., said the 35,000 longshoremen of the parent union would support the walkout by refusing to load or unload any ship which normally would be handled by the strikers.

About eight hours after the walk-out started Capt. William Bradley, president of the tugboat local, said the strike was "98 percent effective."

Bradley said the last time New York Harbor was tied up by a strike as extensive as the present one was in 1919 when the men stayed out for seven weeks.

Morning meetings were scheduled with both union and company officials by Edward C. Maguire, labor advisor to Mayor O'Dwyer, and William C. Liller of the U. S. Conciliation Service, in an attempt to settle the strike.

The union itself planned a membership meeting for late Monday. Troops Not Affected

Troopships, returning GIs home from abroad, will not be affected. They will be serviced by Army tugs. Navy tugs are not affected.

In Washington, federal seizure was seen as a possibility in the event the city's supply need became desperate.

The tugs are indispensable to work in the harbor where they perform a variety of tasks. Some 400 were tied up by the strike.

Mayor O'Dwyer estimated the city would be without 80 per cent of its normal flow of coal and other fuel and nearly half its food supply.

The tugboat workers seek a 40-hour week in place of the present 48, hourly wage boosts from $1.10 to $1.57 and from $1.42 to $1.85 for licensed personnel and a flat $1.35 an hour for unlicensed personnel in place of the present 67 to 72 cents.

N-W Garza Area Gets Wildcat To 3,600-Foot Level

By JAMES C. WATSON, Oil Editor

Great Western Producers, Inc., (George P. Livermore, Inc.) of Lubbock, has filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas to drill a 3,600-foot wildcat in extreme Northwest Garza County.

It will be Great Western No. 1 Cliff Johnson, to be located 660 feet from north and east lines of northeast quarter of section 4, abstract A-555, psl survey.

The well is about two miles north of closest production in the PHD field, and about four miles south of Southland.

It is on a farmout from Magnolia Petroleum Company. Sun Oil Company has an east offset; Honolulu Oil Corporation owns a north offset and Magnolia has the northeast offset.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Doss, located 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block A-24, psl survey, one mile north of closest production on east side of the Doss field in South Gaines County, was on a total depth of 6,600 feet, in lower Permian lime, taking a drillstem test.

A two-hour drillstem test was taken at 6,365-6,500 feet. Recovery was 180 feet of mud cut oil and 240 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. The project was then drilled from 6,500 feet to 6,600 feet, and operator is to test that 100-foot zone.

National Guard Of 425,000 Men Planned By Army

WASHINGTON—(P)—Army plans for a postwar National Guard with initial strength of 425,000 enlisted men were disclosed Sunday by House Military Committee members.

The plans were submitted at a secret meeting last week of a subcommittee appointed by Chairman May (D-Ky.) to draft a new National Defense Act.

While the initial objective of the guard has been set at 425,000—exclusive of officers—committee members said the Army hopes eventually to boost the personnel to a total of 750,000.

The Army's detailed plan makes no mention of universal training, but assumes, members said, that many youths trained under a universal military training law will join National Guard units.

The long-range program contemplates use of the National Guard as "an integral part and a first line reserve establishment" capable of immediate expansion to war strength, able to furnish units fit for service anywhere in the world, and well trained and equipped.

UNO's Site And Substance

The pre-natal and infant history of the United Nations Organization has been marked by a considerable conflict of aims and attitudes. And nowhere, it seem to us, has one side of that conflict been more aptly illustrated than in a London dispatch purporting to explain Russia's preference in the matter of a site for the permanent UNO headquarters. Whether or not the story is authentic in every respect, it is not, unfortunately, incredible.

According to this story, the Russians favor the New York area "because they feel sure of a sympathetic press in that region." That is as if an actor had invested all his money in a new play, and yet was more concerned with the critics' reception of his own performance than with the show's success or failure.

Other governments probably share this Russian attitude, for old habits of diplomatic thinking are not easily broken. But the Russian leaders in particular have made little attempt to disguise the fact that they are chiefly concerned with making their national policies good, with making them look good, and with tolerating no opposition to the attainment of their national goals—United Nations or no United Nations.

It might appear to an outsider that the present Russian leaders are operating as if they would always be the Russian government. They seem to consider present divisions and alignments permanent. They seem to espouse the United Nations more for present and expedient purposes than out of a desire to subordinate private interests in creating a peace-ensuring organization which is amenable but enduring.

All this may be unjust to Russia's long-range motives. But in the light of her postwar actions, it is possible to believe that her government might be influenced in the selection of a permanent UNO site by the local and important promise of a favorable press.

To illustrate the opposite view, there is a statement by Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovich, head of the UNO site-seeking delegation. Stressing the need of the UNO headquarters for ample space, he said, "We are building not for five years but for from 50 to 1500 years. It will be the capital of the world. . . . We must look ahead. You can get a clear view of it if you get away from the immediate future."

Such a line of thinking seems necessary in selecting the United Nations Organization's future course as well as its future home. The UNO members also must get a clear view beyond the immediate future, and must think in terms of 50 or 1500 years. Yet, of course, the UNO must live and grow from day to day. It must find and correct its weaknesses through day-to-day experience, without losing the deep perspective.

There are those today who already have given up on the United Nations Organization, and for two reasons. Some find that it strays too far from the traditional concept of national sovereignty, and so would abandon it or pervert its aims. Others find that it clings too close to the sovereignty concept, and so would supplant it with a world government.

Certainly the UNO, as presently constituted, has glaring weaknesses. But they are not glaring enough to have turned the high hopes of a year ago to complete despair.

Sinclair Opposes Proposed Oil Agreement Now Before U. S. Senate

NEW YORK—The revised Anglo-American Petroleum Agreement is not in the national interest nor in the interest of the petroleum industry, H. F. Sinclair, president of Sinclair Oil Corporation, said here Monday.

"Except perhaps for some few companies having extensive foreign oil holdings, American oil companies would suffer if this agreement is adopted, notwithstanding its endorsement by some public officials and individuals and two organizations connected with the petroleum industry. The agreement now pending before the Senate as a treaty is subject to many of the same objections voiced against the original petroleum agreement between the same parties which ultimately led to its withdrawal from the Senate.

"If the purposes of the treaty are effectuated," Sinclair said, "I believe it will mean the opening of our shores to a flood of foreign oil; it will be disastrous in its effects on the large independent section of the oil industry; it will bring us in competition with cheaply-produced foreign oil and will have harmful results for American labor as well as American capital. If the proposed treaty is merely a gesture and no serious effort is to be made to carry out its stated purposes, then of course there is no good reason for its existence. When and if we need foreign oil we shall be able to get it without this or any treaty.

"The assertion that no provision in the agreement is applicable to our domestic petroleum is sheer misrepresentation. Under subdivision (c) of Article II, the proposed treaty would obligate Congress to enact legislation to regulate and control the domestic petroleum industry within the United States, as a means of directing its efforts generally to further the purposes of the agreement. It would prevent any action by states, state regulatory bodies or citizens in connection with the exploration for and development of petroleum resources, the construction and operation of refineries and other facilities, and the distribution of petroleum—whenever such action might be deemed to hamper or restrict, or to be inconsistent with, the purposes of the agreement.

"Subdivision (b) of Article II of the agreement would in my opinion require repeal or modification of the Federal Leasing Act so as to grant aliens equal rights with citizens of the United States in the exploration and development of our public lands.

"To accomplish the stated purposes and objectives of the proposed treaty, it will be necessary to establish a cartel system in international petroleum trade, which will involve controls, monopolistic practices, and combinations not now permitted by law or policy of the United States. If citizens of the United States are to participate in such a program, voluntary or otherwise, Congress would be required to revise our anti-trust laws so as to grant immunity to those participating in such practices.

"In any event, the treaty should not be acted upon by the United States Senate until the Senate has received and considered the findings and recommendations of its special committee headed by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, as chairman. This committee has been making an extensive investigation and study of petroleum resources and the production and consumption of petroleum and petroleum products within and outside the United States for the express purpose of the formulation of a national petroleum policy. Examination of the proposed treaty will show that by its adoption the United States will be definitely establishing a national, as well as an international, petroleum policy. It would be doing this by indirect means; I might almost say by subterfuge. Congress and the nation would be bound, not by their own considered action, but by the obligations of a treaty of the broadest implications.

"If we are going to determine national economic policy by treaty which would compel us to divide our markets at home and abroad with other nations, there is just as much reason for a coal, steel or shipping treaty as there is for an oil treaty."

The well reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 30.86 barrels of 46 gravity oil, plus 2.58 barrels of basic sediment and water, after the pay section at 8,910-9,000 feet had been treated with a total of 15,000 gallons of acid, by stages.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does the work in a hurry.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils. Children love it. And for quick action, you've never seen its superior. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a famous reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

"Murder!" They Cried

By DOROTHY STALEY

Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Philippa tries to strike Bru with her riding crop but Fletcher knocks it out of her hand. The blow sends Philippa reeling. Frank, a farm-hand, has watched the scene from a window. Miss Jenny confides to Nana that she is worried about Betsy's running around with Pen Downes.

VII
BETSY came in shortly after 5 o'clock. Betsy and I have the rooms upstairs on the dining room side of the house. They face the rock gardens, and were once the nursery suite. They are pleasant rooms, cool in summer and cheery in winter with their open fires. There is a bathroom between Betsy's room which is in the back, and my room; and the small room in the front of the house, which used to be the schoolroom, is now an upstairs sitting room. I heard Betsy come into her own room. She came to the bathroom door and called "Nana?" and I answered, "Here, Betsy. Come in."

There is a bathroom between Betsy's room which is in the back, and my room; and the small room in the front of the house, which used to be the schoolroom, is now an upstairs sitting room. I heard Betsy come into her own room. She came to the bathroom door and called "Nana?" and I answered, "Here, Betsy. Come in."

"This house has been just about as empty as Grand Central Station today," I snapped. "People have been coming and going at all hours, and always in a hurry, and life here has been pretty much in the raw."

Betsy dropped down on the hassock at my feet. "I'm sorry, Nana," she said. "I forgot for a minute about Philippa. Has she brought the boys back?"

"Of course not," I answered. "You know Philippa means what she says. Fletcher has been looking for them all day." I added quietly, "I thought maybe you were helping him since you weren't with your mother."

It was taking unfair advantage. Her face clouded. "I'm afraid I was selfish today, Nana. I had the whole day with Pen." The cloud was gone and there was nothing but radiance in her face now. She got up and stretched her arms high above her head. "Oh, Nana, we had the most marvelous day. I sat in the studio while Pen painted. It was so hard for him, Nana, this coming back. He is trying to break away from those horrible war paintings and to go back to the things he did before the war, and if I'm there, it is so much easier for him. He says I'm like the quiet of sunlight on a placid lake. He needs only to look up and see me sitting there to feel rested; to forget the horror that he lived with so long."

I thought, "Well, Pen Downes, you know the proper approach, don't you?" That was typical of the man. He knew the proper approach for any type of woman. To Betsy he was just another sick kitten to be yearned over and comforted. "He was so much better today, Nana," her eyes glowed. "Nana, he even played for me. Brahms. It was wonderful."

I knew Pen Downes was almost as good a musician as he was a painter. "It was the first time, Nana, he has been able to touch a piano. He couldn't bear to go near one. I've done that for him, Nana." I had heard it said a girl couldn't go wrong on Bach. I hoped at that moment that the same held for Brahms. "What about Travers?" I said. "Who is going to help him forget some of the horrors he has seen?" "Oh, Travers," she dismissed with a shrug, and I felt sick. Travers Dick had been pretty important to Betsy; now she could cover her feelings toward him with a shrug.

THE three of them, Fletcher, Travers and Betsy, had been high cards are marked in his, especially when West opens the king of spades.

Let us assume that declarer plays the ten from dummy on the first spade, and wins the second one. He knows that East must have the king of hearts and king of clubs to justify his two spade overall, so his first play is a small heart to the ace and leads a spade, which South wins. At this point, declarer must cash the queen of hearts and play the nine of hearts. When West leads a club, declarer must go up with dummy's ace, and the losing club is discarded on dummy's fourth diamond.

 By ROGER W. FORE
 Associated Press Staff
 Baylor is currently on top of the heap, a half-game ahead of Arkansas, and both teams face lower bracket opponents for the remainder of the season. If both win all remaining games they will end up in a tie for the championship.
 Arkansas, which resumed conference competition with a bang last week, could forge ahead of the Bears by Tuesday. The Porks take on fourth-place Rice Monday night and again Tuesday night, while Baylor's first conference game this week is Wednesday against Southern Methodist.
 Both Baylor and Arkansas took their opponents with ease last week, the Bears trimming Texas, 52-36, and Texas Christian, 55-40. The Razorbacks showed they were definitely after the flag by mauling winless, Southern Methodist twice 81-53 and 74-46.
 The defeats of TCU and Rice, threw those two teams into a fourth-place deadlock, just behind Texas.
 In washing glasses that have contained milk, do not use warm water as it will coat the glasses. Use a tumbler with cold water and rinse with lukewarm.

Jefferies To Coach At Beaumont College
 WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—Ted Jefferies, who resigned as coach of Wichita Falls High School with a year to go on his contract, has been named head coach of Lamar Junior College of Beaumont.
 Jefferies Sunday stepped out of the somewhat tangled Wichita Falls coaching picture when he asked the school board to release him from his contract. President John Gray of Lamar College Monday announced Jefferies would coach there.
 Jefferies coached at Wichita Falls from 1932 through 1942 then entered the Navy. While he was gone Thurmon Jones was named coach and upon Jefferies' return the latter was offered the job of athletic director and director of physical education of the Wichita Falls schools. He made no decision on this. Meanwhile Jones resigned to become coach of Hardin Junior College here and the head coaching job was offered to Jefferies.
 He is on terminal leave from the Navy.

 Nelson will return to the golfing wars after being away for almost a month for a physical check-up and to take care of some business matters, when a field of more than 150 starts firing for $7,500 Friday. Nelson, who quit the tournament trail January 13, now is at his Denton, Texas, farm.

Bazooka Shell Kills Sweetwater Youth
 ABILENE—(AP)—Robert H. Clark, Jr., 11, of Sweetwater, was killed Sunday in an explosion of an Army bazooka shell in a cellar where he was playing.
 Police reported that the boy was playing in the cellar in the yard of the Joe Tatum home when a 13-year-old playmate pushed the shell he thought was a dud through a ventilation pipe.
 Tatum told police the shell had been picked up from the Camp Barkley firing range about a year ago and that children in the neighborhood had been playing with it for some time.
 The Clark boy's parents were visiting here in the Harry Hayes home. The father is employed by the Department of Public Safety at Sweetwater.
